
BRO. HIGMAN'S MASONIC BOUQUET,
 GREATLY ADMIRER FOR ITS RICHNESS AND
 PERMANENCY OF FRAGRANCE.

Sold in Stoppered Bottles, at 2s. 6d. each.

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

At the MASONIC DEPOT, 3 & 4, Little Britain, London.

Price Five Shillings,

LIFE OF CONSTANTINE,

BY

EUSEBIUS.

Masonic Depot, 3 & 4, Little Britain.

MASONIC BOOKS

IN STOCK AT THE

Masonic Depot, 3 & 4, Little Britain, London.

	£	s.	d.
CRAFT.—Declaration
Signature
Minute
Receipt
Treasurer
Steward
Constitutions, G.L.
MARK.—Signature
Minute
Receipt
Treasurer
Steward
Constitutions
ROYAL ARCH.—Signature
Minute
Receipt
Texts of Scripture
Treasurer
Steward
Regulations, G.C.
KNIGHTS TEMPLAR.—Declaration
Signature
Minute
Receipt
Treasurer
Steward
Statutes
ROSE CROIX.—Promise of Allegiance
Petition
Signature
Minute
Receipt
Treasurer
Steward
Regulations
RED CROSS OF CONSTANTINE.—Signature
Minute
Receipt
Treasurer
Steward
Statutes

Bibles and all Masonic Works.

SET OF OAK CHAIRS
FOR CRAFT LODGE.

PRICE, £8 8s.

MASONIC DEPOT, 3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN.

BRO. H. T. LAMB,

MANUFACTURER OF MASONIC JEWELS,

ST. JOHN SQUARE,

CLERKENWELL,

LONDON.

ILLUSTRATED PRICE LIST POST FREE ON APPLICATION.

THE ELEPHANT TAVERN.

HIGH STREET, KINGSLAND, N. E.

BRO. B. P. TODD, many years of the Canonbury Tavern, Islington, and late of the George Hotel, Aldermanbury, E.C., having taken the above Tavern, begs to inform his numerous Friends and Patrons that his present establishment combines every accommodation for Dinner Parties, &c.

Wines, Spirits, &c., of the finest quality.

MESSRS. HERRING & SON'S JUNE LIST of HOUSES is now ready, and will be forwarded upon receipt of two stamps. Unfurnished Houses as under:
 Anerley, Blackheath, Balham, Brixton (West and road),
 Brixton hill, Bayswater, Bromley, Caterham, Chigwell, Chis-wick, Clapham, Clapham-park, Clapham-common, Canonbury, Dulwich, Dorking, East Sheen, Forest-hill, Guildford,
 Hastings, Highgate, Highbury, Hendon, Kingston-on-Thames, Kensington, Kenley (near Croydon), Loughton, Lee, Maybury-heath, Mottingham (near Chislehurst), Muswell hill, Merton, Notting hill, Norwood (Lower, Upper, and South), Penge,
 Putney, Pinner, Peckham Rye, Roehampton, Richmond,
 Regent's-park, Red hill, Roupell-park, Sydenham, Streathamhill, Streatham, Streatham-common, Sutton, Thornton-heath, Teddington, Tooting, Tulse-hill (Lower and Upper), Walton-on-Thames, West Drayton, Wimbledon, Wimbledon-common, Woodford. Superior and numerous Houses, freehold and leasehold, for Sale; and Furnished Houses to be Let HERRING and SON, Auctioneers, Estate Agents, and Valuers, 21, Moorgate-street, Bank, E.C., and Brixton, S.

Just Published, price 3s. 6d.,

MARRIAGE WITH A DECEASED BRO-
 THER'S WIFE, condemned by the Laws of Nature,
 Scripture, and the Testimony of Churches and Nations. By CHALMERS IZETT PATON, author of "Freemasonry in Relation to the Family Circle," &c., &c.

London: JAMES NISBET & Co., 11, Berners-street. Edinburgh: John MacLaren, 138, Princes-street. Glasgow: Geo.
 Gallie, 99, Buchanan-street. Dublin: Charles Hedgelong,
 26, Grafton-street.

May be had of all Booksellers throughout the Kingdom.

THE NEW MUSICAL PITCH.

COLLARD MOUTRIE has just invented, perfected,
 and secured by Royal Letters Patent, an important improvement in the manufacture of Pianofortes, by which the Pitch is raised to the Philharmonic or lowered to that of the French normal diapason in an instant, at the option of the performer.
 This invention can be applied to any Pianoforte. The Profession, Amateurs, Musical Critics, Musical Public, and the Trade are invited to witness its utility and effect, between the hours of Eleven and Four, at the Manufactory, 77,
 Southampton-row, Russell-square. Established 1849.

THE AMERICAN FREEMASON

is Monthly, of sixteen double-column quarto pages of entirely original matter, and translations from the French Italian, and German Masonic papers and periodicals of the day. It is devoted to the discussion of the rights of Lodges and individual Freemasons, in contradistinction to the assumptions of Grand Lodges, and the un-Masonic doctrines and arrangements of "high degrees." Its motto is—Belief in the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man. Its price is Five Shillings a year—a sum so small that no Freemason, for pecuniary reasons, need be a non-subscriber to it.

Trans-Atlantic Subscribers to the AMERICAN FREEMASON
 will receive it Post-paid from the Office of Publication direct, at their respective Post-offices, upon payment of the subscription to

BRO. GEORGE KENNING,

3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, LONDON, E.C.

All Subscriptions begin with March 15th, 1869, and end
 with February, 1870.

The AMERICAN FREEMASON is not the organ of any Grand Lodge; but speaking the words of truth, manhood, and independence, advocates freedom for Masonry in America, and the rights of Freemasons in their Lodges—rights which, by our Grand Lodges, in their subservency to high degrees, have been invaded, until at present they are nearly obliterated.

Subscribers in the British Colonies will please address all
 Subscriptions and Correspondence to J. FLETCHER BRENNAN,
 Editor, 114, Main-street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

VELOCIPEDES & BICYCLES for either Sex.

Speed 30 miles per hour, hill-ascending, self-propelling
 and balancing, £100. Diagram, 6d.

Manufacturing Licences granted.

W. PIDDING, Esq., PATENTEE, 31, Kings'-row,
 Walworth-road.

"Having drawn Mr. W. PIDDING'S Specification of Patent,
 I am able to certify that his improvements in Velocipedes
 (bicycles particularly) will render them self balancing, capable of ascending hilly ground, and that they would travel on a newly-made road without inconvenience to the rider, either in the way of jolting or in retarding of the great speed the improvements will secure. The travelling, in fact,
 would be as though on level ground.

(Signed) "J. G. WILSON, C.E.

"Belgrave-terrace, Peckham, S.E.; formerly of 18, Gt. George-street, Westminster."

"MR. W. PIDDING'S PATENT SELF-PROPELLING AND
 BALANCING VELOCIPEDES AND BICYCLES.—Having seen the diagrams and perused a specification of Mr. Pidding's patent, we hesitate not for an instant to say that that gentleman will accomplish all he professes to do by means of his invention."—Sporting Opinion.

New Edition, in post 8vo, with about 80 Woodcuts,
 price 12s. 6d.

A PRACTICAL LAND SURVEYOR,

AUCTIONEER, and VALUER, of middle age, accustomed to business of the highest class, is open to an ENGAGEMENT as MANAGING or DEPARTMENTAL CLERK, or would undertake a Collectorship or other suitable confidential employment. Is a known and respected Craft and R.A. Mason.—Address, P.Z., care of Editor of THE FREEMASON, 4 and 5, Little Britain, E.C.

A Daughter of a respectable Tradesman and Brother Mason wishes a SITUATION as BAR-
 MAID. Has never been out before; received a first-class education in England and France. Age 17, and amicable appearance. A Bro. Mason's situation preferred.—Billet
 Mark, P.M. and P.Z., to Bro. G. Kenning, Masonic Depot, Little Britain, E.C.

GRAND LODGE OF CANADA.

We quote from the annual report for 1868, the following interesting account of a special meeting of the Grand Lodge of Dundee Centre Province of Quebec, on July 1st, 1868, when the foundation-stone of a new church was laid with Masonic honours by Bro. A. A. Stevenson, D.G.M.:—

The Grand Lodge was opened in due form.

The Acting Grand Secretary read the summons issued by command of the W.M. the Grand Master, calling this Especial Communication of Grand Lodge. The Acting Grand Director of Ceremonies was then instructed to form the procession in the order laid down in the Book of Constitution. On arriving at the site of the new building, the procession opened out, and the Grand Officers marched through to the spot where the stone was to be laid. The Acting G.M. and the other Grand Officers then ascended the platform, when the Acting G.M. spoke as follows:—

"Men, women, and children, assembled here to behold this ceremony, know all of you that we are lawful Masons, true to the laws of our country, and professing to fear God, who is the Great Architect of the Universe: to honor the Queen: to confer benefits upon our brethren: and to practice universal benevolence towards all mankind. We have amongst us, concealed from the eyes of all other men, secrets which may not be revealed, and which no man has discovered; but those secrets are lawful and honorable, and are placed in the custody of Masons, who alone have the keeping of them to the end of time. We admit into our Order only such as are reported to be good men and true: of a lawful age, good morals, and sound judgment. We meet upon a level, and are constantly instructed to square our conduct by the principles of morality and virtue. Men of every class and rank of life are enrolled as members of our ancient and honourable fraternity; even monarchs, the most powerful and enlightened, have in all ages been active promoters of our art, and have not thought it derogatory from their dignity to join our assemblies and participate in our mysteries. The lapse of time, the ruthless hand of ignorance, and the devastations of war, have laid waste and destroyed many valuable monuments of antiquity on which the utmost exertions of human genius have been employed. Even the Temple of Solomon, so spacious and magnificent, and constructed by so many celebrated artists, escaped not the unsparing ravages of barbaric force. Freemasonry, notwithstanding, has still survived. The attentive ear receives the sound from the instructive tongue, and the mysteries of Masonry are safely lodged in the sacred repository of faithful breasts. Tools and implements of architecture are selected by the fraternity to imprint on the memory wise and serious truths; and thus, through successive ages, are transmitted, pure and unimpaired, the excellent tenets of our institutions. Unless our Craft were good and our calling honourable, we should not have existed for so many centuries; nor should we see to-day, as in all time past, so many distinguished and illustrious brethren throughout the civilized world sanctioning our proceedings and contributing to our prosperity. Following the example of our illustrious predecessors, we have assembled at your request to lay the foundation stone of this church, in accordance with the rites of our fraternity. We pray God to prosper this undertaking, and enable those who have commenced the good work to carry it on to completion. May the Great Architect himself direct aright all who are connected with the erection of this building, which is to be consecrated to the worship of the Most High. May it prove a blessing to this community; and may many within its walls be brought from darkness into light, and made meet for that spiritual building—that house not made with hands, eternal in the Heavens. Amen."

The Acting Grand Chaplain, Rev. Bro. Joshua Fraser, then invoked a blessing from the G.A.O.T.U. upon the undertaking.

After the ceremony of laying the foundation stone had been duly performed, the implements and plan of the building were handed over to the architect, whom the A. Grand Master appropriately addressed.

Coin was then placed upon the stone, for the benefit of the workmen, by the Acting Grand Treasurer, after which the Acting G.M. addressed the pastor of the congregation, as follows: Rev. Sir, Having completed our work according to the ancient usages of our fraternity, we congratulate you upon the commencement of this work; and as it has been so happily begun, may it be steadily continued, and carried on to a speedy and successful termination.

The procession being reformed, the brethren marched back to the old church, and were briefly addressed by the Acting Grand Master.

The business of the Especial Communication being finished, the Grand Lodge was closed in due form.

ANNUAL "PIC-NIC" OF LODGE OF UNITY, No. 613, SOUTHPORT.

On Wednesday, the 9th inst., the annual picnic of the members and friends of the above lodge took place, when about fifty ladies and gentlemen left Southport by the nine o'clock "express" for Knowsley, the seat of the Earl of Derby. For the greater comfort and convenience of the party, saloon carriages had been provided as far as Huyton, where a capacious omnibus was in waiting to convey them on to Knowsley Park. The morning was one of the brightest, and the spirits of the company were equally bright. Huyton is at all times a pretty neighbourhood, abounding in tasteful villa-residences and their invariably well-kept gardens, and on this day looked refreshingly picturesque, so that the drive from the station, passing by the town of Prescott, was richly enjoyed by the happy excursionists.

Their arrival had been anticipated at the park, and the servants most courteously explained the many attractions of the Hall and grounds. Such a combination of elegances with utility is rarely met with. The most cursory observation shews that the owner is a man of the noblest rank. Although nowhere is any attempt made at display, yet magnificence is beautifully surrounded with an air of comfort, making it evident his Lordship believes "Beauty unadorned" to be "adorned the most."

The picture galleries and library attracted, perhaps, the most attention, some of the friends whose tastes more especially were of an artistic and literary turn, lingered, with very unsatisfied feelings, in these rooms, whose contents consist principally of masterpieces of the most eminent English and foreign painters. Perhaps the object of greatest interest, however, was the manuscript copy of his lordship's translation of Homer, beautifully written with his own hand. The gardens, conservatories, and vineries were much admired, the latter being so arranged that ripe grapes are obtained during eleven months of the year. The stables, wine and beer cellars were duly visited, and several of the party found enjoyment in tasting his lordship's renowned "old ales." But in the midst of the rapturous enjoyments of our more ethereal nature, there will intrude feelings of a material character. A practically-minded member of the party calling out "Dinner!" had the most extraordinary effect in calling the most poetical to a sense of that animal gratification which is so marked a feature of English human nature. To the tent, where dinner had been spread, there was, accordingly, a "quick march," and on arrival all "fell in" without word of command.

The presidency of the occasion was voted to the Mayor of Southport (Mr. S. Boothroyd), the vice-chair being occupied by Bro. G. B. Scholes, P.M. The company, with great alacrity, fell to with one accord to the disposal of the abundantly sumptuous provision made by Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd, of the King's Arms Hotel, Prescott, who are reputed to be adepts in catering for parties of this kind, and certainly maintained their reputation on this occasion. The after dinner toasts were discreetly limited, being, "Her Majesty The Queen," "The Earl of Zetland, Grand Master of England, and all Freemasons," and "Earl of Derby and the House of Stanley," all of which were honoured with the utmost enthusiasm.

After a satisfactory refreshing of nature's wants, the company again perambulated the grounds until evening, when they returned by the same route as taken in the morning, arriving in Southport a little before nine o'clock, having enjoyed as much unalloyed pleasure as could well be pressed into one short day.

Much of the success of the trip was due to the admirable arrangements made by Bros. G. B. Scholes and R. Jeffries, the Stewards, and which were so efficiently carried out by Bros. Scholes and Wilkinson.

We are informed that the Crystal Palace Chapter, No. 742, held an emergency meeting on Thursday evening, at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street, for the purpose of considering the propriety of removing from the Crystal Palace to another place of meeting.

The Order of Knights Templar in the United States had a procession and other services in Philadelphia, on June 15th, to commemorate the fiftieth anniversary of the creation of one of the oldest commanderies in the country—St. John's Commandery, formed in this city in 1819. There are about 10,000 Knights Templar in the United States, a large proportion of whom took part in this celebration.

Original Correspondence.

[The Editor is not responsible for the opinions expressed by Correspondents.]

THE CHAIR DEGREE AND THE STATUS OF THE LODGE OF GLASGOW ST. JOHN.

(To the Editor of the Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—At page 4 of THE FREEMASON for May 29th, Bro. "Ammi" says, "It would be hard to understand in some things what 'Leo' means." Well, I admit it is one thing to read an article, but it is another matter to understand it; however, if Bro. "Ammi" really wishes to comprehend the inconsistency of many of our Masonic notions anent Solomon's Temple, &c., he may again peruse my remarks thereon at page 8 of THE FREEMASON for May 15th, and page 5 of May 29th. Thereafter, when he has time—if he takes any interest in its study—he should read up some standard and reliable work upon architecture, beginning with its origin in Egypt, spreading thence to Greece—which, however, was also influenced by Assyrian art—then to Rome; thereafter, rising up in our Gothic styles, and so on down to our own day; when he has done that, he will, I have no doubt, get his field of view enlarged, and also be able to "understand" and appreciate many Masonic points in which he, perhaps, at present sees little interest. The above remarks will also serve for Freemasons in general, whose real knowledge of Masonry—with some honourable exceptions—has hitherto been very small indeed. The advice I am giving to Bro. "Ammi"—and which, I trust, he will accept in the fraternal feeling it is given—will also serve for Bro. J. H. North, whose letter, at page 9 of THE FREEMASON for May 22nd, contains a lot of supposititious historical Masonic nonsense; and Dr. Mackey's work—the Lexicon I suppose—to which he refers, is, like many more past pseudo-Masonic histories, a dangerous book for any one to read who may not be able to distinguish when the author is wrong or when he happens to be right. Not to recapitulate what I have already said, I would refer to my article in THE FREEMASON of April 10th, page 6, also to the remarks of Bro. Hughan—who, as a Masonic scholar, is a credit to England—at page 13, May 1st. Until some real evidence is brought forward to the contrary, I suppose we may consider it settled that the Royal Arch is only about 130 years old, and that there is no proof of our Master Mason degree being older than about the beginning of last century.

The real "mother" of Freemasonry I have for some time considered was England, and, as we now have it said, Freemasonry was not in existence previous to the beginning of last century; however, the old operative lodge was chosen as the stem upon which to graft our modern Freemasonry, and thus the old operative Masonic lodge, and the new speculative Freemasonic lodge were so blended together, the one springing out of the other, that it would be a difficult matter to discover a proper point to disjoin them. Therefore, the Grand Lodge of Scotland acknowledges its relationship to the pre-existing operative Masonic lodges, and accords to them a right of precedence so far as they can show proof of antiquity; and this leads me to the question, raised by Bro. "Ammi," of the antiquity of the Lodge of Glasgow St. John, which gave in its allegiance to the Grand Lodge of Scotland in 1850, and, on account of the proofs of its antiquity, which it then brought forward, received the position on the roll of "No. 3 bis." Anent this, "Ammi" (May 29th, page 4) says, "At the time the Grand Lodge so decided regarding the St. John's Lodge, they were not aware that the status they had given them on the roll was based on a charter since declared to be a forgery." I am happy to be able to ease Bro. "Ammi's" mind about that by quoting from the charter granted by the Grand Lodge to St. John's on May 6th, 1850, what proves that "Ammi" is wrong and does not really understand what he is writing about, and which also shows that the Grand Lodge was not so blind in 1850 as he would give out:—"Which petition having been maturely considered by said Grand Lodge, and evidence having been taken on the accuracy of the statements therein contained, and the said Grand Lodge being fully satisfied—without admitting the antiquity of a charter founded on by the petitioners, and alleged to have been granted to said Lodge of Glasgow by Malcolm III. (Caenmore), King of Scots—that the said lodge is one of undoubted antiquity, and that it, more than two centuries ago, with the then other lodges of Scotland, granted a charter to Sir William St. Clair of Rosslyn," &c. This 1850 charter of St. John's is signed by "Athele, Grand Master; Whyte Melville, Dep. Grand Master; John Kinloch, Substitute Grand Master; William Miller, Senior Grand Warden; J. Murray Belshes, Junior Grand Warden; Samuel Hay, Grand Treasurer; Wm. A. Laurie, Grand Secretary; and J. Linning Woodman, Clerk."

From the above we learn two things:—Firstly, that the St. John's did not receive its "status" on account of the "charter since declared to be a forgery;" and, secondly, the St. John's received its status because it "is one of undoubted antiquity," and that its representatives in 1628 signed the Rosslyn Charter. Such being the case, the circumstance of the pretended Malcolm Charter being now proved to be a forgery merely establishes the finding of the Grand Lodge in 1850. And here the question rises—to whom are we indebted for our knowledge of the proof of this unfortunate document being a forgery? To which, for the credit of the lodge, it must be stated that we are indebted to one of its own members (vide Freemason's Magazine, June 20th, 1868, page 490) who, being satisfied regarding its character, for the sake of Masonic honour, kicked it out; or as Bro. Capt. Spiers, M.P., the late P.G.M., expressed it, "showed it up." His (Bro. Spiers') opinion is recorded in the North British Daily Mail, of January 27th, 1869, as follows:—"Although we should have liked if our charter had been a genuine one, still, as it is an imposition it is a good thing that it should be showed up, and I shall hope that the St. John's Lodge will get on better without it." I respectfully beg to echo that last expression of our late lamented Brother, and I have no doubt that the St. John's Lodge will get on better without it; the only purpose it has hitherto served being, to hold a really ancient and honourable lodge up to ridicule.

Now for the question of the real "status" of the Lodge of Glasgow St. John, in comparison with that of the other old operative Scottish Masonic Lodges. We find that St. John's claims to be the descendant of the Building Fraternity which was employed in 1190 at the construction of Glasgow Cathedral, and which then received, through Bishop Jocelin, a charter of protection and encouragement from William the Lion, King of Scots. This Charter is genuine, being pronounced such by Professor Cosmo Innes, and is given in "Registrum Episcopatus Glasguensis" No. 76, page 66. An English translation is given in the Freemason's Magazine for July 25th 1868, page 69, and the Latin (extended) at page 9, for January 2nd 1869. Also at page 128, February 13th, 1869, there is a letter from Professor Innes to Bro. Buchan, P.S.W., No. 3 bis, which, inter alia, says:—"The charter standing in the old Register of the Bishopric of Glasgow would make faith in any court of law." He also says, "If, indeed, you could connect yourselves with the brotherhood (fraternitas) founded by Bishop Jocelin in your city, and which evidently had an existence and action under William the Lion, it would be a fine pedigree to put forth." From the above it is quite plain that a "Building Fraternity" was chartered at Glasgow in 1190; and to those who believe that our present Freemasonic Lodges are descended from the old operative Masonic Lodges, while these again were descended from the Building Fraternities of the 12th and 13th centuries, I say—show me, if you can, any substantial or documentary evidence of the existence of a "Building Fraternity" anywhere in Scotland previous to this date, A.D. 1190!

As for "lodges," then, I know of none anywhere—unless indeed Bro. "Uniformity" (see THE FREEMASON May 29th page 4), or Bro. "Unitas" (June 12th, page 7), can give us a little information upon that rather curious idea of "our English brethren" receiving "the light we gave them, emanating from Kilwinning centuries ago" (!) Ha! Ha! Ha! what a conceit!—Oh dear, it is indeed high time the Masonic Schoolmaster was abroad; however

A little nonsense now and then
Is relished by the wisest men, and many a quiet laugh I have had over the earnest and solemn manner in which Bro. Lawrie, (pages 46 and 47 of his 1859 history) deals with the Kilwinning and York legends. See him—Tubal Cain himself might have taken a pattern from him—how sturdily he attacks, and pounding into powder, scatters to the winds "the improbable stories about St. Alban, Athelstane, and Edwin;" then, Scotland for ever, hurrah; he rallies "those authentic documents" (?) and "other collateral arguments" (?) and, with them propping up the Scottish Kilwinning notion, boldly challenges all and sundry to dissipate that grand Kilwinning dream! But, remember the warning:—

A Lawrie, a Lawrie, has gained the day!
Thy sword and lance, let them rest
Till twice five summers have passed away,
Then—meet the Knight of the West!

As to this Kilwinning Legend, which Bro. Laurie has been so unfortunate as to credit and assist in propagating, and which says a body of foreign Masons settled in Kilwinning in 1140 and, forming a lodge there, built Kilwinning Abbey, the ruins of which may still be seen; that is both untrue and utterly inconsistent with real Scottish or Masonic history, or architecture; inter alia, the style of the really old ruins proving this, the older portions being built in the 13th century, not about the middle of the 12th. And as to the notion of the supposed 12th century Kilwinning Masons sending, or being able to send, the light to their benighted English brethren, that is a mere dream—both untrue and absurd. Anything more opposed to the real and relative history of the Architecture, or "Masonry," of the two countries could hardly be imagined, for we know that long previous to this pseudo 1140 date of the Kilwinning pretensions, there were many Romanesque cathedrals, monasteries, &c., erected in England; and about 1145 we find the English Craftsmen growing out of the pure Romanesque into the transition style. Therefore, I hold that our Scottish 12th century stone-workers came from England. I say so because the English were able to send them, and because the Scots required them; the Scots, then, were more needful to borrow than able to give. As Professor Innes says, Scotland then was just recovering from "an age of anarchy." And, again, when so many of the English nobles came to Scotland in the 12th century, and, being warmly welcomed by the king, settled there, it stands to reason that so soon as there was an opening for them, English Craftsmen would follow. Further, I consider that this 1190 Glasgow "Fraternity" came from England, possibly direct from Furness; and also that at that date there was no extant fraternity of stone-workers at Kilwinning; but, on the contrary, the Kilwinning Masons were simply a branch from the "Fraternity" which came to build a new stone Cathedral at Glasgow upon the old wooden one having been then burned down. I consider the architecture of Glasgow Cathedral and Kilwinning Abbey goes to prove this.

I should observe here that the first Glasgow Cathedral was founded about A.D. 1123, perhaps a little earlier, and dedicated in 1136; before either Melrose, Kelso, or Holyrood. In fact, Glasgow was founded before David was king, and the others were after that event. And as to St. Kentigern, or St. Mungo, who founded the See of Glasgow in the 6th century, by the 12th, Mr. Joseph Robertson says, "The ancient cemetery, with its tall cross of stone and its girdle of old trees, seems to have been nearly all of St. Kentigern (his relics excepted) that remained at Glasgow when Bishop John laid the foundations of his Cathedral. It was begun before 1124."

Some interesting remarks anent this will be found in the Gentleman's Magazine for February 1869, and also in Freemason's Magazine, June 20th (68, p. 492). Also in The Builder of May 29th, 1869, there are some very interesting remarks by Mr. Parker. Old Kilwinning Abbey seems to have been a very fine example of the pointed Gothic.

The Kilwinning legend has possibly arisen from some German masons settling in Kilwinning in the 16th or 16th century, who bringing with them a strong infusion of German bounce, have given rise to the wonderful pretensions of the Kilwinning Lodge. England derive its knowledge of Masonry from Kilwinning! As well say the sea derives its existence from the waters that flow back to it. In the 12th and 13th centuries, England, I should say, was the Mother of Scottish operative Masonry, just as in the 18th century she was of speculative Freemasonry.

From its position, the old Lodge of Edinburgh must be very old, its extant minutes alone going back to 1598; but in the records of Edinburgh, if they were properly looked up, there ought to be mention of it long before. For several reasons the Lodge of Edinburgh "Mary's Chapel" may claim to be at the head of the roll, and the Lodge of Glasgow, at the least, next to it; their oldest extant minute is dated in 1613, but if they were going into the matter thoroughly, the Glasgow St. John's might be able to show evidence of antiquity second to no extant lodge in the kingdom. For centuries previous to A.D. 1850, the Glasgow St. John's Lodge was connected with the Incorporation of Masons, the Deacon of the Incorporation, I understand, being always the Master of the lodge. The incorporation minutes are still extant from A.D. 1600. The Glasgow Masons seem to have been the most conservative in Scotland. They received a confirmatory charter, or Seal of Cause, from the magistrates and council in 1551, and another in 1657. The coopers were disjoined from them in 1569, and the wrights in 1600. A statute of William and Mary, 1695, speaks of "the hail ancient rights," &c., "of the coopers of Glasgow."

The "Mother Kilwinning's" existing minutes begin at 1642, and even allowing these seventeenth century Masons to be the descendants of the builders of Kilwinning Abbey, that only carries them back to the thirteenth century; whereas, we have the Glasgow Fraternity chartered in the twelfth. "Fraternitatem quam ad ejus constructionem Jocelinus constituit" (i.e., the fraternity, which to its construction Jocelin has appointed; or, more plainly—the fraternity which Jocelin has employed to construct the cathedral); "devote recipimus, et regie concessionis munimine usque ad ipsius ecclesie perfectionem confirmamus," &c.

Altogether, with "more light," the St. John's ideas seem to be rising, while those of Kilwinning are getting rather into the shade. The history of our mediæval Masons must be taken along with that of the rise and progress of Gothic architecture, with which the St. John's ideas—throwing aside the Malcolm writ—coincide, while those of Kilwinning, being false, do not agree.

Previous to 1677 there seems only to have been one "Kilwinning" Lodge, viz., the Lodge of Kilwinning at Kilwinning; but there were many "St. John's" lodges, such as Glasgow, Melrose, Aberdeen, &c.

Speaking of the Aberdeen St. John's (which by some misplacement is put so far down the Roll as No. 34), it is a very old lodge, having extant minutes from 1677, while "the masowyns of the luge" are mentioned in the Aberdeen Burgh Records, entry June 27th, 1483. This lodge claims to have initiated King James V., who began to reign 1513. There is also a tradition in it that the Perth and Stirling Lodges were founded by members of the Aberdeen Lodge; also, the Masons at Aberdeen were first known as the "St. John's Fraternity."

In reference to the pretended "Ordinance" anent Mother Kilwinning, said to have been written by "William Schaw, Master of Wark," in 1599, of which a copy is given in the Freemason's Magazine for April 18th 1863, and in which the "Lodge of Glasgow" is alluded to, I have to observe that the said "Ordinance" is possibly a forgery; but if the Kilwinning brethren will get, as they ought, the opinion of Professor Cosmo Innes upon it, I am quite willing to believe whatever he says. The said "Ordinance" if it be genuine, is certainly useful to the Kilwinning Lodge, but is of little or no value, under the circumstances, to the Edinburgh Lodge, and at the most it only contains Schaw's opinion, or ruling; and from his name (he being perhaps a German) he might quite possibly unduly favour the Kilwinning pretensions; besides, it only gives us the Kilwinning side of the question, and quite possibly when "his maieste" came back to "toun" and the Glasgow Masons had got their say in the matter, Schaw's opinion or ruling might have been set aside. I know of no evidence whatever that goes to prove that the Masons of Kilwinning ever did or could exercise authority over the Glasgow Masons.

It must be remembered that the Abbey of Kilwinning was included in the diocese of Glasgow, and that a charter was granted, A.D. 1775, erecting Glasgow into a Bishop's-burg, so I can hardly fancy the Bishop of Glasgow allowing Masons from Kilwinning—the seat of one of his underlings—to come and interfere with his burghesses.

But I must now conclude, and so much for the "status" of the Lodge of Glasgow St. John. If there be any other Scottish Lodge that thinks it can show a better, we shall be happy to examine and duly acknowledge its just and lawful claims.

I am, yours fraternally,
LEO.

ROYAL ARCH MASONRY.

(To the Editor of the Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Your correspondent, Bro. Hollander, is mistaken in supposing that I have narrated the legend of Enoch and the nine arches in order to substantiate the origin of Freemasonry. The recital of a tradition does not necessarily imply belief in its truth. It is not expected that Bro. Hollander will find Masonic traditions in any biblical commentary now extant, and his knowledge of the third degree will enable him to corroborate this fact. He will, however, discover ample references to the antediluvian, or arkite theories of Masonry, in the works of Oliver and other writers, and brethren in possession of the old Ark Mariner's degree are also familiar with the substance of the narrative. Bro. Webb in his "Masonic Monitor," published under the sanction of the Grand Chapter of Rhode Island, has recorded the history of a similar degree, which he calls the "Royal Arch of Enoch." It is also well known that the "Order of Noachites" ascribe the origin of Masonry to the builders of the Tower of Babel, and state that the first lodge was held "in a pleasant plain of Babylon, called Shinar, on the banks of the River Tigris." An American degree, called the "Select Master," likewise commemorates the nine arches of Enoch, and I believe the tradition of the patriarch's two pillars is to be found in almost every work on Freemasonry. I may add, however, that I have given the story almost verbatim from a manuscript in my possession.

Yours fraternally,
THE SON OF SALATHIEL.

(To the Editor of the Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—On reading over the history of Royal Arch Masonry by a "Son of Salathiel" in your issue of June 5th, I observed a statement which I find quite contrary in another publication.

Your writer says that the pillar of white marble was destroyed by the deluge, and the brass pillar as designed withstood the waters. Now, in a very excellent little manual of "Scarlet Masonry," edited by Bro. Wm. Redfern Kelly, R.A., H.K.T., the very opposite is stated as having taken place, viz., that the pillar of brass was destroyed, and the marble pillar saved by the Divine mercy.

Now, as one who seeks for the "signet of truth" in all things Masonic, I would be very glad to know which of these two statements is the correct one. Hoping to see more news in future from Ireland in your excellent journal,

Believe me, yours fraternally,

A. MCAULEY, R.A.

Ballymena, Antrim, June 14th, 1869.

MEMORIAL TO THE LATE DR. OLIVER.

THE Committee (consisting of the undersigned five Members of the Witham Lodge, Lincoln), formed for the purpose of collecting subscriptions towards a Memorial to the above distinguished Mason, being anxious to close their labours, will be glad if Brethren wishing to subscribe will intimate their intention at once to the Hon. Sec., Bro. W. G. MOORE, P.M., Witham Lodge, 297, Lincoln.

It is suggested that the Memorial shall take the form of a Scholarship in connection with one of the Masonic Schools, or such other form as may be determined upon by the Subscribers.

(Signed) RICHARD HALL, P.G.S.W. and P.P.G. Sec. Lincolnshire, P.M. 297.

JOHN NORTON, P.P.G.P. Lincolnshire, P.M. 297.

CHARLES HARRISON, P.P.G.D., Lincolnshire, P.M. 297.

WM. GEO. MOORE, P.M. 297.

GEO. BACON, Sec. 297.

Now Ready,

The Investors' Guardian Almanack For 1869.

THE object of this publication is to meet a want generally expressed to the proprietors of the Investors' Guardian newspaper for some Handy Book for Investors, published annually at a moderate rate, which, furnishing unquestioned and positive data from official documents, might enable small or larger capitalist to regulate his own investments by his own judgment grounded on certified facts.

THE INVESTORS' GUARDIAN ALMANACK,

Price One Shilling and Sixpence,

supplies the fullest particulars relating to all Public Companies, with a correct classification of them as investments—whether as regards their capital (nominal and actual), their liabilities and their assets, their incomes and their reserves, their bonuses and their dividends; together with their value as investments, and the return yielded to purchasers at present prices.

The would-be Investor will find in the INVESTORS' GUARDIAN ALMANACK every possible information relating to

1. The English Government Funds.
2. Colonial Government Securities.
3. Foreign Government Securities.
4. Railway Debenture Stocks.
5. Preference Railway Stocks.
6. Railway Ordinary Stocks.
7. Banks.
8. Insurance Companies.
9. Finance Companies—their present position and prospects.
10. Miscellaneous Companies—their relative position as investments.
11. An authorised List of Members of the London Stock Exchange.
12. List of Official Liquidators.
13. List of Companies in Liquidation.
14. Rules for Registration of Companies, and fees payable.
15. List of Officers and Offices of all Public Companies.
16. List of Private Banks in London and the Country, with Names of Partners.
17. An alphabetically-arranged List of the Directors in the Public Companies throughout Great Britain and Ireland, &c., &c.

A work of such magnitude, importance, and precision would not be within the power of any other firm than that of the Proprietors of the Investors' Guardian newspaper, through whose hands the official documents—from which it has been been carefully eliminated—are daily passing, and to whom they are matters of constant reference.

Let the reader judge for himself the value of being able, on hearing the name of any Company mentioned, to turn at once, in this Almanack, to its name in the Alphabetical List and be informed of its Capital, its Shares, the amount subscribed and paid, their present value, the Dividend paid on them, the Reserve held back as guarantee, the Income accruing, its application, and its indebtedness. The information given as to Directors is of equal importance.

In matters such as these, not the Investor only but the Insurer is deeply interested, as will be found by a reference to the pages containing the account of all INSURANCE COMPANIES, and the Editorial remarks and advice appended thereto.

Price, free by Post, 1s. 6d., in limp cover; bound in stiff boards. 2s. 6d.

Published by J. Y. JACKSON, at the "INVESTORS' GUARDIAN" Office, 27, Change-alley, Lombard-street, London, E.C.

KENNING'S MASONIC DEPOT.

Price 2s., Post free,

FREEMASONS' CALENDAR and POCKET-BOOK for the Year 1869, with the Charge and Entered Apprentices' Song.

To be had at BRO. KENNING'S MASONIC DEPOT, Little Britain, London.

Tylers supplied.

Just Published,

Framing size, 20 1/2 by 16. Price 5s.

ZETLAND (Earl of), Grand Master of Freemasons, in Masonic Costume.

Every Freemason should possess this exact likeness of their Grand Master. It is engraved on steel, in the best style, and deserves a place not only in every Lodge, but in the house of every Mason.

London. WILLIAM TEGG, Pancras-lane, Cheapside; also Masonic Depot, 3 & 4, Little Britain, London.

BRO. BUSBRIDGE'S MASONIC NOTE AND LETTER PAPER.

Sanctioned by The Most Worshipful The Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of England

IT is impressed with Masonic Die, and has also Masonic Emblems incorporated with its texture, as Water Marks, while being manufactured.

Sold, in Quarto and Octavo Packets of 5 Quires, Wholesale and Retail, at the MASONIC DEPOT, 3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, E.C.

Masonic Envelopes can also be obtained at the Depot

MASONIC LODGE FURNITURE.

A Superior Complete Suite (second-hand) to be SOLD; a great bargain. Apply by letter to P.M., care of KEYMER & Co., Stationers, Friday Street, Cheapside.

JUST PUBLISHED.

THE GENERAL STATUTES of the Imperial, Ecclesiastical, and Military Order of the Red Cross of Rome and Constantine, and the Laws of the K.H.S.; with an Appendix and Engravings of the Jewels and Regalia, to which is added a Sketch of the History of the Red Cross Order.

Published under the authority of the Grand Council by R. WENTWORTH LITTLE, G. Recorder, and sold by G. KENNING, Little Britain, E.C.

12mo Cloth, Bound and Lettered, Price 1s. 6d.

KING SOLOMON'S TEMPLE.

VERY BEAUTIFUL PHOTOGRAPHS,

Neatly Framed and Glazed, 20 inches by 15 inches, 21/2. And a Smaller Size, with Plate Glass, 12 by 10, 15/.

These Photographs are from a very beautiful and elaborate Engraving, and are well worthy the attention of every

MASON,

Antiquarian, and Reader of the Scriptures.

MASONIC DEPOT, 3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, LONDON, Near the General Post Office.

To the Sporting World.

BELL'S LIFE IN LONDON is now Published

Every WEDNESDAY and SATURDAY Morning.

Price 3d.; stamped 4d.

Office, 170, Strand, London, W.C.

The Cheapest Patent Geometrical Mosaic and Encaustic Tile Depot in London.

SMITHEMAN'S (For many years with Messrs. Maw and Co.), 45, COLLEGE STREET, FULHAM ROAD, S.W., where Architects, Builders, and others, can be supplied on demand with every kind of Tiles for Pavements, Wall Decorations, &c., for Churches, Schools, Entrance Halls, and Conservatories. Experienced Fixers sent to all parts. Ornamental Flower Pots and Boxes supplied. Patterns, Special Designs, and Estimates forwarded on application. Country orders promptly attended to.

F. G. SMYRK,

Asphalte

Importer, Manufacturer, and Contractor,

BEGS most respectfully to call the attention of the Nobility, Gentry, Architects, &c., &c., to his well-known Asphaltes, which has been so successfully applied throughout the United Kingdom on the following works:—

ASYLUM FLOORS
BARN FLOORS
BARRACK FLOORS
COACH-HOUSES
COAL AND COKE STORES
CONSERVATORY FLOORS
COURT YARDS
COW SHEDS
CARRIAGE DRIVES
DOG KENNELS
DENS FOR ANIMALS
ENGINE HOUSES
FOOT PAVEMENTS
GARDEN WALKS
GOODS' SHEDS
GRANARIES
KITCHEN FLOORS
LAUNDRIES
LINING OF TANKS
MALT ROOMS

PASSAGES
PIGGERIES
PRISON CELLS
PUBLIC FOOTWAYS
PLAY GROUNDS
RAILWAY PLATFORMS
RAQUET COURTS
SCHOOL ROOMS
STABLES
SUSPENSION BRIDGES
TERRACES
TENNIS COURTS
TUN ROOM FLOORS
TAN YARDS
WAREHOUSE FLOORS
(for corn, cotton, hops, wool, seed, &c.)
WASHHOUSE FLOORS
WINE CELLARS

And all descriptions of work where it is desirable to prevent the rising of damp, or goods required to be kept perfectly dry.

Estimates given and works executed at home and abroad.

All applications for Prices, &c., to be made to the Office, No. 6, Guildhall Chambers, London, E.C.

THE SHEERNESS PUBLIC ROOMS COMPANY (LIMITED).

A bona-fide undertaking, which will pay well. Includes a

MASONIC LODGE ROOM.

£5 Shares.

Apply to THE SECRETARY, SHEERNESS.

MESSRS. ELLIOTT, DESBOIS AND CO.,

27, ST. MARK-AT-HILL, LONDON, E.C., and at

11, RUE D'ANTIN, PARIS,

GENERAL MERCHANTS AND AGENTS,

Shippers to Italy, all the Mediterranean Ports and the Levant, are desirous to make Consignments of English Produce and Manufacture to leading houses on the Continent of Europe, and receive such; against which liberal advances will be made as well as on all goods shipped through their medium, which they are able to do at the lowest rate, being in direct communication with the principal houses and for which only a small commission will be charged.

B. JAMES STEVENS (25, 720, 1216, &c.), Auctioneer and Surveyor, House and Estate Agent, &c., Clapham Common.—Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duties. Agent to the Imperial Fire & Life Insurance Offices.

ARMS, CRESTS, and MONOGRAMS.—MASONIC EMBLEMS Engraved on Seals, Dies, &c. Official Stamps designed and Engraved.—Bro. D. G. BERRI, Engraver to Her Majesty's Post Office, Stationery Office, &c., 36, High Holborn (opposite Chancery-lane), London, W.C.

ESTABLISHED 1840.

BRO. W. H. WAGHORN, Manufacturer of Regalia for all Societies, Masonic Aprons, Collars, Ribbons, Sashes, and every requisite for all degrees in Freemasonry always in Stock.

10, VINEGAR YARD, COVENT GARDEN, LONDON, W.C.

BRO. ADLARD'S REGISTERED JEWEL ATTACHER. Price 7s. 6d. Universally adopted. Maker of the Improved Fitting Lodge Collars and Masonic Clothing. 225, High Holborn, London, W.C.

NICOLL, HAIR CUTTER to H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, 40, GLASSHOUSE STREET, REGENT STREET. The Hair artistically Cut and Brushed by Machinery—Charge 6d. Shampooing with the celebrated Indian Reetah, and cold, tepid, and warm Distilled Water—Charge 6d. (including Brushing by Machinery).

NICOLL'S GOLDEN TINCTURE, for giving a brilliant Golden shade to Hair of any colour—Sample Bottle, 8s. 6d.

NICOLL'S UNIVERSAL TOILET COMPANION.—It cleanses and beautifies the Hair, rendering it soft, glossy and elastic; it purifies the skin, eradicates dandruff; its use in the bath is most refreshing and invigorating.—1s.

NICOLL'S CELEBRATED SYRIAN LIQUID HAIR DYE.—Instantaneous.—In Cases, 8s. 6d.

Extract from the Weekly Times, May:—"Nicoll's Syrian Liquid Hair Dye may justly be termed the Wonder of the Age, being free from all unpleasant smell; and, acting instantaneously on the hair, must please and astonish those who have occasion to use it."

Extract from the Polytechnic Magazine (vol. 1, p. 101):—"It is with great pleasure we call the attention of our readers to the Hair Dye invented by Mr. G. Nicoll. Its great superiority over other dyes confers a boon on that portion of the community who require its use, which we ourselves acknowledge, and our improved looks will testify."

NICOLL'S TRICHONAPHON removes the Scurf from the skin, prevents it turning grey, and imparts to the Hair a beautifully glossy appearance.—2s. 6d. per bottle.

Hair-cutting and Shampooing Saloons.

N.B.—Private Saloons for Ladies.

DR. LEA'S CELEBRATED MEDICINES.

"The efficacy of Lea's Medicines is proverbial."

Daily Telegraph.

"Lea's preparations are excellent."—Morning Star.

LEA'S BENGAL ATRABILIOUS PILLS.

Invaluable in all liver complaints, and as a Family Medicine (without Mercury). 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

LEA'S GOUT AND RHEUMATIC PILLS. Will eradicate these disorders when every other remedy has failed, excellent also in Neuralgia, Lumbago, and Sciatica. 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

LEA'S CONSUMPTION SPECIFIC. If persevered in, will seldom fail. 11s. and 22s.

LEA'S ASTHMATIC EMULSION. Maintains its superiority for this complaint, Chronic Cough, Bronchial affections, Colds, &c. 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

LEA'S WHOOPING-COUGH EMULSION. A certain cure for this destructive complaint in a few days. 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

Prepared by G. LEA, M.D. Camberwell, Surrey.

LONDON AGENTS—BARCLAY, Farringdon-street; PAGE and TIBBS, 47, Blackfriars-road; and SUTTON, Bow Churchyard. * Advice free.

CONSUMPTION OF THE LUNGS.—DR. RAIT has discovered a CERTAIN CURE for this fatal malady. Advice gratis. Address W. RAIT, M.D., Peckham, Surrey.

CONSUMPTION IS CURABLE.—To CONSUMPTIVES.—A Clergyman, whose son has been miraculously cured of deep consumption, desires in gratitude, and for the benefit of the afflicted, to send full particulars of the remedies used in his son's case, so that all may participate in this providential discovery. Sent to any address free of charge.—Address the Secretary, 48, George's street, Portman-square, London.

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

EVERY requisite in GENTLEMEN'S CLOTHING, SHIRTS, and HOSIERY, for home or abroad, supplied on demand or promptly made to order by

GANN, JONES & CO.,

Tailors, Shirtmakers, Hosiers, Glovers, Outfitters, and Manufacturers,

171, FENCHURCH STREET; & MANUFACTORY, 15 & 16, BLOMFIELD STREET, E.C.

The principles of business in the Retail Department are specially recommended to the Craft and others seeking the best market. The unvarying rule is to give good value for money, to sell cheap when cheapness is consistent with quality, and to make a reduction on the price of an article when a quantity is taken. From this system of business—first established in 1805—their Wholesale Trade has grown, and GANN, JONES & CO.'s Shirts and Clothing are fast finding favour with Merchants, Shippers, and the best Houses in Town and Country.

Wholesale Lists forwarded to Shippers and the Trade, and Retail Price Lists on application

MASONIC DEPOT.

The Largest Stock in the United Kingdom of

Jewels,
Clothing,

Furniture,
Banners,

Books, &
Requisites

FOR ALL DEGREES IN FREEMASONRY.

8 and 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, LONDON, E.C.

PRICE LISTS ON APPLICATION.

NAVAL AND MILITARY WAREHOUSE.

Laces,
Embroidery,
Swords,

Belts,
Chacos,
Buttons,

Epaulettes,
Sashes,
&c., &c.

GEORGE KENNING, 3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, LONDON, E.C.

PRICE LISTS ON APPLICATION.

THE LIVERPOOL AND LONDON
AND GLOBE INSURANCE COMPANY.

OFFICES:—

1, Dale Street, Liverpool;

7, Cornhill, and Charing Cross, London.

AT the ANNUAL MEETING, held 26th February, 1869, the Report of the Directors for the year 1868 showed that—

The Fire Premiums were	£876,374
The new Life Premiums £23,403, and the total	265,641
The Annuities Payable	56,002
The Invested Funds	3,538,078

Being an Increase on 1867 of £137,072.

JOHN ATKINS,
Resident Secretary.

Unlike any other Plan known.

POSITIVE LIFE ASSURANCE is a new system, first introduced by the

Masonic and General Fire and Life Insurance Company (Limited),

8, NEW BRIDGE STREET, BLACKFRIARS.

It secures Insurers a Promissory Note (instead of the ordinary Policy) for each premium paid, which is payable "To Bearer," either during the life-time or at the death of the assured.

Full Particulars on application to
FREDERICK BIGG,
Manager and Actuary.

Agents wanted in London and the provinces.

MONEY.

LOANS ON PERSONAL SECURITY, WITH
LIFE ASSURANCE,

At Twenty-five per cent. per Annum.

THE

WEST OF ENGLAND FIRE & LIFE OFFICE
(Instituted 1803)

GRANTS LOANS FOR A LIMITED NUMBER OF
YEARS ON THE ABOVE TERMS.

Chief Office—Exeter.

London—20, New Bridge Street.

NEW SONG,

PRICE 3s.

THE RED CROSS SONG,

Words by R. W. LITTLE,

Music by H. PARKER.

Published by GEORGE KENNING, 3 & 4, Little Britain,
London.

Just Published. Price Half a Guinea.

MONOGRAMS,
HISTORICAL AND PRACTICAL,
D. G. BERRI,

Engraver to Her Majesty's Post Office, Stationery Office,
&c., &c.,

36, High Holborn, (opposite Chancery-lane,) LONDON, W.C.

BRO. BENJAMIN COOK,
Carpenter, Builder, and House Decorator,
SALISBURY COURT,
FLEET STREET, E.C.

Estimates for General Repairs.

BRO. JAMES B. SLY,
PRACTICAL

Heraldic Engraver to the Trade,

Of Gold, Silver, and Ivory.

DRAUGHTSMAN & DIE-SINKER,
9, Rathbone Place, London, W.

Book Plates Engraved; Gilt Pierced Mounts made for
Albums and Cigar Cases.

Designs made of Crests, Monograms, Ornaments, and Arms,
and every description of Shooting Prizes, Presentation Plate,
Watches, Watch Domes, Dressing Cases, Bag-sets, and
Ivory Brushes, Engraved with care, delicacy, and despatch.

TO STATIONERS.

JAS. B. SLY having in his employ several Die-sinkers, and from his practical knowledge of the same is enabled to give immediate attention to the cutting of Dies that are emergent.
Companies' Dies cut. Illuminating and Stamping in colours.

Sample Sheets of Monograms and Addresses forwarded on application.

BRO. REEVES, SON & CO.,

Steam Printers, Engravers & Lithographers.

WHOLESALE STATIONERS,

AND ACCOUNT BOOK MANUFACTURERS.

Playhouse Yard, Blackfriars, London, E.C.

Next the "Times" Publishing Office.

To all who Advertise.

BRO. WOLPERT, W. M. 720,

Authorised Agent to receive Advertisements for THE
FREEMASON, and all the London and Country Newspapers.
OFFICE, 3, BIRCHIN LANE, CORNHILL, LONDON.

For Cheap Watches, Clocks, Gold Chains, and
Jewelry, go to

KIBBLE'S

22, GRACECHURCH STREET,

One Door from Lombard Street, and

51, LUDGATE HILL,

Opposite the Old Bailey.

Gold Watches	£2 15s.
Silver ditto	£1 5s.
Timepieces	from 9s. 6d.

EVERY ARTICLE WARRANTED.

Plate, Watches, and Jewelry, bought or exchanged.

List of Prices Post free.

BRO. J. G. MARSH,

ARCHITECT AND SURVEYOR,

159, Fenchurch Street, E.C.;

AND

842, Old Kent Road, S.E.

BRO. H. R. PRICE,

ARCHITECT AND SURVEYOR,

IMPERIAL CHAMBERS.

No. 1, Market Place, corner of St. Mary's-gate,
MANCHESTER.

Printed by Brother JAMES ADLEY REEVES AND SON, Playhouse
Yard, Blackfriars, in the City of London; published by the Proprietor, Brother GEORGE KENNING, at his Office,
3 and 4, Little Britain, in the City of London, and by the
NEWSAGENTS' PUBLISHING COMPANY, Limited, at their Offices,
147, Fleet-street, in the City of London aforesaid.—SATURDAY,
JUNE 19, 1869.

THE FREEMASON

Grand Lodge Reports are published with the sanction of the Right Honorable the EARL of ZETLAND, K.T., Most Worshipful Grand Master of England.

No. 16.]

REGISTERED FOR TRANSMISSION ABROAD.

SATURDAY. JUNE 26, 1869.

[PRICE 2D.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

	PAGE.
ROYAL ARCH MASONRY	1
SECRECY AND SILENCE	2
THE LONDON LITERARY UNION	2
PAPERS ON MASONRY— No. XII.—Masonry and the Meridian	3
THE CRAFT— Metropolitan	4
Provincial	4
THE ROYAL ARCH—Metropolitan	4
MARK MASONRY—Metropolitan	4
ORDERS OF CHIVALRY— Knights Templar—Provincial	4
CONSECRATION OF THE NEPTUNE LODGE, LIVERPOOL	5
MEETING OF THE GRAND CONCLAVE OF LANCASHIRE	5
THE GRAND LODGE OF NEW YORK AND THE GRAND ORIENT OF FRANCE	5
BIRTHS, MARRIAGES AND DEATHS	6
MUTUAL CONGRATULATIONS	6
THE EARL OF DERBY ON FREEMASONRY	6
LODGE OF BENEVOLENCE	7
OBITUARY— The R.W. Bro. Richard William Jennings, P.G.W.	7
THE EDITOR'S PORTFOLIO	7
MULTUM IN PARVO, OR MASONIC NOTES AND QUERIES	7
ORIGINAL CORRESPONDENCE— Allegorical Sculptures in Mediaeval Churches	8
Royal Arch Masonry	8
THE ROYAL MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION	8
MASONIC MEETINGS FOR NEXT WEEK	8
ANOTHER FENIAN OUTRAGE: (A Tale of the Times)	9
LIST OF AGENTS	10
ADVERTISEMENTS	10, 11 & 12

NOW READY,

Cases to hold 4 copies of "The Freemason,"
1/6.

Cases to hold 52 copies of "The Freemason,"
2/6.

With THE FREEMASON emblematically depicted, and other
Masonic emblems in gold.

To be had at the Offices, 3 & 4, Little Britain.

ROYAL ARCH MASONRY.

By THE SON OF SALATHIEL.

(Continued.)

[The rights of translation and reproduction reserved.]

The Triple Tau is one of the four hieroglyphics under which men have fought and conquered. These are, strictly speaking,—the Eagle (first raised by Cyrus), the Labarum, the Crescent, and the Cross. It will be seen hereafter how each and all of these are identified with Freemasonry or with the Orders which claim affinity to the Masonic Institution. The use of the cross as an instrument of punishment or torture almost universally prevailed long before the Christian era. But also as the symbolic representation of an idea distinct from the barbarous purpose to which the cross was first applied, we find the sign and figure existing amongst the most ancient records of remote antiquity. It has been found on the sculptures of Egypt, in the caves of Hindostan, in the chief cities of Assyria, and in the wondrous temples of the ruined cities of Central America. The Egyptian symbol, the Tau, or sign of life, is the plain crux ansata, or small cross, surmounted by a round or oval-shaped handle, and invariably held in the hands of the deities depicted on Egyptian hieroglyphics. This figure—the crux ansata—was actually adopted by the early Christians in Egypt, till at a later period the cross was substituted. All the four emblems to which we have alluded have a common origin, and it is humiliating to reflect that slight as is their difference in form, they have each served as the rallying point of rival religious systems, and have contributed their share to a needless effusion of human blood. The Roman eagle—the powerful bird of prey, fit precursor of a conquering army—was elevated upon a plain staff. The ensign adopted by Constantine, and to this day commemorated by the Duke of Sussex's Council in England, was the labarum, a more complicated symbol, whose meaning the learned have yet failed to unravel. It consisted of a long spear, on which a transverse piece of wood designed the figure of the cross. Above this was placed a lunette or crescent of metal, and a laurel or an olive chaplet crowned the spear. Vainly have antiquarians searched in almost all the languages of the world for the derivation of the word Labarum, the origin and signification of the famous standard which combines in one the Crescent and the Cross. The mysterious connection of the two last-named emblems, overlooked as it has been—perhaps purposely ignored—by modern historians, is not to be forgotten by the earnest Masonic student. All the filagree work of modern symbolism fades into insignificance in the presence of this immortal sign, which in itself is an evidence and a record of truth. Bryant, a learned Orientalist, traces the origin of the labarum from the ark, and according to his theory, the mountain upon which the ark rested, "Ararat," had different names amongst the nations of antiquity. It was called also Laban, or Labar, or Baris, and hence the word Labarum, distinguishing the ensign of the Roman armies, and typifying the event of the salvation of mankind. McIntyre remarks, 3248 or 3276 years after the ark stranded on Ararat the cross was erected on Calvary. Constantine placed upon the standards of the Roman armies the symbol of the Christian faith and future conquest, so placed from that day forward in mystic antagonism to the supplanted crescent. The crescent was not a Mahometan symbol; it was the religious emblem of the Arabians, who adored the increasing moon, and to this day it is uncertain when the crescent was adopted as the national ensign of the Turks.

But to return to the triple tau, whose relation to more modern emblems we have thus attempted to illustrate.

THE TRIPLE TAU.

This famous hieroglyphic, whose antiquity is lost in the obscurity of ages, and respecting the precise signification of which various hypotheses have been suggested, was regarded by the ancients as endued with properties of a mystical and mathematical nature. In order as much as possible to elucidate the original design of this curious emblem, we have selected a few extracts which may contribute in some degree to develop its import when considered separately from the meaning which is attached to it in the Royal Arch degree.

The following extract is from the pen of the learned M. Savary:—

Thoth, that symbolical divinity, or famous personage who received the homage of antiquity, was regarded as the inventor of almost the whole of human knowledge. The ages in which his existence is placed are so very remote that it is almost impossible to throw upon them any light capable of clearing up the objects which lie hidden in the obscurity of time. Plato, who wrote upwards of 2,000 years before us, and who was educated in the school of the priests of Heliopolis, did not himself know what judgment to form of Thoth, already of too ancient a date for him to discover his origin. "Theuth," says he, "invented letters, distinguished the vowels from the consonants, the mutes from liquids; a discovery which alone should make him be regarded as a god, or as a divine mortal. Fame says that he lived in Egypt." In this state of uncertainty the most prudent measure is faithfully to report the passages of the ancients, and to examine them with the spirit of impartial criticism. Thoth was differently named by different nations. "The Greeks," says Philo of Biblos, "gave the name of Hermes, or Mercury, to Taaout, whom the Egyptians called Thoth, and the Alexandrians Thoth." Historians agree in attributing to him the invention of almost all the arts. "Thoth," says Lactantius, "remounts to the most remote antiquity, and, though a man, he possessed all the sciences, which justly obtained him the surname of Trismegistus—three times great." He created the different parts of discourse, and first gave names to many things. He discovered numbers, and measures, and reduced arithmetic to a system. The Egyptians said that he taught them Geometry, which was absolutely necessary for them; likewise astronomy, and astrology: they added that, being the first who observed the nature and harmony of sounds, he invented the lyre. Clemens, of Alexandria, speaks of the code of laws entrusted to the care of the priests; and Allan points it out under the denomination of the body of law of Mercury (Thoth). The creation of theology, the establishment of divine worship, and the order of sacrifices, were also attributed to him. This doctrine was contained in the books of Mercury, deposited in the temples, and the priests there found everything concerning religion. In short, Diodorus Siculus tells us the Egyptians asserted that all the sciences, institutions, and arts, were invented by Thoth or Mercury. When we reflect on the nature of the human mind, which advances only step by step from one truth to another—when, viewing the annals of history, we perceive but a small number of creative geniuses widely dispersed, and at great intervals from each other on the earth, making a few important discoveries; when Plato, an enlightened judge, considering Thoth simply as the author of letters and of writing, calls him god, or a divine mortal—one is compelled to believe that this personage, whom they endow with universal science, never has existed, but that the learned men of a nation, verging on the origin of the human race, published under that title the various knowledge they had acquired, for many thousand years. This sentiment, dictated by reason, is confirmed by the authority of several great men. Jamblichus makes Abamon (or Anebo), a priest of Egypt, speak thus: "Mercury, the God of Eloquence, is with reason regarded as the common divinity of priests; for it is the same spirit which presides over the genuine science of religion. This is the reason why our ancestors, on dedicating to him their works, the produce of their wisdom, graced them with the name of Mercury." Here, then, we have the books of the Egyptians published under the name of Thoth. Galen, trained up to the sciences in the Academy of Alexandria, informs us of the manner in which this was practised: "All the discoveries made in Egypt," says he, "must be stamped with the approbation of the learned, when they were engraved on the columns without the names of the authors, and deposited in the Sanctuary. Hence the prodigious number of books ascribed to Mercury. The disciples of Pythagoras imitated this example by putting the name of Pythagoras at the head of their works." These passages evidently prove that Thoth was not a man, but that they engraved the works approved by the colleges of priests on columns called Thoth, as we shall hereafter see, and that they went under this general denomination. The spirit by which the learned said they were inspired, and to which they ascribed their knowledge, was Phtha, the artist of nature, the source of all information.

"The Egyptians," says Diogenes Laertius, "affirmed that Vulcan had taught them the principles of philosophy, and that the Pontiffs and the prophets assumed to themselves the honour of being his priests." Accordingly, in the chronicle of Scaliger, Vulcan is called the Legislator of Egypt. It is of importance to examine these columns on which are engraven discoveries worthy of being transmitted to posterity. "Mercury (Thoth)," says Manethon, "invented the mysterious columns, and ordained that the laws by which the stars are governed should be written on them." Achilles Tatius corroborates this: "The Egyptians are the first who have measured the heaven and the earth, and transmitted this knowledge to their descendants by engraving then on columns." Proclus adds that remarkable actions, as well as interesting inventions, were also written on them. These stones, which were remarkably hard, composed an immortal book, a sort of encyclopedia, containing all the sciences, all the arts invented or improved for ages. It is for this reason the priests undertook nothing without previously consulting them. Pythagoras and Plato, who read them, drew thence the foundation of their philosophy. Sanchoniathon, the most ancient historian after Moses, boasts of having derived his knowledge from the monuments of the Temples of Taout, and from the mysterious books of the Ammonians. The practice of imprinting on marble, in indelible characters, the discoveries of science, is almost as ancient as the world. We may conclude that stone was the first book of man. The historian Josephus speaks thus of it: "The Patriarch Seth, knowing that Adam had foretold that everything on earth would perish either by fire, or by a general deluge, and fearing lest philosophy and astronomy should be effaced from the memory of man, and be buried in oblivion, engraved his knowledge on two columns, the one of brick, and the other of stone, that if the waters should destroy the former, the latter might subsist, and instruct the human race in astronomical discoveries. This column is still to be seen in the Siridiac land. It is proved then, that Thoth—that so much boasted personage—never had any real existence, but that the Egyptian priests published their works under this general title, after they had been honoured by the unanimous approbation of the colleges. The interpretation of this word leaves no doubt upon the subject. Jablonski has proved that Thoth signifies column. The Greeks by translating it by the word ΣΕΛΑΗ have retained this meaning. As the learned of Egypt were accustomed to write their books without putting their names to them, it was natural that they should bear that of the monuments by which they were to be transmitted to posterity. It appears even that this honour was granted only to such as made important discoveries, since the approbation of all the academicians of the country was necessary to enjoy it. Sanchoniathon, Manethon, Galen, and the other writers who penetrated into the mysteries of Egypt, and drew their information from the genuine sources, relate that they carved on "columns or steles," the remarkable events, and prodigies of art.—Thus when, according to Allan, the priests asserted that Sesostris was taught the sciences by Thoth or Mercury, it signified that on initiating him into the mysteries, they had taught him to read the history of human knowledge impressed in hieroglyphic characters on the columns. They bore at first that simple denomination. The custom of consulting them, the sacred places where they were kept, the deposits they preserved, all rendered them respectable. They became consecrated by religion, and were placed under the immediate protection of Phtha, or the creative spirit. These principles established, we are enabled to give a probable explanation of the three Thoth or Mercuries recognised by the Egyptians. They placed the first before the deluge, and the others subsequent to that event. The most ancient marked the infancy of human knowledge, whether it be that some monuments have escaped the destruction of the human race, or whether those they raised shortly after, ascended beyond that terrible epocha. The second Thoth denotes the efforts of the Egyptians to discover physical and astronomical truths, the translation of the hieroglyphics into sacerdotal characters, and the fixed establishment of divine worship and the laws. The third pointed out the flourishing state of the sciences, the progress of the arts, and the perfection to which they were carried, as testified by the pyramids, temples, and obelisks—the immensity and magnificence of which have never been equalled by any people. The Egyptian priests expressed these eras in a sensible manner by the epithet of Trismegistus, three times great, which they bestow on their allegorical Thoth.

(To be Continued.)

SECRECY AND SILENCE.

Aristotle, when asked the most difficult thing to execute, replied, "To be secret and silent." This alliterative answer every Mason should fix in his memory, but not be deterred by difficulty from endeavouring to practice the Masonic virtues of secrecy and silence. There is a teaching power in them as well as in bold expression, like a dial in which the shadow as well as the light informs us, "It is the glory of God to conceal a thing," and that which he holds in impenetrable secrecy may be of the highest utility to us. So it is the glory of a Mason to conceal until the proper time and occasion arrives for him to reveal; and what he withholds is as useful to mankind as that which he discloses.

"God," says the patriarch, "discovereth deep things out of darkness," and the pious poet beautifully exclaims:—

"Darkness shows us worlds of light
We never saw by day."

Every Mason knows that the blind are led by a way they know not, and how some of the most beautiful lessons of the Order have been revealed out of darkness. Let the world without the Order walk the Masonic path, and be brought from darkness to light in the appointed and ancient way. Masonic secrecy and silence never fail to impress the uninitiated, for

"There is a language that is mute,
There is a silence that speaks."

There is great sublimity in the reticence of Divinity. Hence over many questions with which prying curiosity employs itself is dropped an impenetrable veil. "Verily thou art a God that hidest thyself, O God of Israel, the Saviour." And where the Divine is pleased to dwell in secrecy and silence there he stations the cherubim with flaming sword.

Masons will render their Order more august in the estimation of men by refraining from garrulousness. Whatever transpires in the lodge room is sacredly secret, and never ought to be profaned by outside intention. Is not the Tyler with drawn sword guarding the portals of our mystic temple, a perpetual symbol of the sacredness and secrecy of our retreat? Around our council chamber a wall is built which no wanton eye can pierce. The entrance to our mysteries is sealed, except to those choice spirits who are ever willing to come humble, and faithfully promise to be secret and silent. There have been instances in which the secrets of great discoveries have been so rigidly guarded that, for a season, the most curious eye was defeated in its efforts to pry into the shops or laboratories where the process of manufacture was executed. More secret the work of Masonry than all this, and more sacred the obligation of its craftsmen than the oaths of artisans engaged in such manufacture as we have intimated. As our doors are tyled, so let our lips be guarded. The slightest incidents of the lodge-room are secret. The brother who does not regard them as such has not yet fully learned Masonry. We positively can allow no license in this direction.—Masonic Monthly, Boston, U.S.A.

THE LONDON LITERARY UNION.

The annual meeting of this body (which is almost entirely composed of members of the Craft interested in the cause of literature or the press) was held at the Freemasons' Tavern, on Saturday, the 12th inst.

After the transaction of some formal business, the President, Brother Robert Wentworth Little, read the following paper on

"LITERATURE IN RELATION TO FAME"

"A good book is a great gift to mankind. It is an everlasting treasury of divine thoughts and wisdom, purified not only by wrestling with the stormful passions of life, but by solitary communion with Nature. It contains the mystic revelations of Genius—into whose depths we gaze, penetrated with a sense of rarest beauty and power. 'A good book,' says Milton, 'is the precious life-blood of a master-spirit—the breath of reason itself.' When the earth arose out of the blood and chaos of the Middle Ages, the poetry, the tenderness, the harmony of the human mind began to be recognized, and the sound of harps and odes was heard in every land. Instead of being cloistered and shut up where the eager but hopeless fingers of youth might never reach them, books, of every kind—sacred, philosophical, ethical, and lyrical—were scattered broadcast over the nations. It was in vain that the foolish teachers and rulers, eling to their old impracticable theories, attempted to drive men back into the wilderness from whence they had emerged—where Thought had no being, and Science was but a name. The martyrdoms, the victims, the dungeon, and the stake could not repress the freedom of literature, and its immortal offspring, Truth. Knowledge grew, and re-assembled its golden legion of thoughts, until the souls of men rejoiced in the new-born strength of wisdom. But amidst this great re-birth of learning, a cloud of false ideas, full of the dust of superstition and error, floated through the world. Wild and eccentric reasoners gathered up the fallen ashes, the broken remains, of Paganism, and moulded them again into an imperfect and unlovely form. Visionary systems, founded on unreal hopes, were propounded by these enthusiasts, and Europe looked forward to a consummation of bliss—a Millennium of unbounded liberty—under the guidance of principles which produced in the bitter end the anarchy of atheism and the carnival of blood. Yet even during the growth of this erroneous and unstable philosophy, the universe of poetry and science continued to shine brighter and brighter. Eagle-eyed astronomy held the heavens in its hand, and measured the starry distances. Inventions and discoveries crowned the lustrous brows of Europe's worthiest sons. The unascended regions of song were no longer silent; a Shakespeare had touched the skies, and majestic verse, like a shower of sunbeams, fell on the spirits of men. Milton sounded his solemn hallelujahs, wandering amidst the everlasting plains of Eden, with the loveliness and freshness of a young world around him. And other lofty voices sustained the divine chorus until the coming of the Sophists, with their selfish codes of morality, their Utopian dreams of government—with their impurity of thought and wickedness of action. A vast unchristian camp—stern, relentless, anti-monarchical, anti-religious—spread through the countries of Europe. Then, indeed, a shadow, like the coldness of the tomb, impeded literary efforts; for the same hand that smote the kingly head on the scaffold, obliterated the hymn of the bard and destroyed the Madonna of the artist. But evil is not always unqualified evil; it has a brighter side, even as the gloom of night is mitigated by a host of stars. We cannot discern the stars when clouds and storms obscure the sky, but we know that they are still in the heavens—splendid as ever, though unseen. So it has been with the strife and warfare of the ages; something good, and grand, and beautiful has come forth for suffering humanity, and a calm—a holy calm—succeeds the tempest and the terror. While the French Revolution shook the emperors of the earth on their thrones, a wild but swift current of free opinion carried to oblivion the sanctity of dynastic sway, and rulers were taught the sublime lesson that to rule well and wisely is the safest maxim of government; that the spear on which to lean is a nation's love; that the true mantle of royalty is the robe of justice, and its most puissant rampart the trust and confidence of a free and united people. But at the same time, let us not applaud the teachings of those revolutionary theorists. They never beheld in its purity the life of things; the inspiration that falls on the soul like the dew of heaven, they never enjoyed. Therefore, supreme Truth rejects their doctrines as the ephemera of a day of wrath and fear, when the light of kindness burned dim, and misrule prevailed under the guise of reason. They are mere intellectualities—beautiful, wondrous, like glittering icebergs, but as chilling and repulsive. Neither have those writers won our lasting esteem, or worthily earned the eternal diadem of Fame, whose lips are stained with the darkness of sensual things, whose language is a perpetual sneer against virtue, and order, and religion. They may be mighty spirits in the republic of letters, but their mission is unfulfilled—the glory within them is not half revealed. Still less can we bow down before court-adulators—friends of Caesar for Caesar's sake—whose pens are steeped in flattery of the prince, and scorn of the people. No matter what unhallowed genius such may possess, they are not the ambassadors of Nature's gospel on the earth. Therefore, let them perish, unlaurelled, unlamented. But no such ephemeral honours await the advent of the true philosopher or poet. He ascends into the firmament of Fame; not to twinkle as a dwarf-star, but to illumine the ages with imperishable glory. The angels who bear him up far above the clouds of time and sense are—unwearing faith, unchanging hope, unfaltering love. Yes, he who with meekness suffers wrong and injury, knowing that retribution slumbereth not—he who embodies in his creed the majesty of Truth, becomes the immortal heir of Fame. His words are destined to penetrate into the labyrinth of our inner life, and to transfigure our darkened spirits in the splendour of his enduring wisdom. This is the Olympus of fame to which the truly great aspire, and not to the celebrity of a day, or the laudations of the thoughtless crowd. Dowered with immortality and crowned with light, the great apostles of truth shine ever upon the world, teaching man that to be virtuous is to be wise, and that he who walks in the paths of honour is the mightiest conqueror in life."

The President was re-elected for the ensuing year, and the post of Treasurer, vacant by the decease of Bro. V. W. Bate, L.L.D., was filled by the election of Dr. Chas. H. Rogers Harrison. The Hon. Secretaries appointed were Bros. W. R. Woodman, M.D., and Angelo J. Lewis, Barrister-at-law.

Bros. Henry C. Levander, M.A., Col. Fras. Burdett, and the Rev. W. B. Church, M.A., were chosen members of the council. Bros. W. Carpenter, author of "Scientia Biblica," W. H. Hubbard, Author of "Essays," and D. G. Berri, author of "Monograms," were elected Fellows of the Union, and Bros. G. Kenning (proprietor of THE FREEMASON), F. Walters, and J. G. Marsh, members. On the proposition of the President, it was further resolved unanimously that Honorary Fellowships be conferred upon the following distinguished brethren, for services rendered to Masonic and general literature:—

Beaumont, A., of Paris.
Evans, S., of Boston, U.S.A.
Goodall, Albert G., of New York.
Holmes, Emra, of Hartlepool.
Holmes, Robt. D., of New York.
Hoorickx, Van C., of Brussels.
Hornor, J. A., of Burgh Castle, Norfolk.
Hughan, W. J., of Truro.
Irwin, F. G., of Bristol.
Lyon, D. Murray, of Ayr.
Macoy, Robt., of New York.
Marshall, Robt., of St. John, New Brunswick.
Moore, Dr. J. Daniel, of Lancaster.
Moore, Col. W. J. B. McLeod, Laprarie, Canada.
Morris, Rob., of Kentucky.
Rebold, E., of Paris.
Schmitt, A., of Jersey.
Yarker, jun. J., of Manchester.

A vote of thanks to Bro. G. Kenning, for according permission to report the transactions of the Union in the columns of the THE FREEMASON, was then carried; and a second vote of thanks to the President terminated the proceedings.

The forthcoming work by Bro. Wm. J. Hughan will contain:—1. An article on Masonic M.S.S., by Bro. Hughan. 2. A reprint of the Constitution of the Freemasons by the Grand Lodge of England, 1723, being the first edition (slightly abridged). 3. A fac-simile lithograph reprint of Coles' copper-plate edition of the Constitutions, 1728, from transfers from the original in Bro. Hughan's possession. Seventy copies only are to be printed for sale, at 10s. 6d. each, and 30 copies for presentation. The work will be dedicated, by permission, to the M.W. G.M., the Earl of Zetland. Subscriptions to be sent to the publisher, Bro. Wm. Lake, Truro, stating name in full and Masonic position.

An analysis of the division list reveals the fact that out of 35 Peers who are prominent members of the Masonic Order, 22 voted for the second reading of the Irish Church Bill and 13 against it.

PAPERS ON MASONRY.

BY A LEWIS.

XII.—MASONRY AND THE MERIDIAN.

"The people that walked in darkness have seen a great light: they that dwelt in the land of the shadow of death upon them hath the light shined."—Isaiah ix. 2.

"Is not this written in the Book of the Upright One (Jasher)? So the sun stood still in the midst of heaven, and hasted not to go down about a whole day."—Joshua x. 13.

An American lawyer, bent upon cross-examining a "witness from the sea," said to him, "Now, Sir, you have prevaricated greatly. What are you?" "A master of a vessel," was the reply. "And you have pursued your calling for some years?" "Just so." "And now," pursued the lawyer, "attend to me. I presume you, too, have crossed the line?" "I have," answered the witness. "Now, be very particular. In what latitude and longitude did you cross it?" "That I can't say," was the answer of the steady and imperturbable mariner. "Can't say it, Sir? You're on your oath!" exclaimed the indignant lawyer. "Shall I tell you why?" replied the witness. "Answer my question," pursued the lawyer. "I can't," said the sailor. "Then, gentlemen," triumphantly asserted the lawyer, turning to the jury, "I hold my client to be in the right; this witness is impenetrably stupid, he does not even know his own profession!" "Lay by, there," said the sailor, "I thought that every fool of a lawyer knew there was no latitude on the line!"

Nor is there anything but a meridional position for the sun in Masonry. There are, of course, technical reasons given for this, but, by analogy, many other beautiful illustrations of this symbolical truth might be given. Not only does the meridional altitude of the sun ever remain a symbolical fact in relation of the universality of the principles of Masonry, but, in another sense, it is a type of the ever-existent energy of nature, which persistently and silently irradiates the universe from the most enormous cosmical body to the minutest atom or germ cell. Light!—as science progresses, as the continued improvements in optical instruments come to be made, and applied to the unsuspected wonders of the macrocosm and the microcosm, we discover new worlds in which creative and infinite energy is giving existence and enjoyment to myriads upon myriads of forms possessing animation and the power of motion. There have been upwards of 240,000 kinds of flies described!

Bound in the chains of a cold and selfish theology for centuries of ages, man has held himself to be the sole end and aim of creation, the proud culmination of the works of T.G.A.O.T.U. Science, without denying the supremacy of man's intellect, evinced by the actual existence of science itself, points out, in the great and little worlds, phases and forms of life and activity, which, for aught we know, may have modes of thought and theories concerning their, to us minute, to them, infinite worlds.

In no work with which I am acquainted is this more philosophically and humorously put than in Mr. Babbage's Philosophical Memoirs. He there describes a cosmogony, with all the cataclysms, revolutions, changes, physical and mental, of a universe of—cheese mites! The dairy becomes the infinite universe, the churn and press the chaotic and formative states, periodical convulsions of the cheese world occur (when the dairymaid turns them over), they are jolted in carts, prodded in the side with tasters, which lead to telescopic observations of the world beyond, and the mental and physical peculiarities of the cheese mite and jumper are excellently described.

If, therefore, we behold this untiring energy in the action of the great invisible Being, lending forms to each and all of his creation adapted to their wants and circumstances, can it not well be understood that there is a symbolical meridional altitude to be discovered in a corresponding endeavour "to work ceaselessly in well-doing." The sun of charity stands ever above on high to shine into dark places of want and sorrow, bidding us cleanse the Auguean stable of society, and to eradicate misery and scatter happiness around.

It is the friendly and fraternal light which looks down upon us from the heavens, and though in nature the rotation of the earth's axis deprives us of its physical rays, we know that wherever the heart of man beats, and the enterprise of man has penetrated, there, too, with unvarying benevolence and persistency, shines the sun of Freemasonry.

Swedenborg, to whom I devoted a portion of my last paper, always expresses, in his figurative language, that delight as the highest enjoyment of angels in another world, which consists in the contemplation of the spiritual and celestial sun—the very symbol of the warmth of the love and steadfastness of T.G.A.O.T.U. "In Him is no darkness at all."

In a certain sense, Masons, and those who pursue studies and perform duties of a cognate character, do enjoy that contemplation of the spiritual and celestial light or sun to which Swedenborg referred. Intellect is light, when the eyes of the mind are open to behold, and are not averted in the discontented obstinacy of wilful darkness. Some men, dissatisfied with the never-ending squabbles about mere doctrinal exteriors, fly to the other extreme, and deny the existence of a creative power at all; their Atheism to me is as unintelligible as it well can be. Philosophers have been found to deny the existence of motion. A quaint and learned bishop originated a theory as to the non-existence of matter, and whose desires to see the best exposition of this latter phase of reflection should read its principles as interpreted by Mr. George Henry Lewis, in his admirable Biographical History of Philosophy. But no one has yet presumed to deny the existence of force—the energy which creates, develops, destroys, and recreates the infinite forms of matter. Dissatisfied thinkers of this class would do well to turn to unsectarian Masonry, which, without the husks and shells of doctrine, promotes all that is truly beneficent in science.

It has been objected that Masonry is a system, with a ritual, which, when once known, is invariable, and, hence, savouring of finality. But this would be as unwise an objection as to say of the key which unlocks the temple of knowledge that it is useless. Masonry, in itself, has enabled men of all ranks, under the steady ray of the meridional sun, to exchange thoughts, compare information, correct errors, and promote results. Hence, the scientific side of Masonry is distinctly visible to the outside world in the works produced by a systematic study of various ranges of facts, undisturbed by the fatal and noxious effects of dogmatic ecclesiastical teaching.

It is quite beyond the objects of Freemasons to keep from the general public the practical useful results of their inquiries, and would be in flat contradiction to the principle of universal charity underlying the whole. This, therefore, is some answer to those who object to Masonry on the ground that it seeks to preserve for its disciples any peculiar scientific secrets or series of secrets. As the physical sun shines alike on the good and the wicked, so it does upon the Mason and the uninitiate, and if the latter choose to study physical science light of that kind is not denied him. Masons, however, have unquestionably done much towards scientific enlightenment, both as Masons and men.

The sun is always at the meridian in Masonry! Why, it necessarily must be, if we consider its sacred obligation of charity. If the sun possessed not its noonday power; if it waned and slackened, or altered, the whole vitality of Masonic benevolence would undergo deterioration. In the words of Elihu in Job (xxxiv. 20), "the people would be troubled at midnight, and pass away."

This position of the sun, however, refers at the present day to more than the omnipresence of the energetic benevolence of T.G.A.O.T.U. In a strictly geographical sense it is also true, and it is well that it is so. To the histories we occasionally hear of the presence of Masonic signs among savage tribes, I am not disposed to give that implicit credit that the reiteration of the statements ask. There would appear always, in the best attested instances to be traces of a pre-existing European or civilised influence; civilised, either according to Oriental or occidental methods. There is, in reality, so great a sameness in the legends to which we find the authority of "Captain C——" or "Major B——," and so forth, attached, that, for my own part, I not infrequently put these down as pretty stories, derived from a common substratum or skeleton of fact. Indeed, if we look back at the Masonic periodical literature of the last half century, we find a tendency towards anecdote of a repetitive kind constantly manifested. Of course, this is partially to be charged to the fact that so much of Masonry is invariably or necessarily withheld from publication, that Masonic magazines have been compelled very often to fill up with matter either of fiction popular or fiction philosophical. We have had a recent instance of the latter in "Celestial Mysteries," now happily, it is to be hoped, concluded.

The rapid increase of Freemasonry, and the many important questions which have recently arisen in relation to Masonic jurisprudence and Masonic history, will, however, tend to lessen the necessity for what magazine writers call "padding" for the future.

At the head of this paper I have written two texts, which appeared applicable to the matter under consideration. The second requires some notice before I close these observations. Many explanations have been offered of the miracle (as it is called) of Joshua commanding the sun to stand still. Into these I shall not enter. What is an evident impossibility, Freemasonry symbolically renders a fact. It is written in the Book of the Upright One, such being the literal rendering of the name Jasher, or Jasher, from the Hebrew word (Yod-Shin-Resh), ISHR, with the Masoretic vowel point, Qamets twice repeated, laShAR, to walk straightly, uprightly, or to do good. The existence of any separate Book of Jasher has been a favourite battle-ground for critics, but, in our case, it is only necessary to use the obvious symbolic interpretation. It is, indeed, the Upright One—the true Mason, who can, without question, thus cause the sun of charity to stand still; and long may it brilliantly shine at the meridian of Freemasonry throughout all countries, as a testimony that T.G.A.O.T.U. is indeed the light "which lighteth every man that cometh into the world."

CRYPTONYMUS.

Reports of Masonic Meetings.

THE CRAFT.

METROPOLITAN.

Caveac Lodge, No. 176.—A meeting of this lodge was held at Radley's June 12th. Bro. P. A. Nairne, W.M., initiated Mr. W. G. Quihampton, installed Bro. W. N. Smith, W.M., who in his turn initiated Mr. J. J. Groves. The work being admirably done. Bro. P. A. Nairne had the usual handsome P.M.'s jewel given to him by the W.M., and in a suitable speech he acknowledged the gift. Bro. E. Browne, P.M., for his valuable services rendered to the lodge, was unanimously elected an honorary member at last lodge meeting, and that minute was unanimously agreed to. After business the lodge was closed. The usual good banquet was served. The toasts, including the Prince of Wales, were given and responded to. The good singing of Bros. Ransford, Mohtem, Smith, and T. Young, added to the enjoyment of a very pleasant evening. There were present besides those named: Bros. T. Quihampton, S.W.; R. S. Fareman, J.W.; P. Browne, P.M., Treas.; E. Litchfield, P.M., Sec.; Rev. J. McAllister, Chap.; H. Beesley, S.C.; F. Godsell, J.D.; H. Germyn, I.G.; Riley, Tyler, and many others. Visitors, Bros. F. C. Dillon, B. D. Quihampton, H. Massey, F. Walters, H. N. Goulty, F. W. Goodridge, J. Milner, (G.S.W. Hants), C. Plestow, G. C. Bing, D. Fourdrinier, W. H. Allender, G. H. Yapp, R. Roy, F. W. Mitchell, G. Lemann, and others whose names we were unable to learn.

Nelson Lodge, No. 700.—This prosperous lodge, so well-known for its admirable working, met at the Masonic Hall, William-street, Woolwich, on Wednesday, 16th inst. Bro. Wm. Dunham, W.M., presiding, to install Bro. Ed. Bowles, W.M.-elect. The following officers were in attendance, viz., Bros. May, J.W.; Graham, S.D.; Norman, J.D.; Hobson, I.G.; Lacey, Treas.; and Henderson, Sec. The lodge was opened with solemn prayer. The minutes of last meeting and report of the audit committee were read and confirmed. The lodge was opened in the second degree and Bro. Bowles was presented to the W.M. by P.M. Bickerstaff, for installation. That portion of the ceremony appertaining to the second degree being ended, the lodge was opened in the third degree. The W.M.'s having retired, a board of I.M.'s was opened; Bro. Bowles then invested the I.P.M., and the board was closed. The brethren having been re-admitted, the W.M. was proclaimed and saluted in each degree. The lodge was then closed to the first degree, and the following brethren appointed and invested as officers for the ensuing year, viz., May, S.W.; Graham, J.W.; Lacey, Treas.; Henderson, Sec.; Norman, S.D.; Hobson, J.D. The Installing Master then delivered the usual addresses to the W.M., Wardens, and the lodge, eliciting warm encomiums from all present. The W.M., in a very neat and feeling manner, then presented Bro. Dunham with an elegant P.M.'s jewel for the able manner he had conducted the business of the lodge during his year of office. The jewel was received by Bro. Dunham in very appropriate terms. All Masonic business being ended, the lodge was closed in due form. The brethren then adjourned to the Royal Hotel, North Woolwich, previous arrangements having been made with Bro. W. Holland, the proprietor, for providing the banquet and musical performances, which were carried out to the letter. The cloth being withdrawn, and the usual Masonic toasts done honour to, the brethren adjourned to the gardens, where a variety of entertainments awaited them, not the least being the French ladies on velocipedes; after which the brethren returned to the banqueting-room and spent a very happy evening.

PROVINCIAL.

Scarborough.—Old Globe Lodge, No. 200.—This lodge held its regular meeting in the Masonic Hall, Globe-street, on Wednesday, the 16th of June, when the following officers and brothers were present: Bros. W. Peacock, W.M.; W. F. Rooke, P.M.; P.P.G.J.W.; J. W. Woodall, P.M.; P.P.G.S.W., Mayor of Scarborough; H. C. Martin, P.M.; P.P.G.D., Cers. Sec.; J. Hardgrave, S.W.; D. Fletcher, J.W.; G. H. Walshaw, S.D.; J. Parker, J.D.; G. Ruddock, J.G.; Grover, Organist; Ash, Tyler, Groves, Brearey, Walker, Land, Westlake, Milner, T. P. Smith, Garnett, Inskip, and Fisher, 1248, Visitors. The lodge was opened at 7 p.m. The minutes were read and confirmed. Bro. Land passed an examination in the first degree and retired, and was re-admitted and passed to the second degree, the lodge was closed to the first degree. It was proposed, seconded, and unanimously agreed, that the annual Masonic Pic-nic, take place on Tuesday, the 29th inst., at Hayburn-Wyke, (by the kind permission of the Worshipful the Mayor, Bro. J. W. Woodall, P.M., P.P.G.S.W., &c.) and a committee was at once appointed to make suitable arrangements for the same. Two brethren were proposed as joining members, after which the lodge was closed in due form, with solemn prayer.

Leicester.—St. John's Lodge, No. 279.—The brethren of this lodge held an emergency meeting at the Freemasons' Hall on Wednesday, the 16th inst., the W.M., Bro. Kelly, D.P.G.M., presiding, and all the officers, except the J.D. and I.G., being in their places. On the lodge being opened, a ballot was taken for Bro. McAllister, of Lodge No. 21, S.E., as a joining member, and for Mr. Joseph Roper, of Leicester, as a candidate for initiation. Both were unanimously elected, but Mr. Roper's initiation was unavoidably postponed owing to his absence from the town. Bro. Dr. Finch, having been examined in the first degree retired, and the lodge having been opened in the F.C. degree, he was duly passed thereto. During the ceremony the musical chants were given by Bro. Crow and others, and on its conclusion the W.M. gave the lecture on the tracing-board. The lodge having been closed to the first degree, a Lewis (the son of a member of the lodge, and who had that day attained his majority) was proposed for admission into the Order, and the W.M. intimated that although the regular meetings of the lodge were now suspended for the summer recess, he should hold another Lodge of Emergency, early in July, for the initiation of the two candidates, and raising the six brethren who would then be eligible for the third degree. The lodge was then closed, and the brethren formed themselves into a Lodge of Instruction preparatory to the installation of Bro. Toller as W.M. of the John of Gaunt Lodge on St. John's Day. Among the brethren present on the occasion were W. Kelly (W.M. and D.P.G.M.), P.M.'s Pettifor (P.P.S.G.W.), Weare (P.P.G.D. and Treas.), and L. A. Clarke (P.S.G.D.); Stanley (S.W.), Stretton (J.W. and P.P.G. Reg.), Crow (Sec. and Org.), Thorpe (S.D.), Atwood, Smith, Palmer, Dr. Pearce, M'Allister, Widdowson, Dr. Finch, Stannard, and C. Bembridge (Tyler); visitors, Rev. N. Haycroft (D.D., No 181), and Duff (W.M.), Toller (S.W. and W.M.-elect), Sculthorpe (Sec.), Partridge (J.D.), and Challis, of the John of Gaunt Lodge, No. 523.

West Hartlepool.—Harbour of Refuge Lodge, No. 764.—The annual meeting and festival of St. John the Baptist, was held on Tuesday, the 8th inst., at the Freemasons' Hall, Church-street, at 2 p.m. There were present some forty brethren, including S. Gourley, M.D., W.M.; D. Harpley, P.M.; Rank, P.M.; J. B. Watt, S.W., W.M.-elect; and visiting brethren B. Levy, P.M., P.P.G.J.W., and P.P.G.D.C., Installing Master; H. Laws (P.M. and S.W., Lodge of De Lorraine, 541), R. Graham (W.M. Treas. Lodge 509), I. Settle (P.M., P.P.G. Reg.), W. G. Laws (W.M., Lodge De Lorraine, 541), A. Farmer (W.M. North York Lodge, 602), H. Jackson (W.M. Lodge of Philanthropy, 940), Emra Holmes (I.P.M. St. Helen's Lodge, 531), &c. The business of the day was the installation of Bro. I. B. Watt (who had been unanimously elected as W.M.) into the chair of K.S. Previous, however, to resigning the gavel into the hands of Bro. Levy, who had kindly consented to conduct the beautiful and impressive ceremony, the W.M., Bro. Gourley, presented to Bro. Harpley, P.M., in the name of the officers and members of the lodge, a handsome Past Master's jewel. This "reward of patient industry and merit," was accompanied by a short expressive and characteristic address, and it was evident that the worthy and popular recipient was much affected by the wholly unexpected expression of esteem and respect. The installation was performed in an admirable manner by Bro. Levy, whose gifts of elocution and impressive manner rendered the ceremony solemn to a degree. After the proclamation and the usual addresses, the new W.M. proceeded to appoint and invest the following officers: Bros. S. Gourley, M.D., I.P.M.; J. W. Cameron, S.W.; R. H. Stafford, J.W.; J. Miller, Treas.; E. Hudson, Sec.; G. Carter, S.D.; W. Harrison, J.D.; J. Scott, I.G.; and W. Atkinson, Tyler. The lodge was closed in antique form and with solemn prayer, and the brethren retired to Bro. Gallon's (Royal Hotel), where a grand banquet was served, to which ample justice was done. The W.M., Bro. Watt, presided, and the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were agreeably interspersed with instrumental and vocal music, contributed by several well-known brethren, and the company separated at a late hour.

THE ROYAL ARCH.

METROPOLITAN.

Beacon Chapter, 619.—This Chapter was held on Thursday, June 10th, at the Greyhound Hotel, Dulwich, Comp. A. Avery, M.E.Z., presided, and in an efficient manner exalted three brethren into Royal Arch Masonry, being ably supported by all his officers who were proficient in their duties. A five guinea P.Z.'s jewel, was voted from the Chapter funds to be presented to the M.E.Z., this being his last night of office. Business ended, the Chapter was closed. There were present, Comps. J. W. Halsey, P.Z., as H.; J. W. Avery, J.; F. Walters, P.Z., as S.E.; T. Y. Sabine, as S.N.; G. A. Smith, P.Z.; W. H. Green, first A.S.; R. H. Williams, second A.S.; J. W. Avery, Treas.; F. Deering, Reg., and others. Visitors, C. T. Dorey, (M.E.Z. 176), P. A. Nairne (Z. 175), J. Harris (M.E.Z. 285), G. W. Wheeler (P.S. 73), H. G. Buss (P.Z. 177), C. Pinhorn (P.Z. 257), and others. A very pleasant evening was spent.

MARK MASONRY.

Southwark Mark Lodge, No. 22.—A meeting of this lodge was held at the Bridge House Hotel, on Saturday, June 19th. Bro. T. Meggy, P.G.O., acted as W.M. Bro. G. W. Wheeler, 73, S.E., was admitted as a joining member, and obligated as such under English Constitution. Bro. S. Harman, 73, was admitted as a member, and being present, was advanced into the Mark Degree. The ceremony being well rendered by Bro. Meggy and T. Y. Sabine, W.M. The W.M. was elected Steward to represent this lodge at the Mark Stewards Festival, to be held in July. Bro. H. Massey, S.W., elected W.M.; A. D. Loewenstark, Treas., re-elected; W. Y. Laing, re-elected Tyler. Audit Committee elected. G. W. Wheeler, made T.K.; S. Harman, D.C.; lodge closed. Present besides those named, Bros. H. Massey, S.W.; A. D. Loewenstark, J.W., Treas.; W. Noak, S.O.; T. H. Meredith, J.O.; F. Walters, Sec.; E. Harris, R. of M. and others. Visitors, C. Swan, P.G.S.B.; W. Mann, W.M., (8); C. Sloman, (86); C. A. Cottebrune, P.G.S.B.; W. Smith, C.E., (8), Mansu, (22).

ORDERS OF CHIVALRY.

RED CROSS OF ROME AND CONSTANTINE.

BIRMINGHAM.—Rose of Sharon Conclave, No. 19.—On Thursday, the 17th inst., a new conclave of this illustrious Order was consecrated at the Masonic Rooms, Newhall-street, Birmingham. The impressive ceremony was ably performed by the Ill. Sir Knt. J. Daniel Moore, M.D., Inspector General for North Lancashire, who travelled to Birmingham expressly, at the request of the brethren, for that purpose. Having installed several Knights as founders, Inspector General Moore enthroned the Rev. W. Bramwell Smith, P. Prov. G. Chaplain for Warwickshire, as the first M.P.S. of the Rose of Sharon Conclave; after which Sir Knt. T. Partridge, M.D., was inducted into the chair of Viceroy, and Sir Knts. L. Wright, C. A. Newnham, and G. S. Phillips were also admitted into the Priestly Order. The following officers were then appointed, all being earnest and zealous brethren:—C. A. Newnham, S.G.; G. S. Phillips, J.G.; Lyons Wright, H.P.; T. Dixon Miller, Treasurer; A. Horrocks, Recorder; John Astley, Prefect; J. S. Kennedy, S.B.; W. Heeley, Sentinel. The Conclave was then closed, after the expression of the warmest thanks of the founders to the Ill. Inspector General for his attendance and the great assistance he has rendered to promote the formation of a Conclave in Birmingham. We are informed that Bro. Major Machen, the popular and highly-respected Deputy Prov. Grand Master for Warwickshire, was unavoidably prevented from attending for installation upon this auspicious occasion, but it is understood that the Major will soon be installed, and assume the position of Inspector General for the Warwickshire division, to which he will be nominated by Lord Kenlis, the Supreme Chief of the Order, who, we may take this opportunity of stating, was never more attached to its interests than he is at the present time.

On Saturday last, at St. James's Hall, Piccadilly, Bro. Joseph Eldred, of the Gaiety Theatre, gave a dramatic and musical matinee. Professionals as a rule have much spare time on their hands, and it was judicious on the part of Bro. Eldred to select from the various theatres actors and singers of well-known celebrity. The entertainment was in every way a success, the large hall being filled with a fashionable audience, who literally besieged Bro. Austin's ticket office. The programme contained some celebrated names, viz.:—Miss Constance Loseby, Miss Mellor (a pupil of Br. B. M. De Solla), Miss Maria Simpson, Miss Katherine Hickson, Kate Gordon, Bro. Walter Joyce and Edward Murray, whose singing was greeted with loud applause. Mr. Geo. Belmore recited the "Frenchman and the Rats," Lydia Maitland and Mr. Robin's short sketch of "Five Minutes at a Railway Station," was cleverly done. Mr. Herman Vezin's recitals well-merited the applause given them. Bro. Thomas Thorne's song of "Poor Susan," was excellent. The chief feature however, was Bro. J. L. Toole's imitations of "London Actors," commencing with Mr. Phelps and finishing with Messrs. Buckstone and R. Romer. Bro. Eldred's recital of "My Lord Tom Noddy" was capital. It is to be hoped that these recitals will be repeated, the above having been so highly satisfactory.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE PROVINCIAL GRAND CONCLAVE OF KNIGHTS TEMPLAR OF LANCASHIRE.

The following is a more detailed account of the above meeting than appeared in our last:—

The annual meeting of the Provincial Grand Conclave of Masonic Knights Templar of Lancashire, was held in the new lodge room in the Adelphi Hotel, Liverpool, on Thursday, the 10th inst. The Jacques de Molay Encampment was opened by Sir Knight Thomas Berry, Eminent Commander at half-past twelve o'clock. The Provincial Grand Officers entered in procession, marshalled by Sir Knight Croxton, Prov. Grand Director of Ceremonies, assisted by Sir Knight Tweedle, Prov. Grand Assistant Director of Ceremonies. The very Eminent Provincial Grand Commander, after being received under the arch of steel, took his place on the throne.

The Provincial Grand Conclave was opened in due form and with solemn prayer at half-past one o'clock.

The muster rolls of the Prov. Grand Officers, and of the Encampments in the Province, were called by the Prov. Grand Registrar. Several Prov. Grand Officers being absent, and having neglected to write to the Chancellor to state the cause of their absence, were fined one guinea each.

Present: Sir Knights A. H. Royds, Very Eminent Prov. Commander; W. H. Wright, Eminent Deputy Prov. Commander; R. F. Ainsworth, M.D., Prior; John Bolderson, Sub-Prior; Thomas Berry, Second Captain; John Duffield, Chancellor; Robert Mc D. Smith, Vice-Chancellor; William Birch, Registrar; John M. Wike, Treasurer; Lever R. Rowbottom, Hospitalier; Thomas Croxton, Director of Ceremonies; J. F. Tweedale, Assistant Director of Ceremonies; John Chedwick, Almoner; John Copley, First Expert; E. H. Hutchinson, Second Expert; John S. Veeners, Second Standard Bearer; H. T. Warren, Warden of Regalia; R. F. Sparks, Second Aid-de-Camp; Thomas Law, Organist; John Roberts, Banner Bearer; William Dawson, Equerry.

The Prov. Grand Treasurers account having been audited were presented, showing a balance of £52, being £10 more than last year; it was moved, seconded and resolved unanimously, that the best thanks of this Provincial Conclave are due and are hereby tendered to Sir Knight Wike for his past services, and that he be re-elected for the ensuing year. Frater William Dawson was re-elected Equerry for the ensuing year.

The very Eminent Prov. Grand Commander then appointed the Officers of the Provincial Grand Conclave for the ensuing year, and invested them with the Treasurer and Equerry, appointed by the Provincial Grand Conclave, with the Collars and Jewels of their respective offices.

Samuel White	Prior.
Edward Pierpoint	Sub-Prior.
Rev. Thomas Medley	Prelate.
Rev. J. L. Figgins	Assistant Prelate.
Thomas Berry	First Captain.
Benjamin Davies	Second Captain.
John Duffield	Chancellor.
R. Mc D. Smith	Vice Chancellor.
William Birch	Registrar.
John M. Wike	Treasurer.
R. H. Hutchinson	Chamberlain.
John Copley	Hospitalier.
Thomas Croxton	Director of Ceremonies.
James F. Tweedale	Assistant ditto.
John S. Veeners	Sup. of Works.
A. B. Creeks	Almoner.
W. H. Pratt	Warden of Regalia.
The Hon. J. L. Lindsey	First Expert.
James Gaskell	Second ditto.
Thomas Birtwistle	First Standard Bearer.
John Roberts	Second ditto.
J. T. Hall	First Aide-de-Camp.
W. H. Prince	Second ditto.
James Worley	First Captain of Lines.
Henry Bailey	Second ditto.
J. W. Fowler	First Herald.
J. H. Hopkinson	Second ditto.
Thomas Law	Organist.
F. H. Winder	Sword Bearer.
J. H. Sutcliffe	Banner Bearer.
W. Dawson	Equerry.

The V.E.P.G. Commander then presented his Deputy with a very splendid Deputy Provincial Commanders Jewel bearing the following Inscription, presented by A. H. Royds, Grand Commander of Lancashire, to his worthy Deputy, W. H. Wright, 1869, which was suitably acknowledged.

It was resolved unanimously that a thousand copies of the minutes of the transactions of this Prov. Grand Conclave be printed together with the History of the Jerusalem Encampment, Manchester, compiled by Sir Knight John Yarker, at a cost not exceeding £25, and that a copy be sent to the subscribing members of every Encampment in the Province.

The Almoner collected the Alms from the Knights present, and the Prov. Grand Conclave was closed according to ancient custom with solemn prayer.

The Knights then adjourned to the Banquet.

CONSECRATION OF THE NEPTUNE LODGE, No. 1264, LIVERPOOL.

Before giving an account of the consecration of the Neptune Lodge, which ceremony was most successfully performed on Friday, 11th inst., it may be advisable to state that a large number of the officers and brethren of the Mariners' Lodge, No. 249, having the welfare of the Craft at heart, and the diffusion of the true principles of Ancient Freemasonry, agreed to form a new lodge, to be called the "Neptune" Lodge. Accordingly a meeting took place, and a petition to the Most Worshipful Grand Master of England for a warrant was numerously signed. A recommendation signed by the W.M. and Wardens, Officers, and brethren of the Mariners' Lodge, praying that the prayer of the petitioners be granted, was forwarded with the petition.

The M.W.G.M. acceded to the request, and granted a warrant for the formation and existence of the "Neptune Lodge," No. 1264, and empowering them to meet at the Masonic Temple, on the first Friday in every month.

Bro. H. S. Alpass being unavoidably absent, the P.G. Secretary's place was occupied by Bro. Robt. Wylie, P.G.A.D.C. West Lancashire.

After the ceremony of consecration, and the ancient charge having been given to the W.M. elect, Bro. Joseph Healing, P.M. 249, and that Bro. having signified his assent thereto, was regularly installed first W.M. of the said lodge. He was instructed in the duties of his office by Bro. Jas. Hamer, P.G.T. and Master of the Ceremony.

The W.M. then invested Bros. John Pemberton, (249) as the first S.W. and Jas. Richardson, J.W.; E. T. Jones (249), having been unanimously elected Treasurer, was invested, and Bro. Jas. Taylor (249) as Secretary; Bros. P. B. Ger (249) as S.D.; A. Davies (249) as J.D.; J. S. Dixon (249) as I.G.; A. Gray (249) as S. Steward; J. Nixon (249) as J. Steward; P. Ball (249) Tyler.

The instructions to the respective officers having been given, by Bro. Hamer, Master of Ceremonies, the brethren were called off to refreshment, and a splendid banquet was provided, and enjoyed by the brethren present. Grace having been said and the cloth cleared, the W.M. presided, supported by a goodly array of P.G. Officers, P.M.'s, and W.M.'s of various lodges in the province.

The W.M. Bro. HEALING, gave as the first toast of the evening, "The Queen," and expatiated on the many virtues of our most deservedly beloved Queen, and hoped she may be spared long to her family and her people.

The W.M. next gave, "The Prince and Princess of Wales, and the rest of the Royal Family." Having referred to the fact of our most excellent Prince having joined the Craft, and about to become a prominent brother among us, hoped that the many Masonic virtues inculcated in the Craft may expand in his generous mind, and by God's help prepare him for the exalted position in store for him in this world, and happiness in the world to come.

Several other toasts having been given and suitably responded to, Bro. WILLIAMS (P.M. 249), gave the toast of "The W.M., Bro. Joseph Healing," and spoke of the many good qualities that he had shown in the interest of the Craft, congratulating the brethren of 1264 in having made so good a choice. He hoped and believed, that ere long they would stand as prominent amongst the lodges of the province, as their mother lodge so proudly occupied.

W.M. Bro. HEALING, in response, thanked Bro. Williams for the kind expressions, both as to himself and for the welfare of the lodge that had that day taken a position among the many Masonic lodges in the world, and would endeavour, with the assistance of his officers and brethren, to bring forth the good fruits of Masonic principles and virtue, and he hoped that soon they would work the business of the lodge as if it had been established for many years; and, on behalf of himself, officers, and brethren of the Neptune Lodge, he sincerely thanked the P.G. Officers, P.M.'s, W.M.'s and brethren all, for their kind attendance there that day, but especially the Officiating Officers, for the successful manner in which they had performed the ceremony of consecration. He was sure that all present felt deeply grateful and highly gratified.

The W.M. then gave the toast, "Our Past Grand Chaplain, the Rev. H. G. Vernon," who had given such an eloquent, impressive, and instructive oration and invocation, coupling with the toast the brethren of the Choir and the Past Grand Organist, Bro. Skeaf, who had added so much to the solemnity of the occasion.

Bro. the Rev. H. G. VERNON, replied that it gave him very great pleasure to be with them on so important an occasion as the consecration of a new Lodge, and hoped it would progress in power and peace, in the diffusion of moral principles and piety and virtue, and shine with brilliancy in relief, truth, and brotherly love, which brings men closer together in the bond of unity, and which enables them the better to contemplate the mighty works of the Great Architect of the Universe.

Bro. SKEAF, on behalf of himself and his brethren of the choir, said that they felt proud in having been present on the occasion of this auspicious event, and if they had succeeded in conveying to the mind the sublime and majestic power of sacred music in the important proceedings of this day's consecration, he and his brethren were fully gratified. He hoped that the brethren of the new Lodge would now go on their way rejoicing.

The W.M. now gave the toast of the consecrating and installing Master, Bro. Hamer, P.G.T.

Bro. HAMER, in response, said it gave him great pleasure in seeing such a large and influential gathering of P.G. Officers, P.M.'s, W.M.'s, and brethren of this province, and he believed their good wishes were now concentrated in the prosperity and welfare of the lodge they had this day consecrated, and he was sure by the persevering character of the W.M., Bro. Healing and his officers, all of whom he knew personally, its welfare and prosperity would speedily become an accomplished fact, as its existence had become in so short a time from when it was thought desirable to form a new lodge. It reflects great credit on the brethren of the new lodge for the manner they have come forward with a helping hand to bring it into such a working condition as we see this day, and now, go on and prosper, ever bearing mind the great and good principles on which Freemasonry is founded—brotherly love, belief, and truth; and God be with you.

The W.M. next gave the toast of "The Officers of this Lodge," which was duly responded to by the S.W., J.W., Treas., and Sec.

The toast of the "Visiting Brethren," was duly given and responded to; and after the Tyler's toast had been honoured, the brethren were called to labour, when the lodge was closed in due and solemn form, the brethren separating in peace and harmony.

THE GRAND LODGE OF NEW YORK AND THE GRAND ORIENT OF FRANCE.

At the annual communication of the Grand Lodge of New York recently held in that city, a proposition was brought up by the Committee on Correspondence, declaring all fraternal and Masonic relations suspended between the Grand Lodge of the State of New York and the Grand Orient of France, for the reason that the Grand Orient had recognised a spurious Grand Body which sat at New Orleans, and granted charters to subordinate lodges to confer the three symbolic degrees, in violation of the territorial jurisdiction of the G. L. of Louisiana.

A Brother asked for information on the subject.

The M.W. John Simons made a lengthened explanation, in which he remarked that since our flag had waved over Louisiana she ceased to be under French jurisdiction, and neither civilly nor Masonically would America submit to any divided authority. (Attempts at applause.) He also said that in 1854 a Supreme Council had been established in Louisiana, which began its work at the fourth degree. This body was declared spurious. Now, this has been renewed; but had the so-called jurisdiction confined itself to these degrees, all would be well—but they claimed to confer the first three degrees of Masonry in Louisiana. It was wrong there; and if so it was wrong here, and concerning all Masons. Now, we were in the same position with regard to Hamburg. She claimed to establish lodges all over the world, and had now two lodges in New York which were not recognised by any Masonic body in the United States.

The W. John C. Crouch, of Joppa Lodge, moved that the subject be recommitted, with instructions to report at the June communication of 1870.

M.W. Robert D. Holmes spoke in favor of the resolution, and R. W. Brother Prince moved an amendment to the effect that our Grand Master be requested to communicate to the Grand Master of France the regret felt at his action with regard to Louisiana, and requesting him to rescind the same by withdrawing the recognition of the so-called Grand Council of Louisiana; and unless he would do so in six months then all fraternal and Masonic communication should cease between this Grand Lodge and the Grand Orient of France.

M. W. John L. Lewis delivered a powerful speech, urging the passage of the resolution and saying to France "unless you withdraw this invasion of our soil, we will not hold Masonic intercourse with you." The Grand Master of New York had been treated contemptuously by the Grand Master of France, and that contempt extended to him and to the whole body in this State, and he would resent it. The question was, "shall we protect our rights?" When Hamburg invaded our soil none stood up for us with more manliness than Louisiana, and now let us stand up for her and protest against the invasion of her soil.

After an earnest debate both amendments were lost, and the original resolution was adopted, and France and the State of New York are no longer in Masonic intercourse. By this course New York has preserved her dignity and consistency and has shown her sympathy with a sister Grand Lodge about equally afflicted with herself.—New York Dispatch

Births, Marriages, and Deaths.

DEATHS.

BAXTER.—At 38 Pollock-street, Glasgow, on the 20th inst., Bro. Alexander Watt Baxter, first R.W.M. of the Lodge Neptune, No. 418, and Past Master of Lodge Argyll, Dunoon, No. 335, deeply regretted, by a large circle of brethren and friends.

LANE.—On the 20th inst., at the Nurseries, Great Berk-hampstead, after a long and painful illness, aged 35 years, Bro. Henry George Lane, P.M., Hon. Sec., 504, P.P.J.G.W., Herts, eldest son of Bro. John Edward Lane, P.M. and Treasurer.

MORLEY.—On June 11th, whilst on a visit at the residence of her father, Henry Storr, Esq., Thorn Cottage, near Castle Howard, Yorkshire, in her 40th year, Mary, the much beloved wife of Bro. Richard Morley, (Temple Lodge, 1094, Liverpool,) Fruit and Spice Merchant.

NOTICE.

Owing to the rapidly-increasing circulation of
The Freemason,
its columns have now become valuable channels
to all who Advertise.

SCALE OF CHARGES FOR ADVERTISEMENTS IN "THE FREEMASON."

Per Column	£2 10 0
„ Line, displayed	0 0 8
„ Line of 8 words, not less than three lines	0 0 6
Situations wanted, per 8 words ...	0 0 3
Auction and Trade Advertisements, per line	0 0 5

P.O.O.'s on Chief Office, in favour of GEORGE KENNING.

The Freemason,

SATURDAY, JUNE 26, 1869.

THE FREEMASON is published on Saturday Mornings in time for the early trains.

The price of THE FREEMASON is Twopence per week; quarterly subscription (including postage) 3s. 3d.

Annual Subscription, 12s. Subscriptions payable in advance. All communications, letters, &c., to be addressed to the Editor, 3 & 4, Little Britain, E.C.

The Editor will pay careful attention to all MSS. entrusted to him, but cannot undertake to return them unless accompanied by postage stamps.

As our next number will commence the Second Volume, and as very many of our subscribers have expressed a desire to bind THE FREEMASON, in future this Journal will be paged consecutively for convenience of reference. We take this opportunity of thanking all our friends and contributors, and if their kind support be continued, we hope, before the close of the second volume, to enjoy a weekly circulation of

TWENTY THOUSAND COPIES.

MUTUAL CONGRATULATIONS.

HALF the year has passed away, with all its troubles, its joys, its blessings, and its woes. Over the grave of buried hopes some mourn in silence, while others bask in the rays of fortune, and triumph in the glory of success. This has been, and ever will be, the sum of our human life—the sun shines upon half the world, while the nether hemisphere slumbers in darkness.

Our labour in connection with THE FREEMASON during the period of its existence has been, indeed, a labour of love; a work lightened and brightened by the fraternal co-operation of many kind and generous friends, without whose active aid its triumphant success could not have been attained. We are, therefore, but discharging a bounden duty when we thank, most cordially, all our supporters for contributing to this great result; and, in commencing the second volume of our Journal, let us assure them, and the Craft at large, that increased efforts shall be made to maintain the prestige of THE FREEMASON in its high and honourable position as the chosen organ of the Masonic fraternity. It is for us a matter of pride and satisfaction to know that our services have been appreciated by the brethren; to know that, in so short a period, this Journal has found its way, not only to every part of the United Kingdom, but wherever the English language is spoken or understood.

We congratulate ourselves upon having originated a Masonic paper which has met with such general approval; and we congratulate our readers, and more especially English Masons, upon the possession of an organ which may be regarded as a faithful reflex of the opinions of the Craft, and an expositor of the great truths of Freemasonry. And we are prouder still in the reflection that this success has been achieved without the sacrifice of one iota of principle to expediency. Our voice has been heard in defence of the weak, and has not been silent when imposition and injustice upreared their heads and threatened to profane the sanctity of the Order. Our utterances have been neither timid nor uncertain when giant Wrong threatened Right. We have endeavoured to smite down the prejudices of colour and caste, and to identify Freemasonry with the cause of true reason and progress. But while we have steadfastly refused to bow the knee before the Dagon of priestly rule, we have protested almost in the same breath against the adoption of those pernicious and soul-destroying doctrines—Materialism and Atheism—with which certain misguided brethren on the Continent would fain inoculate Freemasonry.

Pacilis descensus Avernii,—let us beware of this insidious danger, and firmly close the gates of the temple against those who would make it a den of thieves, who would rob us of our immortal hopes, and Freemasonry itself of its greatest and holiest charms.

Happily, the spoiler's hand has not yet dared to touch the fabric of the English Craft. Founded in truth, it has endured in strength; and though empires fall around, and systems decay—impregnable to all the assaults of hate and wrath, unshaken by the advancing waves of time—it stands before all the world an object of reverence, an ark of refuge for humanity, an imperishable structure of might, majesty, and beauty.

Actuated by these exalted ideas of the dignity and importance of the Order, we entered upon our duties as a Masonic journalist, and if we have been successful, the merit is due to the response which those sentiments have elicited in the hearts of all true Masons. Having no paltry interests to subserve, no petty personal feelings to gratify, in what we have done we have striven for the "greater good of the greater number."

Our columns have been opened freely and impartially to the admirers of every degree, and our denunciations have fallen only upon those pseudo-Masonic bodies which are by all admitted to be spurious and irregular. In other respects our conceptions of duty are based upon a conscientious observance of Masonic law, and a strict adherence to the dictates of Masonic honour. It is part of our mission to record the sayings and doings of the fraternity, the lights and shades of Masonic life, but our post is also akin to that of the sentinel on the watch tower, who sees from afar the approach of the foe; it is for us to sound a warning note against innovations which are not reforms, to repress the inroads of mistaken zeal, as well as to do battle with the undisguised assailants of the Order. In this spirit we wield the pen, and from the past we gather confidence for the future.

Having regard to the number of active Freemasons in Great Britain, we may calculate upon a still greater measure of support being extended to our exertions; we may reasonably reckon upon obtaining a still larger circulation. And as Freemasonry itself spreads throughout the length and breadth of the land, so may THE FREEMASON, its chosen and accepted organ, "grow with its growth, and strengthen with its strength."

THE EARL OF DERBY ON FREEMASONRY.

WE have the pleasure to refer our readers to the following extract from Lord Derby's speech on the Irish Church Bill, in which reference is made to the Masonic body. Praise from such lips as his is praise indeed; for, setting politics aside, all Englishmen are proud of their ancient chivalry, and delight in the historic achievements of a stalwart Stanley, or a dauntless Dundee. Although the noble Earl himself is not a Freemason, we are glad to say his lordship's younger son, Captain the Hon. Frederick Stanley, M.P., is a valued member, the gallant Captain being a P.M. of the St. George's Lodge, No. 32, Liverpool, and a Past Provincial Senior Grand Warden for West Lancashire. In the course of his speech Lord Derby said:—

"To give an instance to your lordships of the subservience alike of laymen and clergymen I will refer you to what occurred the other day, when Cardinal Cullen threatened all the Catholics with excommunication ipso facto—for what? Why, if they should be guilty of attending a ball that was given in honour of the son of the Sovereign, in the presence of her Majesty's representatives in Ireland. For this they were to be ipso facto excommunicated. It was to apply to all the young ladies who might think it a good opportunity of enjoying themselves, and the excommunication was threatened on this ground—that the ball was to be given by the Society of Freemasons. Well, I can only say that if Cardinal Cullen imagines the Freemasons of England stand on the same footing as the Carbonari or other secret societies—if he supposes that they are leagued against the throne, it is a signal proof of the ignorance of infallibility. (A laugh.) I have not the honour myself of belonging to that society, but from all I have ever heard, I believe that a more loyal, a more peaceable, a more charitable, a more universally benevolent class of men does not exist on the face of the earth. (Hear, hear.) Yet, because it is a secret society, all those Roman Catholics who attend any of their meetings are liable to excommunication. (A noble lord on the opposite benches made an observation.) I am very much obliged to the noble lord for calling my attention to the presence here of the noble lord (Lord Zetland) who is the head of that dangerous society which is supposed to be hatching all manner of designs against the Church and State (a laugh), and every one of whose associates is liable to excommunication. (A laugh.) Standard, June 18.

A SAD occurrence took place last week. A respectable female was charged with loitering in the Haymarket, and on being brought before the magistrate at Marlborough-street, was immediately discharged. The young lady's uncle, Bro. Myers, was called up in the middle of the night, and he thought it was an alarm of fire. The shock was so great that he was taken ill, and never rallied. His funeral took place on Sunday, and was attended by numerous friends, there being in the funeral procession, besides mourning coaches, about 120 cabs.

ALL that relates to the regeneration and civilization of man by Christianity is to be found in the Bible. It is the book, the historical truths of which are evidenced by the existence of the Jews. The Jews, though not now professing Christianity, yet believe in the coming of a Messiah, as professing Christians believe in the second coming of Jesus Christ.—Ellis.

LODGE OF BENEVOLENCE.

The monthly meeting of the Lodge of Benevolence was held at Freemasons' Hall on Wednesday, 23rd inst. Bro. J. Udall, P.G.D., presided, supported by Brs. J. Smith, P.G.P., as S.W.; J. Brett, A.G.P., as J.W.; the Earl Percy, S.G.W.; Dr. J. Hogg, P.G.D.; J. Savage, P.G.D.; J. Nunn, G.S.B.; C. C. Dumas, Asst. G.D.C.; and a large number of W.M.'s. of London lodges.

Thirty petitions were received, of which three were deferred to the next meeting, and the remaining twenty-seven petitioners were voted sums amounting in the aggregate to no less than £420.

The wisdom of reserving the Fund of Benevolence for the relief of our poor brethren and the widows of poor brethren was never more forcibly demonstrated than upon this occasion. Every case was most carefully considered, and the relative claims of the petitioners were thoroughly sifted. We are glad to see that so large an attendance of brethren willing to assist in the work can be secured at the Lodge of Benevolence. It is a healthful sign, and an evidence of the reality of their Masonic professions.

Obituary.

THE RIGHT WORSHIPFUL BRO. RICHARD WILLIAM JENNINGS, PAST GRAND WARDEN OF ENGLAND.

A prince in Israel has fallen, a true-hearted, honourable, and most estimable chief of our ancient Order has passed away from the sphere of Masonic labour. In our review of the season in THE FREEMASON last week, we alluded with gratification to the fact that death had spared our prominent members during the period under notice, but, to our great regret, we have now to chronicle the decease, by a deplorable accident, of Bro. R. W. Jennings, who has been for so many years identified with the proceedings of the Craft. The subjoined account gives in detail the particulars of the catastrophe by which Bro. Jennings's valuable life was sacrificed, and it adds another to the many recent melancholy instances of the extreme peril attending a too hasty exit from a railway carriage:—

"Last evening, a gentleman named Jennings, residing at Bickley, a season-ticket holder on the London, Chatham, and Dover Railway, left Ludgate-hill Station by the 7.8 train. When the train reached Bickley he did not alight, and is supposed to have been asleep. At any rate just after it had begun to leave the station he opened the carriage door and jumped out, missing his footing he fell between the step and the platform and was fearfully crushed. The station-master, and a gentleman who was standing on the platform at the time raised the unfortunate man, but he expired almost immediately. Mr. Jennings, who was at the head of an old established firm of proctors at Bennet's-hill, Doctors'-commons, was somewhat advanced in years, and well known on the line by his snow-white hair and great regularity. The name of the station was vociferated as usual by the porters, and no blame appears to attach to any one but the deceased."—Standard, 24th June.

Bro. Jennings was initiated in the Lodge of Antiquity, No. 2, on the 26th June, 1833, and in due time served the office of Master of that time-immemorial lodge whose records connect our present Speculative Freemasonry with the operative Masonic bodies of the remote past.

Bro. Jennings also joined the Old Union Lodge, No. 46, on the 11th November 1835, and the Royal Alpha Lodge (into which Grand Officers only are admitted), on 22nd May 1841, and as an evidence of his undiminished interest in the Craft, it may be mentioned that in 1866 he was one of the founders of University Lodge, 1118, which is composed of members or ex-members of the Universities, and numbers upon its roll some of the most distinguished names in Freemasonry.

The thorough business habits of Bro. Jennings soon commended him to the notice of His Royal Highness the late Duke of Sussex, who appointed him Assistant Grand Director of Ceremonies as early as the 27th April 1836, when he was not quite three years a Mason, and moreover, he was the first who held the appointment of Assistant. On the 28th of April 1841, Bro. Jennings was promoted to the office of Grand Director of Ceremonies, in succession to Bro. Sir William Woods, Clarenceux King of Arms, and he retained this important post for nineteen years, up to the 25th April 1860, when Bro. Albert W. Woods, Lancaster Herald (son of Sir William Woods, the former incumbent), was promoted to the position, which he still holds most worthily and with entire satisfaction to Grand Lodge. The office of G.D.C. is one which requires the exercise of much tact, and a happy admixture of the suaviter in modo with the fortiter in re, together with other specialties which are rarely combined in the same individual. Our deceased brother enjoyed the confidence both of the late and the present Grand Master, and materially assisted his royal and noble chiefs in the work of all the great ceremonials, such as laying foundation stones, &c., in which they took part for the five and twenty years ending in 1860.

When the foundations of the new buildings at Freemasons' Hall were laid on the 27th April, 1864, Bro. Jennings was also present, and on that occasion the Earl of Zetland in graceful recognition of our lamented brother's services, conferred upon him the rank of a P. G. Warden of England. As a matter of course G. Chapter honors followed those obtained by Bro. Jennings in the Craft. Having been exalted in the St. James' Chapter, No. 2, on the 7th May, 1835, we find that Comp. Jennings was appointed Director of Ceremonies on the 2nd May, 1838, Second Assist. Soj. 1st May, 1839, and, finally, Scribe N. on the 7th May, 1862. He also officiated for some years as President of the Grand Chapter Committee. Having thus imperfectly traced the Masonic career of the deceased, it only remains to say that in his professional and civic capacities Bro. Jennings was equally respected and equally useful. His sad and untimely end naturally increases the regret with which we pen these lines, nevertheless he goes down to the grave full of honors, and upon his memory rests not a stain.

With Bro. Jennings another link that bound the present generation of Masons to a period which is now historic has passed away, and may all like him when the dread summons comes leave behind them the imperishable memorial of a well-spent life.

THE TEMPLE.

All Hail to the Building to Glory advancing!

The building that thousands are helping to rear;
Though years, too, in thousands have o'er it, been glancing,

Yet still does the structure unfinished appear.
Our Fathers before us have at it been toiling,
And each his own stone for the edifice square'd;
Our children will, after us, also be helping,
And stones yet in numbers by them be prepar'd.

All Hail to the Building the Master is rearing!

Where th' stones are all Brethren, true-hearted and free;

Where Faith, the foundation, on God surely resting,
And Hope helps the work on through ev'ry degree.
Its walls, up, in beauty are steadily growing,
And so will continue until they're all raised;
The stones are all numbered, and God in his planning
Has mark'd out the setting where each will be placed.

Still Hail to the Building to glory advancing!

Though earth shall ne'er see it completed appear;
The Temple of love which the Lord is constructing,
And Heaven will see Him in triumph appear.
Yea, Hail to that building Jehovah will finish!
And join in the anthem, ye angels of light;
A song, all triumphant, to Him we must furnish Who'll raise such as we to yon glorious light.

W.P.B.

PROGRESS SLOW, BUT SURE.—When I sit upon some lofty mountain brow and see the mighty train winding, like a huge fiery serpent, through the valley below, I love to look back in a reverie on the various modes of travelling that from time to time have prevailed in the land of my fathers. "In my mind's eye, Horatio," I can see the ancient Brigantes (many of whose grave-hills I have assisted to open for antiquarian researches) not wholly without some rude roads, but learning much from their indomitable conquerors, the Romans. Between the making of the Roman roads in Britain and the laying down of the first passenger railway, how tardy was the progress of the means of transit! When I think on it, I take fresh hopes for the cause of progress, and feel certain that the amelioration of human suffering will gradually come.—Bro. J. S. Tweddell.

The Editor's Portfolio.

We commend the following verses to the attention of our materialistic foreign brethren:—

THE HOPE OF HEAVEN.

Oh! if the Atheist's words were true;
If those we seek to save
Sink—and, in sinking from our view,
Are lost beyond the grave!
If life thus closed, how dark and drear
Would this bewildered earth appear—
Scarce worth the dust it gave:
A tract of black sepulchral gloom,
One yawning, ever-opening tomb!
Blest be that strain of high belief—
More heaven-like, more sublime—
Which says that souls who part in grief
Part only for a time!
That far beyond this speck of pain,
Far o'er the gloomy grave's domain,
There spreads a brighter clime,
Where—care, and toil, and trouble o'er—
Friends meet, and meeting weep no more!
FURLONG.

Mulum in Parbo, or Masonic Notes and Queries.

Bro. Jacob Norton and the "Masonic Monthly."

—The editor of THE FREEMASON has done a service to the Craft in England, by inserting Bro. Norton's letter to the Masonic Monthly. That distinguished Mason went the right way to discover the truth, viz., "To the fountain-head." There was a doubt relative to the name of one of our Grand Masters, and also some question as to a warrant having been granted to the "African Lodge." Bro. Norton, who is a most distinguished Mason in the United States, wisely consulted the Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge of England relative to the subject, and the records have abundantly confirmed the truth of the views advocated by him previously in the "American Freemason," edited by an able Bro., J. F. Brennan. It is thus proven that the African Lodge and its members are as legally entitled to be received as visitors in our lodges, as any white members of other lodges. It seems extraordinary that Masons should be found belonging to the modern society who can uphold the practices of those who seek to exclude intelligent negroes from our assemblies, yet so it is. We heartily wish Bros. Norton, Brennan, Evans, and other Masonic worthies, the success they deserve, for thus endeavouring to secure equal rights for the Negro Brother with the more favoured white members of our Fraternity. Relative to the name Montacute, or Montagu, I find by the Constitution of A.D. 1738, that Lord Montagu (son of the Duke of Montagu, G.M., 1721,) was installed Grand Master, 19th April, A.D. 1732, (page 130.) Strange to say, however, that in Intick's Constitutions, A.D. 1766, (page 214,) it is stated that "Deputy Grand Master Batson, proclaimed aloud our noble Brother 'XI. Anthony Brown, Lord Viscount Montacute. Grand Master of Masons.'" The same designation occurs in the Constitutions for A.D. 1767, (page 214.) I quite agree with Bro. Norton, that another time when Bro. C. W. Moore quotes letters from distinguished Brethren, it would be better for him to insert them verbatim et literatim. We look forward with interest to the next notice of the "Monthly" in THE FREEMASON.—W. J. HUGHAN.

The Chevalier Ramsay and the Chapter of Arras.—Our excellent Bro. John Yarker speaks of the three degrees invented by Chevalier Ramsay in 1728-9, being "an innovation upon the Rite of the Chapter of Arras." (Vide FREEMASON, June 19, 1869, page 6.) Will Brother Yarker inform me of any French authority on Masonry that mentions the Chapter of Arras having been instituted before 1747? According to the "General History of Freemasonry," by Dr. E. Rebold (translation by Bro. J. F. Brennan A.D. 1869, page 84), the "Chapter at Arras was constituted on the 15th April, 1747, by the Prince Pretender, Charles Edward Stuart." Surely, then, all innovations upon the Rite of such Chapter must be subsequent to its institution, and not some twenty years preceding its formation! I know the history of the "Hautes Grades" is involved in much obscurity, but relative to the Arras Chapter there does not seem to be any doubt as to the period of its institution, and in common with others I am naturally jealous of any attempts being made to prove these degrees to be of greater antiquity than they really are. Bro. Yarker also says the degrees by Ramsay of 1728-9, seem to follow the traditions of the "Royal Arch-Templar Rite of York." No such Rite as the R.A. Templar of York can be proved to have had existence by documentary evidence, before the institution of the Chapter of Arras, and hence I cannot see how its traditions, can be said to precede the Ramsay degrees of 1728-9. I thank Bro. Yarker for so kindly acknowledging my accuracy respecting the Constitutions of 1722.—W. J. HUGHAN.

Original Correspondence.

[The Editor is not responsible for the opinions expressed by Correspondents.]

ALLEGORICAL SCULPTURES IN MEDIEVAL CHURCHES.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—In the difference of opinion between Bro. "Cryptonymus" and me anent the above subject, we must not forget the real point at issue, which is—whether these sculptures were wrought "in defiance," or "with consent."

Bro. "Cryptonymus" asserts the former, I hold by the latter. His remarks at page 3, June 19th, are, I consider, rather in my favour; and as to what he says anent "the continued hostility of the Romish Church, either in very remote times through the butchery of Molay, to the anathema of Pius IX.," I would ask—What had "the butchery of Molay," the Knight Templar, in 1314, to do with Freemasonry, or the Freemasons? Freemasonry was not in existence till centuries after. Molay was not a Freemason. Truly, the Romish Church has anathematized Freemasonry, after it was born, viz., in the 18th and 19th centuries; but not before, that I know of. And as to the operative mason, or old freemason (freemason—a mason free of his guild; or, as the 1628 Rosling Charter has it, "freemen of the saidis vocations," that is, "freemen of the maïssones and hammermen), I have yet to learn that the Romish Church either was, or had any cause to be, afraid of them—especially in "the thirteenth and fourteenth" centuries, any more than of any other craft. No! the masons then were the children of the Church, and in many cases the priests themselves superintended and took an active interest in the work. Consequently, the old sculptures referred to can only be allegorical, and could only have been done, "with consent," as I have said. And if any further proof were needed to show that they could not have been done "in defiance," Bro. "Cryptonymus," himself has given it, by referring to the Knights Templar; for if the Romish Church was so powerful about the beginning of the 14th century, as to have been able to annihilate such a puissant body, as the Templars, how, I would ask, can any one (without the most substantial proof) dare to assert, that the masons—a mere body of workmen—either could, or would dare to ridicule their employers, the Romish Church? Ergo, Bro. "Cryptonymus" and his authority, Bro. Findel, are both wrong upon this point; as Bro. Findel, I consider, is on several in connection with architecture.

I am, yours fraternally,
LEO.

ROYAL ARCH MASONRY.

(To the Editor of the Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—In last week's FREEMASON Bro. McAuley challenges the correctness of the tradition I related respecting Enoch's pillars. Allow me to say once for all that I do not vouch for the accuracy of the legend, and indeed, in the quotation from Savary, given in this week's issue, another version, which differs both from Bro. McAuley's and mine, is alluded to. Some weeks ago friend "Leo" who seems pleased to have a tilt at everybody and everything (I hope not a fourtrance) ridiculed my assertion that the temple of Solomon was the model for other ancient edifices.

Let him read Layard's "Discoveries in Nineveh and Babylon," in which that distinguished traveller draws a comparison between the temple and palace of Solomon, and the buildings at Nineveh, and in which he finds many points of resemblance in the plan and general design. The same fragrant wood—cedar—was used for the beams, roofs and ceilings, and even in reference to the period of construction, the temple was finished in seven years, and Sennacherib built his palace at Konyenjik in the same time. No person will dispute the fact, of which Bro. "Leo" advances certain proofs, that the ancient Egyptians were a most wonderful people; great in astronomy, great in architecture, and great in literature.

I shall have a word or two to say by-and-bye upon the last article by "Cryptonymus," whose ability I recognize and highly respect.

Yours truly,
THE SON OF SALATHIEL.

(To the Editor of the Freemason.)

SIR AND BROTHER,—I was pleased to see in your last number a letter from Bro. McAuley calling attention to a statement of the "Son of Salathiel" with regard to the pillars of Enoch, which statement I had previously noticed to be contrary to the tradition as given in Oliver's "Antiquities."

The "Son of Salathiel" states (in his paper in the number for June 5th) that the marble column was inscribed with certain hieroglyphics; that there was a curious treasure concealed in arches underground, and the brazen column, with the principles of the liberal arts and sciences; and that in accordance with the patriarch's design, the brazen column was the one which survived the destruction of the flood.

Oliver, on the other hand, states that Enoch erected two pillars, one of marble, the other of brass, the former of which he conceived would withstand fire, the latter water. On these (i.e., both of them) he engraved the elements of the liberal sciences, including Masonry, &c. The deluge destroyed every work of man, and even the brazen pillar of Enoch gave way before the torrent of destruction, but God preserved the pillar of stone, and by this means the state of Masonry before the flood was transmitted to posterity.

The "Son of Salathiel," therefore, differs from the legend as given by Oliver in two particulars, viz., as to the subjects engraved on the pillars, and as to which of the pillars was preserved. I join Bro. McAuley in desiring to know which is the correct statement, or, at all events, which is the more generally received tradition.

I am, yours fraternally,
F.I.W.

Winchester, 22 June, 1869.

THE ROYAL MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

At the Annual General Meeting of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Aged Freemasons and Widows of Freemasons, held at Freemason's Hall, London, on Friday, the 21st May, 1869, the Secretary reported that the Most Worshipful Grand Master, the Right Hon. the Earl of Zetland, K.T., President of the Institution, had named Wednesday, the 26th January, 1870, for the next Annual Festival. And that Sir Daniel Gooch, Bart., M.P., Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master for Berks and Bucks, would preside on that occasion.

The following Report of the Committee of Management was read, approved, and ordered to be entered on the Minutes, viz.:

"The Committee of Management, in presenting this their Annual Report, regret that they cannot congratulate the Governors and Subscribers so heartily as they have been enabled to do in past years, the great depression in trade having caused a decrease in the amount collected, both from Brethren and Lodges in the metropolis and country.

"The Anniversary Festival, holden by direction of the Most Worshipful Grand Master, on the 27th January last, was presided over by the Right Hon. the Earl of Carnarvon, R.W. Provincial Grand Master for Somersetshire, when the Donations and Subscriptions contained in the list, of seventy Brethren who kindly acted as Stewards on that occasion, and supported his Lordship, amounted to £2,219 15s. 2d., being a decrease on the amount announced last year of £908 8s. 10d. Notwithstanding the falling off in the amount announced at the Festival, the Committee of Management have adhered strictly to Rule 42, requiring one-third of the Life Donations to be invested, and accordingly £500 Stock in the 3 per Cent. Reduced Annuities was purchased on account of the Male Fund, and a like sum of £500 Stock in the 8 per Cent. Reduced Annuities was purchased on account of the Female Fund.

"The Committee have to report that the Asylum Building is in perfect repair, and that out of 152 Annuitants now receiving the benefits of this Institution, 11 males and 20 females have accepted the offer of Apartments, and are now occupants of the Building, the remaining number, 121, residing in different parts of London and the Country, as they may deem fit.

"Your Committee cannot but urge, on the Brethren generally, the need of renewed exertions during the present year, for, although the Committee have recommended an increased number of Annuitants to be elected at the Annual General Meeting on the 21st instant, they were scarcely warranted in so doing, looking to the state of the funds; but as they infer that the Craft generally would wish as large a number as possible placed on the Institution, they rely on sufficient support being accorded to them to justify their having done so, and they would therefore again urge upon the Members of the Craft for renewed support, in consequence of this Institution differing as it does from the other Masonic Institutions, in the fact that there is no limit to the number of Annuitants so long as the Committee are supplied with funds."

The receipts of the Male Fund, during the year, were £3,178 11s. 9d., and the disbursements, including purchase of £500 Stock, 3 per cent. Reduced Annuities, £3305 13s.; the receipts of the Female Fund, were £2,072 18s., and the disbursements, including purchase of £500 Stock, 3 per cent. Reduced Annuities, £2,401 11s. 2d.

Now that this Institution has an adequate amount of funded property it would be well to consider the advisability of rescinding Rule 42, which directs that one-third of the annual donations received shall be invested. It will be seen, from our synopsis of the Report that the whole of the yearly income is required for annuities actually in force.

We subjoin a list of unsuccessful Candidates, with numbers to be carried forward, and added to the Poll at the next Election.

MALE ANNUITANTS.

Br. S. M. Lotinga .. 226	Br. Joseph Thornton .. 2
" John Glode 79	" Joseph Hodgson .. 2
" Henry Merritt .. 11	" Joseph Newsome .. 0
" William Highton 10	" Geo. W. Kerkin .. 0
" Joseph, Vernon .. 6	" James F. Munro .. dead
" James Pickup .. 4	" Samuel Shepherd dead

WIDOWS.

Mrs. Jane Ward 306	Mrs. E. Young 31
" Sarah A. Crome. 257	" M. A. Pendlebury 19
" E. Warrington.. 132	" Ann Carvell 8
" C. Jackson..... 123	" Mary Jenkins... 6
" Maria Read 108	" Ann Schofield ... 3

The following Resolutions were carried at the Meeting:—

"That the thanks of this Meeting be given to the Scrutineers.

"That the result of the Ballot, with the names of the successful candidates, be advertised in the Times, Telegraph, Advertiser, and Standard, morning papers—Evening, Sunday paper—Freemason's Magazine, and THE FREEMASON.

"That the proceedings of this day be printed and circulated amongst Lodges under the Grand Lodge of England.

"That the thanks of this Meeting are due, and are hereby given to the W. Bro. John Udall (P.G.D.), a Vice President of the Institution, for the manner in which he has presided over the Meeting this day."

METROPOLITAN MASONIC MEETINGS

For the Week ending July, 31869.

Monday, June 28.

Lodge No. 831, "British Oak," Bank of Friendship Tavern, Bancroft-place, Mile-end.
" 902, "Burgoyne," Anderson's Hotel, Fleet-street.
" 905, "De Grey and Ripon," Angel Hotel, Great Ilford.
R.A. Chap., 188, "Joppa," Albion Tavern, Aldergate-street.

Tuesday, June 29.

Metropolitan Chapter of Instruction, George Hotel, Aldermanbury at 7; Comp. Brett, Preceptor.
Domestic Lodge of Instruction, Palmerston Tavern, Grosvenor-park, Camberwell, at 7.30.

Wednesday, June 30.

Lodge No. 898, "Temperance in the East," 6, Newby-place, Poplar.

Thursday, July 1.

Lodge No. 554, "Yarborough," Green Dragon, Stepney.
" 822, "Victoria Rifles," Freemasons' Hall.
" 1155, "Excelsior," Sydney Arms, Lewisham-road.
" 1178, "Perfect Ashlar," Gregorian Arms, Bermondsey-road.
R.A. Chap 733, "Westbourne," New Inn, Edgware-road.
" 742, "Crystal Palace," Crystal Palace, Sydenham.

Friday, July 2.

R.A. Chap. 745, "High Cross," White Hart Hotel, Tottenham.

Saturday, July 3.

Lodge No. 1194, "Villiers," Northumberland Arms Hotel, Isleworth.
General Committee, Boys' School, Freemasons' Hall, at 4.

MASONIC PIC-NIC.—On Saturday last, the brethren of St. John's Lodge, No. 216 held a "pic" in a beautiful haugh near the village of Stow. They were honoured by the presence of a numerous party of Grand Lodge officials from Edinburgh, including Bro. Henry Ingles Grand Substitute Master of Scotland, Bro. Mann, Grand Junior Warden, and Bros. Clark, Mackenzie, Bryce and McCowan, members of Grand Committee; also deputations from the Lodge Journeman, Edinburgh; St. Luke's, London, and St. John's Galashiels. Refreshments were provided by Bro. Dickson of the Railway Hotel. Music supplied by W. and G. Crosby, of Hawick. And what with dancing, athletic sports, &c., the afternoon and evening till about nine o'clock passed agreeably.

THE Royal Christy's Minstrels, at St. George's Hall, Langham-place (Bro. H. Montague lessee and manager), have, in addition to their already attractive programme, engaged the services of the "Only Leon," as he is justly denominated, and Bro. Edwin Kelly. They are great acquisitions to this powerful company. Leon's great talent displays itself in his wonderful delineations of female characters, which are perfect and artistic; he has a charming fresh voice. Bro. Kelly is also an excellent vocalist, and an exceedingly gentlemanly actor. Bro. Nimmo is the indefatigable acting manager.

Every act has its consequence. The consequence of good is reward; of evil, punishment. The spirit of God is in every soul, and only concealed by evil. The atheist may live the full period of life, boasting of his disbelief in Supreme Power, and that all is chance. Yet in moments of despair on the bed of death, thoughts come that never were before.—Ellis.

SHEPHERDS PUBLIC COMPANY.—We have received the prospectus of this company, and will endeavour to place its merits more prominently before our readers in next week's issue.

[We have been compelled to keep over a number of articles of more or less interest, but hope to find room for them next week.—Ed.]

ANOTHER FENIAN OUTRAGE:

A Tale of the times.

(Reprinted from the South Durham & Cleveland Mercury.)

BY BRO. ✠ EMRA HOLMES, 31st, ETC., ETC.,Author of "Mabel," "Ernest Blake," "Hopeless," "The Path of Life: an Allegory," "Waiting for Her," &c.; and SUB-EDITOR "UNIVERSAL MASONIC CALENDAR."

CHAPTER IV.—CONTINUED.

THE LOVERS.—"ANOTHER FENIAN OUTRAGE."

Poor fellow! he did not speak, perhaps, so well as your fine novelist would wish; but yet he touched fair Maggie's heart, and that was enough; and as there fell bright, happy tears from her kind eyes, he knew he was accepted.

They walked arm-in-arm to the station, and there waited for the up mail, which was to take him back to Staffordshire. The trains usually meet at Barton station, by some happy arrangement, all but the down express from London, which was due at half-past eight, and which had not come in when they found their way upon the platform. There is no bridge connecting the up and down platforms at this station, and passengers have to cross the line to get into the train on the up side.

"Make haste across, please," the station-master is heard to say sharply; "the up mail is coming."

Our hero and heroine hurry over, only just in time, as the train comes up.

A hurried adieu, and Mayduke just raises her hand to his lips as any old cavalier might have done; a ringing of bells, a shrill whistle, and the train moves slowly off.

Marmaduke leans out of the window for a moment, to have one more yearning gaze, and Maggie, seeing him, pauses on the line for one more look at her departing lover. A rush of wind, a shout, a blinding glare of lights, a thunder as of the trampling of a thousand steeds, a whirling by of a weird black form, a horrid shriek as from some lost soul, and the express goes by.

Mr. Forester got home in perfect safety. He was now quite happy in the assurance that he was loved by so noble and good a girl as Maggie Robertson. He knew she must be a noble girl, since she hesitated not a moment in accepting, when all men had forsaken him, and everything seemed going wrong; and he felt she must be a good girl from all he had seen and known of her for these three months past, and that was not a little. He did not justify himself for his wild, reckless life as others might have done. No one thought more evil of himself than did Marmaduke, and every one said he was his own worst enemy. I am sure that true love must be ennobling, for as he meditated upon all that had passed—as he thought of all Maggie's goodness to him, he resolved to turn over a new leaf, and to lead a new life; and when he retired that night he dropped upon his knees by his bedside, for the first time for a long long while, and prayed God to strengthen him in his good resolutions, and to protect him from all temptations, and from the commission of those sins to which he was most prone. And then he fell asleep and dreamed of long ago, when he was yet a child and murmured prayers at his mother's knee.

He was to go on the 7th of May to Dublin, there to transact some business for his uncle, which would delay him probably a day or two, and he was expected at Kilmallock not later than the 12th. His uncle's letter said, as they were going to have a little party on that day, and Frank Ashburn was with them. When Frank went to Killarney on the 20th of April, Marmaduke wrote to his uncle, speaking very warmly of his friend's kindness, and the consequence was that Mr. Merton wrote and asked Frank there.

Frank had gone over after having spent a week at Killarney attending to Sir Eustace de la Wray's affairs, and coming nominally for two or three days ended by spending a fortnight there, to his own and his host's satisfaction. Sweet Fanny Merton soon formed a penchant for our friend, which promised to ripen into a warm attachment, on one side at least.

Frank had written to Marmaduke in Mr. Merton's name, to urge his using no delay in coming over, as the business matters at Dublin required his presence. Not knowing where to address the letter, as he had heard young Forester had left the bank, he thought it better to enclose it to Madge Raymond, who he knew would take the trouble of delivering it.

Accordingly, Madge walked up to our hero's rooms, and asked if Mr. Forester were in.

"Yes, sir," was the reply, and the maid, formerly Madge's Marchioness, now grown into a buxom girl, admitted him.

"You needn't announce me, Mary," Madge said pleasantly, as he strode past her, and into his friend's rooms.

"Why, man, what's up?" he shouted as he hastily raised the apparently lifeless body of young Forester from the floor. "The fellow's fainted! Mary, get me some water, quick!" And whilst the servant with a look of horror hurried to obey him, he unloosed his necktie and vest, dragged him to the window, which he flung open, and let the cool evening air play upon the pallid brow of poor Marmaduke. In a few minutes he revived, and after taking a wine-glass full of brandy, which Madge had sent for, opened his eyes and looked languidly around.

"What is the matter, my boy?" said Madge kindly.

Marmaduke pointed to a newspaper, which was lying open upon the table, and attempted to speak, but utterly broke down, and finally burst into a flood of tears.

Thinking from his present excited state it were best to leave him alone for a few minutes to compose himself, and seeing how thoroughly hopeless it appeared to glean any information from him in his then condition, Madge turned to the newspaper, a copy of that day's Daily Telegraph, in hopes of gaining something there. He read the following:—

ANOTHER FENIAN OUTRAGE.—A shocking accident occurred at Barton-le-Bar, a watering place on the north-east coast, on the 4th inst. We have not full particulars, but it appears that a young lady of considerable personal attractions, who accidentally strayed across the line, was cut down by the express from London, which reaches Hartsea at 8.55 p.m. The guard of the train felt an unusual jolting as the train passed the Barton station, and immediately stopped the train. The mangled remains were found in a state almost preventing identification, but a letter was found upon deceased signed "Marmaduke Forester," and in her pocket, which contained a green velvet rosette with the letters H.C.I.R. embroidered on it, and the name "Asteroid" inside; a handkerchief was also found, with the name "M. Robertson" in one corner. It appears that a gentleman of American aspect, with a light brown moustache and imperial, was last seen with her; and, from certain circumstances which have come to our knowledge, there is too much reason to fear that the deceased was the victim of another Fenian outrage.

CHAPTER V.

THE HEAD-CENTRE OF KERRY.

"All's well that ends well."

Two days afterwards, the Daily Telegraph gave the account of the coroner's inquest, from which, however, it appeared, as it was obliged to own, "There was no evidence to show that the Fenians had anything to do with the matter." The Irish Times copied the first paragraph, but not the second. Madge wrote to his friend Frank Ashburn, detailing the melancholy circumstances in which poor Forester was placed, and speaking very freely of the poignant grief from which he was evidently suffering. He said that, after walking listlessly about Marton for a day or two, he had gone to him, urged him to show more manliness and strength of mind, and begged of him to go off to Dublin without delay, as he knew Mr. Merton's business was pressing.

"I know what you think," the poor fellow said, wrote Madge. "I know what you think—you think me foolish because I feel her death so much. You remember that she was only a barmaid, and you are surprised that I should make such a fool of myself for her. You think she wasn't a lady; but she was in heart, at all events, and you don't know how good and trustful she was to me. I loved her as much as anyone could love. She would have been a better wife to me than such a poor fellow as I deserve." Here the poor fellow broke down again. Madge wrote, "and 'pon my word I was very nearly making a fool of myself too. However, I got him off on the morning of the 10th, and I suppose by this time he is with you."

Mr. Merton asked Frank if he had any news of Marmaduke?

"No, sir; I can't make it out," he said. "I don't wish you to alarm the ladies; but the fact is, Mr. Forester should have been here by the 13th, as he left Marton on the 10th, and it is now the 16th, and we have no tidings. By the way, I am afraid we going to have some trouble down here. I telegraphed a day or two since to Sir Eustace de la Wray to come over. He is very popular amongst the tenantry, and his presence may quell any attempt at an outbreak. I hear they have captured a fellow who they say is the Head Centre of Kerry, and they are bringing him down to Killarney to-morrow to have him identified by some of the people there. I expect Sir Eustace will be down to-night, and I must go and meet him."

"I should rather like to go with you," Mr. Merton remarked.

"Delighted with your company, I am sure, sir," replied Frank.

The Town Hall at Killarney is crowded to excess. All the magistrates of the district are there (including Lord Castle Rosse, Mr. Herbert and Sir Eustace de la Wray) and the rest of the landed proprietors. Some evidence is gone into. It appears the prisoner was seized at Dublin; he refused to give his name; his description answered that of a Colonel in the American Army, who was the Head Centre of Kerry, and as a sword was found with his luggage, a green sash in his portmanteau, and other suspicious articles in his possession, he was detained, and forwarded with a strong escort to Killarney, for the purpose of identification, as there were several people there who had seen Colonel Burke.

Great was the astonishment of the court when Frank Ashburn, who had rushed in frantically, asked to speak with Sir Eustace de la Wray, and informed him that the prisoner, whom he had just caught a glimpse of, was none other than Marmaduke Forester! A mutual explanation ensued; Forester gave his real name to the magistrates on oath; there was Mr. Marten present to identify him, together with Frank Ashburn and Sir Eustace, who was bad at remembering faces, but who at length recollected our friend. There was a very hearty shaking of hands all round, and the friends left the court followed by a crowd of people, who cheered them as lustily as if they really had been Fenians, and their best friends.

"How the deuce did you get into that scrape, Mayduke?" his friend asked, as they walked arm-in-arm to the Railway Hotel, where Frank was staying.

"Oh, I don't know; some fools got hold of me as I got out of the boat at Dublin, and insisted upon knowing my name and all about me. I wasn't going to satisfy their curiosity, and I knocked one of the fellows down, but they were too many for me. Well, they found my sword and my Freemason's sash upon me, and this made them suspect me. Then they found a letter on me, from—you know who (Mayduke said rather sadly)—and this made them more suspicious, so they put me in quod. However, it is all over now, and I'd rather not talk any more about it."

The party returned in the evening to Kilmallock, and, you may be sure, the Merton's welcomed their cousin very warmly. He was very sad and gloomy for a few weeks, but as the summer wore on poor Marmaduke came to the conclusion that life was worth living for still. His cousin Mary found out by cleverly devised questions, which never roused Marmaduke's suspicion the least, that his friend Frank was engaged to a Miss Birch, but he didn't know when they would be married. Last summer I heard a rumour, which proved to be correct, that Mayduke had become engaged to his charming cousin, who had discovered his hidden worth.

* * * * *

"Mayduke, my boy," Frank Ashburn says to our hero one evening last autumn, "I've often puzzled over in my mind why you would not give up your name at Dublin when they took you for a Fenian?"

"Because I thought they had no right to extort it from me, in the first place; and, secondly, because I had sworn, when I was made a Freemason, that I would acknowledge no name to a stranger for two months but that of Asteroid," he added proudly.

Frank replied with a burst of laughter, in which he was joined by Madge. The three were smoking in Mayduke's rooms. Frank and Madge often dropped in now to cheer him up.

"I say, you won't be angry if I tell you something?" Frank adds presently.

"No; what is it?"

"Why, you are not a Freemason at all." And then Frank proceeded to let his friend into the elaborate joke which had been played upon him. Mayduke's countenance wore a very rueful aspect as Frank told the tale; but it brightened up considerably when its author added:

"Never mind, Mayduke, old fellow; our Lodge meets to-morrow, and I will propose you in truth."

It is only necessary to add that Marmaduke Forester has just come into a little property of £400 a year, and he is going to be married to his cousin next May. He took his Master Mason's degree last lodge night, at the Silent Temple Lodge, Burnley.

The Vicar of Marton died last month. The poor old gentleman had had an attack of paralysis, followed shortly by a second; and Minna felt her duty was by her father's side, and, knowing that the end could not be long, delayed to name the day; and Frank was far too honourable to press her. So by a tacit agreement they had waited till now.

On his death-bed, the venerable clergyman, as he had got to be called, desired that the wedding which had been put off so long should no longer be postponed; and it was at his express wish that it was determined they should be married early in the new year.

Mrs. Madge Raymond presented her husband with a fine boy on the 1st of this month. Both mother and child are doing well. Baby is to be christened on Christmas Eve, and Madge (whose opinion of Mayduke has altered very much of late) has asked that young gentleman to stand with Frank and Mrs. Wrayton, as the child's sponsors.

Marmaduke Forester has been an altered man since the death of poor Maggie. May Merton knows all about that sad story, but does not love him one whit the less because he wanted to marry a barmaid.

FIM.

Just Published, price 3s. 6d..

[illegible]

MEMORIAL TO THE LATE DR. OLIVER.

THE Committee (consisting of the undersigned five Members of the Witham Lodge, Lincoln), formed for the purpose of collecting subscriptions towards a Memorial to the above distinguished Mason, being anxious to close their labours, will be glad if Brethren wishing to subscribe will intimate their intention at once to the Hon. Sec., Bro. W. G. MOORE, P.M., Witham Lodge, 297, Lincoln.

It is suggested that the Memorial shall take the form of a Scholarship in connection with one of the Masonic Schools, or such other form as may be determined upon by the Subscribers.

(Signed) RICHARD HALL, P.G.S.W. and P.P.G. Sec. Lincolnshire, P.M. 297.
JOHN NORTON, P.P.G.P. Lincolnshire, P.M. 297.
CHARLES HARRISON, P.P.G.D., Lincolnshire, P.M. 297.
WM. GEO. MOORE, P.M. 297.
GEO. BACON, Sec. 297.

Now Ready,

The Investors' Guardian Almanack For 1869.

THE object of this publication is to meet a want generally expressed to the proprietors of the Investors' Guardian newspaper for some Handy Book for Investors, published annually at a moderate rate, which, furnishing unquestioned and positive data from official documents, might enable small or larger capitalist to regulate his own investments by his own judgment grounded on certified facts.

THE INVESTORS' GUARDIAN ALMANACK, Price One Shilling and Sixpence,

supplies the fullest particulars relating to all Public Companies, with a correct classification of them as investments—whether as regards their capital (nominal and actual), their liabilities and their assets, their incomes and their reserves, their bonuses and their dividends; together with their value as investments, and the return yielded to purchasers at present prices.

The would-be Investor will find in the INVESTORS' GUARDIAN ALMANACK every possible information relating to

1. The English Government Funds.
2. Colonial Government Securities.
3. Foreign Government Securities.
4. Railway Debenture Stocks.
5. Preference Railway Stocks.
6. Railway Ordinary Stocks.
7. Banks.
8. Insurance Companies.
9. Finance Companies—their present position and prospects.
10. Miscellaneous Companies—their relative position as investments.
11. An authorised List of Members of the London Stock Exchange.
12. List of Official Liquidators.
13. List of Companies in Liquidation.
14. Rules for Registration of Companies, and fees payable.
15. List of Officers and Offices of all Public Companies.
16. List of Private Banks in London and the Country, with Names of Partners.
17. An alphabetically-arranged List of the Directors in the Public Companies throughout Great Britain and Ireland, &c., &c.

A work of such magnitude, importance, and precision would not be within the power of any other firm than that of the Proprietors of the Investors' Guardian newspaper, through whose hands the official documents—from which it has been carefully eliminated—are daily passing, and to whom they are matters of constant reference.

Let the reader judge for himself the value of being able, on hearing the name of any Company mentioned, to turn at once, in this Almanack, to its name in the Alphabetical List and be informed of its Capital, its Shares, the amount subscribed and paid, their present value, the Dividend paid on them, the Reserve held back as guarantee, the Income accruing, its application, and its indebtedness. The information given as to Directors is of equal importance.

In matters such as these, not the Investor only but the Insurer is deeply interested, as will be found by a reference to the pages containing the account of all INSURANCE COMPANIES, and the Editorial remarks and advice appended thereto.

Price, free by Post, 1s. 6d., in limp cover; bound in stiff boards, 2s. 6d.

Published by J. Y. JACKSON, at the "INVESTORS' GUARDIAN" Office, 27, Change-alley, Lombard-street, London, E.C.

KENNING'S MASONIC DEPOT.

Price 2s., Post free,

FREEMASONS' CALENDAR and POCKET-BOOK for the Year 1869, with the Charge and Entered Apprentices' Song.
To be had at Bro. KENNING'S MASONIC DEPOT, Little Britain, London.

Tylers supplied.

Just Published,

Framing size, 20 1/2 by 16. Price 5s.

ZETLAND (Earl of), Grand Master of Freemasons, in Masonic Costume.

Every Freemason should possess this exact likeness of their Grand Master. It is engraved on steel, in the best style, and deserves a place not only in every Lodge, but in the home of every Mason.

London: WILLIAM TEGG, Pancras-lane, Cheapside; also Masonic Depot, 3 & 4, Little Britain, London.

MASONIC NOTE AND LETTER PAPER.

Sanctioned by The Most Worshipful

The Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of England

It is impressed with Masonic Die, and has also Masonic Emblems incorporated with its texture, as Water Marks, while being manufactured.

Sold, in Quarto and Octavo Packets of 5 Quires, Wholesale and Retail, at the MASONIC DEPOT, 3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, E.C.

Masonic Envelopes can also be obtained at the Depot

MASONIC LODGE FURNITURE.

A Superior Complete Suite (second-hand) to be SOLD; a great bargain. Apply by letter to P.M., care of KETNER & Co., Stationers, Friday Street, Cheapside.

JUST PUBLISHED.

THE GENERAL STATUTES of the Imperial, Ecclesiastical, and Military Order of the Red Cross of Rome and Constantine, and the Laws of the K.H.S.; with an Appendix and Engravings of the Jewels and Regalia, to which is added a Sketch of the History of the Red Cross Order.

Published under the authority of the Grand Council by R. WENTWORTH LITTLE, G. Recorder, and sold by G. KENNEDY, Little Britain, E.C.

12mo Cloth, Bound and Lettered, Price 1s. 6d.

KING SOLOMON'S TEMPLE.

VERY BEAUTIFUL PHOTOGRAPHS,

Neatly Framed and Glazed, 20 inches by 15 inches, 21/2. And a Smaller Size, with Plate Glass, 12 by 10, 15/6.

These Photographs are from a very beautiful and elaborate Engraving, and are well worthy the attention of every

MASON,

Antiquarian, and Reader of the Scriptures.

MASONIC DEPOT, 3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, LONDON, Near the General Post Office.

To the Sporting World.

BELL'S LIFE IN LONDON

is now Published

Every WEDNESDAY and SATURDAY Morning.

Price 3d.; stamped 4d.

Office, 170, Strand, London, W.C.

The Cheapest Patent Geometrical Mosaic and Encaustic Tile Depot in London.

SMITHEMAN'S (For many years with Messrs. Maw and Co.), 45, COLLEGE STREET, FULHAM ROAD, S.W., where Architects, Builders, and others, can be supplied on demand with every kind of Tiles for Pavements, Wall Decorations, &c., for Churches, Schools, Entrance Halls, and Conservatories. Experienced Fixers sent to all parts. Ornamental Flower Pots and Boxes supplied. Patterns, Special Designs, and Estimates forwarded on application. Country orders promptly attended to.

F. G. SMYRK,

Asphalte

Importer, Manufacturer, and Contractor,

BEGS most respectfully to call the attention of the Nobility, Gentry, Architects, &c., &c., to his well-known Asphalte, which has been so successfully applied throughout the United Kingdom on the following works:—

ASYLUM FLOORS
BARN FLOORS
BARRACK FLOORS
COACH-HOUSES
COAL AND COKE STORES
CONSERVATORY FLOORS
COURT YARDS
COW SHEDS
CARRIAGE DRIVES
DOG KENNELS
DENS FOR ANIMALS
ENGINE HOUSES
FOOT PAVEMENTS
GARDEN WALKS
GOODS' SHEDS
GRANARIES
KITCHEN FLOORS
LAUNDRIES
LINING OF TANKS
MALT ROOMS

PASSAGES
PIGGERIES
PRISON CELLS
PUBLIC FOOTWAYS
PLAY GROUNDS
RAILWAY PLATFORMS
RACQUET COURTS
SCHOOL ROOMS
STABLES
SUSPENSION BRIDGES
TERRACES
TENNIS COURTS
TUN ROOM FLOORS
TAN YARDS
WAREHOUSE FLOORS
(for corn, cotton, hops, wool, seed, &c.)
WASHHOUSE FLOORS
WINE CELLARS

And all descriptions of work where it is desirable to prevent the rising of damp, or goods required to be kept perfectly dry.

Estimates given and works executed at home and abroad.

All applications for Prices, &c., to be made to the Office, No. 6, Guildhall Chambers, London, E.C.

ESTABLISHED 1840.

BRO. W. H. WAGHORN Manufacturer of Regalia for all Societies, Masonic Aprons, Collars, Ribbons, Sashes, and every requisite for all degrees in Freemasonry always in Stock.
10, VINEGAR YARD, COVENT GARDEN, LONDON, W.C.

BRO. ADLARD'S REGISTERED JEWEL ATTACHER. Price 7s. 6d. Universally adopted. Maker of the Improved Fitting Lodge Collars and Masonic Clothing. 225, High Holborn, London, W.C.

TO THE NERVOUS & DEBILITATED EPILEPTIC SUFFERERS AND OTHERS.

HALL'S CHLORATE OF POTASSA, discovered, introduced, and extensively prescribed by the eminent Dr. MARSHALL HALL, has proved an infallible remedy (by oxydizing the blood and supplying its saline constituent) for Indigestion, Debility, Coughs, Asthma, Consumption, Skin, Liver, Stomach, and Nervous Affections, more especially Epilepsy, Apoplexy, and Paralysis. The successful results of this new chemical preparation are beyond all precedent, and the extraordinary cures effected by the late discoverer, and by his successor (Dr. Sutton), in the above maladies are without a parallel in the annals of medicine; and it is confidently believed that in no case need the sufferer despair, for practical experience has demonstrated, and signal success warranted the assertion, that in 99 cases out of every 100 complete cures may be relied on.

Sold in Bottles at 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and Cases of £5 each, by

DR. SUTTON, M.D., 15, REGENT SQUARE, LONDON, W.C., and in BOLTON by PRIESTLEY, Chemist.

The following are a few Testimonials published by privilege.

Sir Charles Locock, Physician-Accoucher to Her Majesty, stated at a meeting of the Royal Medical and Chirurgical Society, that in sixteen cases of Epilepsy he had effected permanent cures by the use of Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa.

"September 8, 1866.—The Editor of the Bury-Gazette returns thanks to Dr. Hall for the great benefit he has received from his Chlorate of Potassa treatment in a severe nervous disease."

Sir J. Ferguson, King's College Hospital, London, says—"I have repeatedly prescribed Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa and found it an agreeable and beneficial remedy."

Extract from the Lancet, April 1, 1867—"In conclusion, we are of opinion that Hall's Chlorate of Potassa is a far superior remedy to the ones in general use for Nervousness, Indigestion, and Liver Complaints, when judiciously prescribed."

Sir Benjamin Brodie says—"What Chloride of Lime is to the foul sewer, Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa is to the blood."

Professor Syme says—"The effects of Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa in ultimate cases of disease are as astonishing as perplexing."

Dr. Lankester, the eminent coroner, says—"Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa is calculated to entirely supersede iron, mercury, sars-parilla, quinine, and cod liver oil."

Sir Philip Crampton says—"I believe there is no condition of the system that may not be benefited by Dr. Hall's Potassa."

Sir T. Lawrence says—"I have found Dr. Hall's Chlorate an excellent remedy in Skin Diseases. I presume it is by oxydization."

Sir T. Watson says—"I know that it is an invaluable remedy."

Sir Edward Brough, 9, Fitzwilliam-square, Dublin, certifies Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa has been of the greatest benefit to a member of his family.

The Earl of Clarendon certifies that Dr. Hall's Chlorate cured a case of indigestion of 15 years' duration.

Dr. HALL'S CHLORATE OF POTASSA may be procured by order through any Chemist. Ask for "Dr. HALL's Chlorate," and do not be imposed on with the common article. It is sold in Bolton by Priestley, Chemist, 12, Deansgate; or it may be had direct from Dr. Hall's successor, Dr. JOHN SUTTON, M.D., 15, Regent square, London, W.C., who undertakes the positive cure of all chronic diseases before payment.

Dr. HALL'S Chlorate is sold in MANCHESTER by JEWELL, Market-street; in LIVERPOOL by PRIESTLEY, Lord-street.

N.B.—Dr. Sutton will shortly repeat his Lecture on this subject.—The Lecture sent for two stamps.

DR. LEA'S CELEBRATED MEDICINES.

"The efficacy of Lea's Medicines is proverbial."

Daily Telegraph.

"Lea's preparations are excellent."—Morning Star.

LEA'S BENGAL ATRABILIUS PILLS.

Invaluable in all liver complaints, and as a Family Medicine (without Mercury). 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

LEA'S GOUT AND RHEUMATIC PILLS. Will eradicate these disorders when every other remedy has failed, excellent also in Neuralgia, Lumbago, and Sciatica. 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

LEA'S CONSUMPTION SPECIFIC. If persevered in, will seldom fail. 11s. and 22s.

LEA'S ASTHMATIC EMULSION. Maintains its superiority for this complaint, Chronic, Cough, Bronchial affections, Colds, &c. 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

LEA'S WHOOPING-COUGH EMULSION. A certain cure for this destructive complaint in a few days. 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

Prepared by G. LEA, M.D. Canberwell, Surrey.

LONDON AGENTS—BARCLAY, Farringdon-street; PAGE and TIBBS, 47, Blackfriars-road; and SUTTON, Bow Churchyard, &c. Advice free.

CONSUMPTION OF THE LUNGS.—

DR. RAIT has discovered a CERTAIN CURE for this fatal malady. Advice gratis. Address W. RAIT, M.D., Peckham, Surrey.

CONSUMPTION IS CURABLE.—

To CONSUMPTIVES.—A Clergyman, whose son has been miraculously cured of deep consumption, desires full gratitude, and for the benefit of the afflicted, to send full particulars of the remedies used in his son's case, so that all may participate in this providential discovery. Sent to any address free of charge.—Address the Secretary, 48, George-street, Portman-square, London.

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

EVERY requisite in GENTLEMEN'S CLOTHING, SHIRTS, and HOSIERY, for home or abroad, supplied on demand or promptly made to order by

GANN, JONES & CO.,

Tailors, Shirtmakers, Hosiery, Glovers, Outfitters, and Manufacturers,

171, FENCHURCH STREET; & MANUFACTORY, 15 & 16, BLOMFIELD STREET, E.C.

The principles of business in the Retail Department are specially recommended to the Craft and others seeking the best market. The unvarying rule is to give good value for money, to sell cheap when cheapness is consistent with quality, and to make a reduction on the price of an article when a quantity is taken. From this system of business—first established in 1805—their Wholesale Trade has grown, and GANN, JONES & CO.'s Shirts and Clothing are fast finding favour with Merchants, Shippers, and the best Houses in Town and Country.

Wholesale Lists forwarded to Shippers and the Trade, and Retail Price Lists on application

MASONIC DEPOT.

The Largest Stock in the United Kingdom of

Jewels,
Clothing,

Furniture,
Banners,

Books, &
Requisites

FOR ALL DEGREES IN FREEMASONRY.

3 and 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, LONDON, E.C.

PRICE LISTS ON APPLICATION.

NAVAL AND MILITARY WAREHOUSE.

Laces,
Embroidery,
Swords,

Belts,
Chacos,
Buttons,

Epaulettes,
Sashes,
&c., &c.

GEORGE KENNING, 3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, LONDON, E.C.

PRICE LISTS ON APPLICATION.

THE SHEERNESS PUBLIC ROOMS COMPANY
(LIMITED).

A bona-fide undertaking, which will pay well. Includes a
MASONIC LODGE ROOM.

£5 Shares.

Apply to THE SECRETARY, SHEERNESS.

MONEY.

LOANS ON PERSONAL SECURITY, WITH
LIFE ASSURANCE,
AT FIVE PER CENT. PER ANNUM.

THE
WEST OF ENGLAND FIRE & LIFE OFFICE
(Instituted 1803)

GRANTS LOANS FOR A LIMITED NUMBER OF
YEARS ON THE ABOVE TERMS.

Chief Office—Exeter.
London—20, New Bridge Street.

TESSELATED
CARPETING,

FOR
Lodges, Chapters, Encampments, &c.,
FOUR FEET WIDE, 5/ PER YARD,
OR
FOUR SHILLINGS PER SQUARE YARD,
MADE UP.

MASONIC DEPOT, LITTLE BRITAIN,
NEAR THE GENERAL POST OFFICE.

BRO. HIGMAN'S MASONIC BOUQUET,
GREATLY ADMIRE FOR ITS RICHNESS AND
PERMANENCY OF FRAGRANCE.

Sold in Stoppered Bottles, at 2s. 6d. each,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

At the MASONIC DEPOT, 3 & 4, Little Britain, London.

NEW SONG,

PRICE 3s.

THE RED CROSS SONG,

Words by R. W. LITTLE,
Music by H. PARKER.

Published by GEORGE KENNING, 3 & 4, Little Britain,
London.

Just Published. Price Half a Guinea.

MONOGRAMS,
HISTORICAL AND PRACTICAL,
D. G. BERRI,

Engraver to Her Majesty's Post Office, Stationery Office,
&c., &c.,

36, High Holborn, (opposite Chancery-lane),
LONDON, W.C.

BRO. BENJAMIN COOK,
Carpenter, Builder, and House Decorator,
SALISBURY COURT,
FLEET STREET, E.C.

Estimates for General Repairs.

BRO. JAMES B. SLY,
PRACTICAL

Heraldic Engraver to the Trade,
Of Gold, Silver, and Iron.

DRAUGHTSMAN & DIE-SINKER,
9, Rathbone Place, London, W.

Book Plates Engraved; Gilt Pierced Mounts made for
Albums and Cigar Cases.

Designs made of Crests, Monograms, Ornaments, and Arms,
and every description of Shooting Prizes, Presentation Plate,
Watches, Watch Domes, Dressing Cases, Bag-sets, and
Ivory Brushes, Engraved with care, delicacy, and despatch.

TO STATIONERS.

JAS. B. SLY having in his employ several Die-sinkers, and from his practical knowledge of the same is enabled to give immediate attention to the cutting of Dies that are emergent.
Companies' Dies cut. Illuminating and Stamping in colours.

Sample Sheets of Monograms and Addresses forwarded on application.

BRO. REEVES, SON & CO.,

Steam Printers, Engravers & Lithographers.

WHOLESALE STATIONERS,

AND ACCOUNT BOOK MANUFACTURERS.

Playhouse Yard, Blackfriars, London, E.C.

Next the "Times" Publishing Office.

BRO. WOLPERT, W. M. 720,

PRINTER, STATIONER & ACCOUNT-BOOK MAKER,

7, St. Swithin's Lane, E.C.

Authorised Agent to receive Advertisements for THE
FREEMASON, and all the London and Country Newspapers.

For Cheap Watches, Clocks, Gold Chains, and
Jewelry, go to

KIBBLE'S
22, GRACECHURCH STREET,
One Door from Lombard Street, and

51, LUDGATE HILL,
Opposite the Old Bailey.

Gold Watches £2 15s.
Silver ditto £1 5s.
Timepieces from 9s. 6d.

EVERY ARTICLE WARRANTED.

Plate, Watches, and Jewelry, bought or exchanged.

List of Prices Post free.

BRO. J. G. MARSH,

ARCHITECT AND SURVEYOR,

159, Fenchurch Street, E.C.;

AND
842, Old Kent Road, S.E.

BRO. H. R. PRICE,

ARCHITECT AND SURVEYOR,

IMPERIAL CHAMBERS,

No. 1, Market Place, corner of St. Mary's-gate,
MANCHESTER.

Printed by Brother JAMES ADLEY REEVES AND SON, Playhouse
Yard, Blackfriars, in the City of London; published by the Proprietor, Brother GEORGE KENNING, at his Office,
3 and 4, Little Britain, in the City of London, and by the
NEWSAGENTS' PUBLISHING COMPANY, Limited, at their Office,
147, Fleet-street, in the City of London aforesaid.—SATURDAY,
JUNE 26, 1869.

THE FREEMASON

Grand Lodge Reports are published with the sanction of the Right Honorable the EARL of ZETLAND, K.T., Most Worshipful Grand Master of England.

Vol. 2, No. 17.] SATURDAY, JULY 3, 1869. REGISTERED FOR TRANSMISSION ABROAD. [PRICE 2D.]

TABLE OF CONTENTS.
	PAGE.
ROYAL ARCH MASONRY	1
ANNUAL PICNIC OF THE DUNDEE LODGE, BURNISLAND	2
PAPERS ON MASONRY	2
No. XIII.—Masonry and the Slave	2
INSTALLATION OF THE W.M. OF DE THURLAND LODGE, SHEERNESS	3
RAILWAY CARRIAGES	3
VISIT OF ST. JOHN'S LODGE, GLASGOW, TO Ayr AND KILWINNING	3
THE BRETT TESTIMONIAL FUND	3
MASONIC MISCELLANEA	3
THE CRAFT—
Metropolitan	4
Provincial	4
Ireland	4 & 5
ORDERS OF CHIVALRY—
Red Cross—Metropolitan	5
BIRTHS, MARRIAGES AND DEATHS	6
LIGHT	6
PRESENTATION TO BRO. W. FARNFIELD	7
FUNERAL OF THE R.W. BRO. JENNINGS P.G.W.	7
CORRESPONDENCE—
Royal Masonic Institution for Girls	6
MULTUM IN PARVO, OR MASONIC NOTES AND QUERIES	7
THE ORDER OF ST. JOHN OF JERUSALEM	7
FUNERAL OF THE LATE BRO. JOHN SLAUGHTER	7
PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF WORCESTERSHIRE	8
LILY CHAPTER OF RICHMOND	8
ANNUAL COMMUNICATION OF GRAND LODGE OF NEW YORK	8, 9
MASONIC MEETINGS FOR NEXT WEEK	10
LIST OF AGENTS	10
ADVERTISEMENTS	10, 11 & 12

NOW READY,
Cases to hold 4 copies of "The Freemason," 1/6.
Cases to hold 52 copies of "The Freemason," 2/6.
With THE FREEMASON emblematically depicted, and other Masonic emblems in gold.
To be had at the Offices, 3 & 4, Little Britain.

ROYAL ARCH MASONRY.
BY THE SON OF SALATHIEL.
(Continued.)
[The rights of translation and reproduction reserved.]
We have selected such portion of Savary's account as appeared most calculated to elucidate this mysterious hieroglyphic. The preceding extracts abound with interesting information, and display a considerable degree of learning and research, but the principal object for which they were quoted, was to endeavour, if possible, to ascertain its true origin. A learned commentator states his opinion upon this point. We submit it to the judgment of our readers, whether the term Triple Tau, may not be derived from Thoth, Trismegistus, or Taut, three times great: and also, whether, in its primary signification, it does not more immediately refer to the infancy, progress, and perfection of human knowledge, to which subjects, the Egyptian symbol of the three Thoths or Tauts evidently allude. If assent be given to this theory, which (according to our judgment) appears plausible, then we arrive at the true derivation, which as we have before stated, originates from the Three Tauts or Mercuries, for as the Tau (as it is called), the Cross T or Crux Ansata, was among the Egyptians a symbol of Mercury, so the Triple Tau being a combination of three such crosses, evidently alludes to the Three Tauts, or to speak without the assistance of allegory, to the three periods of the infancy, progress, and perfection of human learning; we may suppose at least, that this was the meaning attached to it by the ancient Egyptians. This derivation does not alter its literal import as being the Symbol of Letters, nor does the circumstance of its being the symbol of the Three Tauts affect its name or sound as the Triple Tau which its form indicates, the letter Tau being of the same name and form in the Ethiopic, Coptic, and probably the Ancient Samaritan languages; so, that the propriety of calling it the Triple Tau, as being formed of three Tau's, or three T's, still cannot be questioned, especially as among the ancient Jews, the Tau was considered as a character peculiarly sacred, and which, as we shall presently see, was used by them upon several remarkable occasions.

It has been supposed, that this emblem alluded to the disgusting I hallic worship so prevalent in the heathen world, but as we find traces of its existence among the Jews, we cannot suppose that it bore such a signification with them; indeed, we have sufficient proofs of the contrary from various parts of their sacred writings. That its symbolic meaning, might have been degraded to such a purpose among the heathen nations, we do not deny, but we think sufficient evidence has been adduced to prove that in its original intention, it imported a far nobler meaning. We cannot for a moment suppose that the pure and Holy Being who is the only proper object of the worship of mankind, and who cannot look upon iniquity without abhorrence, would authorise such a mode of worship among his peculiar people. In order that our assertions may not remain unsupported by evidence we may quote a passage from the Scripture, with a comment from the pen of the learned Doctor Lowth, the father of Bishop Lowth, as further illustrative of this subject:—

"And the Lord said unto him, go through the midst of the city, through the midst of Jerusalem, and set a mark upon the foreheads of the men that sigh and that cry for all the abominations that be done in the midst thereof." (Ezekiel, ix, 4.) "Set a mark on their foreheads"—(compare Revelations, vii, 31.) The expression alludes to the custom of the eastern nations to mark their servants in the forehead. (See Grotius upon that place of the Revelation.) The vulgar Latin renders the words, "Mark with the letter Thau the foreheads," and it is very probable the ancient reading in the LXX, was rad enqueion, though the present copies read ra enqueion (see Huetius, Demonst. Evang. prop. 9.) It was the general opinion of the fathers that the ancient Samaritan letter, Thau, was made in the form of a cross; and St. Jerome (a very competent judge in this matter) does attest the same in his commentary on this place.

This opinion Scaliger rejects in his notes upon Eusebius's Chronicon, p. 109; but Bishop Walton defends it at large in his third Prologomenon, n. 36, and the dissertation upon the Ancient Hebrew Sicles, in his apparatus to the Polyglot Bible, p. 36. The Ethiopic letter Tawi or Tau, still retains the form of a cross; and the learned Ladoiphus supposes that the Ethiopic letters were borrowed from the Samaritans. The Coptic letter of that sound is in the same form. The modern antiquaries do all agree, that the Samaritan Thau was in the form of a Greek X. But whether their authority be sufficient to outweigh that of St. Jerome, must be left to the learned to judge. It is observable that the High Priest was anointed upon the forehead in the form of an X, as Selden assures us, Lib. ii., de Success. in Pontif. cap. 9.

The words of the learned Montfaucon (Paleograph. Græc. Lib. ii., cap. 3.) decide this controversy in favour of the Ancients. "In nummis Samaritanis, quæ in musæis occurrunt, Thau forma crucis exaratum frequentissime visitur: in quos si incidisset Scaliger, Origenis et Hieronymi testimonio refragatus non esset." He tells us, "That in several Samaritan coins, to be found in the collections of medals, the letter Thau is engraven in the form of a cross, which, if Scaliger had seen he would not have contradicted the testimony of Origen and Jerome upon the subject."

He then proceeds to show that it was used by various other nations of the Ancient World, among some of whom, having lost its original import, it was regarded in the light of a magical sign, or as a mysterious and powerful amulet, possessed of virtues calculated to protect them against the influence of evil spirits; and this erroneous and superstitious idea pervaded the minds of many of the early christians, particularly those of the Roman Catholic Communion, which belief might have given rise to the superstitious reverence of this symbol, especially as connected with the event of our Saviour's crucifixion. Had not this notion of it prevailed before the establishment of Christianity, it is probable that the cross, so far from being venerated as a sacred symbol, would have been held in detestation as the instrument of a most cruel and sanguinary punishment, and more particularly as it was unjustly inflicted on the Saviour of the World.

Having already proved that this emblem was known to the Egyptians and the Ancient Jews, we shall further demonstrate that traces of it are discoverable among the Brahmans of India for there was a mark used by the Brahmans nearly resembling the Tau, called the Tiluk, which was impressed on the foreheads of the Hindoo devotees before they entered their pagodas, or temples of religious worship. In regard to the Tiluk, Maurice in his learned work on Indian antiquities observes that, "it was the custom of very ancient date in Asia to mark their servants in the forehead. It is alluded to in Ezekiel, chap. 9., ver. 4, where the Almighty commands his Angel to go through the City, and set a mark on the foreheads of the men (his servants, the faithful), who sighed for the abominations committed in the midst thereof." The same idea again occurs in the Revelations, chap. 7, ver. 31, 'hurt not the earth, neither the sea, nor the trees, till we have sealed the servants of our God' in their foreheads. We have no doubt that originally this was the mark of the Hermetic Cross, that celebrated symbol in all the Gentile world. Bishop Lowth in his commentary on the passage before cited in Ezekiel, observes that it originally stood in the Septuagint version, not το σημειον, a mark, but ταυ σημειον, the mark Tau, or great T."

Now, from the similarity of the Tiluk (in form and use) to the Tau, may we not conclude that they originally bore the same signification, which if granted, sufficiently proves the existence of this celebrated symbol in India.

This subject may be further illustrated by a reference to a discovery of certain very ancient Cinerary vases, made by two gentlemen of Albano (near Rome), viz., Signors Tomassetti, and Carnevali, on the 28th of January, 1817, which has brought to light a society possessed, apparently, of all the arts of ancient civilization, and existing before the arrival of Æneas in Italy; a society which was buried in the convulsion that changed the volcano of Albano into a lake.

By the discovery of these vases we are enabled to prove the existence of this hieroglyphic not only among the Aborigines of Italy, but from the similarity of the figures depicted on them to certain Runic characters, we are also able to trace its existence, even among the northern nations.

To be continued.

ANNUAL PIC-NIC OF THE DUNEARN LODGE, No. 400, BURNTISLAND.

This happy gathering came off with great eclat on Wednesday, the 16th inst., when a large number of Masons, Masons' wives, and Masons' hairns proceeded to the beautiful grounds of Otterstone estate, the seat of Captain Mowbray, every one with the determination of enjoying themselves, and for the time being to throw off the cares and trammels of business.

On reaching the entrance to the grounds the brethren were arranged in order of procession, the ladies and children bringing up the rear, and headed by the fine band of the 11th F. V. Artillery, were conducted through the gardens and grounds; after which they proceeded to the place pre-arranged for the picnic; a beautiful spot on the top of a hill, and through the trees with which it was surrounded could be seen glimpses of the swans, majestically skimming the smooth surface of the lake below, with Otterstone House in the back-ground.

After all had refreshed themselves to their hearts' content, dancing was commenced on the green, and was kept up with unabated vigour until the shades of evening warned the managing committee that it was time to give the word, "Home." Before leaving, the brethren marched to Otterstone House, when Bro. Hutchison, R.W.M., moved a cordial vote of thanks to Captain Mowbray for his kindness and liberality in allowing them the use of the grounds for the day. J. C. Mowbray, jun., Esq., of Otterstone, in reply, stated that in the absence of his father, nothing had given him more pleasure than receiving so happy a company, and he should be glad to see them back on a future occasion.

After three hearty cheers had been given for Mr. Mowbray and the Misses Mowbray, the cortege wended their way homewards, one and all delighted with their day's excursion. We would recommend all lodges to follow the example of the Lodge Dunearn, as such excursions not only tend to cement true friendship among the brethren, but it is some recompense to the ladies for the absence of their liege lords while engaged with the workings of the Craft.

PAPERS ON MASONRY.

By A. LEWIS.

XIII.—MASONRY AND THE SLAVE.

"And Noah awoke from his wine, and knew what his younger son had done unto him. And he said, Cursed be Canaan; a slave of slaves shall he be unto his brethren.—Genesis ix. 24, 25.

"For perhaps he therefore departed for a season, that thou shouldst receive him for ever; not now as a slave, but above a slave, a brother beloved.—Paul to Philemon 15, 16.

In the sacred volume of the Law, the distinction of colour is nowhere stated as an argument for enforced slavery or servitude. It is a creation of later customs, and subject to modifications of many kinds. That a distinction of colour was early observed, as men pushed their geographical researches further into the desert wastes of the globe, is evident from well-known texts, and it was found to be an invariable fact among men. The original effect of Noah's curse was designed, it is easy to be seen, to take effect on the children of Ham, in so far as that imperfect division of the human race can be at this distance of time understood. It was practically applied by early nations to all those having skins, capacities, and understandings more obscured than others.

No doubt the declaration that Canaan should be a slave was the ex-post facto construction placed by the conquering Beni-Israel upon their acts in Canaanitish countries. The negro, from his universally despised and naturally arrested capacity, was assigned in antiquity to the lowest and meanest of duties. He was not sought to be raised, as has been attempted, with doubtful success, in later times. It was reserved for the mistaken philanthropy of the benevolent Las Casas to entail upon humanity the bane of slavery as understood in modern times. The Ethiopian eunuch met by Philip was of great authority under his Queen. Candace, "having charge of all her treasures," and upon his baptism and admission into the young Christian faith all modern arguments for equality of race practically depend. We are not certain of the colour of the skin of Onesimus, but we are certain he was, emphatically, a slave.

The Greek language, so rich in expression and in the shades of meaning applied to words, makes a clear distinction between slaves obtained by conquest, and slaves slaveborn. It employs the very word for a born slave in the passage at the head of this paper, in contradistinction to the word used for conquered slaves. It is the word δοῦλος (doulos) a born slave, in opposition to ἀνδράποδον (andrapodon) a slave made in war and sold. A reference to the great standard lexicon of Liddell and Scott shows this at a glance. The word is universal in the New Testament (Colossians iv. 1, for instance), and although Paul calls himself the slave (doulos) of Christ Jesus, this is in a religious sense of self-abasement, common in that writer, to express his utter unworthiness. Hence, instead of adopting the version of the authorised translators, I have, to mark this fact, substituted the word "slave," for "servant" in my quotations.

The word "doulos," then, means a slave not born free, and hence, if in the important question which has recently forced itself into prominence in relation to the African Lodge, originally formed under Prince Hall, it becomes of paramount importance. I do not propose to consider the question in its political sense; in other Masonic respects it is of great moment to arrive at some decision as to whether the coloured Freemasons of the United States, Siberia, and elsewhere can claim rights other than those of clandestine Masons. Practically, the matter will settle itself by lapse of time. The children of negroes, mulattoes, creoles and others "free-born and of good report," and possessing the other qualifications required by the declaration, could by no absolute principle of justice be denied entrance into the Fraternity. In Masonry, the universal principle of brotherhood and relief, as it should do, knows nothing of colour. Were such a distinction known it would mar the beauty of the whole system, and to the free black Freemasonry cannot refuse to open its portals. The white possessing no education, is as much excluded as the slave, or the negro not absolutely free born.

It would be, however, as unwise to remove the necessary prohibition against the admission of slave-born persons of any colour, as it would to do away with the qualification of education. Nor can it be said that there is any great hardship or injustice on the broadest scale in this.

A person seized as prisoner of war, and sold into slavery, if free-born, would, on the recovery of his liberty, unquestionably have a right to participate in the privileges of Masonry, upon due ballot and initiation; but in the case of born slaves, the plea is invalid, both from the direct wording of the declaration, and from the fact that it is but a disqualification of an evanescent character as regards the slave in general. I wish it to be understood that I apply this universally, and not especially to the negro—what is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander. Should, indeed, the almost incredible historical phenomenon ensue of the reduction of a white race to slavery—not an absolute impossibility per se—then the argument would run that the enslaved individuals themselves, having been born free, might claim a right to be initiated, but not so their children born during their slave condition. The latter, even if they recovered their freedom, would not be eligible, although the right would revive in the immediate descendants of these last—or the grandchildren of the white population so enslaved.

In this I am not splitting hairs for the mere sake of drawing fine distinctions, but pointing out technicalities worthy of grave consideration.

Nor do I ground any of these remarks upon the arguments, felt by so many to be evidently true, that the negro is of a different race and descent, from the beginning of time, to the white and other varieties of man. Unless it be competent for the Masonic body to change the declaration—I am aware of the action of Grand Lodge in this, in 1847—I do not see how this can ever be obviated. I should hardly imagine that such a document, signed by a candidate before initiation, can be regarded as a landmark; however, that is a matter for Masonic jurists to decide. That the persons who have attained to the knowledge of Masonic secrets, by virtue of the warrants said to have been granted to Prince Hall and others, are practically Masons, no one can doubt, although they must technically be regarded as clandestine Masons. Whether the Emancipation Proclamation of President Lincoln, can, by any legal ingenuity, be so tortured as to admit of their being "healed," I know not, but, as in the case of the dying Scotch millionaire, who asked his spiritual adviser whether, if he left a thousand pounds to one kirk and a thousand pounds to another kirk it would aid him in his candidature for heaven, I should be tempted to reply, with the cautious Scottish minister, "I dinna ken; but its an exarparen' weel worth the tryin'."

While speaking of President Lincoln I should wish, en passant, to record an anecdote concerning that distinguished man, for the truth of which I can vouch, it having been related to me by President (and I believe, if negro Masonry be right, Bro.) Roberts, of Liberia, himself. On the visit of the latter to Washington during the war, for the purpose of obtaining from the United States Government permission to receive on board ship, at the sole cost of the Republic of Liberia, such "contrabands," as the fugitive slaves were technically called, as might choose to return to Africa, he had several interviews with the American President on the subject. All his endeavours, his offers to provide lands for the African emigrants in Liberia, were met by a sort of Republican non possumus. The President's reply was, in so many words, "We can't part with a man of them—they are the property of the state." But whether the arguments of that courteous and noble-spirited gentleman, President Roberts, had any further effect, I cannot say, the Emancipation Proclamation, however, made its appearance almost before President Roberts had time to reach Liverpool on his return.

That this somewhat vexed question should be set at rest is highly desirable, for I am sure a controversy in which the negroes, in my opinion and that of many others, have abstract right and justice on their side, should be sought to be terminated in a decorous and dignified manner by the Masonic authorities, and no doubt this wish animates their bosoms.

It is melancholy to see a section of the human race excluded from the benefits of a participation in Masonry by an hereditary wrong, which, however mitigated in its effects by benevolent treatment in the generality of instances, was a blot upon humanity in general, and, unfortunately, in a semi-barbarous age, received the support of Churchmen from motives of mistaken and shortsighted benevolence. It is impossible to consider that the transference of a cruelty from one section of the human family to another can be otherwise than a crying injustice, now, happily, terminated.

Therefore, while I consider that the limits of Noah's curse may be defined as applying solely to the Canaanitish tribes, and were construed into a Divine sanction for the conquest of the land afterwards to become the Holy land (and so it is argued by the excellent Jewish translator of the Old Testament, M. P. Cahew), I trust that Freemasons will now take to themselves the words of Paul to Philemon, "for ever; not now as a slave, but above a slave, a brother beloved."

CRYPTONYMUS.

INSTALLATION OF THE W. MASTER OF DE THURLAND LODGE, SHEERNESS.

On Thursday, 24th June last, (St. John's Day), the members of the De Thurland Lodge, 1089, assembled at the Wesley Chapel, Blue Town, Sheerness, under a dispensation from the Provincial Grand Master, Lord Holmesdale, M.P., for the purpose of installing the W.M.-elect for the ensuing year. The lodge was opened in due and ancient form at 2.30 p.m., by Bro. Layland, W.M., who informed the brethren that in consequence of severe family affliction, the respected D.P.G. Master, Bro. Dobson, was unable to attend, which was deeply regretted by the brethren.

The retiring W.M., (Bro. Layland), in a very eloquent manner informed the brethren he had a most pleasing duty to perform before vacating the chair of K.S., and that was to present Bro. Pannell, P.P.G.S., Sec., with a handsome jewel and gold pencil case, on behalf of the brethren of the lodge, in token of their appreciation of the exertions he had displayed for the benefit of the lodge.

Bro. PANNELL, in very suitable language, expressed his thanks to the brethren for the honour they had done him in recognising his efforts to do his duty as a Mason.

The W.M.-elect Bro. J. R. McDonald having, been duly presented, and having signified assent to strictly conform to the ancient landmarks, was duly installed by Bro. C. B. Shrubsole, in a very able and impressive manner. After the newly-installed Master had been duly greeted, he proceeded to appoint the following brethren as his officers:—Bro. West, S.W.; Hancock, J.W.; Shrubsole, P.M., Treas.; Pannell, Sec.; Smith, S.D.; Randall, J.D.; Rees, I.G.; Easto, Steward; Parsons, Tyler. The lodge was then closed in solemn form with prayer, when the brethren, to the number of 41, repaired to the lodge-room at the Fountain Hotel, to a sumptuous and elegantly laid-out banquet, provided with the usual tact of the worthy host, Bro. A. W. Howe.

Among the brethren were noticed several Provincial and W.M.s, viz., Bros. I. S. Keddel, P.M. 158, P.P.G.S.W., P.Z.; I. Townsend, P.M. 158, P.P.G.R., P.Z.; J. G. Green, P.M. 158, P.P.G.J.D., P.Z.; C. B. Shrubsole, P.M. 158, 1089, P.P.G.S. of W.Z.; A. Hodge, P.M. 158, P.P.G.S.D., P.H.; W. J. Blakey, P.M. 1174, P.P.G.J.D.; Sharp, P.M., P.P.G.D.C.; N. Norman, P.M. 913; E. Bates, P.M. 91, P.G. Sec.; S. Hughes, P.M. 158, N.; Jones, P.M. Ara Lodge 348 Irish Const., and P.P.G.S.D., of province of New Zealand; Fleaming, W.M. 158; W. Turtle, W.M. 184; E. Mackney, W.M. 299; A. Hall, J. Wootton, J. Nixon, and J. Finch, 158; J. Barnard and W. Bailey, 133; E. Lowman and R. Whitten, of Faucett Lodge, 661.

After ample justice had been done to the good things provided, and the cloth cleared, the P.G.S., Bro. Bates, in the absence of the D.P.G. Master, presided, and at once called upon the brethren to assist him in a toast which was never forgotten by Masons, viz., the Queen and the Craft, and informed the brethren, as His Royal Highness had intimated his intention of becoming an English Mason, he should include the name of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, which was enthusiastically responded to, as was also that of the Grand Master, the Earl of Zetland; the D.G.M., Earl de Grey and Ripon, and rest of Grand officers; the P.G.M., Lord Holmesdale, M.P.; the D.P.G.M., Bro. Dobson, and the rest of the D.P.G. Officers, past and present.

Bro. KEDDELL, P.P.G.S.W., replied in very affecting and appropriate words, deeply deploring the calamity that prevented their excellent D.P.G. Master being present, who, he assured the brethren was there in spirit if not in person. Bro. Keddel then proposed the health of the worthy Brother then presiding, Bro. Bates, P.G.S., which was received with all honours.

Bro. WATES replied in his usual eloquent style, giving the brethren good information on the prosperous and flourishing state of Masonry in the Province of Kent. Bro. Bates proposed the health of the Worshipful Master, and congratulated the brethren upon the selection they had made, as he felt assured from the very responsible Government appointment he held in the town, and his thorough business qualities and zeal for Masonry, he was satisfied he would fulfil the duties of the chair creditably to his lodge and to himself, and would hand down to his successor that which this day had been committed to his charge pure and unsullied.

The W.M., Bro. McDONALD, thanked the P.G.S., Bro. Bates, for the kind manner he had proposed his health, and also the brethren for the hearty and cordial manner they responded to the same. He assured the brethren the kind words emanating from the P.G. Secretary he scarcely thought he deserved. He admitted he had very great zeal for Masonry, and studied it much, and had persevered to attain the proud position of Worshipful Master. He felt the position that the brethren of his lodge had conferred upon him a great honor, not from simple vanity, but from the unanimous manner they had elected him their master, and hoped while the G.A.O.T.U. preserved to him health, to be able to perform the duties of the office efficiently, and trusted that at the termination of his year of office they would bear the same good feeling towards him as they had just expressed. He assured them he would do his utmost to deserve the good opinion of those friends he had found in Masonry.

The health of the P.M. of the lodge was next proposed, which was well responded to by Bro. LAYLAND, the I.P.M., as was also the healths of the Officers, by the S.W., Bro. West.

The meeting terminated at 9.30 p.m., and was expressed by numerous brethren to have been a truly happy Masonic gathering.

VISIT OF GLASGOW ST. JOHN'S LODGE TO AYR AND KILWINNING.

On Thursday, last week, the brethren of Glasgow St. John's Lodge, No. 3-bis celebrated the summer festival of their patron Saint by an excursion to the nursery of masonry in Scotland—Kilwinning—and to the land of Burns. It has become the custom of the members of St. John's thus to celebrate their Saint's day, and this year's trip was the seventh annual one.

By the first morning train for the West upwards of forty brethren left Glasgow. After breakfast the company broke up into small parties, some of whom visited the old Abbey and other objects of masonic and antiquarian interest; others went as far as the policies of Eglington Castle, where the annual games at bowls between the Eagleton Estate clubs was being played.

About noon they bade good-bye to the cell of St. Winning, and, accompanied by Bro. Wyllie, Secretary of Mother Kilwinning, proceeded to Ayr, where they made the King's Arms their rendezvous. The R.W.M. of St. John's, Bro. John Baird, architect, West Regent-street, Glasgow, is himself one of the "Merry lads of Ayr," and, under his direction, the party was divided into sections for the purpose of visiting the chief objects of interest in the town and neighbourhood. Bro. Baird having prepared a plan of the Fort as it existed prior to its being fenced and built upon, a large company was formed to visit it. Accompanied by Bro. M'Ilwraith they proceeded to the Citadel Stores, where they were made welcome by Captain Fullerton, to examine the portion of the wall there remaining entire. Here Bro. Baird showed upon the plan the position occupied by the stores on what was formerly the fosse guarding the works, and pointed out the Masons' marks upon the hewn stones of the wall. Through the kindness of Capt. Fullerton, the party were permitted to examine the locality minutely, and proceeded through his garden to the present entrance to the Fort. They then made a complete tour of it, noting the old entrance, the Sally-port towards the sea, powder magazine, old well, and battions and curtains where these remain. About an hour was spent with interest and pleasure in the examination of Old Noll's Work. Afterwards several of the members, accompanied by Bro. D. M. Lyon, Ayr, proceeded to the Old Churchyard, where curious antique headstones and quaint carvings formed the subject of interesting conversation. Others proceeded to Burns' Cottage and the Banks of the Doon, and there spent a couple of hours very pleasantly, the day being one of the finest we have had this season.

At five o'clock the brethren re-assembled at the King's Arms Hotel, where a substantial dinner awaited them. R.W.M. Br. Baird presided, supported by Br. Wyllie, Secretary, Mother Kilwinning; Bros. D. M. Lyon, one of the Stewards of the Grand Lodge; Lieut. Hunter, St. John's; and Bro. M'Ilwraith, St. John's Thornhill. Bro. Jas. M'Millan, S.W., officiated as Croupier, supported by Bros. Park, P.M.; Granger, St. Mary's, Patrick; Wagget, S.M.; and Samuels, Treasurer.—Ayrshire Express.

RAILWAY CARRIAGES.

The following letter appeared in the Times of Monday, June 28:—

(To the Editor.)

Sir,—Having acted as foreman of the jury empanelled to enquire into the lamentable accident that happened at Bickley to the late Mr. Jennings on Wednesday, I beg your permission, on public grounds, to state that the jury, at my suggestion, appended to their verdict the following observations:—

"1. The jury are of opinion that the construction of the carriage used on the London, Chatham, and Dover Railway, whereby an extra seat is gained in the width, is in the highest degree objectionable, as it involves a material reduction in the clear space of the upper step available for the foot of a passenger who is alighting.

"2. They suggest that the upper step should be a continuous one, running the whole length of the carriage, as the 'footboard' does, and that it should be of wood, not iron, as less slippery.

"3. That the coroner be requested to forward a copy of these observations to the manager of the London, Chatham, and Dover Railway, and to the Railway Department of the Board of Trade."

It was proved by the evidence that had there been a continuous upper step the body of our lamented friend could not have been jammed in between the wheel and the platform in the way it was, and he would probably have escaped with very serious injury.

As to the point raised in No. 1, we inspected informally a train of passenger carriages which happened to arrive, and we thoroughly satisfied ourselves that as the carriages are so unusually wide they overhang the step and reduce its available breadth to scarcely three inches. The insufficiency of this, and the consequent danger to alighting passengers, it needs not to point out.

The railway company were officially represented at the inquest, and their representative endeavoured to show that a continuous upper step would neither be practicable nor useful. The jury were, however, convinced of the very contrary.

Nothing that is calculated to conduce to the safety of railway travelling can be unworthy of notice in these travelling days, and I would strenuously urge railway managers to give more attention to this matter of access to carriages, and also to another matter, which, although it did not come directly before us to-day, pressing needs attention—the general absence from our railway carriages of a continuous handrail between door and door, and of a well-devised handle to catch hold of.

I remain, Sir, your obedient servant,

GEORGE F. CHAMBERS.

1, Cloisters, Temple, June 25.

Masonic Miscellanea.

THE BRETT TESTIMONIAL FUND. SECOND LIST OF SUBSCRIPTIONS.

Amount already subscribed ..	£	s.	d.
Bro. G. Powell (142) ..	75	10	6
" Merrick ..	0	2	0
" C. Wilcox (177) ..	0	10	6
" Grant ..	0	2	6
" Manton (177) ..	0	10	6
" Gilchrist ..	0	2	0
" Sprague ..	0	5	0
" Tattershall ..	0	2	6
" Anson (177) ..	0	10	6
" Tyler ..	0	2	6
" Coles ..	0	5	0
" McCullum ..	0	2	6
" Vinnal ..	0	5	0
" Griffin ..	0	10	6
" Swainston ..	0	10	6
" Coran, P.M. (199, Dover) ..	0	10	6
" Philpott ..	0	10	6
" Boyton, P.M. ..	0	2	6
" Elms ..	0	2	6
" Major Dickson, M.P. ..	0	10	6
" T. Fox ..	0	10	6
" W. J. Irons ..	0	5	0
" J. Harvey, P.M. ..	0	5	0
" A. Ayres, W.M. ..	0	5	0
" Wilson, S.D. ..	0	2	6
" Gardner, P.M. ..	0	2	6
" Fuhr ..	0	2	6
" T. Briggs ..	0	2	6
" E. W. Fry ..	0	2	6
" G. N. Chadwick ..	0	2	6
" J. Owen, W.M.-elect ..	0	2	6
" S. Usherwood ..	0	2	6
" W. J. Adcock ..	0	2	6
" Matthews ..	0	2	6
" Forster ..	0	2	6
" Marshall, J.W. ..	0	5	0
" Atherton ..	0	2	6
" Stilwell ..	0	2	6
" Perry ..	0	2	6
" Marley ..	0	2	6
" Little ..	0	2	6
" Cox, P.M. ..	0	2	6
" Thurlow ..	0	2	6
" Hall ..	0	2	6
" Treadwell (177) ..	0	5	0
" J. McKiernan ..	0	10	0
" Morley ..	0	2	6
" G. A. Taylor ..	0	10	6
" R. Gurney ..	0	5	0

£88 1 6

Brethren holding subscription cards for the above fund are requested to forward them either to Bro. H. G. Buss (Treasurer), 127, Offord-road, Islington, N., or to the Hon. Secretaries, Bros. R. W. Little, 7, Gilbert-road, Kennington, S.E., and R. Tanner, 18, North-street, Westminster, S.W.

Two forthcoming work by Bro. Wm. J. Hughan will contain:—1. An article on Masonic M.S.S., by Bro. Hughan. 2. A reprint of the Constitution of the Freemasons by the Grand Lodge of England, 1723, being the first edition (slightly abridged). 3. A fac-simile lithographic reprint of Coles' copper-plate edition of the Constitutions, 1728, from transfers from the original in Bro. Hughan's possession. Seventy copies only are to be printed for sale, at 10s. 6d. each, and 30 copies for presentation. The work will be dedicated, by permission, to the M.W.G.M., the Earl of Zetland. Subscriptions to be sent to the publisher, Bro. Wm. Lake, Truro, stating name in full and Masonic position.

Reports of Masonic Meetings.

THE CRAFT.

METROPOLITAN.

Florence Nightingale Lodge, No. 706.—The annual meeting of this Lodge was held on Friday, June 25th, at the Masonic Hall, William-street, Woolwich, to install Bro. Prescott, Senior Warden, who was unanimously elected at the last meeting to that distinguished office. Bro. M. P. Ward, Worshipful Master, opened the Lodge, assisted by P.M. Colonel Clerk, as I.P.M. The officers in attendance were Bro. Prescott, S.W., Bro. Toms, J.W., Bro. E. Denton, P.M. and Secretary, Bro. H. Fieling, S.D., Bro. Stanton, J.D., and Bro. L. Fieling as I.G. The minutes of the preceding Lodge were read and unanimously approved. The Lodge was opened in the 2nd degree, and Bro. Prescott, W.M.-elect, was presented to the Worshipful Master, to receive from him the benefit of installation. That part of the ceremony belonging to the second degree being ended, the Lodge was opened in the third degree, and the M.M.'s having retired, the Board of I.M.'s was formed, and Bro. Prescott was installed in the chair of K.S., according to ancient custom, and saluted in the presence of a goodly number of Past Masters. The visitors were also in strong force, as the W.M.'s of the other Woolwich Lodges were honoured with invitations to attend, which proves the admirable, good fraternal feeling that exists amongst the Lodges in this town; and there also were some distinguished London and Provincial brethren present. He then invested his I.P.M., and the Board was duly closed. The M.M.'s were then admitted, and the W.M. was proclaimed and saluted. The working tools were also explained, and the Lodge was resumed. The Fellow Crafts were then admitted, and the W.M. was again proclaimed, saluted, &c. The Lodge was resumed in the first degree, and the E.A.'s were admitted, and the W.M. was, for the third time, proclaimed, saluted, &c. The W.M. then proceeded to appoint the following brethren officers for the ensuing year, viz., Bro. Toms, S.W., H. Fieling, J.W., P.M. Ward, Treasurer, P.M. Denton, Secretary, Bro. Farnfield, S.D., Bro. Stanford, J.D., and Bro. L. Fieling as I.G. The officers being invested, and having the duties of their respective offices explained to them by the installing Master, they were inducted in their proper positions. The usual addresses to the Worshipful Master, Wardens, and the Lodge was then delivered by Bro. P.M. Ward in a very able and impressive manner, which closed the ceremony of installation. Bro. P.M. Ward was then presented with a very handsome P.M. Jewel, in token of the respect and esteem evinced towards him by the brethren, for the correct manner in which he performed his duty for the past year, which was received and acknowledged in very suitable terms. All Masonic business being ended, the Lodge was closed in due form. The brethren then adjourned to the Freemasons' Hotel and partook of an excellent banquet, provided by Bro. De Grey in his usual liberal manner. Amongst the visitors we noticed the W.M. of the Pattison Lodge, Bro. W. J. Palmer, Bro. P. M. Bickerstaff, Bro. May, S.W., and Bro. W. Graham, J.W. of the Nelson Lodge, 706, and several other Brothers. The cloth having been withdrawn, the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given, and the evening enlivened by some very excellent harmony from the brethren present.

Lodge Temperance in the East, No. 898.—The members of this lodge met at their elegant and convenient Masonic Hall, No. 6, Newby-place, Poplar, on Wednesday, when the W.M., Bro. James Cannon, well supported by Past Masters Finch and Devison, and his officers in a most able manner initiated Mr. B. Carter, and conferred the degree of F.C. on Bros. Newell and Waller. This very useful lodge, as usual, was attended by numerous visitors, amongst whom were Bros. Berkley (P.M. 641), Vesper (P.M. 95, 180, 181, 533 and 554), Fritchley (S.W. 245), Long (186), and Mert (831).

Cupper Lodge, No. 1076.—This excellent working lodge held its usual summer banquet at the Royal Hotel, North Woolwich, on Thursday last, under the able direction of the W. Master Bro. S. Watkins, supported by Bro. Bossiter, S. Warden; and Bro. Sisley, J. Warden; and nearly 100 of the members. The banquet was provided by Bro. W. Holland in a very excellent and liberal manner, for which he received the thanks of the brethren. The W. Master was also congratulated for the admirable way in which he discharged the duties of the table, showing his proficiency in that department, as well as in wielding the gavel in open lodge. The banquet being ended, the usual loyal and Masonic toasts, viz., the Queen, the Prince of Wales and Royal Family, the Earl of Zetland, were done honor to. Success to the Army, Navy and Volunteers was then given, and very ably responded to by Bro. Creagh for the Army, and by Bro. P. M. West for the Volunteers. The health of the W.M. was given, and responded to, in a very neat and appropriate speech, and the evening was spent in a very agreeable manner, enlivened by a selection of songs, &c., by professionals, the whole under the excellent direction of Bro. W. Holland.

PROVINCIAL.

Essex.—Lodge of True Friendship, No. 160.—The annual meeting of the Lodge of "True Friendship," No. 160, took place at the Lodge Room, Old Ship Hotel, Rochford, on the 24th June, when Bro. John Allen, jun., of Paglesham was duly installed as W.M. for the ensuing year, the ceremony being very ably and impressively performed by W. Bro. William Pissey, P.M. No. 160, Provincial J.G.W. of Essex. The W.M. appointed his officers as follows, Bro. D. B. Grout, S.W.; Bro. Robert Grout, J.W.; Bro. H. Wood, P.M. and P.P.G.O. re-elected Treasurer; Bro. George Burgess, P.M. and P.P.J.G.D. re-appointed Secretary; Bro. Edward Judd, S.D.; Bro. A. Lucking, J.D.; Bro. Thomas King, I.G. Amongst the visitors, in compliment to the W.M. and the good old Lodge, were several Past and Present Provincial Grand Officers and Past Masters. The Provincial Grand Officers present were the Right Worshipful D.P.G. Master, Bro. A. Meggy; W. Bro. William Pissey, P.M. No. 160, Prov. J.G.W.; W. Bro. J. Myers, P.M. No. 276, Provincial Grand Registrar; W. Bro. J. Burton, P.M. No. 278, Provincial Grand Treasurer; Bro. J. W. Carr, Provincial Grand Secretary; W. Bro. H. Rowley, P.M. No. 1000, Provincial S.G.D.; Bro. Dr. Nicholls and T. Smea, No. 276, Provincial Grand Stewards, and also the following Past Provincial Grand Officers, Past Masters, &c., were present:—W. Bro. Frederick Wood, P.M. No. 1000, P.P.S.G.W.; W. Bro. Frederick Green, P.M. Nos. 276 and 1024, P.P.S.G.W.; W. Bro. G. F. Browning, P.M. No. 160, P.P.J.G.W.; W. Bro. H. Wood, P.M. No. 160, P.P.G.O.; Bro. Rev. F. B. Shepherd, W.M. No. 276, P.P.G. Chaplain; W. Bro. George Burgess, P.M. 160, P.P.J.G.D.; W. Bro. William S. Pavitt, I.P.M. No. 160; W. Bro. Garrington, P.M.; W. Bro. Peter Richmond, P.M.; W. Bro. Jones, P.M.; Bro. English, S.D. No. 1000; Bro. Abbott, No. 1000; Bro. Andrews, of St. Peters, No. 1024. At the close of the business the brethren, thirty in number, sat down to an excellent dinner, provided by Bro. H. D. Brown, of the Old Ship, when the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were duly honoured, and after a few songs had been given the brethren separated, after enjoying a pleasant evening.

BEDFORDSHIRE.—Lodge of St. John the Baptist, No. 475.—This excellent working lodge met on Friday, the 25th June, at the Town Hall, Luton. Bro. E. O. Williams in the chair. The lodge being opened, and the minutes of the former meeting read and confirmed, a ballot was taken for the admission of Mr. H. Torrance, and on its being unanimous in his favour, he was duly initiated. Bro. the Rev. Henry Tite having answered the usual questions satisfactorily, was passed to the degree of a F.C., and Bro. R. Drew was raised to the sublime degree of a Master Mason, all the above ceremonies being excellently worked. Bro. John Cumberland was then presented to the lodge for the purpose of installation, and that ceremony was beautifully rendered in a solemn and imposing manner, by Bro. F. Gotto (P.P.S.W. for Berks and Bucks.) He then invested his officers as follows: Bros. Scargill, S.W.; Cawdell, J.W.; E. F. Green, S.D.; J. Cotchiu, J.D.; I. W. Green, I.G.; F. B. Kelly, Sec.; E. O. Williams, Treas. It was then proposed, seconded, and carried unanimously, that a vote of thanks be given to Bro. F. Gotto, for the excellent manner he performed the ceremony of Installation, to the satisfaction of every Bro. and visitor present. The lodge was then closed in due form, and the brethren adjourned to the George Hotel, and there sat down to a very recherche banquet, the dinner and wines being of first-rate quality. After the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to, the W.M., in proposing the various toasts, showed the excellent selection they had made of one so well calculated to fill that office. The visitors were Bros. F. Gotto (P.M. 591, 948, 1087 and P.P.S.W. Berks and Bucks), C. Mortimer (Organist 948), C. Marriott (357), McCubbin (S.W. 948), King (948), Hadley (S.D. 948), J. Merrifield (1087), Roberts (J.W. 192). Some very excellent singing emanated from several brethren, and after spending an agreeable evening, the brethren returned to town at an early hour.

LEICESTER.—John of Gaunt Lodge, No. 523.—The brethren of this lodge assembled to celebrate their annual festival on St. John's Day, at the Freemasons' Hall, when, from the great esteem in which the W.M., elect (Bro. George Toller, jun.) is held by the members of both the local lodges, the attendance was very numerous. All the officers of the lodge, except the Chaplain (who is absent from the kingdom), and the Treasurer (who was absent from illness), were in their places, and the following P.M.'s were present, viz.: Bros. Kelly (D.P.G.M. and W.M. No. 279), Goodyer, (P.P.S.G.W.), Major Brewin, (P.P.S.G.W. and P.G. Treas.), Sheppard (P.P.G. Reg.), C. Johnson (P.M. 491 and P.P.S.G.W. Jersey),

Org., and A.M.; Duff, W.M. and P.G.J.D., the Rev. N. Haycroft, D.D., and many members. Among the visitors were Bros. Rev. Chas. J. E. Smith (S.W., No. 502, and Pro. G. Chap., Warwickshire), S. P. Ekin (No. 279 and P.G.D.C. of Northampton and Hants), H. Douglas (S.W. No. 1130 and P.G.D. of C.), and Weare (P.M. and P.P.G.D.), Pettifor (P.M. and P.P.S.G.W.), S. A. Clarke (P.M. and P.G.S.D.), C. Stretton (J.W. and P.P.G. Reg.), Ride, McAllister, Atwood, Palmer, J. W. Smith, and other members of No. 279. The lodge having been opened by the W.M., Bro. Duff, and the minutes of the last meeting, including the unanimous election of Bro. Toller as W.M., read and confirmed, a ballot was taken for Bro. the Rev. Nathaniel Haycroft, D.D., of the Universal Lodge, No. 181, as a joining member, and for the Rev. Heaton Edward Von Stürmer, and Mr. George Fletcher, as candidates for initiation, which was unanimous, in their favour. Bro. J.J. Millar, having passed a very satisfactory examination in the first degree retired, and the lodge having been opened in the second degree he was passed in Fellow Craft. The lodge was then resumed in the first degree, and the W.M., proceeded to initiate the Rev. H. E. Von Stürmer and Mr. M. Fletcher into our mysteries, after which the D.P.G.M., gave the lecture on the tracing board. The lodge was resumed in the second degree, and the W.M., commenced the ceremony of installing his successor in the chair of K.S., after which a lodge of M.M.'s and a Board of Installed Masters were successively opened, and Bro. Toller was duly installed in the presence of eight P.M.'s. On the return of the brethren the W.M. was duly proclaimed, and saluted in the several degrees. The ceremony being concluded, the newly-installed W.M., moved a vote of thanks to his predecessor, Bro. Duff, for his efficient services in the chair, which was seconded by the D.P.G.M., and carried unanimously. Thanks were also voted to Bro. W. B. Smith, P.P.J.G.W., for his services as Treasurer (to which office he was re-elected), and to Bro. G. B. Atkins, for the discharge of the onerous duties of Steward. The W.M. then appointed and invested the officers for the ensuing year, as follows:—Bro. A. M. Duff, P.M.; T. H. Buzzard, S.W.; W. Sculthorpe, J.W.; Rev. John Spittal, M.A., Chap.; Rev. N. Haycroft, D.D., S.D.; S. S. Partridge, J.D.; W. B. Smith, P.M., Treas.; F. J. Baines, Sec.; Chas. Johnson, P.M., Org.; G. B. Atkins, and A. Sargeant, Stewards; M. H. Lewin, I.G.; Chas. Bembridge, Tyler. A candidate having been proposed for admission at the next lodge, the brethren were called off for refreshment, and about 40 brethren sat down to the banquet. On the removal of the cloth, the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were duly honoured, those of the Rt. W.P.G.M., the Earl Howe, of the D.P.G.M., Bro. Kelly, and of the newly-installed W.M., being most warmly received. The D.P.G.M., in proposing the toast of "The Bishop of the diocese, and the ministers of religion of all denominations in the Province," (and which was responded to by the Revs. C. J. E. Smith, M.A., and N. Haycroft, D.D.) took occasion to announce the gratifying fact, that the new Bishop, (Dr. Magee), is a member of the Craft. During the evening some excellent songs were sung by Bros. C. Johnson, Atwood, Palmer, and others. The lodge was finally closed, and the brethren separated after a very pleasant reunion.

ASHBY-DE LA-ZOUCH.—Ferrers and Ivanhoe Lodge, No. 779.—The annual festival of this lodge took place on Tuesday, the 29th ult., the lodge being opened at the Town Hall, at 3 o'clock, by the W.M., the Rev. S. Pyemont, D.D., Prov. S.G.W., the following brethren also being present:—W. Kelly, D.P.G.M.; H. E. Smith, J.P., P.M., and P.P.J.G.W.; G. F. Brown, P.M., and P.P.J.G.W.; S. Love, P.M., and P.P.G.S.D.; E. F. Mammatt, S.W., and P.G. Reg., W.M. elect; Garner, Faulkner, Blood, Johnson, Canner, and other members of the lodge. Among the visitors were, Bros. J. C. Bindley and F. A. Jackson. (Abbey Lodge, 624); R. Warner, P.M. (Repose Lodge, 802); and Major Brewin, P.P.S.G.W.; Pettifor, P.P.S.G.W.; Stretton, P.P.G. Reg.; Duff, P.G.J.D.; Buzzard, P.G. Steward, and Atwood, of the Leicester Lodges. The lodge having been opened and some preliminary business transacted, Bro. E. F. Mammatt was presented for the benefit of installation, and the W.M. proceeded to address him according to usage, after which assent was given to the ancient charges, and the O.B. as regards the government of the lodge. After the lodge had been opened in the third degree, the D.P.G.M. assumed the gavel, and having declared a board of installed Masters duly constituted, he proceeded regularly to install Bro. Mammatt in the chair of the lodge, after which he was duly saluted by the P.M.'s present. The brethren having been called in, they were informed that the W.M. had been duly installed, and they were called upon to salute him; and the address to the W.M. was then delivered, and subsequently the ceremony was completed in the second and first degrees. The W.M. appointed the following as the officers, and invested them (with the exception of Bro. Earl Ferrers, who was prevented being present by illness):—Dr. Pyemont, I.P.M.

Earl Ferrers, S.W.; Garner, J.W.; Faulkner, S.D.; Blood, J.D.; Johanson, I.G.; Cannar, Tyler. In delivering the final charge at the conclusion of the proceedings, the D.P.G.M. expressed the great pleasure it afforded him, having ten years ago on the formation of the lodge, installed its first W.M. in the person of the late worthy and universally respected Bro. Mammatt, in attending on this occasion to assist in the installation of his (Bro. Mammatt's) son in the chair which his father had so ably filled, and of whom he felt no doubt the present W.M. would be a worthy successor. The lodge having been closed, the brethren adjourned to the banquet, at the Queen's Head Hotel, and which was served in Bro. Love's usual style of excellence.

KENT.—Malling Abbey Lodge, 1063.—Situating in one of the pleasantest parts of this delightful county, is Malling, a place of great historic interest, and rich in beautiful archaeological ruins, the most beautiful being the fine Old Abbey, the name of which was given to this lodge when consecrated, some four or five years since. On the 16th ult. we had the pleasure of being at the installation of Bro. J. Timins, as W.M. for the year, a brother who, although young in the Craft, yet is already widely known for his deep thought and research into the profoundly beautiful mysteries of Masonry, evidenced by his published "Expiations on Masonry," as originally given at this lodge. The installation was impressively performed by Bro. T. F. Nettingham, of Gravesend, P.G.S.W. At the banquet the Deputy Grand Master for Kent, Bro. W. F. Dobson, presided, supported by Rev. Bro. Hill, Provincial Grand Chaplain; W. Hodgson, Provincial Grand Chaplain for Oxfordshire; Bros. E. H. Hilder, P.G.S.W.; T. F. Nettingham, P.G.S.W.; Pottinger, P.M., Gravesend; White, P.G.S.W. for Hampshire; Mackney, W.M.; Harvey, P.M.; Moore, P.M. Dartford; Bros. Drs. Williams and White; Bros. Busbridge, P.G.A.S.; Page, P.G.J.D.; Tolput, P.G.S.D.; Newsome, of Westerham, and several other brethren. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to most warmly, and some excellent speeches were given, and the whole passed off in a manner that will always be pleasantly remembered.

IRELAND.

DEDICATION OF THE NEW MASONIC HALL IN LIMERICK.

LIMERICK.—Eden Lodge, No. 73.—St. John's Day was appropriately selected by the brethren of Eden Lodge, for the dedication of the splendid new Masonic Hall in Baker Place, near to the railway terminus, and immediately adjoining the Savings Bank. From the arrangements made by the local officers, versed in carrying out everything connected with the craft upon a scale of grandeur suited to the occasion in any emergency, and under all circumstances, the pageant of this day will stand as a record of their genius, and shed new laurels on their Order. From an early hour the ladies of the city commenced to congregate, and at eleven o'clock the body of the lower hall and upper gallery were conveniently filled, without overcrowding, by the élite of the city and county. The spacious hall was magnificently decorated for the occasion, the walls having been hung with flags of all nations, interspersed with Masonic emblems and appropriate inscriptions. The fine band of the 72nd Highlanders, by their musical performance, enhanced the general attractiveness of the scene. At noon the grand procession issued from the lodge-room, all the leading officers carrying the distinctive articles of their position, while the members generally were dressed in full Masonic costume. James Spaight, Esq., J.P., Deputy Provincial Grand Master, in the unavoidable absence of Lord Dunboyne, Provincial Grand Master of North Munster, was selected to carry out the dedication. Representatives from lodges 13, 201 and 333 were present; Cork, Ennis, Nenagh, Kilmish, Mallow, and Newcastle West contributed their quota; and the officers of the garrison united in the jete. The Tyler, with drawn sword, led the procession, followed by the Deacons, behind whom marched the members of the lodges two-and-two; next came the Wardens and Masters of all the lodges present, the Provincial Grand Deacons, Past Masters (with cornucopia), Past Masters (with cups and vases), Past Provincial Grand Officers, the Provincial Grand Secretary (with book of Constitution), the Master (carrying the Bible, accompanied by Stewards at each side), the Provincial Grand Chaplain (Rev. Mr. Fry, 201, Nenagh), District Chaplain (Rev. Mr. Maass, 13), Provincial Grand Treasurer, Provincial Grand Inner Guard, First Great Light, Junior Provincial Grand Warden and Column, Second Great Light, Deputy Provincial Grand Master, with Stewards on right and left; Second Tyler, with sword. When the procession, which had an imposing effect, reached the Provincial Grand Master's chair, in the East wing, the brethren opened to right and left, re-formed, and proceeded three times round the building, and returned again to the upper lodge-room, which is magnificently laid out. Here the three great lights were placed, and the Deputy Provincial Grand Master took the chair. The brethren took their places; corn, wine, and oil were placed on the altar;

the Bible was opened with square and compass, and laid on a pedestal; and upon another pedestal was laid the book of constitution. A suitable anthem was then sung, after which the lodge was tyed and opened in ample form, and, upon the application of the Worshipful Master of Lodge 73, the hall was dedicated with befitting ceremony to "Freemasonry." "Religion, virtue, and science;" also to "Universal Benevolence." The invocation by the Chaplain followed, and when the lodge broke up, the brethren numbering over two hundred, proceeded to partake of a sumptuous dejeuner, at which "The Health of the Queen," and other loyal toasts were drunk. To-night, the whole Masonic fraternity dine together in the new hall.—Belfast News Letter, June 25.

BELFAST.—Hiram's Lodge, No. 97.—The brethren of this Masonic Lodge met on Thursday evening, in the Lodge Rooms, Donegal Place Buildings, in order to celebrate the Festival of St. John. There was a good attendance of the brethren, and also a number of visitors present. The banquet, which was worthy the establishment of Bro. Fisher, who supplied it, having been partaken of, the usual after toasts were proposed and responded to with a felicity of expression rarely to be equalled. Bro. T. O. Simpson, W.M., occupied the chair, supported by Bros. Wm. Harper, P.M.; Wm. White, J.W., and H. Shaw; Bro. Kerr, the vice-chair, supported by Bros. J. McKenna, P.M., and H. McCartney. Although this was the first time of the W.M.'s presiding since installation, the several duties devolving on him were performed in a manner which elicited the encomiums of all the brethren present, and it convinced them that Bro. Simpson must have spared no pains to so thoroughly qualify himself for the distinguished position he had attained to. The list of toasts was given and responded to as follows:—"The Queen and the Craft," "The Three Grand Masters;" "The Health of our Royal Bro. the Prince of Wales," responded to by Bro. Nesbitt; "The Lord Lieutenant, and Prosperity to Ireland," responded to by Bro. William Harper; "Success to Masonry all over the World," responded to by Bro. Thomas Smyth (Waterford); "Prosperity to Lodge 97," proposed by Bro. Hunter Shaw, responded to by Bro. Freeman, P.M.; "The Press," responded to by Bro. Rainey; "The Health of the Worshipful Master, Bro. Simpson," was given in complimentary terms by the S.W., and received by the brethren with every manifestation of enthusiasm. Bro. Simpson, in responding, said he could not sufficiently thank them for the many marks of kindness received from the Lodge with which he was so long connected, and of which he now occupied the proud position of Worshipful Master. He had now been a Mason for upwards of twenty years, and he had never been able to look upon Masonry in the light of a mere frivolous or convivial institution. Besides being a benefit society of the highest order, it was an institution inculcating precepts the practice of which would make good citizens and good men. For himself, although he could not presume to be a good Mason, for that was equivalent to saying a good man, he would at least promise to endeavour to perform the duties of the office with which they had honored him, to the best of his humble abilities, and to emulate the brilliant examples he had set before him by those who preceded him in the honourable position of Worshipful Master of Lodge 97. "The health of the Senior P.M. present" was proposed by Bro. McKenna, and responded to by Bro. Freeman; "The Dinner Committee, Messrs. Nesbitt, Shaw, Ferguson, and Murphy," was acknowledged by Bro. Nesbitt. "All the poor and distressed Masons" was liberally responded to, and the Tyler's toast, given shortly after twelve o'clock, brought a most agreeable evening's enjoyment to a close. During the evening several of the brethren enlivened the proceedings with songs, readings, and recitations, Bro. Graham's recital of "Lord Ullin's Daughter" being highly appreciated.—Belfast Northern Whig, June 25.

BELFAST.—Union Lodge, 106.—The brethren of this lodge assembled on Thursday evening, June 24, in the Dining-rooms, Ulster Hall, to celebrate St. John's Day. There was a full attendance of the members, and several visiting brethren were present. The chair was occupied by Bro. Jas. Armstrong, W.M., and the vice-chair by Bro. Thos. Simpson, S.W. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were ably proposed and responded to, and the proceedings were enlivened at intervals by several songs and recitations, rendered in first-rate style, by Bros. W. McLarnon, P.M.; S. Williams, J.W.; J. B. Porter, J.D.; J. Lyons, and J. Sloane. The health of the W.M., having been proposed by Bro. Murphy, and enthusiastically received, Bro. Armstrong responded in a neat speech, in which he referred to the past career and future prospects of the lodge, and thanked the brethren for their kindness in exalting him to the position he then occupied. The dinner, which was supplied by Bros. Fry and Abery, of York-street, reflected great credit on their skill and enterprise. After spending a pleasant evening the brethren separated at an early hour.—Belfast News Letter, June 26.

LISBURN.—Lodge 178.—The anniversary of St. John was celebrated with more than usual éclat on Thursday evening by the brethren of Lodge 178. The Craft, which is gaining ground everywhere, is at present represented much better in Lisburn than it has been for many years. The lodge having been opened and closed in due form, the brethren retired from labour to refreshment. The dinner was supplied by Mrs. Lennon, of the Hertford Arms Hotel, in a most creditable manner. The guests comprised nearly all the brethren of No. 63, Hillsborough, together with Bros. J. D. Barbour, Esq., J.P., the Fort; Thomas Wayte, Esq., Sprucefield; J. Milling, Esq., S.I., Lisburn, &c. The toasts of "The Queen and the Craft," "The Three Grand Masters of England, Ireland, and Scotland," "The Provincial Grand Master of North Down," "Freemasonry all over the Globe," &c., having been given by Bro. J. M'Bride, Worshipful Master, next came the toast of the evening, "The health and prosperity of the members of Lodge 66," coupled with their Worshipful Master, Bro. William Sands, who after thanking the brethren for their kind wishes and sumptuous entertainment, assured the brotherhood that nothing could be more conducive to the advancement of Freemasonry than such happy reunions as he had witnessed that evening. Next followed the health of the other visiting brethren, whose several responses signified their individual respect and esteem for the ancient and honourable order of Freemasonry. The anniversary was altogether a happy and joyous one.—Ibid, June 28.

Lodge 609.—The members of this Lodge met together yesterday evening, at four o'clock, at Mr. Samuel Weir's, Divis Street, where they partook of a sumptuous dinner, provided by Mrs. Weir. When the dinner was concluded, the usual toasts were given and responded to—P.M. Brother James M'Cracken in the chair. After enjoying themselves very pleasantly, they separated at an early hour.—Ibid, June 25th.

WEXFORD.—Lodge No. 935.—On Thursday week the brethren of this lodge assembled at their lodge-rooms, Ance-street, Wexford, according to ancient custom, at high noon, to celebrate the festival of St. John, and to instal their officers. The usual formula having been gone through, the meeting adjourned till six in the evening, when about forty of the members dined together. The suite of rooms, which have been recently fitted up for the brethren, presented a most beautiful appearance. The dinner, which was supplied by Mr. David Robinson, caterer to the lodge, was of excellent quality, and was served up in a manner which gave general satisfaction. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts having been proposed and responded to, a beautiful tea and coffee service was presented to Bro. Carroll in recognition of the zeal and efficiency with which for many years he has discharged the duties of the office. The brethren separated at an early hour, having passed a most agreeable evening—one characterised by that harmony and kindly feeling which usually prevail at the reunions of the brotherhood.

CASTLEBLAYNEY.—The Harmony Lodge.—Thursday being the festival of St. John, the members of the Harmony Lodge celebrated it in the customary manner. The brethren assembled in their lodge-room, in Bro. Byrne's Hotel, at an early hour in the evening, the chair being taken by the outgoing Worshipful Master, Bro. Jackson, the other officers present being Dr. Morton, S.W.; M. Edwards, J.W.; Whitbey, Secretary. The newly-elected officers were:—Dr. Morton, W.M.; Harry Brooke, S.W.; Lloyd, J.W.; John Hall, S.D.; Thomas Harrison, J.D.; S. Jackson, P.M.; J. Cooney, Secretary. The Master elect having been installed in due and ancient form, the customary honours were given, after which the brethren sat down to an excellent dinner. After the usual loyal and Masonic toasts, the Worshipful Master proposed "The health of Bro. Jackson," with all the honours. The toast was very warmly received, and acknowledged by Bro. Jackson. "The present Officers" was then given and replied to, and various toasts followed. [The members of the Newbliss, Monaghan, and Clones Lodges also appropriately celebrated this leading Masonic festival.] Belfast Northern Whig, 28th June.

ORDERS OF CHIVALRY.

RED CROSS OF ROME AND CONSTANTINE.

Roman Eagle Conclave, No. 6.—An assembly of this conclave was held at Anderson's Hotel, Fleet-street, on Saturday, the 26th of June. Sir Knt. H. C. Levander, M.A., M.P.S., presided, and was supported by Sir Knts. C. H. Rogers Harrison, M.D., S.G.; Rev. W. B. Church, M.A., J.G.; J. Read, H.P.; W. F. N. Quilty, P. Sov. and Treas.; A. A. Pendlebury, Recorder; W. H. Hubbard, R. W. Little, A. Perrot, W. Hurlstone, Haigh, Tyler, Weaver, and Adams. Bro. Charles J. Morgan, of the City of London Lodge, No. 901, was duly installed a Knight of the Order. The Auditor's report was read, and showed a balance in the Treasurer's hands of £13. The conclave was then closed, and the Sir Knights separated, there being no banquet upon this occasion.

Births, Marriages, and Deaths.

BIRTH.

WILSON.—On the 23rd ult., at Great Berkhamstead, the wife of Bro. W. Wilson (S.W. 504), of a son.

MARRIAGE.

TAVERNER—LEE.—On the 19th ultimo, at West Hackney Church, by the Rev. Thos. Holly, Captain T. G. Gardiner, son of the late W. F. Taverner, Esq., of Limerick, to Mary Rosina, daughter of Bro. Nelson Lee, of Shrubland-road, Dalston.

DEATH.

SLAUGHTER.—On the 19th ult., at Rochdale, Brother John Slaughter, P.M. Lodge of Harmony, No. 298, Companion of Unity, and K.T. Albert Encampment, aged 56 years.

NOTICE.

Owing to the rapidly-increasing circulation of
The Freemason,
its columns have now become valuable channels
to all who Advertise.

SCALE OF CHARGES FOR ADVERTISEMENTS IN "THE FREEMASON."

Per Column	£2 10 0
" Line, displayed	0 0 8
" Line of 8 words, not less than three lines	0 0 6
Situations wanted, per 8 words ...	0 0 3
Auction and Trade Advertisements, per line	0 0 5

P.O.O.'s on Chief Office, in favour of GEORGE KENNING.

The Freemason,

SATURDAY, JULY 3, 1869.

The Freemason is published on Saturday Mornings in time for the early trains.

The price of The Freemason is Twopence per week; quarterly subscription (including postage) 3s. 3d.

Annual Subscription, 12s. Subscriptions payable in advance.

All communications, letters, &c., to be addressed to the Editors, 3 & 4, Little Britain, E.C.

The Editor will pay careful attention to all MSS. entrusted to him, but cannot undertake to return them unless accompanied by postage stamps.

LIGHT.

WHEN the foes of Freemasonry desire to aim what they conceive to be a deadly blow at the institution, they aver that it is based upon the sidereal worship of the ancients. The materialism which this charge implies is, however, of so refined, so æsthetic a nature, that, while we are tempted to smile at such an inane accusation being made in the nineteenth century, we are unwilling to demolish the theory in its entirety. For, has not God Himself, the Eternal Architect of the Creation, evolved from the wondrous elements of nature the celestial and all pervading essence known as Light? Are not the stars the ministers of His heavenly will, and the sun a symbol of His supreme glory? The picture of man, untutored man, kneeling before what he considered the mirror of the Divine Presence, is not so humiliating to an enlightened mind as the spectacle of our modern idolaters, who sacrifice freedom, principle, ay, even thought itself, at the shrine of a mortal man like themselves. The fetters which bound the sun-worshipper of old were impalpable compared to the weight of superstition's chains. The pilgrim from afar can catch a glimpse of the grandeur of the temple which is denied to the blind man who grovels at its porch. But materialism is no part of the creed, or, we should say, the philosophy, of Freemasonry. The symbols of the Order are figurative of moral truths, and the light to which we aspire is the radiance of Him who is the Light of the Universe.

The morning star—to which we look for guidance and peace—is the hope of the whole human race; and the illumination with which we seek to encompass the earth is derived from wisdom, sanctified by religion, and sustained by truth.

Light, therefore, as an essential attribute of Divinity, is viewed with reverence and veneration by every thoughtful Mason.

But, it is urged by our opponents, this devotion of the brethren to light, or knowledge, is an abstraction—it has no real influence over their lives and actions—it is but a parody of the ancient Oriental watching the rising of the sun and rejoicing in his faintest rays. Verily, the tree shall be judged by its fruits, and, although our worthy ultramontane and sacerdotal friends ignore all virtues but their own, the world at large—the vox populi—can bear witness that the deeds of Freemasonry are consonant with its high designs, and coincident with its exalted principles.

In the path of the weary, the forlorn, the forsaken, Freemasonry scatters more than grains of corn; her hand is not merely the hand of decent charity—it holds on high the lamp of hope, and sheds upon all the radiance of fraternal love. Like the Indian tree, its branches, perpetually seeking mother earth, create a shade and a rest for the way-worn pilgrims of life. Knowledge is the light of the mind, and, therefore, Freemasons are the friends of every movement which has for its object the extension of education or the advancement of learning. The sciences are paths leading to the hill of intellectual power, where truth and wisdom sit enthroned, and man is the traveller who climbs, by slow degrees, the difficult though not inaccessible steep.

To aid his progress is the mission of Freemasonry, and so we find that the instruction of youth is not forgotten by the Craft. The existence of two noble institutions for children of both sexes is a proof that the importance of education is appreciated by the Freemasons of England, and it is also well known that Ireland is not far behind when her resources are considered.

Our brethren in France have, for several years, devoted themselves to the same sublime duty; and we may say that in many other parts of the world similar efforts are being made to introduce light and knowledge where darkness and ignorance prevail.

In this sense, then, we acknowledge that Freemasons are lovers of light, and rejoice in the splendour of doing good to their fellow-creatures.

FUNERAL OF THE RIGHT WORSHIP- FUL BRO. JENNINGS, P.G.W.

On Wednesday the remains of the much respected and lamented R.W. Bro. R. W. Jennings, P.G.W. and P.G.D.C., were conveyed to their last resting place in Norwood Cemetery.

The cortege consisting of a hearse and four, with three mourning coaches—conveying the eldest son and a grandson of the deceased, and other of his relatives and most intimate friends, including the V.W. Bro. Albert Woods, G.D.C.—left the family residence, at Bickley, at Twelve o'clock, and on arriving at the Cemetery the Vicar of Bickley, in an impressive manner performed the funeral service. At the grave we observed many friends who attended to mark their high esteem for departed worth.

Original Correspondence.

[The Editor is not responsible for the opinions expressed by Correspondents.]

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

(To the Editor of the Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER.—Referring to a letter addressed by me to you, and inserted in your number of the 29th of May, and having received a complaint from Mr. Gosden that he felt himself injured by such letter, I beg to say that I never had any ill-feeling against Mr. Gosden, and had no intention of doing him any injury whatever; indeed, I only considered him as manager of the Freemasons' Tavern Company Limited, and simply doing his best to make money for his employers. I however beg to say, that other tavern keepers and managers of companies, have had similar strictures made on their conduct, and have answered such charges in the most practical manner, either by a denial of the truth, or explanation; the Freemasons' Tavern Company might have adopted this course, if they thought proper. I have no doubt your paper will be open to any explanation, on their part.

I am, dear Sir and Brother, yours fraternally,

H. W. HEMSWORTH,

W.M. and Steward, Oak Lodge, No. 190.

June 29, 1869.

Mulum in Parbo, or Masonic Notes and Queries.

Bro. Yarker's History of the Jerusalem Encampment, Manchester.—In common with many Masonic students, I am delighted to hear that the Province of Lancashire (K.T.), has decided to print their transactions, together with the valuable history of the above Encampment, by Sir Kt. John Yarker. For a little extra expense, a copy of the work might be sent to every Encampment in England, and thus its merits would become generally known, and its information made of service for Knights Templar throughout the country. Sir Kt. R. Wood's excellent work on the Knights Templar, was I believe, issued thus, and the boon was duly and thankfully received by the members.—W. J. HUGHAN.

Bro. the Chevalier Ramsay, and the Chapter of Arras.—Is Bro. B. Rebold's authority respecting the Constitution of the Arras Chapter, April 15th 1767, M. Michael? I ask the question because a non-Masonic correspondent, some years ago, saw the Chevalier, whilst in London, personally, respecting this Charter, and I understood then that it was given to confirm their privileges as a Metropolitan Chapter. As Prince Charles was only constituted Chief of the High Grades in Britain in 1765, he could not have confirmed their privileges earlier, and the Chapter was possibly constituted at a time prior to the custom of granting charters. The Rose Croix jewel is identical with the standard used by James III., in 1715, when his General, Lord Mar, was G.M. of the Templars, as successor to Viscount Dundee, who wore the Grand Cross when he fell at Killiecrankie, in 1689. I should be glad to accept Bro. Hughan's views, did I not feel certain there are documents in existence (to which I have personally no access), to disprove them. I agree with Bro. Hughan so far as to think that the whole tale about Ramsay may be a fiction of the Moderns.—JOHN YARKER, Manchester.

There are few writers more qualified to speak authoritatively respecting the "high grades" than Bro. Yarker, yet I am constrained to believe that he is petting his favourite theory of the origin of the A. and A. rite, when he ignores the superior claims of the Templar and Red Cross degrees to the veneration of English Masons. There is something genuine, I readily admit, in the Rose Croix and Kadosh degrees, as illustrations of the York rite, but the system of 33 grades (?) is intolerable, obsolete, and absurd.—K. T.

ERRATA.—At page 7, of our last week's issue, in the third verse of "The Temple," for "triumph appear" read triumph appear; and for "glorious light" read glorious height; also, in second verse, for "on God surely" read on God's surely.

THE CHAIR DEGREE, ETC.—In THE FREEMASON of June 19th, third column of page 8, in reference to extant minutes of Aberdeen Lodge, for "from 1677" read "from 1670." This is important, as it alone proves the existence of the Aberdeen Lodge, No. 34, seven years before the Canongate Kilwinning No. 2 originated.—LEO.

PRESENTATION TO THE W. BRO. W. FARNFIELD, PAST ASSISTANT GRAND SECRETARY, BY THE CONSTITUTIONAL LODGE, No. 55.

The members of this lodge had their annual summer excursion on board the Marie Wood, the City Barge, on Wednesday last; the weather was everything that could be desired, and thereby the beauty of the scenery of the Thames between Kew and Twickenham, where the barge was anchored, was considerably enhanced, and under the auspices of the W.M., Bro. S. C. Hadley, a most enjoyable day was spent. There were present, Bros. R. P. Atkins, S.W.; G. Snow, J.W.; J. W. M. Dosell, Thos. Barford, J. Compton, J. Atherton, and W. Farnfield, P.M.'s; with Bro. Neville, Thompson, Stiles, and other brethren of the lodge, and the following visitors; E. H. Patten, P.G., and B.; F. Binckes, J. G. Chancellor, J. A. Farnfield, Roebuck, G. Painter, and others.

At the banquet, which was served in the saloon (under the direction of Mr. C. Ritter, of Hammer-smith), after the usual loyal toasts, the W.M., in the name of the brethren, presented to Bro. W. Farnfield, P.M., the respected Hon. Sec., a silver salver (weighing nearly 100 ounces), in testimony of their appreciation of his long services. The salver bore the following inscription:—

Presented to Bro. W. FARNFIELD, P.M., by the members of the Constitutional Lodge, 55, to mark their great regard and esteem for him, and for his unceasing attention to its interests as its Secretary for nearly forty years, June 23rd, 1869, S. C. HADLEY, W.M."

Bro. Farnfield's health was very enthusiastically received, and in responding he stated, that it was at the summer banquet of that lodge in the year 1830, that he first met Miss Moss, the daughter of the Master of the lodge, and in due time he married her, and now had a family of ten children, and he trusted that this banquet might have an equal blessing in store for their bachelor W.M. He concluded by thanking the brethren.

Other toasts followed ("The Visitors," responded to by Bro. E. H. Patten,) concluding with "The Ladies," to which Bro. J. A. Farnfield replied, and stated that had the brethren churlishly come to Twickenham to enjoy their summer banquet without the ladies' society, they doubtless would have had dull weather; as it was, even the sun had shown its bright face in response to the bright eyes and smiles of the ladies. He would not say more, but begged them at once to ascend to the deck in order to fully appreciate the ladies' society in the merry dance.

This proposition appearing to meet the favour of the brethren, an immediate adjournment was made, and dancing was carried on with unflagging vigour, to the delightful strains of the band of the Honourable Artillery Company, until the barge had returned, to Kew, where the party separated after three hearty cheers for the W.M., who by his energy and courtesy had so materially contributed to the day's enjoyment.

The annual meeting of the Grand Provincial Lodge of Kent will be held on Wednesday, July 14, at Brompton, Lord Holmesdale, Provincial Grand Master presiding. Lodge to open at half-past 12, procession to church at half-past 1, and banquet at 3.

PHILADELPHIA, on the 15th of June was given up to the Order of Masonic Knights Templar, who celebrated the 50th anniversary of the foundation of St. John's Commandery in that city. There was a procession of about 2,500 in regalia, there being commanderies present from all parts of the country, and there were appropriate addresses and other ceremonies at several of the large halls. The streets generally were a holyday aspect, little business being done.

THE SOVEREIGN, MILITARY AND RELIGIOUS ORDER OF ST. JOHN OF JERUSALEM, IN ANGLIA.

The Annual Chapter General of this venerable Order was held at the Chancery, 8, St. Martin's place, Trafalgar-square, on Thursday, the 24th June. The Knights assembled previously in the Savoy Chapel, kindly lent for the occasion by the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, and a solemn service was performed.

On referring to the annual report of the Secretary-General, the Chevalier Edmund A. H. Lechmere, Bart., M.P., we find that the ancient practice of commencing the proceedings on St. John's Day by a religious service, was happily revived in 1867, when the Rev. Chaplain, Thomas Hugo, preached in St. Martin's church. This year, as above-stated, the religious ceremonial took place in the Chapel Royal, Savoy, and a large number of Knights attended the service.

The preacher was the Rev. Chevalier J. Hell Cox, Chaplain to the Provincial Commandery of Worcestershire and Hereford, which is held at Rhydd Court, the seat of Sir E. A. H. Lechmere, Bart. The order of service was as follows:—

HYMN.

The great forerunner of the morn,
The herald of the Word is born;
And faithful hearts shall never fail,
With thanks and praise his light to hail. &c.

LITANY.

HYMN.
We praise our God to-day,
His constant mercy bless;
Whose love has helped us on our way,
And granted us success. &c.

SERMON.

The Rev. Chaplain selected as his text the 58th chapter of Isaiah, 10th and 12th verses, and preached extemporaneously a most eloquent sermon upon practical charity, illustrating his subject by learned references to the foundation of the Sovereign order of St. John upon a pious and charitable basis in days of old.

THE OFFERTORY.

Alms were then collected by the Almoners, and we are happy to say the sum received was large in amount, and afforded ample evidence of the charitable sentiments of the donors.

HYMN.

Holy offerings rich and rare,
Offerings of praise and prayer;
Purer life and purpose high,
Clasped hands and lifted eye,
Lowly acts of adoration,
To the God of our Salvation. &c.

THE BENEDICTION.

A devoutly - invoked blessing closed the religious ceremonial, and the Knights then proceeded to the Chancery of the Order, where the Chapter General was opened in solemn form, and the members afterwards, with the "Dames Chevalières," sat down to the Annual Festival of St. John the Baptist.

Believing that many of our readers would be interested in a detailed account of this distinguished Order, we directed our representative (who is a P.L. Commander K.T., and a Knight of the Red Cross of Constantine) to attend the service, and we are bound to acknowledge the great courtesy which he received from the Rev. Chaplain, the Chevalier Bell Cox, who afforded him every facility in his power. We regret being unable to do justice to the Chaplain's sermon, as it was delivered extempore, and our representative who attended is not a short-hand reporter.

The following are the Principal Officers of the Sixth or English Langue:—

THE CAPITULAR BAILIFFS.

Grand Prior of England: His Grace the Duke of Manchester, G.C.J.J.
Grand Prior of Ireland: The Count de Salis, G.C.J.J., K.C.H., K.R.E., &c.
Bailiff of Egle: The Right Honourable the Lord Leigh, G.C.J.J.

OFFICERS.

Preceptor of Torphichen in Scotland: The Right Honourable the Lord Torphichen, G.C.J.J.

President of the Chapter: Col. Burlton, G.C.J.J., C.B.

Chaplain-General: The Rev. W. Behndell L. Hawkins, K.C.J.J., M.A., F.R.S.

Chancellor and Archivist: Major-General St. George, Roy. Art., K.C.J.J., C.B.

Secretary-General: Sir Edmund A. H. Lechmere, Bart., K.J.J., M.P.

Receiver-General: Lieutenant-Colonel Whitworth Porter, Roy. Eng., K.C.J.J.

Registrar, Secretary, and Judge-of-Arms: Julius A. Pearson, K.J.J., F.S.A.

Genealogist and Librarian: The Rev. Thomas Hugo, M.A., F.S.A., Chaplain.

Almoner: Charles J. Burgess, K. of Grace.

THE CHAPTER.

The Grand-Prior, with the Bailiffs holding Office, the Offices of the Langue, and the following elected Members:—Colonel William Burlton, C.B. (President), Sir Edward Hoare, Bart., C. Pemberton Carter, John Furley, the Rev. W. Bentinck L. Hawkins, M.A., F.R.S., and H. B. Sheridan, W.P.

It will be seen that many of the above Eminent Knights are also members of the Masonic Order, and among others on the roll of Chevaliers; we may mention General Sir J. C. Pennefather, Major-General Ramsay, Lord Torphichen, Sir E. Hoare, Bart., Col. Sir J. E. Alexander, Sirs E. G. L. Perrott, Bart., Gen. C. R. O'Donnell, H. M. Vavasour, Bart., J. B. W. Manisell, Bart., and F. Shuckburgh, Bart.; Col. Le Conteur, Viscount of Jersey, H. Pownall, Chairman of Middlesex Sessions; Admiral Ramsay, H. B. Loch, C.B. The Rev. W. B. L. Hawkins is the Senior Chaplain (1865), R. L. De Peersall, Senior Knight of Justice (1849), and Col. O. A. McAlester, K.H. (1848), the Senior Knight of Grace. Mrs. Ramsay, the wife of Major-General Ramsay, is the Senior "Dame Chevalière" (1862), Lady Leigh, being the President of the Ladies' Chapter. There are also several honorary members (chiefly foreigners of high social position) in the various Grades.

The deceased members are also commemorated in the report. On this neocological roll are to be found the names of men never to be forgotten in story. Sir Home Popham, Sir Sidney Smith, of Acre, the Rev. Sir Robert Peat, by whose exertions the Order may be said to have been resuscitated in England; General Sir John M. Doyle, Dr. Maginn, Sir Lancelot Shadwell, Vice-Chancellor; Sir Jas. Burnes, F.R.S., Sir Alan MacNab, Sir Jas. Outram, Dr. Turnbull, of the State Paper Office, and many others scarcely less known to readers of history.

In our next week's issue we shall give extracts from the report, and also from an interesting work entitled, "Hospitalaria" written, we believe, by the late Sir R. Brown, Bart., (R.B.), then Secretary-General of the Order, in which the objects of this Ancient Chivalric Order are set forth at length.

FUNERAL OF THE LATE BRO. JOHN SLAUGHTER, P.M., 298.

On Friday the 25th of June, at the Heywood Cemetery, near Rochdale, a very interesting but solemn ceremony was performed by Bro. the Rev. John Leighton Figgins, P.P.G.C. of E. Lancashire, the occasion being the interment of the late Bro. Slaughter, a very worthy and highly-esteemed Past Master of the Lodge of Harmony, No. 298. He was also E. of the Unity Chapter, and 1st Expert of the Albert Encampment. The brethren met at the Masonic Rooms, Ann-street, Rochdale, and the arrangements for the interment were under the direction of two esteemed friends of the deceased, viz., Bros. W. H. Prince, P.M., and P.G.S.D. of E.L., and Wm. Ashworth, P.M. and Hon. Sec. of the said lodge.

The brethren having assembled at the lodge-room in obedience to the call of the W.M., Bro. James Holroyd, proceeded to the residence of the deceased brother's widow, where they were received by about 80 of deceased's work-people and a large circle of friends, who had assembled to do honour to the departed, and pay the last tribute of respect to one who had at all times been kind and generous towards those with whom he had to do.

The deceased Brother Slaughter, who had only been confined to his house three or four days, was a very honest and upright man, a good husband, a kind and indulgent father, and one much beloved. His loss is deeply lamented by all who knew him. He was 56 years of age.

THE ROYAL ARCH.

THE LILY CHAPTER OF RICHMOND,
No. 830.

A convocation of this excellent Chapter was held at the New Masonic Hall, recently built in connection with the Greyhound Hotel, Richmond, on Wednesday the 30th ult., E. Comp. Joshua Nunn, Grand Director of Ceremonies and P.Z., presided as M.E.Z., and was supported by Comps. I. Cockburn, P.Z. as H.; W. V. Cooper, J.; T. Carless, S.E.; H. G. Lake, P.Z.; T. Giles, Treas.; W. Mann, (Z. 186) P.S.; H. Johnson, G. T. Noyce, Porter, Fenner, Finch, Koch, Miller, Collett, Kennedy, &c., and by the following visitors, Comps. Wm. Ough, (G. Purst. of G. Lodge), P.Z. 749; Henry Potter, P.Z. 19; R. Wentworth Little, M.E.Z., 177, and P.Z., 975; H. Collinga, 507; W. Johnson, 749; T. Potter, 749; W. J. Crossfield, 715. The Chapter having been duly opened and the Companions admitted, the minutes were read, and the elections of the various officers for the ensuing year were then proceeded with, and resulted unanimously as follows: Comps. I. Nunn, P.Z. as M.E.Z.; W. V. Cooper, H.; T. Carless, J.; T. Giles, Treasurer; W. Mann, S.E.; W. Collett, S.N.; H. Johnson, P.S.; J. Gilbert, Janitor. Comps. H. Johnson, Finch, and Porter, were chosen as Auditors, and a P.Z.'s jewel was unanimously voted to Comp. T. Mason the retiring Z.

The chapter was then closed with the usual formalities and the companions adjourned to the new and spacious Dining Hall, which adjoins the Masonic Hall, where a banquet, garnished with all the delicacies of the season, and served in the truly regal style which distinguishes Comp. Noyce's hotel arrangements, awaited the members of the chapter and their visitors.

The cloth having been removed, Comp. Nunn, who presided, gave "The Queen and K.A. Masonry," and "The Grand Z., the Earl of Zetland," toasts which were received with all the honors.

Comp. COCKBURN, P.Z., then proposed the Earl de Grey and Ripon, Grand H., the Rev John Huyshe, Grand J., and the rest of the Grand Officers, observing that the duty had devolved upon him inasmuch as the presiding Z., Comp. Nunn, had recently been created a Grand Officer, and as this was his first appearance in the chapter since that event, he (Comp. Cockburn) was sure the Companions desired to render honor where honor was strictly due. He congratulated the Lily Chapter upon owning such a member as Comp. Nunn, who he trusted would live long to enjoy the high position to which he had attained.

The toast was drunk with great applause.

The Acting M.E.Z., in responding, acknowledged the assistance he had received throughout his Masonic career from the members of the various Lodges and Chapters with which he was connected, without which he should not have obtained the high positions to which the Earl of Zetland had been pleased to appoint him, and in conclusion Comp. Nunn expressed his readiness at all times to assist his brother Masons in any and every capacity in which he might be placed.

The "Health of the Visitors," was then given from the chair in felicitous language, and the toast was coupled with the name of Comp. R. Wentworth Little. The toast was exceedingly well received, and Comp. Little, in returning thanks, observed that, although the only actual First Principal present, he could not arrogate to himself the privilege of acknowledging, on the part of the visitors, the kind reception of the toast, but he was sure he might speak for all in testifying to the unbounded hospitality they had experienced. For himself he was never better pleased than to be amongst the "Companions of the Lily," the name itself was one of good omen, and as the lily was the acknowledged symbol of purity, so might its spotless hue be illustrated in the moral truth and purity of our lives and actions. Comp. Little concluded by offering his congratulations to the presiding M.E.Z. on his attainment of Grand Chapter honours, which were a fitting complement to those which Comp. Nunn had achieved in the Craft.

Comp. OUGH (Grand Pursuivant) said, after Comp. Little's remarks, he had little to say, but he must express his great gratification at the progress of the Lily Chapter, and he felt convinced that under such a M.E.Z. as Comp. Nunn, assisted by such efficient officers Comps. Cooper, Carless, and Mann, the Chapter would during the ensuing year even exceed its usual prosperity.

Comp. H. Potter, P.Z., followed in a humorous speech premising by pathetically lamenting that the wind had been taken out of his sails by the previous speakers, but evincing his determination to say a word or two of acknowledgement as a token of gratitude for the magnificent reception extended to the visitors.

The health of the M.E.Z. Comp. Mason, who was unavoidably absent, was then heartily given by the presiding officer, and most cordially received.

Comp. COCKBURN, P.Z. responded for the P.Z.'s, and observed that all the principals were most anxious to promote the welfare of the Chapter.

The health of the popular Treasurer, Comp. Giles, was the next toast, and was drunk with manifestations of approval, eliciting a handsome response from the worthy Companion.

Comps. COOPER and CARLESS, H. and J. elect returned thanks for the principal officers, and Comp. MANN, P.S., in reply to the eulogistic mention of his qualities, expressed his acknowledgments and promised his best endeavours for the future. The Janitor's toast concluded the most enjoyable meeting, which was agreeably diversified with songs by several Companions. All who wish a pleasant day's outing with the best of good cheer are reminded that the "Strawberry season" has set in with its usual severity, at Comp. Noyce's famous hostelry, the Greyhound, Richmond.

MARK MASONRY.

WINCHESTER.—Mark Masters' Lodge of Economy, No. 52.—A regular meeting of this lodge took place on Friday evening, June 24, when the following brethren were present:—Bros. Sheppard, W.M.; Warner, D.C., as S.W.; Oakstat, J.W.; Panton, as M.O.; Whale, S.O.; Wooldridge, as J.O.; Sherry, Sec., as S.D.; Lumsden, J.D.; Priddis, I.G.; Bishop, Doswell, and Pottle, Tyler; Bros. J. R. Stebbing, W.M. 63, Grand Treasurer, and Alfred Rolls, Sec., 63. The minutes of the last lodge were read and confirmed. None of the candidates for advancement being present, the brethren worked the ceremony, with the exception of the lecture, for the purpose of instruction, Bro. Bishop acting as candidate. The brethren then discussed the bye-laws, which were adopted, after one or two alterations were made, and ordered to be printed. The W.M., read an application he had received from the Grand Secretary, Bro. Binckes, asking for a Steward from this lodge as a representative at the first Charity Festival to be held in July in support of the Benevolent Fund appertaining to the Grand Lodge of Mark Masters. It was proposed by Bro. Sherry, and seconded by Bro. Whale, "That the W.M. Bro. Sheppard, be requested to act as Steward from this lodge at the said Festival, moderate expenses necessary to be borne by the lodge." This proposition was put to the brethren and carried unanimously. Bro. Sheppard having kindly assented thereto, solicited the brethren to support him individually on the occasion. The lodge was then closed in form with solemn prayer at 10 o'clock.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF FREE-MASONS OF WORCESTERSHIRE.

The annual meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Freemasons of Worcestershire was held in the Town-hall, Stourport, on Tuesday, the Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master, Albert Hudson Royds, Esq., and supported by a number of Provincial Grand Officers and Brethren.

The Provincial Grand Lodge having been opened at high noon in due form, and the usual ordinary preliminary business disposed of, the Provincial Grand Secretary, Bro. W. Bristow, P.P.S.G.W., read the report of the "Masonic Window Committee," which was to the effect that the Dean and Chapter of Worcester Cathedral had, since the last meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge, approved of the design submitted to them for the large window at the north end of the transept in Worcester Cathedral, proposed to be filled with stained glass at a cost of £550, by the Provincial Grand Lodge, which window would be ready to be fixed by the end of the present month, and if the Dean and Chapter approved, would be in its place in time for the approaching Musical Festival.

The Lodge expressed a strong desire that the window should be fixed before the ensuing Festival.

The R. W. Prov. G.M. appointed the following brethren provincial grand officers for the ensuing year, viz.:—Dep. Prov. G.M., Bro. J. Barber; Prov. S.G.W., Bro. W. Holland; Prov. J.G.W., Bro. B. Brooks; Prov. Grand Treasurer, Bro. W. Masfield; Prov. Grand Registrar, Bro. S. Baldwin; Prov. Grand Secretary, Bro. W. Bristow; Pro. Senior G. Deacon, Bro. A. T. Hancock; Prov. Junior G. Deacon, Bro. G. Baldwin; Prov. G. Supt. of Works, Bro. W. H. Westwood; Prov. G. Dir. of Ceremonies, Bro. F. Godson; Prov. Assistant ditto, Bro. L. H. Kendrick; Prov. G. Sword Bearer, Bro. A. J. Hancock; Prov. Grand Organist, Bro. T. Troman; Prov. Grand Pursuivant, Bro. F. Turner.

The P.G.M. then closed his Provincial Grand Lodge, and the brethren, to the number of about 100, walked in procession to the parish church of St. Michael, where an eloquent sermon was preached by Bro. the Rev. W. S. Newton, A.P.G.C.

After the service a collection was made for charitable purposes. The brethren re-formed in procession and walked to the Swan Hotel, where they partook of a banquet under the presidency of the R.W. Prov. Grand Master.

THE ANNUAL COMMUNICATION OF THE GRAND LODGE OF NEW YORK.

The most Worshipful Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons of the State of New York commenced its annual communication on Tuesday, the 1st June, at Apollo Hall, Broadway. Present M.W. James Gibson, of Salem, Grand Master; R.W. John H. Anthon, Deputy Grand Master, and all the Grand officers, and District Deputy Grand Masters.

After the Grand Lodge had been opened in due form the Grand Master's address was next in order. It is very lengthy, able, and full of interesting matter; a business document of great interest to the Craft at large, as the following brief summary of it will show:—

Brethren of the M.W. Grand Lodge of the State of New York.—In conformity with an ancient custom in our Israel, and ordained as a requirement by our Constitution, we have assembled in the eighty-sixth Annual Communication of this Grand Lodge, to consider of the past and provide for the future. Let us be reverently thankful to the Giver of all good, that we are enabled to assemble in peace, love, and unity, with none to molest us or make us afraid, and thus to open and hold our convocation, with public notice, in open day, without the previous consent, and without the fear of any power, potentate, or sovereignty whatever, foreign or domestic, temporal or spiritual. That though a Pope and a Cardinal, a Synod and a Presbytery, have alike cursed and anathematized us, "we still live," and that by our fruits shall we be finally judged; and not by these tribunals of the earth, earthy, but by the high and holy One that inhabiteth eternity, whose justice, though we may and ought to fear, is yet tempered with mercy, which is everlasting, and by his love, which never faileth. . . . First in importance, and among the first in time, of difficult questions presented to me for examination and decision, after the closing of the annual communication of the Grand Lodge, was that as to the policy to be pursued in granting dispensations for opening new lodges. No one who has carefully observed the signs of the present, indicating difficulties and dangers to the fraternity in the future, can have failed to be satisfied that the rapid multiplication of lodges is one of the greatest perils that Masonry, from its almost certain consequences, has to fear. It necessarily invites a great rush at the threshold, which the new lodge has neither the experience nor the nerve to resist. The knowledge they have not, for that is only obtained by age and observation; the nerve they rarely or never exercise, as they are compelled to meet large expenses necessarily arising from the opening of a new lodge, the construction or fitting up a hall, the procuring the insignia and the jewels, the payment of the Grand Lodge fee, and the thousand other items, often grossly extravagant, but thought to be necessary, to enable them to compete successfully with the established lodges in their vicinity. The new lodge is desirous of a large roll, of an elegant hall, of a full treasury, and is too forgetful that these good things, in themselves, may be obtained at the loss of the permanent welfare and prosperity of the craft. By the gratification of these desires they are prevented from exercising that just discrimination and careful scrutiny as to petitioners for the degrees, absolutely essential to the securing of suitable material for the Masonic temple, proposed to be constructed by the new lodge. The certain result is sure to follow, and the temple under construction is erected with rough stones, and put together with untempered mortar, the true work of Masonry lost sight of or neglected, and that temple which, had it been erected of good materials and in a proper manner, would have stood as an enduring monument of the faithful labors of its founders, is soon levelled with the dust of the earth, and the "place which once knew it shall know it no more for ever." There have already many such lodges been organized, worked in this manner, and they are struggling for life, or have died; enough to show plainly how dangerous is the path we have trodden; enough standing as gravestones of Masonry—monuments marking the sloughs into which the craft have fallen from the errors of the past. In addition to these considerations, there is no necessity for so many new lodges. One of the chief arguments urged to me, in many cases, for dispensation was, that those who applied had now to go over five or ten miles to reach their lodge. If new lodges are instituted in the rest of this jurisdiction, as thickly as proposed by many of the petitions I have received, we should have in the State over two thousand lodges. No such number, nor anything like it, can, with the slightest regard to the "true interests of the institution, be established. "In the days of prosperity let us consider." It is the day of danger, for it is not in numbers that our true strength lies, but in the principles of the fraternity, thoroughly learned, and faithfully practised by the brethren. Masonry cannot be brought to every man's door, for with lavishness follows satiety; and that which is obtained with ease, and got without cost or labor, is soon deemed of little value. Its cheapness makes it to be despised. . . . The invasions by lodges, in this State, of the territorial and material jurisdictions of each other, have been numerous. There is no subject on which the Grand Master has had more painful difficulty than that arising from the unlawful and, sometimes, shameful conduct of lodges in seizing any material within their reach, and making Masons, or called such after their hasty and ill-considered work is over, regardless alike of the material they are getting into their own temple, and that they are foisting on to other and sister jurisdictions, or on to the fraternity at large. The repression of this evil, and the necessary executive acts, in consequence of the commission of the offence, have required much time and labor, and, it is hoped, will prevent its frequency for the future. The landmark touching the physical qualifications required of a candidate in order to become a Mason, is so brief and explicit, and without either exception or circumlocution, that it would seem as though it could be readily understood and obeyed. By the Constitution, it is required, "that men, to be made Masons, must be at least twenty-one years of age, free born, of good report, hale and sound; not deformed or dismembered, and no woman—no eunuch." The ancient Gothic Constitution was equally plain, and required him "to be without blemish, and to have the full and proper use of his limbs." The strict rule of the Holy Law is not only a landmark, but in this jurisdiction has the additional sanction, as we have seen, of a constitutional enactment. It seems to be supposed, however, that it can be evaded by collusion, fraud, or judicial blindness, or disregarded with impunity, or dispensed with by vote of a lodge, or by the edict of the Grand Master. Holding the principles I have stated as the rule and guide to my official action on the question of the external physical qualifications of one seeking to be a Mason, and knowing nothing but the line of duty, and trying to do it myself, and holding all others in authority to the same strict rule, I have excluded or stopped the candidates, as soon as reported officially, being disqualified within the rule. . . . The question has been distinctly presented, whether a lodge could be compelled to contribute to the relief of a distressed brother. The duty imposed on a lodge is one of charity and love, and it would seem to be one that no superior authority could compel its performance, or prescribe the extent of the relief to be granted. There is a great error prevailing quite generally, that lodges of Free and Accepted Masons are in some respects beneficial societies, and partake of their duties. Now this is totally erroneous. Our lodges are not founded for life, or health, or accident insurance purposes, nor for giving relief or funeral benefits. If any one wishes to secure these objects, there are many excellent organizations to which he can resort and accomplish his object, and be certain of a fixed and determinate sum, without any regard to the will, or the pleasure, or the feeling of the society which he has joined. But lodges of Free and Accepted Masons are not of that kind, and do not give, or profess to give, any such privileges or benefits. Their fees for initiation, and their charges for dues, are not based on any calculation of the duration of health, or the liability to disease of the petitioner. These are wholly foreign to the objects of our Fraternity. If a lodge should, however, arbitrarily refuse to grant, or should in a miserly way dole or stint, relief to a worthy and distressed brother in good standing, it having abundant means to give relief without injury to itself, and without materially impairing its ability to comply with other calls on its resources, on complaint being made to the Grand Master or Grand Lodge, and such facts appearing, no doubt such a total refusal to use the talent intrusted to their keeping would be remedied; for if none other existed, there might be a repetition in fact of the ancient parable of the unfaithful steward to whom one talent was given, and who, instead of using it to spread light and relief on the earth by the increase thereof, went and digged in the earth and hid his lord's money. And when his lord came to reckon with him for the use he had made thereof, finding him unfaithful, he took the talent which he had, and entrusted it to others who had done faithfully. In determining, as I have, that the Grand Master cannot, except in the exercise of extreme power over a wholly recalcitrant or miserly lodge, compel the granting of relief to a distressed brother, I have no fear that our lodges will thereby feel themselves relieved from their full Masonic obligation towards brethren so situated. When we look over the record of their charitable work in Masonry, about which or of which they have never made proclamation or sounded any trumpet, and which, though noiseless has been efficient, we are reminded of what an ancient dramatist wrote of the good work of one in his own day, of whom he said—

"He showered his bounties on me like the Hours,
That, open-handed, sit upon the clouds
And press the liberality of Heaven
Down to the laps of thankless men."

The powers, duties and prerogatives of the W. Master of a lodge have been the subject of many appeals to the Grand Master for direction and control. In general, these officers have been cautioned that, by their high positions they ought to be above envy of any one, and to decide all questions with strict impartiality. To be, of all things, patient with the brethren, remembering that there are many things that try the temper and qualifications of the W. Master, but he must be ever mindful to be master of himself, or he can never govern others fairly and faithfully; that strife and contention must never be permitted in the lodge, and that, if attempted, it must be cut off, and he must rule absolute and inflexible Master of his lodge, so far as should be necessary to work the lodge without confusion, and to enforce a due observance of the general rules and regulations of Grand Lodge. It is one of the plainest duties of the W.M. not only to preach peace, but to ensure or compel it. If confusion arise, he may lawfully repress it, and must do so, using his entire Masonic power; ordering any brother to his seat, terminating debate, and, if necessary and order cannot otherwise be restored, peremptorily closing his lodge. The W.M. has great power in a lodge; and when wisely, temperately, and firmly exercised, it is productive of great good. I have seen it still a tempest; and I am sorry to say, when improperly exercised, I have known it to increase and intensify the storm. . . . In July last I received an official communication from the M.W. Grand Master of Free and Accepted Masons of Cuba, requesting my fraternal assistance to aid and relieve him in certain difficulties recited by him. On examining into the facts, as near as I could ascertain them, it appeared that in 1853 Cuba had two existing and legally constituted symbolic lodges, whose warrants were granted by the Grand Lodge of Spain.* In May, 1859, the Grand Lodge of South of Carolina granted a dispensation for a third symbolic lodge, located at Santiago, and called San Andrews, and in November 1859 this lodge was duly warranted by the Grand Lodge of South Carolina, and on the fifth December, 1859, representatives from these three lodges assembled and organized the Grand Lodge of Cuba. This Grand Lodge subsequently united with the Grand Lodge of Perfection, Ancient and Accepted Rite, of that island, and formed the Grand Orient of Colon, or Cuba. That body was recognized as a regularly organized and legitimate Grand Body in 1860, by this Grand Lodge, by the reception of Bro. Andreas Cassard, as its representative near this Grand East, and at various times since has received a like recognition, and so remains now. Before making any change of the existing state of affairs, I required further light in the matter, and so informed the G.M., and received his letter in return, stating that renewed efforts were making to continue the Grand Orient. Hearing nothing further from him, I presume the Grand Orient has been revived or still continues as before. On this subject I have received very great and valuable information, at much loss of time and trouble to him, from Bro. A. G. Goodall, of the city of New York, who has spared no pains to give me all the information in his power, as well on this subject as on all connected with the several Grand Bodies in South America, the islands adjacent to and in the Gulf of Mexico, and in England, in all of which countries he has been an extensive visitor. It being his intention to visit the continent of Europe soon, I expressed to him my desire to accredit him as special representative of this Grand East, near the Grand East of such Grand Bodies of the Fraternity with which we are in correspondence, as he should be able to visit during the ensuing year. He accepted the appointment, and letters of credence have been issued accordingly. . . . The relations of this Grand Body with our sister Grand Bodies in the United States and in foreign countries, are peaceful and harmonious, except with the Grand Orient of France and with Hamburg. The difficulty with the former will be presented hereafter, while that with the latter has been of so long standing as to have become chronic. It is only necessary to state that no change has taken place in the apparent views of those controlling that Grand Body, and there will be no change in the attitude taken by this Grand Lodge on the subject, as it was the result of a firm determination on the part of all the Grand Lodges in the United States, that no interference would be allowed with symbolic lodges here by Grand Bodies located in Europe. In February last I received official notice from the M.W. Grand Master of Masons in the State of Louisiana, of the unlawful and clandestine establishment within that jurisdiction, of lodges professing to act under the authority of a so-called Grand Council of the Ancient and Accepted Rite, claiming the authority to and actually making Masons, and conferring the three first degrees of Masonry; and further stating that said pretended Grand Council and the lodges thus established, had been recognized as lawfully established by the Grand Orient of France, and furnishing a copy of the decree of that Grand body to that effect. (On examining the case in the most searching manner, and ascertaining the facts to be as alleged, on the 27th of February, 1869, I addressed an official communication to Marshal Mellinet, Grand Master of that Grand Orient, couched in kind and fraternal, but firm and decisive language, protesting against the establishment of these bodies as unlawful and for purposes foreign to Masonry, and their recognition by the Grand Orient as unfraternal, and certain to lead to the disruption of all friendly relations between that Grand Body and this, and also all the other Grand Lodges in the United States. That our Grand Lodges would never consent that any organization whatever, whether lodge, council, or otherwise, shall be organized within the jurisdiction of an existing Grand Lodge, except by its authority, for the purpose of conferring those degrees, or any of them; and that on this question there was perfect and absolute unity in opinion, sentiment, and action. "The Grand Master was for this and other reasons, requested to withdraw the decree of recognition and inform me of his decision prior to the opening of this annual communication. As ample time as elapsed for the Grand Orient of France to have, at least, courteously acknowledged the communication, and informed me of the decision thereon, or requested delay, we must assume that it is not intended to notice it, or comply with the request. I would therefore recommend that this Grand Body take such action in the matter as shall demonstrate to that Grand Orient, that, though we love peace, and would preserve harmony with them, if we could, yet, that harmony, valuable as it is in itself, costs too much when it can only be secured or preserved by sacrificing the priceless honor and self-respect of this Grand Body, or the permanence and stability of the Craft, or a fundamental principle of the Fraternity. As all these must be sacrificed by a submission to this act of recognition, I counsel this Grand Body to take such an attitude of dignified and determined resistance, as will cause the withdrawal of the recognition. [The subsequent debate on this subject, with its result—the suspension of all intercourse between the Grand Lodge of New York and the Grand Orient of France—appeared in THE FREEMASON of last week.] . . . In closing this address, if any apology is necessary for its great length, it will be found in the magnitude of this jurisdiction, the great number of lodges and members within it, the multifarious and important nature of the questions presented for discussion and decision, and the necessity of submitting them, and in some cases the reasons on which the determination was made, to this Grand Body, in order, if found correct, they might be established as safe precedents for future action. Brethren, on entering on the performance of the duties of this distinguished position, I selected for my official seal the motto: Firm, Cautious, and Faithful, not only as a general guide to official action, but as assurance to the Craft of my intentions. If my brethren shall think that I have thus held the gavel and executed my duties, my labours will not have been in vain.

What Grand Lodge of Spain?—ED. FREEMASON.

The Grand Secretary reported that he had received during the year from the various sources 67,947.64dols., which he had paid into the hands of Grand Treasurer. Twenty-seven new lodges had received warrants, and eight dispensations, since last communication. The number of lodges which paid dues last year was 618; the number now on the roll is 635.

One hundred and ten lodges have incorporated their trustees, and five have special charters by the Legislature.

The report of the Hall and Asylum fund showed the receipts to have been 267,517dols. 44c. which was expended in purchases of property, etc., and there is a balance due the Grand Secretary of 68dols. 25c. Among the purchases made was the piece of land opposite Booth's Theatre for 340,000dols., and 4,000dols. for the lease.

The Grand Treasurer reported that his receipts were 72,388dols. 83c.; expenses, 67,469dols. 99c.; balance, 4,868dols. 84c.

On Wednesday, the Grand Lodge was called to labour at 10 a.m. by the Grand Master, who has, we are pleased to say, generally held his own gavel during the session; a very significant fact in view of the past.

R.W. Bro. Frederick W. Herring, Secretary of the New York Board of Relief then submitted his annual report, showing that the receipts of that body were 6,584dols. 68c.; expenditure, 6,106dols. 53c.; balance on hand, 478dols. 15c. Foreigners and Masons from other States had been relieved, the following receiving the most; New York receiving 1,170dols.; England, 394dols. 13c.; Ireland, 235dols. 50c.; Scotland, 378dols.; Germany, 208dols.; France, 120dols.; Holland, 136dols.

A beautiful and appropriate address was delivered by R.W. Bro. the Rev. Fred. C. Ewer, Grand Chaplain.

On Thursday morning, the order of the day being the election of Grand Officers, the M.W. John L. Lewis assumed the gavel in the Grand East.

The M.W. Isaac Phillips recommended the re-election of the M.W. Grand Master James Gibson, and that most worshipful brother was unanimously re-elected.

The R.W. John H. Anthon was re-elected Deputy Grand Master; and the following Grand Officers received the unanimous vote of the Grand Lodge for re-election, viz., Senior Grand Warden, R.W. Christopher G. Fox, of Buffalo; Junior Grand Warden, R.W. Edmund L. Judson, of Albany; Grand Treasurer, M.W. John W. Simons, of New York; Grand Secretary, R.W. James M. Austin, M. D.; Grand Chaplains, R.W. Rev. R. L. Schoonmaker, and R.W. Rev. Fred. C. Ewer; R.W. Rev. John B. Webster, of Palmyra (elected to fill vacancy occasioned by the death of the R.W. and Rev. Charles L. Platt, of Binghampton; Grand Pursuivant, W. Johnson Fountain, of New York; Grand Tyler, W. John Hoole (in place of the late Sewall Fisk).

For Grand Lecturer, four brethren were nominated, one of whom withdrew his name, and the election resulted in favour of the R.W. Brother George H. Raymond.

After several reports had been discussed and adopted, the installation of officers took place, the installing master being M.W. John L. Lewis. Previous to this, however, the Grand Master announced the following appointments, all of whom filled the offices last year:

Charles B. Foster, Grand Marshal; Cornelius Esselstyn, Grand Standard Bearer; R. H. Huntington, Grand Sword Bearer; John Boyd, Philip Merkie, Wm. Sinclair, and James M. Fuller, Grand Stewards; Cornelius A. Marvin, Senior Grand Deacon; Charles E. Young, Junior Grand Deacon.

Thus the staff remains as it stood during the past year, and we think the Grand Master has acted wisely in not making any change.

The Grand Officers were then installed in ample form, the Rev. and W. William Long, acting Grand Chaplain offering prayer before proceeding with the ceremonies.—Abridged from the New York Dispatch of June 6.

THE SHEERNESS PUBLIC ROOMS COMPANY.

We have received the Prospectus of The Sheerness Public Rooms Company, Limited, in which the Directors invite subscriptions for a capital of £5,000 in 1,000 shares of £5 each, deposit 5s., allotment 15s. No call to exceed £1, and an interval of two months between calls. The Board is of a respectable local character. The chief features of the plan are:—A Restaurant, with every convenience for providing, on liberal terms, for the entertainment of large or small parties of visitors; a Billiard Room; Refreshment, Reading, Smoking, Conversation, Library, Retiring, and Waiting Rooms; fitted up with special regard to the comfort, freedom and convenience of the frequenters. Adjoining these will be a large Concert Hall, 100 feet by 50 feet, 35 feet in height, with gallery, stage, lobby, corridors, waiting, and cloak rooms, all on the most approved principles of construction, warming, and ventilating arrangements. The Victoria Hall will be, undoubtedly, the finest room in the County of Kent for Bazaars, Concerts, Balls, Promenades, Entertainments, and Assemblies of all kinds. The Building also includes a smaller Hall, to be used as a Masonic Lodge Room, to which Preparation and Ante-Rooms are attached.

METROPOLITAN MASONIC MEETINGS

For the Week ending July 10, 1869.

Monday, July 5.

Lodge No. 16, "Royal Alpha," St. James' Htl., Piccadilly.
" 25, "Robert Burns," Freemasons' Hall.
" 188, "Joppa," Albion Tavern, Aldersgate-street.
R.A. Chap. 28, "Old King's Arms," Freemasons' Tavern.

Tuesday, July 6.

Colonial Board, at Freemasons' Hall, at 8.
Audit Committee, Girls' School, at 2.30.
Lodge No. 167, "St. John's," Holly Bush Tav., Hampstead.
R.A. Chap. 169, "Temperance," White Swan Tav., Deptford.
Metropolitan Chapter of Instruction, George Hotel, Aldermanbury at 6; Comp. Brett, Preceptor.
Domestic Lodge of Instruction, Palmerston Tavern, Grosvenor-park, Camberwell, at 7.30.
Joppa Lodge of Instruction, Rose and Crown, Bishopsgate-street.

Wednesday, July 7.

Lodge No. 10, "Westminster and Keystone," Freemasons Hall.
" 217, "Stability," George Hotel, Aldermanbury.
" 1044, "New Wandsworth," New Wandsworth.
" 1216, "Macdonald," Head Quarters 1st S.R.V., Brunswick road, Camberwell.
R.A. Chap. 758, "Prince Frederick William," Knights of St. John Hotel, Queen's-terrace, St. John's Wood.
Mark Lodge, "Samson and Lion," No. 86, Freemasons' Tavern.

Thursday, July 8.

Quarterly Genl. Court Girl's School, Freemasons' Hall, at 12.
Lodge No. 1078, "Capper," Marine Hotel, Victoria Dock, West Ham.
" 1227, "Upton," Spotted Dog Tav., Upton, Essex.
R.A. Chap. 73, "Mount Lebanon," Bridge House Hotel, Southwark.
" 554, "Yarborough," Green Dragon, Stepney.

Friday, July 9.

[NIL]

Saturday, July 10.

Lodge No. 176, "Caveac," Radley's Hotel, Blackfriars.
Domestic Chapter of Instruction, Horns Tavern, Kennington, at 8; Comp. Little, P.Z., Preceptor.

Agents.

AMERICA: Bro. J. FLETCHER BRENNAN, 114, Main-street, Cincinnati, Ohio.
CANADA: Messrs. D'YRIE & SON, Ottawa.
CEYLON: Messrs. W. L. SKEENE & Co., Colombo.
CONSTANTINOPLE: Bro. J. L. HANLY Levant Times.
GALATA: ISACK KAHN, Perchembé Bazar.
PARIS: M. DECHEVAUX-DUMESNIL, Rue de Harlay-du-Palais, 20, near the Pont Neuf; Editor Le Franc-Macon.

And all Booksellers and Newsagents in Great Britain and Ireland.

Advertisements.

BRO. HIGMAN'S MASONIC BOUQUET,
GREATLY ADMTRED FOR ITS RICHNESS AND PERMANENCY OF FRAGRANCE.

Sold in Stopped Bottles, at 2s. 6d. each.

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

At the MASONIC DEPOT, 3 & 4, Little Britain, London

Bro. G. W. CHINNOCK,

Statuary and Cemetery Stone Mason,
93, FULHAM ROAD, S.W.

Misses E. & C. CHINNOCK,

Pianistes & Teachers of the Pianoforte.
93, FULHAM ROAD, S.W.

BRO. H. T. LAMB,

MANUFACTURER OF MASONIC JEWELS.

ST. JOHN SQUARE,

CLERKENWELL,

LONDON.

ILLUSTRATED PRICE LIST POST FREE ON APPLICATION.

ARMS, CRESTS, and MONOGRAMS.—
A MASONIC EMBLEMS Engraved on Seals, Dies, &c. Official Stamps designed and Engraved.—Bro. D. G. BERRI, Engraver to Her Majesty's Post Office, Stationery Office, &c., 36, High Holborn (opposite Chancery-lane), London, W.C.

BRO. ADLARD'S REGISTERED JEWEL ATTACHER. Price 7s. 6d. Universally adopted. Maker of the Improved Fitting Lodge Collars and Masonic Clothing. 225, High Holborn, London, W.C.

BRO. R. FLETCHER, Masonic Stationer. Masonic Emblems, Arms, Crests, Monograms, Addresses, &c., beautifully stamped on note papers and envelopes in Gold, Silver or Colours. Lodge Stationery correctly and carefully prepared. Jewels copied and Signet Rings engraved with minute care. The patronage of the Craft respectfully solicited by Bro. R. FLETCHER, Masonic Stationer, 10, Winsley-street, Oxford-street, London, W., opposite the Pantheon.

A STRINGENT TOOTH PASTE.—
HENRY NEWMAN'S "Astringent Tooth Paste," in Pots 1s. 6d. and 2s. 6d., to be had of all respectable Chemists. Wholesale Agents, Evans and Sons, Hanover-street; Raimes and Co., Hanover-street; Messrs Clay, Dodd and Case, St. Anne street; or of the Proprietor, HENRY NEWMAN, SURGEON-DENTIST, 5, SLATER STREET, LIVERPOOL.

NICOLL, HAIR CUTTER to H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, 40, GLASSHOUSE STREET, REGENT STREET. The Hair artistically Cut and Brushed by Machinery—Charge 6d. Shampooing with the celebrated Indian Reetha, and cold, tepid, and warm Distilled Water—Charge 6d. (including Brushing by Machinery).

NICOLL'S GOLDEN TINCTURE, for giving a brilliant Golden shade to Hair of any colour.—Sample Bottle, 8s. 6d.
NICOLL'S UNIVERSAL TOILET COMPANION.—It cleanses and beautifies the Hair, rendering it soft, glossy and elastic; it purifies the skin, eradicates dandruff; its use in the bath is most refreshing and invigorating.—1s.
NICOLL'S CELEBRATED SYRIAN LIQUID HAIR DYE.—Instantaneous.—In Cases, 8s. 6d.

Extract from the Weekly Times, May—
"Nicoll's Syrian Liquid Hair Dye may justly be termed the Wonder of the Age, being free from all unpleasant smell; and, acting instantaneously on the hair, must please and astonish those who have occasion to use it."

Extract from the Polytechnic Magazine:—
"It is with great pleasure we call the attention of our readers to the Hair Dye invented by Mr. G. Nicoll. Its great superiority over other dyes confers a boon on that portion of the community who require its use, which we ourselves acknowledge, and our improved looks will testify."

NICOLL'S TRICHONAPHRON removes the Scurf from the skin, prevents it turning grey, and imparts to the Hair a beautifully glossy appearance.—2s. 6d. per bottle.

Hair-cutting and Shampooing Saloons.
N.B.—Private Saloons for Ladies.

THE NEW MUSICAL PITCH.

COLLARD MOUTRIE has just invented, perfected, and secured by Royal Letters Patent, an important improvement in the manufacture of Pianofortes, by which the Pitch is raised to the Philharmonic or lowered to that of the French normal diapason in an instant, at the option of the performer. This invention can be applied to any Pianforte. The Profession, Amateurs, Musical Critics, Musical Public, and the Trade are invited to witness its utility and effect, between the hours of Eleven and Four, at the Manufactory, 77, Southampton-row, Russell-square. Established 1849.

THE AMERICAN FREEMASON

is Monthly, of sixteen double-column quarto pages of entirely original matter, and translations from the French Italian, and German Masonic papers and periodicals of the day. It is devoted to the discussion of the rights of Lodges and individual Freemasons, in contradistinction to the assumptions of Grand Lodges, and the un-Masonic doctrines and arrangements of "high degrees." Its motto is—Belief in the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man. Its price is Five Shillings a year—a sum so small that no Freemason, for pecuniary reasons, need be a non-subscriber to it. Trans-Atlantic Subscribers to the AMERICAN FREEMASON will receive it Post-paid from the Office of Publication direct, at their respective Post-offices, upon payment of the subscription to

BRO. GEORGE KENNING,

3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, LONDON, E.C.

All Subscriptions begin with March 15th, 1869, and end with February, 1870.

The AMERICAN FREEMASON is not the organ of any Grand Lodge; but speaking the words of truth, manhood, and independence, advocates freedom for Masonry in America, and the rights of Freemasons in their Lodges—rights which, by our Grand Lodges, in their subservency to high degrees, have been invaded, until at present they are nearly obliterated. Subscribers in the British Colonies will please address all Subscriptions and Correspondence to J. FLETCHER BRENNAN, Editor, 114, Main street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

VELOCIPEDES & BICICLES for either Sex.

Speed 30 miles per hour, hill-ascending, self-propelling and balancing. £100. Diagram, 6d.

Manufacturing Licences granted.

W. PIDDING, Esq., PATENTEE, 31, Kings-row, Walworth-road.

"Having drawn Mr. W. PIDDING'S Specification of Patent, I am able to certify that his improvements in Velocipedes (bicycles particularly) will render them self balancing, capable of ascending hilly ground, and that they would travel on a newly-made road without inconvenience to the rider, either in the way of jolting or in retarding of the great speed the improvements will secure. The travelling, in fact, would be as though on level ground."

(Signed) "J. G. WILSON, C.E."

"Belgrave-terrace, Peckham, S.E.; formerly of 18, St. George-street, Westminster."

"MR. W. PIDDING'S PATENT SELF-PROPELLING AND BALANCING VELOCIPEDES AND BICICLES.—Having seen the diagrams and perused a specification of Mr. Pidding's patent, we hesitate not for an instant to say that that gentleman will accomplish all he professes to do by means of his invention."—Sporting Opinion.

New Edition, in post 8vo, with about 80 Woodcuts, price 12s. 6d.

B. JAMES STEVENS (25, 720, 1216, &c.), Auctioneer and Surveyor, House and Estate Agent, &c., Clapham Common.—Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duties. Agent to the Imperial Fire & Life Insurance Office.

ESTABLISHED 1840.

BRO. W. H. WAGHORN Manufacturer of Regalia for all Societies. Masonic Aprons, Collars, Ribbons, Sashes, and every requisite for all degrees in Freemasonry always in Stock.

10, VINEGAR YARD, COVENT GARDEN, LONDON, W.C.

MONEY.—LOANS Granted from £100 to £2,000 at 5 per cent., repayable over Three Years, on Personal Security and Life Policy effected with the WEST OF ENGLAND INSURANCE CO., (Established 1807.)

Apply to the Superintendent or Agents, Bro. J. CROCKER, Gateshead-on-Tyne. Agents Wanted.

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.

Opiates, Narcotics, and Squills, are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary Diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.

SELECT TESTIMONIAL.

Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says:—"I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued Cough, Pain, and Irritation of the Chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."

This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold by all respectable Chemists and Patent Medicine Dealers, in bottles at 1s. 6d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each. Sold wholesale and retail by JAS. M. CROSBY, Chemist, Scarborough.

"* Invalids should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on 'Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels,' a copy of which can be obtained gratis on application."

MEMORIAL TO THE LATE DR. OLIVER.

THE Committee (consisting of the undersigned five Members of the Witham Lodge, Lincoln), formed for the purpose of collecting subscriptions towards a Memorial to the above distinguished Mason, being anxious to close their labours, will be glad if Brethren wishing to subscribe will intimate their intention at once to the Hon. Sec., Bro. W. G. MOORE, P.M., Witham Lodge, 297, Lincoln.

It is suggested that the Memorial shall take the form of a Scholarship in connection with one of the Masonic Schools, or such other form as may be determined upon by the Subscribers.

(Signed) RICHARD HALL, P.G.S.W. and P.P.G. Sec. Lincolnshire, P.M. 297.

JOHN NORTON, P.P.G.P. Lincolnshire, P.M. 297.

CHARLES HARRISON, P.P.G.D., Lincolnshire, P.M. 297.

WM. GEO. MOORE, P.M. 297.

GEO. BACON, Sec. 297.

Now Ready,

The Investors' Guardian Almanack For 1869.

THE object of this publication is to meet a want generally expressed to the proprietors of the Investors' Guardian newspaper for some Handy Book for Investors, published annually at a moderate rate, which, furnishing unquestioned and positive data from official documents, might enable small or larger capitalist to regulate his own investments by his own judgment grounded on certified facts.

THE INVESTORS' GUARDIAN ALMANACK,

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

supplies the fullest particulars relating to all Public Companies, with a correct classification of them as Investments—whether as regards their capital (nominal and actual), their liabilities and their assets, their incomes and their reserves, their bonuses and their dividends; together with their value as investments, and the return yielded to purchasers at present prices.

The would-be Investor will find in the Investors' Guardian ALMANACK every possible information relating to

1. The English Government Funds.
2. Colonial Government Securities.
3. Foreign Government Securities.
4. Railway Debenture Stocks.
5. Preference Railway Stocks.
6. Railway Ordinary Stocks.
7. Banks.
8. Insurance Companies.
9. Finance Companies—their present position and prospects.
10. Miscellaneous Companies—their relative position as investments.
11. An authorised List of Members of the London Stock Exchange.
12. List of Official Liquidators.
13. List of Companies in Liquidation.
14. Rules for Registration of Companies, and fees payable.
15. List of Officers and Offices of all Public Companies.
16. List of Private Banks in London and the Country, with Names of Partners.
17. An alphabetically-arranged List of the Directors in the Public Companies throughout Great Britain and Ireland, &c., &c.

A work of such magnitude, importance, and precision would not be within the power of any other firm than that of the Proprietors of the Investors' Guardian newspaper, through whose hands the official documents—from which it has been carefully eliminated—are daily passing, and to whom they are matters of constant reference.

Let the reader judge for himself the value of being able, on hearing the name of any Company mentioned, to turn at once, in this Almanack, to its name in the Alphabetical List and be informed of its Capital, its Shares, the amount subscribed and paid, their present value, the Dividend paid on them, the Reserve held back as guarantee, the Income accruing, its application, and its indebtedness. The information given as to Directors is of equal importance.

In matters such as these, not the Investor only but the Insurer is deeply interested, as will be found by a reference to the pages containing the account of all INSURANCE COMPANIES, and the Editorial remarks and advice appended thereto.

Price, free by Post, 1s. 6d., in limp cover; bound in stiff boards, 2s. 6d.

Published by J. Y. JACKSON, at the "INVESTORS' GUARDIAN" Office, 27, Change-alley, Lombard-street, London, E.C.

KENNING'S MASONIC DEPOT.

Price 2s., Post free.

FREEMASONS' CALENDAR and POCKET-BOOK for the Year 1869, with the Charge and Entered Apprentices' Song.

To be had at Bro. KENNING'S MASONIC DEPOT, Little Britain, London.

Tylers supplied.

Just Published,

Framing size, 20½ by 16. Price 5s.

ZETLAND (Earl of), Grand Master of Freemasons, in Masonic Costume.

Every Freemason should possess this exact likeness of their Grand Master. It is engraved on steel, in the best style, and deserves a place not only in every Lodge, but in the home of every Mason.

LONDON. WILLIAM TEGO, Pancras-lane, Cheapside; also Masonic Depot, 3 & 4, Little Britain, London.

MASONIC NOTE AND LETTER PAPER.

Sanctioned by The Most Worshipful The Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of England

IT is impressed with Masonic Die, and has also Masonic Emblems incorporated with its texture, as Water Marks, while being manufactured.

Sold, in Quarto and Octavo Packets of 5 Quires, Wholesale and Retail, at the MASONIC DEPOT, 3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, E.C.

Masonic Envelopes can also be obtained at the Depot.

MASONIC LODGE FURNITURE.

A Superior Complete Suite (second-hand) to be SOLD; a great bargain. Apply by letter to P.M., care of KEYSER & Co., Stationers, Friday Street, Cheapside.

JUST PUBLISHED.

THE GENERAL STATUTES of the Imperial, Ecclesiastical, and Military Order of the Red Cross of Rome and Constantine, and the Laws of the K.H.S.; with an Appendix and Engravings of the Jewels and Regalia, to which is added a Sketch of the History of the Red Cross Order.

Published under the authority of the Grand Council by R. WENTWORTH LITTLE, G. Recorder, and sold by G. KENNEDY, Little Britain, E.C.

12mo Cloth, Bound and Lettered, Price 1s. 6d.

Price Five Shillings.

LIFE OF CONSTANTINE,

BY EUSEBIUS.

Masonic Depot, 3 & 4, Little Britain.

SET OF OAK CHAIRS FOR CRAFT LODGE.

PRICE, £8 8s.

MASONIC DEPOT, 3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN.

To the Sporting World.

BELL'S LIFE IN LONDON

is now Published

Every WEDNESDAY and SATURDAY Morning.

Price 3d.; stamped 4d.

Office, 170, Strand, London, W.C.

The Cheapest Patent Geometrical Mosaic and Encaustic Tile Depot in London.

SMITHEMAN'S (For many years with Messrs.

Maw and Co.), 45, COLLEGE STREET, FULHAM ROAD, S.W., where Architects, Builders, and others, can be supplied on demand with every kind of Tiles for Pavements. Wall Decorations, &c., for Churches, Schools, Entrance Halls, and Conservatories. Experienced Fixers sent to all parts. Ornamental Flower Pots and Boxes supplied. Patterns, Special Designs, and Estimates forwarded on application. Country orders promptly attended to.

F. G. SMYRK,

Asphalte

Importer, Manufacturer, and Contractor,

BEGS most respectfully to call the attention of the Nobility, Gentry, Architects, &c., &c., to his well-known Asphaltes, which has been so successfully applied throughout the United Kingdom on the following works:—

ASYLUM FLOORS
BARN FLOORS
BARRACK FLOORS
COACH-HOUSES
COAL AND COKE STORES
CONSERVATORY FLOORS
COURT YARDS
COW SHEDS
CARRIAGE DRIVES
DOG KENNELS
DENS FOR ANIMALS
ENGINE HOUSES
FOOT PAVEMENTS
GARDEN WALKS
GOODS' SHEDS
GRANARIES
KITCHEN FLOORS
LAUNDRIES
LINING OF TANKS
MALT ROOMS

PASSAGES
PIGGERIES
PRISON CELLS
PUBLIC FOOTWAYS
PLAY GROUNDS
RAILWAY PLATFORMS
RACQUET COURTS
SCHOOL ROOMS
STABLES
SUSPENSION BRIDGES
TERRACES
TENNIS COURTS
TUN ROOM FLOORS
TAN YARDS
WAREHOUSE FLOORS
(for corn, cotton, hops, wool, seed, &c.)
WASHHOUSE FLOORS
WINE CELLARS

And all descriptions of work where it is desirable to prevent the rising of damp, or goods required to be kept perfectly dry.

Estimates given and works executed at home and abroad.

All applications for Prices, &c., to be made to the Office, No. 6, Guildhall Chambers, London, E.C.

TO THE NERVOUS & DEBILITATED EPILEPTIC SUFFERERS AND OTHERS.

HALL'S CHLORATE OF POTASSA, discovered, introduced, and extensively prescribed by the late eminent Dr. MARSHALL HALL, has proved an infallible remedy (by oxydizing the blood and supplying its saline constituent) for Indigestion, Debility, Coughs, Asthma Consumption, Skin, Liver, Stomach, and Nervous Affections, more especially Epilepsy, Apoplexy, and Paralysis. The successful results of this new chemical preparation are beyond all precedent, and the extraordinary cures effected by the late discoverer, and by his successor (Dr. Sutton), in the above maladies are without a parallel in the annals of medicine; and it is confidently believed that in no case need the sufferer despair, for practical experience has demonstrated, and signal success warranted the assertion, that in 99 cases out of every 100 complete cures may be relied on.

Sold in Bottles at 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and Cases of £5 each, by

DR. SUTTON, M.D., 15, REGENT SQUARE, LONDON, W.C., and in BOLTON by PRIESTLEY, Chemist.

The following are a few Testimonials published by privilege.

Sir Charles Locock, Physician-Accoucher to Her Majesty, stated at a meeting of the Royal Medical and Chirurgical Society, that in sixteen cases of Epilepsy he had effected permanent cures by the use of Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa.

"September 6, 1866.—The Editor of the Bury Gazette returns thanks to Dr. Hall for the great benefit he has received from his Chlorate of Potassa treatment in a severe nervous disease."

Sir J. Ferguson, King's College Hospital, London, says—"I have repeatedly prescribed Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa and found it an agreeable and beneficial remedy."

Extract from the Lancet, April 1, 1867—"In conclusion, we are of opinion that Hall's Chlorate of Potassa is a far superior remedy to the ones in general use for Nervousness, Indigestion, and Liver Complaints, when judiciously prescribed."

Sir Benjamin Brodie says—"What Chloride of Lime is to the foul sewer, Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa is to the blood."

Professor Syme says—"The effects of Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa in obstinate cases of disease are as astonishing as perplexing."

Dr. Leakester, the eminent coroner, says—"Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa is calculated to entirely supersede iron, mercury, arsenic, parilla, quinine, and cod liver oil."

Sir Philip Crampton says—"I believe there is no condition of the system that may not be benefited by Dr. Hall's Potassa."

Sir T. Lawrence says—"I have found Dr. Hall's Chlorate an excellent remedy in Skin Diseases. I presume it is by oxidation."

Sir T. Watson says—"I know that it is an invaluable remedy."

Sir Edward Brough, 9, Fitzwilliam-square, Dublin, certifies Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa has been of the greatest benefit to a member of his family.

The Earl of Clarendon certifies that Dr. Hall's Chlorate cured a case of indigestion of 15 years' duration.

DR. HALL'S CHLORATE OF POTASSA may be prepared by order through any Chemist. Ask for "Dr. Hall's Chlorate," and do not be imposed on with the common article.

It is sold in Bolton by Priestley, Chemist, 12, Deansgate; or it may be had direct from Dr. Hall's successor, Dr. JOHN SUTTON, M.D., 15, Regent square, London, W.C., who undertakes the positive cure of all chronic diseases before payment.

Dr. HALL'S Chlorate is sold in MANCHESTER by JAWBURY, Market-street; in LIVERPOOL by PRIESTLEY, Lord-street.

N.B.—Dr. Sutton will shortly repeat his Lecture on this subject.—The Lecture sent for two stamps.

DR. LEA'S CELEBRATED MEDICINES.

"The efficacy of Lea's Medicines is proverbial."

Daily Telegraph.

"Lea's preparations are excellent."—Morning Star.

LEA'S BENGAL ATRABILIUS PILLS.

Invaluable in all liver complaints, and as a Family Medicine (without Mercury). 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

LEA'S GOUT AND RHEUMATIC PILLS.

Will eradicate these disorders when every other remedy has failed, excellent also in Neuralgia, Lumbago, and Sciatica. 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

LEA'S CONSUMPTION SPECIFIC.

If persevered in, will seldom fail. 11s. and 22s.

LEA'S ASTHMATIC EMULSION.

Maintains its superiority for this complaint, Chronic, Cough, Bronchial affections, Colds, &c. 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

LEA'S WHOOPING-COUGH EMULSION.

A certain cure for this destructive complaint in a few days. 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

Prepared by G. LEA, M.D. Camberwell, Surrey.

LONDON AGENTS—BARCLAY, Farringdon-street; PAGE and TIBBS, 47, Blackfriars-road; and SUTTON, Bow Churchyard, &c. Advice free.

CONSUMPTION OF THE LUNGS.—

Dr. RAIT has discovered a CERTAIN CURE for this fatal malady. Advice gratis. Address W. RAIT, M.D., Peckham, Surrey.

CONSUMPTION is CURABLE.—

To CONSUMPTIVES.—A Clergyman, whose son has been miraculously cured of deep consumption, desires in gratitude, and for the benefit of the afflicted, to send full particulars of the remedies used in his son's case, so that all may participate in this providential discovery. Sent to any address free of charge.—Address the Secretary, 48, George street, Portman-square, London.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.

All diseases springing from bad blood, malarious districts, or over-heated atmosphere can be cured by these noble remedies. Fever, ague, influenza, bronchitis, diphtheria, stomach complaints, and bilious disorders are easily met and readily conquered by these unrivalled medicaments. Both act harmoniously in preserving the pure and best materials of the body, and in expelling all that is redundant, effete, or corrupt. Thus the cure is not slight and ephemeral, but complete and permanent, as thousands who have personally tested their power have gratefully testified. Invalids in all quarters of the globe, whose listlessness of mind and sallowness of complexion warned them and their friends of some undermining disease, have been thoroughly renovated by Holloway's remedies.

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

EVERY requisite in GENTLEMEN'S CLOTHING, SHIRTS, and HOSIERY, for home or abroad, supplied on demand or promptly made to order by

GANN, JONES & CO.,

Tailors, Shirtmakers, Hosiers, Glovers, Outfitters, and Manufacturers,

171, FENCHURCH STREET; & MANUFACTORY, 15 & 16, BLOMFIELD STREET, E.C.

The principles of business in the Retail Department are specially recommended to the Craft and others seeking the best market. The governing rule is to give good value for money, to sell cheap when cheapness is consistent with quality, and to make a reduction on the price of an article when a quantity is taken. From this system of business—first established in 1805—their Wholesale Trade has grown, and GANN, JONES & CO.'s Shirts and Clothing are fast finding favour with Merchants, Shippers, and the best Houses in Town and Country.

Wholesale Lists forwarded to Shippers and the Trade, and Retail Price Lists on application.

MASONIC DEPOT.

The Largest Stock in the United Kingdom of

Jewels,
Clothing,

Furniture,
Banners,

Books, &
Requisites

FOR ALL DEGREES IN FREEMASONRY.

3 and 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, LONDON, E.C.

PRICE LISTS ON APPLICATION.

NAVAL AND MILITARY WAREHOUSE.

Laces,
Embroidery,
Swords,

Belts,
Chacos,
Buttons,

Epaulettes,
Sashes,
&c. &c.

GEORGE KENNING, 3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, LONDON, E.C.

PRICE LISTS ON APPLICATION.

MONEY.

LOANS ON PERSONAL SECURITY, WITH
LIFE ASSURANCE,
AT FIVE PER CENT. PER ANNUM.

THE

WEST OF ENGLAND FIRE & LIFE OFFICE
(Instituted 1808)

GRANTS LOANS FOR A LIMITED NUMBER OF
YEARS ON THE ABOVE TERMS.

Chief Office—Exeter.

London—20, New Bridge Street.

By Appointment to the Queen.

Bookseller, Stationer, Newsagent, Printer, &c.

A MAGNIFICENT STOCK OF

MASONIC REQUIREMENTS

MAY BE SEEN AT

Bro. W. E. FRANKLIN'S,

42, MOSLEY ST., corner of ST. NICHOLAS SQUARE,
NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE,

Agent for "THE FREEMASON."

RICHARD MORLEY,
WHOLESALE CONFECTIONER,

Druggist and Spice Merchant,

IMPORTER OF ALL KINDS OF FOREIGN FRUITS,
29, Slater Street, Liverpool.

Manufacturer of all kinds of Hard Confectionery.

TESSELATED

CARPETING,

FOR

Lodges, Chapters, Encampments, &c.,

FOUR FEET WIDE, 5/ PER YARD,

OR

FOUR SHILLINGS PER SQUARE YARD,

MADE UP.

MASONIC DEPOT, LITTLE BRITAIN,
NEAR THE GENERAL POST OFFICE.

NEW SONG,

Price 3s.

THE RED CROSS SONG,

Words by R. W. LITTLE,
Music by H. PARKER.

Published by GEORGE KENNING, 3 & 4, Little Britain,
London.

Just Published. Price Half a Guinea.

MONOGRAMS,

HISTORICAL AND PRACTICAL,
D. G. BERRI,

Engraver to Her Majesty's Post Office, Stationery Office,
&c. &c.,

36, High Holborn, (opposite Chancery-lane),
LONDON, W.C.

BRO. BENJAMIN COOK,

Carpenter, Builder, and House Decorator,
SALISBURY COURT,

FLEET STREET, E.C.

Estimates for General Repairs.

BRO. JAMES B. SLY,

PRACTICAL

Heraldic Engraver to the Trade,

Of Gold, Silver, and Ivory.

DRAUGHTSMAN & DIE-SINKER,

9, Rathbone Place, London, W.

Book Plates Engraved; Gilt Pierced Mounts made for
Albums and Cigar Cases.

Designs made of Crests, Monograms, Ornaments, and Arms,
and every description of Shooting Prizes, Presentation Plate,
Watches, Watch Domes, Dressing Cases, Bag-sets, and
Ivory Brushes, Engraved with care, delicacy, and despatch.

TO STATIONERS.

JAS. B. SLY having in his employ several Die-sinkers, and from his practical knowledge of the same is enabled to give immediate attention to the cutting of Dies that are emergent.
Companies' Dies cut. Illuminating and Stamping in colours.

Sample Sheets of Monograms and Addresses forwarded on application.

BRO. REEVES, SON & CO.,

Steam Printers, Engravers & Lithographers.

WHOLESALE STATIONERS,

AND ACCOUNT BOOK MANUFACTURERS,

Playhouse Yard, Blackfriars, London, E.C.

Next the "Times" Publishing Office.

BRO. WOLPERT, W. M. 720,

PRINTER, STATIONER & ACCOUNT-BOOK MAKER,

7, St. Swithin's Lane, E.C.

Authorised Agent to receive Advertisements for THE
FREEMASON, and all the London and Country Newspapers.

For Cheap Watches, Clocks, Gold Chains, and
Jewelry, go to

KIBBLE'S

22, GRACECHURCH STREET,

One Door from Lombard Street, and

61, LUDGATE HILL,

Opposite the Old Bailey.

Gold Watches £2 15s.

Silver ditto £1 5s.

Timepieces from 9s. 6d.

EVERY ARTICLE WARRANTED.

Plate, Watches, and Jewelry, bought or exchanged.

List of Prices Post free.

BRO. J. G. MARSH,

ARCHITECT AND SURVEYOR,

159, Fenchurch Street, E.C.;

AND

642, Old Kent Road, S.E.

BRO. H. R. PRICE,

ARCHITECT AND SURVEYOR,
IMPERIAL CHAMBERS,

No. 1, Market Place, corner of St. Mary's-gate,
MANCHESTER.

Printed by Brother JAMES ADLEY REEVES and Son, Playhouse
Yard, Blackfriars, in the City of London; published by the Proprietor, Brother GEORGE KENNING, at his Offices,
3 and 4, Little Britain, in the City of London, and by the
NEWSPAPER'S PUBLISHING COMPANY, Limited, at their Offices,
147, Fleet-street, in the City of London aforesaid.—SATURDAY,
JULY 3, 1869.

THE FREEMASON

Grand Lodge Reports are published with the sanction of the Right Honorable the EARL of ZETLAND, K.T., Most Worshipful Grand Master of England.

VOL. 2, No. 18.]

SATURDAY, JULY 10, 1869.

REGISTERED FOR TRANSMISSION ABROAD. [PRICE 2D.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

	PAGE.
ROYAL ARCH MASONRY	13
OBITUARY—Bro. Alexander Watt Baxter	14
AMERICAN ANECDOTE	14
PAPERS ON MASONRY—
No. XIV.—Masonry and Display	14
Is KILWINNING THE BIRTHPLACE OF SCOTTISH MASONRY?	14
NEW MASONIC HALL AT SUNDERLAND	15
REVIEWS—
Account of St. John's Gate, Clerkenwell	15
TEMPERANCE CHAPTER, No. 196	15
THE CRAFT—Provincial and Ireland	16
THE ROYAL ARCH—Provincial	16
SUPREME CO. NCIL, NEW YORK	16
ECHOES FROM PORTUGAL	17
A SKETCH OF THE KNIGHTS TEMPLARS	17
POETRY—Love and Faith	17
MASONIC MISCELLANEA	17
LIST OF AGENTS	18
BIRTHS, MARRIAGES AND DEATHS	18
THE COFFEE ROOM AND LIBRARY AT FREEMASONS' HALL	18
MULTUM IN PARVO, OR MASONIC NOTES AND QUERIES	18
CONSECRATION OF NEW MASONIC HALL, GLASGOW	19
ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS	19
CORRESPONDENCE—
Masonic Mysteries	20
Solomon's Temple, &c.	20
Thistle Lodge, Glasgow	20
THE ORDER OF ST. MICHAEL AND ST. GEORGE	21
THE BRITISH DRUIDS AND PERSIAN MAGI	21
SINGULAR COINCIDENCE	22
MASONIC MEETINGS FOR NEXT WEEK	22
ADVERTISEMENTS	22, 23 & 24

NOW READY,

Cases to hold 4 copies of "The Freemason," 1/6.

Cases to hold 52 copies of "The Freemason," 2/6.

With THE FREEMASON emblematically depicted, and other Masonic emblems in gold.

To be had at the Offices, 3 & 4, Little Britain.

ROYAL ARCH MASONRY.

By THE SON OF SALATHIEL.

(Continued.)

[The rights of translation and reproduction reserve d.]

From Howell's Mythological Dictionary we learn that the figure of the Tau was used by the ancient Egyptians for other purposes than those already indicated, as the following quotation will demonstrate:—

"We have seen how the cross, as well entire as abridged, was the mark of the increase of the Nile, because it was the measure of it. When confined in the hand of Osiris, in the claws of the hawk, or the hand of Horus, it very plainly signified the overflowing of the Nile regulated by the sun, strengthened by the wind, and subject to fixed rules. This cross, in their vulgar writing, as likewise in the ancient Hebraic characters, in the Greek, and the Latin alphabet, was the letter Tau.

"That the cross or the T, suspended by a ring, was taken by the Egyptians for the deliverance from evil, we may assure ourselves by consulting their practices, which are the surest interpretation of the opinion that governed them.

"They hung it round the neck of their children, and of their sick people; they applied it to the string or fillets with which they wrapped up their mummies, where we still find it. What can in their ideas signify a T placed near those to whom they wished health and life, if not the deliverance from the disease and death, which they hoped to obtain by these superstitious practices?

"Hence, we see how strangely they misapplied those figures, which in their first institution related to the Nile, to husbandry, and to things totally foreign to the applications of succeeding times. This very probably is an introductory key wherewith one might strive to explain part of the meaning which the Egyptians of the later times have given to their sacred writing.

"This custom of the Egyptians appeared so beneficial and so important, that it was adopted by other nations. The children and the sick most commonly wore a ticket wherein was a T, which they looked upon as a powerful preservative. In process of time other characters were substituted in the room of the letter T, which was at first engraved on this ticket, but of which the other nations understood neither the meaning nor the intention. They often put a serpent in it, an Harpocrates, or the object of the devotions in vogue; nay, sometimes ridiculous figures, or even some that were of the utmost indecency. But the name of Amulet (Amolimentum malorum) that was given to this ticket, which signifies the removal of the evil, most naturally represents the intentions of the Egyptians, from whom this practice came.

"The above-mentioned practice, we have seen, arose from the instrument used for measuring the height of the inundation of the Nile, being an abridgement of it, and which was considered the salvation of Egypt. A like veneration is bestowed upon this figure, that is the cross, by Roman Catholics; which, like other customs of the ancients, has probably been adopted by them without understanding its origin, and which they attribute to a different source. A spell, which they no doubt consider more potent, however, is now generally used instead of the cross. This is called gospels, and consists of short passages extracted from the gospels by a priest, which is enclosed in a piece of silk, and tied round the necks of children going to bed.

"The same superstition prevails among the Mahometans.

"Dr. Hume, in Walpole's Memoirs, speaking of modern Egypt, says, 'The general remedy in cases of fever and other kinds of illness, is a saphic from a priest, which consists of some sentence from the Koran, written on a small piece of paper, and tied round the patient's neck. This, if the sick man recovers, he carefully preserves by keeping it constantly between his scull-caps, of which he generally wears two or three. Saphics are very commonly used by the Mohammedans, being considered to possess much efficacy for the body as well as the soul, and occupy the same place in the estimation of the superstitious as did the frontlets of the Jews, and the phylacteries of the early Christians.' Quoted in Russell's View of Egypt, p. 324, New York edition.

"In regard to the sacred writing of the Egyptians, it is not improbable that its characters were originally formed from the figure of the Nilometer, consisting of right angles, and thence considered sacred."

As the Nilometer was used to ascertain the height of the inundation of the river Nile, on which the subsistence of the inhabitants of Egypt depended, the Tau, which represented it, was considered a symbol of life, health, and prosperity, and was supposed to possess the power of averting evil, hence its use as an amulet or charm. Bailey states that the letter T (Tau) was used by captains and heralds, and signed after the names of those who remained alive after a battle; as the letter Theta (Θ) was used as a mark of death, so was T revered as a sign of life.

The veneration which is felt by English Royal Arch Masons for this celebrated hieroglyphic is, therefore, justified by its history and importance.

(To be continued.)

Obituary.

BRO. ALEXANDER WATT BAXTER.
M.M. 333, AND P.M. 419.

"What manner is there that liveth and shall not see death?"

It has pleased God to remove from this world and from all the present scene of things, one whom we have long regarded with much esteem and honour—Bro. Alexander Watt Baxter, M.M. of Lodge St. George, 333, and a Past-Master of Dunoon Argyll and of Lodge Neptune, 419. He died at Glasgow on the 20th of June last.

From the time of his joining the Craft he took a warm interest in its affairs. In the year 1862 he came prominently before the Scottish Craft, having been instrumental in the formation of the Lodge Neptune, No. 419 (perhaps the most successful lodge of the present time in Scotland), and was installed as the first Right Worshipful Master, to which high office he was elected thrice, and held it for three and a half years. He did not take the office only in name, but entered into it with heart and spirit, being fervently imbued with the principles of Free masonry, and his heart devoted to adoration of God, the supreme Architect, and good-will towards all mankind. He was never absent from the regular meetings of the lodge, nor on any occasion where his services were called for.

The remains of our lamented brother were interred at Southern Necropolis, Glasgow, on the 23rd of June, and the funeral was attended by about 300 people, including nearly 200 members of the Neptune Lodge, all in Masonic mourning costume. The large attendance of other friends was a manifestation of public respect.

Bro. Baxter was, indeed, esteemed by all who knew him, and day by day he gained on every one's affection. Seldom has Glasgow given to the grave a more worthy citizen, nor the Fraternity a more estimable brother. We mourn over the loss we have sustained, but it would be well also if we could follow the example set before us, with the same earnestness, the same diligence in everything good, the same amiability of character, and the same evident desire for the promotion of every worthy object. May we all take the lesson of his life and death to heart, and may his weeping friends be comforted when they think of the worth of the departed, and of the glorious hopes which surround his place of rest. Let us not forget our motto: "In God is all our trust," and let us rejoice in thinking of our brother as one who has gone to dwell in the glorious mansions which have been framed by the hand of the Great Architect of the Universe Himself.

AMERICAN ANECDOTE.

A Baptist minister, named Elijah Dodson, in the state of Illinois, has been excommunicated by his congregation because he belonged to a lodge of Freemasons. When called before the church to answer this imaginary crime, he proposed the following questions:—

1. Is a moral good a spiritual evil?
2. Is Masonry a sin?
3. If Masonry is a sin, wherein does it consist?
4. Why may I not pursue what course I please if it is lawful and an advantage to me, provided I do not sin?
5. When I have neither done nor intended harm, why should I be excluded?
6. How can you judge of that of which you know nothing?

His accusers could not extricate themselves from the difficulties involved in these questions; nevertheless the sentence of exclusion was pronounced. On this extraordinary proceeding the Delaware (Wilmington) Examiner, has the following pertinent remark:—"We will venture to say, that no man who is acquainted with the principles of Masonry will ever aver that they are inconsistent with the precepts of the gospel; and for men to undertake to condemn that of which they know nothing, and censure others for holding principles of which they are totally ignorant, argues the existence of feelings in their own minds which no one can envy or admire."

[The circumstance which gave rise to the above anecdote occurred in the autumn of 1825, and was published in the New York Evening Post.]

PAPERS ON MASONRY.

By A. LEWIS.

XIV.—MASONRY AND DISPLAY.

"Thus saith the Lord, against all mine evil neighbours that touch the inheritance which I have caused my people Israel to inherit: Behold I will pluck them out of their land, and pluck out the house of Judah from among them."—Jeremiah, xii. 14.

These words are being accomplished. Truth is truth, in whatever sense you may veil it. The house of Judah is plucked out with a vengeance. There is too much display in Masonry, and to pure-simple styles of architecture have succeeded abominations shocking the sight and offending the heart. Is the cause of the just to be demolished by those who have upheld it?

Do men need outward trappings of state to show what the inward emotions should convey? Are we, to speak without a parable, to have constantly paraded almost every symbol of the Royal Art upon breast ornaments and fingers? That the regalia of lodges should be sumptuous and in conformity with the dignity of the Fraternity is beyond dispute; but it is truly terrible to see it painted on doorposts, emblazoned on cards, and worn upon ordinary costume. Plethora of ornament does not prove the faithful labourer, and working clothes are far more practical in working times. The kid glove era has passed away, and by endeavouring to substitute, in public, a more uniform system of Masonic conduct it is surely true that we cannot be far wrong.

It is well known to the writer that many persons who are covered with shame on interrogation, openly wear emblems on their persons to which in absolute truth they have no other right than that of mere property possession. To what innumerable abuses this practice must lead, it is almost incalculable to say. In themselves, if not misinterpreted, they are not only harmless, but laudable, when in hands entitled to their use and familiar with the responsibilities they imply. But the old adage is ever true, that it is dangerous to play with edged tools. I do not object to jewelry as an ornament in general, but when I see symbols of a significant kind made the common property of unthinking and ignorant minds, I cannot but shudder at what may ensue. I do not apply this to Masonry only; other orders, with which I am more intimately affiliated, admit with sad carelessness similar abuses. I have, in my own experience, compelled by a proper challenge the offenders to denude themselves of their falsely-worn adornments, and I consider it to be the duty of all persons having a regard for their own good repute as citizens, only to sail under colours they may legitimately hoist. Is life, then, mere absolute war, in which it is legitimate to employ every stratagem to forward the mere ends of personal subsistence and advancement? Perish the thought and the practice, as being unmasonic and unhumanitarian! Is it possible to pass through the streets of our great world-town without seeing everywhere the heraldry of Masonry and other similar associations conspicuously staring every one in the face? What is the tendency of this? Does it not lead to clandestine Masonry of the gripping and grasping kind?

A very distinguished and intimate friend of mine—not in reference to Masonry, but to another powerful and benevolent order—told me that it had been necessary, in consequence of certain abuses, to remodel or suppress all that could be remodeled or suppressed, in consequence of the rapacity of the unprincipled. It was done: the effect, my friend told me, was duplex. While it saved the integrity of the order and preserved its funds and dignity, it for a long time paralyzed its energy and suspended its healthy action, but the rogues who won their way into it were effectually excluded and their designs frustrated. I do not expressly say that the society of Masons can apprehend this to the same alarming extent, but is not a prudence necessary on this point?

I will not say what I could say, but surely it is but a little thing I am advocating—a small concession to caution? Why not divest walls and dress of signs, laughable to those unacquainted with their use; erase them from tradesmen's cards, and edict them from every place where they may in real truth exercise a pernicious influence?

Does the drunkard look at the signs on the public-house? Does the smoker find a better flavour from his cigar or pipe because squares and compasses are printed on the wrapping-paper? To compare small things with great—is there any real advantage in a stale conundrum on a tobacco-paper? I question it; and really, with sincerity, advise the use and not the abuse of Masonic and other symbols. It is only where they are engraven on the heart—as they are of millions—that symbols can be even more than the unmeaning scrawl of the wandering idler on the blank wall.

Is not the inheritance too sacred—bequeathed, as it is, by the noblest of beings—to be made a trade mark of? The Beni-Israel have inherited it, but did not the Lord pluck out the house of Judah from among them?

There exists another difficulty in the matter: that temporary absence, or surrender of certain houses of business, do not obliterate these marks. A person may enter, with perfect good faith, and be trading on false pretences. Another designing individual may commit a crying injustice, and yet there only exists the one mode of punishment, which the outside public can mark with no stigma. In some places, the real chief or brother may be absent or otherwise incapacitated, and some pert individual may attempt mystification—a power easily acquired under the circumstances by which we are environed.

How much easier, therefore, to avoid the weak conduct of the latter part of the reign of King Solomon, and not allow the precious heritage to lapse, from the ignoble feeling of outward vanity.

The Preacher, in his sarcastic, cynical, but not unkindly way, said that most, nay, all things, were vanity. Was there not some profound meaning in this? Did it not, in effect, enjoin abstinence from those unrighteous snares and lures which stained the character of the wayfarer who met the strange woman by the wayside?

I feel it to be unjust to make any further use of "the little crooked thing that asks a question." The reply must be certain. It will be this:—Good can never be wrought otherwise than by steadfast direction.

CRYPTONYMUS.

IS KILWINNING THE BIRTHPLACE OF SCOTTISH MASONRY?

We last week gave an account of the visit of Glasgow St. John's Lodge to Kilwinning and Ayr, extracted from the Ayrshire Express, this also appeared in the Glasgow papers, and elicited the following retort regarding the claim set up by the Kilwinning Lodge to be the nursery, mother, or birthplace of Scottish Masonry:—

(TO THE EDITOR OF THE NORTH BRITISH DAILY MAIL.)

Sir,—In your issue of yesterday I read an interesting description of the summer trip of the Glasgow Saint John's Lodge this year to Kilwinning and Ayr. In it, as usual, the remark is stated by the Ayr papers that Kilwinning is "The Nursery of Masonry in Scotland," or as it is otherwise given, "The Birthplace of Scottish Masonry." Now I should like some substantial proof before I accept this statement, because I consider it to be a mistake; further, I consider that in place of Kilwinning being the "Mother" of Scottish Masonry, the Kilwinning Fraternity was simply a branch from the 1190 Glasgow fraternity, consequently, however many children the "Mother" may have they had better do themselves the honour of acknowledging Glasgow St. John as the Father or Grandfather. Since the birth of its first child, about the end of the seventeenth century, the "Mother" has been pretty prolific, and has been nowdays backward, either, intelling it; her busiest time, however, would seem to have been after she had broken troth with the Grand Lodge in 1743. The "Mother's" extant records go back to 1642, but they assert the great loss of an old book of about half a century earlier, which went back to about A.D. 1600. However, it is perhaps as well it is lost, as it might have given data for the real age of the lodge, which would not have coincided very well with the celebrated legend; had the ruins of the old Abbey also been lost, or destroyed, before an exact description of them had been taken, it would have been a good thing for the life of the said legend, but as it is, the Kilwinning ruins distinctly say—the Kilwinning story is but a mere tradition and a mistake. There is also another Mother in Edinburgh whose extant records go back to 1598, but she has the unusual name of St. Mary. "St. John," however, seems to have been the favourite name of those old lodges which existed in and before the 17th century, several of which still exist, as besides the venerable Glasgow St. John's, we have, e.g., the old Melrose and Aberdeen St. John's, both of whom have very old records still extant, the latter having regular minutes from 1670, and even long before that, as testified by the Burgh Records of Aberdeen Spalding Club, we find "the masonings of the lodge" of Aberdeen mentioned, viz., on 27th of June, 1483! when "Sanct Nicholace wark" was going on. A circumstance worthy of observation is, that when the Aberdeen masons first went there they were known as "The St. John's fraternity." Besides its branch to Kilwinning, the Glasgow St. John's would seem to have sent another to Melrose, from whence the Aberdeen Masons suppose they originally came, while, again, the Aberdeen brethren claim to have sent "the light" to Stirling and Perth—that is to say, that it was a member of the Aberdeen lodge going south to these places who was the means of erecting the Stirling and Perth lodges. In reference to Kilwinning and Melrose hailing from Glasgow, it must be remembered that Glasgow, in the 12th and following centuries, was the head of the diocese in which these were situated, and Glasgow was the place to which the 1190 Building Fraternity were brought, for which Bishop Jocelyn had to get the consent of the "abbots, priors, and other clergy of his diocese."—I am, &c., W.P.B.

Glasgow, June 30, 1869.

NEW MASONIC HALL AT SUNDERLAND.

FOUNDATION STONE. PROCEEDINGS.

The following account of these interesting proceedings is taken from the Sunderland Times of July 6 :

This afternoon the foundation stone of a new Masonic Hall was laid in Sunderland with all the imposing attendant ceremony when the Masonic Craft participate in those proceedings. Freemasonry, as most of our readers are aware, has taken strong root in Sunderland, where there are four lodges in existence. The oldest of these, according to what is believed to be reliable data, is the St. John's, the time of its origin being doubtful. This was followed by the Phoenix, established in 1755, the Sea Captains (now the Palatine), established in 1757, and the Williamson, established in 1863. Other Lodges appear to have been called into existence, but have since died out, and the masonic records point to a lodge in Monkwearmouth in 1774, called "The Lodge of Harmony." The St. John's Lodge, however, claims to be the senior lodge in Sunderland, and to have existed one hundred and fifteen years.

The members of St. John's Lodge have long desired a hall of their own in which to hold their craft and other meetings. For the last seven or eight years, the lodge was held at the Queen's Hotel, and previous to that in the Phoenix Hall, Queen-street, belonging to the Phoenix lodge. Endeavours were made in various directions to obtain sites, one of these was on the west side of John-street, near the Park, another in the upper part of Villiers-street; sketch plans were prepared, but for unforeseen reasons all these fell through. Ultimately, the present site in Park-terrace, facing the new Park, on the east, was procured, and a more suitable one could not have been had. This terrace promises to be one of the best street lines we will have in Sunderland, and has the great advantage of fronting the new Park, into which it will have an uninterrupted view. Park-terrace will contain several public buildings. At the north end will be the large Victoria Hall, at the south end the Trinity Presbyterian Church, now in progress, with the Masonic Hall a little to the north of the chapel. The hall will be erected by a number of members of the craft, who have formed themselves into the "Sunderland Masonic Hall Company, Limited," with shares of £1 each, upwards of one thousand of which are already taken. The proceeds of a ball and other entertainments are invested in shares for the lodge, and held in the name of the Worshipful Master and his officers for the time being. The total estimated cost of the building is little over £1,500. The plans of the front elevation show a white brick building, with stone dressings, stone strings and cornices, in harmony with the remainder of the buildings in the row. It projects beyond the line of adjoining houses some three or four feet, though not in a manner to detract from the appearance of the other properties, and will not project so far as the chapel at the south end. The front will be pedimented with three tiers of three light windows. Above the second, or ground floor window, is a projecting balcony opening out from the club room on the upper storey. The principal entrance is at the side, recessed about two feet back from the front. Ascending by a flight of seven steps, there is an Ionic portico, with columns on each side, and from the portico three steps lead to the entrance hall. Above the portico is a staircase window, and above that a small dormer window, not of any utility at present, but without which it appears no Masonic lodge is complete. From the entrance hall is a descent by a flight of steps to the basement floor, in which is situate a kitchen 24½ ft. by 13½ ft., and 13 ft. in height, in which will be a large cooking apparatus, capable of providing for 150 people. Immediately behind the kitchen is the refreshment room for the use of the brethren, 25 ft. by 42 ft., and 17 ft. in height. Here the Masonic dinners, for which the Craft is famed, will be held, and this room can be let for the purpose of the meetings of Free Gardeners, Foresters, Oddfellows, and other kindred societies. It will hold, comfortably, 150 people. The east-end is semi-circular in shape, the eastern wall of the building being carried up in that form throughout. On the basement floor will be the wine cellars, &c. On the ground floor, in the front of the building, is a waiting-room of the same size as, and immediately above, the kitchen, and 12 ft. in height; this will be sub-divided on lodge nights for Masonic purposes. Two double doors one on each side of the fire-place, open from this waiting-room to the lodge-room immediately behind. The dimensions of this room are 25 ft. by 42 ft., with a height of 21 feet. It will be ornamented with Corinthian pilasters and full Corinthian columns. At the east end will be a raised semicircular dais, ascended by three steps, and ranged round the semicircle will be placed seven chairs in the form of stalls, for the W.M., P.M.'s, &c. These chairs will be handsomely executed in oak in the Doric style, and above the Master's Chair will be the proper Masonic emblems. Round the sides of the room will be stuffed seats, and the remainder of the seats will be chairs. The room will be lighted with gas, and ventilated by the patent ventilating sun lights, and it will not be used for any other than Masonic purposes. Above the waiting-room is the club-room, of the same dimensions as the one beneath, and this will be the only apartment on the storey of the Hall. The whole building will be extremely neat and attractive. It has been designed by Mr. John Tillman, architect, and will be carried out by Messrs. T. and A. Copke, contractors for masonry; Mr. Thomas Armstrong, for joiners' and carpenters' work; Mr. Thos. Atkinson, for plumbers' and smiths' work; Mr. Dauber, for slating; and Mr. Thos. Godfordson, for painting.

The proceedings in connection with the foundation ceremony commenced at two o'clock, when the brethren connected with the four lodges in the town—The St. John's, Phoenix, Palatine, and Williamson—assembled at the new rooms at the Palatine Hotel, attired in full Masonic Craft Costume, where a lodge was opened in the E.A. degree, the necessary instructions and directions were given, and the lodge adjourned. A procession was then formed as follows:—

Police,
Union Jack borne by an Operative Mason.
Two Operative Mops.
Tyler with Sword.
Brethren not Members of the Province, two and two.
Brethren of Lodges in the Province according to seniority or numbers, juniors walking first.
Steward. { Lodge Banner borne by the } Steward.
 Junior E.A.
Brethren of the St. John's Lodge, two and two.
Builder and Architect with Plans.
Steward. { Cornucopia with Corn borne by P.M. } Steward.
 Ewer with Wine borne by P.M.
 Ewer with Oil borne by P.M.
 Director of Ceremonies.
Secretary with Constitutions.
Secretary with Plate with Inscription, and Treasurer with Phial and Coins.
The Corinthian Light, borne by P.M.
Junior Warden with the Plumb Line.
The Doric Light borne by P.M.
Senior Warden with the Level.
The Perfect Ashler by a Master Mason.
Steward. { The Chaplain bearing the Sacred } Steward.
 Law on a Cushion.
 The Ionic Light borne by P.M.
Deacon. { The Worshipful Master, } Deacon.
 Bro. S. J. Wade.
 Sword Bearer, I.G.
Officers of Provincial Grand Lodge past and present, in Provincial Clothing, according to rank.

Leaving the Palatine Hotel, it proceeded up Toward-road to the site, when an avenue was formed through which passed the officers and brethren. The ceremony of laying the stone was performed by the W.M. of St. John's (Bro. S. J. Wade), and this official having taken his position, the vessels of corn, wine, and oil, were deposited in a pedestal placed for their reception, and an anthem was sung by a choir, containing Messrs. Ferry, Winham, Giesecke, and others, accompanied by a harmonium, during which the upper stone was raised and the lower one adjusted. Prayer was afterwards offered up by the P.G. Chaplain (Rev. Mr. Bulman, of Durham). A bottle containing the Sunderland Times and one or two other local papers, an official programme of the day, a scroll inscribed with a list of the directors, and information about the building, current coins of the realm, and a "Masonic Report," was placed in the cavity of the lower stone by the Treasurer, and over this the Secretary placed a plate, on which was the engraved inscription:—"Foundation stone laid by S. J. Wade, W.M., St. John's Lodge, (No. 80), 6th January, 1869. J. Tillman, architect." The cement having been spread on the upper face of the lower stone, the W.M. adjusted the same with a trowel handed him by Mr. M. Douglass, the senior P.M. of the lodge, and the lower stone was slowly lowered, with three distinct stops, while the choir sang the anthem, "Come let us prepare." The true position of the stone having been ascertained by the W.M., and proved satisfactory, he strewed it with the corn, and poured over it the oil and wine from the vessels which were handed to him, with the accustomed ceremonies. Prayer having been offered up, the W.M. inspected the plans of the building, and handed them back to the architect together with the tools used in proving the position of the stone, and desired him to proceed with the completion of the work without loss of time. He then addressed the assembly as follows:—

Ladies and Gentlemen,—You are gathered here today to witness the laying of the corner-stone of this our Masonic Hall, and this is a fitting opportunity for me to say that we, as Masons, are true to the laws of our country, and profess to fear God, who is the great Architect of all things. It is ours to practice universal benevolence to all mankind. It is true that we have amongst us secrets which may not be revealed, yet these secrets are lawful and right. We have now existed for many centuries, and in every age, in this and other countries, the most illustrious names are to be found amongst us. Our Order is founded in truth, it has been the theme of good men of all ages, of all countries—heathen, Jew, and Christian; and whilst thrones and empires have fallen, we have endured in strength, in wisdom, and in beauty, unshaken by time or the assaults of hate and wrath. Ours is a principle which has no object but the happiness of mankind, and no limit but the extreme of creation. And now, to-day, we have assembled here to build an house for Masonry, or in other words, for God and His truth, and may here in after days be found the cheerful assembly chequering like spots bright and green the desert of lifetime, and in the words of one of our old worthies I would say, "May it become a house for great and worthy men to practise beneficent actions in, and to promote harmony and brotherly love till time shall be no more."

An oration was afterwards delivered by the Chaplain. A collection was made for the workmen, and the National Anthem, brought the ceremonial to an end. The procession reformed and returned to the Palatine Hotel, where the lodge was closed in the usual form.

A banquet was afterwards held at the Queen's Hotel.

Reviews.

"A Concise Account of St. John's Gate, Clerkenwell," with illustrations, by JOHN WILSON, London: Geo. Chalfert, Langham Chambers, Portland-place. Sixpence.

A most interesting (although much abbreviated) book to the antiquarian, the scholar, and members of the Knightly Orders of Masonry. The antiquity which belongs to this beautifully resuscitated relic of a bygone age, renders an authentic account of its interesting features extremely valuable. Mr. Wilson has, in his exceedingly neat and well got-up little book, gathered into a focus all that is positively known of St. John's Gate, past and present. The book will be read with much interest by those of an antiquarian turn of mind. In this railway age, the remnants of the past being swept ruthlessly away, the more reason exists for the preservation of such as by the mere accident of position at present remain untouched. The Priory of St. John of Jerusalem, around which so many memories gather, has long disappeared, but its gateway still remains, and the student of the past will, we think, be glad to have within a small compass, as here presented, all that is known in reference to it and the once magnificent buildings to which it was formerly the entrance. Several charters in connection with the Priory, with translations, are given, not the least important or interesting being extracts from one given by Philip and Mary, granting to the prior and brethren "the whole of our wood and woodland, called Grete St. John's-wood, lying and about the park of Maribone, in our County of Middlesex," upon a portion of which ancient appanage the St. Marylebone Almshouses now stand. Not merely is St. John's Gate remarkable for its connection with "the once powerful knights, the heroic defenders of Rhodes, and the bulwark of Christendom," but its literary associations with Dr. Johnson and the "Gentleman's Magazine," cannot fail to make it always interesting. The illustrations are also remarkably pleasing. For those who desire a more extended account, an enlarged edition, with a description of the Knights Hospitallers, will shortly be published, neatly bound, for 2s. 6d.

THE warrant of the Star Lodge, 1257, has been granted. It will next month be consecrated at the Marquis of Granby Tavern, New Cross-road, New Cross. Bros. J. Smith, P.G.P., W.M., designate; E. Palmer (33), S.W.; C. J. Hogg (W.M. 58), J.W.; F. Walters (W.M. 871), Sec. It is expected Bro. John Savage, P.G.D., will consecrate it.

BRO. SAMUEL GEORGE COOK (J.D. 871), died on Monday, June 28th, at his residence, 6, Old Woolwich-road, East Greenwich. He was initiated in the Royal Oak Lodge, January 31st, 1866, passed February 26th, 1866, and raised April 27th, 1866. He served the several offices of the lodge up to Junior Deacon, and he was a subscriber to the Male and Female Annuity Fund. He was generally beloved by all who knew him.

TEMPERANCE CHAPTER, 169.—The regular convocation of this Chapter, was held on Tuesday, July 6th, at the White Swan Tavern, 217, High Street, Deptford. Comps. G. Brown, P.Z., as M.E.Z.; F. Walters, P.Z. S.N. as H.; H. G. Buss, P.Z. as J., opened the Chapter. The minutes were read and confirmed. Apologies were received for non-attendance of principals and candidates. The Chapter was closed. Present besides those named, Comps. W. Simmons, P.Z.; J. T. Tibbals, P.Z., S.E.; J. Lightfoot, P.S.; J. Woodlands, 1st Asst.; J. Payne, 2nd Asst.; Record, Pulley, Truslow, Bartlett, and others. Visitors, Comps. H. G. Buss (P.Z., 177), J. Griffin (206), R. Williams (P.S., 1031).

Reports of Masonic Meetings.

THE CRAFT.

PROVINCIAL.

Lancaster.—St. John's Lodge, No. 279.—A second emergency meeting of this flourishing lodge was held at the Freemasons' Hall, on Friday week, under the presidency of the W.M., Bro. Kelly, D.P.G.M., and which, like the former, was well attended, twenty-six brethren being present. The visitors were Bro. Capt. Loughton, No. 422, Gainsborough, and Geo. Toller (W.M.), Baines (Sec.), Bartridge (J.D.), Hack, and Moir, of the John of Gaunt Lodge, No. 523. The lodge having been opened in the first degree, a ballot was taken for Mr. Byron Levi Atwood, a Lewis, son of Bro. L. Atwood, of this lodge, who was unanimously elected as a candidate for initiation. The lodge was then opened in the second degree, and Bros. W. Taylor, Geo. Pearce, M.D., Porter, and Stannard were called to the pedestal, and having passed a satisfactory examination retired, when the lodge was opened in the third degree, and they were in turn, raised to the sublime degree of M.M., Bro. Crow, Sec. and Org., presiding at the instrument during the ceremony. The lodge was then lowered to the first degree, when Mr. Byron Levi Atwood and Mr. Joseph Roper (the latter of whom was elected at the previous lodge) were severally introduced and regularly initiated into Freemasonry, the chants, as in the previous ceremony, being conducted by Bro. Crow, and added greatly to its effect. A matter of private business connected with the two local lodges was then discussed at some length, after which a nephew of one of the members was proposed as a candidate for the Order, and the lodge was closed, when the brethren adjourned to refreshment, and enjoyed an hour or two of social intercourse and harmony, Bro. B. L. Atwood returning thanks for the entered Apprentices, and Dr. Pearce for the newly-raised M.M.'s.

Manchester.—Villier's Lodge, No. 1194.—A regular meeting of this lodge was held at the Northumberland Arms Hotel, Isleworth, on Saturday, the 3rd inst., and was very numerously attended. Bro. E. Clark, L.P.M., occupied the chair, and was supported by Bros. J. Trickett S.W.; R. Gurney, Treas.; R. W. Little, P.M., Sec.; A. A. Pendlebury P.M.; H. Affman, S.D.; J. W. E. T. O. Baldston J.D.; F. J. Lancaster, I.G.; T. Smale, D.C.; R. A. Steel, C.S.; W. Harvey, W.S.; E. Walters, P.M.; J. G. Marsh, P.M.; T. Ogbite, P.M.; A. Avery, P.M.; G. Cattel, P. Prov. G. D. Northampton and Hants; Major H. W. Palmer, G. Kenning, E. H. Dalby, E. J. Bailey, I. Jones, B. Glover, L. Ackworth, H. S. Jones, and C. Stephens. The visitors were Bros. H. G. Buss, P.M., 27; W. Mant, P.M., 186; F. Deering, of 619; J. T. Trickett, of 954; and J. H. Hastie, of 1216. The business of the evening comprised the initiation of Messrs. Charles Stephens and Henry Sidney Jones, the passing of Bros. B. Glover, C.E., and L. Ackworth, and the election of officers which resulted as follows:—Bro. J. Trickett S.W., as W.M. for the ensuing year, unanimously; E. Clark, P.M., Treas., and J. Gilbert, Tyler. The auditors elected were Bros. Cattel, Major, Palmer and Smale. After the closing of the lodge the brethren adjourned to a capital banquet, and spent a pleasant evening together. This lodge is now one of the first in the metropolitan county.

IRELAND.

Tralee Lodge No. 379.—The annual summer festival of St. John was celebrated by the brethren of this lodge, by dining at the "Railway Hotel," Killarney, on Thursday, 24th June. A portion of the lodge left Tralee in the morning by car, to visit the far famed "Gap of Dunloe" and the many interesting spots in the vicinity of the ever beautiful "lakes." Eschewing ponies (even one of which was guaranteed by its respective owner to have been the animal on which our Royal Brother the Prince of Wales traversed that wild pass,) they proceeded on foot through the magnificent defile, admiring the grandeur of nature, and altogether neglectful of those little creature comforts which so help to make an Irishman's day enjoyable. On arriving at the foot of the Gap, boats were in readiness to convey them through the Lakes, Bro. Lambert, Ballyhar, having kindly looked after these important matters. After luncheon at Glenties, the lovely scenery of whose bay never appeared more exquisitely fresh or delightful, the boats were again put into requisition, and after a long sail amid the innumerable islands of the Lakes, landed the party at Ross Island where some other brethren (whose business had prevented their joining at an earlier period of the day) had assembled; proceeding to the Hotel the brethren sat down to a splendid repast, provided by the very efficient manager, Bro. Currie, 245, Dublin. The following were present, viz.:—Bros. R. H. Walpole, I.P.M. (in the unavoidable absence of Thos. Morris, W.M., elect.) in the chair; B. A. Benner, S.W.; F. McCarthy, J.W.; Wm. Benner, I.G.; D. De C. McGillycuddy Jun., P.M., Treas.; Wm. Hill, P.M.; R. Collis, P.M.; R. Day, P.M.; H.

M'lan, P.M.; Ben. Piper, T. Collis, John Gray, R. Jeffcott, Wm. Graham, C. Johnston, H. Hilder, D. Courcy D. Denny, J. Newbold, R. Browne, Thos. R. Lambert, John Huggard, T. Scannell, Tyler, with visitors, Brothers Wallace, Stephen Spillage (Her Majesty's Guide), late 373, Killarney. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts having been duly honoured the Brethren separated at an early hour, and departed for Tralee. Some Brothers whose inimitable drollery would occasionally lighten a real Irish jig, or Highland fling, keeping the Brethren in continued roars of laughter. All expressed themselves highly pleased with the day's amusements, and parted hoping for many other pleasant re-unions.

THE ROYAL ARCH.

PROVINCIAL.

WEST LANCASHIRE.—Rowley Chapter, No. 1051.—An emergency meeting of this chapter was held on Wednesday evening, 30th June, at the Masonic Rooms, Athenæum, Lancaster. There were present E. Comps, Dr. Moore, M.E.Z.; W. H. Bagnall, H.; T. Masson, M.; Comps, Hall, Scribe E.; Heald, as Scribe N.; Barter, Treas.; Whimpray, J. Barrow, Taylor, and Watson. After the chapter had been opened and the companions assembled, the Scribe E. read the circular convening the meeting. The ballot was taken and passed unanimously in favour of Bro. Rev. T. E. Hinde, M.A., as a candidate for exaltation. Bro. Rev. C. S. Hope, M.A., who had been previously elected, was exalted to degree of R.A. by the M.E.Z., the duties of P.S. being performed by Comp. Hall, Scribe E., and the Historical, Symbolical, Mystical lectures given by the Principals. The M.E.Z. proposed Comp. J. Barrow, of Lancaster, as a joining member, and Bro. W. Prosser, F.G.S. of the Rowley Lodge, 1051, Lancaster, as a candidate for exaltation. The labours of the evening being ended the chapter was closed in due form.

SUPREME COUNCIL, NEW YORK.

We have great pleasure in giving the following masterly report of the Illustrious Bro. Albert G. Goodall, 33, in extenso, and we shall also have some remarks to make by-and-bye upon the condition of Freemasonry in Portugal, as Bro. Goodall has directed our particular attention to the fact that the "Grand Orient Lusitano," articles upon which undue prominence have been given in one of our contemporaries, is a spurious and illegitimate body:—

REPORT OF ILL. BRO. ALBERT G. GOODALL, GRAND REPRESENTATIVE, ON FOREIGN RELATIONS.

To the Supreme Council of Sov. Gr. Ins. Gen. of the 33rd and 1st degree Ancient Accepted Rite, for the Northern Masonic Jurisdiction, U.S.A.

"Union, Toleration, Power."

MOST ILL. SOV. GR. COMMANDER.—The last official report I had the honor to submit to the Supreme Council relative to the condition of Masonry in the various Rites throughout South America, and parts of Europe, and the relations of amity established with several Grand Bodies, appears to have had a marked and beneficial influence in making known many important facts by which this and other Sov. Bodies have been able to regulate more understandingly their course of action, and discriminate between the spurious and legitimate working Bodies; and from the great interest exhibited by all those that I have again visited, I am induced to believe that the result of our labors has greatly tended to cement the ties of fraternity among our foreign brethren, and that they now realize the importance of cultivating more closely the bonds of union with this Jurisdiction, and thus be able to correct the many innovations and abuses that have, in some instances, stigmatised the principles and caused erroneous influence to be exerted through ignorance against the Order at large.

Leaving the City of New York on the 23rd day of October, 1867, V. E., with renewed plenary power for continuing and establishing with all regular foreign Supreme Masonic Bodies intimate relations, I arrived at Rio de Janeiro in the latter part of November following, after a variable voyage, via the West Indies and along the coast of South America.

EMPIRE OF BRAZIL.

Full details of the history and condition of the Order in this Empire were given in my last report, and on my arrival at Rio de Janeiro I renewed my official relation with the Supreme Council, Grand Orient of Brazil, Valley of Lavradio, and communicated the changes and union of the two Councils in this Jurisdiction, and at a regular meeting of their Gr. Body, I had the pleasure of presenting the certificates of Honorary Membership from this Council to the Most Ill. Bro. Joaquim Marcellino de Breto, 33, Grand Master, Gr. Commander, and Ruy Hermann Possollo, 38, Gr. Sec. Adj.; also the certificate and jewel of Grand Representative of this Council to the Most Ill. Bro. Dr. Alexander José de Mello Moraes, 33, Gr. Sec. H. E. Their official acknowledgments of same is herewith submitted.

The very cordial and fraternal reception extended to me by members of the Sup. Con. and Subordinate Lodges, as an evidence of their appreciation of the relations of amity so pleasantly existing with this Grand Body, was, in every particular, highly gratifying to myself and complimentary to this Council.

During my stay at Rio, several new Lodges were organized in the Ant. Acc. Rite, and the interesting ceremonies, large attendance, and eloquent orations, gave evidence that "progressive" and "enlightened" principles have been adopted by our Brazilian brethren, and Masonry with its directing and fixed laws of equality, fraternity, and toleration, is rapidly on the increase, and quietly doing its faithful mission of giving polish to, and elevating the mind of man to the more exalted scale of social virtues; combating ignorance and bigotry, and teaching peace on earth, good will to men.

The work and mode of conferring the degrees has much improved since my previous visit. The frequent habit of communicating the third degree had been prohibited by the Sup. Con., and the brethren are becoming better informed in regard to the history, principles and work of the Order, which they have learned is essentially necessary to be recognised and admitted in other rites and Jurisdictions.

"Benedictinos."—This spurious assembly, that became somewhat conspicuous by separating from the regular Body, in 1861, and establishing what they termed a "new order of Masonry," are now gradually on the decline; their political motives, corrupt and irregular proceedings, violation and disregard of established Masonic law and usage, have become generally understood, and many who were induced to join under false representations have left them and been healed or admitted by the regular Body of Lavradio; the aspiring leaders having generally accomplished their private and political aims, have quietly withdrawn, and there is every indication that in a short time this Body will cease to exist, being the usual fate of all spurious assemblies that attempt by deception to practise and inculcate the pure principles of Masonry. It is further gratifying to state, that the Grand Bodies who, by mistake, entered into communication with the "Benedictinos," at once ceased to recognize them on being made acquainted with the facts of their spurious character, and by this prompt course on the part of all well governed Gr. Bodies, we hope ere long to form the united chain for the benefit of the legitimate brotherhood throughout the globe.

BUENOS AYRES.

From Rio de Janeiro I visited the river Plate, arriving at Buenos Ayres in April last, when that city was recovering from the dreadful cholera epidemic which caused such fearful mortality in that city and surrounding country during the four months previous.

In my previous report I informed the Council of my operations with the Supreme Council and Grand Orient for the Argentine Republic, and the reason why fraternal relations were not then consummated. Immediately after my arrival I addressed an official communication to the Most Ill. Bro. Daniel Maria Cazon, Sov. Gr. Com., requesting to know if they were then ready to enter into relations of amity and exchange representatives with this Sup. Body. A prompt reply was received, stating their earnest desire to consummate the same. The 7th day of May, at 8 P.M., was designated for my official reception, and the fraternal relations and treaty of alliance were then solemnly ratified between the two Grand Bodies. The ceremonies were most interesting, impressive, and the highest honors given to your Representative by the Grand Assembly, which was assisted on that important occasion by the presence of the officers of the District Grand Lodge of England and many illustrious visitors. The hall was filled to its utmost capacity by members of the Order, and the solemnity of the occasion will long be remembered as one of the brilliant Masonic incidents among our Brethren in that Jurisdiction, and appreciated by your Representative as a bright and favored incident in his Masonic career. The eloquent oration delivered by Ill. Bro. José Roque Perez, Past Sov. Gr. Com. and the Gr. Representative of this Sup. Com., near their Gr. Body, together with other official documents and proceedings, are forwarded herewith.

During the ravages of the fatal cholera epidemic, in the months of December, 1867, and January and February, 1868, when over four thousand persons became its victims, it can well be imagined that there were great distress and suffering in the community, when parents, children and friends were deserted to suffer the horrors of anguish and disease, and die for want of assistance. It was at this trying period that Masonry gave practical evidence of its principles; and on the 16th of December, 1867, there was a meeting of Representatives from the lodges in the city, including those under the District Gr. Lodge of England, who formed the "Sociedad Masónica de Socorros," Daniel Maria Cazon, the Sov. Gr. Com., being the President, and Charles Murray, W.M., Secretary.

(To be continued.)

ECHOES FROM PORTUGAL.

The following toast was proposed in the Lodge Cosmopolite, Orient at Lisbon, in honour of the M.W. Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Portugal, Count de Paraty.

BELOVED BRETHREN,

What is Freemasonry?

Freemasonry is a great association of men who have made it their task to live in perfect equality, intimately united by the bonds of mutual confidence, mutual esteem, and friendship, under the name of brothers—the sweetest and truest appellation they could attribute to themselves—and to stimulate each other to the practice of benevolence and morality.

Freemasonry is great in the eyes of the generous, good, and honest; it is nothing to the narrow-minded, the wicked, the faithless. It is sublime, it is everything to the wise and virtuous; it is nothing to the ambitious, the covetous, the false. It is great to the sensible man, the sincere, and the generous, who is conscious of the infirmities of man, and who feels the obligation of healing them.

Freemasonry is neither a conspiracy nor a party affair; it neither serves ambition nor deceit. It is order and truth in all things. It hates all vices, it loves every virtue, it is the Godly voice which calleth upon us to love and help each other. It is tranquillity in storms, a beacon in shipwreck, consolation in misfortune; it is, in a word, the true union of nations.

Freemasonry is august; it is everything to those who comprehend it, it is nothing to those whose heart and soul are dead.

Freemasonry is an institution which allows no doubt, no contest, as to its principles. It is the purest and simplest of all institutions. Its principles are such as to agree best with that reason so liberally bestowed on us by the G.A.O.T.U.

Freemasonry is neither a religious sect nor a political party; it embraces, however, all parties, all sects, in order to unite all its disciples in one common brotherhood.

Freemasonry is the touchstone for every truth. It is the torch of reason, serving to distinguish good from evil, truth from falsehood, courage from cowardice, and generosity from selfishness. It teaches to conquer the obstacles which ignorance, fanaticism, and prejudice oppose to it.

Freemasonry has no other support, except itself, and the G.A.O.T.U., who created light.

Freemasonry is an institution which entails no expense on any nation; it is a legion of devoted men who combat the enemies of progress and the union of mankind, and whose expenses appear nowhere in any State's budget. Such warriors look for recompense to no one—they find it in the conviction of having endeavoured to do good.

Freemasonry is the knowledge of the human heart, and the practice of all social virtues. Pure from its origin, though for a long time misunderstood, it now pursues its natural course towards the realisation of the principles of liberty, equality, and fraternity. It extends and unfolds itself more brilliantly every day. A little longer, and it will rule the world, become its instructor, and render it happy. Then will this august league have attained its object. Then may all true Masons rest, and look on their work with satisfaction. Until then, beloved brethren, let us not relax in our labours, and, in order to attain that object, let us fill our lodges with zealous, active, faithful, assiduous, fearless brethren; with good citizens and men of conviction and enthusiasm.

M.W. Grand Master Count de Paraty, on the columns of Lodge Cosmopolite are assembled brethren from Portugal, Spain, Belgium, Italy, Holland, America, Germany, Russia, England, and France. This lodge, happily placed under your gavel, M.W.G.M., follows your example in all its labours; its members work zealously at the holy work, for the benefit of mankind, all united by the cement of brotherly love, using all their efforts to further the great structure of general concord. All this proves that the idea of a cosmopolite world is no empty chimera, and confirms the hope that the conquering spirit of Freemasonry will ultimately succeed in embracing the whole human race in one great family of brothers.

M.W.G.M., lead us, so that we may follow your good example. Your noble and brotherly aspiration—that sweet hope of yours—to see all men united in one single family of brothers, will excite our zeal, inflame our hearts, and cause our strength to equal yours, so that, led by you, we may be rendered capable of greater exertions, and finally bring about the realisation of the great aim of the Grand Lodge of Lusitania.

Beloved brethren, this obligatory toast which I have the honour to propose to you is that of our M.W.G.M. We couple with this toast, so dear to us all, that of all the Grand Officers of the Grand Lodge of Lusitania, and of all foreign Grand Lodges. We accompany this toast with our warmest wishes for the prosperity of the Masonic Order over the whole surface of the earth.

A SKETCH OF THE KNIGHTS TEMPLAR.

By the late Bro. THOMAS DUNCKERLEY, P.G.M. for Hampshire, &c., &c.

After the temple rebuilt by Zerubbabel had remained 575 years, it was pillaged by the Emperor Antiochus, 170 years before Christ; afterwards by Cressus and Pompey, and at last, totally destroyed by Titus Vespasian, who took Jerusalem by storm, A.D. 74. In 138 the Emperor Adrian rebuilt that city, but had not time to lay the foundation of the temple, for the Persians took it from him, and the Saracens became masters of it A.D. 640. During all this time the Nethenimes (a posterity of Gibeonites, condemned by Joshua to be hewers of wood and drawers of water for the temple) distinguished themselves by their virtue, and in time they became Knights of the East, and Royal Arch Masons.

They were esteemed for their retired life and simplicity of manners, their sobriety and charity, and took the name of Essenes. They elected a Grand Master for life, and engaged to worship the true God; to do justice; to be loyal to their sovereign, and obey their Grand Master. These brethren embraced the new law, and became Christians; they retired to Sicily and other places, and in 1020, they were created Knights of the Eastern Star.

In 1083 Godfrey of Bouillon and Peter the Hermit laid a plan for the conquest of Jerusalem. In A.D. 1100 the Christians associated by a solemn vow to establish the Temple in the Holy Land, and the Masonic Knights agreed to retain their ancient signs, to know each other from the Saracens at a distance, in order to avoid surprise. They communicated their signs and words to those only who promised, with the greatest solemnity at the foot of the altar, never to reveal them. That obligation was a sacred bond to keep the individuals of several kingdoms in the same society.

Six millions of people, of different nations, united, and vowed to conquer Jerusalem; they wore the Calvary Cross on the shoulder, and as the Emperor Constantine the Great had in 313 seen the red cross in the air In hoc signo vinces, they took that motto; and the word for charging the enemy, Dieu le veut. There was also a cross of distinction for the different countries: The English (at that time) wore white, the French red, the Flemings green, the Germans black, the Italians yellow, &c. (from this circumstance, originated the flags of Britain, and other countries.) Many Royal Arch Masons, and Knights of the Eastern Star, who were Christian, faithful soldiers and servants, had built a church on the site where the temple of Solomon had been erected; which they dedicated to St. John of Jerusalem; and when that city was taken by Godfrey of Bouillon, A.D. 1103, he gave the care of the Holy Sepulchre to the Knights of the Eastern Star, with the additional title of Knights Rosa Crucis.

Their duty was to guard the sepulchre, and escort the pilgrims on the road to Jerusalem. In A.D. 1118 King Baldwin, the Second instituted the order of Knights Templars of St. John of Jerusalem, in which he incorporated seven Knights Rosa Crucis. After nine years expired, this military order was consecrated by the Pope, and to their vow of obedience to the Grand Master, and charity to the poor, they added celibacy. The Knights Hospitaliers, who originated from the Order of St. Lazarus, attended the sick and wounded; they afterwards became Knights of Rhodes, and are at this time Knights of Malta.

After the ninth crusade, A.D. 1272, the institution of Knights of the East and West was established. Those Knights had taken a solemn oath to shed their blood to establish the worship of the God of the Christians in his Temple at Jerusalem, which when they found it impossible to accomplish, they returned to their respective countries; and, in order to establish in their hearts what they could not realize by action, they solemnly engaged not to admit a Brother to the sixth degree until he had given proof of his friendship, zeal, and discretion; and they were created Knights of the East and West by King Edward the First of England (who at that time was informed of the death of his father, King Henry the Third). His Majesty also dubbed them Knights of the Temple of Palestine; for, the infidels having changed or altered the church of St. John to a Mosque, our brethren denominated the Church of the Holy Sepulchre the Temple of Palestine, from its being situated on Mount Calvary, which is without the walls. Immediately after, King Edward returned to England with his subjects and became Grand Patron of Knights Templar, &c., in Britain. The origin and history of the seventh degree, or Knights Kadosh, may not be written.

In 1295, the Pope, as Grand Patriarch of these military and religious orders, directed that the Knights who had served in the crusades should wear a golden cross in future.

Poetry.

LOVE AND FAITH.

As an undulating vision
Rippling through the sleeping brain—
Brings to light the shapes Elysian
Orbing heaven's eternal plain,

So thy presence doth uncover
All the glories of my life,
Glories that enthrone thy lover
O'er his destiny of strife.

Many wintry hours have passed us,
Many days of dole and dread;
Passion's gloom has overcast us,
Like the pallor of the dead.

Through the tempest purifying
We have passed, and here we stand!
Not in desolation sighing,
But in joy's ethereal land.

Round our hearts' unchanging altar
We have twined the flowers of love,
With a trust that did not falter
In the Majesty above.

Therefore all the passionate trials,
All our human woes and fears,
Strengthened but our self-denials,
Shaped amidst the fall of tears.

In the dimness of probation—
In the dark of thought's dismay,
Have we not with exultation
Hailed the coming of the day?

Thou and I have felt the lightning
Shearing through our inmost veins;
Now, the sky of life is brightening,
Opening its unclouded plains!

Now, the future shines before us,
Like the sun upon the sea;
Happiness is trembling o'er us,
Like a dove that will not flee.

Now, when radiant smiles are round us,
Like an atmosphere of light;
Shall we leave the love that crown'd us
In the darkness of our night?

Life in holy love is living,
Calm as moonlight in the sky;
Pure itself, all things forgiving,
Love like ours can never die!

Welcome Peace! thy robes are trailing
Through the pathways of my breast;
Thou art constant and unfailing,
Calm me into perfect rest!

Heart to heart! a benediction,
Sounding like a triumph now,
Charms away our past affliction,
Clears the shadow from the brow!

Fear thee not, in grief or glory
I shall ever be the same;
Love with me shall ne'er grow hoary,
'Tis an everduring flame!

Even till life's solemn closing,
Till the desert we have trod
Fades, and leaves our souls reposing,
Childlike in the arms of God.

Cosmos.

Masonic Miscellanea.

BRITISH CHAPTER, No. 8.—This Chapter had its annual summer banquet at the Crystal Palace, on Wednesday, under the presidency of Comps. Jabez Tepper, Z.; Joseph Stohwasser, P.Z. as H., and Edward Baxter, P.Z. as J. The usual loyal and customary toasts were given, and the Companions spent a happy evening together.

ONE of the Parisian Masonic lodges has sent a memorial to General Mellinet, the Grand Master, asking him to use his influence to procure the release of a number of Masons unlawfully arrested during the late disturbances.

THE forthcoming work by Bro. Wm. J. Hughan will contain:—1. An article on Masonic MSS., by Bro. Hughan. 2. A reprint of the Constitution of the Freemasons by the Grand Lodge of England, 1723, being the first edition (slightly abridged.) 3. A fac-simile lithographic reprint of Coles' copper-plate edition of the Constitutions, 1728, from transfers from the original in Bro. Hughan's possession. Seventy copies only are to be printed for sale, at 10s. 6d. each, and 30 copies for presentation. The work will be dedicated, by permission, to the M.W.G.M., of the Earl of Zetland. Subscriptions to be sent to the publisher, Bro. Wm. Lake, Truro, stating name in full, and Masonic position.

Agents.

AMERICA: Bro. J. FLETCHER BRENNAN, 114, Main-street, Cincinnati, Ohio.
 CANADA: Messrs. DEYBIE & SON, Ottawa.
 CEYLON: Messrs. W. L. SKENE & Co., Colombo.
 CONSTANTINOPLE: Bro. J. L. HANLY, Levant Times.
 GALATA: ISAICK KAHN, Perchembè-Bajar.
 PARIS: M. DECHÉVaux-DUMESNIL, Rue de Harlay-du-Palais, 20, near the Pont Neuf; Editor Le Franc-Macon.

And all Booksellers and Newsagents in Great Britain and Ireland.

Births, Marriages, and Deaths.

BIRTHS.

BUCHAN.—At 151, West Nile-street, Glasgow, on the 6th instant, Mrs. W. P. Buchan, of a son.
 GURNEY.—On the 23rd ult., at 1, Osborne-villas, Richmond, the wife of Bro. R. Gurney, of a son.
 REED.—On the 1st inst. at Horseferry-road, Greenwich, the wife of Bro. John W. Reed (Lodge 871), of a daughter.

DEATHS.

COOK.—On the 28th ult., of heart disease, Bro. Samuel Geo. Cook, of the Royal Oak Lodge, 871, Deptford, aged 48.
 IMBERSON.—On June 27, aged 60, Sarah, wife of Bro. Joseph Imberson, Upper George Hotel, Halifax, S.W. of St. James's Lodge, No. 448.
 BROWN.—On July 2nd, in the 77th year of his age, Bro. Thomas Brown, P.M. of the Royal Yorkshire Lodge, No. 265, Kelghley, and also a member of the Airedale Lodge, 887, Baildon. Deceased was initiated in 1813, and during his long Masonic career had been a very active and zealous brother. Up to within the last seven or eight years deceased was able to work either lecture, tracing board, or ritual for the three blue degrees, as well as work the R.A. ceremony, and was always willing, either to give instruction to younger members, or attend a Lodge meeting where assistance was required. In 1862, deceased was attacked in the night with a paralytic stroke, which deprived him of nearly the use of one side and caused speaking to be very difficult. His friends then succeeded in electing him an annuitant on the Royal Masonic Benevolent Society, for which he has often expressed his gratitude. In December, 1868, he had another attack, which rendered him so helpless that he had to be carried from bed to a sofa in the daytime, and back again at night, always remaining in the position in which he was placed until shifted. He gradually grew worse, and about a fortnight ago had another attack, which proved too strong for his now weakened frame. He was borne to his last resting-place by a number of his Masonic friends, and followed by a numerous assemblage of relations. Deceased was highly respected by all who knew him.

BOOKS RECEIVED.

"Le Monde Maconnique," for June.
 "The Rosicrucian" No. 5, for July.
 "Quarterly Statement of the Palestine Exploration Fund" to June 30.
 "The Michigan Freemason," No. 1, July. Kalamazoo, Mich., an.

The Freemason,

SATURDAY, JULY 10, 1869.

THE FREEMASON is published on Saturday Mornings in time for the early trains.

The price of THE FREEMASON is Twopence per week; quarterly subscription (including postage) 3s. 3d.

Annual Subscription, 12s. Subscriptions payable in advance.

All communications, letters, &c., to be addressed to the Editor, 3 & 4, Little Britain, E.C.

The Editor will pay careful attention to all MSS. entrusted to him, but cannot undertake to return them unless accompanied by postage stamps.

THE COFFEE ROOM AND LIBRARY AT FREEMASONS' HALL.

AMONG other improvements consequent upon the erection of the new buildings at Freemasons' Hall, the establishment of a Coffee Room and Library for the use of the Craft occupied no small share of attention on the part of the Committee to whom the superintendence of the work was entrusted. It was considered essentially necessary that suitable accommodation should be provided for those brethren who take an interest in the literary aspects of Freemasonry, and who desire to trace its history from authentic sources. Nearly every Grand Lodge in the United States of America possesses a library, and similar facilities for the acquirement of knowledge are to be found throughout the Continent of Europe. The Building Committee rightly determined that the Grand Lodge of England should not, for the future, be obnoxious to the reproach that the richest and most powerful Masonic body in the world utterly neglected the intellectual culture of its members. Two handsome rooms have, accordingly, been provided, one to be used as a Coffee Room, where the brethren can obtain refreshments at a fixed tariff, and the other as a Library and Reading Room. The books at present in possession of the Grand Lodge are not very numerous, nor do they comprise what are now recognised as standard works on Freemasonry. Thus, we look in vain for Findel's, Oliver's, Ragon's, or Mackey's works; but there are, nevertheless, several rare and curious volumes well deserving perusal and consideration. The room is also well supplied with the daily papers and periodicals; it is airy, cheerful, and well-ventilated. It will thus be seen that the Building Committee have done their best to accommodate the Craft, and our readers will doubtless expect to hear that the Coffee Room and Library are extensively patronised by brethren residing in the metropolis. We regret, however, that truth compels us to aver that the appearance of a brother in either room is rather a phenomenon than otherwise, and as our object is solely for the good of Freemasonry, we are bound to state the reason why this is the case. A subscription of one guinea per annum is payable for the privilege of using the rooms, and the result is that brethren are practically excluded from the benefits provided.

We desire at once to avow our sympathy with the idea which prompted the Building Committee to recommend the payment of a subscription, as they were naturally anxious that some return should be obtained by Grand Lodge for the heavy expenses incurred in connection with the new buildings. But the experiment has not been successful, very few brethren have subscribed, and the inexpediency of maintaining the tax, for such it is considered by the Craft, is thus fairly demonstrated.

Upon this subject we have heard the sentiments of very many eminent Masons, and all concur in opinion that the Coffee Room and Library should be thrown open to all members of Grand Lodge. We believe the time has arrived for making these views known to the authorities, who, we are certain, will, without hesitation or reluctance, reconsider the present arrangements.

So far as our suggestion is concerned, its adoption will not cause any appreciable loss of income, while, on the other hand, a substantial boon will thereby be conferred upon brethren who are sincerely anxious that English Freemasonry should still maintain its place in the vanguard of human progress and civilisation.

Let us have a real Library, in which the Masonic classics shall find an honoured place. We do not propose that any great expense should be incurred, because the allocation of an annual grant of, say, £20 per annum, for a few years, would, under judicious management, be amply sufficient for the purchase of interesting works. We shall then be able to show our foreign brethren that English Masons are not oblivious of their duty to seek for knowledge and propagate the liberal arts and sciences. We shall then be enabled to crown the material work of our new Masonic Temple with the enduring laurels of literature, by erecting within its sacred precincts a shrine consecrated to the intellectual faculties, and devoted to the advancement of Masonic knowledge.

Mulum in Parbo, or Masonic Notes and Queries.

The following extract from Aubrey's "Natural History of Wiltshire," p. 277, a manuscript in the library of the Royal Society, will be read with interest. It appears that Sir Christopher Wren in 1691, was enrolled among the members of the fraternity:—"Sir William Dugdale told me many years since, that about Henry the Third's time, the Pope gave a bull or patents to a company of Italian freemasons, to travel up and down over all Europe to build churches. From those are derived the Fraternity of adopted masons. They are known to one another by certain signs and watch-words; it continues to this day. They have severall lodges in severall counties for their reception; and when any of them fall into decay, the brotherhood is to relieve him, &c. The manner of their adoption is very formal, and with an oath of secrecy.—Memorandum: This day, May the 18th, being Monday, 1691, after Rogation Sunday, is a great convention at St. Paul's Church of the Fraternity of the adopted masons, where Sir Christopher Wren is to be adopted a brother, and Sir Henry Goodric of the Tower, and divers others. There have been kings that have been of this sodality."

The earliest recognised specimen of printing in the Greek character is the grammar by Constantine Lascaris, "Grammatica Græca Græcè," printed at Milan, in 1476. The volume consists of seventy-two leaves, of which the first two contain a preface in Greek, with a Latin translation by Demetrius Cretenais, the editor.—ANTQUARIUS.

Crypto—A word which means secrecy or mystery, from whence we derive cryptographic or secret writing; cryptonymus, or one who conceals his name; crypto-catholicism, the crypt of a cathedral, &c. The Americans call the two degrees "Royal and Select Masters," cryptic masonry, because it is alleged that the ark of the covenant, a pot of manna, the rod of Aaron, and a copy of the Sacred Law were deposited in a dark and secret vault. The late Edgar Allan Poe was an adept in cryptography, or the art of deciphering secret writing. Few ciphers, if any, could elude his penetrating mind.—MYSTES.

The Labarum was the celebrated sign which appeared to Constantine in the sky, and which he afterwards adopted on his standard; it is formed by a combination of the letters X and P, these being the two first letters of the name of Christ in Greek; it is simply a monogram and is variously depicted, the P always standing upright, and the X across it, sometimes the upright stem of the P is made to serve as one limb of the X, in which the figure consists of a long upright limb with a cross bar near the top, and the half circle of the P on the top limb above the cross; another style is the P in connection with two palm branches crossed to form the X; or the monogram within a wreath open at the top is another form; another is the monogram within a whole circle of laurel leaves, the wreath of victory, these may be in allusion to the motto said to have been inscribed on the Labarum "EN TOYTΩ NIKΑ" that is—conquer by this. In the Catacombs there is an example of a Lamb with the Labarum resting upon its head, signifying, no doubt—Christ, the Lamb of God. Another interesting example is the X and P in conjunction, within a circle with the six letters es deus (i.e. est deus) as a motto, one letter between each limb, this example would therefore read—Christ is God. The X P in Χριστός (Christos) is equivalent to Chr. in Christ. In Gibbon's "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire," cap. 20, p. 299, I find him observing that the derivation and meaning of the word "Labarum" is unknown; however, I venture to suggest the following, which has just struck me (although the true meaning may be given elsewhere, if so, I have not seen it), viz.: Labarum seems to me to be derived from the Latin labo, labare, to quail, or to fail in one's courage; which by a course of reasoning easily understood upon reflection, under the circumstances would cause the sign to be called labarum, or the fear-dispeller; i.e. the cross of Christ, or Christ, is the "fear-dispeller." Constantine might say, "When courage fails, a look at the cross of Christ dispels fear, therefore conquer by this!" In that sense we can easily perceive what effect it would have upon the minds of the soldiers; and how it came to be depicted, not only upon the grand standard, but also, upon the arms, shields, &c., of the soldiery, would reverence it as a precious talisman. I merely suggest this interpretation at present, and shall be glad to hear any remarks, while I also shall think over it; but I may add that I consider that the true meaning and derivation, whatever it may really be, will be quite simple.—LEO.

CONSECRATION OF THE NEW HALL OF LODGE NEPTUNE, No. 419, GLASGOW.

The large increase in the number of members, now nearly 700, attached to this Lodge, rendered it actually necessary that a more commodious hall should be selected for the proper carrying out of the functions of the Lodge, and, after a careful search, a very convenient hall was fixed upon at 35, St. James's-street, Kingston, Glasgow. The hall has been fitted up in every way in accordance with Masonic details and requirements, for the proper working of the Craft, and on the evening of Tuesday, 27th June, 1869, it was formally opened. The members and office-bearers turned out in large numbers. The consecration ceremony was conducted by the Right Worshipful Master, Bro. Alexander Macdougall, assisted by the Past Master, Bro. J. B. Wightman, and the Rev Bro. J. Maclean, P.G. Chaplain of Renfrewshire East, with the wardens and other office-bearers, who discharged their various duties.

The following was the ceremonial observed:—

The lodge room having been properly guarded and tyled—it having been ascertained that none but Master Masons were present, visitors were examined, showing their diplomas, and vouched for—the Lodge was then opened, and raised to the third degree. The Chaplain commenced the ceremonial of consecration by offering up a prayer as follows:—

"O adorable Lord God, Maker of all things, and Judge of all men, regard, we humbly beseech Thee, with Thy special favour, this our present undertaking, and grant that the work which we now continue in Thy name, may conduce to Thy glory, and to the good, temporal and eternal, of Thy dependent creatures. Let a scrupulous regard to the obligation which, in Thy name, and under Thine all-seeing eye, shall be herein entered into distinguish all upon whom the privileges of Initiation or Affiliation shall be conferred—that they, abounding in all holy conversation and godliness, may become true and worthy members of the Lodge, and of our venerable Order, and that their practice may, in all things, correspond with their profession."

Response by the brethren—So mote it be!

Grand honours were then given, followed by solemn music.

The Right Worshipful Master, standing with his hands stretched forth over the Lodge, exclaimed, "To the memory of the HOLY SAINTS JOHN, we dedicate this Lodge. May every brother revere their character and imitate their virtues."

Response by the brethren—So mote it be!

Psalm cxxxiii. was read.

Grand honours were then given.

An oration on the "Nature and Objects of Freemasonry" was then given by Bro. Maclean, P.G. Chaplain of Renfrewshire East; followed by an anthem, sung by the brethren.

The Right Worshipful Master then directed the Secretary to read the Charter in favour of the Lodge, and the minutes of the previous meeting; and ordered Psalm xcv. 1—7 to be chanted by the brethren.

The Chaplain then offered up the following prayer:—

Great Architect of the Universe! Maker and Ruler of all Worlds! deign, from Thy celestial Temple, from Realms of light and glory, to bless us, in all the purposes of our present assembly.

We humbly invoke Thee to give us at all times, wisdom in all our doings, strength of mind in all our difficulties, and the beauty of harmony in all our communications.

Permit us, O Thou Centre of light and life, great source of love and happiness, now solemnly to consecrate this Lodge to Thy honour and glory!

The Chaplain made a pause here, and the following was introduced:—

Response by the R.W.M.—Glory be to God on high!

Response by the brethren—As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be, world without end. Amen.

The consecration elements—corn, oil, and wine—were then sprinkled on the lodge room; after which the Chaplain resumed:—

Grant, O Lord our God, that they who are invested with the government of this Lodge, may be endued with wisdom to instruct their Brethren in all duties. May brotherly love and charity always prevail among the Members of this Lodge; and may this bond of Union continue to strengthen the Lodges throughout the world!

Bless all our brethren, wheresoever dispersed, and grant speedy relief to all who are either oppressed or distressed.

We humbly commend to Thee all the members of Thy whole family. May they increase in the knowledge of Thee and in the love of each other.

Finally, may we finish all our works here below with Thine approbation; and then have our transition from this earthly abode to Thy heavenly temple above, there to enjoy light, glory, and bliss ineffable.

Responses by the R.W. and Officiating Master—Glory be to God on high!

Response by the brethren—As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be, world without end. Amen.

Grand honours were given, followed by solemn music.

The Chaplain then read part of 2nd Chronicles, chapter vi., verses 12, 14, 17—21, 33 middle, 41; chapter vii., verses 1, 3, 12—18; and 1st Kings, chapter viii., verses 22, 23, 26—30, 43 middle, 60; and chapter ix., verses 3—5.

Anthem, sung by the brethren, accompanied by music:—

To heaven's high Architect all praise,
All praise, all gratitude be given;
Who deign'd the human soul to raise,
By mystic secrets sprung from heaven.
Sound aloud the great Jehovah's praise;
To Him the dome, the temple raise.

Grand honours were again given.

The benediction was pronounced by the Chaplain:—

May this Hall, now dedicated to Freemasonry, be ever the Sanctuary of Virtue, Morality, Brotherly Love, Universal Charity, and Benevolence; and may the Great Architect of the Universe bless all here assembled, and all the Brethren throughout the world, henceforth, and for ever. Amen.

The Lodge was then closed in ample form.

SUPPER.

After the conclusion of the ceremonial the members retired for about an hour, and again assembled together for supper in the hall. The R.W.M., Bro. A. Macdougall, presided, and Bro. the Rev. J. Maclean, P.G. Chaplain Renfrewshire East, discharged the duties of croupier. After the usual preliminary toasts had been disposed of, the Croupier proposed a toast in memoriam of their late lamented brother and R.W.M., which was drunk in solemn silence. Thereafter, the toast of the evening, "The Lodge Neptune," was proposed by a brother, and responded to by the R.W.M. A number of other toasts followed, enlivened by songs and recitations, and the evening was happily spent. A number of distinguished brethren were present, and they all parted, after singing "Auld Lang-syne."

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.

The following letter has been issued by the Secretary of the above Institution:—

"Office, 6, Freemasons' Hall,
London, W.C., June, 1869.

"It had been hoped that the Annual Summer Fete held in commemoration of the opening of the new building, might be always regarded simply as a congratulatory assembly of the friends of the Institution, and not rendered subservient to the provision of pecuniary support. The present financial condition of the School, however, necessitates the use of every opportunity for enlisting assistance in the efforts now being made to extricate it from the difficulties with which it is unfortunately still surrounded.

"The great success attending the Anniversary Festival in March last, justified the Committee in redeeming a pledge, publicly given, that the mortgage debt of £10,000 should be redeemed—and notice was accordingly given to pay off that encumbrance in six months from the date thereof, which period will expire in September next.

"The existence of additional liabilities has never been concealed, but it was impossible to state the amount, pending the making up and settlement of the charges and accounts of the various contractors. This having been done, the liabilities have been ascertained to amount to—in round figures—£9,000. The estimated requirements for the current year, therefore, stand thus:—

Payment of Mortgage Debt	£10,000
Interest thereon, three-quarters of a year	375
Annual Maintenance	4,600
Special Expenditure, say	400
Ascertained Liabilities	9,000
	24,375
The Festival in March, with the addition from surplus of Stewards' Fund realised...	12,200
Balance from last year.....	1,269
Estimated additional receipts from ordinary sources	1,500
	14,969

Deficit..... £9,406

"An analysis annexed, of the proceeds of the recent festival will show that there is nothing unreasonable in the hope, or extravagant in the wish, that this deficit should be realised, seeing that of the estimated numbers of subscribing members of the Order, viz.:—35,000—three only in every hundred contributed—while of the lodges less than one-fourth were donors to the fund.

"The cost of the new building has been much greater than was originally contemplated, and has reached the amount of £46,000, but this includes the sums paid for entrance lodges and gates, gymnasium, furniture, fittings, drainage, re-construction of roads and grounds, sinking well for provision of water, architects' commission, &c., in all about £10,000; it being universally admitted that this outlay has placed the Craft in possession of a building superior to anything of a similar class yet erected.

"The number of pupils now educated, maintained and clothed is 110, exclusive of 4 admitted by purchase. A re-arrangement of the Dormitories—without further outlay, will enable the Committee to admit twenty additional boys, but the consideration of this most desirable and beneficial extension* must wait the extinction of debt.

"As regards the educational efficiency of the School, the Committee point with pride to the announcement publicly made by Lord Lyttelton, when recently presiding at the distribution of awards to the successful candidates at the Cambridge Local Examination held in December last, that 'Of the 1165 junior Candidates successful at that Examination, Harry William Wildman, educated at the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, was absolutely primus!' In the whole of the classes it is gratifying to report also a steady and proportionate progress—while in physical condition, and indeed in every other respect, the school not only does not fear, but challenges, comparison with all other analogous Institutions.

"It may be urged by some that the appeals in connection with this institution are so numerous as to become wearisome. The reply to this is, that there is no desire unnecessarily to harass those who have already liberally subscribed, but there is an intense anxiety to influence those—by far the larger number—who up to the present time have withheld their support. In addition to these, the muster rolls of the various lodges are being numerously added to day by day, and new lodges are constantly being founded. There must, therefore, be an extensive field constantly requiring tillage, and from which there ought to be, and must be, sound assurance of support.

"Let however all remember that no great work was ever accomplished save by perseverance and industry—and that with the exercise of these qualities nothing is impossible.

"It must also be borne in mind that exceptional circumstances demand exceptional measures. The condition of this school is abnormal, and such as cannot recur. Once founded—for that is really the work now being accomplished—the necessity for such an appeal as this will have passed away. To hasten this 'consummation so devoutly to be wished,' let me therefore with all respectful pleading earnestly beg

'Those to give who never gave before,
Those who have given to give something more.'

"Believe me very faithfully and fraternally yours,
"FREDERICK BINCKES, Secretary."

* How desirable, may be gathered from the statement that there will in all probability be 48 Candidates for Election in October next—including 35 unsuccessful in April last—with Six Vacancies only.

Original Correspondence.

[The Editor is not responsible for the opinions expressed by Correspondents.]

MASONIC MYSTERIES.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—The letter headed as above, and copied from the Morning Advertiser in your impression of the 19th ult., does not yet seem to have been thoroughly answered. I can inform you that a reply was sent to the Morning Advertiser, and it was rejected under the plea that a reply had preceded it. In answer to the said letter, it is evident that its author's logic was on the shelf, and not in his brain, when he committed himself in the following flagrant directions, which are the direct deductions of his arguments. He implies:—

1. That the principles of religion comprise no secret (assumed).
2. That the Masonic secrets, if divulged, would do good to mankind in general (assumed).
3. That the said secrets are reserved as a saleable commodity, for the purpose of levying an initiation fee (malicious).
4. That publication of the secrets would be the only sign of their inherent goodness (illogical fallacy).
5. That a society publishing any portion of their proceedings, ought to disclose all (presumption).
6. That a Freemason's degree of benevolence may be reduced to arithmetical terms (absurd).
7. That Freemasons deal the animadversions of non-Masons (simple).
8. That Freemasonry is a society which interferes with the reason and common sense of the nation (utterly false).
9. That Masonic swearing is contrary to religion, law, and right (deficient in classification).

Considering these nine points seriatim, it may be easily seen:—

1. That the principles of religion are so thoroughly secret in themselves, that no one can comprehend them in the true sense but those who practise them. Their true meaning of the whole religious theory, therefore, is a secret to all except those who have identified themselves with a pious application thereof; like Freemasonry, whose inner truths and watchwords are familiar only to its votaries. Thus in this illustration the vituperator comes upon an image which demolishes the Iconoclast of his own making.

2. This assumption is a result of the necessary ignorance of a non-mason, at which, however, all but the most saturnine Masons would smile. But, further; it argues an unreasonable separation of a part from its whole; for, Freemasonry in its entirety—like religion—may produce a beneficial influence on the outward world, through the benevolence and integrity of its members; whereas, if a few isolated facts—under the name of secrets—were published to the world; they would be to the world unmeaning facts.

3. There seems to be some envy and malice here. Its author should not forget his Horace, however:—Invidus alterius macrescit rebus opimis. Is not an initiation fee, besides defraying expenses, a good test of a man's sincerity in declaring his desire to unite himself to this ancient and noble Order? The most valuable commodities are often those for which we have to labour hard and strive ardently.

4. If all that is unrevealed be bad, then our whole mercantile machinery, our arcana imperii, and every system of occult telegraphy used conservatively to carry on many businesses, are vicious because they are not made generally known. Who could fail to be the argumentum ad absurdum that exists here?

5. If the Freemasons were to publish their secrets along with notices of lodge meetings and chapters; merchants and tradesmen to disclose the meanings of their trade-marks, letters and words; bodies corporate to explain minutely their inner principles of action and springs of success; they would confer a great pleasure on him who thinks they ought to do so; on him who is curious to know, and not wise enough to see any let or hindrance. The mental calibre of a child is sufficient to see the impracticability of such a proceeding. But, to require any society to publish all, because it does so in part, is the highest degree of presumption, and interferes with natural justice and freewill.

6. If Masonic benevolence be decried because it exists in a conspicuous degree, the inveigher must be pitted because of his selfishness; and if he thinks that a Freemason ought to bestow equal charity on all, then he is making himself a would-be master of other men's pockets, and would fain measure all by his own bushel. He conjectures a degree of benevolence, and ignorantly applies it to the Freemasons.

7. It is a weak society that cannot withstand the common scandal which the envious and ignorant are ever ready to fulminate against it; but Freemasonry is especially puissant in that matter, for it is ever maintained in its lofty state through the very correct process of its own inherent virtues, and its principles rest on, and have their source in, truth.

8. To assert that the "Fraternity of Ancient, Free, and Accepted Masons" interferes with the reason and common sense of the nation, is to belie history in all ages and countries. Surely he who makes such an assertion has never communed with Clio, or has never given the least credence to her relations! Freemasons are well known as being a conservative body in political matters, not actively engaged in the discussion thereof, but always subservient to, and unwavering in upholding, the powers that be; that being one of the special charges enjoined in the Book of Constitutions. That which interferes with reason must be illogical either in its first principles or in its subsequent procedure, or both. Our calumniator asserts the same, so that his task of proving is rather an unenviable one. And as for the other point, the common sense of the nation, and the élite of the nation, has been coincident with Freemasonry from time immemorial—from ancient days, from patriarchal eras, yea from the world's cradle.

9. Our friend's last hit, respecting Masonic swearing, is as weak as his other attempts at opposition. Freemasonry having its principles based on religion, is thus solemnised, receives a qualification of reverence, and identifies itself with the laws of righteousness. How then—it may be asked, of our friend—can the Masonic oath, and the oath taken in a court of justice be made to differ in respect of moral sanction, seeing that they are equal in all that is grave, good and important? He also avers that it is opposed to law. Then, Freemasonry must also be opposed to law. But, we find that it is sanctioned by the law, and that being the case, its laws and regulations must also be so sanctioned, for the whole comprises every part; hence what is affirmed or denied of the whole, must be affirmed or denied of the parts contained in that whole. The Masonic fraternity, therefore, being legalised in toto, is also in parte truly lawful. If Masonic swearing interferes with right, one is almost at a loss to make the reference. If by right he meant natural justice, then it must be arranged under four heads: viz. — The right to personal freedom; to the common bounty of heaven; to property; to good government. If it can be shown that the Masonic oath interferes with this or any other domain of political economy, or with the same term construed in any theological sense whatever, it must be the work of the sapient mind that would fain hold up to scorn a society which it may be too unqualified to approach in a more noble way.

In conclusion, our objector thinks that it is irrational and presumptuous to style the Deity "The Great Architect of the Universe," because, as he says, it is a mechanical title. If he objects to metaphors entirely as used in the title of God, then I have nothing to say respecting the eccentricity, only that it is a whim of no moment to society. On the other hand, if he have a distaste for anything savouring of mechanism, it may be merely a professional dislike. If he object to the title per se, then he also declares warfare against many titles used in the Scriptures, pointing to mechanism, construction, creation.

Like many others, this mal-content desires to elicit facts concerning the Craft, would like very much to get to know all for nothing, and offers himself as a sort of would-be champion, in the event of being favoured. But he is not the sort of pilgrim that is likely to find the wicket gate, and continue in the narrow path that leads to one of Truth's great temples.

Yours fraternally,

5th July, 1869.

A. CUTHBERTSON.

SOLOMON'S TEMPLE v. EGYPTIAN, ASSYRIAN, & PHENICIAN ARCHITECTURE.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—In THE FREEMASON for May 15th, page 1, "The Son of Salathiel" tells us that Solomon's Temple served as "the model" for "nearly all those wondrous palaces and temples of the ancient world of which such magnificent remains exist even to the present day." In THE FREEMASON for May 29th, page 5, I attempted to prove said statement a mistake, from the fact that Solomon's Temple was not built until between 1012 and 1007 years B.C., long after the Augustan age of Egyptian Architecture had passed; consequently Solomon's Temple was a copy of, not a "model" for. In THE FREEMASON of June 26, page 8, however, "The Son of Salathiel" returns to the charge, and admitting the great advancement of the Egyptians in architecture, &c., says:—"Let 'Leo' read Layard's Discoveries in Nineveh and Babylon—in which he finds many points of resemblance in the plan and general design. The Temple was finished in 7 years, and Sennacherib built his palace at Konyenjik in the same time." Now, I have read Layard before this, and the above quotation is found at page 644 of his work; but, turn it as he will, what can "The Son of Salathiel" make of it? All Layard's remarks merely show that there were certain points of resemblance between Solomon's Temple and Sennacherib's Palace; but it does not therefore follow that Sennacherib took Solomon's Temple as "the model" of his Palace. Not so, the style of Sennacherib's Palace was that of the Assyrians, in use before Solomon was born; consequently Sennacherib built his Palace in accordance with the usual style of his own country, and so far from Solomon's Temple agreed with this, it was nearly a copy of the Assyrian practice. But Solomon's Temple was not built by Assyrians, it was built by Phœnicians; further, Solomon's structure was a Temple, whereas Sennacherib's was a Palace, (of course Solomon had a Palace also, but we are not speaking of it in the meantime), and from the position of Phœnicia I should expect such a structure as Solomon's Temple to be partly Egyptian and partly Assyrian. Mr. Phillip Smith says: "There seems to have been a general resemblance to the Egyptian Temple; but even this is a matter of dispute; 'for certain arrangements I am inclined to believe Mr. Smith to be, probably, correct, so far. However we shall be happy to see if any new light is to be thrown on the matter by Lieutenant Warren. One thing we do know, the Sidonians cut the timber and a Tyrian superintended the brasswork. These foreign artificers therefore did not require to copy from Solomon; it was Solomon who required to copy from them. Another remark, which proves the absurdity of placing much reliance upon the 'seven years' coincidence of time occupied in building Solomon's Temple and Sennacherib's Palace, is the statement in 1 Kings, vii. chap. 1st verse, 'But Solomon was building his own house thirteen years.' I think the above shows I justly ridiculed the assertion that the Temple of Solomon was the model for other ancient edifices." I have read divers works upon the above, and could say more, but I forbear to take up much space, and therefore close this with the remark, that as for the Phœnicians, "their great city of Sidon was already built when Abraham lived in Canaan."

I am, yours fraternally,

LEO.

THISTLE LODGE, GLASGOW, No. 87.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I had considered that contempt was the best course to pursue towards the letter appearing in your number of the 29th May from a discontented self-baptised by the gastro-nomical title of "Tatties and Tripe." The former seems to have soured on his stomach, and the latter stuck in his throat, for he really makes a writhing and walloping poor fellow, hideous to behold. It gives me, and others, however, much relief that he has so favorably criticised the paragraph from the Herald, and I feel certain, that such of your readers on either side of the Border, as will take the pains to compare his or their original purulent emanation regarding the occasion, with that report, cannot fail to perceive where the rancorous spirit of acrimony lies. He says he told the "truth," and in the proper organ for Masonic news, "The Year" readers will judge whether they or he did so like gentlemen, or enlightened Freemasons; and when you understand they were not of the guests at all, we must accord them many thanks for their kind solicitation in giving it publicity in your columns. Bro. T. and T. again goes about the bush, and says: "It would have been more honorable to have acknowledged that it was a supper to raise a fund to assist a poor old Tyler," &c., &c. Here he again most piteously displays either his gross ignorance, or wilful disregard of truth. The affair was a gratuitous piece of hospitality, on the part of the S.W., and the contribution for the old man was altogether an after-thought; and if instead of displaying such unmasonic sentiments towards an old worn-out and bed-ridden brother, who had borne the heat and burden of the day, they had sent their mite to the collection, it might have covered a multitude of sins. If Bro. T. and T., and his peers chose to insist on a public supper, and then directly or otherwise skulk behind the scenes to burk it, and of themselves elect to be disagreeable, they could not surely prevent other social and harmonious souls from meeting together in their own way, and pledging the 107th anniversary of their lodge; and I for one, as the weather is hot, am willing to accept of a duplicate of the same, and drink once more to the prosperity of the Thistle 87.

In conclusion, let me tender your anonymous correspondent and Co., a bit of advice; if they be clean-handed white-gloved Freemasons they will no further seek to assimilate themselves with that loathsome type of mankind, the Hibernian agrarian assassin, or the ruthless uncouth Celt, by hiding to assail their brother man from behind an ambush of "Tatties and Tripe," but by the light of conscience, and the light of day, if they have truth for their cause, come boldly to the front and sign themselves honestly, avowedly, and masonically, as I have once more the honor to do and to be,

Yours fraternally,

WM. LAWSON, Sec.

Thistle Lodge, No. 87.

Glasgow, 24th June, 1869.

THE ORDER OF ST. MICHAEL AND ST. GEORGE.

(From a Supplement to the London Gazette, June 29.)

COLONIAL OFFICE, Downing-street, June 28.

The Queen having taken into her Royal consideration the statutes of the Most Distinguished Order of Saint Michael and Saint George, bearing date the 31st day of January, 1851, and made under the authority of the letters patent, passed under the Great Seal of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, bearing date the 31st day of December, 1850, the operation of which statutes had theretofore been limited to natives of the then United States of Ionian Islands, or of Malta, and to such other persons as should be distinguished as therein mentioned, in connection with the said islands, or with Malta, or with her Majesty's service in the Mediterranean, and being desirous of making such alterations in the said statutes as will enable her Majesty to reward such natural-born subjects of the Crown of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland as may be persons of conspicuous merit, or may have rendered important services to the Crown with or in connection with any of her Majesty's colonial possessions, has been graciously pleased, in pursuance and in exercise of the power vested in her as Sovereign and Chief of the said Most Distinguished Order, to repeal the aforesaid statutes.

And her Majesty has been graciously pleased by certain statutes, bearing date the 4th day of December, 1868, to ordain that the said Order shall thenceforth as theretofore be styled and designated in all acts, proceedings, and pleadings, as the Most Distinguished Order of St. Michael and St. George; and that it shall as theretofore consist of the Sovereign, a Grand Master, and three several classes of Knights of Grand Cross, Knights Commanders, and Companions.

And to ordain that her Majesty, her heirs, and successors, kings and queens regnant of this United Kingdom, are, and for ever shall be sovereigns and chiefs of the said Order, and that a prince of the blood royal, being a descendant of his late Majesty King George I., or such other exalted personage as her Majesty, her heirs, and successors may hereafter appoint, shall hold and enjoy the office of Grand Master of the Order, who shall be the First or Principal Knight Grand Cross of the same, and that Field Marshal his Royal Highness George William Frederick Charles, Duke of Cambridge, K.G., Commanding in Chief the Forces, be Grand Master of the Order.

And to ordain that the First Class or Knights Grand Cross shall not exceed twenty-five in number; and that the Second Class or Knights Commanders shall not exceed sixty in number; and that the Third Class or Companions shall not exceed one hundred in number, it being competent her Majesty, her heirs, and successors, to appoint any person actually holding the office of governor in any of her Majesty's colonial possessions to be an extra member of either the first or the second classes until a vacancy therein should occur.

And to ordain that the persons to be admitted into the Order shall be such natural-born subjects of the Crown of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland as may have held or should thereafter hold high and confidential offices, or may render extraordinary and important services to her Majesty, as Sovereign of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and in relation to any of her Majesty's colonial possessions, or who may become eminently distinguished therein by their talents, merits, virtues, loyalty, or services, or who then were or thereafter might be appointed officers of the Order.

Her Majesty has also been pleased to ordain that it should be lawful for her Majesty, her heirs, and successors, by virtue of the powers to her and them reserved in and by the aforesaid letters patent, to increase the numbers of any of the said classes, and to assign a place in any such class to any person whom her Majesty might think fit to admit into the Order.

And to ordain that the following officers should be appointed to the Order:—A secretary and registrar, a king of arms, and officers of arms attendant on the Order, of such number, and resident in such places, as her Majesty from time to time might think fit to appoint; together with other matters set forth in the said statutes.

The Majesty has further been graciously pleased, in pursuance of the statutes aforesaid, to make the following appointments to the said Order:—

To be an Ordinary Member of the First Class or Knights Grand Cross of the said Order:—

The Right Honourable Viscount Monck, late Governor General of the Dominion of Canada, and Captain General and Governor in Chief of the Island of Prince Edward.

To be Ordinary Members of the Second Class, or Knights Commanders of the said Order:—

Francis Hicks, Esq., C.B., late Governor and Commander in Chief of the colony of British Guiana.

James Walker, Esq., C.B., Governor and Commander in Chief of the Bahama Islands.

Major-General Charles Hastings Doyle, Lieutenant Governor of the Province of Nova Scotia, in the Dominion of Canada.

To be Ordinary Members of the Third Class, or Companions of the said Order:—

Charles Cowper, Esq., late Chief Minister of the Government of New South Wales.

William Charles Gibson, Esq., late Colonial Secretary of the island of Ceylon.

Felix Bedingfeld, Esq., late Colonial Secretary for the island of Mauritius.

John Bayley Darvall, Esq., late Attorney General of the colony of New South Wales.

John Sealy, Esq., Attorney General of the island of Barbadoes.

John Lucie Smith, Esq., Attorney General of the colony of British Guiana.

Thomas Skinner, Esq., late Civil Engineer and Commissioner of Roads for the island of Ceylon.

Theophilus Shepstone, Esq., Secretary for Native Affairs in the colony of Natal.

COLONIAL OFFICE, Downing-street, June 25.

The Queen having taken into her Royal consideration the expediency of providing for the admission into the Most Distinguished Order of Saint Michael and Saint George of such naturalised foreign persons as her Majesty, her heirs and successors, shall think fit to appoint, has been graciously pleased by a supplementary statute, bearing date the 3rd day of April, 1869, in pursuance and in exercise of the authority vested in her as Sovereign of the said Order, to ordain that persons of whatever nation or country, who may have been duly naturalised in the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, or in any of her Majesty's colonies or dependencies, shall be competent to be admitted into the said Order, in like manner as if they had been natural-born subjects of the Crown of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

Her Majesty has been further graciously pleased to appoint, to be an Ordinary Member of the Third Class, or Companions of the said Order:—

Ferdinand Mueller, Esq., M.D., government botanist for the colony of Victoria.

COLONIAL OFFICE, Downing-street, June 30.

The Queen has been graciously pleased to make the following appointments to the most distinguished Order of Saint Michael and Saint George:—

To be Ordinary Members of the First Class, or Knights Grand Cross of the said Order:—

The Right Honourable Earl of Derby, K.G., some time one of her Majesty's principal Secretaries of State having the department of War and Colonies.

The Right Honourable Earl Grey, K.G., some time one of her Majesty's principal Secretaries of State having the department of War and Colonies.

The Right Honourable Earl Russell, K.G., some time one of her Majesty's principal Secretaries of State having the department of War and Colonies.

The Queen has also been graciously pleased to give orders for the following appointments to the said Order:—

To be Ordinary Members of the Second Class of Knights Commanders:—

Paul Edmund de Strzelecki, Esq., C.B.

The Right Honourable Baron Lyttelton, some time Under Secretary of State for War and Colonies.

The Right Hon. Frederick Peel, some time Under Secretary of State for War and Colonies.

The Right Hon. Charles Bowyer Adderley, late Under Secretary of State for the Colonies.

Sir Frederic Rogers, Bart., Under Secretary of State for the Colonies.

Sir Hercules George Robert Robinson, Knight, Governor and Commander in Chief of the Island of Ceylon.

Alexander Tillack Galt, Esq., late Minister for Finance in the Dominion of Canada.

Henry Taylor, Esq., of the Colonial Department.

Thomas Frederick Elliot, Esq., late Assistant Under Secretary of State for the Colonies.

To be an Ordinary Member of the Third Class, or Companions of the said Order:—

George Macleay, of New South Wales, Esq.

THE BRITISH DRUIDS AND PERSIAN MAGI.

In the general survey which has been taken of human sacrifices in this country we have found a melancholy resemblance in this detestable rite, between the inhabitants of various nations, who could not possibly have acquired it from their intercourse with one another. This common practice must be traced to a higher source; to the depravity and weakness of human nature, degrading into the grossest degeneracy, an institution that probably in its primitive purity, was of divine appointment for the redemption of mankind. In this and in many other depraved customs, we may perceive a general conformity between the nations of the earth, sufficiently obvious to prove one common origin of all, but not sufficiently distinctive to enable us to mark the various channels through which mankind have passed.

But amidst these general resemblances which idolatry uniformly exhibits, there are several peculiar characteristics which will lead us to associate our British progenitors with the ancient inhabitants of Persia. In the twenty-second chapter of his Antiquities, Dr. Porlase has noticed with much precision, several prominent features of this coincidence, and the parallel which he has drawn is too striking to escape our observations.

It was among the secret doctrines of the Druids, that the supreme Deity was too exalted to be confined to temples made with hands. Hence their temples were round, were in general without a covering, and in their worship they formed circles, to intimate that God was to be found in every direction. In this they were resembled by the Persians, who taught that the celestial expanse was their Jupiter, whom they worshipped in the open air.

The Druids taught, that God was too refined to be represented by any figure; and the Persians admitted no statues into their temples. Both the Cornish Druids and the Persian Magi, forbade the introduction of images into their temples. The Druids selected hills and eminences for the places of their worship, and the Magi worshipped their deities on the summits of mountains. The Druids viewed the serpent with much respect, and treated it with veneration, if they withheld from it divine honors; and, as a symbol of the sun, the Persians worshipped the serpent, which they considered as a representative of their god Mithras. The Druids paid divine honours to rocks, from a persuasion that they were inhabited by some divine intelligences; and the Persians taught that their God Mithras was born of a rock. The Druids believed in the transmigration of the soul; and the same doctrine was inculcated by the Persian Magi.

In point of dignity, the Druids were equal to the British kings, and in some respects even superior to them; and the Magi stood in the highest order of the state, and were ranked with the monarchs of Persia. The robes which adorned the Druids were white; the holy sages was of the same colour; and so also was the sacerdotal habit, as well as the oracular horse. In these particulars also the coincidence was preserved. The Persian Magus was decorated with white; the Magi rode upon white horses; the royal robes were white, and the trappings of the horses preserved the resemblance. Ablutions and ritual purifications were as common to both as was the sacrificing of human victims to their gods.

We have already noticed, that the Druids had their sacred fires, of which some vestiges still remain in this country. The Persians also had their holy flame, to which they paid divine adoration, and festal fires which they lighted up at each return of the consecrated season. The uses of these fires were also strikingly similar. The Druids considered them as antidotes against the diseases of cattle; and the Persian extended this powerful virtue to the human body, placing their sick within its genial influence, in order that they might recover. The Druids compelled the inhabitants, at a certain season of the year, to extinguish all their fires, and to rekindle them from that sacred fire which they alone had a right to sell; and with some trifling variations, the same custom prevails in Persia even to the present day.

In the art of divination, both the Druids and the Magi were great proficient; the principles and modes were nearly alike; and in all probability their success was much the same. The Druids divined from particular incidents, personal dis-appointment, and unexpected afflictions; and, in these respects the Persians seem to have imitated their conduct, or to have set them an example. The Druids, as we have already seen, had their fatal stone, and the Persians had their artizoe, which was thought to point out the most deserving candidate for the throne. The Druids approached the mistletoe, the vervain, the samolus, and the selago, with many awful scruples; and the Persian considered the mistletoe as a divine plant. With the Druids it was deemed unlawful and profane to cut the mistletoe with anything besides a golden hook; and the Persians had their ghez, or haulm, which they only presumed to cut with a consecrated knife. The Druids considered the mistletoe as a general antidote against poisons, and the selago as a charm against all misfortunes; and the Persians had their herbs, which they considered as preservatives against the power of demons.

Among the ancient Britons, no sacrifice could be offered and no religious rite performed, without a Druid; and among the Persians, it was criminal for any one to approach the altar or touch the victim, before the Magus had gone through the accustomed ceremonies. The Druids excluded the incorrigible from their sacrifices, and considered it as the most grievous punishment that they could inflict; the Persians also knew the power of excommunication, and cast off the abandoned and impenitent in a similar manner. The Druids instructed their disciples in grottoes and in sequestered recesses; and Zoroaster, the chief Magus of the Persians, communicated his instructions in a cave.

In all the preceding instances, and in a variety of others, the resemblance between the Druids of Britain, and the Magi of Persia, is both striking and wonderful. It may be traced in all the general characteristics of their distinct orders, in the rights of the living, and in the ceremonies observed towards the dead. We may therefore infer, that their general principles were the same; and that, although they differed from each other in subordinate punctilios, the singular conformity which existed, could not have resulted from accidental similitudes.

The principle, however, from which this conformity has arisen, being far less evident than the fact itself, has given rise to various conjectures and much discussion. Mr. Polwhele argues from it, in favour of his own hypothesis, and contends that it affords a commanding evidence in favour of an early colony into Britain from Armenia or its confines; and it must be acknowledged, that its aspect is far from being unfavourable to his cause. Dr. Borlase supposes, that the Druids had some principles and rites that were derived from those of true religion, that had begun with mankind and that were continued through succeeding ages, though somewhat obscured by fable. Other principles and rites, he observes, must have sprung from those general seeds of idolatry, which in process of time polluted the whole Gentile world. But a third sort, he contends, were the product of climate, the effect of invention, and the result of imitation.

Those branches of their principles, rites, and customs, which Dr. Borlase supposes the Druids to have established by imitation, he conceives they derived from the Phœnician merchants, who frequented the Cornish coasts. These merchants, without doubt, were well acquainted with the Persians, as Tyre and Sidon continued for many years the principal marts of their eastern as well as their western trade. And it is not improbable, that the acute Phœnicians, and after them the Greeks, on finding the Druids of Cornwall the dupes of superstition, endeavoured to secure their favour and interest, by enriching their mythology with the fables and absurdities of the eastern nations. It was a profitable trade, to barter superstition for merchandise; to introduce the follies of Persia for the metals of Cornwall; and a proof of something more than common ingenuity, to ensure the protection of power, in proportion to the extent of the imposition which they practised.

Through the same channel we may also perceive how the Druids of this country had acquired some knowledge of the Jewish and Egyptian rites. The Phœnicians traded much with Egypt, and had an opportunity of carrying on the barter of mythology in that country for its more valuable commodities, and of conveying their fables to the most advantageous market. In the meanwhile, the Jews were within reach of their constant observations, and furnished them with an opportunity of exporting many of those rites which God had commanded them to observe. And as the Phœnicians traded with the world, and had an opportunity of noting the various customs, manners, and institutions of mankind, we may fairly infer, that the mixture of truth and falsehood, which we sometimes discover in the records of idolatry, may be, in some degree, traced to this Phœnician channel, in which the conflicting currents seem to have been united.

The Druids of Cornwall being thus circumstanced, we may easily account for the inconsistent parts and principles, of which their creed was formed. They seem to have been ready to lay hold on everything that could promise to decorate their mythology, and extend their influence. Inconsistency was only of a secondary consideration. They alone had the power and ability to interpret any laws; and consequently they knew perfectly well how to impute to the want of discernment in the disciples, any sublime mysteries which had the appearance of inconsistency.

It is plain, however, from hence, that through these innovations, which it is probable the Phœnicians introduced, Druidism must have degenerated from its primitive simplicity. But what the precise effects of these innovations were, we have now no means of comprehending. We know however with certainty, that our British ancestors were idolaters; that they bowed down before inanimate matter, which they considered as the residence of some intelligent agent; and that in some of their sacrifices, their altars were stained with human blood.

Such was the worship, such were the gods, and such were the rites and sacrifices which distinguished the Druids and ancient Britons. Of these Druids and other Britons we have many remains still existing in Cornwall; but through the lapse of time, the particular uses of many are wholly unknown.

—Monthly Illustrated Journal.

SINGULAR COINCIDENCE.

(To the Editor of the Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER.—I am exceedingly glad to find that an Address delivered by Bro. Little on the 25th February last, and which appeared in No. 1 of THE FREEMASON, is so highly appreciated by a writer called "Dnalxo," in one of your contemporaries, that he cheerfully appropriates the ideas as his own.

Thus we find that Bro. Little, in allusion to the universal character imparted to the Masonic Institution by the founders of Speculative Freemasonry in the beginning of the 18th century, writes as follows:—

BRO. LITTLE.

"It is impossible to overrate the results which followed this great change in the theory and practice of the Craft, and the applause of mankind in general is due to those courageous men who, at a period when strife and bitterness prevailed between warring sects, were so far in advance of the spirit of their age, as to discard the intolerance which then separated man from his fellow-men."

Again, in speaking of Freemasonry as an institution which "boldly proclaims that all upright men are brethren. But in awarding the highest meed of praise to the promoters of universality in the Craft, we must not overlook the fact, so interesting to every Masonic student, that a Christian element formerly existed in its precepts and ceremonies. He then proceeds to state that the Christian or chivalric orders are to be regarded as developments of Freemasonry in a Christian sense.

And further refers to the abuse of Masonic privileges, by designing men in connection with the invention of "pseudo-Masonic degrees which reflected disgrace upon Christianity by preaching a spirit of intolerance," &c.

I remain, yours fraternally,

ORDO AB CHAO.

"DNALXO."

"Dnalxo" writes:—"We cannot overlook the fact that this universality is the result of the charges that have been effected in the theory and practice of the order, since its revival in the early part of the eighteenth century.

"The benefits arising from these changes, to the Craft and society in general, cannot be overrated, and the highest honor is due to those, who at a period of bitter political and religious intolerance, boldly proclaimed their free and generous opinion, that all just and upright men are brethren. While ascribing due honor to the promoters of universality in the Craft, we cannot forget that a Christian element pre-existed, which by the elevation of Freemasonry from a sectarian to an universal institution, was diverted into another channel—that of the so-called High Degrees.

"From political and other sinister motives, pseudo-Masonic degrees have been invented of intolerant and pernicious principles," &c.

METROPOLITAN MASONIC MEETINGS

For the Week ending July 17, 1869.

Monday, July 12.

Quarterly G. Meeting Boy's School, Freemasons' Hall, at 12. Lodge No. 879, "Peckham," Edinbro' Castle, Peckham. Mark Lodge 5, "Mallet and Chisel," Horns Tavern, Kenington.

Tuesday, July 13.

Lodge No. 548, "Wellington," White Swan Tavern, Deptford. "933, "Doric," Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street. Metropolitan Chapter of Instruction, George Hotel, Aldermanbury at 7; Comp. Brett, Preceptor. Domestic Lodge of Instruction, Palmerston Tavern, Grosvenor-park, Canaberrwell, at 7.30. Joppa Lodge of Instruction, Rose and Crown, Bishopsgate-street.

Wednesday, July 14.

Committee Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, at 8. Lodge No. 820, "Lily," Greyhound Hotel, Richmond. "1017, "Montefiore," Freemasons' Hall. "1228, "Beacontree," Private-rooms, Leytonstone.

Thursday, July 15.

Lodge No. 917, "Cosmopolitan," City Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street. Red + Plantagenet Preceptory, No. 2, Lyceum Tavern, Strand.

Friday, July 16.

Lodge No. 818, "New Concord," Rosemary Branch Tav., Hoxton.

Saturday, July 17.

Audit Committee Boy's School. Lodge No. 1155, "Lewis," Nightingale Tavern, Wood-green.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Indisputable remedies for bad legs, old wounds, sores, and ulcers, if used according to directions given with them. There is no wound, bad leg, ulcerous sore, or bad breast, however obstinate or long standing, but will yield to their healing and curative properties. Numbers of persons who have been patients in several of the large hospitals, and under the care of eminent surgeons, without deriving the slightest benefit, have been thoroughly cured by Holloway's Ointment and Pills. For glandular swellings, tumours, scurvy, and diseases of the skin there is no medicine that can be used with so good an effect. In fact, for removing the worst forms of disease, dependent upon the condition of the blood, these medicines are irresistible.—ADVT.

Advertisements.

WHY NOT VISIT THE

ROEBUCK GARDENS AND GROUNDS?
Over 22 acres. Scenery unequalled.
Noted favourite resort for Dinners, Teas, Masonic Banquets, School Treats, &c.

N.B.—The New Hall will dine over 500 persons. Ten minutes' walk from the Buckhurst-hill Railway Station; by road 10 miles.

Ordinary every Sunday at Two.

MASONIC NOTE AND LETTER PAPER.

Sanctioned by The Most Worshipful
The Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of England

It is impressed with Masonic Die, and has also Masonic Emblems incorporated with its texture, as Water Marks, while being manufactured.

Sold, in Quarto and Octavo Packets of 5 Quires, Wholesale and Retail, at the MASONIC DEPOT, 3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, E.C.

Masonic Envelopes can also be obtained at the Depot.

MASONIC LODGE FURNITURE.

A Superior Complete Suite (second-hand) to be SOLD; a great bargain. Apply by letter to P.M., care of KRYMER & Co., Stationers, Friday Street, Cheapside.

Price Five Shillings.

LIFE OF CONSTANTINE,
BY
EUSEBIUS.

Masonic Depot, 3 & 4, Little Britain.

SET OF OAK CHAIRS FOR CRAFT LODGE.

PRICE, £8 8s.

MASONIC DEPOT, 3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN.

TESSELATED CARPETING,

FOR
Lodges, Chapters, Encampments, &c.,
FOUR FEET WIDE, 5/- PER YARD,

OR FOUR SHILLINGS PER SQUARE YARD,

MADE UP.

MASONIC DEPOT, LITTLE BRITAIN,
NEAR THE GENERAL POST OFFICE.

BRO. HIGMAN'S MASONIC BOUQUET,
GREATLY ADMIRER FOR ITS RICHNESS AND
PERMANENCY OF FRAGRANCE.

Sold in Stoppered Bottles, at 2s. 6d. each.

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

At the MASONIC DEPOT, 3 & 4, Little Britain, London.

BRO. G. W. CHINNOCK,
Statuary and Cemetery Stone Mason,
93, FULHAM ROAD, S.W.

MISSES E. & C. CHINNOCK,
Pianistes & Teachers of the Pianoforte.
93, FULHAM ROAD, S.W.

BRO. H. T. LAMB,

MANUFACTURER OF MASONIC JEWELS,

ST. JOHN SQUARE,

CLERKENWELL,

LONDON.

ILLUSTRATED PRICE LIST POST FREE ON APPLICATION.

The Cheapest Patent Geometrical Mosaic and Encaustic Tile Depot in London.

SMITHEMAN'S (For many years with Messrs. Maw and Co.), 45, COLLEGE STREET, FULHAM ROAD, S.W., where Architects, Builders, and others, can be supplied on demand with every kind of Tiles for Pavements, Wall Decorations, &c., for Churches, Schools, Entrance Halls, and Conservatories. Experienced Fixers sent to all parts. Ornamental Flower Pots and Boxes supplied. Patterns, Special Designs, and Estimates forwarded on application. Country orders promptly attended to.

MEMORIAL TO THE LATE DR. OLIVER.

THE Committee (consisting of the undersigned five Members of the Witham Lodge, Lincoln), formed for the purpose of collecting subscriptions towards a Memorial to the above distinguished Mason, being anxious to close their labours, will be glad if Brethren wishing to subscribe will intimate their intention at once to the Hon. Sec., Bro. W. G. MOORE, 10, Witham Lodge, 297, Lincoln.

It is suggested that the Memorial shall take the form of a Scholarship in connection with one of the Masonic Schools, or such other form as may be determined upon by the Subscribers.

(Signed) RICHARD HALL, P.G.S.W. and P.P.G. Sec. Lincolnshire, P.M. 297

JOHN NORTON, P.P.G.P. Lincolnshire, P.M. 297.

CHARLES HARRISON, P.F.G.D., Lincolnshire, P.M. 297.

WM. GEO. MOORE, P.M. 297.

GEO. BACON, Sec. 297.

Now Ready,

The Investors' Guardian Almanack
For 1869.

THE object of this publication is to meet a want generally expressed to the proprietors of the Investors' Guardian newspaper for some Handy Book of Investors, published annually at a moderate rate, which, furnishing unquestioned and positive data from official documents, might enable small or larger capitalist to regulate his own investments by his own judgment grounded on certified facts.

THE INVESTORS' GUARDIAN ALMANACK.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

supplies the fullest particulars relating to all Public Companies, with a correct classification of them as investments—whether as regards their capital (nominal and actual), their liabilities and their assets, their incomes and their reserves, their bonuses and their dividends; together with their value as investments, and the return yielded to purchasers at present prices.

The would-be Investor will find in the INVESTORS' GUARDIAN ALMANACK every possible information relating to

1. The English Government Funds.
2. Colonial Government Securities.
3. Foreign Government Securities.
4. Railway Debenture Stocks.
5. Preference Railway Stocks.
6. Railway Ordinary Stocks.
7. Banks.
8. Insurance Companies.
9. Finance Companies—their present position and prospects.
10. Miscellaneous Companies—their relative position as investments.
11. An authorised List of Members of the London Stock Exchange.
12. List of Official Liquidators.
13. List of Companies in Liquidation.
14. Rules for Registration of Companies, and fees payable.
15. List of Officers and Offices of all Public Companies.
16. List of Private Banks in London and the Country, with Names of Partners.
17. An alphabetically arranged List of the Directors in the Public Companies throughout Great Britain and Ireland, &c., &c.

A work of such magnitude, importance, and precision, would not be within the power of any other firm than that of the Proprietors of the Investors' Guardian newspaper, through whose hands the official documents—from which the Almanack is compiled—are daily passing, and to whom they are matters of constant reference.

Let the reader judge for himself the value of being able, on hearing the name of any Company mentioned, to turn at once, in this Almanack, to its name in the Alphabetical List and be informed of its Capital, its Shares, the amount subscribed and paid, their present value, the Dividend paid on them, the Reserve held back as guarantee, the Income accruing, its application, and its indebtedness. The information given as to Directors is of equal importance.

In matters such as these, not the Investor only but the Insurer is deeply interested, as will be found by a reference to the pages containing the account of all INSURANCE COMPANIES, and the Editorial remarks and advice appended thereto.

Price, free by Post, 1s. 6d., in limp cover; bound in stiff boards, 2s. 6d.

Published by J. Y. JACKSON, at the "INVESTORS' GUARDIAN" Office, 27, Change-alley, Lombard-street, London, E.C.

ARMS, CRESTS, and MONOGRAMS.—A MASONIC EMBLEMS Engraved on Seals, Dies, &c. Official Stamps designed and Engraved.—Bro. D. G. BERRI, Engraver to Her Majesty's Post Office, Stationery Office, &c., 36, High Holborn (opposite Chancery-lane), London, W.C.

BRO. ADLARD'S REGISTERED JEWELRY.—ATTACHER. Price 7s. 6d. Universally adopted. Maker of the Improved Fitting Lodge Collars and Masonic Clothing. 225, High Holborn, London, W.C.

BRO. R. FLETCHER, Masonic Stationer. Masonic Emblems, Arms, Crests, Monograms, Addresses, &c., beautifully stamped on note paper and envelopes in Gold, Silver or Colours. Lodge Stationery correctly and carefully prepared. Jewels copied and Signet Rings engraved with minute care. The patronage of the Craft respectfully solicited by Bro. R. FLETCHER, Masonic Stationer, 10, Winsley-street, Oxford-street, London, W., opposite the Pantheon.

THE NEW MUSICAL PITCH.

COLLARD MOUTRIE has just invented, perfected, and secured by Royal Letters Patent, an important improvement in the manufacture of Pianofortes, by which the Pitch is raised to the Philharmonic or lowered to that of the French normal diapason in an instant, at the option of the performer. This invention can be applied to any Pianoforte. The Profession, Amateurs, Musical Critics, Musical Public, and the Trade are invited to witness its utility and effect, between the hours of Eleven and Four, at the Manufactory, 77, Southampton-row, Russell-square. Established 1849.

THE AMERICAN FREEMASON

is Monthly, of sixteen double-column quarto pages of entirely original matter, and translations from the French Italian, and German Masonic papers and periodicals of the day. It is devoted to the discussion of the rights of Lodges and individual Freemasons, in contradistinction to the assumptions of Grand Lodges, and the un Masonic doctrines and arrangements of "high degrees." Its motto is—Belief in the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man. Its price is Five Shillings a year—a sum so small that no Freemason, for pecuniary reasons, need be a non-subscriber to it.

Trans-Atlantic Subscribers to the AMERICAN FREEMASON will receive it Post-paid from the Office of Publication direct, at their respective Post-offices, upon payment of the subscription to

BRO. GEORGE KENNING,

3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, LONDON, E.C.

Subscriptions begin with March 15th, 1869, and end with February, 1870.

The AMERICAN FREEMASON is not the organ of any Grand Lodge; but speaking the words of truth, manhood, and independence, advocates freedom for Masonry in America, and the rights of Freemasons in their Lodges—rights which, by our Grand Lodges, in their subservience to high degrees, have been invaded, until at present they are nearly obliterated.

Subscribers in the British Colonies will please address all Subscriptions and Correspondence to J. FLETCHER BRENNAN, Editor, 114, Main-street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

VELOCIPEDES & BICYCLES for either Sex.

Speed 30 miles per hour, hill-climbing, self-propelling and balancing, £100. Diagram, 6d.

Manufacturing Licences granted.

W. PIDDING, Esq., PATENTEE, 31, Kings-row, Walworth-road.

"Having drawn Mr. W. PIDDING'S Specification of Patent, I am able to certify that his improvements in Velocipedes (Bicycles, particularly) will render them self balancing, capable of ascending hilly ground, and that they would travel on a newly-made road without inconvenience to the rider, either in the way of jolting or in retarding of the great speed the improvements will secure. The travelling, in fact, would be as though on level ground.

(Signed) "J. G. WILSON, C.E.

"Belgrave-terrace, Peckham, S.E.; formerly of 13, St. George-street, Westminster."

W. PIDDING'S PATENT SELF-PROPELLING AND BALANCING VELOCIPEDES AND BICYCLES.—Having seen the diagrams and perused a specification of Mr. PIDDING'S patent, we hesitate not for an instant to say that that gentleman will accomplish all he professes to do by means of his invention."—Sporting Opinion.

New Edition, in post-8vo, with about 80 Woodcuts, price 12s. 6d.

BR. JAMES STEVENS (25, 720, 1216, &c.),

Auctioneer and Surveyor, House and Estate Agent, &c., Clapham Common.—Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duties. Agent to the Imperial Fire & Life Insurance Offices.

ESTABLISHED 1840.

BRO. W. H. WAGHORN Manufacturer of

Regalia for all Societies. Masonic Aprons, Collars, Ribbons, Sashes, and every requisite for all degrees in Freemasonry always in Stock.

10, VINEGAR YARD, COVENT GARDEN, LONDON, W.C.

MONEY.—LOANS Granted from £100 to

£2,000 at 5 per cent., repayable over Three Years, on Personal Security and Life Policy effected with the WEST OF ENGLAND INSURANCE CO., (Established 1807.)

Apply to the Superintendent or Agents,

Bro. J. CROOKER, Gateshead-on-Tyne.

Agents Wanted.

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.

Opiates, Narcotics, and Squills, are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary Diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.

SELECT TESTIMONIAL.

Dr. Köcke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says:—"I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued Cough, Pain, and Irritation of the Chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."

This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold by all respectable Chemists and Patent Medicine Dealers, in bottles at 1s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each. Sold wholesale and retail by Jas. M. CROSBY, Chemist, Scarborough.

Invalids should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be obtained gratis on application.

To the Sporting World.

BELL'S LIFE IN LONDON

is now Published

Every WEDNESDAY and SATURDAY Morning.

Price 3d.; stamped 4d.

Office, 170, Strand, London, W.C.

THE Advertiser is in IMMEDIATE WANT of £50. He holds a situation of £150 per annum, and has been in the same employment upwards of 30 years. He would willingly and honestly repay the same, with interest, at £1 per week. An interview with any one so disposed will prove satisfactory, (no Loan Society need apply.) Letters addressed Y. Y., Mr. S. Hall, News-vendor, Bernondsey New-road, S.E., will meet with prompt attention.

TO THE NERVOUS & DEBILITATED EPILEPTIC SUFFERERS AND OTHERS.

HALL'S CHLORATE OF POTASSA, discovered, introduced, and extensively prescribed by the late eminent Dr. MARSHALL HALL, has proved an infallible remedy (by oxydizing the blood and supplying its saline constituent) for Indigestion, Debility, Coughs, Asthma, Consumption, Skin, Liver, Stomach, and Nervous Affections, more especially Epilepsy, Apoplexy, and Paralysis. The successful results of this new chemical preparation are beyond all precedent, and the extraordinary cures effected by the late discoverer, and by his successor (Dr. Sutton), in the above maladies are without a parallel in the annals of medicine; and it is confidently believed that in no case need the sufferer despair, for practical experience has demonstrated, and signal success warranted the assertion, that in 99 cases out of every 100 complete cures may be relied on.

Sold in Bottles at 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and Cases of £5 each, by

DR. SUTTON, M.D., 15, REGENT SQUARE, LONDON, W.C., and in BOLTON by PRIESTLEY, Chemist.

The following are a few Testimonials published by privilege.

Sir Charles Locock, Physician-Accoucher to Her Majesty, stated at a meeting of the Royal Medical and Chirurgical Society, that in sixteen cases of Epilepsy he had effected permanent cures by the use of Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa.

"September 6, 1858.—The Editor of the Bury Gazette returns thanks to Dr. Hall for the great benefit he has received from his Chlorate of Potassa treatment in a severe nervous disease."

Sir J. Ferguson, King's College Hospital, London, says—"I have repeatedly prescribed Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa and found it an agreeable and beneficial remedy."

Extract from the Lancet, April 1, 1857.—"In conclusion, we are of opinion that Hall's Chlorate of Potassa is a far superior remedy to the ones in general use for Nervousness, Indigestion, and Liver Complaints, when judiciously prescribed."

Sir Benjamin Brodie says—"What Chloride of Lime is to the foul sewer, Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa is to the blood."

Professor Syme says—"The effects of Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa in obstinate cases of disease are as astonishing as perplexing."

Dr. Lankester, the eminent coroner, says—"Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa is calculated to entirely supersede iron, mercury, sarsaparilla, quinine, and cod liver oil."

Sir Philip Crampton says—"I believe there is no condition of the system that may not be benefited by Dr. Hall's Potassa."

Sir T. Lawrence says—"I have found Dr. Hall's Chlorate an excellent remedy in Skin Diseases. I presume it is by oxydisation."

Sir T. Watson says—"I know that it is an invaluable remedy."

Sir Edward Brough, 8, Fitzwilliam-square, Dublin, certifies Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa has been of the greatest benefit to a member of his family.

The Earl of Clarendon certifies that Dr. Hall's Chlorate cured a case of indigestion of 15 years' duration.

Dr. HALL'S CHLORATE OF POTASSA may be procured by order through any Chemist. Ask for "Dr. Hall's Chlorate," and do not be imposed on with the common article. It is sold in Bolton by Priestley, Chemist, 12, Deansgate; or it may be had direct from Dr. Hall's successor, Dr. JOHN SUTTON, M.D., 15, Regent square, London, W.C., who undertakes the positive cure of all chronic diseases before payment.

Dr. HALL'S Chlorate is sold in MANCHESTER by JEWELL, Market-street; in LIVERPOOL by PRIESTLEY, Lord-street. N.B.—Dr. Sutton will shortly repeat his Lecture on this subject—The Lecture sent for two stamps.

DR. LEA'S CELEBRATED MEDICINES.

"The efficacy of Lea's Medicines is proverbial."

Daily Telegraph.

"Lea's preparations are excellent."—Morning Star.

LEA'S BENIGAL ATRABILIOUS PILLS, Invaluable in all liver complaints, and as a Family Medicine (without Mercury). 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

LEA'S GOUT AND RHEUMATIC PILLS. Will eradicate these disorders when every other remedy has failed, excellent also in Neuralgia, Lumbago, and Sciatica. 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

LEA'S CONSUMPTION SPECIFIC. If persevered in, will seldom fail. 11s. and 22s.

LEA'S ASTHMATIC EMULSION. Maintains its superiority for this complaint, Chronic, Cough, Bronchial affections, Colds, &c. 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

LEA'S WHOOPING-COUGH EMULSION. A certain cure for this destructive complaint in a few days. 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

Prepared by G. LEA, M.D. Chamberwell, Surrey.

LONDON AGENTS—BARCLAY, Farringdon-street; PAGE and TIBBS, 47, Blackfriars-road; and SUTTON, Bow Churchyard, * Advice free.

CONSUMPTION OF THE LUNGS.—

DR. RAIT has discovered a CERTAIN CURE for this fatal malady. Advice gratis. Address W. RAIT, M.D., Peckham, Surrey.

CONSUMPTION is CURABLE.—

TO CONSUMPTIVES.—A Clergyman, whose son has been miraculously cured of deep consumption, desires in gratitude, and for the benefit of the afflicted to send full particulars of the remedies used in his son's case, so that all may participate in this providential discovery. Sent to any address free of charge.—Address the Secretary, 48, George street, Portman-square, London.

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

EVERY requisite in GENTLEMEN'S CLOTHING, SHIRTS, and HOSIERY, for home or abroad, supplied on demand or promptly made to order by

GANN, JONES & CO.,

Tailors, Shirtmakers, Hosiers, Glovers, Outfitters, and Manufacturers,

171, FENCHURCH STREET; & MANUFACTORY, 15 & 16, BLOMFIELD STREET, E.C.

The principles of business in the Retail Department are specially recommended to the Craft and others seeking the best market. The unvarying rule is to give good value for money, to sell cheap when cheapness is consistent with quality, and to make a reduction on the price of an article when a quantity is taken. From this system of business—first established in 1805—their Wholesale Trade has grown, and GANN, JONES & CO.'s Shirts and Clothing are fast finding favour with Merchants, Shippers, and the best Houses in Town and Country.

Wholesale Lists forwarded to Shippers and the Trade, and Retail Price Lists on application

MASONIC DEPOT.

The Largest Stock in the United Kingdom of

Jewels,
Clothing,

Furniture,
Banners,

Books, &
Requisites

FOR ALL DECREES IN FREEMASONRY.

3 and 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, LONDON, E.C.

PRICE LISTS ON APPLICATION.

NAVAL AND MILITARY WAREHOUSE.

Laces,
Embroidery,
Swords,

Belts,
Chacos,
Buttons,

Epaulettes,
Sashes,
&c., &c.

GEORGE KENNING, 3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, LONDON, E.C.

PRICE LISTS ON APPLICATION.

THE SHEERNESS PUBLIC ROOMS COMPANY
(LIMITED).

A bona-fide undertaking, which will pay well. Includes a
MASONIC LODGE ROOM.
£5 Shares.

Apply to THE SECRETARY, SHEERNESS.

Unlike any other Plan known.
POSITIVE LIFE ASSURANCE is a new system, first introduced by the
MASONIC & GENERAL FIRE & LIFE
INSURANCE COMPANY, Limited,
8, NEW BRIDGE STREET, BLACKFRIARS.

It secures Insurers a Promissory Note (instead of the ordinary Policy) for each premium paid, which is payable "To Bearer," either during the life time or at the death of the assured.

Full Particulars on application to
FREDERICK BIGG,
Manager and Actuary.

Agents wanted in London and the provinces.

MONEY.

LOANS ON PERSONAL SECURITY, WITH
LIFE ASSURANCE,
AT FIVE PER CENT. PER ANNUM.

THE
WEST OF ENGLAND FIRE & LIFE OFFICE
(Instituted 1803)

GRANTS LOANS FOR A LIMITED NUMBER OF
YEARS ON THE ABOVE TERMS.

Chief Office—Exeter.
London—20, New Bridge Street.

By Appointment to the Queen.

Bookseller, Stationer, Newsagent, Printer, &c.

A MAGNIFICENT STOCK OF
MASONIC REQUIREMENTS

MAY BE SEEN AT

Bro. W. E. FRANKLIN'S,

42, MOSLEY ST., corner of ST. NICHOLAS SQUARE,
NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE,

Agent for "THE FREEMASON."

NEW SONG,
PRICE 3s.

THE RED CROSS SONG,

Words by R. W. LITTLE,
Music by H. PARKER.

Published by GEORGE KENNING, 3 & 4, Little Britain,
London.

Just Published. Price Half a Guinea.

MONOGRAMS,
HISTORICAL AND PRACTICAL,
D. G. BERRI,

Engraver to Her Majesty's Post Office, Stationery Office,
&c., &c.,

36, High Holborn, (opposite Chancery-lane),
LONDON, W.C.

BRO. BENJAMIN COOK,
Carpenter, Builder, and House Decorator,
SALISBURY COURT,
FLEET STREET, E.C.

Estimates for General Repairs.

BRO. JAMES B. SLV,
PRACTICAL

Heraldic Engraver to the Trade,

Of Gold, Silver, and Ivory.

DRAUGHTSMAN & DIE-SINKER,
9, Rathbone Place, London, W.

Book Plates Engraved; Gilt Pierced Mounts made for
Albums and Cigar Cases.

Designs made of Crests, Monograms, Ornaments, and Arms,
and every description of Shooting Prizes, Presentation Plate,
Watches, Watch Domes, Dressing Cases, Bag-sets, and
Ivory Brushes, Engraved with care, delicacy, and despatch.

TO STATIONERS.

JAS. B. SLV having in his employ several Die-sinkers, and from his practical knowledge of the same is enabled to give immediate attention to the cutting of Dies that are emergent.
Companies' Dies cut. Illuminating and Stamping in colours.

Sample Sheets of Monograms and Addresses forwarded on application.

BRO. REEVES, SON & CO.,

Steam Printers, Engravers & Lithographers.

WHOLESALE STATIONERS,

AND ACCOUNT BOOK MANUFACTURERS.

Playhouse Yard, Blackfriars, London, E.C.

Next the "Times" Publishing Office.

Bro. WOLPERT,

PRINTER, STATIONER & ACCOUNT-BOOK MAKER.

7, St. Swithin's Lane, E.C.

Authorised Agent to receive Advertisements for THE
FREEMASON, and all the London and Country Newspapers.

For Cheap Watches, Clocks, Gold Chains, and
Jewelry, go to

KIBBLE'S

22, GRACECHURCH STREET,

One Door from Lombard Street, and

51, LUDGATE HILL,

Opposite the Old Bailey.

Gold Watches	£3 15s.
Silver ditto	£1 5s.
Timepieces	from 9s. 6d.

EVERY ARTICLE WARRANTED.

Plate, Watches, and Jewelry, bought or exchanged.

List of Prices Post free.

Bro. J. G. MARSH,

ARCHITECT AND SURVEYOR,

159, Fenchurch Street, E.C.;

AND

842, Old Kent Road, S.E.

Bro. H. B. PRICE,

ARCHITECT AND SURVEYOR,
IMPERIAL CHAMBERS.

No. 1, Market Place, corner of St. Mary's-gate,
MANCHESTER.

Printed by Brother JAMES ADLEY REEVES AND SON, Playhouse
Yard, Blackfriars, in the City of London; published by the Proprietor, Brother GEORGE KENNING, at his Office,
3 and 4, Little Britain, in the City of London, and by the NEWSPAPERS' PUBLISHING COMPANY, Limited, at their Office,
147, Fleet-street, in the City of London aforesaid.—SATURDAY,
JULY 10, 1869.

THE FREEMASON

Grand Lodge Reports are published with the sanction of the Right Honorable the EARL of ZETLAND, K.T., Most Worshipful Grand Master of England.

VOL. 2, No. 19.]

SATURDAY, JULY 17, 1869.

REGISTERED FOR TRANSMISSION ABROAD.

[PRICE 2D.]

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

	PAGE.
ROYAL ARCH MASONRY	25
HISTORY OF THE ORDER OF KNIGHTS HOSPITALERS	26
PAPERS ON MASONRY—
No. XV.—Masonry in America	26
THE PALESTINE EXPLORATION FUND	27
WEST LANCAIRE MASONIC RELIEF COMMITTEE ..	27
SUMMER BANQUET OF ALMON LODGE	27
PICNIC OF THE OLD GLOBE LODGE SCARBOROUGH	27
THE CRAFT—Provincial and Ireland	28
THE ROYAL ARCH—Provincial	28
MARK MASONRY—Provincial	28
PROV. GRAND LODGE OF WEST YORKSHIRE ..	28
SUMMER FESTIVAL OF THE FIDELITY LODGE ..	29
BIRTHS, MARRIAGES AND DEATHS	30
CHURCH OF THE TIMES	30
UNITED SOCIETY OF IRONMONGERS	30
NOTES BY A NOVICE—Sea-side Gossip	31
OBITUARY—
Sir Knight Major Henry Francis Smith ..	31
Bro. William Jerdan	31
CORRESPONDENCE—
Royal Arch Masonry	31
MEETING OF THE GRAND LODGE OF CORNWALL ..	32
ANNUAL ASSEMBLY OF THE PROV. GRAND LODGE OF SUFFOLK	33
MASONIC MEETINGS FOR NEXT WEEK	34
SUPREME COUNCIL, NEW YORK	34
ADVERTISEMENTS	35 & 36

NOW READY,

Cases to hold 4 copies of "The Freemason,"
1/6.

Cases to hold 52 copies of "The Freemason,"
2/6.

With THE FREEMASON emblematically depicted, and other
Masonic emblems in gold.

To be had at the Offices, 3 & 4, Little Britain.

ROYAL ARCH MASONRY.

BY THE SON OF SALATHIEL.

(Continued.)

[The rights of translation and reproduction reserved.]

With the explication of the HEBREW SEPHIROTH, as given in Basnage's "History of the Jews," we shall close our remarks on the symbolism of the Royal Arch degree, which we conceive it tends to illustrate:—

The Sephiroth make the most secret part of the Jewish Cabbala, and the knowledge of them is not to be purchased without a deal of pains and application. Herein consists the perfection of the contemplative divinity, which charms and ravishes those who are initiated in it" (a). We may, therefore, not improperly term them Hebrew Mysteries. The plural term Sephiroth, may be understood in a twofold acceptation: in its proper and primary sense it signifies Enumerations; but by the Cabbalists it is more generally used in the sense of Splendours, from a Hebrew root, signifying to shine with the purity and brightness of the sapphire stone (as the word is rendered in Exodus, chap. xxiv., v. 10). Understood in this latter sense, the expression is eminently illustrative of the meaning of the Cabbalists, since the Sephiroth are represented as issuing from the supreme En Soph, or infinite source, in the same manner as light issues from the Sun.

(a) Basnage's Hist. Jud., p. 195.

The whole number of the Sephiroth is ten, and they are represented in the writings of the Cabbalistic doctors by various symbols; sometimes by the figure of a tree with extended branches and at other times, by ten different circles, included one within the other, and gradually lessening to the centre.

The first Sephirah, who is denominated Kether (the Crown), Kadmon (the pure light), and En Soph (the infinite), is the Omnipotent Father of the Universe, according to that spirited exclamation in Isaiah, xxviii., 5, "In that day shall the Lord of Hosts be for a crown of glory, and for a diadem of beauty unto the residue of his people." The sword is the Cochma (or Wisdom) which is referred to in the Book of Wisdom, vii., 26. Wisdom (Cochma) is the brightness of the everlasting light, the unspotted mirror of the power of God, and the image of his goodness (b). The third is the Binah, or the Heavenly intelligence; whence the Egyptians had their Cheph, and Plato his Agathos. He is the Holy Spirit who inspired the Prophets, and who pervades, animates, and governs the boundless Universe. Rabbi Hagahon affirmed that there were three lights in God (c), the highest number which possesses One Throne, in which sits the Holy, Holy, Holy, Lord God of Sabaoth.

It is of these that Rabbi Akiba himself, as cited in the same Jephir Jetziah 1600 years ago, said,— "Unus est Spiritus Deorum viventium, vox, et verbum; et hic est spiritus sanctitatis. (d)

There is one Spirit of the living Gods—the Voice, the Spirit, and the Word,—and this is the Holy Spirit.

It is of these that Rabbi Hagahon uses terms nearly similar,— "Unus est Spiritus Deorum viventium, vox, spiritus, et verbum, quæ unum sunt."

(b) A similar passage occurs in Hebrews, chap. i., v. 3, "Who being the brightness of his glory and the express image of his person.

(c) As in Egypt, the Triangle was in succeeding ages considered as a just symbol of the "Numen Triplex," so it is remarkable that in the venerable Book of Zohar, the three Branches of the Hebrew letter, (schin), are asserted to be a proper emblem of the Three Persons that compose the Divine Essence. They sometimes call these three Sephiroth (spirits), at other times the three Avvayques (or Powers), and at other times the Three Lights.

(d) Jetziah cum notis Rittangel, cap. i., sec. 9.—Cited by Maurice.

There is one Spirit of the living Gods, the Voice, the Spirit, and the Word, which are One.

And, finally, it is of these that the great Rambam, (that is, Maimonides), the most illustrious of Hebrew Rabbis, bears this solemn testimony,— "Corona summa, primordialis est Spiritus Deorum viventium, et sapientia ejus est spiritus de spiritu, et intelligentia aque ex spiritu. Et tametsi res horum mysteriorum distinguantur in sapientia, intelligentia, et scientia, nulla tamen inter eas distinctio quoad essentiam est, quia finis ejus annexus est, principio ejus, et principium finis ejus, et medium comprehenditur ab eis" (e). The principal Sephirah, the Crown, is the primordial Spirit of the living God; and wisdom, the second Sephirah, is from spirit to spirit, and understanding; the third Sephirah, is of water by the spirit; and although the things of these mysteries are distinguished by knowledge, wisdom, and science, yet strictly speaking, there is no distinction between them, forasmuch as it is Essence, because the end is joined to the beginning, and the beginning to the end, and the middle is comprehended by them all.

Thus we see that the ancient Jewish rabbis conceived the three first Sephiroth or splendours to shine with a degree of lustre peculiar and intrinsic, that they were beings eternal and intellectual, while the remaining Sephiroth were nothing more than the perfections and attributes of the Deity. The names of these Sephiroth are:

Gedulah, strength or severity.
Gebulah, mercy or magnificence.
Tipheroth, beauty.
Nesakh, victory or eternity.
Hod, glory.
Yesod, the foundation.
Malcuth, or the kingdom.

This is the order in which they are arranged in the circular table of M. Basnage. The circle being the most perfect of figures, denotes the perfection of Deity and its attributes. That Deity, infinite in his nature, and otherwise incomprehensible to man, has chosen to manifest himself by his attributes, as the soul manifests herself by acts of wisdom and virtue. As the virtue latent in the coal is displayed by the flame which it diffuses, so is the glory of the Deity revealed by the emanations which proceed from him. To illustrate their sentiments the Jews have imagined certain conduits or canals through which the influence of the splendours are communicated and glide into each other.

(e) Rambam apud Kircher, tom. 2, p. 298. Cited by Maurice.

To be continued.

A GENERAL meeting of the Freemasons of France was held on Friday last. A majority of the bureaux had adopted a resolution to hold an extraordinary meeting in Paris on the 8th of December, as a reply of the Ecumenical Council; but the Grand Master, General Mellinet, did not allow the assembly to discuss the resolution, and he abruptly closed the sitting.

HOSPITALARIA.

A SYNOPSIS OF THE HISTORY OF THE ORDER OF Knights Hospitallers.

"God has formed
Mankind to be one mighty brotherhood;
Himself our Father, and the world our home."

The venerable and sovereign Order of Knights Hospitallers of St. John of Jerusalem is the most ancient and illustrious of all the degrees of knighthood instituted for the promotion of religion, valour, and humanity.

With a view to the revival in the British dominions of an Order once so potent and revered throughout Christendom, it may not be amiss to take a rapid survey of those events which led to its formation. The general achievements of the Hospitallers occupy a wide space in the page of European history;—during the course of seven centuries they filled the ear of empires, and will shed a long track of splendour through time.

In the beginning of the seventh century arose Mohammed, the most crafty and successful impostor that ever assailed the faith of Christ. His proscription by the magistrates of Mecca (A.D. 622) having convinced him that eloquence alone would never disseminate his doctrines with the rapidity he contemplated, he resolved that the sword should aid their propagation. Informing his disciples that his ministering angel had brought him a scimitar from heaven, with injunctions to employ it for the subjugation of his enemies, he prepared to draw it boldly with a persecutor's hand. Mecca shortly confessed the supremacy of his arms, and in the course of time he made himself master of all the neighbouring cities and strongholds. Within the space of three-and-twenty years, all Arabia submitted to his yoke, and recognised the divinity of his law.

Actuated by a fanatical zeal and quenchless thirst for blood, the successors of this arch-impostor, who assumed the title of Kalifs or Vicars of the Prophet, made their conquests, and the creed of which they gloried in being the propagators, keep pace together. Arabia subjugated, they invaded Palestine and Syria; took Jerusalem, Damascus, and Antioch; subdued Egypt, subverted the Persian monarchy, and extended their dominion over Media, Mesopotamia, and Khorassan. Even the terrors of the Libyan desert were defied by these restless warriors. The whole of Northern Africa acknowledged the invincibility of their arms; and the islands of Cyprus, Rhodes, Candia, Sicily, and Malta, were either partially desolated by their descents, or reduced to permanent bondage. In the beginning of the 8th century they carried their banner and creed beyond the Pillars of Hercules, and founded a new empire on the ruins of the Gothic Monarchy of Spain; and, but for the valour of Charles Martel, the Pyrenees themselves would have presented but a feeble barrier to their aggression.

The conquest of Jerusalem by these barbarians filled Christendom with lamentation and dismay. For nearly three centuries the Cross had remained firmly planted on its towers, protected by the Christian emperors of Byzantium, and the worshippers of the Redeemer knelt in consecrated temples built on the ruins of heathen shrines. From the time of Constantine the Great, both the Greek and Latin Christians had made Jerusalem their favourite place of pilgrimage, and emulated each other in a devout anxiety to obtain remission of their sins at their Saviour's tomb. Prior to the capture of the Holy City by the Mohammedans, the access to it had been comparatively easy; but the infidels, though they professed to reverence Christ as a prophet, scrupled not to impose a tribute on the votaries who flocked to his sepulchre; while the constant struggles between the Kalifs of Bagdad and Egypt for the sovereignty of Judea rendered the pilgrimage intimidating and dangerous. Christian zeal, however, was rather smothered than smothered by oppression and peril. A superstitious belief prevailed throughout Christendom in the tenth century that the end of the reign of Antichrist was at hand, and the Archangel was about to sound his terrible trumpet; and notwithstanding the cruel thrall to which the Holy City was subjected, crowds of pilgrims continued to visit it from all the countries of the West.

Several Kalifs granted their special protection to the pilgrims, and insured them accommodation within the walls of Jerusalem; but in the lapse of years these privileges came to be abrogated or forgotten. At length, in the middle of the eleventh century, some Italian merchants, natives of Amalfi, a rich commercial city in the kingdom of Naples, who had experienced the inhumanity of both Greeks and Arabs, undertook to provide an asylum for the Latin devotees. Commerce carried them frequently to Egypt, where, by means of presents, they obtained access to the Kalif Monstaser-billah, and won him to consent to the erection of a Latin church within the Holy City. A chapel was accordingly built, in 1048 (Fuller), near the Holy Sepulchre, and dedicated to the Virgin under the title of St. Mary ad Latinos; and at the same time two Hospitals, or houses of reception, for pilgrims of both sexes, were erected in the same quarter, and placed under the protection of St. John the Almoner and St. Mary Magdalen. (Subsequently, when the Order became military, the Knights renounced the patronage of the Almoner, and placed themselves under the more august tutelage of St. John the Baptist.)

Several pious pilgrims, abandoning the idea of returning to their native country, devoted themselves to these establishments for the service of the destitute and sickly wanderers who were continually arriving from the West. The expenses of the Hospitals were defrayed chiefly by arms annually collected in Italy by the benevolent founders, and all Latin pilgrims were sheltered and relieved without distinction of nation or condition. Those whom robbers had plundered were re-clothed; those whom disease had debilitated were tended with skill and tenderness; and those who died were buried with Christian rites. The Hospital of the Almoner thus became the cradle of the illustrious brotherhood whose martial exploits are known throughout the world, and who, as Knights of St. John of Jerusalem, of Rhodes, and of Malta, continued to be, for upwards of seven centuries, the sword and buckler of Christendom in Pagan war.

The Latins had enjoyed the security and comfort of this humane institution nearly seventeen years, when a new enemy burst into Palestine. In 1065, the Turks chased the Saracens out of Jerusalem and massacred the Egyptian garrison. The barbarities inflicted on the inhabitants of the Holy City are too horrible to be told. Many were put to the sword, the Hospital of St. John was despoiled, and even the Holy Sepulchre itself would have been subjected to the foulest sacrilege had not avarice suggested its preservation. The conquerors augmented the tribute exacted from the Christian pilgrims, and those who had the good fortune to survive the perils of the pilgrimage, carried back to Europe lamentable reports of the cruelties and oppression to which Christians were exposed.

At length, Peter the Hermit, a poor ascetic, applied himself to accomplish an enterprise which the most puissant princes dared not undertake. Fortified by recommendatory letters from Simon, the Greek patriarch of Jerusalem, and Gerard, rector of the Hospital of St. John, he threw himself at the feet of Pope Urban the Second, and adjured him to rouse the princes of the West to the deliverance of the heritage of Christ. In a short time the spirit-stirring orations of the Hermit were crowned with signal success. Europe resounded with his pious appeals—oppressions and profanations were his theme—and a flame was kindled which oceans of blood, spilt in the course of successive centuries of ferocious warfare, could scarcely extinguish. The chivalry of the West armed for the conquest of Palestine. Prince and peasant alike burned with pious impatience to hasten to the East; and whatever opinions may be entertained as to the causes which gave rise to the Crusades of a later period it cannot be doubted that the early followers of the Cross were prompted by feelings of the purest devotion to rescue from the infidel those places which had been consecrated by the Presence and Passion of the Redeemer. If the desolation of the once all-destroying Babylon—the ruined condition of Persopolis and Palmyra—the awful silence now reigning around the gigantic Pyramids of Egypt—and the decay that is gradually stealing over the beautiful temples of Greece and Rome, afford to the contemplative mind of the modern traveller many a train of profitable reflection, cold indeed must have been the philosophy that could steel the heart against the emotions produced by the Hermit, as in glowing terms he described the desolation of Judea—a land which so lately "had seen a great sight, for the glory of the Lord had risen upon it,"—and dwell on the prostrate condition of that City which was once "the beauty of holiness and the glory of the whole earth."

Encouraged by Bohemond, Prince of Tarentum, to direct the martial energies of Europe, Urban decreed the assembly of two grand councils, one at Placentia in Italy, the other at Clermont in Auvergne. Both of these august meetings he honoured with his presence, and personally exhorted the enthusiastic multitudes who composed them to join in a league for the expulsion from Palestine of the enemies of Christ. At Clermont, where the whole chivalry of France was congregated, the assembly answered his forcible address by shouting, "God wills it! God wills it!" words which were afterwards used by the crusaders as a battle-cry on many a hard-contested field.

According to William of Malmesbury, "there was no nation so remote, no people so retired, as did not respond to the papal wishes." The Hermit, at the head of an undisciplined multitude of sixty thousand persons, led the way. The knights and their martial attendants, amounting to a hundred thousand fighting men, followed. The pilgrims able to bear arms, about six hundred thousand, closed the rear. "A more glorious army," says Fuller, "the sun never beheld."

(To be continued.)

PAPERS ON MASONRY.

By A. LEWIS.

XV.—MASONRY IN AMERICA.

"What profited the graven image that the maker thereof hath graven it; the molten image, and a teacher of lies that the maker of his work trusteth therein, to make dumb idols." Isaiah, li. 18.

The death-bell of overstrained exertions is ringing. The nations have raged, and a vain thing has been imagined. Here in England we are face to face with a giant sorrow—one for which our little ones will rise up in judgment against us. But the terrible result may be mitigated, perhaps averted.

It is fortunate for the good sense of the middle and upper classes of this land that the fearful issue about to be tried—the universal and continual strife existing between right and wrong—may culminate in a crisis.

Elsewhere, and sadly, it has done its work. Man, whether under one form of political administration or another, is ever the same. Of this the United States, as they are called, are a signal example. Denuded of an hereditary titled class, educated by a superficial system, and stunned by an official arrogance only comprehensible to those who have seen it, the people of the Northern American continent instinctively turn to that which the short-sighted politicians who convened a meeting of the Plantations and called it Freedom, desired to eradicate—that love and respect for a lord which republicans only can realize to the fullest extent.

Thus prevented, they sought at one time for social rank in imaginary generalships and "bogus" commands. These became the laughing-stock of the world; and they must so continue. In many points the government of the States is admirable—in others, to speak in mild terms, it is somewhat indefensible.

But, really, in Freemasonry—the main issue now at the bar—the vanity of the United States' Masons is something to raise the hands at. One side of their singular views is to insist on a common indivisible country, capable (if the doctrine of Monroe were to be carried out) of co-existent continental extension; on the other, as many Grand Lodges and office-bearers as possible.

To read their Masonic literature is an amazing task for a bookworm, and while we neither can nor ought to deny that their Masonry is a matter of enthusiasm, should we close our eyes, as enlightened men, to the enormity of Republicans, who deny all titles, being so at variance with their deliberate decision as to greedily assume "anything with a handle to it" in the Craft of Equality!

The present writer means no mischief, but he observes very closely, and objects to men with high aims lowering the standard of their position. I am aware that recruiting is forbidden; and this country seeks only the real lovers of the Art, wherever it can find and protect them. I expect, if the American Masons go on as they do, that every lodge will become a Grand Lodge. And yet in the face of State Grand Lodges, there is to be no freedom, no secession!

How a nation can be one and indivisible and yet divided as it is, seems, to say the least, singular. To maintain the doctrine of State right in a non-political institution such as Freemasonry, is a puzzle in the face of the energetic attempt of Grant and others at centralisation. Surely, even in that free country, you need not serve two masters.

I have in a former paper expressed my views as to the American Masonic Press. I adhere to them. But I protest against that feeling of knocking about rough ashlar for the purpose of talking about it afterwards as Past Grand this and Past Grand that. Theatrical exhibitions effectively got up, fillipants and increase assumption, but they contribute less than nothing to real fame.

Some will say that these remarks are beyond my function; none can say they are beside the question. No one can, or dare to assert, that mere office-seeking is the proper thing for which so many persons have banded themselves into societies with defined objects. All they have to do in their several spheres is to be true to those objects in a commensurate proportion to their development.

No! we must not make idols of ourselves. We shall be teachers of lies innumerable, and insufficient to ourselves and our companions—and dumb idols eloquent, indeed—if we regard the empty dignity more than the end to be attained by unity and real Masonic fraternity.

CRYPTONYMUS.

Knowledge is progressive, and is the reward of the efforts made to advance Christianity and civilization. Knowledge as it relates to art, science, wants, language, etiquette, dress, &c., is imitative, and may be taught, learned, copied, and practised to the extent of all seeming refinement; but where there is such civilization without Christianity in its simple truths, there will slavery, tyrant, assassination, injustice, theft, and other signs pointing out the difference between unregenerated and Christian man.—E.H.

* Vide the voluminous Annals of the Order compiled by the Abbé Vertot; the Chevalier Botschlin's History of the Knights of Malta; Sutherland's Achievements of the Knights of Malta; also Knollys, Fuller, Hackluyt, Gibbon, Savary, Pococke, Fraissart, Brydson, Mills, Hutton, Sonnini, &c.

THE PALESTINE EXPLORATION FUND. (From the "Quarterly Statement," No. 2; April 1 to June 30, 1869.)

STATEMENT OF PROGRESS.

The Second number of the Quarterly Statement of the Palestine Exploration Fund is presented to subscribers a few weeks before it is due, mainly in order that it might be ready in time for the annual meeting. It contains, besides the usual packet from Lieutenant Warren, papers from Captain Wilson, Mr. Deutsch, and others which it is hoped will not only prove interesting, but will advance our knowledge of the Holy Land.

The main features of interest in the work of the last two months are the excavation at the "Golden Gateway" and "Barclay's Gateway" at Jerusalem, the discovery in the Dome of the Rock ("Mosque of Omar"), and Mr. Deutsch's report on the marks found at the south-east angle of the Great Wall of the Harem es-Sherief. It is not the province of the Committee to draw deductions from facts. These are laid before their supporters as found, leaving it for others to make inferences from them. They cannot, however, avoid calling attention to the conclusions arrived at by the eminent Semitic scholar just named from the marks in question, which he examined on the spot, and on which he has favoured the Committee with a letter, which will be found reprinted at p. 33. The stones appear to be in situ, some of the marks which they exhibit are similar to those on "absolutely undoubted antique Phœnician structures in Syria," while "fantasies," "identical" with others of the marks are observed in abundance on the "old Phœnician stones" of the ruined citadel above Saidâ. It is greatly to be hoped that more marks will be found, and some nearer approximation to date arrived at. Lieut. Warren's tracings of those on which Mr. Deutsch has commented may be seen at the office of the Society.

The shaft at the Golden Gateway has been abandoned, owing to the danger of continuing the work. One of the chief obstacles, indeed, to the pursuance of the galleries is the way in which the shingle sometimes pours into them—not in small quantities, but in a continuous shower, which will last sometimes for days, choking up the narrow galleries, and forcing Lieutenant Warren to abandon the work, or to continue it at the risk of life.

The work which has to be done is still very great. It is hoped that permission may be obtained to pursue the tantalising discovery below the surface accidentally made by Mr. Warren at the northern edge of the platform of the Dome of the Rock within the Haram Area in December last, and to explore elsewhere within that sacred enclosure; failing this, reference to the report of the last Executive Committee will show some of the work which yet remains on the hands of the Society.

At the meeting of the General Committee, held on May 4th at the Jerusalem Chamber, the Executive Committee resigned and a new Executive Committee were elected for the ensuing year. Their report was read and adopted, the thanks of the Committee were passed to Lieutenant Warren, to Mr. G. J. Eldridge, Dr. Chaplain, and Mr. Walter Morrison, M.P., and it was resolved that an annual meeting should be held.

It has long been the desire of the Committee to open a Palestine Museum. They are now enabled, by the arrival of several large cases from Lieutenant Warren, to carry this desire into effect for a short period. At the Dudley Gallery, Egyptian Hall, will be found all the objects of interest discovered by Lieutenant Warren in his shafts, including lamps, pottery, glass, coin, weapons, tessellated pavement, sculpture, sarcophagi, and geological specimens. The tracings also of his work, and those of Captain Wilson, may also be seen there; with objects lent by Mr. MacGregor and other gentlemen. To these will shortly be added, it is hoped, the new collection of photographs and antiquities from Sinai, by the kindness of Colonel Sir Henry James, Director-General of the Ordnance Survey. The exhibition will be closed on August the 31st. Should it prove so far successful as to warrant the repetition, it is hoped to reopen it on a future occasion.

The receipts for the months April and May, with the first half of June, amount in all to £1,084 6s. 2d., including a donation of £250 from the Marquis of Bute; one of £100 from "Anonymous"; and remittances from the local societies of Clifton, Bath, Tunbridge Wells, Falmouth, Nottingham, Plymouth, and Newcastle. The receipts for the first five months of the year amount, from all sources, and including the balance at the end of 1868, to about £2,150. The Committee beg their readers most earnestly not to let the work fail for the want of funds. In providing them, at considerable expense, with this quarterly publication, the committee invite them to use it in order to make their cause known. In all parts of the world interest is now aroused in the work, nor is it possible that England, were the work more widely known, would allow it to stop. But in their efforts to make the Fund national, the Committee rely on the co-operation of their friends. If for a few years only these will lend their aid to raise each a small sum, no difficulty will be experienced. Meantime, the shafts have to be closed for want of money to buy fresh wood, the workmen have to be reduced in numbers, and Lieutenant Warren is obliged to content himself with one or two excavations at a time. Some of the most interesting explanations—e.g., that of the canals at Bir Kyub, have to be suspended; and this at a time when the most important results are being obtained, and we are apparently on the eve of solving the most interesting problems. The experience of four years has proved that to collect the small sum necessary for this work requires nothing but leaders, and that amount of activity requisite to start a local movement. Moreover, while the donations hitherto received have been chiefly of large amounts, it should not be forgotten that a good deal has been done, and that a great deal more might be done, by enlisting the interest of those who can give but little. And for these as well as for the larger subscribers, the following pages are printed. June 24, 1869.

WEST LANCASHIRE MASONIC RELIEF COMMITTEE.

We commend the following report of this excellent charity to the attention of our readers:—

Ninth Annual Report of the West Lancashire Masonic Relief Committee.

"The Committee have much pleasure in again calling the attention of the W. Masters and Brethren to the Ninth Annual Report of the Masonic Relief Committee, confident that the labours of past years will have convinced them of the satisfactory progress of this valuable institution.

"Many of the applications have come before the Committee, which, upon investigation, have proved unworthy, and consequently have been disregarded.

"The mutual interchange of Reports between Birmingham and Manchester continues, and has been of essential service to the Committee in materially furthering the relief of brethren reported deserving, and of detecting, in some cases gross imposition, and the Committee allude to this latter fact in order to urge the necessity of referring to them all applications for relief.

"The Committee again thank the Secretaries of the other Relief Committees for their kind assistance.

"The Committee being anxious to see the work of charity carried out, invite Lodges, &c., to elect those who will attend to the duties of representing Lodges and Chapters on the Committee every Friday evening.

"The Committee have been able to relieve 98 individuals, in the amount of £74 11s. 6d., some of whom have been forwarded home or to get employment, and some have received temporary relief.

"The Annual Grant is now due, and can be paid any Friday evening at six o'clock.

(On behalf of the Committee),

THOMAS MARSH, Secretary.

"Committee Rooms, Masonic Temple, Liverpool, July 2nd, 1869."

SUMMER BANQUET OF ALBION LODGE, No. 9.

On Wednesday, the 7th inst., this excellent lodge, famed for its working, held their annual summer banquet at the Crown Hotel, Broxbourne. The W.M. Bro. S. Coste occupied the chair, supported by the Past Masters T. Buller, S.W.; and Baylis, J.W. A very excellent banquet was provided, and after the usual toasts given on such occasions, Bro. Willey, P.M., proposed the health of the W.M., and alluded to the very excellent and efficient manner in which he had conducted the duties of the lodge in every respect. The W.M., in suitable terms, returned thanks. Bro. Lee, P.M. and Treas., returned thanks for the Past Masters, and stated he had been a member of the lodge for thirty years, and felt a great pleasure in congratulating the W.M. on the great success attending this banquet, not only for the number present, but for the good feeling existing among the Brethren. Bro. W. Meredith, of the Constitutional Lodge, returned thanks for the visitors, who were Bros. G. Meredith (Antiquity Lodge), H. Thomas (Urban Lodge), H. Clarke (The Doric), and several others.

The Brethren returned to town early, after having passed a delightful day and evening.

KENT LIFE AND FIRE ASSOCIATION.—On Wednesday, the 7th inst., the Directors of the Kent Life and Fire Association, and numerous friends, dined at the Cliftonville Hotel, Margate. A very elegant and recherche banquet was served, superintended by Bro. Sidney Spencer, the excellent manager. The chair was occupied by the Marquis Camden, supported by the Mayor of Margate, Sir E. Hoare, Bart.,—Furley, Esq., the Hon. E. Plumtree, Hon. G. W. Miles, M.P., Major Wilkie, and the Mayor of Maidstone, after which the usual loyal and complimentary toasts were given and responded to. During the dinner the Promenade Band played some very excellent music. The hotel has recently had two wings added, affording sixty additional rooms, which have been furnished with excellent taste.

PIC-NIC OF OLD GLOBE LODGE, No. 200, SCARBOROUGH.

The Annual Pic-nic of this lodge took place on Tuesday, the 29th ult. The beautiful grounds of Hayburn-Wyke were, by the kind permission of the Worshipful the Major, (Bro. J. W. Woodall, P.M., P.P.G.S.W.), thrown open to the brethren and their friends for the occasion. Leaving Scarborough about 12 o'clock, the grounds were reached in the early part of the afternoon, and the enjoyment of the day at once commenced, many wandering through the grounds, and along the walks winding down the cliff to old Ocean's shore, others at once falling to cricket on the Green, while some had evidently great intention to master that most erratic steed the Bicycle, on which two of the visitors had conveyed themselves during the morning from Scarborough; but truth to tell, the position attained by most of the would-be riders, was that indicated by the level, rather than the plumb rule. Dancing in the meantime had commenced, and at 5 o'clock all sat down on the ground to partake of tea, served in splendid style by Bro. Parker, J.D., of the George Hotel. Ample justice having been done to the good things of this life (and good and plentiful they really were), dancing was resumed in good earnest. The worthy W.M., Bro. William Peacock, acted as his own Master of Cers., and to the way in which the duties of that delicate post were performed, was greatly due the enjoyment all derived from this pleasant outing. Bro. Peacock was evidently determined to make every one enjoy themselves to the utmost; indeed, he filled the office of M.C., with as much efficiency as he does that of the exalted Masonic post he has been called to fill, to say which is to award the highest praise that can be bestowed. All things human have an end, even the most enjoyable Masonic Pic-nics, and at 9 o'clock the time-honored "Sir Roger," followed by the National Anthem, brought the long-looked for day to a close.

DINNER TO BRO. GOOD (204).—The members of the Caledonian Lodge (204) and Chapter, on Monday evening, gave a dinner to Bro. J. H. M. Good, at the Freemasons' Hall, Cooper-street, Manchester, on his leaving this country for New Zealand. The chair was occupied by Bro. John Mountain, the W.M., who, in an able speech, complimented the guest of the evening on his high character and courteous bearing, which had endeared him to the members of the lodge and made him many friends. He was sure that in the land of his adoption, the excellent qualities possessed by Bro. Good could not fail to cause him to be respected wherever he should become known. After expressing the regret of himself and brethren at so soon having to part, the W.M., in appropriate terms, presented Bro. Good with an address engrossed on vellum, accompanied with a valuable silver cup bearing an inscription suitable to the occasion. The speech of the chairman was supplemented by Brothers Affleck, Petty, Hinde, Brocklehurst, Pratt, Muirhead, and others, all expressing in the like warm terms the regard they felt for Bro. Good, and the regret they had at parting with such a valued friend.

On Monday last an amateur performance took place at the Lyceum Theatre, Strand, in aid of a most deserving charity—the Aged Destitute. The programme commenced with the play of "The Lady of Lyons," and never, in our experience, have we seen an amateur performance better sustained. The part of Claude Melnotte was played by our respected brother, H. Lawrence, who exhibited great feeling and delivery in his rendering of the character, and he, in conjunction with Miss Carlisle, who played the part of Pauline, shared the honours of the evening, and were loudly called for at the conclusion of each act. It is to be regretted that this lady and gentleman are amateurs, otherwise they would really be an acquisition to our lyric stage. The other characters were well sustained by Messrs. Faulkner, Montague, Barnett, Druff, S.E. Phillips, &c., &c. We must also compliment Miss Ellen Cowle on the excellent manner in which she played the part of Madame Deschappelles. A concert followed supported by Mesdames Rose Hersee, Bailey, Emely Muir, Helen Muir, Phœbe Cowen, and Lawrence; Signors Caravalligri and Agretti, and Mr. Alfred Flemming. Especial thanks are due to Miss Lawrence and Miss Cohen for their excellent singing. We understood them to be the only lady amateurs. Not the least noticeable was the excellent playing of Signor Tito Mattei on the pianoforte, and Signor Risegari on the violin. We think the evening's entertainment doubly deserving of success—first, on the ground of the good purpose that prompted it, and, secondly, the excellence of the entertainment. The committee (of which Bro. Israel Abrahams, P.M. 188, was the energetic chairman) deserve great praise for their earnestness and exertions. The conductors were Signor Tito Mattei, Bro. Van Noorden (Org. 188), and Bro. Louis Emanuel.

ERRATUM.—In our report of St. John's Lodge, Leicester last week, the name of a visiting brother was incorrectly printed "Moir," instead of Moor.

Reports of Masonic Meetings.

THE CRAFT.

PROVINCIAL.

SHERBURN.—Adams' Lodge, No. 158.—The members of this lodge assembled for the dispatch of business on Tuesday night, 6th July. The lodge was opened in due and ancient form by Bro. Fleming, W.M., who was supported by the whole of the officers of the lodge. Bro. J. Downs being a candidate for the sublime degree of a Master Mason was entrusted and retired; he was afterwards readmitted, and raised to that sublime degree in an able manner by the W.M. Bro. Bridge, who was a candidate for the Fellow Craft degree, was duly passed. Among the visitors were Bros. Prescott (W.M. 706), McDonald (W.M. 1089), Pannell (Sec. 1089), and Whitton (Faucett Lodge, Statham Harbour, 661).

LIVERPOOL.—Mariner's Lodge, No. 249.—The regular meeting of the above lodge was held on the 1st inst., it being the anniversary of the lodge. The lodge was opened by Bro. George de la Perrelle, W.M. The minutes of the last regular lodge, and the Lodge of Emergency were read and confirmed. Mr. John Hayes was balloted for, and declared duly elected. Bro. William J. Underwood was also declared elected as a joining member from lodge No. 1,021, "Barrow-in-Furness." The lodge was then opened in the second degree, and Bro. Philip Pinnington, W.M. elect, was presented for the benefit of installation, and subscribed to the ancient charges which were read by the Secretary. The lodge was then opened in the third degree. A Board of Installed Masters was formed, and Bro. Pinnington was installed W.M. for the ensuing year, in accordance with the ancient custom. Bro. De la Perrelle, P.M., was the installing officer, and Bros. Hamer and Mott, Past Masters, kindly rendered their assistance. The brethren were readmitted, and Bro. Pinnington was proclaimed W.M., and saluted in the several degrees by the brethren. He then proceeded to appoint and invest his officers, whose names are as follows:—Bro. Richard Tubb, S.W.; A. Walker, J.W.; F. Goswell, S.D.; Rotherham, J.D.; Pearson, Treas.; R. Roberts, Sec.; Thomas Joseph, Inner Guard; and J. J. Rose, J. N. Pendleton, George Evans, and Edwin Hughes, Stewards. Bro. Jones, P.M., Director of Ceremonies, and Bro. Robinson, Organist. On the motion of Bro. Hamer, P.M., seconded by Bro. Jones, P.M., Bro. Ball was re-elected Tyler. Mr. John Hayes being present, was then properly proposed, admitted in due form, installed into Freemasonry, and declared himself a subscriber. Letters were read from the Prov. G.S., and the Grand Secretary, authorizing and confirming certain alterations in the bye-laws. A letter from Bro. R. Campbell was read, containing his resignation, on account of going abroad. On the motion of Bro. Walker, J.W., seconded by Bro. Rotherham, J.D., the appointment of Committees (as per resolution of the lodge, June 3rd, 1869), was deferred until the next regular meeting. Nothing more appearing for the good of the Craft, the lodge was closed in the usual solemn form. The brethren afterwards proceeded to "Roby" to enjoy the annual banquet, sumptuously prepared by Bro. Houlston, of the Stanley Arms Hotel. During the evening the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given, and heartily responded to. Several of the brethren contributed to the festivity of the evening by singing some excellent songs, &c., and a pleasing part of the proceedings was the presentation of a P.M.'s gold jewel to the immediate P.M., Bro. De la Perrelle, towards the cost of which the brethren had subscribed most readily. The jewel bears the following inscription:—"Presented to Bro. George de la Perrelle, P.M., at the expiration of his year of office as W.M., by the brethren of the Mariner's Lodge, No. 249, of Free and Accepted Masons, Liverpool, July 1st, 1869." Bro. De la Perrelle acknowledged the presentation in words full of sympathy, and expressive of good feeling towards the brethren. The meeting terminated at an early hour, and the brethren returned to their homes after greatly enjoying the annual treat.

SCARBOROUGH.—Denison Lodge, No. 1248.—This lodge held its regular meeting, at the Grand Hotel, on the 5th July. The following officers and brethren were present:—Bro. W. F. Rooke, J.P., P.M.; P.P.G.S.W., as W.M.; W. B. Stewart, P.M.; S. H. Armitage, S.W.; J. Groves, J.W.; G. H. Walshaw, S.D.; H. W. Garnett, J.D.; J. E. Green, Sec.; H. C. Martin, P.M., I.G.; J. Verity, Tyler; V. Stewart, Brearey, Mason, Taylor, Cook, Thorpe, Devereux, and Kitchen. The lodge was opened in the first degree, and the minutes were read and confirmed. The lodge was then opened in the second degree, and Bros. Taylor, Cook, and Thorpe, passed an examination and retired. The lodge was opened in the third degree, and the above-named three brethren, were separately admitted, and raised to the sublime degree of Master Masons. Bros. Rooke and Stewart, P.M.'s, performed the duties, in their well-known effective and very impressive manner. The lodge was now worked down to the first degree, and closed with solemn prayer.

PRINCETOWN.—Lodge of Benevolence, No. 666.—The festival of this lodge was held on Wednesday week at Princetown, when Bro. Charles Fregillus was installed as W.M. by Bro. Chapman, P.M., P.P.G.D.C., in his usual able manner. The W.M. having invested Bros. Westlake as S.W., Alexander as J.W., Gilbert S.D., Hunt J.D., and Vincent I.G., the lodge was closed in due form. Bro. Metherell was appointed Secretary, and Bro. Andrews, Tyler. The brethren then adjourned to the Duchy Hotel, and spent a very pleasant evening under the presidency of Bro. Du Pre, P.M., P.P.G.D.C. Bro. Thynne, P.M., P.P.G.O., added much to the pleasure of the day by undertaking the musical portion of the ceremony.

IRELAND.

TRALEE LODGE, No. 379.—The 5th instant being the first Monday in the month, this lodge met as usual, Bro. Thomas Morris, W.M., in the chair. Other officers present were Wm. Hill, P.M., acting S.W.; Wm. Mason, P.M., acting J.W.; F. McCarthy, S.D.; Sealy Weekes, J.D.; J. McGillicuddy, acting I.G.; Wm. Graham, acting Sec.; De C. McGillicuddy, P.M., Treas. Colour Sergeant Chas. Gorman, 81st Regt., and Mr. Arthur S. Crisp, were balloted for and admitted. The former being in attendance was initiated into the mysteries of Masonry by Bro. D. McGillicuddy, who duly impressed on the candidate the beautiful lessons of our ancient order. Some local matters having been discussed, and a new candidate having been proposed, the lodge was closed in due form, and the brethren adjourned to refreshment. The only visitor present was Bro. Sloane, 153, Dublin.

THE ROYAL ARCH.

PROVINCIAL.

MELTON MOWBRAY.—The De Montbray Chapter, No. 1130.—The second meeting of this chapter was held on Thursday, the 8th July, when Bro. Chester P. Newcombe, of the Doric Lodge, Grantham, and Bro. G. M. Ashforth, of the Rutland Lodge, 1130, were exalted to the supreme degree of the Royal Arch. Comp. Kelly, Prov. G.H., gave the lectures, Comp. Douglas acting as P.S. (for the first time) and doing his work perfectly. Several brethren were proposed as candidates for exaltation at the next meeting, in November; and the bye-laws were confirmed. Comp. Oxford, Prov. G. Warden of Northamptonshire and Secretary of the Stamford Lodge, was the only visitor present. The chapter was closed at 7 o'clock, and the companions partook of supper, after which an hour or two were spent in harmony.

MARK MASONRY.

EASTWOOD, WEST YORK.—Prince Edward Lodge, No. 14.—The regular meeting of this Mark Masters' Lodge, was held on the 11th inst., when there was a very large attendance of members and visitors from both Lancashire and Yorkshire. The W.M., Bro. John Barker, having opened the lodge, he resigned the gavel in favour of Bro. W. Pilling, P.M., who then advanced eight candidates to this honourable degree in Masonry. Fourteen candidates had been balloted for, but the other six did not present themselves. The lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to the large room for the purpose of conferring some minor degrees. The "Old Mark," was given to sixteen candidates; the "St. Lawrence," to fourteen; and the "Mark, Ark, and Link," also to fourteen.

HALIFAX, WEST YORK.—Fernley Lodge, No. 58.—The regular quarterly meeting of this lodge was held on the 12th inst., when there was only a limited attendance of the officers and members. Bro. W. Cooke, P.M., P.G.S.O., in the absence of the W.M., presided. Three candidates were balloted for and unanimously accepted, but only one, Bro. T. G. Knowles, W.M. of the Derby Lodge, 1055, presented himself for advancement. There being no other business to transact, the lodge was closed in harmony.

BROTHER THE REV. RAYMOND D'A. ORPEN, M.A., has been appointed to the charge of Trade parish, which is most gratifying to the parishioners, who remember with affection his labours in their midst previous to his removal to Limerick.

UNITED STRENGTH LODGE OF INSTRUCTION, No. 228.—The members meet for the purpose of Instruction, at Bro. Geo. Garrett's, the Bull and Gate tavern, Kentish Town-road, every Wednesday evening, at 8 o'clock precisely.

TEMPLE LODGE, No. 101.—The summer banquet in connection with this Lodge took place on Tuesday last, at the Crown Hotel, Broxbourne, under the presidency of the W.M., Bro. Joseph Tanner. On this occasion the ladies were invited, which added materially to the enjoyment of the party, who, after the banquet and dessert (which was admirably served by Bro. Benningfield) amused themselves by dancing, &c., until the time for returning, and parted fully gratified with their day's pleasure.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF WEST YORKSHIRE.

The Provincial Grand Lodge of West Yorkshire held its quarterly meeting on Wednesday week, at the White Lion Hotel, Hebden Bridge, by the invitation of the Prince Frederick Lodge, 307 when there was a large attendance of brethren.

The lodge having been opened by the W.M. Bro. F. Whitaker, 448, Halifax, and officers of the Prince Frederick Lodge, the Grand Lodge officers entered the room, and in the absence of the Earl de Grey and Ripon, R.W.D.G.M. and P.G.M. of West Yorkshire, Bro. Bentley Shaw, G.S.D., W.D.P.G.M., presided, and the Grand Lodge was opened in solemn form. Amongst the officers of the Grand Lodge present were the W. the Hon. and Rev. P. Y. Savile, M.A., P.M., P.S.G.W.; E. Armitage, P.M., P.J.G.W.; Rev. J. F. A. Eyre, M.A., P.G.C.; C. Oldroyd, P.M., P.F.G.R.; P.G.T.; William Savile Wood, P.M., P.G.R.; R. R. Nelson, P.M., P.G.S.; Capt. George Robinson, P.M., P.S.G.D.; G. Norman, P.M., P.J.G.D.; S. Binns, P.M., P.G.D.C.; S. H. Stocks, P.G.A.D.C.; E. Drury, P.G.S.B.; A. Briggs, P.G.P.; T. S. Higgins, P.G.A.P.; William Elliott, P.G.S.; A. W. Ramsden, P.G.S.; C. Pratt, P.G.S.V.W.; the Rev. J. Senior, LL.D., P.G.O.; W. Rhodes, P.P.G.W.; J. Peace, P.P.G.O.; T. Perkinson, P.P.G.S. of W.

After several matters of business had been transacted, a resolution was carried unanimously "That the 500 guineas presented to the Boys' School be applied to enfranchise the offices of the P.G.W., the P.G.R., the P.G.T., and P.G.S., making those officers for the time being vice-presidents in perpetuity."

The D.G.P.M. then called the special attention of the Grand Lodge to the present position of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, showing the necessity which existed for further contributions, in order to carry out efficiently the work of education, and to render the school available for the introduction of an additional number of boys; and strongly urged the brethren to supplement the handsome contribution of £12,000 made last year, in order to clear the school from debt.

The report of the Charity Committee having been adopted, the Grand Lodge was closed according to ancient custom.

Subsequently nearly 100 brethren sat down to an excellent banquet, at the White Horse Hotel, supplied by Brother Jackson, P.M., at which the W.D.P.G.M. presided, and was supported on his right by Bro. the Hon. and Rev. P. Y. Savile, M.A., P.G.S.W., and on his left by Bro. Ed. Armitage, P.G.J.W., and other officers of the Grand Lodge.

The CHAIRMAN gave the loyal toasts, that of the army, navy, and volunteers being responded to by Bro. Nelson, P.G.S., Bros. Jessop and Charneck, of St. James's Lodge, Halifax, 448. The Chairman proposed the M.W. Grand Master of England, the Right Hon. the Earl of Zetland, and the rest of the grand officers. Bro. Saville proposed the Right Hon. the Earl de Grey and Ripon, R.W.D.G.M. of England, and P.G.M. of West Yorkshire, to which the Chairman responded, as well as to the toast of the D.P.G.M. and the rest of the provincial grand officers. The toast of the V.W., the Provincial Grand Chaplains, and the clerical brethren, was proposed by Bro. Armitage, and responded to by Bro. the Rev. J. F. A. Eyre, P.G.C. Bro. Nelson replied to the toast of the masonic charities. The Chairman submitted the toast of the W.M.'s and P.M.'s of lodges, in which he complimented the officers and members of Prince Frederick Lodge upon the hearty reception given to the Grand Lodge, Bro. F. Whitaker, W.M. of Prince Frederick Lodge responded, and proposed the visiting brethren, which was responded to by Bro. Sutcliffe, of Todmorden, and others.

Other toasts were given and responded to, the proceedings being agreeably interspersed by glees, given by a selection from the members of the Hebden Bridge Choral Society, with Bro. Thomas Whitaker presiding at the piano. The proceedings closed at an early hour.

At the pleasing and interesting Festival held at the Masonic Institution for Boys, Wood Green, on Thursday, the 1st inst., both the Military Band for the Fete and the Quadrille Bands in the Dining and School Rooms were provided by Bro. James Weaver, of the Orchestral Band Office, 45, Howland-street, Fitzroy-square, W., and all were excellent.

A SERMON will be preached to-morrow at St. Helen's Church, Bishopgate, by V.W. the Rev. John E. Cox, P.G.C., on behalf of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, at Wood Green, there will be full Choral Service, commencing at 11 o'clock, and it is to be hoped that the appeal of the Rev. Brother will be met with a liberal response.

SUMMER FESTIVAL OF THE FIDELITY LODGE No. 3.

PRESENTATION TO BRO. DEARSLEY.

The Fidelity Lodge, No. 8, dating almost from time immemorial, held its annual summer gathering under singularly fortunate circumstances at the Crystal Palace, Sydenham, on Tuesday last. In consequence of the recent heavy rains the flowers looked beautiful, and, together with the other attractions of the palace, rendered the occasion one of peculiar pleasure and satisfaction. There were between sixty and eighty brethren present, including Bros. Cardwell, W.M.; Davy, S.W.; Taylor, J.W.; Kell, S.D.; Squires, Sec.; Dearsley, Treas. and Father of the lodge; Potts, Tyler. The visitors included Bros. Rev. Robert J. Simpson, Past Grand Chaplain; Biggs, Past Grand Sword Bearer; John Emmens, P.M. and Past Grand Pursuivant, &c.; Bayner (P.M. 56), Howard (Lodge of Brotherly Love), Collier (W.M. 206), Gielch (P.M. 619), Henry Mugeridge (P.M. 715, Preceptor, &c.), Young (12), Dearsley, junr., Gaywood (206), Sampson (152), Ward (754), Simms (late No. 3), Palmer (St. James 965), Hamilton (Mount Moriah 34), Avery (619) and Chas. E. Thompson, J.W., Southern Star, 1,158 and 177).

The banquet was provided in a room overlooking the gardens and terraces, and was served under Bro. Bertram's personal superintendence. It comprised every obtainable delicacy of the season, and gave the most unqualified satisfaction; many old Masons remarking they had been to hundreds of dinners in their time, but at none of which were they better served. During the banquet, and before the cloth was removed,

The W.M. rose and said he had just received a telegraphic communication from a very worthy and esteemed brother (Bro. Arthur McNamara), who had been looking forward to this meeting for some time past, and was now unfortunately kept away through a severe accident which he sustained on Friday last. The telegram was to the following effect:—

"Castle-street, Finsbury.

"To the W.M., Fidelity Lodge.—Happy to take wine with you, old fellow. I wish you health and prosperity."

He was quite sure that at the mere mention of his (Bro. McNamara's) name, they would all be happy to respond to his request. (Hear, hear.) He therefore proposed they should all take wine with him, as he was (although confined to his room) in all probability taking wine with them. (Bro. McNamara was toasted with much enthusiasm, and a telegram despatched informing him of the fact. From the cordiality with which his name was received, it was evident that Bro. McNamara is held in high esteem by the brethren, and great regret was expressed by the brethren at the unforeseen circumstances which had deprived them of so genial a companion.)

Grace was then said by Bro. Simpson, P.G. Chap. The W.M. proposed the health of Her Majesty, and said it was a toast which was always looked upon with pleasure by Englishmen, and by none more so than by Freemasons. He did not know if he were to attempt to discourse for a long period, that he could say anything which they had not already heard in favour of the Queen, and as there were a great many brethren present who lived at considerable distances, he would not detain them by long speeches, but content himself by simply asking them to join with him in drinking the health of the Queen. (Cheers.)

Bro. DONALD KINE sang the solo parts of the national anthem.

The W.M. said he felt quite sure the brethren would drink the next toast with the same enthusiasm they always did when at home in the Fidelity Lodge. (Hear, hear.) It was the Right Hon. the Earl of Zetland, W.M.G.M. of Masons. The name of the Earl of Zetland, in Freemasonry, was in itself a sufficient recommendation to induce them to drink the toast, but when he informed them that he had been elected for the 26th time to preside over the Craft, they would drink the toast with more than ordinary enthusiasm. Without going further into his merits, he gave them "The Right Hon. the Earl of Zetland, W.M.G.M." (Cheers. A really good fire was given.)

Bro. Phillips (son of the celebrated Henry Phillips), sang "My Guiding Star."

In proposing the next toast, the Chairman said they had so often heard of the good qualities of the Right Hon. the Earl of Grey and Ripon in reference to Masonry, that it would be a waste of time for him to discourse upon them. He was at present one of Her Majesty's ministers, and one frequently engaged in Her Majesty's council; he, nevertheless, found time to devote to Freemasonry, for whenever there was anything important to do, or important to be said, he was always in his place. He thought the Craft ought to consider themselves extremely highly honoured in having a nobleman possessing so much ability, and so much zeal in the interests of the Craft, in the position he held in Freemasonry. (Hear, hear.) He would therefore give them "The Deputy Grand Master of Masons, the Right Hon. the Earl of Grey and Ripon, and the rest of the grand officers, past and present." They had several illustrious officers present that day, and amongst them was Bro. Simpson, Past Grand Chaplain. He (the W.M.) had no doubt there were many brethren present who witnessed the ceremony of the inauguration of the new building at Freemasons' Hall, and they must have been, as he was, highly gratified at the oration which Bro. Simpson delivered on that occasion. He believed it not only contained historical recollections with respect to Freemasonry, but it also contained historical truths and aphorisms which they would all do well to remember. He was quite sure that address would be handed down to posterity, and read with pleasure in ages to come.

The toast was enthusiastically received.

Bro. SIMPSON, P.G. Chap., who was loudly cheered, returned thanks on behalf of the Grand Lodge of England, for the kind and handsome manner in which the toast had been received. With regard to the Earl of Grey and Ripon, he said he need but say little, for in whatever he took part, as in the Grand Lodge, he always threw his heart into his work, and therefore did it well. He believed that if a day should come when they would look for a Grand Master, there was no one they could look forward to with greater hope and promise than he. (Hear, hear.) He (Bro. Simpson) thanked the W.M., for singling him out in the presence of two brethren his seniors, (Bros. J. Emmens and Biggs.) He thanked Bro. Simms, his immediate host, for the great pleasure he had conferred upon him in inviting him to be present on that occasion, at being present at this summer meeting of the Fidelity Lodge. It did confer upon him very sincere pleasure to have been present on that occasion, and to meet so many Brother Freemasons, whom he had reason to believe stood high among their fellow-men, and as long as such a lodge as the Fidelity existed, the Grand Lodge need not want the means to recruit its strength. (Hear, hear.) He believed a meeting of the Grand Lodge of France had been called for the purpose of condemning the allocation of the Pope, and he was of opinion that the determination come to upon that occasion, that it would be better to take no notice of it, was a wise one. While they let the Pope alone, he thought that great Potentate would have quite enough to do to mind his own business. (Hear, hear, and laughter.) He again thanked the brethren for their kindness.

The W.M., then rose and said: Brethren, I am about, on the present occasion, to depart from the usual routine which we adopt on these occasions. You are aware that this evening we are about to do honour to the Father of the Lodge, who is also the Treasurer. (Cheers.) In the first place, therefore, I will propose his health, and I am quite sure it will need no recommendation or words from me to induce you to drink it with enthusiasm, when I tell you that Bro. Dearsley is the Father of the Lodge, and that he has been a member of it for now nearly 40 years; that he has exerted himself in every possible way for the interest of the lodge, and that he has introduced more members than perhaps any other person connected with the lodge. (Hear, hear.) That he is always ready to do his duty as a Mason, as a father, as a husband—(hear, hear.)—and as a citizen; that his hand is always ready for the purposes of charity;—(hear, hear, and cheers.)—no matter whether it is connected with Freemasonry or with any other institution. I believe that there is no member of the Institution who possesses those qualities which are necessary to make a man a true mason more than our Bro. Dearsley does. I believe that in every respect he is a true Mason. He has served the interests of the lodge, he has served the interests of Freemasonry, and the community in general, and when I say that I need say no more. Without further preface, I give you the health of our Bro. Dearsley, the Father of the Lodge and the Treasurer, and at the same time, I will beg his acceptance of a very handsome testimonial. (loud and prolonged cheering.) A testimonial which has been subscribed for by almost every member of the lodge, and which is of itself sufficient to show the esteem and respect which every member of the lodge has for him. (Hear, hear, and renewed cheers.) I am quite sure that when our Bro. Dearsley looks upon that testimonial, and reads the inscription, which he will find written upon it, he will say, "I am very pleased that I have in my endeavours to serve the interest of the lodge won the esteem and affection of every member"—(much applause)—and when his family look upon it, they will look upon it, perhaps not so much for its intrinsic value, but for the feeling which is evinced by the Lodge Fidelity for its oldest member. (Hear, hear.) Brethren, without saying more, I will give you the health, long life, and prosperity of our Bro. Dearsley, the Father and Treasurer of the Lodge.

In obedience to a desire expressed by some of the members, that the inscription should be read, the W.M. read the inscription, which had been magnificently done. It was written in old English lettering and was mounted and framed in a handsome manner. The inscription, which was accompanied by a very elegantly chased solid silver tea and coffee service, worth 100 guineas, was as follows:—Presented, with a silver tea and coffee service, to Bro. Henry Dearsley, P.M., and Treasurer of Lodge of Fidelity, No. 8, by several of the present and past members of the lodge, in testimony of his long and valuable services, and his unwearied exertions in promoting the welfare of the lodge and its members, July 13th, 1869." The W.M. continued: Brethren, I could say a great deal more in favour of our Bro. Dearsley, but I think it would be waste of time. I will content myself by asking you to drink most cordially his good health, and begging his acceptance of the handsome testimonial you see before you.

It is almost needless to say the toast was drunk with enthusiasm, and more than usual Masonic honours paid to the recipient.

Bro. DEARSLEY'S rising was the signal for another outburst of applause, and it was some minutes before he could obtain a hearing, when he did, (speaking with some emotion), he said: W. Master, in rising to respond to the toast you have kindly placed before the brethren, I assure you I do so with some diffidence, because I feel that I am not deserving of one half of the encomiums you have been pleased to pass upon me, and in the second place my inadequacy to convey to you in words, the outpourings of a grateful heart. Worshipful Sir, during the many years I have been connected with this lodge, I have made many dear friends, many of whom also have passed away from among us, and I trust I have never made an enemy. (Hear, hear.) The lodge has been pleased to place me in many positions, and among them that of wine-steward. With regard to my position as Treasurer of the lodge, I can assure you your funds shall be carefully husbanded. There is one thing I wish for, which is, that I may be spared a few years longer to enjoy the society of those who have been so kind as to give me this handsome testimonial, and when it may please the G.A.O.T.U. to call me from this sublunary abode, it shall be handed down to my children, and my children's children, to show them that upright intentions and a faithful discharge of those duties we are called upon to perform will bring about such bright results as I see before me on this most pleasurable and gratifying occasion.

The much respected brother sat down amidst loud and continued marks of approbation.

Bro. P.M. ROBINSON proposed the W.M., to which he responded in becoming terms, saying he felt it a high honour to be Master of a lodge ranking so high in the Craft, and if there had been any shortcomings on his part, it was not owing to a want of desire, but a want of ability. (Cries of No, no.)

To the toast of the P.M.'s of the lodge, Bro. Heath responded.

Bro. SIMPSON, P.G. Chaplain, said, if it would not be considered presumption, he should like to add a few words to what had been already said about Bro. Dearsley. He had not in the few words he addressed to them some time since, said anything about the testimonial, because it was not then before the brethren. It had given him most sincere pleasure to be present on this occasion, because the handsome testimonial before them had not been got up by "jobbery" or anything of that sort, but was the tribute of grateful hearts to the man who had worked so long and so worthily for his lodge. He believed he was sterling as the silver with which the articles had been made. The Rev. and worthy Bro. concluded his remarks with an apology for the digression.

The W.M. proposed "The Visitors."

Bro. HENRY MUGGERIDGE, P.M., &c., returned thanks, and said he did so with a great deal of pleasure. It was a great treat to witness the presentation to Bro. Dearsley, whose name was not only known amongst the members of the Fidelity Lodge, but known among the whole Craft. He had done everything in his power to promote the Charities. (Hear, hear.)

Bro. EMMENS, P.M., in a complimentary speech, paid a graceful tribute to Bro. McNamara. He was sure they all regretted his absence that evening very much. Most of them knew how he had looked forward to that meeting, and could guess how disappointed he was at his unavoidable absence. He asked them to drink towards his speedy recovery, which was done with three times three. The brethren then separated.

THE ROSICRUCIANS.—A very interesting work upon those singular people, the Rosicrucians, respecting whose precise tenets there has hitherto prevailed such apparently hopeless obscurity, will be shortly published by Mr. Hotten, the well known antiquarian publisher, of Piccadilly. This work, which will appear in 8vo., will contain very numerous carefully executed engravings, the subjects for which are drawn from almost all the museums and sites of interest in the world. Nothing authentic relative to the Rosicrucians has appeared in England since the days of Robert Flood, or Fludd (Robertus de Fluctibus), who wrote in the days of James the First. Mr. Hargrave Jennings, author of an anonymous book on the "Indian Religions," and their occult connection with Bhuddism, is the producer of "The Rosicrucians."

Agents.

AMERICA: Bro. J. FLETCHER BRENNAN, 114, Main street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

CANADA: Messrs. DEVRIE & SON, Ottawa.

CEYLON: Messrs. W. L. SKEENE & Co., Colombo.

CONSTANTINOPLE: Bro. J. L. HANLY, Levant Times

GALATA: IPSICK KAHN, Perchembé-Bajar.

PARIS: M. DECHEVAUX-DUMESNIL, Rue de Harlay-du-Palais, 20, near the Pont Neuf; Editor Le Franc-Maçon.

And all Booksellers and Newsagents in Great Britain and Ireland.

Births, Marriages, and Deaths.

MARRIAGE.

PÖRTER—BROWN.—On the 15th inst., at the May-street Presbyterian Church, Belfast, by the Rev. John S. McIntosh, Bro. John B. Porter (J.D. 1866), teacher, Seaman's Friend Society Schools, to Miss Catherine Brown, both of Belfast.

DEATHS.

GAUGHAN.—Recently, at his residence, Bridge-street, Tralee, aged 83 years, Bro. Thomas Gaughan (Comp. R.A., 379), deeply regretted by the members of his lodge.

GOULTY.—On the 7th inst., at Brighton, aged 89 years, Brother Horatio Nelson Goult, architect and surveyor. [A most estimable Mason, and one whom we deeply lament.—ED. FREEMASON.]

SMITH.—On the 2nd inst., Major Henry F. Smith, of Clapham, E.C. Temple Crossing Encampment.

The Freemason,

SATURDAY, JULY 17, 1869.

THE FREEMASON is published on Saturday Mornings in time for the early trains.

The price of THE FREEMASON is Twopence per week; quarterly subscription (including postage) 3s. 3d.

Annual Subscription, 12s. Subscriptions payable in advance.

All communications, letters, &c., to be addressed to the Editor, 3 & 4, Little Britain, E.C.

The Editor will pay careful attention to all MSS. entrusted to him, but cannot undertake to return them unless accompanied by postage stamps.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES.

THE fact cannot be gainsayed. A fearless spirit of enquiry is abroad; and codes, theologies, and revelations which have hitherto passed unquestioned are now being tested with analytical minuteness in the crucible of truth. Acute thinkers and subtle logicians have brought the artillery of reason to bear upon many venerable abuses and antiquated superstitions, and the result of their labours is seen in the wonderfully improved condition of mankind in general. But it is easier to demolish than to build, and while admitting to its fullest extent the right of free thought and free opinion, let us not wantonly destroy the beautiful in our anxiety to be wiser than our forefathers.

Among other human institutions, Freemasonry offers to the serious student a problem so unique and so complicated as to challenge investigation and solution. It presents itself to the non-masonic observer in a variety of aspects, involving different and apparently irreconcilable conditions. Thus, its secrecy is a stumbling-block to those who acknowledge fully its beneficent and charitable element, their argument being that what is good ought not to be concealed.

This view arises from an utter misconception of the objects and aims of the Fraternity. Is it for a moment to be supposed that if the ceremonies of Freemasonry were to be practised in public, and its initiatory rites conferred indiscriminately upon all who chose to apply—if the good and the evil, the ignorant and the learned, were to be thus admitted without distinction—is it to be believed that the Order could then effect its "noble purposes with the same facility; or, rather, would it not shatter that bond of brotherhood which now encircles the earth with the celestial girdle of love, because we desire to link together only the tried, the faithful, and the true?

No! Freemasonry glories in doing good by stealth, and works in silence and secrecy, although it is doubtless our hope and belief that, as civilization advances and knowledge increases, so will the light of Freemasonry radiate more and more, until the dream of the poet becomes merged in blissful reality—until the scattered and hostile nations are blended into one vast and glorious "federation of the world." In the meantime, we must act like the early Fathers of the Christian Church, who deferred the rite of baptism, as a rule, until the catechumen had been fully instructed in the preparatory mysteries of the faith. We invite all men of sound judgment and strict morals, and he who seeks in earnest shall find in truth. But we cannot, we will not—we dare not dispense with those initiatory observances by which we are distinguished from the body of mankind. It is not only that our ceremonies are typical of a sublime system of morality; they are also paths by which the willing mind is led by wise gradations to the contemplation of the works of Nature, and the mysterious operations of the Divine Being.

The whole plan of the creation sustains this theory of progression: the bud expands into the perfect flower, the chrysalis emerges from torpor and darkness into winged life and beauty. We place the alphabet in the hands of the child, while the more mature scholar exercises his mental faculties with syllogisms or geometrical symbols.

Thus it is in the speculative science of Freemasonry—the aspirant proceeds by regulated steps or degrees to the goal he desires to reach.

It is not to be expected, however, that a system which persistently excludes from participation in its rites, all upon whom the stamp of folly or vice is set, should be very popular, nor can we as Freemasons regret the circumstance. What we have most to fear is the relaxation of discipline in our own ranks, not the disorderly array of the foe. The admission of one improper person into the order strikes a weightier blow at its stability than all the platitudes of priests or pontiffs. Greater caution in the selection of candidates—and, we may add, in the multiplication of lodges—is essential to the future welfare of the English Craft.

The most flagrant violations of the Constitutions are being committed day by day—members are admitted without due enquiry into their character—brethren are advanced to office without the slightest qualification to perform their duties, and the want of authoritative supervision is daily and increasingly felt.

Now is the time to strike a blow at the root of the evil, for, as one result of the Prince of Wales' connection with the Craft, we may expect a greater influx of candidates—many of whom will enter out of mere curiosity, or, perhaps, influenced by more ignoble motives.

We were among the first to hail the Heir Apparent as a brother, and apart from his personal merits, we did so on the ground that the Prince is the descendant of many illustrious Masons, whose renown we hope his Royal Highwill emulate and justly inherit. The initiation of so exalted a personage also affords a complete answer to the vapid and hackneyed charge of disloyalty which some puerile minds would fain attach to the Craft; and, further, to quote the remarks of a very eminent brother, we are at all times glad to welcome distinguished men, because their names alone are a guarantee to society that the objects of the Institution are just, lawful, and consonant with due subordination to civil government and the maintenance of order in the State.

Freemasonry fears no inquiry; she can bear unmoved the Ithuriel touch of truth, and the probe of the most sceptical metaphysician. She alone has withstood the assaults of ages, while other institutions have passed away and mightier systems have gone down quenched in the abyss of oblivion. Why? Because her great heart throbs with the heart of humanity; because she is the representative of human thought, the visible Incarnation of that immortal idea which folds within its wide embrace of peace and fraternity the world at large, without distinction of clime or creed, regarding the manifold races of the earth as the children of one common Father, and the beloved fold of one divine Shepherd.

The Druids.—Is there any similarity between the ceremonies of the ancient Druids, and those preached by a modern Society of the same name? There is a Druid's Lodge of Love and Liberality, No. 589, at Redruth, on the roll of the Grand Lodge of England, why is it so named?—SIGMA.

UNITED SOCIETY OF IRONMONGERS.—The 43rd annual festival of this Society was celebrated on Wednesday evening, at the Freemasons' Tavern, Mr. J. D. Adams in the chair, and Mr. H. Hickson in the vice-chair. About 120 gentlemen sat down to dinner, among them being Messrs. J. P. Walliker (Treasurer), Joseph Spokes Corbett, Jas. Perkins, Robt. Wilson, Griffiths Browell, James, Arkell, Bainbridge, Chapman, W. E. Coles, R. Cranswick, Carr (of Sheffield), Hy. Knight, Thos. Hayes, and J. Dolamore (Secretary). Letters of apology were received from Mr. Tidd Pratt, Mr. Serjt. Tindal Atkinson, and Mr. R. W. Kennard, who were unable to attend. Before the Chairman gave the toast of the evening, the report of the past year was read, from which it appeared that the receipts during that time had been £624 14s. 0d. and the expenses £393 6s. 9d.; £87 6s. 0d. had been paid in cases of sickness; £50 in cases of death; £157 3s. for superannuation members; £72 18s. 0d. for officers' salaries; £20 18s. 9d. for new books, stationery, and postage; £4 for rent and gas; and one guinea had been returned to the widow of a man who had paid that sum, but whose membership had not been completed when he died. The balance for the year in favour of the Society was therefore £231 7s. 3d. which added to the funds already in hand, made £5085 10s. 8d. The Chairman congratulated the Society on such a favorable report, and proposed "Success to the United Society of Ironmongers." The toast was drunk, as were all the others, with great enthusiasm and the evening was passed most agreeably. The dinner supplied by Mr. Gosden was excellent and abundant, and the splendid singing of Miss Fanny Danielson, a young lady who possesses a charming voice, Mr. Kerr Gedds and Mr. Alfred Mattacks, under the direction of Mr. R. Glenn Wesley, was repeatedly encored. Mr. Thomas Spencer was toastmaster.

THE RIGHT HON. THE EARL OF ZETLAND, M.W.G.M. Another addition to the works of art of this country has recently been made by a Bro. who is well-known among the Order, in the shape of a beautiful bust of the Grand Master of England in full Masonic costume. The work has been executed by Bro. Morton Edwards of St. Luke's Lodge and Industry Chapter, and is to be seen at his quiet studio, 18, Hollywood-road, The Boltons, West Brompton. Freemasons who may desire to see it, and will pay a visit to Bro. Edwards' studio, will find one of the best likenesses of his lordship they have ever been favoured with, and we hope before long to hear that it has been re-produced, and is in the possession, if not of every Freemason, at least of every Lodge and Chapter. It reflects the highest credit on the taste and skill of Bro. Edwards, who has not forgotten any of the minutiae which make a likeness perfect. But besides the bust of the Grand Master, Bro. Edwards is the sculptor of several other busts, among which may be mentioned some speaking likenesses of Lyndhurst, Cobden, Bright, the Lord Chief Baron, and a host of famous statesmen and lawyers, who have honoured him with sittings. The Prince of Wales is among the great men who have tried the dexterity of this rising artist, and the faithfulness with which the chisel has perpetuated His Royal Highness's face is of itself sufficient to make the fame of the modeller. The names of Behnes and Gibson, under whom Bro. Edwards studied, derive an additional lustre from the eminence of their pupil.

NOTES BY A NOVICE.

SEA-SIDE GOSSIP.

It is just one of those days when the human heart can carol like a bird; sunshine, bright and dazzling, hovers over the great metropolis, and even the grey arches of London bridge, as we approach them, seem robed in unfamiliar glory. Yes, my dear Brother Editor, I'm off, or rather we are off—(don't be impertinent, I shan't tell you anything about the mystic "we"). But we have just stepped aboard a Westminster steam-boat by mistake, and off we go to "Paul's Wharf," when we credulously considered we were on the high road, or rather high sea, to—no matter where. Great anxiety prevails for the space of ten minutes, as the vessel for which we are really bound has her steam up and colours flying. Fortunately the captain's chronometer does not agree, apparently, with "Big Ben" of Westminster, and we are enabled to rectify the little error by a sharp run to the "Swan Pier," where we find that the exemplary porter is mounting guard over our luggage, and who upon seeing us exclaims pathetically that he has lost his morning's work. The poor fellow being reconciled to his unhappy fate by a liberal application of "palm oil," goes on his way rejoicing, and we follow his example on board a certain renowned steamer which, as usual, is christened after one of the royal family. Immediately the captain gives the word to start, which the small boy, his echo, repeats—and incontinently we find ourselves involved in the mazes of the "Pool," while occasional cries of "Stop her"—suggestive of a feminine runaway kleptomaniac—indicates forcibly that some lazy barge or other will not get out of the way. However,

"All these doubts and dangers passed,
We anchor in the port at last."

I may observe (parenthetically) that we were received with loud acclamations by the people on landing at our destination, and one youth with sandy hair was so overcome with enthusiasm at the sight of a rather plain girl on board, that in waving his cap as a symbol of joy, said cap fell into the water, and is now doubtless adorning the caudal appendage of some monster of the briny deep.

You know, dear old Editor, how severely I have suffered from indisposition (to work?) of late, and how concise I have been in my correspondence. Do not, therefore, expect much this time, but allow me to do the otium cum dig as well as I can.

In the first place, I must be reticent as to where I am, and for three reasons:—

Firstly, I am told you have now seven thousand subscribers.

Secondly, If I betrayed my whereabouts, six thousand nine hundred and ninety-nine of the aforesaid subscribers would infallibly come down and hunt me out.

Thirdly, I don't well know where I am.

You will remember, however, that you commissioned me to note down any Masonic facts that might come under my observation during my "grand tour." Well, I have seen one "fact" in the shape of our genial Brother "Span," whose joke about the "warm" reception he met with in our lodge must be fresh in your memory. We walked about together—that's another fact—and made sundry remarks upon architecture in general, and the prevalence of Roman noses amongst the population in particular, when suddenly a bell rang—we exchanged a hurried grip, and my "Span" was lost to view in cubits of sea-water. The next Masonic illustration appeared in the person of a portly friar—rubicund and round. Our passing conversation was sweet, but short; and he, too, vanished from my sight. With the next I was more fortunate. "Methinks I see him now," as our galley proudly sweeps the salt sea waves. Bro. Oldburne is a true high priest of Neptune, and rows almost as well as he can shoot (St. George's, and ye Westminster, to wit). Verily, he resembles an athlete of the good old times, and would have been laurel-crowned in the Isthmian games of Greece, or the amphitheatrical displays of ancient Rome, when the "vox populi" shouted stentorously, "Panem et Circens!" Bro. Oldburne is also a capital Mason, a P.M. of two lodges—in one of which, let me remark, en passant, he succeeded a "Novice" in the chair—and is also a P.Z. of a fine chapter held near unto the "silvery Thames." Unfortunately, his stay here can be but brief, as such is his zeal for the Craft that he willingly foregoes the healthful breeze and refulgent skies in order to be present at his lodge, which meets this week. I am happy to be able to report that Freemasonry is highly respected in the place of my temporary sojourn; the most estimable inhabitants are members, and their lodge of instruction is admirably worked by several efficient Past Masters. Within a radius of ten miles there are as many lodges; and although I deprecate the too rapid spread of the Order, there is no doubt that in this locality its marked increase is a wholesome sign, and an index of the zeal and energy of the brethren.

I will just conclude this sketch with a glance at the "Sublime Order of Judges," one of the associations to which I referred in a former paper as having existed about seventy years ago. Their modus operandi was as follows, and merit the praise of simplicity. The victim was led into the meeting-room, with his eyes covered; he was conducted to the chair of the "Sublime Presiding Judge," who placed a tankard in his hand, and desired him to taste its contents and pronounce accordingly. If the candidate responded, "arf-and-arf" the chances were ten to one he was right, as the liquor was seldom varied; whereupon the chairman and the whole sublime assembly shouted as one man, "You're a Judge," and he was forthwith proclaimed one of the mystic fraternity. Now, Brother Editor, I know you want a change—come down here for a day or two, and I will give you an opportunity of qualifying yourself for the judicial bench in an equally summary manner. Till then, au revoir!

Obituary.

SIR KNIGHT MAJOR HENRY FRANCIS SMITH.

EM. COMP. OF THE TEMPLE CRESSING ENCAMPMENT.

With the most sincere regret we have to announce the decease (at the early age of 41) of this highly-esteemed Brother, whose public and private virtues endear his memory to all who had the honour of his acquaintance.

He was initiated in the Victoria Lodge, V.R., No. 822, eleven years since, in which he served all the various offices, and passed the chair of K.S.; was instrumental in establishing the Chandos Lodge of the 1st Middlesex Artillery Volunteers, in which Corps he held Her Majesty's Commission as Major. He was a R.A. Mason and S.W. of the Mallet and Chisel Lodge of Mark Masters, Emt. Com. of the Temple Cressing Encampment, Prov. Grd. Capt. of Lines, Surrey, in which office he was inaugurated by P.E.C., Sir Knight F. W. Mitchell only last May, and better than all, a Life Governor of several Masonic Charities. His liberality was unbounded, his courtesy that of a gentleman, and his loss is deeply deplored by a vast circle of friends; and, as a very intimate friend observed to the writer, "In fact you could not possibly say more than he deserves!"

BRO. WILLIAM JERDAN.

We extract the following from the Times newspaper of the 13th inst. Bro. Jerdan was for many years a Member of the Grand Master's Lodge, No. 1:—

"Forty years ago there were few names better known in London society and in the world of letters than that of William Jerdan. Surviving almost all his literary contemporaries, he died on the 11th inst., at Bushey-heath, in his 88th year. A native of Kelso, and educated at Edinburgh for the Scottish law, he came to London to push his way in literature. Of his varied fortunes in this precarious profession he has given a faithful record in his 'Autobiography,' published about 15 years ago. His genial spirit, ready wit, and abundant anecdote made him a welcome guest in other than mere literary circles. With most of the notable personages of the last 50 years he had personal acquaintance, and with some of the men of highest mark in literature and politics he was on terms of intimacy. An interesting volume of personal recollections, entitled 'Men I have Known,' appeared two years ago, inscribed to the then Chief Baron (Sir Frederick) Pollock, also a Borderer, with whom Mr. Jerdan since boyhood had maintained an unbroken friendship. It was Mr. Jerdan who, in the lobby of the old House of Commons, seized Bellingham, the assassin of Mr. Percival. At that time one of the reporters for the Press, his connexion with periodical literature continued for half a century. In recent numbers of Fraser's Magazine are contributions from his pen, and the last two parts of the Gentleman's Magazine contain an article on the celebrated Beef-Steak Club, which no other living man could have written from personal knowledge. For several years recently he has contributed to the Leisure Hour a series of reminiscences of distinguished men, illustrated by characteristic letters. Of the Royal Literary Fund in its early days he was a zealous advocate, and by his influence greatly aided its prosperity. His kindly help was always afforded to young aspirants in literature and art, and his memory will be cherished by many whom he helped to rise to positions of honour and independence. Late in life he received a pension of £100 a year for his long services in literature."

Original Correspondence.

[The Editor is not responsible for the opinions expressed by Correspondents.]

ROYAL ARCH MASONRY.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I perceive some remarks in your columns regarding a difference of statement about the two pillars which some tradition says were set up before the flood. On looking up Halliwell's history I find it saying "There were two kinds of stones of such virtue that one would not burn, and the other would not sink; the one called marble, and the other latres. . . . Water was the chosen instrument of destruction, but the two pillars of science remained in triumphant security," &c. Jabal is given as the name of the writer of the sciences on the pillars, and Hermes, son of Shem, is said to have been "the fortunate discoverer of one of them."

The above story, of course, I treat as a mere fable. If there be anything in it at all, it suggests the query—were any of the Pyramids built before the flood and survived it? Common sense tells us that if the patriarchs were able to write on stone or brass, they did not require to set up pillars; but could have written what they desired on slabs or plates which could have been preserved in the ark. Also, the heads of Noah and his sons would serve as repositories for knowledge. However, a legend or tradition must be made up somehow.

The Chaldean story, again, is that "Xisuthrus dug up the seven Sacred Books which he had buried at Sepharvaim," after coming out of the ark. We, of course, are ready to ask—why did he not take said books into the ark with him? but we must not examine the legend too closely.

"Pillars" here I take to be a better word than "columns." These pretended Masonic traditions of ours, now, are something similar to the stories to which Paul refers in his epistle to Timothy, when he says, "Neither give heed to fables and endless genealogies, which minister questions rather than godly edifying;" or as he also says, "Refuse profane and old wives' fables."

It appears somewhat curious to me, although I dare say it is capable of explanation, that Freemasons seem to know far more about the doings of their predecessors (?) in the time of Noah or Solomon than they do regarding their proceedings during the short reign of George the First of England (1714 to 1727).

Another curious point is, that those really valuable documents which exist detailing the real doings of the Craft about and before a century and a half ago have been almost totally ignored, especially until very lately, while all sorts of notions, dreams, traditions, legends, &c., have been most industriously fabricated, promulgated, and incessantly waved before the eyes of the Fraternity. Truly, if Dominie Sampson were alive, he would come out with a most wonderfully long-drawn, "Prodigious!"

I am, yours fraternally,
LEO.

MEETING OF THE GRAND LODGE OF CORNWALL.

The annual meeting of the Grand Lodge of the Province of Cornwall, was held on Tuesday July 6, at Helston, and there was a very large attendance, about 160 brethren walking in the procession. The members assembled from all parts of Cornwall, and as Helston lies some ten miles off the rail, and the business of Grand Lodge was fixed to commence at 10 o'clock, many of the brethren had to leave their homes at a very early hour. They assembled in the large market-room below the Town Hall, where they put on their Masonic clothing, and then proceeded up-stairs into the Grand Lodge. Outside, across the street, floated a number of banners which contributed to the gaiety of the town, and as many years had elapsed since a Grand Lodge had been held in Helston, there was much interest evinced by the inhabitants and their visitors from the neighbourhood, in the out-door proceedings. The Town Hall itself was prettily and suitably fitted up.

The Grand Lodge was formed as soon as the brethren arrived from the train. The R.W. the Provincial Grand Master, Augustus Smith, Esq., presided, and conducted the business of the lodge with his accustomed ability and urbanity. He was supported on his right and left, and in the Wardens' chairs by the principal officers and brethren of the province. The Grand Lodge was opened in due form, and with the customary honours to the Grand Master.

The names of the different lodges in the province were called over, and officers and other members were present from nearly every lodge. Bro. E. T. Carlyon, the G. Sec., then read the minutes of the last meeting, which were received and adopted.

Bro. CHIRGWIN, in the temporary absence of Bro. Reginald Rogers, next read the report of the Treasurer of the Cornwall Freemasons' Annuity Fund, and expressed an earnest hope that the Fund would be still maintained, as it was a most excellent institution for the province.

The GRAND MASTER thought that the province must be much gratified by the report. In five years the province had subscribed sufficient funds for the maintenance of two annuities. As to some of the lodges not having subscribed this year, he said they could not expect all plants to flower every year. The more the report was disseminated through the province the greater results might they expect.

Bro. Wm. TWEEDY then read his report as Treasurer of the Funds of the Grand Lodge. Amongst the items expended, was one of ten guineas, which had been anticipated by the R.W., the P.G. Master, who explained that he had requested it might be given to the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, as he wished the Province to be represented at that noble meeting of the Grand Lodge, when £12,000 was subscribed towards the institution. He had determined that if there was any objection to the vote, the circumstances being so exceptional, he would defray the amount himself. [We need scarcely say that the vote was confirmed with acclamation.]

Bro. Lord Eliot said that in consequence of the large sum subscribed on the occasion, the Grand Master of Lancashire having subscribed £1,000, they had been unable to obtain the election of young Bush, but he hoped that they would be more successful next year, when the 716 votes that had been polled for him would be carried forward.

The Treasurer's account was then unanimously received and adopted.

The Petitions for Relief were then brought up. It was proposed by the Committee, that £5 be given to a needy brother, well known to the Brethren, who had returned from Australia. Bro. CHIRGWIN suggested that it should be increased to £10 to enable the brother to start in a small way of business, and the committee assenting, the proposal was immediately adopted; and the small amount of £2 was given by the committee to another distressed brother, as temporary relief, his petition not being in time to be carefully considered.

Bro. CHIRGWIN said that they had a balance in hand of about £60. Out of this sum there had been voted about £30. He moved that £20 be voted out of the remainder to the Cornwall Masonic Annuity Fund. Bro. DABB seconded the motion, and it was carried unanimously.

The re-appointment of Br. Reginald Rogers, as Treasurer, and of Br. Chirgwin, as Secretary, was then moved, seconded, and unanimously carried. Bros. F. W. Dabb and S. Holloway were appointed auditors.

It being now twelve o'clock, the remainder of the business of the Grand Lodge was postponed, in order that the brethren might proceed to church to hear a sermon, as is usual on these occasions. The procession was then formed in the order prescribed, several of the lodges having their banners, and the banners of Grand Lodge also being carried on the occasion. The lodges formed in due order, the junior lodges coming first, and the Grand Officers of the Province, and from other provinces bringing up the rear. There were two bands, one heading the procession, the second near the middle, and they both played that remarkable air which has been a source of comfort and of mystery to Freemasons in all time; from whence it came and who was the clever genius that composed it are things hidden in the womb of time. Its simple strains must be a source of cynical criticism amongst outer barbarians whenever they hear it played. However, it is one of those established institutions, like others in Freemasonry, which, like the Laws of the Medes and Persians, altereth not. The different officers carried the various insignia of the Order, and the brethren appeared in their Craft and Provincial clothing. The procession wended its way up the town to St. Michael's Church, and returned after service through the streets of the lower part of the town; so that it passed through the greater part of Helston. The church was attended by a great number of visitors. The services were conducted by the Rev. Bros. Dr. Bannister, incumbent of St. Day, F. B. Paul, F. H. A. Wright, of Stythians and Perranarworthal, the preacher being the Rev. Bro. J. D. Hawkesley, P.G. chaplain, who founded his discourse on Acts viii. 26, "Sirs, ye be all brethren." The sermon was in all respects an admirable one, and in it the preacher briefly and clearly stated to his hearers some of the great moral principles which are enjoined upon all members of the Masonic fraternity.

At the close of the services a collection was made, and the amount realised was £8 9s. 4d. The brethren then re-formed in procession and returned to the Town Hall to transact the remainder of the business.

The GRAND MASTER proceeded to appoint his officers. In doing so, he observed that this was the most difficult duty that devolved upon him. Every year increased his difficulty, because of the increase of the lodges and of the flourishing state of Masonry in the province, and the increase of working Masons who became Past Masters of their lodges. He had adverted to this subject on previous occasions, and his difficulties reminded him forcibly of those which had been ascribed to another. When Pitt was a young man about 25 years of age, he went down to Cambridge. Dr. Paley was the preacher, and he said, "Here is a man with two leaves and five small fishes, but what are they, among so many?"—(Laughter.) That was just his position, but he would endeavour to distribute the honours of the province, as far as he could, amongst those lodges which had earned a right to them. After some further observations, the following brethren were appointed to the purple:—

John Roscorla, P.M. (121), D.G.M.; Lord Eliot, I.P.D.G.M.; Frederick Williams (331), M.P., P.G.S.W.; James Mudge (451), P.G.J.W.; Wm. Tweedy (P.M. 331), G. Treas.; Rev. J. D. Hawkesley, G.C.; Rev. F. B. Paul, Assist. G.C.; W. T. Sobey (977), G.R.; W. J. Hughan (131), G.S.; W. F. Newman (75), G.S.D.; J. Levin (121), G.J.D.; S. Jacob (967), G.W.S.; S. Higgs (121), G.D.C.; R. Johns (131), G.A.D.C.; Lieut. Eustace (451), G.S.B.; T. Taylor, G. Org.; S. Harvey (131), G.P.; W. Rooks (1,006), G.I.G.; and Bros. Thos. Curry (75), Frank Harvey (450), Roberts (310), John Hall (839), W. H. Dunstan (75), and W. Tregay (583) were appointed Grand Stewards.

Bro. FRED WILLIAMS, M.P., proposed Bro. S. B. Treblecock of (1,006), and Bro. Dr. BANNISTER seconded him, as Grand Tyler.

When appointing the G. Sec., the GRAND MASTER spoke in the highest terms of the services rendered for many years by Bro. Carlyon, as G. Sec., and Bro. J. O. Mayne, as G. Asst. Secretary. Bro. Carlyon would be succeeded by Bro. Hughan, who was eminent for his great knowledge of Masonry and for his zeal in everything connected with it. As Grand Lodge did not recognize the office of Assistant Grand Secretary, he purposed discontinuing that appointment, so as to bring their working in harmony with that of the neighbouring province of Devon.

Bros. R. Rogers, E. T. Carlyon, and W. Tweedy were re-appointed the Committee for Relief; and Bros. Edward Hawke and Thomas Solomon were appointed Auditors.

The proceeds of the sermon preached in the morning were thus allocated: 1-5th to the clergyman of the parish, 2-5ths to the National Schools, and 2-5ths to the Cornwall Masonic Annuity Fund.

Bro. W. H. JENKINS proposed, in the warmest terms of eulogy, a vote of thanks to Br. Carlyon for his valuable services as secretary. Bro. SOLOMON seconded the motion, including in it the name of Br. Mayne, which was cordially assented to by the proposer, and carried in the heartiest manner. Both these brethren acknowledged the compliment.

Br. the Rev. J. D. HAWKESLEY suggested that a book should be provided in which all the brethren who attended Grand Lodge, should record their names. Such a work would be very interesting.

The GRAND MASTER concurred, and said it should be done.

Br. HUGHAN then called attention to a point of practice of serious importance. A person black-balled in one lodge had been afterwards admitted into another lodge. This was followed by a statement of facts as to what had happened at Falmouth and Penryn, and a committee, consisting of Bros. Carlyon, Hughan, R. Rogers, R. R. Rodd, Solomon, and Chirgwin, was appointed to investigate into the circumstances and bring up a report. The practice of the admission of improper persons into the fraternity was strongly condemned.

This finished the business of the day, and the lodge was adjourned to the Assembly Rooms, at the Angel Hotel, where the banquet was provided. It was intended to dine at three, but the business of Grand Lodge did not terminate till four o'clock, and many of the brethren had to leave at 6 to catch the Cornish train. This made the proceedings at the festival rather short and somewhat hurried. The room was elegantly decorated, and Mrs. Bennett deserves commendation for the excellent dinner that she had provided for the hungry mortals that crowded to the table.

The R.W. the Grand Master presided, supported by the Mayor of the Borough, and a large gathering of Prov. Grand Officers and brethren. Amongst the company was a small band of good vocalists, who, between the speeches, sang a variety of Masonic songs and airs in a very creditable manner. Grace was said both before and after dinner, in Latin, by the Rev. Bro. Hawkesley. After dinner

The GRAND MASTER proposed the usual loyal toasts, which were loyally reeted, as is the manner in all Masonic gatherings. The G.M. referred with much satisfaction to H.R.H. the Prince of Wales having joined the Craft, but expressed his regret that the Prince should have felt it necessary to have entered the order through a foreign doorway. There might, however, be a good reason for this. The more he practised the principles of Masonry the more would he fit himself for the high position to which he was likely to be raised in due course by the Great Architect of the Universe. (Loud cheers.)

After the toast of "The Sovereign of the Order, the Earl of Zetland," and "The D.G.M., the Earl de Grey and Ripon, and the Grand Officers, past and present," had been proposed, and responded to by Lord Eliot, his lordship concluded in proposing the health of the Grand Master, which was drunk with the utmost enthusiasm.

The R.W.G. MASTER, in responding to the compliment, said the meeting that day was one of very peculiar interest to him. It was now fifteen years since that he took his post in the Provincial Grand Lodge meeting, and it was at Helston that he was first elevated to the post of their D.P.G.M. From that period he had had to carry on the work of the province, and it was a matter of very great satisfaction to him that he had been able to complete a circle of the province, and during that time he had never failed to take his part in the performance of those duties which devolved upon him as a ruler of the Craft. It also afforded him much pleasure to meet friends again this day who took a part on that occasion. It was especially gratifying to meet his excellent friend, Bro. Edwards, the Mayor of Helston, who was at that distant period Mayor of Helston then as well as now. (Loud cheers.) He hardly thought that photographs existed in that day, but if they had, he believed that both he and his friend would look a little older than they did when they first met here—(laughter)—but however much looks might be altered, he was assured that their hearts were equally true. The R.W. G.M. concluded by thanking his brethren for the cordial manner and fraternal feeling, which they always evinced towards him. Again rising, he said he was reminded by the movement of the brethren present that they lived in a day of "hurry scurry," when they were compelled to break up pleasant meetings by the exigencies of railway travelling, but he would not allow a separation to take place without giving them another toast—that of the Provincial Officers who had favoured them with their presence, especially alluding to Bro. Borlase, who, though young in years, appeared there crowned in honours, and was the Secretary for Oxfordshire. Bro. Borlase bore a name honoured in the county, and they were glad to see him there, filling so high a position as he did in a distant county.

The toast was received with acclamation, and was responded to briefly by Bros. Latimer and Borlase, in speeches that touched upon events of the day; Bro. Borlase adverting to the excellent manner in which Craft Masonry was worked in Cornwall, as he could testify by comparison with the work of his mother lodge, the Apollo of Oxford.

Other toasts followed, but those exigencies to which the Grand Master referred, compelled rapidity of locomotion, and many of the company had to leave at the early hour of six o'clock, somewhat to their regret.

The whole of the proceedings were most satisfactory.

ANNUAL ASSEMBLY OF THE PROV.
GRAND LODGE OF SUFFOLK.

This year, the R.W. the P.G.M., Sir R. A. Shafto Adair, Bart., fixed the annual assembly of the Masonic body for Monday last, in the good old town of Bungay. The desire of the P.G.M. has always been to give every town in the Province, in which a Masonic Lodge is held, the honour and privilege of receiving the Provincial Grand Lodge; and so fortunate has he been in his selection up to the present time, that there is not the slightest cause on his part to regret the choice he has made. Certainly the meeting of 1869 was by no means the least enjoyable of these much-anticipated gatherings of brethren from all parts of the Province. Bungay, though a most spirited town, and one which has proved itself in every way worthy to receive the Masonic body, is somewhat difficult of access—not only from Ipswich, but from all parts of the country. But the obstacle of getting there and back the same day, was soon removed by the P.G.M., who with his usual kindness and forethought, and at considerable expense to himself, placed a special train at the disposal of the brethren. This train left Ipswich at 9.25 a.m., calling at Stowmarket and other places for the accommodation of members of the various lodges, and arrived at its destination at 11.30 a.m. Here a hearty welcome awaited the visitors, and every arrangement was made for their comfort by the members of the Waveney Lodge, mainly through the untiring exertions of Bros. E. B. Adams, M. Abel, and Burtal, W.M. of the lodge. In Earham-street an arch was carried from the residence of Bro. E. B. Adams to the opposite side of the street, from which were suspended bannerets, banners with mottoes, and floral devices. The residence of Bro. W. Walesby was ornamented with a design exhibiting the various emblems of the Order placed upon a tessellated blue and white pavement and surrounded by an arch composed of evergreens and flowers; and at the King's Head Hotel a triumphal arch surmounted with flags, &c., and a banner bearing the word "Welcome," spanned the entrance to the Market-square, where the band of the 4th Suffolk Rifles was stationed. At the entrance to the town from Flixton, the country seat of the W.P.G.M., Sir R. A. S. Adair, Bart., several elegant floral designs and flags were displayed by Mr. Meadows and others, and in the Olland-street, Bro. John Betwright exhibited an elegant device consisting of the Adair crest and arms supported and surmounted by Masonic emblems.

At 1.30 p.m., the P.G. Lodge was opened at the Assembly Rooms, Tuns Hotel, the P.G.M. presiding, supported by Bro. Henry Thomas, acting P.S.G.W.; Bro. W. Moore, P.J.G.W. On the right of the throne were seated the D.P.G.M. Bro. the Rev. E. I. Lockwood, M.A., and Rev. R. F. Palmer, P.P.G. chaplain, Oxfordshire. There were also present the following P.G. officers:—Bro. Spencer Freeman, P.G. Treasurer; F. B. Marriott, P.G. Secretary; E. C. Tidd, P.A.G. Sec.; A. J. Barber, P.G. Organist; W. G. Ransom, P.S.G.D.; M. Abel, P.J.G.D.; F. Long, P.G.D. of Cers.; J. T. Helms, P.G.S.B.; W. Gardener, P.G.Pur.; G. S. Golding, F. Betts, and Geo. Bond, P.G. Stewards; W. Syer, P.G. Tyler. Also, Bros. N. Garrett, P.M. No. 3; C. S. Pedgriff, P.P.G. Reg.; Thomas Bayes, P.P.G.D. of Cers.; S. H. Wright, P.M. 516; J. S. Gissing, P.P.J.G.W.; C. Davy, P.M. 225; George Fenn, P.P.S.G.W.; J. A. Pettitt, 332; H. S. Scott, 1008; F. B. Strathern, P.P.J.G.W.; F. Jennings, P.D.P. G.M., Bengal; G. Holmes, P.P.G.S.B.; W. Boby, W.M., 114; W. Hayward, P.P.G.D. of Cers.; P. Whitehead, W.M., 225; W. O. Chambers, W.M., 71; Wm. Lucia, P.P.J.G.W.; J. T. Wright, P.M., 386; F. Spalding, P.M., 81; S. B. King, P.M., 376; F. R. Burtal, W.M., 929; Robert Clarke, P.M., 71; A. M. F. Morgan, P.G. Sec., Norfolk; Gardiner Stevens, P.M., 52, Norfolk; R. Kent, P.M., 93; Thomas Holland, W.M., 1,224; E. B. Adams, P.P.G.S.B.; F. R. Ward, W.M., 305; J. D. Larkin, W.M., 516; J. Marshall, P.P.G.D. of Cers., Norfolk; James Franks, P.P.G. Reg.; R. Mann, P.M., 929; G. E. Jeffrieson, Treasurer, 555; Rev. T. G. Brereton, W.M., 555; J. A. Coombe, P.P.G.C., Scientific Lodge, Cambridge; E. B. Powell, P.M., 332; Thomas Beard, P.M., 81; J. Brackles, P.P.G.S.W.; R. Capon, S.W., 555; &c. Over a hundred of the leading Brethren of the various lodges included in the Province were present.

The whole of the lodges were represented, namely:—Unity (71), Lowestoft, by the W.M.; Doric (81), Woodridge, by the I.P.M.; British Union (114), Ipswich, by the W.M.; St. Luke's (225), ditto, by the W.M.; Apollo (305), Beccles, by W.M.; Virtue and Silence (332), Hadleigh, by W.M.; Perfect Friendship (376), Ipswich, by P.M.; Prudence (388), Halesworth, by W.M.; Phoenix (516), Stowmarket, by W.M.; Fidelity (555), Framlingham, by W.M.; Waveney (929), Bungay, by W.M.; Adair (936), Aldborough, by P.M.; Prince of Wales (959), Ipswich, by P.M.

Royal Edmund (1008), by P.M.; Stour Valley (1224), Sudbury, by W.M.

After the disposal of various matters connected with the Province, the P.G.M., appointed and invested the following brethren as P.G. officers for the ensuing year:—P.G.S.W. Bro. F. Jennings (Fidelity); P.G.J.W. Bro. W. Moore; P.G. Chap. (in place of the Rev. A. Tighe Gregory, resigned) Bro. the Rev. R. F. Palmer, of Clopton; P.G. Registrar, Bro. F. B. Jennings; P.G. Sec. Bro. F. B. Marriott; P.A.G. Sec., Bro. E. C. Tidd; P.G. Org., Bro. A. J. Barber; P.G.S.D., Bro. S. R. King; P.G.J.D., Bro. Parslee; P.G. Sup. of Works, Bro. Chambers; P.G.D. of Cers., Bro. F. Long; P.G.A.D. of Cers., Bro. W. Holland; P.G.S.B., Bro. W. Boby; P.G., Pur., Bro. Burtal; P.G. Tyler Bro. W. Syer.

Bro. Spencer Freeman, who has held the office of P.G. Treasurer for many years, was unanimously re-elected.

The P.G. Stewards are—Bros. Golding (516); F. Betts (516); Geo. Bond (555); Thomas Boulden (929); Roberts (929); Blunderfield (305).

The P.G. Lodge was then adjourned, and a procession of the brethren, ranged under their various banners and headed by the band of the Bungay Rifles, proceeded to the church of St. Mary, which had been most kindly granted for the occasion by the Rev. G. F. Matthews, the Rector. As the procession entered the church, where already a large and respectable congregation had assembled, Bro. Barber, the P.G. Organist, played "Rejoice greatly," &c., as a voluntary. The choir was composed of ladies and gentlemen connected with the town, and who had most kindly come forward and volunteered their services.

The prayers were read by the rector, and the lessons by the Rev. Bros. E. I. Lockwood and T. G. Brereton. Then followed the anthem, "Behold how good and joyful," &c., which was very finely rendered, the solo parts being taken by Miss Adams, daughter of a respected brother, and by Brother Walesby. We cannot speak in too high praise of the manner in which they acquitted themselves, and they richly deserve a vote of thanks from the Masonic brethren. The sermon was preached by the P.G. Chaplain, who took its text from Genesis xi. 1st and following verses. The hymn before the sermon was "O Lord, how joyful 'tis to see;" and after, "For thee, O dear, dear country," &c., both admirably sung. At the conclusion of the service a collection was made on behalf of the Masonic charities, amounting to £7 10s. The "Hallelujah Chorus," as a finale, was ably played by Bro. Barber, who richly deserves the thanks of the province for the manner in which the whole musical service was conducted, despite the local petty jealousies which surrounded him on all sides. The organ, which is a very fine one, was heard to perfection under the skilful hands of the worthy brother.

On the re-assembling of the Brethren in the lodge room, the P.G.M. proposed that the amount collected in Church should be handed over to the W.M. of the Waveney Lodge, Bro. Burtal, who, he was informed, intended to apply it to the purchase of Life Governorships in the Aged Freemason's Institution, and Boys' School. The proposition having met with a cordial response, was unanimously agreed to.

A vote of thanks was ordered to be recorded and conveyed to the Rev. G. F. Matthews, for so kindly granting the use of the Church; and to the members of the Volunteer bands for their services during the day.

The R.W., the P.G.M., then announced that the next P.G. Lodge would be held at Aldeburgh, on the Monday in July 1870. The business of the lodge was then formally closed.

THE BANQUET,

which was in every way worthy of the occasion, was set out in the Corn Hall, which was tastefully decorated, and furnished what might be appropriately termed a most comfortable and airy dining-room. At five o'clock, between 80 and 90 brethren sat down, the P.G.M. presiding. The repast was served by Bro. J. Roper, of the King's Head Hotel, in a style which did him infinite credit, and which could not fail to give satisfaction to every one. The wines were first-class, and the dessert one of the best we ever saw at any provincial dinner. The bill of fare included a fine hamlet of delicious venison sent by the P.G.M. from Flixton Park.

The after dinner proceedings were commenced by the P.G.M. giving the toasts of "The Queen and the Craft," "The Prince of Wales, the Princess, and the rest of the Royal family," which were duly honoured by the company.

Next followed "The healths of the G.M. of England, the Earl of Zetland," "The D.G.M., the Earl de Grey and Ripon," and "The officers of the G.I. of England," which were drunk with full Masonic honours.

The D.P.G.M., proposed, in appropriate terms, "The health of the P.G.M.," and in doing so alluded to the words of a song, where it says there was "a magic charm in the touch of the rosy lips," so there was also a magic charm in the whisper of a loved name, which thrilled through the hearts of every one present as though a silver trumpet had sounded it—that was the name of Adair. (Loud applause.) Suffolk, especially, was proud of the name of its P.G.M., and they had reason to be so, for from the first moment that their P.G.M. was appointed to the position he then so ably filled, the prosperity of the Province had increased. (Cheers.) And if there had been any doubt in the minds of any one as to the thoughtfulness and consideration of their P.G.M., for those over whom he presided, it would be at once dispelled, by knowing what he had done that day for their personal convenience. (Cheers.) He need not say one word more, but propose to them with all honours the health of Sir Shafto Adair, their P.G.M. [Drunk with full Masonic honours and three times three cheers.]

Sir Shafto Adair, on rising, was met with loud bursts of cheering, which lasted for some time. He said they had been unusually kind to him in their cordial reception of the toast proposed by the D.P.G.M. What he had done for the Province he had done as well as he could do; but when he had such assistance as he had in the person of the D.P.G.M. in the discharge of the duties of his office, his task was an easy one indeed. It was most gratifying to him, not so much to see their numbers augmented, but to notice the elevation of the Masonic character of the various Lodges. (Hear, hear.) The manner in which the business of the various lodges had been conducted, also the proceedings of that day, were in every way satisfactory. They had bound him honestly to their service, by bonds which he did not think capable of strengthening, but which he found strengthened every year. (Applause.)

The P.G.M., shortly afterwards again rose, and proposed "The health of the D.P.G.M., Bro. Lockwood," to whom he paid a high compliment for the able and valuable assistance he had rendered him in the conduct of the business of the Province. There was one subject to which he must briefly allude, to show that brother's zeal in the course of Masonry, and that was the desire on his part to effect a uniformity in all their proceedings, which he regretted to say, was at the present time far from being the case. Both the Irish and Scottish differed from the English working, which created great difficulties amongst those who had been used to the mode of procedure in their English Lodges. The desire was to obtain a Board of experienced Masons, to take the whole matter into their consideration, and he hoped ultimately that desire would be effected. (Hear, hear.) He gave them in all sincerity the health of their D.P.G.M., and thanks to him for the valuable assistance he had given him in all his duties in connection with the Province. [Drank with all honours.]

The D.P.G.M., in acknowledging the compliment, said it was true that he had made an humble attempt to draw attention to the matter alluded to by their P.G.M., and it was gratifying to him to find it had been taken up by brethren eminent in the Craft. The subject of their Masonic working was an important matter, and the only remedy that he could see for the defects which at present existed was to institute a Court of Appeal, consisting of P.M.'s, who could give their attention to the matter, and probably remedy the evil under which they at the present laboured. (Applause.)

The P.G.M. next gave "The Wardens and Officers, Past and Present, of the P.G. Lodge," uniting with it the name of Bro. Fred. Jennings, the P.G.S.W. (Applause.)

Bro. JENNINGS briefly replied.

The P.G.M. proposed "The P.G. Chaplain, Bro. the Rev. R. F. Palmer, and the Clergy of the Province," and in alluding to the resignation of the P.P.G. Chaplain, Bro. the Rev. A. Tighe Gregory, passed upon that worthy and most esteemed brother a warm and well deserved eulogium for the zealous and able manner in which he had discharged the duties of his high office, and the deep interest he took in all that concerned Masonry. He (the P.G.M.) well knew that when that brother took upon himself that office, he did so with great personal inconvenience to himself, but still he always felt that where his duty called him there he faithfully and zealously performed it. (Loud applause.) He thought they might congratulate themselves, however, on having obtained the services of so excellent a brother as their present P.G. Chaplain. (Hear, hear.) The Rev. brother who had that day assisted them had a special claim to their favour for his great kindness and open-heartedness, for though not a member of their Masonic body he had kindly opened his Church for them, and kindly assisted them in the services of that day. (Applause.) This had its advantages, for all out of the Craft could not fail to have seen that the Masonic body were not so obnoxious as some would have them believe. (Applause.) He gave them, with all honours, "The health of the P.G. Chaplain, Bro. Palmer." (Drank with all honours.)

The P.G. CHAPLAIN responded to the toast. He said though last year he was only a visitor amongst them, still his desire was to become more closely connected with the province of Suffolk, and though that wish had been gratified, he little imagined that, so soon after his residence amongst them, so high and distinguished an honour would be conferred upon him. He had only a few weeks ago sent back the badge and jewel of the lodge he was formerly connected with, not however without some pang of feeling, for he felt that the last link of the chain which bound him to the place was broken. Only a few days after this he received from their P.G.M. his kind letter, which told him that Masonry was universal. (Applause.) Still he could not help feeling that his position was not without its difficulties, for he followed close upon a brother whose eloquence and high attainments had charmed them all, therefore his successor would not have a very easy task. And again, if he looked further back he was no better. But as some bright particular star left some radiance behind it, so he hoped that some light from his year of office might shed lustre upon his. (Applause.) His desire would always be to do his duty in that position which it had pleased their P.G.M. to place him, and the kind reception his Masonic brethren had given him would encourage him to persevere. (Applause.)

Bro. F. JENNINGS gave "The Visiting Brethren of other provinces," coupling with it the name of Bro. A. M. F. Morgan, P.G.Sec. for Norfolk, and other brethren. (Drank with applause.)

Bro. MORGAN, in reply, thanked the brethren for their warm and truly Masonic reception, and gave them a hearty invite to join the P.G. Lodge of Norfolk in August next.

The D.G.P.M. gave the "Masonic Charities," uniting with it the name of Bro. H. Thomas. (Applause.)

Bro. THOMAS, in acknowledging the toast on behalf of the Masonic Charities, somewhat startled the brethren by stating that although the debt of £10,000 upon the Boys' School, about which so much had been urged, had been paid off at the last anniversary of that charity, there still remained another liability of not less than £9,000.

The P.G.M. proposed "The W. Masters of the Province," with the name of Bro. Burtal, W.M. of the Waveney Lodge. (Drunk with all honours.)

Bro. BURTSAL briefly replied.

Next followed the healths of the "P.G. Treasurer, Bro. Spencer Freeman," and the "P.G. Secretary, Bro. F. B. Marriott," which were drunk with full Masonic honours and duly acknowledged.

"The Ladies," given by Bro. SPENCER FREEMAN and acknowledged by Bro. GOLDING on their behalf; and the Tyler's toast, by the P.G.M., brought the proceedings to a close shortly after nine o'clock.

The P.G.M. as he left the hall was loudly cheered, and all the brethren escorted him to the Railway Station, where the special was in waiting. There a crowd of many hundreds had already assembled, and, after farewells had been exchanged, and the brethren taken their places, the train moved out of the station amid the loud cheering of the brethren and the good people of Bungay. The day which was a most pleasurable one, and the meeting of 1869, will long be remembered as one of the red-letter festivals in our Masonic calendar.—Ipswich Journal, July 10.

METROPOLITAN MASONIC MEETINGS

For the Week ending July 24, 1869.

Monday, July 19.

Lodge No. 720, "Panmure," Balham Hotel, Balham.

Tuesday, July 20.

Board of General Purposes, Freemasons' Hall, at 3.

Lodge No. 485, "Salisbury," 71, Dean street, Soho.

" 704, "Camden," Lamb Hotel, Metropolitan Cattle Market.

" 857, "St. Mark's," Horns Tavern, Kennington.

Chapter 186, "Industry," Freemasons' Hall.

Metropolitan Chapter of Instruction, George Hotel, Aldermanbury at 7; Comp. Brett, Preceptor.

Domestic Lodge of Instruction, Palmerston Tavern, Grosvenor-park, Camberwell, at 7.30.

Wednesday, July 21.

General Committee of Grand Chapter, Freemasons' Hall, 3.

Lodge of Benevolence, ditto, at 7 precisely.

Lodge No. 619, "Beacon," Greyhound, Dulwich.

" 1150, "Buckingham and Chandos," Freemasons' Hall.

" 1159, "Marquis of Dalhousie," Freemasons' Hall.

United Strength Lodge of Instruction, No. 228, Bull and Gate, Kentish Town-road.

Thursday, July 22.

House Committee, Girls' School, at 4.

Lodge No. 766, "Wm. Preston," Clarendon Hotel, Anerley.

" 858, "South Middlesex," Beaufort House, Fulham.

Friday, July 23.

House Committee of Boys' School.

Lodge No. 780, "Royal Alfred," Star and Garter, Kew.

Saturday, July 24.

[Nil.]

SUPREME COUNCIL, NEW YORK.

REPORT OF ILL. BRO. ALBERT G. GOODALL, GRAND REPRESENTATIVE, ON FOREIGN RELATIONS.

To the Supreme Council of Sov. Gr. Ina. Gen. of the 33rd and last degree Ancient Accepted Rite, for the Northern Masonic Jurisdiction, U.S.A.

BUENOS AYRES—Continued.

Over 26,000 dollars were subscribed by the Order, and the active Committees visited, without distinction of persons, over 300 families, furnishing them with medicine, medical advice, food and clothing, and burying the dead; also, sent funds and assistance to several towns in the country where the epidemic was raging. All these sacred acts were performed, according to the rules of our Order, without show or ostentation; and, should the future historian do justice to those who performed their duty in the hour of trial during that sad period, the honour must be given to the Masonic fraternity of the city of Buenos Ayres.

Subsequent to my reception for the ratification of relations of amity, I had the honour of being the recipient of many fraternal courtesies from the Subordinate Lodges, prominent among which was Union Italiano, that I had occasion to mention so favourably in my last report. This Lodge, in their merited enthusiasm to do honour to our country and one of our lamented dead, Abraham Lincoln, whom they supposed to be a Mason, held the Lodge of Sorrow, the ceremonies of which I reported two years since, were now called upon to perform the same sad rite for three of their members that had departed this life. I participated in the ceremonies, and, at a subsequent meeting, had the pleasure of presenting the Medals of Honour to the Committee of their Lodge, for the faithful discharge of their duties of charity to the suffering during the fatal epidemic. I also have the pleasure of making special mention of the English Lodge, Star of the South, for their fraternal courtesies and hospitality so generously extended, not only to myself, but to all worthy American Brethren visiting that distant city.

The Supreme Council now have under their jurisdiction twenty-one Lodges in working order, and four that are dormant; also, four Chapters of Rose Croix. The disturbed and unfortunate condition of that broad extent of country during the past two years of war, revolution, and pestilence has tended seriously to check the rapid progress of those peaceful arts that develop a nation, and thus Masonry has not increased to the extent we should have been pleased to see it; but confiding in the pure Masonic principles that govern the present able administration of the Sup. Body, I feel confident that the Order will continue to improve and gradually, but firmly, advance and perpetuate the pure principles of Fraternity, Union, and Toleration throughout that broad and progressive Republic of the South American Continent.

I regret the painful duty of calling the special attention of the Council to the accompanying official communication, relative to the existence of a Lodge at Buenos Ayres, under the title of "Italia," established in that city last year under the authority of the Grand Orient of Masonry in Italy, located at Florence. The Sup. Con. of the Argentine Republic at once protested against this violation of long established Masonic law, but to this date they have no replies or redress from the Gr. Orient at Florence, who apparently ignore, with a self-reliant and quiet indifference, the courteous and fraternal communications addressed to them on the subject, and permit the Lodge to continue its regular labours in a foreign Jurisdiction; but the worst feature of this unlawful Masonic proceeding is the startling fact that one of the members to whom the charter was granted for the said Lodge was an expelled member from one of the city Lodges, and that the profanes rejected, or members expelled, by the Lodges under the Jurisdiction of the Sup. Con. of the Argentine Republic are admitted into this irregular Lodge of "Italia." I was also officially informed that authority had been given them to confer the Rose Croix degrees, notwithstanding that none of the members had received that degree; which, according to our interpretation of universally acknowledged Masonic law, and the ancient Constitutions, will prevent this Sup. Body from officially recognising the said Gr. Orient at Florence until they shall have proved that they are lawfully entitled to enter into fraternal relations with the great family of Universal Brotherhood, and made satisfactory their mistake or irregular proceeding of ignoring the legitimate jurisdiction of our brethren in the River Plate.

REPUBLIC OF URUGUAY.

My second visit to Montevideo was in January last, during the hot season. Fatal cholera epidemic and general exodus of the population from the city prevented my having, at that time, any communication with the Supreme Council and Grand Orient of Uruguay; but on my return there in June, I had the pleasure of renewing the fraternal relations so amicably arranged during my visit two years previous. On the 25th of June a special meeting of the Council was called to give me a fraternal welcome and discuss various important subjects appertaining to the general interests of the Order in that Jurisdiction; and, in obedience to previous instructions, I had the pleasure on that occasion of presenting the diploma and jewel of office to Ill. Bro. John MacColl, 33°, and active member, as the Gr. Representative and guarantee of amity from this Sup. Con. near that Gr. Body, and from the high social position occupied by that Ill. Brother, I feel confident that the most favourable results will ensue, not only for a long-continued mutual friendship, but also for the maintenance and careful administration of the laws and principles of the Order. I also delivered the Balustre from this Council relative to the union of the two Sup. Bodies in this Jurisdiction, May, 1867.

From the accompanying official document, addressed to me by the Sup. Con. and Gr. Orient of Uruguay, I beg to call special attention to the following extract, illustrating an act of disloyalty and violation of Masonic law and treaties on the part of the so-called "Grand Orient of Masonry in Italy," located at Florence:—

"Several Masons having been struck off the rolls on account of their crimes against the Lodge acting under our authority, and amongst them Ramon Joaquim Travieso, 33°, who was burnt in effigy between the pillars of all the Lodges for having ill-used the jewels and the secrets of the Order, organized a Lodge entitled 'Esperanza,' and pleaded for authorization from the Grand Orient of Italy (at Florence), which it granted without the consent of our Sovereign Power, being, as we had been, on the very best terms of friendly correspondence, and against the express tenor of Art. 39 of our Masonic Law, with which it was acquainted, having in its possession, and against the stipulations of the Concordat made and celebrated in Paris in 1855, by all the Masonic Powers in the Universe. This Gr. Orient immediately preferred its complaint, through its Gr. Rep. to that Orient, the Ill. Bro. Bartolome Odicino, of its complete disavowal of Jurisdiction, and forwarded all the documents referring to the criminal conduct of these Masons which had been thus protected by the Gr. Orient of Italy. No redress had been obtained, and that Masonic authority has fully refused to do anything; in consequence of which this Gr. Orient has retired its Gr. Rep. and put an interdict on the irregular Lodge 'Esperanza,' as well as all the Italian Masons, until complete justice is obtained."

As the foregoing briefly and clearly states the substance and facts of the case, I deem any additional comments on my part unnecessary, presuming that this Supreme Body will at once pursue the proper course of endeavouring to convince the parties in Italy of their grave offence—of irregular proceedings, of violating the sacred rights of other Jurisdictions, protecting expelled members of the Order, and forcing upon the Masonic Brotherhood at large those who are unworthy to be the recipients of our mystic privileges.

For the past two years Uruguay has seriously suffered, in common with that of her sister Republic, by War, Revolution and Pestilence; and, amid such a disturbed condition of society, Masonry has made but little progress in numbers. A more stable Government and settled condition of affairs now exist, and, under the peaceful progress anticipated for the future, the Order will again continue its onward march.

During the prevalence of the cholera epidemic at Montevideo, in the months of December, January and February last, when death, panic and distress prevailed throughout the city and surrounding country, the Masonic Order again organised their Sociedad Filantrópica, and the faithful committee gave evidence of their good deeds by contributing more to the wants of the suffering than was given from any other source, there being no physicians to attend the large majority of the sick, the Government, being paralysed by assassinations and revolution, could render no assistance during the crisis and time of need. This Society—permanently organised in 1857, during the yellow fever epidemic, and which did such noble service at that time—has also under its charge a school for orphans and poor children, and over two hundred pupils annually receive the benefit of an education, funds for the same being contributed by the Masonic fraternity.

Fourteen Lodges and eight Rose Croix Chapters are now in successful operation under the jurisdiction of the Sup. Con. and Gr. Orient of Uruguay. The only change worthy of note since my last report is the election of Ill. Bro. M. Cervantes as Sov. Gr. Com., as successor of Ill. Bro. Florentino Castellanos whose death was duly announced last year.

(To be continued.)

BELGRAVE LODGE OF INSTRUCTION, 749. — The members of this lodge have resolved to hold their meetings in future every Friday evening, all the year round, at Bro. Godfrey's, the Duke of Wellington Hotel, Spring Gardens, Charing Cross. Bro. S. H. Pulsford, P.M. 1,158 is Preceptor.

Advertisements.

WHY NOT VISIT THE

ROEBUCK GARDENS AND GROUNDS?
Over 22 acres. Scenery unequalled.

Noted favourite resort for Dinners, Teas, Masonic Banquets, School Treats, &c.

N.B.—The New Hall will dine over 500 persons. Ten minutes' walk from the Buckhurst-hill Railway Station; by road 10 miles.

Ordinary every Sunday at Two.

MASONIC NOTE AND LETTER PAPER.

Sanctioned by The Most Worshipful

The Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of England

It is impressed with Masonic Dies, and has also Masonic Emblems incorporated with its texture, as Water Marks, while being manufactured.

Sold, in Quarto and Octavo Packets of 5 Quires, Wholesale and Retail, at the MASONIC DEPOT, 3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, E.C.

Masonic Envelopes can also be obtained at the Depot.

MASONIC LODGE FURNITURE.

A Superior Complete Suite (second-hand) to be SOLD; a great bargain. Apply by letter to P.M., care of KRYMER & Co., Stationers, Friday Street, Cheapside.

Price Five Shillings.

LIFE OF CONSTANTINE,
BY
EUSEBIUS.

Masonic Depot, 3 & 4, Little Britain.

BRO. HIGMAN'S MASONIC BOUQUET,

GREATLY ADMIRER FOR ITS RICHNESS AND PERMANENCY OF FRAGRANCE.

Sold in stoppered Bottles, at 2s. 6d. each.

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

At the MASONIC DEPOT, 3 & 4, Little Britain, London

BRO. BENJAMIN COOK,

Carpenter, Builder, and House Decorator,
SALISBURY COURT,

FLEET STREET, E.C.

Estimates for General Repairs.

Bro. G. W. CHINNOCK,

Statuary and Cemetery Stone Mason,

93, FULHAM ROAD, S.W.

Misses E. & C. CHINNOCK,

Pianistes & Teachers of the Pianoforte.

93, FULHAM ROAD, S.W.

BRO. H. T. LAMB,

MANUFACTURER OF MASONIC JEWELS.

ST. JOHN SQUARE,

CLERKENWELL.

LONDON.

ILLUSTRATED PRICE LIST POST FREE ON APPLICATION.

BRO. ADLARD'S REGISTERED JEWEL ATTACHER. Price 7s. 6d. Universally adopted. Maker of the Improved Fitting Lodge Collars and Masonic Clothing. 225, High Holborn, London, W.C.

MONOGRAM AND CIPHER DIES, of the most Artistic Designs, found in any two or three initials, without charge for Dies, and 5 Quires of Superfine Note Paper with 100 Best Safety Envelopes; stamped in various Colours, for 5s., by Post 8d. extra; or half the quantity for 2s. 6d. Makes a very useful and pretty present. Relief Stamping in Colours done on the premises at 1s. per 100 from any die. Gold and Coloured Illuminating Impressions can be obtained from your own Monogram or other Dies. Arms, Crests, and Monogram Dies cut and designed. A. Unwin, Heraldic Stationer and Engraver, 25, Whitcomb Street, Leicester Square, W.C.

Card Plate and One Hundred Cards, 4s.

WANTED.—A SITUATION, as PRACTICAL ENGINEER, to superintend the erection or repairs of Iron Bridges, or other heavy work. Is registered M.M. and R.A. in the Grand Lodge of Ireland. Please address R.A., care of Mr. J. Ingram, Hillsborough, Ireland.

THE NEW MUSICAL PITCH.—

COLLARD MOUTRIE has just invented, perfected, and secured by Royal Letters Patent, an important improvement in the manufacture of Pianofortes, by which the Pitch is raised to the Philharmonic or lowered to that of the French normal diapason in an instant, at the option of the performer. This invention can be applied to any Pianoforte. The Profession, Amateurs, Musical Critics, Musical Public, and the Trade are invited to witness its utility and effect, between the hours of Eleven and Four, at the Manufactory, 77, Southampton-row, Russell-square. Established 1849.

THE AMERICAN FREEMASON

is Monthly, of sixteen double-column quarto pages of entirely original matter, and translations from the French Italian, and German Masonic papers and periodicals of the day. It is devoted to the discussion of the rights of Lodges and individual Freemasons, in contradistinction to the assumptions of Grand Lodges, and the un-Masonic doctrines and arrangements of "high degrees." Its motto is—Belief in the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man. Its price is Five Shillings a year—a sum so small that no Freemason, for pecuniary reasons, need be a non-subscriber to it. Trans-Atlantic Subscribers to the AMERICAN FREEMASON will receive it Post-paid from the Office of Publication direct, at their respective Post-offices, upon payment of the subscription to

BRO. GEORGE KENNING,

3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN LONDON, E.C.

All Subscriptions begin with March 15th, 1869, and end with February, 1870.

The AMERICAN FREEMASON is not the organ of any Grand Lodge; but speaking the words of truth, manhood, and independence advocates freedom for Masonry in America, and the rights of Freemasons in their Lodges—rights which, by our Grand Lodges, in their subservency to high degrees, have been invaded, until at present they are nearly obliterated.

Subscribers in the British Colonies will please address all Subscriptions and Correspondence to J. FLETCHER BRENNAN, Editor, 114, Main street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

VELOCIPEDES & BICYCLES for either Sex.

Speed 30 miles per hour, hill-climbing, self-propelling and balancing. £100. Diagram, 6d.

Manufacturing Licences granted.

W. PIDDING, ESQ., PATENTEE, 31, Kings'-row,

Waltham-road.

"Having drawn Mr. W. PIDDING'S Specification of Patent, I am able to certify that his improvements in Velocipedes (bicycles particularly) will render them self balancing, capable of ascending hilly ground, and that they would travel on a newly-made road without inconvenience to the rider, either in the way of jolting or in retarding of the great speed the improvements will secure. The travelling, in fact, would be as though on level ground."

(Signed) J. G. WILSON, C.E.

"Belgrave-terrace, Peckham, S.E.; formerly of 18, Ct. George-street, Westminster."

"MR. W. PIDDING'S PATENT SELF-PROPELLING AND BALANCING VELOCIPEDES AND BICYCLES.—Having seen the diagrams and perused a specification of Mr. PIDDING'S patent, we hesitate not for an instant to say that that gentleman will accomplish all he professes to do by means of his invention."—Sporting Opinion.

New Edition, in post 8vo. with about 80 Woodcuts, price 12s. 6d.

B. JAMES STEVENS (25, 720, 1216, &c.), Auctioneer and Surveyor, House and Estate Agent, &c., Clapham Common.—Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duties. Agent to the Imperial Fire & Life Insurance Offices.

ESTABLISHED 1846.

BRO. W. H. WAGHORN Manufacturer of Regalia for all Societies, Masonic Aprons, Collars, Ribbons, Sashes, and every requisite for all degrees in Freemasonry always in Stock.

10, VINEGAR YARD, COVENT GARDEN, LONDON, W.C.

MONEY.—LOANS Granted from £100 to £2,000 at 5 per cent., repayable over Three Years, on Personal Security and Life Policy effected with the WEST OF ENGLAND INSURANCE CO., (Established 1807.) Apply to the Superintendent or Agents.

Bro. J. CROCKER, Gateshead-on-Tyne, Agents Wanted.

CROSBY'S
BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.

Opiates, Narcotics, and Squills, are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary Diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.

SELECT TESTIMONIAL.

Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says:—"I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued Cough, Pain, and Irritation of the Chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."

This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion, and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold by all respectable Chemists and Patent Medicine Dealers, in bottles at 1s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each, and wholesale by Jas. M. Crosby, Chemist Scarborough.

* Invalids should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air Vessels," a copy of which can be obtained gratis of any respectable Chemist.

To the Sporting World.

BELL'S LIFE IN LONDON

is now Published

Every WEDNESDAY and SATURDAY Morning.

Price 3d.; stamped 4d.

Office, 170, Strand, London, W.C.

ARMS, CRESTS, and MONOGRAMS.—

A MASONIC EMBLEMS Engraved on Seals, Dies, &c. Official Stamps designed and Engraved.—Bro. D. G. BERRI, Engraver to Her Majesty's Post Office, Stationery Office, &c., 34, High Holborn (opposite Chancery-lane), London, W.C.

BRO. R. FLETCHER, Masonic Stationer, Masonic Emblems,

Arms, Crests, Monograms, Addresses,

&c., beautifully stamped on note paper and envelopes in Gold, Silver or Colours. Lodge Stationery correctly and carefully prepared. Jewels copied and Signet Rings engraved with minute care. The patronage of the Craft respectfully solicited by Bro. R. FLETCHER, Masonic Stationer, 10, Winsley-street, Oxford-street, London, W., opposite the Pantheon.

TO THE NERVOUS & DEBILITATED EPILEPTIC SUFFERERS AND OTHERS.

HALL'S CHLORATE OF POTASSA, discovered, introduced, and extensively prescribed by the late eminent Dr. MARSHALL HALL, has proved an infallible remedy (by oxydizing the blood and supplying its saline constituent) for Indigestion, Debility, Coughs, Asthma Consumption, Skin, Liver, Stomach, and Nervous Affections, more especially Epilepsy, Apoplexy, and Paralysis. The successful results of this new chemical preparation are beyond all precedent, and the extraordinary cures effected by the late discoverer, and by his successor (Dr. Sutton), in the above maladies are without a parallel in the annals of medicine; and it is confidently believed that in no case need the sufferer despair, for practical experience has demonstrated, and signal success warranted the assertion, that in 99 cases out of every 100 complete cures may be relied on.

Sold in Bottles at 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and Cases of £5 each, by

DR. SUTTON, M.D., 15, REGENT SQUARE, LONDON, W.C., and in BOLTON by PRIESTLEY, Chemist.

The following are a few Testimonials published by privilege.

Sir Charles Locock, Physician-Accoucher to Her Majesty, stated at a meeting of the Royal Medical and Chirurgical Society, that in sixteen cases of Epilepsy he had effected permanent cures by the use of Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa.

"September 6 1856.—The Editor of the Bury Gazette returns thanks to Dr. Hall for the great benefit he has received from his Chlorate of Potassa treatment in a severe nervous disease."

Sir J. Ferguson, King's College Hospital, London, says—"I have repeatedly prescribed Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa and found it an agreeable and beneficial remedy."

Extract from the Lancet, April 1, 1857.—"In conclusion, we are of opinion that Hall's Chlorate of Potassa is a far superior remedy to the ones in general use for Nervousness, Indigestion, and Liver Complaints, when judiciously prescribed."

Sir Benjamin Brodie says—"What Chloride of Potassa is to the foul sewer, Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa is to the blood."

Professor Syme says—"The effects of Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa in obstinate cases of disease are as astonishing as perplexing."

Dr. Lankaster, the eminent coroner, says—"Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa is calculated to entirely supersede iron, mercury, sarsaparilla, quinine, and cod liver oil."

Sir Philip Crampton says—"I believe there is no condition of the system that may not be benefited by Dr. Hall's Potassa."

Sir T. Lawrence says—"I have found Dr. Hall's Chlorate an excellent remedy in Skin Diseases. I presume it is by oxydization."

Sir T. Watson says—"I know that it is an invaluable remedy."

Sir Edward Brough, 9, Fitzwilliam-square, Dublin, certifies Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa has been of the greatest benefit to a member of his family.

The Earl of Clarendon certifies that Dr. Hall's Chlorate cured a case of indigestion of 15 years' duration.

Dr. HALL'S CHLORATE OF POTASSA may be procured by order through any Chemist. Ask for "Dr. Hall's Chlorate," and do not be imposed on with the common article.

It is sold in Bolton by Priestley, Chemist, 12, Deansgate; or it may be had direct from Dr. Hall's successor, Dr. JOHN SUTTON, M.D., 15, Regent square, London, W.C., who undertakes the positive cure of all chronic diseases before payment.

Dr. HALL'S Chlorate is sold in MANCHESTER by JEWELL, Bury, Market-street; in LIVERPOOL by PRIESTLEY, Lord-street.

N.B.—Dr. Sutton will shortly repeat his Lecture on this subject. The Lecture sent for two stamps.

Dr. HALL'S CHLORATE OF POTASSA may be procured by order through any Chemist. Ask for "Dr. Hall's Chlorate," and do not be imposed on with the common article.

It is sold in Bolton by Priestley, Chemist, 12, Deansgate; or it may be had direct from Dr. Hall's successor, Dr. JOHN SUTTON, M.D., 15, Regent square, London, W.C., who undertakes the positive cure of all chronic diseases before payment.

Dr. HALL'S Chlorate is sold in MANCHESTER by JEWELL, Bury, Market-street; in LIVERPOOL by PRIESTLEY, Lord-street.

N.B.—Dr. Sutton will shortly repeat his Lecture on this subject. The Lecture sent for two stamps.

DR. LEA'S CELEBRATED MEDICINES.

"The efficacy of Lea's Medicines is proverbial."

Daily Telegraph.

"Lea's preparations are excellent."—Morning Star.

LEA'S BENZOL ATRABILLIOUS PILLS.

Invaluable in all liver complaints, and as a Family Medicine (without Mercury). 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

LEA'S GOUT AND RHEUMATIC PILLS.

Will eradicate these disorders when every other remedy has failed, excellent also in Neuralgia, Lumbago, and Sciatica. 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

LEA'S CONSUMPTION SPECIFIC.

If persevered in, will seldom fail. 11s. and 22s.

LEA'S ASTHMATIC EMULSION.

Maintains its superiority for this complaint, Chronic Cough, Bronchial affections, Colds, &c. 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

LEA'S WHOOPING-COUGH EMULSION.

A certain cure for this destructive complaint in a few days. 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

Prepared by G. LEA, M.D. Camberwell, Surrey.

LONDON AGENTS—BARCLAY, Farringdon-street; PAGE and TIBBS, 47, Blackfriars-road; and SUTTON, Bow Churchyard. * Advice free.

CONSUMPTION OF THE LUNGS.—

Dr. RAIT has discovered a CERTAIN CURE for this fatal malady. Advice gratis. Address W. RAIT, M.D., Peckham, Surrey.

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

EVERY requisite in GENTLEMEN'S CLOTHING, SHIRTS, and HOSIERY, for home or abroad, supplied on demand or promptly made to order by

GANN, JONES & CO.,

Tailors, Shirtmakers, Hosiers, Glovers, Outfitters, and Manufacturers,

171, FENCHURCH STREET; & MANUFACTORY, 15 & 16, BLOMFIELD STREET, E.C.

The principles of business in the Retail Department are specially recommended to the Craft and others seeking the best market. The unvarying rule is to give good value for money, to sell cheap when cheapness is consistent with quality, and to make a reduction on the price of an article when a quantity is taken. From this system of business—first established in 1805—their Wholesale Trade has grown, and GANN, JONES & CO.'s Shirts and Clothing are fast finding favour with Merchants, Shippers, and the best Houses in Town and Country.

Wholesale Lists forwarded to Shippers and the Trade, and Retail Price Lists on application

MASONIC DEPOT.

The Largest Stock in the United Kingdom of

Jewels,
Clothing,

Furniture,
Banners,

Books, &
Requisites

FOR ALL DECREES IN FREEMASONRY.

3 and 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, LONDON, E.C.

PRICE LISTS ON APPLICATION.

NAVAL AND MILITARY WAREHOUSE.

Laces,
Embroidery,
Swords,

Belts,
Chacos,
Buttons,

Epaulettes,
Sashes,
&c., &c.

GEORGE KENNING, 3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, LONDON, E.C.

PRICE LISTS ON APPLICATION.

Unlike any other Plan known.

POSITIVE LIFE ASSURANCE is a new system, first introduced by the

MASONIC & GENERAL FIRE & LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY, Limited,

8, NEW BRIDGE STREET, BLACKFRIARS.

It secures Insurers a Promissory Note (instead of the ordinary Policy) for each premium paid, which is payable "To Bearer," either during the life-time or at the death of the assured.

Full Particulars on application to
FREDERICK BIGG,
Manager and Actuary.
Agents wanted in London and the provinces.

MONEY.

LOANS ON PERSONAL SECURITY, WITH LIFE ASSURANCE, AT FIVE PER CENT. PER ANNUM.

THE

WEST OF ENGLAND FIRE & LIFE OFFICE
(Instituted 1808)

GRANTS LOANS FOR A LIMITED NUMBER OF YEARS ON THE ABOVE TERMS.

Chief Office—Exeter.
London—20, New Bridge Street.

Bro. WOLPERT,

PRINTER, STATIONER & ACCOUNT-BOOK MAKER,
7, St. Swithin's Lane, E.C.

Authorised Agent to receive Advertisements for THE FREEMASON, and all the London and Country Newspapers.

By Appointment to the Queen.

Bookseller, Stationer, Newsagent, Printer, &c.

A MAGNIFICENT STOCK OF
MASONIC REQUIREMENTS

MAY BE SEEN AT

Bro. W. E. FRANKLIN'S,

42, MOSLEY ST., corner of St. NICHOLAS SQUARE,
NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE,

Agent for "THE FREEMASON."

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS,
WOOD GREEN, LONDON, N.

Patron—Her Majesty the Queen.
President—Rt. Hon. Earl of Zetland, K.T., M.W.G.M.

A SERMON,

In aid of the Funds of the above Institution, will be preached in the Church of

ST. HELEN'S, BISHOPSGATE,

By the

V.W. BRO. REV. JOHN E. COX, M.A.

(P.G. Chaplain).

On SUNDAY, 25th JULY, 1869.

Divine Service will commence at 11 o'clock in the forenoon.

Full Choral Service.

Communications may be addressed to the Rev. J. E. Cox, at the Vestry of the Church, or to Mr. Frederick Binckes, Secretary of the Institution, 6, Freemason's Hall, W.C.

Just Published: Price Half a Guinea.

MONOGRAMS,

HISTORICAL AND PRACTICAL,

D. G. BERRI,

Engraver to Her Majesty's Post Office, Stationery Office, &c., &c.,

36, High Holborn, (opposite Chancery-lane,) LONDON, W.C.

BRO. JAMES B. SLY,
PRACTICAL

Heraldic Engraver to the Trade,

Of Gold, Silver, and Ivory.

DRAUGHTSMAN & DIE-SINKER,
9, Rathbone Place, London, W.

Book Plates Engraved; Gilt Pierced Mounts made for Albums and Cigar Cases.

Designs made of Crests, Monograms, Ornaments, and Arms, and every description of Shooting Prizes, Presentation Plate, Watches, Watch Domes, Dressing Cases, Bag-sets, and Ivory Brushes, Engraved with care, delicacy, and despatch.

TO STATIONERS.

JAS. B. SLY having in his employ several Die-sinkers, and from his practical knowledge of the same is enabled to give immediate attention to the cutting of Dies that are emergent. Companies' Dies cut. Illuminating and Stamping in colours. Sample Sheets of Monograms and Addresses forwarded on application.

BRO. REEVES, SON & CO.,

Steam Printers, Engravers & Lithographers,

WHOLESALE STATIONERS,

AND ACCOUNT BOOK MANUFACTURERS,

Playhouse Yard, Blackfriars, London, E.C.
Next the "Times" Publishing Office.

For Cheap Watches, Clocks, Gold Chains, and Jewelry, go to

KIBBLE'S

22, GRACECHURCH STREET,

One Door from Lombard Street, and

51, LUDGATE HILL,

Opposite the Old Bailey.

Gold Watches £2 15s.
Silver ditto £1 5s.
Timepieces from 9s. 6d.

EVERY ARTICLE WARRANTED.

Plate, Watches, and Jewelry, bought or exchanged.

List of Prices Post free.

Bro. J. G. MARSH,

ARCHITECT AND SURVEYOR,

159, Fenchurch Street, E.C.;

AND

842, Old Kent Road, S.E.

Bro. H. R. PRICE,

ARCHITECT AND SURVEYOR,

IMPERIAL CHAMBERS.

No. 1, Market Place, corner of St. Mary's-gate,
MANCHESTER.

A STRINGENT TOOTH PASTE.

HENRY NEWMAN'S "Astringent Tooth Paste," in Pots 1s. 6d. and 2s. 6d., to be had of all respectable Chemists. Wholesale Agents, Evans and Sons, Hanover-street; Raines and Co., Hanover-street; Messrs Clay, Dodd and Case, St. Anne street; or of the Proprietor,

HENRY NEWMAN,
SURGEON-DENTIST,

5, SLATER STREET,
LIVERPOOL.

Printed by Brother JAMES ADLEY REEVES and Son, Playhouse Yard, Blackfriars, in the City of London; published by the Proprietor, Brother GEORGE KENNING, at his Office, 3 and 4, Little Britain, in the City of London, and by the NEWCASTLE PUBLISHING COMPANY, Limited, at their Office, 147, Fleet-street, in the City of London aforesaid.—SATURDAY, JULY 17, 1869.

THE FREEMASON

Grand Lodge Reports are published with the sanction of the Right Honorable the EARL of ZETLAND, K.T., Most Worshipful Grand Master of England.

VOL. 2, No. 20.]

SATURDAY, JULY 24, 1869.

REGISTERED FOR TRANSMISSION ABROAD.

[PRICE 2D.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

	PAGE
ROYAL ARCH MASONRY	37
AN ESSAY	38
MASONIC EXHORTATIONS FROM THE GERMAN	38
FREEMASONRY	38
MR. GLADSTONE ON THE "OLYMPIAN RELIGION"	39
HISTORY OF THE ORDER OF KNIGHTS HOSPITALERS	39
THE CRAFT—Provincial	40
ORDERS OF CHIVALRY—Knights Templar	40
PROV. GRAND ENCAMPMENT OF KENT	40
GRAND LODGE	40
A MYSTERY	40
SUPREME COUNCIL, NEW YORK	40
MASONIC MEETINGS FOR NEXT WEEK	41
MASONIC HISTORY	42
TEMPORA MUTANTUR	42
NOTES AND QUERIES	42
PAPERS ON MASONRY— No. XVI.—Masonry in Italy	43
MASONIC CONGRESS	43
CORRESPONDENCE— Masonic Promotion	44
Spurious Masonic Bodies	44
POETRY—The Tolling Bell	44
ANNUAL FESTIVAL OF THE PROV. GRAND LODGE OF KENT	45
ROBBERY AND MYSTERY	46
ADVERTISEMENTS	47 & 48

NOW READY, PRICE 4/6,

VOL. I. OF

The Freemason,

NEATLY BOUND, EXTRA CLOTH, WITH GILT
EMBLEMATICAL LETTERING.

3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, LONDON,
AND ALL BOOKSELLERS.

ROYAL ARCH MASONRY.

BY THE SON OF SALATHIEL.

(Continued.)

[The rights of translation and reproduction reserved.]

The perfections of God are the pillars which support the universe. Mercy illumines justice, and beauty decorates strength. The Sephiroth canals, which are twenty-two (f) in number, convey their influences throughout the whole circumference of creation, harmonising all the orders of being, and regulating all the operations of nature. These canals never ascend, for, as the source of the terrestrial rivers is in the lofty and inaccessible mountains, so does the celestial stream of the Sephiroth spring out of the remote and inexhaustible fountain of the God-head. The romantic imaginations of the rabbis have conceived no less than fifty gates, which are so many degrees of wisdom, and so many avenues to the attainment of sublime and mysterious truths. It is incumbent on men that they study the mysteries before they can receive the influx of divine light. But the progress through these gates of the candidate for celestial wisdom is exceedingly slow. Moses is recorded to have passed through the forty-ninth, and Joshua, his successor, to have reached the forty-eighth, but neither Moses himself, nor even Solomon, who in wisdom surpassed all mankind, could ever open the fiftieth gate, which leads immediately into the presence of the En Saph,—the Infinite and Omnipotent God, whom no mortal ever yet beheld, nor could fully comprehend.

(f) According to the number of letters in the Hebrew alphabet.

We should not have dwelt so long on these particulars but for the very striking resemblance which subsists between this relation and the account given in ancient authors concerning the rites of initiation into the Mithraic and Eleusinian mysteries, the Θεῶν φῶτα,—or divine lights displayed in them, during the splendid exhibition to the view of the initiated, at the conclusion of the mystic ceremony and the intellectual ladder and sidereal gates mentioned by Celsus.

It is perhaps necessary to observe that the word gate, which is a part of Asiatic palaces by far the most conspicuous and magnificent, and upon the adorning of which immense sums are often expended, is an expression that, throughout the East, is figuratively used for the mansion itself. Indeed, it seems to be thus denominated with singular propriety, since, as those who are acquainted with the manners and customs of the Eastern nations well know, it is under those gates that conversations are holden, that hospitality to the passing traveller is dispensed, and the most important transactions in commerce frequently carried on, and which, from many passages in Holy Writ appears to have been a custom existing from the earliest periods. With respect to the ladder, the Jews were no strangers to that symbol, as appears from the vision which the patriarch Jacob beheld in his journey from Padan Aram in the land of Mesopotamia, of a mighty ladder set upon the earth, the top of which reached up to heaven, and on which the angelic beings ascended and descended, and at the sight of which he exclaimed, "Surely this is none other than the house of God, and this is the gate of heaven." (g) Here, then, is a most ancient patriarchal notion plainly taken up and propagated afterwards in the Gentile world, but flourishing among the Jews before their sojourning in Egypt. Indeed, it is remarkable that the farther we advance in the comparison of the sciences prevailing amongst the most ancient Hebrews and those flourishing during the earliest periods among the other nations of the East, we shall discover additional and more powerful arguments in support of the hypothesis that all the sciences and theology of the ancient world originally came, not from Egypt, but from Chaldea; and, in particular, that astronomy, the noblest of them, was carried in that part of Asia to a high point of improvement before it began to be cultivated in Egypt. In the Book of Job many passages occur which may serve to confirm our opinion upon this subject.

As we penetrate deeper into the mystery of the Hebrew Sephiroth we find circumstances open which evince it to have been at once a physical and theological symbol, and it appears indubitable that the primitive idea altogether originated in astronomical speculations. It is necessary then to observe that these fifty gates of wisdom are distinguished by the Hebrew mystagogues into five chief ones, each of which comprehends ten. The three former of these greater gates include the knowledge of the first principles of things, and, in passing through them, the soul is busied in discussing the nature of the first matter of the gloomy chaos—of the immense void, and of the elements—the animal, the mineral, and vegetable creation—insects, reptiles, fishes, birds, and quadrupeds, and, finally, of the creation of man—of his faculties, senses, and various other particulars of a deep metaphysical kind. But it is the fourth gate which, in a singular manner, claims our attention, for, through that gate, we are immediately introduced into the starry world and all the wonders of astronomy, as far as then known, are exhibited to our view. There we find one of the names of the seven planets, and one of the seven angels who direct their course allotted to each of the inferior Sephiroth, and upon this the conjecture is founded that the whole might originally be an astronomical symbol, the oldest, doubtless, in the post-diluvian world, and possibly tinged with the wisdom of the ante-diluvians. Hence, probably, the seven gates erected in the caverns of Mithra; hence the Brahmin Char Asherum, or four degrees of Hindoo probation; hence, the excruciating trials, still more severe than those of India, through which the aspirant in the Persian mysteries was compelled to toil; hence were derived the Zoroastrian wisdom and Chaldaic Theurgy (h), as well as their magic and other dark arts of divination, which spread from thence to Egypt, to Greece, and from those countries throughout the whole world. The conjecture of the Sephiroth being of astronomical origin is not a little strengthened by their very name of celestial brightnesses, as if we should say the Sapphires of the sky, and by the Hebrew title prefixed to the fourth gate of wisdom, in the Cabala Hebræorum, of which the translation is mundus spherarum. In this table the three superior Sephiroth are denominated, the first,

(h) A species of magic in old times, which was employed in the worship of angels, for their assistance to effect wonderful things.—Johnson's Dictionary.

(g) Isaiah xxxviii. 10; Matt. xvi. 18; Matt. vii. 13.

Cælum Empyreum, the second, Firmamentum, the third, Firmamentum, that is, the three heavens, while to the seven inferior, according to the order of their enumeration, are assigned the names of the seven planets, or the Sun, Venus, Mercury, the Moon, Saturn, Jupiter, and Mars.

Consonant to the ancient idea, mentioned before, of the stars being animated intelligences, the Hebrews appointed to these seven planets, as they did to all the stars, presiding angels, whose names are, Raphael, Haniel, Michael, Gabriel, Zaphkiel, Zadkiel, Gamaliel, and these, probably, are the same with the seven ministering angels that, in the Revelations, are said to stand before the throne of God (3). This circumstance alone, if duly considered, exhibits the most direct corroborative testimony of the inferior point of view in which the Jews regarded the seven last Sephiroth.

(i) Rev. i. 4.—And from the seven spirits which are before His throne.

AN ESSAY

Concerning the most productive and most useful method of Masonic activity most in accordance with the ideas of Freemasonry. By Bro. B. A. CRAMER, at Eichenbarleben, Member of the Lodge at Aschersleben.

[CROWNED PRIZE ESSAY.]

MOTTO.—The Masonic forms are only of value in so far as every Mason infuses into them moral and spiritual good, and according to how he turns them to profit.

It requires no further proof that the practice of the Royal Art is at present in decay. The judgment of every individually-criticising observing Brother; finally, the ignoring of the lodges by the majority of the educated public, sufficiently confirm this. Hence, every Brother, who in his truthfulness and good faith in the service of Masonic ideas, is not unmindful of his vow, must needs consider it his sacred duty to remove this degrading state of stagnation, by paving the way to some progress, such as would be most suitable to the idea of Masonry, and at the same time most satisfying to the just claims of the present times.

We are all agreed that it is the vocation of Freemasonry to foster a fellow-feeling amongst mankind. The noblest product, however—the most beautiful display—of such feeling is the moral character in which liberty has become the essence of mind—and life a work of science. Hence Masonry is for awakening and strengthening moral power, not only in individuals, but in just appreciation of the dependency of the individual upon the whole—likewise in larger spheres, so that life may grow more and more into a cosmos, and thus become a beautiful and regulated whole. Such is the set idea of Masonry, and the permanent one to be realised in and through Masonry.

At the beginning of the last century, when in troubled times Speculative Masonry arose out of the Assemblies of Operative Masons, the Royal Art dwelt in the most intimate circle of Brotherhood. The cement that kept together the old Fraternity was brotherly love, help and sincerity. It crumbled together, as soon as heterogeneous elements were received into Masonry. In the course of time, the Brotherhood took to the follies of alchemy, mysticism, Templarism, &c., until at length the French Revolution, with its consecutive wars, partly curtailed those worthless excrescences, partly made an end of them altogether. Meanwhile there had sprung up in Germany, a silent spirit of intellectual labour, which above all things, preached self-knowledge, calculated the better to comprehend the vocation of man, and to regulate life accordingly, and which was the first to bring home to man that it was only with the assistance of his fellow-men that he could really unfold himself according to his true nature, and that, when left to himself, he would not be able to rise to his proper level. Thus arose the possibility of a purer conception of Freemasonry, and to us the Erzyvora of that philosophical epoch was left the lofty task of realising that ideal and of freeing it from all disfiguring buffooneries.

But we only understood to dream of such an ideal, until at last the contrast of the shallowness of the state of our lodges with the genius of the times startled us. Our present state of civilization, which lays bare in all its hideousness so much of that which separates and makes men enemies, imperatively demands for the intervention of a healing and reconciling element. Those who have and who enjoy the goods of life, are for ever separated from those who have not, and who by hard toil earn only the barest necessities. Scholasticism triumphs every where, and the reign of morality appears continually losing ground. With the insufficient means of the State against this constantly growing evil, a regulated private activity must be productive of being; that is a hearty labour of men closely connected, who strive to attain that harmony of education and that moral perfection which renders them willing and capable to undertake the duties of life on behalf of the whole.

In a word, if Freemasonry was ever fully justified to exist, or ever necessary, it is undoubtedly so at the present time. Now, if with respect to those duties, we look at the actual state of our lodges, we find it to be a highly unsatisfactory one; a state that can be summed up in these few words, that the highest is aimed at, and the least realized, and that the forms, which are to be but a means, are taken for the object. The labours in the lodges are badly visited, some Brethren keep always aloof from entirely un-Masonic motives, others seldom attend, or only at the Banquet. The ritual ceremonies, often not executed with the proper precision, cause tediousness; the interpretation of the symbols is pedantic and forced; our edifying and instructive discourses are often laden with mere verbiage, which leave the mind and heart empty. The banquets are those of Lucullus. The conversational tone in the lodge is an affected brotherly one, with kisses and embraces. The slightest criticism of a Brother, however, causes, the most sensitive and lasting disharmonies; and out of the lodge, the brethren are not wont to consider themselves as such. Finally, as to the dispensation of charity, it is true, there are here and there, some benevolent institutions, and by means of collections in the lodges some casual cases of momentary distress are relieved, but no Brother can but admit that this mode of giving arms at random is only the poorest form in which Masonic benevolence can show itself to the profane.

Now, what benefit does the individual Brother derive from our institution, and the world from the Brotherhood? And if none, why this expenditure of time and money; why ribbons, distinctions and formalities? Why speeches and banquets? There is no doubt that many of our lodges are nothing but substitutes for clubs, and their condemnation on the part of the public is but just, for the Order in its present state has lost every claim to civilizing influence, notwithstanding the assertion of some individual members to the contrary.

But the idea lives imperishably, and its aspirations remain unimpaired. It was therefore necessary that the sensibly growing number of brethren, who wish to see our Masonic forms filled with moral treasures, and these treasures to be made productive even beyond the Masonic walls, should have thought to pave the way to progress on Masonic ground. This can be brought about on the one hand through liberal constitutions of Grand Lodges, whereby the individual development of each subordinate lodge would be stimulated and advanced; and, on the other hand, by a true Masonic activity. Both are only different means to attain the same object, and if the reservedness hitherto kept by the Grand Lodges forces us towards the latter path, then will a successful progress on this path be a much higher gain for Masonic liberty. Now the question is, how can such activity be brought about and kept lasting? We consider it meritorious on the part of the Association of German Freemasons, to have offered a Prize to the best Essay on this subject, because should this question not be satisfactorily solved by a single individual, yet from the views of several, there must undoubtedly result some practical solution of the question. However, the St. John's Day's Essay for the coming better state of things was already commenced by our Brethren Henne and Von Seelow, and while, after having giving a sketch of the situation, we set ourselves to the solution of the Prize Essay, we readily admit that the propositions to be made by us, may be said to be identical with those made by the above-mentioned Brethren, with the difference only, that we have endeavoured to establish a more intimate connection with existing circumstances, taking as much as possible into account the present materials, and by not endeavouring to obtain anything impracticable, and particularly nothing belonging to or that ought to belong to the competency of Grand Lodges. Now, if we were to be called upon to explain in a few lines our plan, we would say: "We start from the premises that there are everywhere true Freemasons, with whom as leading Brethren, the work of reforming the subordinate lodges should emanate."

The lodges are, as hitherto, to remain "Schools of Wisdom" closed against the outer world. However, as the conduct of most of the Brethren in open lodge, can only be passive, we would establish in connection with each lodge, a voluntary association of Brethren, a sort of vestibule to the temple, or whatsoever you may be pleased to term it, where Masonic knowledge may be gained, where differences among the Brethren may be settled, and where the valuable existing powers of the individual brethren may be developed to the advantage of the Order. Through this association there would be created another organization amongst educated Non-Masons, who, led and kept together by the Brethren, would have for their task the stimulating of all men to participate in the good works of freeing the lower classes from want and misery.

In these propositions there would be nothing contradictory to the idea of Freemasonry: on the contrary, by strengthening a brotherly feeling among Masons, we bring the royal law of love home to the people. We would then satisfy those who consider a direct influence of the lodges upon the profane world as entirely improper, and likewise those who wish the Brethren to enter on a path of wise activity, where, by the touchstone of actions, they would exhibit their Masonic sentiments.

(To be continued.)

MASONIC EXHORTATIONS.

FROM THE GERMAN.

I. Duty towards God and Religion.

Thy first homage thou owest to the Deity. Adore the Being of all beings, of which thy heart is full; which, however, thy confined intellects can neither conceive nor describe.

Look down with pity upon the deplorable madness of those that turn their eyes from the light, and wander about in the darkness of accidental events.

Deeply sensible of the parental benefactions of thy God, and with a heart full of gratitude, reject, with contempt, those shallow inferences, that prove nothing but how much human reason degrades itself when it wanders from its original source.

Oft elevate thy heart above sublunary things, and cast thy eye with ardour towards those higher spheres which are thy inheritance.

Offer up in sacrifice to the Most High thy will and thy wishes, strive to deserve his animating influence, and obey the commands he has prescribed for thy terrestrial career.

Let it be thy only happiness to please thy God; let it be thy incessant endeavour, the excitement to all thy actions, to effect an eternal union with him.

The sacred code is the foundation of all thy duties: if thou didst not believe in it, thou would cease to be a Freemason.

Let every action be distinguished by an enlightened and active piety, without bigotry or enthusiasm.

Religion does not consist of speculative truths; exert thyself in fulfilling all those moral duties it prescribes, and then only thou shalt be happy; thy contemporaries will bless thee, and with serenity thou mayst appear before the throne of the Eternal.

Particularly thou shouldst be penetrated by the feeling of benevolence and brotherly love, the fundamental pillar of this holy religion.

Pity him in error, without hating or persecuting him. Leave the judgment to God, but—do thou love—and tolerate."

Masons! Children of the same God! ye who are already brethren through the universal faith, bind closer the ties of brotherly love, and banish for ever all prejudices that might disturb our brotherly union.

FREEMASONRY.—The Masonic fraternity is a powerful and influential, as well as wealthy and benevolent organization. It is so in all countries, and is especially so in this city, as its large membership of distinguished citizens, its abounding charities and the magnificent Temple it is now erecting all attest. The traditions of the Order trace it back to remote antiquity. Some of these legends are thought by "outside" critics to be rather imaginative than real, having no substantial "foundations" to rest upon. But the explorations now going on in the Holy Land, and especially those about Jerusalem, are bringing forward evidences of the antiquity of the Order that rest on the deep "foundations" of the Temples of the Holy City itself. Captain Anderson and Lieutenant Warren, two officers of the British Royal Engineers, have recently brought to light the deeply buried foundation-stones of the old Jewish Temple, and on nearly every one of them have discovered the "Craft" marks of the Masons. This is not only our record now, but was affirmed to us personally in a recent interview by Captain Anderson himself, who indulges in no fancy or imagination in the matter, as he is not a Mason, and has therefore no such "Craft" prejudice as would lead an over-zealous Mason to magnify the antiquity of the Order at the expense of historical truth. But whether the origin of the Order be more or less ancient, it is an important and highly honorable organization, whose primary object is one that is sufficient to commend it to the best consideration of our people. It is their highest object to promote fraternity, good-will, kind fellowship and the broadest charity among all men. It is to their just credit that through their organization "all mankind are kin." Their recognition of human fraternity is perfect wherever the membership of the Order is found all around the globe. No Mason can be a "stranger" (in the desolate sense of that term), anywhere in the world, if there be a "Lodge" within his reach; for no distinctions of country are known when the assistance, the encouragement, or the benevolence of the organization is appealed to. It is sufficient to know that the applicant is a "brother" and in distress. Even under the most trying circumstances the feeling of fraternity and the offices of good fellowship are kept alive. It is well known that during the recent rebellion, when a portion of the Southern States were separated from the rest of the country by a wall of fire, the Masons kept up a constant interchange of such kindly and fraternal nets as were not inconsistent with their higher duties as citizens.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

MR. GLADSTONE ON THE "OLYMPIAN RELIGION."

In his new work "Juvenus Mundi," Mr. Gladstone thus summarizes the Olympian system in its results:—

"The history of the race of Adam before the Advent, is the history of a long and varied, but incessant preparation for the Advent. It is commonly perceived that Greece contributed a language and an intellectual discipline, Rome a political organization, to the apparatus which was put in readiness to assist the propagation of the Gospel; and that each of these in its kind, was the most perfect that the world had produced.

"I have endeavoured elsewhere to show with some fulness, which was the plan of Greece in the providential order of the world; and likewise, what was the relation of Homer to the Greeks, and to their part of the Divine plan, as compared with the relation of the sacred Scriptures to the chosen people of God. I cannot now enter on that field at large; yet neither can I part without a word for the subject of the Olympian religion. In the works of Homer this design is projected with such extraordinary grandeur, that the representation of it, altogether apart from the general merits of the poems, deserves to be considered as one of the topmost achievements of the human mind. Yet its character, as it was the first and best set forth in its entirety from the brain of the finisher and maker, is not more wonderful than its subsequent influence and duration in actual life. For during 12 or 14 hundred years it was the religion of the most thoughtful, the most fruitful, and most energetic portions of the human family. It yielded to Christianity alone, and to the Church it yielded with reluctance, summoning up strength in its extreme old age, and only giving way after an intellectual as well as a civil battle, obstinately fought, and lasting for generations. For the greater part of a century after the fall of Constantinople, in the chief centres of a Christian civilization in many respects degenerated, and an ecclesiastical power too little faithful to its trust, Greek letters and Greek thought once again asserted their strength over the most cultivated minds of Italy in a manner which testified to the force and to the magic charm with which they were imperishably endowed. Even within what may be called our own time the Olympian religion has exercised a fascination altogether extraordinary over the mind of Goethe, who must be regarded as standing in the very first rank of the great minds of the latest centuries. The Olympian religion, however, owes perhaps as large a share of its triumphs to its depraved accommodations as to its excellencies.

"Yet an instrument so durable, potent, and elastic, must have had a purpose to serve. Let us consider for a moment what it may have been. We have seen how closely, and in how many ways it bound humanity and deity together. As regarded matter of duty and virtue, not to speak of that higher form of virtue which is called holiness, this union was effected mainly by lowering the Divine element. But as regarded all other functions of our nature outside the domains of life to God-ward, all those functions which are summed up in what St. Paul calls the flesh and the mind, the psychic and the bodily life, the tendency of this system was to exalt the human element by proposing a model of beauty, strength, and wisdom, in all their combinations, so elevated that the effort to attain them required a continual upward strain. It made divinity attainable; and thus it effectually directed the thought and aim of man 'along the line of limitless desires.' A scheme of religion, though failing grossly in the government of the passions and in upholding the standard of moral duties, tending powerfully to produce a lofty self-respect, and a large, free and varied conception of humanity. It incorporated itself in schemes of notable discipline for mind and body, indeed of a life-long education; and these habits of mind and action had their marked results (to omit many other greatneses) in a philosophy, literature, and art which remain to this day unrivalled and unsurpassed:

"The sacred fire, indeed, that was to touch the mind and heart of man from above, was in preparation elsewhere. Within the shelter of the hills that stand above Jerusalem the great Archetype of the spiritual excellence and purification of man was to be produced and matured. But a body, as it were, was to be made ready for this angelic soul. And as, when some splendid edifice is to be reared, its diversified materials are brought from this quarter and from that, according as nature and man favour their production, so did the wisdom of God, with slow but ever sure device, cause to ripen amongst the several races best adapted for the work, the several component parts of the noble fabric of a Christian manhood and a Christian constitution. 'The Kings of Tharsis and of the isles shall give presents, the Kings of Arabia and Saba shall bring gifts.' Every worker was, with or without his knowledge and his will, to contribute to the work. And among them an appropriate part was thus assigned both to the Greek people and to what I have termed the Olympian religion."

HOSPITALARIA;

OR

A SYNOPSIS OF THE HISTORY OF THE ORDER OF Knights Hospitallers.

(Continued.)

The most illustrious leaders of this mighty host were Godfrey Count of Bouillon, an accomplished knight, lineally descended from Charlemagne, who had already won a proud name in battle; his brothers Eustace and Baldwin; their cousin, Baldwin du Bourg; Hugh Count of Vermandois, brother to Philip King of France; Robert Duke of Normandy, brother of William Rufus King of England; Raymond Count of St. Giles and Toulouse; Robert Count of Flanders; Stephen Count of Blois; Bohemond Prince of Tarentum; Guelpho Duke of Bavaria, &c., &c.

The storm of Christian steel rolled onward. Nice, one of the chief cities of the Turkish kingdom of Roum, first fell. The conquest of most of the towns of Anatolia followed. The precipices of Mount Taurus surmounted, the warriors of the Cross, after many hundred miles of toilsome and perilous marching, descended into Syria. Tarsus opened its gates before them, and the same keys unlocked those of Antioch, and Edessa, Tripoli, Sidon, Tyre, Cæsarea, and Jaffa. JERUSALEM, the object of their pious zeal, now rose before them. When the vanguard beheld the hallowed City from afar, they raised a shout, which, rolling backward on the line of march, was echoed by the whole host. The more devout manifested their rapture by kneeling down in the dust, and shedding tears of joy. With bared feet they approached the sacred walls; a siege, bloody and resolute, of many days' duration ensued; till on the 15th of July, 1099, the Standard of the Cross waved in triumph on the walls of Jerusalem, after the Holy City had been for four hundred and sixty years under the Mohammedan yoke.

When the work of death was over, the Crusaders laid aside their blood-stained arms, and, barefooted and uncovered, repaired in solemn procession to the Redeemer's tomb. Their religious duties discharged, they next proceeded to regulate the government of the conquered territory, when by universal suffrage Godfrey of Bouillon was elected King of Palestine, as the worthiest champion of the Cross.

One of the first acts of Godfrey, who was signally devout, was to found several new churches; and he also made it his duty personally to inspect the House of the Hospitallers of Saint John, which he found crowded with wounded soldiers, who loudly extolled the humane attentions that had been bestowed on them. Several illustrious crusaders were so deeply affected by the example of the Hospitallers, that, in the pious fervour of their souls, they abandoned the idea of returning to their native land, and voluntarily devoted themselves to the same charitable duties. Among those who took the habit of the fraternity were Raymond du Puis, and Dudo de Comps, gentlemen of Dauphiny, Gastus of Berdiz, and Canon de Montaigne, of Auvergne. To contribute to the endowment of the Hospital of Saint John, Godfrey bestowed on it the Lordship of Montboire, in Brabant, and all its dependencies. His example was followed by the principal chiefs of the Crusades, and in a short time the Hospitallers had the revenues of a great number of rich manors, both in Europe and Asia, at their command.

Hitherto the Hospital of Saint John had been merely a secular establishment; but Peter Gerard the rector—a pious and benevolent Frenchman, who had long devoted himself to the service of the pilgrims, and whom the Moslems themselves revered for his indiscriminate benefactions—to whom the administration of these munificent benefactions was intrusted, impressed with the sanctity of the office which had devolved on him, suggested that the brothers should become a religious fraternity (1099). The devout counsel was obeyed. Subsequently the institution was recognised and confirmed in all its endowments by Pope Paschal the Second, as Head of the Christian church. The same pontiff also excepted the possessions of the Hospital from the payment of tithes, and conferred on the brethren the special privilege of electing their Superior, independent of all ecclesiastical or secular interposition.

The return of the Crusaders to Europe with their tale of triumph, gave a new stimulus to that ardent zeal which had filled Christendom with martial clamour. Supplemental crusaders poured from the west. Multitudes of pilgrims, filled with religious transport, abandoned their homes, and bent their way towards the country in which Christian valour had achieved such marvels. These wanderers, in many instances, reached the Holy City way-worn and penniless, and the pious charity of the Hospitallers found constant employment in mitigating their condition. These palmers, on their return, obtained for the benevolent brethren of Saint John the gratitude of Christendom, and there was soon scarcely a province within its confines in which the House of the Baptist did not enjoy manorial rights. The rapid enrichment of the Hospital exalted the piety of the Rector, and he erected a superb church to the Patron Saint of the Order; and also extensive buildings for the accommodation of the brotherhood and the pilgrims, to whose service they had devoted themselves. Gerard also, ultimately, extended the sphere of his labours, and founded subordinate Hospitals in the principal maritime provinces of the west, which became the first Commanderies of the Order. Such were the Houses of St. Giles in Provence, Tarento in Apulia, Messina in Sicily, and latterly Seville in Andalusia; all of which were endowed with abundant privileges from the successive occupants of the papal chair.

Godfrey, the lord of the conquered city, after having extended his rule over the greater part of Palestine, was cut off by disease in the midst of his triumphs (1100), having been a king barely a year. He was succeeded by Baldwin Count of Edessa, his younger brother, who during the course of a warlike and tumultuous reign of eighteen years recovered all the maritime strong-holds, from the borders of Egypt to the Gulf of Scanderoon. He died in 1118.

Baldwin du Bourg, his cousin, succeeded to the throne of Jerusalem, and to a reign of warlike vicissitudes. About the period of its commencement, the venerable and pious Gerard, father of the Hospital of Saint John, terminated his illustrious career; when the Hospitallers immediately elected Raymond du Puis to succeed him as their chief (1118). Gerard was a man of peace, and the only obligations which he imposed on the fraternity were charity and humility; but Du Puis had been bred in courts and camps, and the simple robe of the Hospitaller could not repress the proud beating of a heart which had long throbbed responsive to the breath of the battle-trumpet and the clang of arms. He formed the chivalrous project of combining the duties of the monk with those of the soldier, by giving a martial constitution to the establishment—one which bound the brotherhood to defend the holy places, and urge a perpetual crusade against the enemies of Christ. A generous anxiety to mitigate the calamities of the pilgrim, to give him security in his journeyings, and peace in his possessions, impelled the first Grand-Master of the Hospitallers to encourage his brethren to resume the lance and the buckler, and become once more the terror of the Moslem hosts.

Raymond du Puis, though a man of illustrious birth, owed his elevation to the mastership of Saint John's Hospital solely to his moral pre-eminence; and at his call—a call which many of his brave compeers had often heard in the shock of battle—the Hospitallers eagerly grasped the arms and braced on the mail, which in a moment of devout zeal they had flung away. Without abandoning their original engagements to cherish the sick and unfortunate, they solemnly took upon themselves a new obligation—to be at all times prepared to leap into their war-saddles, and encounter the infidels at the point of the lance. A large sum from the funds of the Order was declared disposable for the hire of mercenary troops. The Hospitallers were thus enabled, not only to give powerful succour to the Latin kings, but in several instances to prop, and preserve from total ruin, the tottering throne which the sword of Godfrey had won.

Raymond du Puis organised, in 1118 his warrior-brethren into three classes, differing in rank, profession, and office; viz. nobility, clergy, and serjens. The knights, or first class, consisted of men of patrician ancestry and high military rank, who were appointed to bear arms and fill the dignities of the Order. The clergy, or second class, performed the offices of religion, both in church and camp, and ministered in the Hospital to the sick and destitute. The third class, the serjens or half-knights, served either in the field or in the infirmary, as was required of them; and, in after times, they contributed greatly to enhance the glory and power of the Order. No candidate could be received into the first class unless he was of noble extraction, or had performed some meritorious action entitling him to admission; but it was not required of the priests, or of the serving-brethren, to produce proofs of noble descent. The latter, however, enjoyed many honourable privileges in common with the knights, and a certain number of Commanderies were especially reserved for them.

The Constitution and Rule of the Order of Saint John, as established by Du Puis, was confirmed by Pope Boniface. Blending the grave and rigorous obligations of the monk with the stirring and perilous duties of the soldier, the Order was eminently consonant with the superstitious and warlike spirit of the age; and the youthful chivalry of Europe emulated each other in anxiety to be enrolled under the WHITE CROSS banner of Saint John. In a little time the Order was crowded with valiant knights from every country of Christendom, and the influx led to its division, in 1118, into eight languages, or nations; viz. 1st Provence, 2nd Auvergne, 3rd France, 4th Italy, 5th Arragon, 6th England, comprising Scotland, Wales, and Ireland, 7th Germany, and 8th Castile, which included Portugal and Leon.

King Baldwin du Bourg accepted with gratitude the services of Du Puis and his knighly companions; and in an engagement against the Turcomans and Saracens, in 1119, the Hospitallers gained their first laurels.

(To be continued.)

Reports of Masonic Meetings.

THE CRAFT.

PROVINCIAL.

HAVANT.—Carnarvon Lodge, No. 804.—The installation of the Worshipful Master for the ensuing year of the above lodge, took place on Tuesday week at the Black Dog inn. There was a good attendance of the brethren, and after the transaction of the ordinary business the W.M.-elect (Bro. H. T. Bettlesworth, of Horndean,) was presented for installation to the retiring W.M. (Bro. F. G. Bradbear), who performed the whole of the impressive ceremony with much ability. At the conclusion the W.M. appointed and invested his officers as follows:—Bros. F. G. Bradbear, I.P.M.; A. Reynolds, S.W.; M. Wenham, J.W.; J. Weeks, P.M., Treas.; H. M. Green, Secretary; J. N. Hillman, P.M., D.C. E. Good, S.D.; G. J. Brine, J.D.; A. Mitchell, I.G.; A. King and J. Clay, Stewards. On the motion of Bro. G. A. Gale, P.M., seconded by Bro. Forbes, P.M., it was resolved to present a vote of thanks and a past secretary's jewel to Bro. Hilman, P.M., in recognition of the valuable services he has rendered the lodge as secretary for some years. It should be mentioned that the whole of the Past Masters of the above lodge were present on this occasion, besides the W.M.'s and several P.M.'s of neighbouring lodges. After the lodge was closed about 30 of the brethren sat down to an excellent banquet, at which the W.M. presided.

CORNWALL.—Curew Lodge, No. 1136.—The regular meeting of the above lodge was held on Monday, July 19th. The lodge was opened in ancient and solemn form by Bro. J. Ryder, W.M., supported by all the officers. The minutes of the last regular meeting were read and confirmed. Bros. Cornum and Welch, being candidates for the F.C. degree, were examined and duly passed. Messrs. D. Hicks and G. Buckthought were then balloted for and being accepted were duly admitted into the ancient mysteries of Freemasonry, in a most impressive manner, by Bro. J. Ryder. The brethren then adjourned and spent a happy hour together. Several visiting brethren were present.

ORDERS OF CHIVALRY.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR.

Kemys Tynte Encampment.—The members of this highly-esteemed Encampment met at their field of encampment at the Masonic Hall, Woolwich, on Friday, the 16th inst., under the command (in the absence of the E.C.) of Sir Knight Joseph Taylor, P.E.C., who, with the very efficient assistance of the various officers, in a most able manner installed Comp. Herbert Edmunds, of the Royal Union Chapter, as a Knight Companion of this Royal, Exalted, Religious, and Military Order.

PROVINCIAL GRAND ENCAMPMENT OF KENT.

The county of Kent boasts of having one of the best Provincial Grand Encampments in England and Wales, the annual meeting of which was held at the Masonic Hall, Woolwich, on Friday, the 16th instant.

The Prov. Grand Commander, Sir Knight Colonel Clerk, R.A., opened the Prov. Grand Encampment in ample form.

There were present—Dep. P.G. Comr. Sir Knt. W. Smith, C.E.; Sir Knt. P. Laird, P.G. Chancellor; Sir Knight G. W. Taylor, P.G. Treasurer; Sir Knt. Joseph Taylor, 1st P.G. Captain; J. W. Figg, 2nd P.G. Capt.; Sir Knt. Capt. W. P. Dadson, and other knights, with Sir Knt. Joseph Forrester as P.G. Expert; Sir Knt. T. W. Boord, P.G. Capt. of Lines; Sir Knt. Geo. Kenning, &c.

The minutes of the last Prov. Grand Encampment having been read and confirmed, the Prov. GRAND CHANCELLOR read the report of the Committee of Management, which was adopted. He also read the Statutes of the Prov. Grand Conclave, as drawn up by the Managing Committee, which were approved, and ordered to be printed and circulated to the Sir Knights of the province.

The Prov. GRAND COMMANDER appointed the following Sir Knights as his officers for the ensuing year:—

W. Smith, Dep. P.G. Commander;
Capt. G. J. Sandeman, P.G. Prelate;
Joseph Taylor, 1st P.G. Captain;
George Cockle, 2nd P.G. Captain;
P. Laird, P.G. Chancellor;
G. W. Taylor, P.G. Treasurer;
T. Harrison, P.G. Hospitaller;
J. W. Figg, P.G. Director of Ceremonies;
Joseph Forrester, P.G. Expert;
J. W. Boord, P.G. Captain of Lines;
George Kenning, P.G. Sword-bearer;
Arthur Henderson, P.G. Equerry.

The Very Eminent P.G. Commander, having invested the officers of the Provincial Grand Encampment with their collars of office (a complete suite of which had been most liberally presented to the Provincial Grand Conclave by the V.E. Sir Knight Colonel Clerk), the Provincial Grand Conclave was closed in solemn form, and the Sir Knights adjourned to Bro. De Gray's at the Freemasons' Hotel, Woolwich.

It is anticipated that two or more Encampments will shortly be opened in the province of Kent. Their stations, it is said, will be Dover and Chatham.

GRAND LODGE.

We publish the annexed notice of a Special Grand Lodge for the information of the brethren:—

"W. BROTHER,—At the Quarterly Communication held on the 2nd of June, time did not admit of all the business of that meeting being concluded. The M.W. Grand Master, feeling that it is undesirable that the Appeals to the Grand Lodge against certain decisions should be further delayed, has ordered that a Grand Lodge of Emergency be summoned for the 28th of July, to dispose of those Appeals.

"You are accordingly hereby summoned to attend a Grand Lodge of Emergency, to be holden at Freemasons' Hall, on Wednesday, the 28th day of July, 1869, at 6 o'clock in the evening.

"The Grand Lodge to be opened at 7 o'clock precisely.

"The following business only will be taken:—

"1. Appeal of Bro. Jose Felix Gonzalez against his continued suspension by the District Grand Master for Trinidad.

"2. Appeal of Bro. Antonio G. Julia against his supposed suspension by the District Grand Master for Trinidad.

"Appeal of Bro. John Straughn Patterson against a vote of censure, and Bro. James Alexander Brown against a vote of suspension for 12 months, passed upon them by the St. George's Lodge, No. 440, Montreal.

(By Command of the M.W. Grand Master,)

JOHN HERVEY, G.S.

"Freemasons' Hall, London, 19th July, 1869.

"N.B.—The papers relating to the above Appeals will be in the Grand Secretary's Office till the meeting of Grand Lodge, and open for the inspection of the Brethren during office-hours."

A MYSTERY.

The following incident is told of Malibran, whose voice excited the most unromantic to folly:—She was resting in her dressing room at the theatre, after singing in the part of Desdemona, her passionate soul still quivering with the emotion of the part and the tears and applause of her listeners. A person entered and begged her to go to her mother, who had been taken ill. A carriage (not her own) was at the door; she was whirled through the streets, and led, much to her surprise and fear, into a strange house, and to an excellent boudoir, hung and carpeted with rose-colored silk, where the beautiful songstress was left alone, after being assured by her attendants that her mother was well, that the message was a cruel subterfuge, but that her captivity would only last while she sang the song of the "Saula." On a low seat lay a lyre such as that which thrilled in Malibran's fingers as she sang Desdemona's touching song. At first she determined to resist, but after a short time of ennui and anxiety, her mind reverted to the evening, and almost unconsciously she took up the instrument, and sang the "Romance de Saula." As she concluded, sounds of enthusiastic applause and trembling accents of delight came to her through the silk hangings, and she was then conducted by liveried servants to her carriage and to her home. The next morning she found on her table a casket containing a magnificent pair of earrings, and inside the cover, written in diamonds, was the word "Merci." But the event remained a mystery to her for ever.

THE STAR LODGE, 1257, will be consecrated on Friday, September 3rd, at 4 p.m., at the Marquis of Granby inn, New Cross-road, New Cross.

The globe has semblance to something that hath life—has vitality in vegetation. The clouds, air and light, are its food; the tides are its lungs, the oceans its arteries, the rivers its veins; shows emotions, as if from a heart, in earthquakes and volcanoes, and in affection for the magnet and love for the sun; changes in disposition by electricity, speaks in thunder; and in the mass moves through the heavens like an angel, in obedience to the will of the Great Creator.—Edis.

SUPREME COUNCIL, NEW YORK.

REPORT OF ILL. BRO. ALBERT C. GOODALL, GRAND REPRESENTATIVE, ON FOREIGN RELATIONS.

To the Supreme Council of Sov. Gr. Ina. Genl. of the 33rd and last degree Ancient Accepted Rite, for the Northern Masonic Jurisdiction, U.S.A.

(Continued from last week.)

PORTUGAL,

With its black and unenviable gloomy record of religious and political persecutions, so deeply died in the blood of innocent martyrs, to the savage power of fanatical tyrants, has never been a fruitful field or safe asylum for the Masonic Fraternity, and at the present date, when progressive and liberal ideas are breaking the barriers of despotism, and spreading light, knowledge and justice for the universal benefit of mankind, it is difficult to realise that during the present century a diabolical, systematic and fiendish system of Inquisitorial mummeries should be permitted to control a nation, and exercise at their will the power of seeking to coerce the human mind, by the vilest means of bigotry, under the plea of a religious faith. A German Masonic writer on this subject has truly said, that "There is a land wherein the light of day never penetrates; the pilots through this eternal gloom which there reigns supreme, has no more interesting employment than that of extinguishing every ray of light which may unexpectedly be let in, and render their assistance unnecessary. This land is Portugal, that Paradise of the monks, that seat of ignorance and prejudice, and the theatre of superstition." Such were the critical statements in regard to that country during the past half century, and in many respects they are applicable at the present date.

According to some writers, it is claimed that Masonry existed in Portugal as early as 1150, being a sequel to the military order of the Templars, but there are no authentic records to sustain this claim. It is probable that secret military organizations existed at very remote periods, confined to the higher grades of society, which were then so divided and exclusive, but having nothing Masonic in their character or teachings.

The earliest authentic record that we have of Masonry in Portugal is about the year 1783, when a Lodge was established at Lisbon, under authority of the Grand Lodge of England. One account gives the honor to Bro. G. Gordon, and another states that it was Mr. Dogood; it is probable that each of these parties (both being English) had a Warrant, or co-operated in the same work. No record is given of their operations or the fate of the Lodge, but immediately after its existence was known, the priesthood, aided by the all-powerful Inquisition, determined to give a practical illustration of their hatred, and crush out the Order, by punishing the members with all the severity of long and barbarous imprisonment, burning at the stake, and as galley slaves, which hideous crimes were aided by the civil Government regardless of law, reason, justice, pity or sympathy, save only when they could accomplish their aims, and benefit their own interest under the hypocritical garb of religion.

The next important and authentic record we have is the narrative of John Coustos, published in London, in 1746, giving the details of his arrest in Lisbon, on the 5th of March, 1743, by the usual mode of treachery and secret agents of the Inquisition; also of Alex. James Mouton, his companion, who was arrested a few days previous. Coustos, a diamond cutter by trade, was Master, and Mouton, Warden of the Lodge at the time of their arrest, the former a naturalized Englishman, and the latter a Frenchman. Coustos arrived at Lisbon about 1742, and whether he found a Lodge in working order or founded a new Lodge, the record does not state. Mouton after suffering several months in prison with fear of torture on the rack, was released in consequence of being or becoming a Catholic, but Coustos, who was a firm and staunch Protestant and devoted Mason, was not so fortunate; having remained over two years in the dark subterranean prisons, some of which are still to be seen in the gloomy old Convents of Lisbon, and during that time suffered the horrible tortures of those dungeons on nine different occasions (engravings and details of which are given in his book), for the purpose of extorting the secrets of Masonry and compelling him to abandon the Order and become a Roman Catholic; but true to his faith, his principles, his oath, he remained steadfast amid the horrors of his sufferings, a bright illustration and defender of our mysteries. The charges or indictments brought against him according to his statement were:—

"That I had infringed the Pope's orders, by not belonging to the sect of the Free Masons, this sect being a horrid compound of sacrilege, sodomy, and many other abominable crimes, of which the terrible secrecy observed therein and the exclusion of women were but too manifest indications, a circumstance that gave the highest offence to the whole kingdom. And the said Coustos, having refused to discover to the Inquisitors the true tendency and designs of the meetings of Free Masons, and persisting, on the contrary, in asserting that Freemasonry was good in itself: Wherefore the Proctor of the Inquisition requires that the said prisoner may be prosecuted with the utmost rigor, and for this purpose desires the court would exert its whole authority, and even proceed to torture to extort from him a confession, viz.: that the several articles of which he stands accused are true."

After two years of inhuman torture, Coustos was released from prison at the Auto-da-Fé, with other victims; and receiving his sentence was condemned to serve four years in the galleys. A few months after, he succeeded in making his condition known to the English Minister, and through his influence Coustos was released, with his friend and Bro., Mouton, left a country of benighted despotism, bigotry and ignorance, and went to England. The effect of these persecutions appears to have checked the progress of Masonry for some time, as it is not until 1776, that the Order is again brought into notice by the arrest and long imprisonment of Major Halimant and Oyres de Ornelas Paracao, for being Free Masons.

In 1792, orders were sent to the Governor of Madeira to deliver up all Free Masons to the Holy Inquisition, when Joseph da Costa Torres, Bishop of Funchal, persecuted various families on suspicion that some were members of the Order. In consequence, many persons fled from the Island and came to New York, and on their arrival hoisted a flag with the motto, "Asylum Querimus." A most hospitable reception was given them, and so strong an impression did this make on the public mind in Portugal and throughout Europe, that the Government, in order to try and exonerate itself from the general imputation of bigotry and ignorance, removed the obnoxious bishop, but was careful to give him a more lucrative position at Elvas, where he long continued his intolerant persecutions to the disgrace of his country.

Notwithstanding the activity and relentless hatred of the Inquisition, Masonry appears to have continued its organization in secret, principally in the ports of Lisbon and Oporto, aided by officers of foreign vessels, on board of which Lodges were often held, the frigate Phoenix being conspicuous for their Lodge, "Regeneration," from which it is asserted that five other Lodges were established, under what authority, if any, and in what Rite the Brethren were then working, whether strictly Masonic or semi-political, the record does not state, but it appears that many distinguished Portuguese were active and zealous members of the Order at that time. About 1800, the General Superintendent, Dilego Ing de Pina Manique, became, for political motives of personal advantage, a violent oppressor and enemy of the Masons, and the Fraternity had to adopt extraordinary caution to escape his anathemas, but many arrests were made of prominent persons, and the severest punishment inflicted. In July, 1802, Hyppolyto Jose da Costa, the naturalist, was arrested at Lisbon, by the Inquisition, for the pretended crime of Freemasonry, and had to endure over two years' imprisonment under their system of cruel barbarous treatment, a full description of which, together with the history and By-Laws of the Jesuits and unholy Inquisition was printed, in which he justly says: "An ambition to govern and an avidity for riches is so manifest in the laws of the Inquisition, that we are fully justified in concluding that they are the principal motives which have induced the Inquisition to practice all those cruelties that have cast such a horrible gloom over, in every other respect, the brilliant history of Portugal."

In 1805, we are informed that a Grand Lodge was constituted, but there is a marked discrepancy in the statements as to who was Grand Master, due partly giving it as Eneas Moniz, another Jose da Costa, and a third, as Sebastiao Jose de Carvalho, brother of the Marquess of Pombal. In 1807, when the French under Gen. Junot, entered Lisbon, a Masonic deputation waited on him and entreated his protection for the Order, which request received his favorable consideration and the Fraternity permitted to work without molestation; but soon after this some imprudent political demonstration on the part of a few of the Brethren against the French, caused Gen. Junot to stop such proceedings, and the Grand Lodge deemed it expedient to close its meetings. Two years later the Order appears to have revived, and a Grand Master elected in 1809. One account gives that position to Fernando Romao de Ataide Teles, but on the departure of the French, and restitution of the former power with their hatred, prejudices and persecutions, Masonry received a decided check, and again persecutions were rigorously pursued. In 1810, thirty of the most prominent members were placed in chains and sent to the Azores, and the operations of the Order kept under the strictest surveillance by the police and Romish Church, but the meetings were still continued in secret, and many prominent personages received in the Order. Fourteen Lodges are said to have been in operation at Lisbon in 1812. In 1816, Gen. Gomes Freire de Andrade, was elected Grand Master of the Grand Orient Lusitano, and this is the first time we have a distinct title given to the Grand Body; but the following year, 1817, Andrade paid the penalty of being a Mason, having been falsely accused, arrested and tried on the pretext of an imaginary crime, and shot, and eleven of his companions shared the same fate by being hung; but these extreme, barbarous, and summary measures of despotism only stimulated the faithful Brotherhood to persevere in their efforts, and they worked with a zeal worthy of imitation at the present date, to give light and knowledge, freedom and justice to the helpless and benighted inhabitants of their despotic Government, and religious intolerance; for this purpose a Grand Synod composed of Manuel F. Thomas, Jose da Silva Cavalho, Jose Turara Borges, and Joao Ferreira Vianna, was organized as a central or governing Body, for the protection of the craft, and perpetuation of Masonic principles.

In 1818, King John who was obliged to leave Portugal on the invasion of the French, issued a decree from the Brazils against all secret societies, especially Free-masonry, and on his being reinstated as king of Portugal, promulgated another and more stringent edict at Lisbon, on the 21th June, 1823, against the Order, making the penalty a fine and five years' transportation to the Portugal possessions in Africa; and his successor Don Miguel, was severe in his punishments, making the dungeon, the galleys and the gallows the fate of those known to belong to the society; but on the expulsion of this tyrant, under priestly influence, from the usurped throne, in 1832, a more civilized Government was inaugurated under Donna Maria II, and Jose da Silva Cavalho, Minister of Finance, was elected Grand Master, and the Grand Orient Lusitano was re-established at Lisbon, in 1833. The Order continued their labours free from persecution, but in 1836, the ambitious views of a few caused dissension among the Lodges, which resulted in a separation.

The Marquis Saldanha was placed at the head of the military party, and the Baron Vello Novo do Tricora over the ultra-liberal portion, thus making three governing Bodies, but the one over which Cavalho presided was generally acknowledged to be the original and only regular Masonic authority.

The revolution of September, 1836, against the Government, obliged Cavalho to leave the country, and the Grand Body over which he presided suspended its meetings, but the Lodges under its jurisdiction continued its labours, and soon after his departure they elected Manuel Goncalves de Meranda, Minister of Foreign Affairs, who was succeeded by Antonio Bernardo do Costa Cabral, Minister of the Home Department, who took his seat on the 20th of April, 1841, as Grand Master of the Grand Orient Lusitano, working in the French or modern Rite of seven degrees. In August, 1840, the Grand Orient sent to Rio de Janeiro and requested that permission be given them by the Supreme Council of Brazil to constitute a Supreme Council of the Ancient Accepted Rite, for Portugal, the request was duly granted by letter patent from the Supreme Council, Grand Orient of Brazil, Valley of Lavradio, dated the 1st day of Kisleu, 5840, creating Antonio Bernardo do Costa Cabral a 33°, with full power and authority to establish a Supreme Council of Ancient Accepted Rite, according to the Constitutions of 1786, which was duly constituted in 1842, and recognized by the Supreme Council of Brazil, on the 14th day of April, 1843, V. R. and appointed a Grand Rep. of amity, near that Supreme Body, on the 23rd July, 1843. The Grand Orient Lusitano sent a circular to all the Lodges, informing them of their recognition as a Supreme Council, 33d and last degree, Ancient, Accepted Rite.

In 1846 another successful revolution against the government obliged Cabral to leave the country, and during his absence the Visconde de Oliveira presided over the Gr. Orient. Cabral returned in 1847, and was reinstated Gr. Master till 1849, when political intrigues and influence of the church induced him, for self interest, to retire from the Order, which he announced publicly, and the Visconde de Oliveira was elected his successor, and Moura Coutinho, Lieutenant Gr. Master, which appears to have caused a dissension among the Brethren, and a general separation was the result. A Grand Diet was convened which succeeded in restoring harmony, and again uniting the Lodges by changing the name of Grand Orient Lusitano to that of the "Supreme Council, Grand Orient of Portugal."

On the death of the Visconde Oliveira, the Gr. Diet elected Moura Coutinho Sov. Gr. Com., and the general workings of the Order appeared to have been much improved, and better systemized. The Supreme Council was re-established, and a treaty of alliance was made with the Supreme Council of Brazil, Valley of Lavradio, signed by the Marquess de Alentejo as Gr. Com. dated on the 29th day of September, 1856. On the death of Moura Coutinho there seems to have been some difficulty in obtaining an acceptable person for their Sov. Gr. Com., as there existed at that time several independent Lodges much more political than Masonic in their illegal operations, also a few regular Lodges of those that seceded or separated from the Gr. Body in 1836, and were working under the title of "Federação Masonica Portuguesa." After considerable labor and praiseworthy efforts in harmonizing the long standing difficulties which caused the separation, a basis of the concordat for the union was signed by all parties on the 6th day of November, 1857, and the name changed to "Supreme Council Grand Orient Portuguesa." A Grand Diet was then elected to arrange a new Constitution for the government of the Gr. Body, and immediately on its being adopted, was sworn to and put it in execution. Official copies and translations of all the original documents, edicts, treaties, etc., from the Supreme Council of Brazil herein referred to, also the concordat and treaty of union constituting the Supreme Council Grand Orient Portuguesa, together with the General Statutes, are transmitted herewith.

During my stay at Lisbon, in August last, none of the Bodies under the jurisdiction of the Supreme Council were in session, being their summer vacation, but I enjoyed the pleasure of full intercourse with the Gr. Officers, and received every courteous attention from Jose da Silva Mendes Leal, the Sov. Gr. Com., and Florencio Gaspar Lopes Banhos, Gr. Sec. H. E., and from the harmonious and united condition of the Brethren composing that Grand Body, I feel convinced that Masonry is destined to enjoy a more peaceful and progressive union, perpetuating its principles of truth, virtue and the light of knowledge and universal brotherhood throughout the slow but gradually progressive Kingdom of Portugal.

Having satisfied myself, after a laborious investigation, that the said Grand Body was the only regular and legitimate Masonic authority for Portugal, I then gave special attention to ascertain what other Bodies there were claiming to be Masonic, which I found as follows:—

THE PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF PORTUGAL, under the jurisdiction of the Grand Lodge of Ireland, working only in the three symbolic degrees of the York Rite, and having under their jurisdiction four Lodges, appear to have worked strictly in conformity with the laws and principles of the Order, Dr. F. G. da S. Pereira, being the Provincial Gr. Master, and Joaquin Ignacio d'Almeida Amado Pro. Gr. Sec. There is also a Rose Croix Chapter working under authority of the Supreme Council of Rites of Ireland; these are the only bodies in Portugal working under a foreign jurisdiction.

(To be continued.)

METROPOLITAN MASONIC MEETINGS

For the Week ending July 31, 1869.

Monday, July 26

Lodge No. 831, "British Oak," Bank of Friendship Tavern, Bankers' place, Mile-end.
902, "Burgoyne," Anderson's Hotel, Fleet-street.
Chapter 188, "Joppa," Albion Tavern, Aldersgate street.

Tuesday, July 27.

Lodge No. 186, "Industry," Freemasons' Hall.
1158, "Southern Star," Montpelier Tavern, Walworth.

Metropolitan Chapter of Instruction, George Hotel, Aldermanbury at 7; Comp. Brett, Preceptor.

Domestic Lodge of Instruction, Palmerston Tavern, Grosvenor park, Canterbury at 7.30.

Wednesday, July 28

GRAND LODGE OF EMERGENCY, Freemasons' Hall at 7 precisely.

Lodge No. 607, "United Pilgrims," Harns Tavern, Kensington.

753, "Prince Frederick William," The Kings Arms, St. Johns-Lav, St. John's wood.

754, "High Cross," White Hart Hotel, Tottenham.

871, "Merchant Navy," Silver Tavern, Burdett road, Limehouse.

898, "Temperance in the East," Private Assembly Room, 6, Newby place, Poplar.

United Strength Lodge of Instruction, No. 228, Bull an Gate, Kentish Town road.

Thursday, July 29.

General Committee of Female School, at Freemasons' Hall, at 4.

Friday, July 30.

Belgrave Lodge of Instruction Duke of Wellington House, Spring-gardens, Charing-cross.

Saturday, July 31.

Domestic Chapter of Instruction, Harns Tavern, Kensington, at 7; Preceptor, Comp. R. Wentworth Little.

A Sermon will be preached to-morrow (Sunday, July 25, St. James' Day) at St. Helen's Church, Bishopsgate, by V. V. the Rev. John E. Cox, P. G. C., on behalf of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, at Wood Green. There will be full Choral Service, commencing at 11 o'clock, and it is to be hoped that the appeal of the Rev. Bro. will be met with a liberal response.

Agents.

AMERICA: Bro. J. FLETCHER BRENNAN, 114, Main-street, Cincinnati, Ohio.
 CANADA: Messrs. DEVERE & SON, Ottawa.
 CEYLON: Messrs. W. L. SKENE & Co., Colombo.
 CONSTANTINOPLE: Bro. J. L. HANLY, Levant Times.
 EAST INDIES:
Allahabad: Messrs. WYMAN BROS.
Byculla: Bro. GEO. BEARE.
Central Provinces: Bro. F. J. JORDAN.
Kurrachee: Bro. G. C. BRATTON.
Madras: Mr. CALEB FOSTER.
Mhow: Bro. COWASJEE NUSSEKRWANJEE.
Poona: Bro. W. WELLS.
 GALATA: ISAIK KAHN, Perchembé-Bajar.
 PARIS: M. DROHVAUX-DUMENIL, Rue de Harlay-du-Palais, 20, near the Pont Neuf; Editor Le Franc-Macon.
 And all Booksellers and Newsagents in Great Britain and Ireland.

NOW READY,

Cases to hold 4 copies of "The Freemason," 1/6.

Cases to hold 52 copies of "The Freemason," 2/6.

With THE FREEMASON emblematically depicted, and other Masonic emblems in gold.

To be had at the Offices, 3 & 4, Little Britain.

All communications for THE FREEMASON should be written legibly, on one side of the paper only, and, if intended for insertion in the current number must be received not later than 10 o'clock a.m. on Thursdays, unless in very special cases. The name and address of every writer must be sent to us in confidence.

The Freemason,

SATURDAY, JULY 24, 1869.

THE FREEMASON is published on Saturday Mornings in time for the early trains.

The price of THE FREEMASON is Twopenny per week; quarterly subscription (including postage) 3s. 3d.

Annual Subscription, 12s. Subscriptions payable in advance. All communications, letters, &c., to be addressed to the Editors, 3 & 4, Little Britain, E.C.

The Editor will pay careful attention to all MSS. entrusted to him, but cannot undertake to return them unless accompanied by postage stamps.

MASONIC HISTORY.

ON one occasion it was our lot to be present at certain excavations undertaken with the view of disinterring the foundations of a very ancient edifice, supposed to have been erected in the ante-Christian era.

The antiquity of the structure was clearly demonstrated to the satisfaction of antiquarian and archaeological observers, and the tradition which ascribed its origin to the Romans was fully borne out. Upon the solid Roman masonry appeared evidences of the less skilful handiwork of the early Saxon age, while later additions and developments were plainly attributable to the Norman and mediæval periods. However, notwithstanding the irrefragable proofs afforded by the architecture of the building, doubts and denials began to prevail, when, upon laying bare the foundation stone, one of the workmen discovered a human skeleton, the cranium of which was at once pronounced to be neither Roman nor pure Saxon. How came the bones in that particular spot? was the universal enquiry. They could not have been placed there more than four hundred years it was alleged, and yet they were found in the debris of the Roman base, at a considerable distance below the surface. At length it was ascertained that an eccentric nobleman, who died in the fifteenth century, had ordered his body to be buried without coffin or shroud, many feet deep in the earth, where no other human remains were likely to be deposited. Upon this the doubts of the sceptical vanished, and the ancient character of the edifice was no longer disputed.

Now, we propose to apply the moral of the above narration to Freemasonry. As far as written records are concerned, we should be puzzled to prove that the Order existed as a speculative institution much before the days of Elias Ashmole, who was initiated at Warrington in 1646, and who attended a Lodge in London nearly forty years later. The admission of the famous Sir Christopher Wren took place in 1691, and by an easy transition we are brought down to the Georgian era, when the Grand Lodge of England was constituted in 1717, since which period the history of Freemasonry is clear, continuous, and regular.

We want more light as to the transactions of the Fraternity during the reigns of the Stuarts, and we desire to find traces of its existence in England at a still earlier stage of our national history.

What has been called the guild theory directs our attention to the sodalities of operative masons and builders which flourished during the middle ages, and by whose exquisite skill and workmanship the many beautiful cathedrals and castles of Europe were constructed.

The perfection of their work, its harmony with the laws of proportion and geometry—its solidity and strength—are marvellous when we consider the ignorance and darkness which prevailed in their days, and it has been well observed that the architectural art must have been handed down as a sacred tradition from father to son, and from master to apprentice in those renowned societies.

So far as Scotland is concerned, thanks to the untiring industry and zeal of such brethren as David Murray Lyon and William James Hughan, we are enabled to obtain a valuable insight into the working of certain operative Lodges, which existed long before the infusion of the speculative element into the Masonic Order. The government of the Craft, in its sub-divisions or Lodges, appears to have been altered to a very trifling extent since those days, and the same may be said with reference to the German associations of artizans in brick and stone, who were banded together for similar purposes and under similar laws.

There is, however, an absolute dearth of reliable information when we endeavour to investigate the history of those operative fraternities in England. All is mere guess-work, or simple conjecture on this point, and it is certainly strange that records should be so plentiful in Scotland, and so rare, if not altogether unknown in England. Cannot something be done to ascertain if such documents still exist? Can we not bridge over the period which intervenes between the last of the Plantagenets and the first of the Stuarts, and so prove the connection of the modern Craft with the travelling stonemasons of the mediæval era?

Let us try back, and perhaps, like the example we have quoted, it will be found that speculative Freemasonry, as the offspring of the operative institution, may be traced back, step by step, to the Dionysian artificers and the builders' colleges at Rome, and that the antiquity assigned to the Order by tradition may be thus fully substantiated. Freemasonry is probably the development, from age to age, under different conditions of society, and varying phases of thought, of the great idea of human fraternity, and every fact relating to its history and progress is precious. It is true that difficulties beset the path of investigation, and very ingenious theories have been demolished, owing to the appearance of discrepancies in the evidence, like the discovery of Norman cheek-bones in foundations dug by Cæsar's soldiers. Easy solutions of those doubts, disregarded because they are easy, may, we apprehend, be discovered in course of time, and at any rate we commend the consideration of the subject to those diligent students by whose exertions so much has been already achieved in the field of Masonic literature.

TEMPORA MUTANTUR.

The Grand Orient de France, which so recently as last week was so peremptorily commanded by the Grand Master, General Mellinet, not to discuss anything relating to the Oecumenical Council, is, nevertheless, the same philanthropic authority that was allowed to indite, two years ago, the following noble words to its brethren in Brazil:—

"The Supreme Council of the Grand Orient of France requests the Brazilian Freemasons not to keep slaves any longer for their own use, if they wish to be acknowledged as Masons by their brethren in France, as slavery is against the spirit of the Brotherhood. The Supreme Council declares further, that the Grand Orient of France would break off all official connection with the Grand Orient of Brazil, in case of the latter not taking immediate steps and using its best efforts to bring about the abolition of that abominable institution, slavery."

Mulum in Parbo, or Masonic Notes and Queries.

"Domestic" Lodge.—Can any Brother give me the correct meaning of this name?—R. T.

I am glad to see the able remarks of "Leo" on the "Labarum," in THE FREEMASON of 10th inst. "Leo" wields a trenchant blade for the demolition of absurd legends, and is a veritable iconoclast in Freemasonry, but what he says is evidently the result of thought, and however widely we may dissent from his conclusions every one must admit his sincerity, earnestness and ability. His interpretation of the word "Labarum" merits praise for its originality and ingenuity. The XP, I may remark, was graven upon the tomb-stones or memorial slabs of many clergymen in the pre-Reformation period, as a symbol of priesthood, and it is at the present time used as a favorite monogram in the decoration of churches. I hope "Leo" will prosecute his enquiries upon the subject, and communicate the result to your readers.—R. W. L.

Historical Commission.—The Historical Commissioners have appointed four travelling deputies, one each for England, Ireland, Scotland, and Wales, who will have to visit country houses and report on the literary treasures that may be found in them. Such is the contents of a paragraph going the round of the papers. A body so rich and important as the Grand Lodge of England might take a hint from the above, and employ and send a duly qualified deputy through the different seats of Masonry in England, in order to report on whatever literary Masonic treasures they may find. So also might the Grand Lodge of Scotland do, there being a great deal of very valuable Masonic information scattered throughout different places of Scotland; which, if gathered together by some one who had the time and ability to do it, would be of great service in advancing our knowledge of Masonry.—LEO.

DR. DODD.—In an oration at the dedication of Freemasons' Hall, London, on May 23rd, 1776, Dr. Dodd thus addressed the Deity:—"Consummate Architect and wondrous Geometrician, direct us to make the Blessed Volume of Thy instructive wisdom the never-erring Square by which to regulate our conduct; the Compass, within whose Circle we shall ever walk with safety and peace; the infallible Plumb-line and criterion of rectitude and truth!"

PAPERS ON MASONRY.

By A LEWIS.

XVI.—MASONRY IN ITALY.

"Thus speaketh the Lord of Hosts, the God of Israel, saying, I have broken the yoke of the King of Babylon. Within two full years will I bring again unto this place all the vessels of the Lord's house that Nebuchadnezzar, King of Babylon, took away from this place, and carried them to Babylon."—Jeremiah xxviii. 2, 3.

That Truth is great and must prevail is a very trite maxim. That punishment follows a great wrong, with thorough humiliation, is a fact. To conciliate, to heal wounds, is right. How can we heal one who is, in a universal sense of Humanity our brother—as well as a mere tool in the hands of a most ignorant, arrogant and unscrupulous person—by whom I mean Cardinal Antonelli—when that brother, a known Mason, initiated many years ago in a Swiss Lodge, issued the Allocution of the 25th September, 1865? If his affection for billiards and bayonets have overcome that true principle—which, while it does not divest Masons of the political influence justly to be exercised by them as citizens, makes them men of honour and probity—then the sooner war is declared against, not the Rome of our history books, the Rome of our archaic recollections, but the Rome, not of the Romans—that of Antonelli. I am one who believe that Bro. Mastai Ferretti, was one of those whose intentions are so remarkable that they can only be used up in a particular place, not mentionable to ears polite, nor actually existent anywhere. Yet I will not even wrong the Pope so much as to say that his remarkable Representative Minister is not ten thousand times as bad. The world is now to see a farce, which, if it were not fraught with grave consequences to the mental progress of millions yet unborn, would be about as amusing and laughable as "Box and Cox" or "A Nice Firm." We are to have an Eccumenical Council, a universal theological jollification, in which so-called Christian priests of every dye will take part. It is a sort of un-British Association for the Advancement of Ignorance. They propose to divide it into ten sections. The two first, as meaning the same thing—though theologians make such fine distinctions—might be consolidated. Perhaps, to a certain extent, the third, Hastily recapitulating them, we here fix upon the fourth. Section one comprises: Pantheism, Naturalism, and Absolute Rationalism. Section two: Modified Rationalism. Section three: Indifference and Intolerance.

The fourth section is, however, worthy of some notice here. It proposes—and we trust that the committee of that section will be carefully selected—to take into thorough consideration the following subjects: Socialism, Communism, Secret Societies, Bible Societies, and Clerical Liberal Societies.

That secret societies are a necessity forced upon our times cannot be doubted, and their co-extension is a fact dependent upon that necessity. Were it possible to anticipate a verdict to which any respect could be paid, the attentive scrutiny of the causes which have led to their establishment might prove a useful thing, both to men of intellect, and those unhappy mortals who have no time to think, and no education to give subsistancy to their reflections.

To make this programme complete, I may as well add the outline given us of the rest of the topics to be preached upon. Section five, therefore, undertakes the consideration of Errors with respect to the Church and her Rights. Section six: Errors with respect to Civil Society in its self and in its Relation to the Church. Section seven: Errors with respect to Natural and Christian Morals. Section eight: With respect to Christian Marriage. Section nine: With respect to the Sovereignty of the Roman Pope, and then—that the serpent may appear to bite its tail—we get section ten: With respect to Modern Liberalism.

Now this is so large a platform that the united exertions of the worthy and misguided men who will enjoy for a season the usufruct of "St. Peter's Pence," and take copious libations from the vessels carried away to Babylon, will have no little difficulty in covering it. So far as concerns the fourth section, however, I will try and lighten their labours.

The existence of Secret Societies has its root rather in the intolerance which forced Galileo on his knees, and condemned both Giordano Bruno and Servetus to the stake, than to any desire on the part of men to cabal in corners. That an opposition to Freemasonry and other private Orders should be made by a power which patronizes the order of Jesuits appears foolish.

There is no greater reason for patronizing the latter, than for discouraging the former; but, to some extent, the former exists as a countercheck and protest. In this "mad world, my masters," one hand, as the German proverb hath it, washes the other, and if they wash, it necessarily follows that neither are quite clean. But one certainly is dirtier than the other.

As I have incidentally said in a former paper, those countries which have not, by stress of circumstances accomplished their freedom, use Masonry as a political engine. This accounts for the hostile attitude assumed by the main holders of power on the European continent. This love for freedom—the battle for which has been going on for so many centuries—is singularly visible in Italy, and Masonry there, in my personal opinion with perfect justification, assumes a political aspect. Sicily and Naples were freed mainly by Masonic influences; the First Mason of Italy swept with his irresistible and compact little phalanx over the rocks of Sicily, and what may be termed Greek Italy—Magna Græcia, as it was called in times of old. The pacific influence of the Society could not be re-established without the use of the sword, and the Grand Orient of Italy—the last Bulletin of which lies by my side—has not quite lost the savour of political salt. Had Aspromonte and Mentana not unfortunately been opposed by Piedmont herself, a substantial and not a shadowy Italy might have been seen. But I warn those of opposite views, that within two years, in the words of the son of Azur, the vessels carried to the mystical Babylon must be restored. It matters not whether Popery is fought in Ireland, Spain or Italy, it must be fought; the battle is a necessity for the advancement of the Right.

We may emphatically exclaim in those memorable words put into the mouth of King John, by the great Shakespeare, in his reply to Paudolph:—

"Thou canst not, Cardinal, devise a name So slight, unworthy, and ridiculous, To charge me to an answer, as the Pope. Tell him this tale; and from the mouth of England Add this much more, that no Italian priest Shall tithe or toll in our dominions."

The autonomy of nations, and the self-respect of races, is best attained by permitting them to work out the problems of their existence, by institutions calculated to endow them with the most unfettered action. There exists a gentleman of great capacity, invested with extraordinary power, who some years ago pledged himself to accomplish the freedom of Italy, or rather of the Italian Peninsula "from the Alps to the Adriatic," he redeemed it by a compromise after Solferino, he capped it by the cession of Venetia to himself: the murder of Cavour crowned this edifice. As Jacques de Molay summoned Philip and Clement, so I, in the sacred name of Freedom, summon, metaphorically, Mastai Ferretti, by Cardinal Antonelli, and Louis Napoleon, to the bar of public condemnation if, within two years, the vessels carried away to Babylon are not restored—without the intermediation of measures, not abandoned, but postponed by the Illustrious Giuseppe Garibaldi, First Mason of Italy.

It must surely be evident to the Fraternity in England that political action on the part of Masons in countries where opinion and thought is enslaved, is a necessity. We have, in this country, stagnated so long by a belief in our partial possession of popular rights—our ideas have been limited to so narrow an area, and the censor of Catholicism has been waved so continually before us—that we have become stupified, and we stagger under the hateful influence. Hence it is that English Masons cannot see the giant wrong of permitting Freemasonry not to act according to the impulses of the Brotherhood wherever a Grand Orient exists.

"La santissima causa di Roma," wrote on the 9th of October, 1867, the illustrious Garibaldi. This we must keep before us, whether we fight the battle of Light in Ireland, Italy, or Spain. While the Sun of Masonry shines there can be no possible compromise with that gigantic fraud, the Papacy. Roma, o Morte!

CRYPTONYMUS.

P.S.—I am obliged to "Mystes" for divulging the signification of the name I adopt for these papers. I am but in the position of Junius—"stat nominis umbra"—but I chose rather to sign these articles thus, than to "do" the editorial We—nor am I the editor. I assure "Mystes" that I have a personality, and one of a very vehement character. C.

MASONIC CONGRESS.

A Congress of Masons will be held at Amsterdam, not as originally contemplated in September, but in August. We have a Special Correspondent, in the person of our esteemed Bro. George Warriner, on the spot. He will inform the readers of THE FREEMASON of such things, as it is desirable should be communicated to the Fraternity at large. He may be addressed on this subject at the office of the Exhibition.

THE "HILDA."—Bro. R. Hubbard is the Provender appointed to the General Steam Navigation Company's paddle-wheel steamer, "Hilda." His gentlemanly courtesy and kindness of manner are so well known as to have become proverbial. He supplies a good table both fore and aft, which give universal satisfaction, and all his prices are moderate and economical. The "Hilda" leaves London-bridge every Sunday morning at half-past eight, and after a stay of three hours at Margate arrives at the Bridge again about eight o'clock in the evening. The Company have evidently not spared any expense to make the "Hilda" one of the fastest and best-fitted ships on the Thames.

THE forthcoming work by Bro. Wm. J. Hughan will contain:—1. An article on Masonic M.S.S., by Bro. Hughan. 2. A reprint of the Constitution of the Freemasons by the Grand Lodge of England, 1723, being the first edition (slightly abridged.) 3. A fac-simile lithographic reprint of Coles' copper-plate edition of the Constitutions, 1728, from transfers from the original in Bro. Hughan's possession. Seventy copies only are to be printed for sale, at 10s. 6d. each, and 30 copies for presentation. The work will be dedicated, by permission, to the M.W.G.M., the Earl of Zetland. Subscriptions to be sent to the publisher, Bro. Wm. Lake, Truro, stating name in full and Masonic position.

Original Correspondence.

[The Editor is not responsible for the opinions expressed by Correspondents.]

MASONIC PROMOTION.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I am glad to know that since your publication of my letter in reference to the promotion of the Prince of Wales many have espoused my opinion on that item. I would add, that undue promotion to any Masonic degree is fraught with evil in two grand directions, viz., the moral crime committed by the brother presiding and permitting; and, secondly, the direct nullification of the Ancient Landmarks, which every Mason is solemnly enjoined to preserve. What is stated at the commencement of charge No. 4 ought, of itself, to be a sufficient constraint:—"All preferment among Masons is grounded upon real worth and personal merit only." And this general qualification is corroborated by further particular references to the liberté toute entière of every Masonic degree. How then, in the face of its own laws, can Freemasonry countenance such an ostensible infraction thereof? The outer world is always ready with its objections against inconsistency and irrational procedure; and it is well, for the sake of erratic humanity, that every one is watched by every other.

The Ancient Landmarks properly permit princes and noblemen to occupy superior places, by actual working to obtain them, but directly forbid any other course. This is naturally the result of Freemasonry being operative at the time the Constitutions were declared. It being now speculative, error creeps in surreptitiously, and therefore it befores all good Masons and true to wage an unceasing war against the evil until it is extirpated. What does Grand Lodge say in its defence? Is the word "precedent" still the specious subterfuge? If so, the quality of such precedent had better be re-examined, for every unbiased mind convicts it to be pernicious.

Yours truly,

14th July, 1869. A. CUTHBERTSON.

SPURIOUS MASONIC BODIES.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Under the above head you have editorially, in your paper of June 12, very much misrepresented a condition of Masonic doings in America, and which, when you are better informed, I believe your sense of right and justice will prompt you to correct. By way of conveying a "brief summary" of that condition you copy a portion of a balustrade issued in this country by the chiefs of bodies styling themselves respectively the Supreme Councils of the A.A.S. Rite for the Northern and the Southern Jurisdictions of the United States, furnished you by a Bro. Albert G. Goodall, 33°, of New York, and which, originally written for the G.M. of the G.O. of France alone, has been very much circulated in this country on behalf of the assumptions of the said Councils; and under which they aim to occupy the whole of these United States and territories.

The Supreme Council of Louisiana was originally organized under French Supreme Council authority, and the statement that it submitted unconditionally to the authority assumed within the past ten years by the Southern Jurisdiction Supreme Council is simply false. Except on the part of a portion of its members, no such submission had place; nor was the Lo. Supreme Council dissolved de facto at any time by the consent of all its members—the statements in the "balustrade" alluded to, being made in the interests of misrepresentation, to the contrary notwithstanding. I would advise you to be very cautious how you accept statements of persons signing themselves "33°" from this country, as their statements, if written in any high degree interest, will be found to be invariably ex parte. Before accepting and publishing such you will do well to stop and ask yourself: Why is this sent to me for publication? Why should I publish this, evidently but a one-sided statement, by itself, when I have not been approached by the opposite party with his statement? Why should I decide that this is correct, and publish it, when I know nothing of the other except what I learn through this? Questions like these will determine you from doing that which you will subsequently have to regret. Not audiat altera pari only, but audiat utriusque pari is safe, and then make your own deductions and print them. This you will find the only way you can represent a fair condition of any matter Masonic in America. Mr. Goodall was in haste to forestall English Masonic opinion in favour of his representation, and you dropped right into his trap, and, with your circulation, spread before the eyes of thousands of brethren his statement, and that of those who evidently desired, if they did not employ him to thus misrepresent. That kind of thing has been the Scotch Rite game always played in this country. In 1828, the Grand Orient of France was induced by just such a trick to recognize one man, J. J. G. Gargas, of New York City, the writer of a statement to that effect, as the Supreme Council for the Northern Jurisdiction of the U.S. of America, and another, whose name was given by him, as the Sup. Council of the Southern Jurisdiction, and to publish the same in its Calendar. This trick was subsequently ventilated upon inquiry made by the S.C. for France the year following, but it nevertheless had its effect for the time—was "a good-enough Morgan until after the election," as Thurlow Weed said concerning the body picked up on the shore of Lake Ontario in that year—and proved to be the cause of the revival of these N. and S. Supreme Councils when each of them were much further gone in articulo mortis than the Supreme Council of Louisiana has ever been, or, now, probably, ever will be.

As to Grand Lodge jurisdiction, I regret to find you just as far from right when you compare as similar the G.L. of England and the many G.L.'s of America; for there is no similarity in the condition named. That of England is a body formed under a monarchy, and regulated by monarchical laws. These laws give to it exclusive control of all Masonry recognized at the union in 1813, and no more. The Grand Lodges of the United States are not, except in a few instances, recognized even by the States in which they exist, and not at all by the United States' Government. They are self-elected bodies exclusively, and as such have no right to dominate other Masonic bodies which do not recognize them. They do this, however, just as the Roman Catholic Church does—by excommunicating such bodies, and calling them clandestine. This is all the Church of Rome can do, except where it has power, as in the Romagna or States of the Church in Italy; and this is all these Grand Lodges can do anywhere. Wherever one of them is incorporated by the State in which it exists, that incorporation has always been based upon such Grand Lodge being "a charitable organization." It is so in Massachusetts, it is so in Kentucky, it is so in Louisiana, and it is so in all places (States), as the only manner in which the body called a Lodge or Grand Lodge of Masons can be incorporated. Now, let me ask you, by what right has one charitable body to set itself up as principles of a whole State in which numerous others bodies of men have also organized themselves as charitable bodies? Is the principle or practice of charity a monopoly, or so understood anywhere? This claim of jurisdiction over Masonry of any degree set up by any Grand Lodge of Masons in the United States is mere assumption, and nothing else. The "balustrade" alluded to, and which you have copied, following the statement of the G.L. of Lo., calls this assumption "the common law of the United States." I say, and will proceed to prove, that it is not a law at all, neither proper nor common. No such law has ever been enacted by any number of the Grand Lodges of the United States which by it would be affected in convention held at any time or in any place. How then can it be a law? A law must be enacted by a majority of the people who are to be affected by that law, or their representatives, in congress or legislature assembled. Heretofore, and to get a foothold in the United States, the Supreme Councils of A.A.S. Rite, have waived their right to organize bodies of Masons or Lodges to work the three degrees known to the Scottish A.A. Rite, as they are known and worked in France, and have been in that country known for more than an hundred years, under one authority or another. Mark the language—"waived" this right. When they feel they are quite strong enough they will resume it; or, in this country, assume it, and by that time the Grand Lodges of the American York Rite will be so fully possessed by them that there will be no opposition. This rite in full Chassaignac is now working in New Orleans, under the authority of his S.C. of Lo. He and his co-labourers are declared by the G.L. of Lo. clandestine, and the G.O. of France is condemned for recognizing them. So long as the Grand Orient of France condemned Foulhouze and the Lo. Supreme Council, it did well, and was applauded by the Councils north and south, and the Grand Lodges generally. When it endorses Foulhouze's successor it does ill. The old story of your bull and my ox!

You will naturally ask, "If this be so why should the two A.A.S. Rite Supreme Councils which assume to possess the United States and territories not support Chassaignac, as he is only doing that which they expect to do when, as you (!) say, they are strong enough?"

I will answer: 1st, Chassaignac dared to reorganize a State Supreme Council, and in defiance of the assumption of the two S.C.'s aforesaid, which divide the forty states and territories of this country between themselves and desire to keep them so divided. 2nd, Chassaignac did so to admit black men and men not so black who, before the "late unpleasantness" in this country, had been slaves, but are now free men, and made by Chassaignac and his co-labourers Free-Masons.

This, you see, is a double offence on C.'s part. The G.L. of Lo. under the "waiver" arrangement occupied the State, and by the aid of its Master Mason Lodges made Master Masons for the Lodges of Perfection, &c., of the A.A.S. Rite, and for the Chapters, &c., of the American Rite; in fine, did the initiatory work, and, as is being done by every other Grand Lodge in the United States, Chassaignac did not ask the G.L. of Lo., or the "Mother Council of the World," as the S.C. South styles itself, for leave to practise all or any of the degrees of the A.A. Rite. He would only have been refused if he had; and another black mark consequently be put against him. He believed in the great Fatherhood of God and the great Brotherhood of Man, and, so believing, resuscitated the Supreme Council of Louisiana, and took his material from the newly enfranchised, arguing properly that any man who by his country's laws was endowed with the right to vote at his state or county election had also the right to be made a Mason. This right the Grand Lodge of England recognized long ago, having adopted the argument when she resolved to strike "free born" from her prerequisites, and adopt "free man" as all-sufficient. And the Grand Orient of France has now recognised it, in endorsing Chassaignac and his Lo. Supreme Council. So has the G.O. of Belgium. So did the G.L. of Hanover. So would the G.L. of England, if she recognized the A.A.S. Rite as Masonry; and so will all other grand Masonic bodies in course of time, because the principle recognized by Chassaignac recognizes the Manhood of Man; and those who deny that principle, and prefer to recognize assumed law and the despotism of the strong hand, cannot maintain their position but for the time being.

I beg your pardon for occupying your columns with this so lengthy explanation, but which I considered due to you no less than in the interests of truth and justice, and remain,

Fraternally yours,

J. FLETCHER BRENNAN.

Editor of the American Freemason.

Cincinnati, O., U.S.A., July 4, 1869.

THE TOLLING BELL.

BY H. J. DANIEL.

Toll for the good—thou solemn bell, toll on!
For them, at least, thou hast a joyful sound—
Since to eternal bliss their souls are gone,
And having borne the Cross, with light are crown'd.
Toll for the great—the princes of the earth,
Their sceptres shatter'd, fallen, and thrown aside;
Their thrones deserted, and their pride of birth
No better now than if a beggar died.
Toll for the wise—far even they must die,
As dies the fool, but not like him unknown,
Since they have raised our low humanity,
And folly's gew-gaw idols overthrow.
Toll for the brave who for their country bled,
And closed their eyes, upon the field of strife—
Who bore the battle-brunt when cowards fled,
And deemed their honour dearer far than life.
Toll for the rich—toll on, thou solemn bell!
The worms hath triumph'd o'er the power of gold;
If worthy of their stewardship—'tis well;
If not—their souls they have insanely sold.
Toll for the poor, whose days were dark and drear;
Beyond the grave the sunshine smiles for them,
Although disdained on earth, in Heaven held dear,
That chiefly honours those whom we condemn.
Toll for the child—that little human flower,
That shrunk before the world's cold wintry blast,
And drooping, faded in life's morning hour,
Too frail, too bright, too beautiful to last.
Toll for old age, bowed down with many years,
A son of sorrow sighing for the end,
Whose smiles have been outnumber'd by his tears,
Who welcom'd death as one would greet a friend.
Friends weep when those they love resign their breath,
But wherefore weep when Azrael sets us free?
It matters not if none lament my death,
When thou, oh! funeral bell, hast toll'd for me.
July, 1869.

The sun in the firmament gives light, and in that light, warmth that animates all nature in life and growth. The very plants rise up from the earth in confession of its wondrous power; they cannot speak, but they expand their beauteous flowers, and give out their sweet fragrance to the air of heaven, perfect their germs for an after life, and then fall down and die at the termination of their varied periods of permitted existence, in conformity with the divine law of nature.—Edna HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—Biliousness. Disturbance of the Liver.—Through imperfect drainage or uncleanly habits, the hot summer's sun will cause the atmosphere to be surcharged with deleterious exhalations, which produce stagnation and irritations of the bowels. To check the underaction of the liver, usually the first indication of bilious complaints, the Pills invented by Professor Holloway stand unrivalled. These Pills are so cheaply and easily procured, that none need suffer from nausea, indigestion, disordered liver, dizziness or torpid bowels, as in a word, from any functional irregularity. These Pills produce a more happy effect in the digestive organs than any other medical compound, whether mineral or vegetable. If these means any person can easily secure robust health.

ANNUAL FESTIVAL OF THE PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF KENT.

The annual grand festival of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of the Province of Kent was held at Brompton, on Wednesday, the 14th inst., when a great number of brethren from all parts of the county were present. The proceedings of the day commenced with an excellent breakfast at the Golden Lion Hotel, to which about 150 brethren sat down, and ample justice was done to the excellent viands provided by the worthy host (Bro. Wraith), whose catering left nothing to be desired.

The Provincial Grand Lodge was opened at the head-quarters of the Gillingham Volunteer Artillery (temporarily placed at the disposal of Grand Officers by Bro. Captain Lock Beveridge), by the M.W. Bro. Viscount Holmesdale, M.P., Prov. Grand Master, who was saluted according to ancient form.

Among the Grand Officers present were the V.W. Bro. W. F. Dobson, D.P.G.M.; Bro. the Rev. W. A. Hill, M.A., Grand Chaplain; Bro. the Rev. T. Graham, P.M., Assistant Grand Chaplain; Bro. B. Thorpe, P.M., Grand Treasurer; Bro. E. Wates, P.M., Grand Secretary; Bro. T. S. Warne, P.M., Assistant Grand Secretary; Bro. Lärberman, P.P.G.S.B.; Bro. Joyner, P.G.J.W.; Bro. Blakely, P.M., P.P.A.S.W.; Bro. Martin, P.P.G.S.B.; Bro. Bushbridge, P.G.A.S.; Bro. White, P.G.S.W.; Bro. Mopcton, P.G.D.; Bro. Sutton, P.A.D.C.; Bro. Spencer, P.G.S.; Bro. Finch, P.P.G.D.C.; Bro. Boys, P.D.P.G.M.; Bro. Trueman, P.G.S.B.; Bro. Nettingham, P.P.G.S.W.; Bro. Morris, P.P.G.S.B.; Bro. Snowden, P.P.G.J.W.; Bro. Vale, P.P.G.S.W. (Hereford); Bro. Wyles, W.M., 1050; Bro. Turtle, W.M., 184; Bro. Burfield, W.M., 20; Bro. Elliott, W.M., 874; Bro. Winch, S.D., 429, &c., &c.

The minutes of the last Provincial Grand Lodge were read and confirmed; the Provincial Grand Treasurer was re-elected without opposition; and Bro. R.W.P.G.M. then appointed his Grand Officers for the year ensuing:—

G.S.W. Bro. the Rev. G. W. Sicklemore, M.A., W.M., 1209; G.J.W. Bro. the Rev. J. H. Timmins, M.A., W.M., 1063; G. Reg. Bro. A. H. Boys, W.M., 127; G.A.S. Bro. T. Wescombe, W.M., 107; G.S.D. Bro. W. J. Palmer, W.M., 913; G.J.D., Bro. T. Wyles, W.M., 1050; G.D.Cr. Bro. F. Kite, W.M., 503; G.A.D.C. Bro. W. Sheen, W.M., 77; G.Sup.W. Bro. W. C. Turtle, W.M., 184; G.S.B. Bro. R. B. Newsome, W.M., 1223; G.Org. Bro. E. W. C. Laforest, W.M., 1208; G.Pura. Bro. J. O. Rees, 199. The following were appointed Grand Stewards:—Bro. W. Fleming, W.M., 158; E. Mackney, W.M., 299; R. Elliott, W.M., 874; J. R. Macdonald, W.M., 1089; O. J. Carter, S.W., 20; and J. Ellern, S.W., 1209.

It was afterwards proposed by the R.W.P.G.M., that the following grants be made from the P.G. Lodge Fund:—To the Zetland Commemoration Fund, 20 guineas; to the Old Men's Asylum, 20 guineas.

Both propositions were carried nem. con., and the brethren then proceeded in procession to Holy Trinity Church, Brompton, where divine service was celebrated, the prayers being read by the Rev. W. Crabham, of Faversham, and the first and second lessons by the Revs. the S. and J.P.G. Wardens. Mr. Norman, of Chatham, during the temporary absence of the P.G. Organist, presided at the organ in a very efficient manner assisted by the choir of the Royal Dockyard Chapel, of which he is the Organist; the service was partly choral, the various chants, &c., being well rendered. For the anthem, the 207th hymn was sung, and the first part of the 19th psalm was sung before the sermon, which was preached by the P.G. Chaplain, Bro. the Rev. W. A. Hill, M.A., Vicar of St. Peter's, Maidstone, who selected for his text part of the first verse of the 13th chapter of Ecclesiastes, "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth." The preacher delivered an eloquent discourse appropriate to the occasion for which they had met together, and he was listened to with marked attention throughout; he concluded by appealing to the brethren to aid by their contributions the national schools of the parish, and the Masonic Charities, for which a collection was made at the conclusion of the sermon by several brethren appointed for that duty, a soft voluntary being meanwhile played by the Organist. The opening voluntary played by Mr. Norman was "The Masonic Festival March," by Bro. W. Spark; and the voluntary played while the brethren were leaving the church was "The March of the Israelites."

The brethren then returned to the lodge-room, when the business of the Grand Lodge was concluded.

The banquet was held in the National School-room, which had been very tastefully decorated for the occasion, there being an abundance of gay bunting which relieved the otherwise somewhat dreary aspect of the room, and caused it to have quite a festive appearance. A very handsome repast was provided by Bro. Wraith, of the Golden Lion Hotel. The arrangements made for the comfort of the numerous guests, nearly 200, were as perfect as possible, the only matter of regret being that there was not room to accommodate a great many more who were anxious to be present. The edibles and wines were of first-class quality, and Bro. Wraith is deserving of all praise for the very successful manner in which he carried out the wishes of the committee of management. Bro. Lord Holmesdale, M.P., presided, supported by the Revs. G. W. Sicklemore, G.S.W., and W. A. Hill, G. Chaplain; Bro. Dobson, D.P.G.M.; Wates, P.G. Sec.; Turtle, P.G. Supt. of Works, W.M. 184; S. Astin, P.M., &c.

The band of the Royal Engineers performed during the banquet.

The cloth being removed, Lord HOLMESDALE gave "The Queen and Craft," followed by that of "The Prince and Princess of Wales," in proposing which, his lordship remarked that now that the Prince of Wales had taken the vows of a Freemason they hoped, at no distant day, to find that he had joined one of the English lodges. (Cheers.) Whether, however, he joined his brethren in this country or remained in the outer world, their esteem and respect for his royal highness would remain undiminished. (Loud cheers.)

Lord HOLMESDALE next proposed "The Grand Master of the Order, the Earl of Zetland," and in doing so remarked that his lordship had had the good fortune to hold that appointment for the long period of 25 years—a period quite unexampled in history of the Craft. Whatever might be their opinion as to the expediency of retaining one person for so long in the chair—(hear, hear,)—Lord Zetland might be congratulated at having seen the craft at a rather low ebb and now in the full flood of prosperity, and he was sure they would drink the health of the Ruler of the Craft with the utmost enthusiasm. (Loud applause.)

The Deputy Provincial Grand Master, Bro. Dobson, in proposing the health of Lord Holmesdale, remarked that they owed their personal thanks to the Earl of Zetland for having appointed Lord Holmesdale to be the Provincial Grand Master for Kent. They did not proceed to the appointment of a Grand Master annually, as was the case in the Grand Lodge, but if they did he felt sure the unanimous voice of the province of Kent would be in favor of Lord Holmesdale, who had comported himself, since his connection with the Provincial Grand Lodge, so as to win the respect and esteem of the whole of the Freemasons over whom he presided in Kent. (Loud cheers.) His lordship had done everything in his power to promote the interest of the Craft in the province by his constant attendance at the meetings of the Grand Lodge, and in every other way, and it would be an unfortunate thing for Freemasonry if his lordship should ever be compelled to sever his connection with the Provincial Grand Lodge of Kent. (Loud applause.)

Lord HOLMESDALE, who was received with rounds of Masonic cheering, in thanking the brethren for the manner in which they had received the toast, said as year by year rolled round they generally had at their meeting to report a great increase in the number of Freemasons year by year. The past year, however, had proved an exception, but, notwithstanding that, they had no fear of going back in the province. On the contrary, he thought they ought rather to congratulate themselves that they had during the last year gone back a little, as it would enable them to take a fresh start for the future. (Hear, hear.) But although they had not received an accession of new members they could, nevertheless, congratulate themselves on the fact of an increase year by year in the number of lodges, which proved that Freemasonry was advancing steadily and satisfactorily in Kent. (Cheers.) It lay in their own hands whether they would make the Craft respected or the reverse. The outer world knew nothing whatever of the inner working of Freemasonry, and therefore they could only judge of Freemasonry by what was apparent and real. If they saw that Freemasons were noted for their loyalty to their country; for that they were upright, God-fearing citizens, who were actuated by the one object of doing all the good in their power to their fellow-men, depend upon it they would see that there was a desire to flock to the Craft, and to be one with them. (Cheers.) Year by year they found the old roots of Freemasonry flourishing, and well-ripened wood springing up. It had been his good fortune to see the Craft flourishing year by year, and it would be his earnest endeavour that no action of his should mar its continued prosperity or lessen the esteem the brethren entertained towards him. (Cheers.) Before he sat down he had to propose "The health of Earl de Grey and Ripon, the Deputy Grand Master of England." When they found that Lord de Grey and Ripon had been found worthy to fill the place of a Cabinet Minister, it spoke well for the Craft. (Loud cheers.)

Lord HOLMESDALE next proposed "The health of Bro. Dobson," and in doing so remarked that year by year as his duties increased, he found the value of a right-hand man like Bro. Dobson to assist him. It would be strange if he did not, seeing that Bro.

Dobson gave up so much of his time to look after and promote the interests of the Craft. (Loud cheers.)

Bro. Dobson, who was loudly cheered, said it was, perhaps, true that he devoted a considerable portion of his time to advance the interests of Freemasonry in the province, but he could assure them his duties were really a pleasure to him. True, little difficulties would sometimes creep into lodges, but it was a sound maxim that the minority should always give way to the majority. (Cheers.) Lord Holmesdale had remarked that they had not increased their members to any extent during the past year, but that he considered to be a good feature rather than anything else. His advice to all lodges was to like quality rather than quantity. (Hear, hear.) There was always a number of men who were anxious to be allowed to join a Freemasons' lodge, and therefore it behoved them to exercise the greatest caution as to whom they admitted. If they adopted that course the status of the Craft would be raised, and they should consist of a respectable intelligent body of men rather than a body composed of mere numbers. (Hear, hear.) After all, Freemasons all over the world could always fall back on what they did. (Applause.) Many persons there were who appeared to labour under the delusion that Freemasons assembled only to eat and drink. (Laughter.) Eating and drinking were necessary for all persons, and he supposed Freemasons formed no exception to that rule. When they looked at the three great charitable institutions supported entirely by Freemasons, and found that after one of their festivals £8,000, £10,000, and even £12,000 had been subscribed by those round the table, the outer world might say what they pleased, but Freemasons had the proud satisfaction of pointing to the results. (Loud applause.) Freemasons were justly proud of their three great charitable institutions—(cheers)—while they could point to them as being better managed, the funds better administered and economically dispensed, and the results more satisfactory than was the case with any other three similar institutions in the world. (Loud cheers.) In the two great schools the boys and girls were brought up to be little gentlemen and ladies, and not one of them had ever disgraced those institutions. (Hear, hear.) In the old men's and women's asylums, too, they had valuable institutions, and with the frequent vicissitudes of fortune God only knew which of those present might want to be succoured by it first. (Hear, hear.) In the support rendered to those charities the province of Kent had never been appealed to in vain. After an appeal to Masters of lodges to act under the direction of the charity committee in dispensing their funds, Bro. Dobson again thanked the brethren for the manner in which they had received the toast, and resumed his seat amid loud cheering.

Lord HOLMESDALE proposed "The Past and Present Grand Officers," and was gratified to find that year after year he found a body of gentlemen ready to take office in the province. His Lordship also alluded, as a happy augury, to the circumstance that two of the clergy of the Establishment were Provincial Grand Officers.

Bro. the Rev. G. W. SICKLEMORE, S.W., said he and the other Grand Officers felt a pride in being appointed by his Lordship to even the smallest office. They could not do better than follow the valuable advice which they had heard that day, and the noble sentiments uttered. For himself he felt that since he had become a Freemason he felt himself an altogether better man, and better able to do his duty both to God and also to his fellow-man. (Cheers.)

Bro. the Rev. W. A. HILL said they were banded together in the bonds of brotherhood and holy and charitable purposes. Although they might not have increased in their mere numbers, yet they had in the esteem and respect of the outside world. (Applause.) He trusted they would continue to prosper, and that the motto of the Freemasons of Kent would continue to be Nulli secundus. (Cheers.)

Bro. WATTS, Grand Secretary, said although they might not have increased during the past year, yet, for all that, they still looked exceedingly well in numbers, while they had attained to that high position that they could now afford to be select. (Cheers and a laugh.) His labours as grand secretary were happily increasing year by year, but he trusted that they would all contrive to work with that love and harmony which should at all times characterize Freemasons. (Cheers.)

Lord HOLMESDALE then proposed "The health of Bro. Turtle, W.M., of 184, the entertaining lodge," and highly eulogized the effective preparations made for the reception of the Grand Lodge.

Bro. TURTLE responded in appropriate terms, in which he expressed the pleasure it afforded the members of that lodge to have entertained the Grand Lodge.

Bro. TURTLE proposed "The Visitors," which was responded to by Bro. WHITE, P.G.S.W., Hants.

The "Masonic Charities" were then proposed, which was responded to by Bro. BINCKLEY, Secretary of the Freemasons' School for Boys.

The proceedings were then brought to a close.

ROBBERY AND MYSTERY.

Soon after entering the capital of the so-called Mexican Republic, as was my usual custom while sojourning in a foreign city I hired for my servant a man capable of acting as my cicerone about the town. At this time I had in my possession a bill of exchange upon a wealthy house; but not caring to have it honoured before my departure, I thought it best to retain it till the last moment, as the care of a large sum of money would be troublesome to one whose desire was to be free from standing guard over his own effects.

For this reason I did not even call upon the drawees of the bill; and as I was a stranger to them personally, I thus exposed myself to a total loss, in the event of the same falling into the possession of some dishonest individual, who might represent himself as the proper payee. That I committed a great error in thus neglecting to secure myself against false representation—an error by which my money and life might have been forfeited—the peruser of this transcript from my notebook will clearly perceive.

I had been some three or four days in the city, promenading through its principal thoroughfares and drives, glancing modestly at the dark, lustrous-eyed beauties whom I continually met and passed, when I said to my man, Pablo, that he must now take me in hand and show me everything that could possibly interest a foreign traveller. Pablo, I may remark, by the way, was one of the keenest rogues that ever dodged the police and kept his worthy neck outside of a halter—though this I learned too late to save myself some trouble—and he had the reputation of having once been an indifferent actor, which will account for his mode of putting his questions.

"Does your worship wish to go behind the scenes?" he quietly inquired.

"Even into the 'green-room' of the town, Pablo," laughed I, "and observe, if possible, the 'make-up' of the actors."

"The best time for that, then, senor, is at night, while the dramatic corps are preparing for their parts."

"We will begin to-night, Pablo."

We did begin that night; and before the bell tolled the hour of twelve I fancied I had seen the city of nobles and beggars turned inside out. At least I had seen enough to content me; and as we issued from a splendid gambling saloon, where a beautiful and fascinating senorita was dealing monte for the benefit of herself and numerous admirers, I said—

"Now then, for our hotel, Pablo."

"One adventure more, senor, and your worship shall retire with the wisdom of Solomon."

"One adventure more," I assented.

With this Pablo began to lead the way through a dark, narrow street; when suddenly, as I turned a sharp corner, a heavy mantle was thrown over my head, and my person at the same moment seized by two powerful ruffians, one of whom forced a gag into my mouth, while the other pinioned my arms.

"Senor," said a calm, quiet voice, "it were easier for us to kill than to take you alive; but your life we do not seek; so be governed by policy, and make no resistance, and you shall not be harmed. We will tell you presently what we require of you. Pray follow as we lead."

I did so—for I was in their power, and could do nothing better—and in the course of a couple of minutes I found myself alongside of a carriage, with a request that I would enter it. I still obeyed—not with the best grace and most pleasant feelings—but quiescently and without disturbance. My kidnappers entered with me, still keeping me pinioned and gagged, and away we whirled.

Fifteen minutes—or less time it might have been—brought us to a halt beneath some dark archway. "Senor," said the spokesman, "have the goodness to alight, and suffer me to conduct your worship into a private apartment."

I got out of the carriage, and was led down some ten or a dozen steps, into what I fancied, from the change of atmosphere, to be a damp stone vault, beneath the surface of the earth. The cloak was still over my eyes; but presently I could see the reflection of a light, and immediately after this the mantle was removed, and two masked men, dressed in black, one of them holding a sort of dark-lantern, were revealed to my view. I glanced quickly around the apartment, and saw that it was small, having rough stone walls, and only one outlet—the door through which we had entered. Save two or three rough benches, it was empty also; and pointing me to one of these, the same person who had before addressed me, said—

"Pray be seated, senor, and we will give you liberty to speak."

I complied with his request, and he at once stepped forward and removed the gag. As soon as I found I could use my voice, I sternly demanded the meaning of such treatment.

"Be calm, senor, do not get excited, and we will inform you," was the cool reply, spoken in an ordinary business tone. "The fact is, senor," he went on, "you are a stranger in Mexico, with more means at your command than strangers generally have, or any honest man may have immediate use for; and we, being less blessed in this respect than your worthy self, have taken the liberty of inviting you hither to negotiate a loan."

"In other words, to rob me," said I.

"That is a harsh word, senor, which we seldom make use of—we call our mode of acquiring means a new way of borrowing; and for this reason; that, instead of giving the person from whom we borrow security of our own, we leave him safely housed for the security of ourselves. In short, senor, not to waste words, let me inform you in brief that we want all your weapons, jewellery, and ready funds, with the exception of sufficient to support you till you can raise more; and, once possessed of these, we will quietly depart, and leave you here for such time as will be necessary to make our escape certain—say till to-morrow night—when you will be set at liberty in a very harmless way. You see at once, senor, you have providentially fallen into honest hands, for which you should thank the saints—for had you fallen into the hands of villains, your life might have been the forfeit."

"Oh, I am deeply and profoundly thankful, of course!" returned I, ironically. And then I quickly added: "By your accent and mode of speaking, I judge you are no Mexican."

"So much the better for our purpose," replied the villain; "for you have a bill of exchange on a house here which you have never visited; and if I can personate a respectable foreigner—say yourself, for instance—I can get it honoured as well as another."

I saw that I was really caught by robbers at last—that it would be useless to waste words—that perhaps it would be best to yield with a good grace to what I had not the power to avert—and so I informed the gentleman that he was at liberty to do what he thought proper, only I would pray him to give me my liberty in a reasonable time, and not leave me entirely destitute.

"By San Marco!" he rejoined; "your worship is the most sensible gentleman I have had dealings with for years! and I assure you I am one not unacquainted with the customs of the road. We will deal as gently by you as by an infant, and ever remember you gratefully in our prayers."

With this he coolly proceeded to rifle my pockets and person, taking from me my revolvers, knife, jewellery, purse, and pocket-book, in the latter of which he found the afore-mentioned bill of exchange, the amount of which caused his eyes to glisten, as I could see even through the mask.

"Pray tell me," said I, "how you knew I had that draft, and had not presented it?"

"Pardon me, senor! that would be exposing the secrets of our profession, which we never do to the uninitiated."

"By treachery," said I. "My servant must have made the discovery, and you are his accomplices."

"Suspect whom you please, senor," he replied; "every gentleman is entitled to his thoughts; but in order to show your worship the possibility of your being in error, permit me to observe, confidentially, that a watch has been upon you ever since the moment you set foot in this glorious city. Ah, senor, I perceive your purse is heavy and will suffice for your present wants—accept it back, sir; your jewellery also may be of more value to you than us, and so we restore it—we only desire to do the fair thing; and this bill of exchange, being even larger than we supposed, shall satisfy us for the present."

With this he returned the articles mentioned; and then coolly remarking he did not think it safe to unbind me till the moment for restoring me to liberty, he turned on his heel, made me a polite bow, and with his companion, walked out, closing and locking the door behind him.

I was thus left alone in my prison in total darkness, with my arms so pinioned as to be both useless and painful. My feelings during the long hours which followed, the reader can better imagine than I express; but though I suffered much, physically and mentally, I did not at first despair, because I believed I should eventually be set at liberty in some mysterious manner.

As hour after hour, however, passed away in that dark and silent dungeon, I began at last to grow more and more uneasy. What if, after all, I should be left to perish in my prison? The thought was too horrible to be entertained, and I strove to banish it, and, aided by a strong will, I so far succeeded as to keep in tolerably fair spirits.

At last, to my great joy, I heard the key of my door turn, and was surprised to see a female mask standing in the grey light of the opening—for it was already day without, though not a ray of light had reached the vault.

"Senor," she said, in a clear, stern voice, "will you be kind enough to present yourself to my view?"

I advanced to the door where she was standing.

"You are still bound, I perceive," she said.

"Unfortunately, lady," I replied, "and have suffered much."

"You wish your liberty?"

"I certainly am not overjoyed at remaining where I am."

"Will you answer me one question, upon your oath as a Christian, and upon your honour as a gentleman?"

"If within my power, and it does not affect my safety."

"It affects your release, senor; and if favourably answered, may restore you immediately to liberty."

"Speak on then!"

"Will you, then, solemnly swear, and if all your effects are restored to you, even to your weapons, you will suffer yourself to enter a carriage blindfold, and thus remain till driven beyond sight of this dwelling; and then leave and depart without asking any questions, or seeking in any manner, or by any means, to pry into the mysterious occurrences which have surrounded you within the last twelve hours?"

"Yes," said I, "for a complete restoration of all my effects, and my person to liberty, I will solemnly swear, by all that I hold sacred and holy, to conduct myself according to the conditions named."

"Then, senor, within an hour you shall have your freedom!" was the reply, as the masked lady stepped back, and closed and locked the iron door, leaving me again alone, a prisoner still.

A few minutes later, as I remained standing by the door, pondering this singular mystery, I fancied I heard the rumble of carriage wheels; and shortly after the door was again unlocked, and a masked figure entered, who said he had orders to blindfold and conduct me hence, and restore me to liberty.

All this might be treachery, I thought; but I knew, if my life was really sought, I was in the power of my enemies, and could not escape; and by assenting quietly to every proposition made me, my condition would certainly not be rendered worse than by rejecting them. I therefore suffered him to bandage my eyes and lead me to the carriage, which he entered with me, my arms still remaining pinioned.

A few moments later we were whirling through the streets of the city, which we continued to do for some half an hour, when the carriage stopped suddenly, the bandage was removed from my eyes, and I was solemnly charged by my masked companion to remember my oath, or else no power on earth could save me. I looked from the window, and, to my astonishment, saw we were in a fashionable part of the city; and, to my still greater astonishment, my strange conductor now proceeded to cut loose my bonds, and restore me my weapons and pocket-book, which latter he opened, and showed me the same bill of exchange which had been taken from me.

"Now, senor," he said, as he flung back the door of the carriage, "please mingle with those people yonder, and take no notice which way we drive. Adios."

The door closed as I descended the steps, and the carriage whirled away, I never knew whither.

This whole matter, a mystery from beginning to end, has remained so to this day. I could not believe I was not robbed until I searched everything, and received my money on my draft; after which, I pondered the matter deeply, but, of course, venturing to question no person, because forbidden by my oath.

At first I thought it a case of conscience merely: then a practical joke, perhaps; but subsequently, on looking through my pocket-book, and finding in it a small silver symbol of the Masonic Order, I was led to conjecture that that had saved me from robbery if not from death, and that one or more of those who had me in charge were members of this fraternal band.

This, of course, was, and is, mere conjecture: but it is the only reasonable solution of the mystery I have ever been able to obtain; for Pablo, who might have thrown some light upon the matter, I never set eyes upon since.—Hoskin's Monthly Journal.

Advertisements.

BRO. HIGMAN'S MASONIC BOUQUET,
GREATLY ADMIRER FOR ITS RICHNESS AND
PERMANENCY OF FRAGRANCE.

Sold in Stopped Bottles, at 2s. 6d. each.

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

At the MASONIC DEPOT, 3 & 4, Little Britain, London

Price Five Shillings.

LIFE OF CONSTANTINE,

BY

EUSEBIUS.

Masonic Depot, 3 & 4, Little Britain.

MASONIC NOTE AND LETTER PAPER.

Sanctioned by The Most Worshipful

The Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of England

It is impressed with Masonic Die, and has also Masonic Emblems incorporated with its texture, as Water Marks, while being manufactured.

Sold, in Quarto and Octavo Packets of 5 Quires, Wholesale and Retail, at the MASONIC DEPOT, 3 & 4, Little Britain, E.C.

Masonic Envelopes can also be obtained at the Depot.

MASONIC LODGE FURNITURE.

Superior Complete Suite (second-hand) to be SOLD; a great bargain. Apply by letter to P.M., care of KRYMER & Co., Stationers, Friday Street, Cheapside.

WHY NOT VISIT THE

ROEBUCK GARDENS AND GROUNDS?

Over 22 acres. Scenery unequalled.
Noted favourite resort for Dinners, Teas, Masonic Banquets,
School Treats, &c.

N.B.—The New Hall will dine over 500 persons. Ten minutes' walk from the Buckhurst-hill Railway Station; by road 10 miles.

Ordinary every Sunday at Two.

ROBERT COCKS and Co. have just issued
the following NEW DRAWING-ROOM COMIC SONGS:—"I'll Not Try it Again," "Medicine Jack," "Put it Down to Me," "B.R.A.G." and "Not So Bad for Me."
By A. S. GATTY. Each free by post for 19 stamps.

FROM THE MUSICAL TIMES.—"O FAIR
DOVE, O FOND DOVE." Ballad by A. S. GATTY.
Sung by Mme. Patey. 3s. free by post 19 stamps. "The composer has set the words of Jean Ingelow like a musician and a poet. Indeed, we have not met with a contralto song for some time so thoroughly to our mind."

HAPPY BETTY DREAMS. Ballad. Music
by J. R. THOMAS. Arranged as a vocal duet for soprano and contralto. 4s. post free for 25 stamps; as a song price 3s; and as a pianoforte solo, by Brinley Richards,
free for 19 stamps each.

London: ROBERT COCKS & Co., New Burlington-street.

BRO. BENJAMIN COOK,

Carpenter, Builder, and House Decorator,
SALISBURY COURT,
FLEET STREET, E.C.

Estimates for General Repairs.

Bro. G. W. CHINNOCK,

Statuary and Cemetery Stone Mason,
93, FULHAM ROAD, S.W.

MISSSES E. & C. CHINNOCK,

Pianistes & Teachers of the Pianoforte,
93, FULHAM ROAD, S.W.

BRO. H. T. LAMB,

MANUFACTURER OF MASONIC JEWELS,
ST. JOHN SQUARE,
CLERKENWELL,
LONDON.

ILLUSTRATED PRICE LIST POST FREE ON APPLICATION.

BR. JAMES STEVENS (25, 720, 1216, &c.),
Auctioneer and Surveyor, House and Estate Agent,
&c., Clapham Common.—Valuations for Probate or Legacy
Duties. Agent to the Imperial Fire & Life Insurance Offices.

ESTABLISHED 1840.

BRO. W. H. WAGHORN Manufacturer of
Regalia for all Societies. Masonic Aprons, Collars, Ribbons, Sashes, and every requisite for all degrees in Freemasonry always in stock.

19, VINEGAR YARD, COVENT GARDEN, LONDON, W.C.

MONEY.—LOANS Granted from £100 to
£2,000 at 5 per cent., repayable over Three Years, on Personal Security and Life Policy effected with the WEST
OF ENGLAND INSURANCE CO. (Established 1807.)
Apply to the Superintendent or Agents,
Bro. J. CHOCKER, Gateshead-on-Tyne.
Agents Wanted.

BRO. ADLARD'S REGISTERED JEWEL
ATTACHER. Price 7s. 6d. Universally adopted.
Master of the Improved Fitting Lodge Collars and Masonic Clothing. 225, High Holborn, London, W.C.

MONOGRAM AND CIPHER DIES, of the most Artistic Designs, found in any two or three Initials, without charge for Dies, and 5 Quives of Superfine
Note Paper with 100 Best Safety Envelopes, stamped in various Colours, for 5s., by Post 8d. extra; or half the quantity for 2s. 6d. Makes a very useful and pretty present.
Relief Stamping in Colours done on the premises at 1s. per 100 from any die. Gold and Coloured Illuminating Impressions can be obtained from your own Monogram or other Die. Arms, Crests, and Monogram Dies cut and designed.
A. Unwin, Heraldic Stationer and Engraver, 25, Whitcomb
Street, Leicester Square, W.C.

Card Plate and One Hundred Cards, 4s.

ARMS, CRESTS, and MONOGRAMS.—
A MASONIC EMBLEM Engraved on Seals, Dies, &c.
Official Stamps designed and Engraved.—Bro. D. G. BERRI,
Engraver to Her Majesty's Post Office, Stationery Office, &c.,
24, High Holborn (opposite Chancery-lane), London, W.C.

THE NEW MUSICAL PITCH.

COLIARD MOUTRIE has just invented, perfected,
and secured by Royal Letters Patent, an important improvement in the manufacture of Pianofortes, by which the Pitch is raised to the Pythagorean or lowered to that of the French normal diapason in an instant, at the option of the performer.
This invention can be applied to any Pianoforte. The Profession, Amateurs, Musical Critics, Musical Public, and the Trade are invited to witness its utility and effects, between the hours of Eleven and Four, at the Manufactory, 77,
Southampton-row, Russell-square. Established 1849.

THE AMERICAN FREEMASON

is Monthly, of sixteen double-column quarto pages of entirely original matter, and translations from the French
Italian, and German Masonic papers and periodicals of the day. It is devoted to the discussion of the rights of Lodges and individual Freemasons, in contradistinction to the assumptions of Grand Lodges, and the un Masonic doctrines and arrangements of "high degrees." Its motto is—Belief in the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man. Its price is Five Shillings a year—a sum so small that no Freemason, for pecuniary reasons, need be a non subscriber to it.
Trans-Atlantic Subscribers to the AMERICAN FREEMASON
will receive it Post-paid from the Office of Publication direct, at their respective Post-offices, upon payment of the subscription to.

BRO. GEORGE KENNING,

3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, LONDON, E.C.

All Subscriptions begin with March 15th, 1869, and end
with February, 1870.

The AMERICAN FREEMASON is not the organ of any Grand Lodge, but spreading the words of truth, manhood, and independence, advocates freedom for Masonry in America, and the rights of Freemasons in their Lodges—rights which, by our Grand Lodges, in their subservency to high degrees, have been invaded, until at present they are nearly obliterated.

Subscribers in the British Colonies will please address all
Subscriptions and Correspondence to J. FLETCHER BRENNAN,
Editor, 114, Main street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

VELOCIPEDES & BICYCLES for either Sex.

Speed 30 miles per hour, hill-ascending, self-propelling
and balancing. £100. Diagram, 6d.

Manufacturing Licences granted.

W. PIDDING, Esq. PATENTER, 31, Kings-row,
Walworth-road.

"Having drawn Mr. W. PIDDING'S Specification of Patent,
I am able to certify that his improvements in Velocipedes
(bicycles particularly) will render them self balancing,
capable of ascending hilly ground, and that they would travel on a newly-made road without inconvenience to the rider, either in the way of jolting or in retarding of the great speed the improvements will secure. The travelling, in fact,
would be as though on level ground.

(Signed) "J. G. WILSON, C.E.

"Belgrave-terrace, Peckham, S.E.; formerly of 18, Gt. George-street, Westminster."

"MR. W. PIDDING'S PATENT SELF-PROPELLING AND
BALANCING VELOCIPEDES AND BICYCLES.—Having seen the diagram and perused a specification of Mr. Pidding's patent,
we hesitate not for an instant to say that that gentleman will accomplish all he professes to do by means of his invention."—Sporting Opinion.

New Edition, in post 8vo. with about 80 Woodcuts,
price 12s. 6d.

A Co-operative Discount of Twenty per Cent.
to Brothers.

FOR GOUT—USE OIL OF HORSE CHEST-
NUTS, which imparts a natural circulation; 2/9,
4/6, and 11/- per bottle.

FOR GOUT—DRINK WILDGUNG WATER, the only natural solvent for Stone and Gravel, 1/6 per bottle; 15/- per dozen.

FOR INDIGESTION—TAKE DANDELION, CAMO-MILK and RHUBARB PILLS. 1/4 per box; 2/9, 4/6,
and 11/- per bottle.

FOR INDIGESTION—TAKE the PURE VEGETABLE
CHARCOAL prepared according to Mr. BIRD'S formula.
3/6 per bottle. The only internal disinfectant.

ANDERSON'S MEDICAL LABORATORY,

2, Lower Seymour-street, Portman-square; and 80, Duke-street, Manchester-square, London, W.

CROSBY'S
BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.

Opium, Narcotics, and Squills, are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary Diseases.
Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC
COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.

SELECT TESTIMONIAL.

Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says:—"I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued Cough, Pain, and Irritation of the Throat in cases of Pulmonary Consumption; and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."

This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthenes the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold by all respectable Chemists and Patent Medicine Dealers, in bottles at 1s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each, and wholesale by Jas. M. Crosby,
Chemist, Scarborough.

"Invalids should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be obtained gratis of any respectable Chemist.

To the Sporting World.

BELL'S LIFE IN LONDON

is now Published
Every WEDNESDAY and SATURDAY Morning.
Price 3d.; stamped 4d.
Office, 170, Strand, London, W.C.

BRO. R. FLETCHER, Ma-
sonic Stationer, Masonic Emblems,
Arms, Crests, Monograms, Addresses,
&c., beautifully stamped on note paper and envelopes in Gold,
Silver or Colours. Lodge Stationery correctly and carefully prepared. Jewels copied and Signet Rings engraved with minute care. The patronage of the Craft respectfully solicited by Bro. R. FLETCHER, Masonic Stationer, 10, Windley-street, Oxford-street, London, W. opposite the Pantheon.

TO THE NERVOUS & DEBILITATED EPILEPTIC
SUFFERERS AND OTHERS.

HALL'S CHLORATE OF POTASSA, discovered, introduced, and extensively prescribed by the late eminent Dr. MARSHALL HALL, has proved an infallible remedy (by oxydizing the blood and supplying its saline constituent) for Indigestion, Debility, Coughs, Asthma, Consumption, Skin, Liver, Stomach, and Nervous Affections, more especially Epilepsy, Apoplexy, and Paralysis. The successful results of this new chemical preparation are beyond all precedent, and the extraordinary cures effected by the late discoverer, and by his successor (Dr. Sutton), in the above maladies are without a parallel in the annals of medicine; and it is confidently believed that in no case need the sufferer despair, for practical experience has demonstrated, and signal success warranted the assertion, that in 99 cases out of every 100 complete cures may be relied on.

Sold in Bottles at 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and Cases of £5 each, by

DR. SUTTON, M.D., 15, REGENT SQUARE, LONDON, W.C., and in BOLTON by PRIESTLEY, Chemist.

The following are a few Testimonials published by privilege.

Sir Charles Locock, Physician-Accoucher to Her Majesty, stated at a meeting of the Royal Medical and Chirurgical Society, that in sixteen cases of Epilepsy he had effected permanent cures by the use of Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa.

"September 6 1856.—The Editor of the Bury Gazette returns thanks to Dr. Hall for the great benefit he has received from his Chlorate of Potassa treatment in a severe nervous disease."

Sir J. Ferguson, King's College Hospital, London, says—"I have repeatedly prescribed Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa and found it an agreeable and beneficial remedy."

Extract from the Lancet, April 1, 1857.—"In conclusion, we are of opinion that Hall's Chlorate of Potassa is a far superior remedy to the ones in general use for Nervousness, Indigestion, and Liver Complaints, when judiciously prescribed."

Sir Benjamin Brodie says—"What Chloride of Lime is to the foul sewer, Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa is to the blood."

"Professor Syme says—"The effects of Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa in obstinate cases of disease are as astonishing as perplexing."

Dr. Lankester, the eminent coroner, says—"Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa is calculated to entirely supersede iron, mercury, arsenic, quinine, and cod liver oil."

Sir Philip Crampton says—"I believe there is no condition of the system that may not be benefited by Dr. Hall's Potassa."

Sir T. Lawrence says—"I have found Dr. Hall's Chlorate an excellent remedy in Skin Diseases. I presume it is by oxydiza-tion."

Sir T. Watson says—"I know that it is an invaluable remedy."

Sir Edward Brough, 2, Fitzwilliam-square, Dublin, certifies
Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa has been of the greatest benefit to a member of his family.

The Earl of Clarendon certifies that Dr. Hall's Chlorate cured a case of indigestion of 15 years' duration.

DR. HALL'S CHLORATE OF POTASSA may be procured by order through any Chemist. Ask for Dr. Hall's Chlorate, and do not be imposed on with the common article.
It is sold in Bolton by Priestley, Chemist, 12, Druggate; or it may be had direct from Dr. Hall's successor, Dr. JOHN SUTTON, M.D., 15, Regent square, London, W.C., who undertakes the positive cure of all chronic diseases before payment.

DR. HALL'S Chlorate is sold in MANCHESTER by JEWELL
BURY, Market-street; in LIVERPOOL by PRIESTLEY, Lord-street.

N.B.—Dr. Sutton will shortly repeat his Lecture on this subject.—The Lecture sent for two stamps.

DR. LEA'S CELEBRATED MEDICINES.

"The efficacy of Lea's Medicines is proverbial."

Daily Telegraph.

"Lea's preparations are excellent."—Morning Star.

LEA'S BENGOAL ATRABILIOUS PILLS.

Invaluable in all liver complaints, and as a Family Medicine (without Mercury). 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

LEA'S GOUT AND RHEUMATIC PILLS.

Will eradicate these disorders when every other remedy has failed, excellent also in Neuralgia, Lumbago, and Sciatica.
2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

LEA'S CONSUMPTION SPECIFIC.

If persevered in, will seldom fail. 11s. and 22s.

LEA'S ASTHMATIC EMULSION.

Maintains its superiority for this complaint, Chronic, Cough,
Bronchial affections, Colds, &c. 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

LEA'S WHOOPING-COUGH EMULSION.

A certain cure for this destructive complaint in a few days.
2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

Prepared by G. LEA, M.D., Canberwell, Surrey.

LONDON AGENTS—BARCLAY, Farringdon-street; PAGE and TIBBS, 47, Blackfriars-road; and SUTTON, Bow Churchyard. * * * Advice free.

CONSUMPTION OF THE LUNGS.

DR. RAIT has discovered a CERTAIN CURE for this fatal malady. Advice gratis. Address W. RAIT, M.D., Peckham, Surrey.

FITS.—EPILEPTIC FITS or FALLING

SICKNESS.—A certain method of CURE has been discovered for this distressing complaint by a physician, who is desirous that all sufferers may benefit from this providential discovery. It is never known to fail, and will cure the most hopeless case after all other means have been tried.
Full particulars will be sent by post to any address free of charge.—Address the SECRETARY, 48 George street, Portman square, London.

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

EVERY requisite in GENTLEMEN'S CLOTHING, SHIRTS, and HOSIERY, for home or abroad, supplied on demand or promptly made to order by

GANN, JONES & CO.,

Tailors, Shirtmakers, Hosiers, Glovers, Outfitters, and Manufacturers,

171, FENCHURCH STREET; & MANUFACTORY, 15 & 16, BLOMFIELD STREET, E.C.

The principles of business in the Retail Department are specially recommended to the Craft and others seeking the best market. The unvarying rule is to give good value for money, to sell cheap when cheapness is consistent with quality, and to make a reduction on the price of an article when a quantity is taken. From this system of business—first established in 1805—their Wholesale Trade has grown, and GANN, JONES & CO.'s Shirts and Clothing are fast finding favour with Merchants, Shippers, and the best Houses in Town and Country.

Wholesale Lists forwarded to Shippers and the Trade, and Retail Price Lists on application

MASONIC DEPOT.

The Largest Stock in the United Kingdom of

Jewels,
Clothing,

Furniture,
Banners,

Books, &
Requisites

FOR ALL DEGREES IN FREEMASONRY.

3 and 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, LONDON, E.C.

PRICE LISTS ON APPLICATION.

NAVAL AND MILITARY WAREHOUSE.

Laces,
Embroidery,
Swords,

Belts,
Chacos,
Buttons,

Epaulettes,
Sashes,
&c., &c.

GEORGE KENNING, 3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, LONDON, E.C.

PRICE LISTS ON APPLICATION.

Unlike any other Plan known.

POSITIVE LIFE ASSURANCE is a new system, first introduced by the
MASONIC & GENERAL FIRE & LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY, Limited,
8, NEW BRIDGE STREET, BLACKFRIARS.

It secures Insurers a Promissory Note (instead of the ordinary Policy) for each premium paid, which is payable "To Bearer," either during the life-time or at the death of the assured.

Full Particulars on application to
FREDERICK BIGG,
Manager and Actuary.
Agents wanted in London and the provinces.

MONEY.

LOANS ON PERSONAL SECURITY, WITH
LIFE ASSURANCE,
AT FIVE PER CENT. PER ANNUM.

THE
WEST OF ENGLAND FIRE & LIFE OFFICE
(Instituted 1803)

GRANTS LOANS FOR A LIMITED NUMBER OF
YEARS ON THE ABOVE TERMS.

Chief Office—Exeter.
London—20, New Bridge Street.

Bro. WOLPERT,

PRINTER, STATIONER & ACCOUNT-BOOK MAKER,
7, St. Swithin's Lane, E.C.

Authorized Agent to receive Advertisements for THE
FREEMASON, and all the London and Country Newspapers.

By Appointment to the Queen.

Bookseller, Stationer, Newsagent, Printer, &c.

A MAGNIFICENT STOCK OF
MASONIC REQUIREMENTS

MAY BE SEEN AT

Bro. W. E. FRANKLIN'S,

42, MOSLEY ST., corner of St. NICHOLAS SQUARE,
NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE,

Agent for "THE FREEMASON."

NEW SONG,

PRICE 3s.

THE RED CROSS SONG,

Words by R. W. LITTLE,
Music by H. PARKER.

Published by GEORGE KENNING, 3 & 4, Little Britain,
London.

TESSELATED

CARPETING,

FOR
Lodges, Chapters, Encampments, &c.,
FOUR FEET WIDE, 5/ PER YARD,
OR
FOUR SHILLINGS PER SQUARE YARD,
MADE UP.

MASONIC DEPOT, LITTLE BRITAIN,
NEAR THE GENERAL POST OFFICE.

Just Published. Price Half a Guinea.

MONOGRAMS,

HISTORICAL AND PRACTICAL,

D. G. BERRI,

Engraver to Her Majesty's Post Office, Stationery Office,
&c., &c.,

36, High Holborn, (opposite Chancery-lane),
LONDON, W.C.

BRO. JAMES B. SLY,

PRACTICAL

Heraldic Engraver to the Trade,

Of Gold, Silver, and Ivory.

DRAUGHTSMAN & DIE-SINKER,
9, Rathbone Place, London, W.

Book Plates Engraved; Gilt Pierced Mounts made for
Albums and Cigar Cases.

Designs made of Crests, Monograms, Ornaments, and Arms,
and every description of Shooting Prizes, Presentation Plate,
Watches, Watch Domes, Dressing Cases, Bag-sets, and
Ivory Brushes, Engraved with care, delicacy, and despatch.

TO STATIONERS.

JAS. B. SLY having in his employ several Die-sinkers, and from his practical knowledge of the same is enabled to give immediate attention to the cutting of Dies that are emergent.
Companies' Dies cut. Illuminating and Stamping in colours.
Sample Sheets of Monograms and Addresses forwarded on application.

BRO. REEVES, SON & CO.,

Steam Printers, Engravers & Lithographers.

WHOLESALE STATIONERS,

AND ACCOUNT BOOK MANUFACTURERS,

Playhouse Yard, Blackfriars, London, E.C.

Next the "Times" Publishing Office.

For Cheap Watches, Clocks, Gold Chains, and
Jewelry, go to

KIBBLE'S

22, GRACECHURCH STREET,

One Door from Lombard Street, and

51, LUDGATE HILL,

Opposite the Old Bailey.

Gold Watches £2 15s.
Silver ditto £1 5s.
Timepieces from 9s. 6d.

EVERY ARTICLE WARRANTED.

Plate, Watches, and Jewelry, bought or exchanged.

List of Prices Post free.

Bro. J. G. MARSH,

ARCHITECT AND SURVEYOR,

159, Fenchurch Street, E.C.;

AND
842, Old Kent Road, S.E.

Bro. H. R. PRICE,

ARCHITECT AND SURVEYOR,

IMPERIAL CHAMBERS.

No. 1, Market Place, corner of St. Mary's-gate,

MANCHESTER.

ASTRINGENT TOOTH PASTE.
HENRY NEWMAN'S "Astringent Tooth Paste,"
in Pots 1s. 6d. and 2s. 6d., to be had of all respectable Chemists. Wholesale Agents, Evans and Sons, Hanover-street; Raimes and Co., Hanover-street; Messrs Clay, Dodd
and Case, St. Anne street; or of the Proprietor,

BRO. HENRY NEWMAN,

SURGEON-DENTIST,

5, SLATER STREET,
LIVERPOOL.

Printed by Brother JAMES ADLEY REEVES AND SON, Playhouse
Yard, Blackfriars, in the City of London; published by the Proprietor, Brother GEORGE KENNING, at his Offices,
3 and 4, Little Britain, in the City of London, and by the
NEWAGENTS' PUBLISHING COMPANY, Limited, at their Offices,
147, Fleet-street, in the City of London aforesaid.—SATURDAY,
JULY 24, 1869.

THE FREEMASON

Grand Lodge Reports are published with the sanction of the Right Honorable the EARL of ZETLAND, K.T., Most Worshipful Grand Master of England.

VOL. 2, No. 21.]

SATURDAY, JULY 31, 1869.

REGISTERED FOR TRANSMISSION ABROAD.

[PRICE 2D.]

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

	PAGE
ROYAL ARCH MASONRY	49
HISTORY OF THE ORDER OF KNIGHTS HOSPITALERS ..	50
MASONIC EXHORTATIONS FROM THE GERMAN ..	50
PRESENTATION TO BRO. DEV SON (898)	51
GRAND CHAPTER OF ENGLAND	51
GRAND LODGE OF MARK MASTERS	51
LAYING FOUNDATION STONE OF NEW MASONIC HALL AT QUEENSTOWN	51
THE CRAFT—Metropolitan and Provincial	52
THE ROYAL ARCH—Provincial	52
MASONIC FESTIVAL AT DEWSBURY	53
SPECIMENS FROM A MASONIC QUARRY	53
MASONIC BAZAAR AT SKIBBEREEN	53
BIRTHS, MARRIAGES, AND DEATHS	54
ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS	54
SPURIOUS MASONIC BODIES	54
OBITUARY— Bro. John Irvine Hallett, W.M., Lodge 69 ..	54
UNITED GRAND LODGE OF ENGLAND	55
NOTES AND QUERIES	55
PAPERS ON MASONRY— No. XVII.—Masonry in France	56
FREEMASONRY VERSUS MASONRY	56
SUPREME COUNCIL, NEW YORK	57
MASONIC MEETINGS FOR NEXT WEEK	57
MASONIC PICNIC AT SUNDERLAND	58
ADVERTISEMENTS	58 59 & 60

NOW READY, PRICE 4/6,

VOL. I. OF

The Freemason,

NEATLY BOUND, EXTRA CLOTH, WITH GILT
EMBLEMATICAL LETTERING.

3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, LONDON,
AND ALL BOOKSELLERS.

ROYAL ARCH MASONRY.

BY THE SON OF SALATHIEL.

(Continued.)

[The rights of translation and reproduction reserved.]

The Hebrew Sephiroth are alluded to in Rosenberg's "Explication du Tableau intitulé Sapientia Generalis," which was published at Paris in 1844. In this curious work the author follows the system of the celebrated Father Sabathier, whose ideas are tinged with the mysterious doctrines of Gnosticism, as also with the occult speculations of the Rosicrucians.

The main object of Rosenberg's publication was to obtain support for the cardinal points of his creed, namely Liberty and Equality for all forms of religious worship, and the subject has a peculiar interest at the present time. Rosenberg although we believe a professor of the Hebrew faith, speaks with the greatest reverence of Christ, whom he describes as the "summary, or perfection of all things." Like the renowned Rabbi Maimonides, whose writings we have already quoted, Rosenberg recognises the ternary or triple influence in the operations of nature, and his "Tableau" is a splendid illustration of this belief.

It is well known that the same majestic conception pervades and permeates the writings of the much-abused, because little-understood, mystics of the 17th century, such as Jacob Boehme and other members of the Rosicrucian Fraternity. Amidst a host of inchoate thoughts and crude imaginations, glimpses of a divine light may be discerned in the bulky tomes of the old alchemists and natural philosophers, and the name of Elias Ashmole alone ought to redeem their speculations from ridicule and contempt, without going back to the days of Paracelsus or Roger Bacon.

The true objects of the Rosicrucians have never been fully revealed to the world, and even diligent students, minus the true key, have failed to unlock the treasury of their secret science.

There can be little doubt, however, that spiritual teachings and revelations constituted a portion of their formulæ; and we are informed that this curriculum of study is still observed in a society existing in London, which claims to represent, by a chain of intellectual affinity, the ancient Rosicrucian fraternity. From the organ of this body we extract the following account of its formation.

"This extraordinary society received its name from Christian Rosencreutz, who was born in Germany, in the year 1599. He was educated in a monastery, and excelled in most ancient and modern languages. A powerful desire urged him to seek a more extensive range of information than could be obtained within the precincts of a cloister, and he determined to travel. The religious feelings, common about the close of the fourteenth century, led him to visit the holy land. Having seen the holy sepulchre, he proceeded to Damascus, where he was in great danger of losing his life. This circumstance, however, was the cause of all his fame and greatness; for he learned from the physicians, or (as they are sometimes called) philosophers, who undertook and completed his cure, the existence of many extraordinary secrets, by which his curiosity was so highly excited, that he spent much time travelling over most of the eastern parts, till he became master of those most wonderful secrets, which had been preserved by tradition from the ancient Egyptians, Chaldeans, Brahmins, Gymnosophists, and the Magi.

Addison in the "Spectator" gives a sketch of a well-known tradition, respecting the tomb of Rosencreutz.

The system was anciently, and is to this day in the English Society, divided into nine degrees, viz:—1, Zelator. 2, Theoricus. 3, Practicus. 4, Philosophus. 5, Adeptus Minor. 6, Adeptus Major. 7, Adeptus Exemptus. 8, Magister Templi. 9, Magus.

Their name, according to Mosheim the ecclesiastical historian, is derived from the latin ros, dew, and crux, the cross, as a hieroglyphic of light, which he thus explains:—"Of all natural bodies dew was esteemed the most powerful solvent of gold; and the cross, in chemical language, is equivalent to light, because the figure of a + exhibits at the same time three letters, of which the word LVX, or light, is composed. Hence a Rosicrucian philosopher is one who, by the assistance of the dew, seeks for light, or the philosopher's stone."

Rosicrucianism, like the Royal Arch degree, is based upon the Hebrew mysteries, and the symbolism of the Sephiroth is common to both, as each professes to have discovered the great Name—the King-attribute of God by which the world is ruled, and which the Jews consider inspires the very angels with astonishment and terror.

The Essenes, it is alleged, knew the name, which they always pronounced in a whisper, and it is said to have been engraved on the rod of Moses, thus enabling him to perform the most stupendous miracles.

The Cabalists state, according to Manasseh Ben Israel, that the name denotes the Aziluthic, or sphere of emanations, in which the ten Sephiroth or emanations from the Divine Being are contained.

The significations of the Sephiroth, both in the Masonic and Rosicrucian systems, possess, therefore peculiar interest, and are well worthy of study and earnest consideration, and to enable our readers to judge by comparison, we will place them in juxtaposition.

(To be continued.)

THE ROYAL ARCHAEOLOGICAL INSTITUTE.—The Royal Archaeological Institute on Tuesday closed its summer meeting at Bury St. Edmunds, which has passed off successfully. Next year the Institute will meet at Leicester.

HOSPITALARIA;

OR

A SYNOPSIS OF THE HISTORY OF THE ORDER OF

Knights Hospitallers.

(Continued.)

Baldwin, with the ardour of a redoubted soldier, flung himself into the thickest of the fight, followed by Du Puis and his knights, with the bravest of the Christian lords, and the Moslems were routed with great slaughter.

This victory enabled the king to relieve and re-garrison Antioch, and he returned in triumph to Jerusalem. The Hospitallers shortly afterwards threw themselves into Edessa and the adjacent strongholds, and there made a gallant stand in defence of the prince's right; and when Tyre, then one of the most magnificent cities of the east, surrendered, after five months' siege, to the Christian arms, (in 1119), the valour of the Hospitallers was as conspicuous as in the battle that led to the relief of Antioch.

During subsequent expeditions, the Hospitallers were in constant attendance on the king, and the utility and popularity of the Order of Saint John suggested a new institution (in 1119) for kindred purposes; viz. the Knight Templars. With generous zeal the Hospitallers encouraged the formation of this knightly fraternity, and granted it pecuniary assistance till the munificence of secular patrons placed it in the condition of an independent body. The influence of the famous Bernard of Clairvaux—the oracle of the age, and great advocate of the second Crusade—who accorded his special patronage to the knights of the Temple, so greatly enriched their treasury, and swelled their ranks, that, according to the historian Brompton, "the Order became so wealthy and puissant, that this daughter of the House of Saint John almost eclipsed her mother, and threatened to throw her into perpetual shade."

For two centuries the Bauseant and the Banner of the Baptist waved in fraternal rivalry on the same ensanguined fields. Christendom resounded with the chivalrous deeds of the soldiers of the White Cross and the Red. Princes supplicated to be buried in the habit and harness of these warrior-brethren; and kings were proud to be enrolled under their victorious standards.

The capture of Ascalon, on the 12th August, 1154—a triumph than which the Christian arms had achieved none greater since the conquest of Jerusalem—showed new honours on the Hospitallers; and in token of his sense of their services, Pope Anastasius the Fourth greatly extended the privileges of the Order. The great battle fought against the infidels on the plains of Putaba in the year 1158, was the last victory from which the venerable Raymond du Puis saw his knights return. He died two years afterwards in the sanctuary of his Order, having filled for upwards of forty years the office of Grand-Master, revered by his brethren and all the Latin Christians of the east.

Under the rule of successive Grand-Masters, the Hospitallers, between 1160 and 1187, lived in their war-saddles, and through perilous times were the chief prop of the tottering kingdom of Palestine. In this latter year the storm, which the Christians had long seen gathering on their frontiers, burst upon them. The victorious Saladin, the conqueror of Egypt, invaded the country, made captive the king, Guy de Lusignan, and the flower of his nobles, and, after a series of successes, in which the Hospitallers and Templars were nearly extirpated, laid siege to Jerusalem, which capitulated after an ineffectual resistance of fourteen days. Thus, at the end of eighty-eight years from its conquest by the first crusaders, the Holy City again passed under the Mohammedan yoke.

The loss of Jerusalem filled Europe with sorrow and alarm, and a third Crusade was undertaken for its recovery, headed by the Emperor Frederick Barbarossa, Philip the Second of France, and Richard Cœur de Lion. Their arrival on the Syrian frontier, in 1191, was the date of the erection of the Teutonic Knights of St. Mary of Jerusalem, which order was confirmed by Celestine III., February 23, 1192; and during the campaign that followed, the three military Orders, fired with noble emulation, upheld the honour of their respective banners, and gained the admiration of Christendom for their valiant deeds in arms.

On the 13th of July, 1191, the Standard of Redemption once more floated over Ptolemais, purchased with the blood of one hundred thousand Christians. The Hospitallers shortly after made it their principal residence, which since the fall of Jerusalem had been at Margat. There they remained, to quote the language of Hugh de Lusignan, King of Cyprus, "feeding daily an innumerable multitude of poor, attending to the sick, and comforting the dying; consecrating their days to deeds of mercy, and to the maintenance of a constant warfare against the infidels," until the Latins, in 1240, once more beheld themselves the sole occupants of Jerusalem, and the banner of the Cross dominant from the Jordan to the Mediterranean Sea.

During the twelfth century, the Order of St. John became so wealthy and extensive, that it possessed principalities, cities, and villages both in Asia and Europe, and enumerated within the bounds of Christendom no less than nineteen thousand manors. The European Commanderies were so many depôts whence the knights and hired troops were drafted to serve under the Grand-Masters in the distant wars; and large levies were constantly made from the various Languages to supply the places of those who fell in Paynim war. At this period the Order of St. John, including knights, priests, and serving-brothers, amounted to perhaps not less than 30,000 strong, their treasury was richer than that of any potentate in Europe, and their Chief came to be accounted the most powerful prince of the East.

Fifteen years after the date of the Emperor Frederick's triumphant entry into Jerusalem, the Korasmians rolled like a deluge upon Syria; and the Military Orders, on whom its defence devolved, saw at once that the open state of the Holy City rendered it untenable. They accordingly retired, and it passed into the hands of a barbarous people, never to be regained. Notwithstanding the great numerical superiority of the Korasmians, the Christians came off victorious in several partial conflicts, when it was determined to hazard a general engagement. For two days the warriors of the Cross maintained the battle; until, borne down by a constant succession of combatants, they fell one by one around their banners. The Grand-Masters of the Hospital, the Temple, and the Teutonic brethren, were all slain; and there escaped from the sword and captivity only sixteen Hospitallers, thirty-three Templars, and three Teutonic knights.

This fatal battle, which was fought on the eve of St. Luke, 1244, completed the calamities of the Holy Land. The remnant who escaped the scimitars of the Korasmians immured themselves within the strong walls of Acre, where the Hospitallers chose William de Chateaufort, a rigid observer of the regular discipline, who had passed through all the offices of the Order, Grand-Master in the room of the pious and heroic Peter de Villebride, who had sealed his vow of fidelity to the Cross with his blood. Recruited from the European Commanderies, the White Cross banner was again unfurled in many a bloody field during the disastrous progress of the eighth and ninth Crusades; until in 1291, after a gallant resistance, Khalil, with an army of 80,000 horse and 140,000 foot made himself master of Acre. Thus terminated, after one hundred and ninety-four years, a struggle called to this day, "the Holy War;" and which, in the words of its chronicler (Fuller), "for continuance was the longest—for money spent the costliest,—for bloodshed the cruellest,—for pretences the most pious,—for the true intent the most politic the world ever saw."

After the fall of Acre, the Military Orders no longer attempted to maintain themselves in Palestine. The Teutonic knights retired to Prussia and Livonia, which they enjoyed in absolute sovereignty, and the Templars to indulge at ease in their rich European preceptories. Henry of Cyprus received with humanity the remnant of the battle-scarred knights of Saint John, who came out of their vessels "covered with wounds, with looks (says Vertot) suitable to their fortunes, and infinitely affected at having survived the utter loss of the Holy Land." The town of Limisso was assigned to them as a place of retreat; and to prevent the total extinction of the Order in the Levant, the Grand-Master sent a general summons to all the knights that were dispersed throughout Christendom to repair to his standard. In accordance with this mandate, every Commandery in Europe poured forth its chevaliers, who flocked to Cyprus burning for glory and revenge; and there they shortly afterwards planned the enterprise which gained for the Order an independent sovereignty, and made the flag of their war-galleys respected over all the waters of the Mediterranean Sea. On the 15th of August, 1310, the Grand-Master, Faulk de Millaret, after a sanguinary conflict,—not of weeks, but years,—stormed the city of Rhodes, and placed the standard of Saint John permanently on its walls. Having driven out the Greeks and Saracens, he subsequently reduced the islands of Nisara, Lero, Calamo, Episcopia, Chalce, Simia, Tilo, and Coa.

Whilst Europe resounded with the achievements of the Hospitallers, Philip the Fair of France, effected the suppression of the Templars, their former rivals in glory. On the 12th of October, 1307, all the Templars in France were arrested, and the example was followed in England, Scotland, and other kingdoms. Fifty-four Templars were burnt alive at Paris on the 12th May, 1310. Shrieks and groans resounded in all the prisons of France, and the spirit of many a knight quailed at the stake and on the rack, whom the terrors of Paynim war had failed to subdue. Many dark crimes were laid to the charge of an Order, which for two centuries had been so puissant and revered throughout Christendom; but its vast wealth was its real offence.

(To be continued.)

MASONIC EXHORTATIONS.

FROM THE GERMAN.

II. The Immortality of the Soul.

Man! King of the earth! Master-piece of the creation, animated by the breath of God; be sensible of thy dignified destination.

The whole animal race is subdued under thy dominion. All that waves and moves about thee ceases again to be; by thy soul survives all component things, and is by virtue of its divine origin incapable of being destroyed.

In this consists thy true nobility. Feel thy happiness without arrogance: Pride was the cause of the degradation of man, it certainly would plunge thee into the same abyss.

Degenerated being! what art thou in the presence of the Eternal, with all the dignity originally appropriated to thee, and still distinguishing thee from other beings?

Adore him, the Lord on High, in the utmost humility, and take care that the heavenly immortal essence, which animates thee, be not depraved.

This essence is thy soul; exert thyself in endowing it; it is capable of infinite perfections.

Make it so susceptible, so open to virtuous impressions, that, after thy dissolution, it may without impediment return to the pure and original source of virtue.

So prepared, thou wilt be free even in fetters; serene in misfortunes; the heaviest storm will not make thee tremble, and with true heroism thou wilt advance even to the face of death.

Mason! If ever thou couldst doubt the immortal nature of thy soul, and its high destination, in vain had we initiated thee. Thou wouldst not be the adopted son, the darling of wisdom; thou wouldst step back, and mix again with the multitude of the profane rabble, who like moles crawl in the dark.

III. Duty towards thy King and Country.

God has ordained a sovereign power of each country to be his vicegerent.

Entertain reverence for the supreme power, and be faithful to it, in whatever corner of the world thou livest.

After the homage thou owest to God, the duties toward the state and country follow next.

Should man wander rude and unsocial about woods and forests, he would be less inclined to answer the intentions of Providence, and to ensure to himself all the good intended for him.

His being ennobles itself among his equals, and the difference of opinions improves his genius.

But in society, were every one left to himself, the possession of property, and the unrestrained passions, would cause incessant quarrels, and cunning or power would soon triumph over innocence.

For this reason laws were necessary to regulate mankind by, and rulers to support and keep inviolated those laws.

Sensible Man! thou honourest thy parents; honour the fathers of the state also, for they represent the Deity.

If they err, they are accountable for it to the Judge of Kings; but thy own, often very erroneous, judgement, cannot exempt thee from obedience.

Pray to God for their preservation, and exert all thy powers in favour of thy country.

Shouldst thou ever neglect this sacred duty, should thy heart not beat with joy, at the dear names of thy country and thy prince, every Mason would turn thee away as a disturber of public tranquillity and order, and an outcast that does not deserve to partake of the prerogative of a society that has particular claims upon the esteem and confidence of the sovereign power; because, animated with patriotism and zeal to form the best citizens, she makes it an invariable law for her pupils to fulfil all civil duties in the most distinguished manner, and from the purest motives.

A Mason ought to be the most valiant warrior; the most just judge; the kindest master; the most zealous servant; the tenderest father; the most faithful husband; and the most obedient son; for his duties as a citizen in general have been strengthened and rendered sacred by the voluntary Masonic obligation; and he, if ever he should neglect them, not only would show a want of fortitude, but also be guilty of hypocrisy and perjury.

THE forthcoming work by Bro. Wm. J. Hughan will contain:—1. An article on Masonic M.S.S., by Bro. Hughan. 2. A reprint of the Constitution of the Freemasons by the Grand Lodge of England, 1723, being the first edition (slightly abridged.) 3. A fac-simile lithographic reprint of Coles' copper-plate edition of the Constitutions, 1728, from transfers from the original in Bro. Hughan's possession. Seventy copies only are to be printed for sale, at 10s. 6d. each, and 30 copies for presentation. The work will be dedicated, by permission, to the M.W.G.M., the Earl of Zetland. Subscriptions to be sent to the publisher, Bro. Wm. Lake, Truro, at once, stating name in full and Masonic position.

GRAND CHAPTER OF ENGLAND.

We publish the following for the information of our readers:—

E. Companions,—You are hereby requested to attend a Quarterly Convocation of the Supreme Grand Chapter, at this place, on Wednesday, the 4th day of August next, at 7 o'clock in the evening, punctually.

By Command of the M.E.Z.,

JOHN HERVEY, E.

Freemasons' Hall, London, 28th July, 1869.

The Report of the Committee of General Purposes.

To the Supreme Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons of England.

The Committee of General Purposes beg to Report that they have examined the Accounts from the 21st April, to the 20th July, 1869, both inclusive, which they find to be as follows:—

To Balance 21st April - £479 1 8	By Disbursements during the Quarter £193 5 0
„ Subsequent Receipts 334 11 10	Purchase of £300 Consols at 92½ - 279 0 0
	By Balance - 341 8 6
£313 13 6	£313 13 6

which balance is in the hands of Messrs. Willis, Percival and Co., Bankers of the Grand Treasurer.

The Committee have also to report that the Chapter of Concord, No. 394, Southampton, have applied for a Certificate for Companion Cyprian Wolowicz, exalted on March 11th, 1869, he not having been raised until the 12th November, 1868, the Chapter was applied to for an explanation, which the Committee considered very unsatisfactory. This case being a very flagrant one, the Companion having been exalted in less than four months after being raised, and the offence being very much on the increase, the Committee deem it necessary to put a stop to the practice if possible, and with that view have inflicted a fine of £5 5s. upon the Chapter of Concord, No. 394, Southampton.

The committee have likewise to report that they have received a Petition from Companion Andrew Hay as Z, Companion Thomas Diver as H, Companion Christopher Thwaites as J, and six others for a Chapter to be attached to the Lodge St. George, No. 549, Bombay, to be called the Chapter "St. George," and to meet at Bombay.

The foregoing Petition being in all respects regular, the Committee recommend that the prayer thereof be granted.

The following Notice of Motion has been received for the next Quarterly Convocation:—

From Companion Francis Bennock, P.Z., No. 2.

"When the Minutes of the previous Meeting have been read, and their accuracy unimpugned, and their confirmation proposed:—no motion to omit any substantial portion of the business recorded as transacted shall be accepted; unless due notice of such motion shall have been given and printed in the usual paper of business."

(Signed) W. PULTENEY SCOTT, President.

Freemasons' Hall, London, 21st July, 1869.

GRAND LODGE OF MARK MASTERS.

The following circular has been issued by the Stewards:—

First Annual Benevolent Fund Festival.—The Festival as above will be held, with the sanction of Grand Lodge, and under the presidency of Bro. Rev. George Raymond Portal, M.W.G.M., at the Mitre Hotel, Hampton Court, on Tuesday, the 10th of August, 1869.

The objects of this Festival, are: 1.—To afford an opportunity for a reunion of ladies and brethren at the banquet. 2.—To assist, by contributions, the fund recently established for the relief of Mark Master Masons, their widows and children, when distress or calamity may necessitate applications.

There exists a general and earnest desire that this Festival shall be continued annually, but this will depend in a great measure upon the success which may attend the first celebration. Let me, therefore, earnestly entreat your kind personal support, and the company of members of your family.

A return of the enclosed form, on or before Saturday, the 5th of August, will be esteemed a favor.

Any amount as a Donation, however small, will be thankfully welcomed.

Tickets (exclusive of wine), Lady, 7/6; Gentleman, 10/6; Double Tickets (Lady and Gentleman), 15/6. The Banquet will be served at six o'clock precisely, but it is hoped that those to whom it may be convenient to do so, will assemble at three o'clock, for the purpose of visiting the Palace and Grounds.

PRESENTATION TO BRO. DEVESON, P.M. OF LODGE 898.

At a meeting of this lodge, on Wednesday at their Hall, Newby-place, Poplar, in consequence of the unavoidable absence of the W.M. Bro. Cannon, Bro. Finch, P.M., ably conferred the third Degree on two candidates, and Bro. Deveson, P.M., the second Degree on two candidates. The lodge was then resumed in the first Degree, when Bro. Finch, in presenting a handsome P.M. Jewel to Bro. Deveson, I.P.M., thus addressed him:—Brethren, in the absence of the W.M. Bro. Cannon, a duty has devolved upon me of a very pleasing nature. My only regret is that I am unable to do that justice to it, which the nature of the case requires. Brethren, it is by your unanimous wish, that a Jewel should be presented to our worthy W.M. Bro. Deveson. Now you are so well acquainted with his abilities, his courtesy and uniform kindness as to make it almost unnecessary for me even to allude to them, but justice demands that I should say this much, that ever since he has belonged to the lodge, we have found a zealous persevering brother, always at his post of duty, and willing to make himself useful in any capacity where his services were required, and I am only proud, to see him in the position which he now occupies, and which he so justly deserves. Were I now pressed I could say something more in his favor, but you are so well acquainted with his merits as a Mason, as to make it quite unnecessary for me to do so. Bro. Deveson, in the name of the lodge, and on my own behalf, I now have much pleasure to adorn you with this Jewel; may you be spared many years to wear it, may health, peace, prosperity, and many other blessings attend you and yours.

Bro. DEVESON, P.M., in return said:—

W.M. Officers and Brethren,—It is with mingled feelings of gratification and pleasure that I accept this Jewel, which you have been kind enough to present to me this evening. I am quite sure in awarding me this present, you do not mean me to accept it as the full measure of your kindness, neither shall I regard its intrinsic value so highly as the kindly feelings which prompted you to make it. I know that it is the custom in this Lodge to present the retiring Master with some substantial mark of respect. I also know that it is a voluntary offering. That you can, and doubtless would deviate from this custom if you were not satisfied with the way the Master for the time being had discharged the duties of his office. The fact, therefore, of having awarded me this present is evidence of your satisfaction that I have discharged the duties of Master to the best of my ability. Now, I take no credit to myself for so doing, I simply note it as a fact which you by this token have recorded in my favor, and I must add that whatever office I may hold in the Lodge I hope to be equally successful. I promise you that no effort on my part shall be wanting to bring about such a result. It is now some six years since I was first received into Freemasonry in this Lodge, and I can conscientiously say from that time to the present moment it has been a source of happiness to me to meet you here to partake of the work of the evening, and after the Lodge is closed to spend a social hour together, and if unfortunately there has been any interruption to the even tenor of our way, I have been as anxious as any of you to smooth away the difficulty, bearing in mind that we are creatures of impulses and circumstances. That which looks black to day may not appear so dark to morrow. That by giving and taking as it were will tide us over many difficulties, when an opposite would tend to make matters worse and drift us into confusion and disorder. Most of you know something of my love and zeal for Freemasonry. I seldom missed attending any of your meetings; I may say for the last two years-and-a-half I have not been absent a single night, and if I am spared I hope to be as punctual for the future as I have been in the past, for I hold it to be an imperative duty of every one who accepts office to be prepared, if necessary, to make some sacrifice in order to discharge the duties of that office with credit to themselves and with satisfaction to the Lodge. And here allow me to tender my best thanks to the proposer and seconder, Bros. Smith and Marlett for this Jewel, as well as to the Brethren generally, who so readily responded to the proposition. In conclusion, brethren, I shall wear this Jewel as a memento of your kindness; may we be spared many years to meet together. May the Lodge increase in prosperity, and be handed to our successors as second to none in London.

The lodge was then closed in form and with solemn prayer, and adjourned.

LAYING THE CORNER STONE OF A NEW MASONIC TEMPLE AT QUEENSTOWN.

Last week was a lively one in Queenstown, owing to the fact that the Freemasons of this town, and brethren from many other towns of the Eastern Province, had assembled together for the purpose of taking part in the ceremony of laying the foundation-stone of their new Temple "Star of the East."

The interesting event took place on Wednesday week. About 11 o'clock the Masons met in the lodge and at 12 o'clock marched in procession, headed by a band, to the site of the new Temple. Altogether, there were about 70 members of the Queenstown lodge present, and about 16 or 17 of other lodges; and although the weather was not propitious, a large concourse of the uninitiated also were there. The brethren having formed themselves into a circle, the lodge Chaplain, the Rev. Canon Waters, offered up the usual prayer delivered on such occasions.

P.M. C. Griffith then presented W.M. C. A. Nesbitt, in the name of the B.B., a silver trowel, the workmanship of Messrs. Scott Bros., nicely engraved by Mr. Maullin.

Shortly afterwards the stone was lowered.

In the leaden box deposited in the cavity of the stone were coin, papers, &c., together with a parchment scroll on which was emblazoned a suitable inscription.

The W.M. C. A. Nesbitt, Esq., next took a position on the top of the corner-stone, and delivered an eloquent address, concluding thus:—The same principles are preserved and taught among us, as those which formed the landmarks of our Fraternity when operative Freemasonry existed in the zenith of its splendour. The sphere of our operations is, however, now enlarged. We no longer point to the operative building, the mere work of hands, as evidence of Masonic skill, but we refer to that spiritual working which erects the temple of wisdom in the dormant mind, and stepping boldly beyond the restricted bounds of all ordinary mundane institutions, seeks to re-establish the principles of human fraternity, by leading all to adore the Great Architect of the Universe, and acknowledge the kindred claims of every brother of the human race. In the outer world we behold nation arrayed against nation, creed against creed, and race against race; but if we regard Freemasonry we find that under its genial influence all national perfidies vanish, all religious animosities disappear—the Christian, Hebrew, Mussulman, and Hindoo, the American Indian and Chinese, acknowledge the common bond, and their hearts respond to the endearing term of "Brother." The principles of Freemasonry are based upon truth—truth inimitable, truth eternal, and thus it is that those principles are capable of universal extension; this subject is one embracing many points and principles, but every step affords matter of abundant interest and gratifying search. May it teach us to measure our actions by the rule of rectitude, square our conduct by the principles of morality, and guide our conversation and our very thoughts, within the compass of propriety, that we may learn to be meek, humble, and resigned, to moderate the passions, the excess of which deforms and disorders the very soul, and the brother who has thus far discharged his duty as a Mason can patiently await the arrival of his dying throbs, when he must experience that awful moment, when the soul shall take wing to the boundless and unexplored Grand Lodge above. In conclusion my B.B., let me congratulate you upon the work this day begun. May you continue to enjoy every delight which disinterested friendship can give, and may our children's children celebrate with joy and rejoicing the transactions of this auspicious solemnity.

The stone having been duly laid, the brethren returned to lodge, and the company separated.

The concert was, we suppose, the best one—whether professional or amateur—ever given in Queenstown, and the bazaar held on Thursday and Friday was also a grand success. Never before did money flow so fast through the fair fingers of the fair vendors who served the various stalls. At the close of the two days' sales, the money taken amounted to about £370. This, together with something over £30, the proceeds of the concert, made up a total, in round numbers, of £400. Not so bad for Queenstown. On Friday evening a Ball came off, at which everything went on pleasantly, and dancing was kept up until the small hours.

On the whole, therefore, we can fairly offer to the Masons of Queenstown our most hearty congratulations on the immense success of their efforts to raise money for their building fund.

The Temple was erected without the sound of any instrument of iron, the stones and timbers having previously been fitted for their respective places with exact nicety. So in a lodge of Masons; no harsh or discordant sound should ever be heard. Unity of sentiment and feeling should prevent every harsh word, and brotherly love flow like the waters of life from heart to heart.

Reports of Masonic Meetings.

THE CRAFT.

METROPOLITAN.

Camden Lodge, No. 704.—The above lodge met on Tuesday, the 20th inst., at the York and Albany Hotel, Regent's Park. Bro. S. G. Cripps having taken the chair the minutes of the former lodge were read and confirmed. Bro. Meadway, the S.W., who had been unanimously elected at a former meeting, was presented to the lodge, and duly installed as W.M. by Bro. Frost P.M., in a very excellent manner. The W.M. then invested the following brethren, viz.:—Bro. Webb, S.W.; Garratt, J.W.; Tyrrell, Treas.; Boys, Sec. The newly-installed W.M. then initiated (by fiat) Mr. John Pike in a very excellent manner. The lodge was then closed, and the brethren then sat down to a very sumptuous banquet; the usual toasts followed, and the visitors were Bro. Warr, P.M. (23), Foxall, P.M. (742 Crystal Palace), Lowenthal (223), Harris, P.M., who severally returned thanks. Some very good songs were sung, more particularly by Bro. Garratt, and the brethren separated early.

PROVINCIAL.

SCARBOROUGH.—Old Globe Lodge, No. 200.—The regular meeting of this lodge was held, on Wednesday the 21st July, at the Masonic Hall, Globe-street. The following officers and brethren were present:—Bro. William Peacock, W.M.; Richard H. Peacock, S.W.; Joseph Hardgrave, J.W.; H. A. Williamson, P.M.; W. F. Rooke (J.P.), P.M., P.P.G.J.W.; H. C. Martin, P.M., P.P.G. Dir. of Cera, Sec.; G. H. Walshaw, S.D.; W. Wilson, J.D.; J. Groves, I.G.; Ash; Tyler, Symons, Westlake, Walker, Garnett, and Land. Visitors:—Bro. C. E. Lucas, P.M., Prov. Grand Sec., Lincolnshire; H. Boys, 250; E. H. Shipley, 297; W. Cowling, P.M., 236; J. S. Cook, 1248; J. O. Surtees, W.M., 1248; W. Wilson, 991; T. Hornsey, 304; A. Allen, 342; E. Armitage, P.M., P.P.G.W., 275; G. Stephenson, Harbour of Refuge. The lodge was opened at 7.30 p.m. The minutes were read and confirmed. Bro. Harvey, Reeve, Newton, and Scott, were balloted for, and elected joining members. The lodge was raised to the second degree. Bro. Land and Allen, passed an examination and retired; the lodge was raised to the third degree, and Bro. Land and Allen were separately re-admitted, and raised to the sublime degree of Master Masons. Bro. Williamson and Rooke, P.M.'s, assisting the W.M. in their usual very impressive and able manner. The lodge was now worked down to the first degree. Bro. Surtees, W.M., 1248, gave notice that it was intended to have a Grand Masonic Ball in aid of the Masonic Charities, at the Grand Hotel here, the latter part of August, and asked for the co-operation of the Old Globe Lodge, which was unanimously agreed to. Bro. Lucas, P.M., Prov. Grand Sec., Lincolnshire, and other P.M.'s spoke in very high terms of the working of the lodge. Bro. Allen, of 342, was proposed as a joining member. A Brother received two guineas as relief, from the funds of the lodge, after which the lodge was closed with solemn prayer at 9.30 p.m., and the brethren spent a very happy hour at the refreshment board.

LIVERPOOL.—Merchants' Lodge, No. 241.—The annual meeting of this lodge, for the installation of the W.M. for the ensuing year, was held on Tuesday, June 29th. The proceedings were commenced at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, when, after the confirmation of minutes of the previous meeting, Bro. Samuel Forrest was duly installed in the chair of the lodge by his predecessor. The W.M. appointed as his officers the following brethren:—Bro. John Cobham, S.W.; Thos. Nicholson, J.W.; James C. Baker, Sec.; William Jewett (elected), Treas.; Thos. Griffiths, S.D.; J. I. Knight, J.D.; John Halton, I.G.; Thos. Welch, Org.; A. C. Mott, P.M., Dir. of Cera. The lodge having been closed in due form the brethren adjourned to the Stanley Arms Hotel, Roby, where a banquet was prepared by Bro. Houlston, to which 86 brethren sat down, amongst whom were many visitors of note. During the course of the evening, after the usual loyal and Masonic toasts had been honored, "The health of the W.M., Bro. Forrest," was proposed by the immediate P.M., who spoke in high terms of the general fitness of Bro. Forrest to occupy the chair of a lodge such as the Merchants, the reputation of which as a well-worked lodge was widely extended throughout the Province. The toast was most enthusiastically received by the brethren, who thus testified their approval of the eulogium which had been spoken, and the perfect confidence they had in Bro. Forrest as their W.M. After spending a pleasant evening the meeting was closed, and the brethren returned to town at 9 o'clock.

LEICESTER.—John of Gaunt Lodge, No. 523.—An emergency meeting of this lodge, which, for the first time, was presided over by the newly-installed W.M., Bro. George Toller jun., was held at the Freemasons' Hall, on Thursday, the 22nd inst. A making, passing, and raising were on the list of business, and the ceremonies of the three degrees, with the exception of the working tools and the secrets of the third degree (which were given by the I.P.M. Bro. Duff) were performed by the W.M. most efficiently; indeed, in a manner rarely equalled by an outgoing W.M., and still more rarely by any brother occupying the chair of a lodge for the first time. The lodge having been opened in the first degree, and the whole of the officers being in their places, except the Treasurer who was in the country, the Rev. Bro. H. E. von Stürmer was examined as an E.A., and, having answered in a satisfactory manner, retired, when the lodge was opened in the second degree and he was duly passed thereto, after which the W.M. gave the lecture on the tracing board. Bro. J. J. Millar was then called to the pedestal and passed a satisfactory examination as a Fellow Craft, when a Master Mason's Lodge having been opened he was duly raised to that sublime degree. The lodge was then lowered to the first degree. A dispensation from the Rt. Hon Earl Howe, P.G.M., for the initiation of Mr. Thomas Dunn, as a serving Bro., was read and entered in the minutes; a ballot was then taken and it being in his favour, Mr. Thomas Dunn was duly initiated. The effect of the ceremonies during the evening was greatly enhanced by the musical chants by Bro. Johnson, Crow, and others. Among those present were Bro. G. Toller jun., W.M.; W. Kelly, P.M., and D.P.G.M.; Duff, I.P.M.; Buzzard, S.W.; Sculthorpe, J.W.; Rev. Dr. Haycroft, S.D.; Partridge, J.D.; Baines, Sec.; C. Johnson, Org.; S. B. Atkin, Stwd.; Lewin, I.G.; Bombridge, Tyler; Mace, Miller, Rev. E. H. von Stürmer, and T. Dunn. Visitors Bro. I. H. Williams (925, Birmingham,) and L. A. Clark, P.M.; Crow, Sec. and Org.; Jacobs, Palmer, and Roper of No. 279. The lodge having been closed, the brethren adjourned to refreshment, and spent an hour or two very pleasantly.

LIVERPOOL.—Everton Lodge, No. 823.—Bro. John Jackson, S.W., having been unanimously elected W.M. of this flourishing lodge, the installation ceremony took place at the Masonic Temple, Hope-street, Liverpool, on the 21st inst., when there was a good attendance of members and visitors. The lodge having been opened in the first degree by Bro. Ashmore, W.M., the minute of the last meeting were read and confirmed, and a ballot taken for three candidates who were duly elected. The lodge was then opened in the second degree, when the W.M. elect was regularly presented by Bro. A. C. Mott, P.M., P.G.D., and Bro. Lunt, P.M., after which the lodge was opened in the third degree, and a board of Past Masters formed. The W.M. was then installed according to ancient custom, by Bro. Ashmore, I.P.M., in a very creditable manner. The lodge was then closed down through the various degrees with the usual proclamations and salutations. The officers were then invested as follows:—Bro. S. Hayes, S.W.; T. D. Pierce, J.W.; W. I. Lunt, Treas., (2nd year); I. Holland, Sec.; W. Boulton, S.D.; W. Bird, J.D.; W. Nash, I.G.; and Sharpe, and Lomas, Stewards. W. H. Ball, was re-elected Tyler. The sum of twenty guineas was voted to the West Lancashire Masonic Educational Institution to make the W.M., P.M., and Wardens for the time being Life Governors of the Institution. The brethren showed their appreciation of the valuable services rendered the lodge by Bro. W. J. Lunt, P.M. and Treas., by unanimously granting the sum of five guineas to constitute him a Life Governor of the above Institution. Bro. Lunt suitably returned thanks, and the W.M. (on behalf of the lodge) presented Bro. Ashmore, I.P.M., with a beautiful Past Master's jewel. The lodge having been closed in due form the brethren partook of a little refreshment, provided by the worthy house-steward, Bro. P. Ball, and at one o'clock proceeded to St. George's Hall, where omnibuses were waiting to convey them and their lady friends to Knowsley Park, permission having been kindly granted by Admiral Homby to hold a picnic there. The weather was propitious, and all seemed bent on enjoyment. A quadrille band having been engaged from Bro. G. A. W. Phillips, the lovers of the Terpsichorean art tripped it on the light fantastic toe, whilst others strolled through the beautiful park and noble hall of the house of Stanley. At four o'clock the party, numbering about 120, sat down to a cold collation in a marquee, provided by the caterer, Mrs. Lloyd, of the King's Arms Hotel, Prescott. The toasts of "The Queen," "Earl of Derby," and "The Ladies" having been duly drunk, the party amused themselves in various ways until 9 p.m., the hour appointed to return. After a pleasant ride, town was reached about 10 o'clock, all apparently pleased with their day's entertainment.

LIVERPOOL.—Royal Victoria Lodge, No. 1013.—On Wednesday, July 7th, the annual meeting of this lodge was held, when Bro. J. Robinson, was duly installed W.M. for the ensuing year. The ceremony of was conducted by Bro. A. C. Mott, P.G.S.D., P.M., 241, 1013, &c., who discharged the duties devolving upon him in a most admirable and effective manner. Bro.

Robinson, having been duly installed, appointed the following brethren as his officers:—Edward Friend, I.P.M.; Thos. A. Lowe, S.W.; Thos. H. Gawith, J.W.; Simon Lewis, Treas.; Richd. W. Crowe, S.D.; A. L'Estrange, J.D.; Jno. Kenyon, I.G.; J. K. Hughes, P.M., Dir. of Cer.; Thos. Welch and Wm. G. Glover, Stewards; Edwin Robinson, Org. The W.M. then proceeded to initiate into Masonry Messrs. Thompson, Jordan and Teeling, who had been regularly balloted for, and with such fluency, correctness and feeling, did he perform his duties in the ceremony, as convinced all who were present that he had well prepared himself for the high and important trust he had just taken upon himself. The brethren were then called off for refreshment, and sat down to a well ordered banquet, which the house steward, Bro. Ball, had prepared. Amongst the visitors who had assembled to do honour to the occasion were:—Bro. Hamer, P.G. Treas. P.M., 220; Smith, P.M., 1094; Johnson, P.M., 1013; Doyle, P.M., 667; De la Perelle, P.M., 249; Wilson, P.M., 241; Baker, P.M., 220; McKune, P.M., 216; Sheldon, W.M., 1094; Ashmore, W.M., 823; Forrest, W.M., 241; Hill, J.W., 724; Dawson, J.D., 1094, &c. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts having been proposed, Bro. Mott gave the health of the W.M., Bro. Robinson, and in doing so expressed the confidence which he and every brother of the lodge must feel in having Bro. Robinson in the chair of the lodge. What they had witnessed that day of his working was an evidence of the future success, which he trusted would characterize Bro. Robinson's year of office. The toast having been enthusiastically received by the brethren, the W.M. responded in an admirable and appropriate speech, in which he expressed his determination to earn, if possible, the approval of every brother of the lodge, in the discharge of his new and responsible duties. The brethren were in due time recalled to labour, and at an early hour the lodge was closed.

IRELAND.

Tralee Lodge, No. 379.—An emergency meeting of this lodge was held on Monday, the 19th inst., Bro. Hill, P.M., in the chair. Owing to the attractions of the seaside, most of the officers were out of town and their places were filled as follows:—Bro. Wm. Mason, P.M. as S.W.; G. H. Johnson as J.W.; Dr. Hudson as S.D.; John Gray as J.D.; Chas. O'Connell as I.G.; and Wm. Graham as Sec. Lodge was opened in form of first degree and called up to the third, when the Tyler-elect Thomas Scannell, was raised to the "Sublime Degree" by Bro. D. De G. McGillicuddy, junr., in a manner which evoked the just admiration of all present. Lodge was shortly afterwards closed in due form. It is rumoured that some influential brethren are about applying to the Grand Lodge of Ireland for a warrant to hold a new lodge in this town, and from the rapid spread of the Order, they are sure of moderate success, there being at present only one lodge in the whole county.

THE ROYAL ARCH.

PROVINCIAL.

WARRINGTON.—Chapter of Elias Ashmole, No. 148.—A regular Convocation of this Chapter was held on Monday afternoon last, at the Chapter-rooms, Sankey-street. Comp. John Bowes, M.E.Z., was supported by Comps. Robt. Stevenson, H.; D. W. Finney, J.; W. Mossop, S.E.; W. Richardson, P.S.; Horatio Syred, N.; Rev. J. H. Porter, W. Woods, Jas. Johnson, Janitor, &c. Visitors:—Comps. Jas. Hamer, P.Z., Prov. G.T., and Jas. Parry, 781. The Chapter was opened by the Principals, when the rest of the Companions were admitted and the minutes read. Bro. P. J. Edleston (who had been previously balloted for and accepted), being present was exalted by the M.E.Z., the Historic and Symbolic Lectures, being given respectively by Comps. D. W. Finney, and Jas. Hamer. There being no further business the Chapter was closed with the usual solemnities.

LIVERPOOL.—Temple Chapter, No. 1094.—The regular meeting of this Chapter was held at the Masonic Temple, Hope-street, on Tuesday, July 27th, when the Chapter was duly and solemnly opened by Comp. R. H. D. Johnson, M.E.Z., assisted by Comp. Pastar, as H., and Comp. Hamer, as J. After the proceedings of the previous Chapter were read and confirmed, the ballot was taken for Bro. Edward Howell, of Lodge 1094, for exaltation, who was duly elected. Comp. Robinson, P.S., then retired to examine Bro. Washington, who being found worthy, was entrusted with the pass-word, and afterwards exalted to the sublime degree of R.A.M., by Comp. Johnson, M.E.Z., assisted by the officers and companions present. During the ceremony the Historic and Symbolic Lectures were given in an able and impressive manner by Comps. Hamer and Ashmore. The proposed bye-laws were then submitted seriatim by Comp. Danson, S.E., and duly passed, after which the Chapter was solemnly closed. The Companions and visitors then adjourned to banquet, at which the usual patriotic and Masonic toasts were given and responded to.

FESTIVAL OF LODGES "THREE GRAND PRINCIPLES," 208, AND "ST. JOHN'S," 897, DEWSBURY.

On Friday, the 16th day of July, the members of these lodges united together to celebrate the festival of St. John the Baptist, at Kirkby-Overblow, near Harrogate, by the kind invitation of Bro. Mark Newsome, P.M., of the St. John's Lodge. The brethren, accompanied by their lady friends, left the Dewsbury station of the L. and N.W.R. Co., at 10.9 a.m., in three first-class saloon carriages, arriving at Pannal station, N.E.R. Co., at 12. The ladies were conveyed in waggons to the residence of Bro. Newsome, whilst the Brethren walked over the hills to the same rendezvous. Having refreshed the inner man, the Brethren assembled in the Church of England School Room, put on their Masonic costume, and marched in procession through the village to the rectory, and returned to the school room, where they put off their Masonic clothing and went to enjoy the company of the ladies, in the grounds of the rectory, the rector the Rev. Mr. Toogood having generously thrown them open upon this occasion. At 2.30 p.m., the Brethren and ladies sat down to a sumptuous banquet (provided by the hospitality of Bro. Newsome) in a spacious marquee, erected in a field adjoining the rectory; about one hundred and fifteen were present including the Rev. J. J. Toogood, Rev. Edmund Snowden, Rev. Mr. Coppleston, Mr. Hazworth, Mr. Brooke, and Mr. Matthew Todd of Bradford, the presidential chair was occupied by Bro. Benjamin Blakeley, W.M. (827), and supported by the following Brethren:—

Bros. James France, W.M. (208); Thos. Schofield, W.M. (306); Rev. Mr. Mayes, Chap. (380); Rev. Samuel Vaughan, P.P.G. Chap. (208); Rev. W. Appleyard, P.P.G. Chap. (827); Chas. Oldroyd, P.G. Treas. (208); John Booth, P.P.G.J.D. (258); John Kirk, P.P.G. Supt. of W. (827); R. R. Nelson, P.G. Sec. (208); Fawcett (258); Benjamin Oates, P.M. Sec. (208); John Armitage, P.M. Sec. (827); Mark Newsome, P.M. (827); H. J. Fearnley, P.M. (208); Joe Fox, S.W. (827); Thos. Chadwick, J.W. (827); Mark Ward, I.G. (827); A. F. E. Stiegawald, Treas. (827); Walter Walker, Purst. (827); Abraham Wilson, P.M. (827); Richard Hewitt, P.M. (827); John Tobley, P.M. (827); John Spicking, P.M. (208); Thos. Halliwell, P.M. (208); James Hunter, P.M. (208); Wm. Hemingway, P.M. (208); H. J. Crutchley, J.P., S.W. (208); John Wilson, J.D. (208); John Haigh, I.G. (208); Lee (208); Sheard (208), Senior (208), Crawshaw (208), Wilkinson (208), Johnson (208), Spedding (208), Talbot (208), Robinson (208), Watts (208), Rider (208), Ratcliffe (208), Neville (208) Alex. Millar (208), W. Machell (827), Dixon (827), J. J. Brearer (827), Thackrach (827), James Cardwell (208), Jonathan Todd (827), and J. M. Fearnside (827).

After the cloth was drawn the following toasts were proposed, "The Queen" by the W.M. (827); "H.R.H. Bro. the Prince of Wales, the Princess of Wales, and the rest of the Royal Family," by the W.M. (208); "Our National Defences," by Charles Oldroyd, P.G. Treas., responded to by Capt. Watts, and Lieut. Ilcworth; "The Visitors," proposed by the President, and responded to by the Rev. Mr. Toogood, Bro. Schofield, W.M. of the Alfred Lodge, Leeds, and Bro. John Booth, P.P.G.J.D., "Our Host" (Bro. Mark Newsome), was given by the W.M. (827), and heartily received by all present. Bro. Newsome in responding spoke of the pleasure it gave him, to see so many of the brethren and ladies, and hoped all would enjoy themselves on this occasion. The health of Mrs. Newsome and the ladies was proposed by Bro. Capt. James France, W.M. (208), and responded to by Bro. Joe Fox, in a very humorous speech.

After the toasts had come to an end, the company retired from the table, and wandered in groups about the grounds and viewed the beautiful scenery of the neighbourhood, until it was time to prepare for taking their departure, when all assembled on the lawn in front of Bro. Newsome's residence, and Bro. the Rev. W. Appleyard proposed and Bro. the Rev. Samuel Vaughan seconded, a vote of thanks to Bro. and Mrs. Newsome, for the kindness and hospitality shown this day. Bro. Newsome replied, and said that he was extremely glad that all had enjoyed themselves, and was happy in having the pleasure of receiving such a goodly number, for, if it gave as much pleasure to those assembled before him, as it gave to him he was satisfied, a vote of thanks was also given to the Rev. Mr. Toogood for his kindness in allowing them the use of his grounds; three hearty cheers, such as Englishmen and Masons can give, were given, and the company departed having enjoyed another red-letter day, and wended their way to the station arriving at Dewsbury at 10.15 p.m.

Before closing this report, reference must be made to Mrs. Newsome for her indefatigable exertions in attending to the comfort of the ladies, for whom tea was provided on the lawn; also to the kindness of Mrs. Toogood, Mrs. Schofield, and Miss Walker, for inviting the ladies to their respective residences to take tea with them.

Masonic History, Antiquities, and Bibliography.

SPECIMENS FROM A MASONIC QUARRY.

By WM. JAMES HUGHAN, P.M., No. 131, TRURO,
Honorary Member "Mather Kilwinning," Scotland; Provincial
Grand Secretary for Cornwall, &c., &c.

SPECIMEN No. 2.—THE TORPHICHEN-KILWINNING LODGE, No. 13, BATHGATE.

We have been led again to hunt out our Specimens, from reading the kind reference to our former ones in THE FREEMASON of the 24th July. The utterances of the Editor respecting "Masonic History" have our warmest sympathy, and should meet with a ready response in many a Masonic heart. We lament with him, that "There is an absolute dearth of reliable information when we endeavour to investigate the history of the operatives' fraternities in England." Why Scotland is more favourably circumstanced, and can number a score of lodges possessing minutes of their records anterior to the institution of Speculative Freemasonry, whereas England possesses but one lodge that was in existence before A.D. 1717, seems inexplicable. We know, however, that it is a fact, but why it is so, is still a fit subject for the investigation of the curious, for as yet no reasonable solution has been offered. It is equally strange that though the records of these lodges in Scotland have been made public by such a worthy brother as D. Murray Lyon, lately by Bro. W. P. Buchan (who has done good service in bringing the minutes of old lodges in Glasgow to the light, and making excerpts from Burgh Records), and other Masonic writers, yet absolutely nothing has been published anent the Lodge of Antiquity, No. 2, London, which has existed from "time immemorial," and was one of the four that instituted the Grand Lodge of England, A.D. 1717. The Editor of THE FREEMASON asks, "cannot something be done to ascertain if such documents still exist?"—(viz. Records of Operative Lodges, &c.)—"can we not bridge over the period which intervenes between the last of the Plantagenets and the first of the Stuarts, and so prove the connection of the modern Craft with the travelling stonemasons of the mediæval era?" We have attempted a little in our humble way to follow in the path so ably marked out by the Editor, and several have done much more than ourselves in the same direction, but little after all has resulted from such labours in England so far as regards the history of the operative or ancient fraternity of the Freemasons; and it was actually left to a non-Mason to publish the oldest Masonic MS. in the British Museum. Bro. Matthew Cooke, however, thanks to his untiring industry, soon followed by printing a fac-simile of the next oldest manuscript, but there are still several MSS., on Freemasonry that have never been published extant in our noble Museum. Having devoted some time to the preparation and writing of the history of the Operative Lodge of Banff, &c., we will now ask our readers attention to the Torphichen-Kilwinning Lodge, No. 13 on the Roll of the Grand Lodge of Scotland. The date of its institution is uncertain, at least we have not been able to discover when it was formed. A.D. 1707 is considered to be its date of origin, but a well-informed Mason believes it is entitled to a much greater antiquity, as he considers it was held "originally in the village of Torphichen, connected with the Knights of St. John, whose chief residence in Scotland was there. The Preceptor was Lord St. John of Torphichen, the last one being Sir James Sandilands who got a grant of all their possessions."

Perhaps Bro. Lyon, the well-known historian of mother Kilwinning, can throw some light upon this subject, as the lodge evidently hailed from that famous old Operative Storehouse of Masonry. The earliest minutes preserved do not mention the affix "Kilwinning," as the first entry simple terms the lodge "Torphichen," although it does appear on the charter from Grand Lodge of Scotland. The lodge was formed early in the eighteenth century (if not before), under the patronage of Lord Torphichen, from whom it derives its title. It continued at Mid-Caldor (where we presume it had been removed) until 1734, when it was agreed to remove the lodge to "Living-Stone-Kirk."

From the "Preamble to the original Rules of the Lodge," we glean the following facts:—The lodge continued in the same place until 1744, when the brethren from the west and north still increasing, and those to the east of Living-Stone-Kirk decreasing, it was agreed to hold the lodge one year at Living-Stone-Kirk, and two years at Bathgate, and on St. John's Day, 1754, it was agreed to by the lodge, that if the brethren from the east did not prove more numerous than the brethren from the north and west of the former place for three succeeding years, then the lodge was to be removed entirely to Bathgate. Accordingly, on St. John's Day, 1757, the roll being called over, there appeared only one member from the east of Living-Stone-Kirk, the rest of the members being from the west and north; consequently the agreement was observed, and the lodge was removed to its present abode, under the title of "Torphichen-Kilwinning Lodge, held at Bathgate," where it has since continued.

In the year 1760, the members "feued a piece of ground from the Right Honorable the Earl of Hopton," in order to build a lodge; but the funds being rather inadequate to accomplish such an undertaking, the members agreed to give half a guinea each, or six days' work gratuitously at the building. This arrangement being insufficient, money was borrowed, and in 1763 the work was finished. The lodge received a charter from the Grand Lodge of Scotland, A.D. 1763—and obtained a very distinguished position on the roll of daughter lodges.

"The members being for many years exclusively Operative Masons, Wrights, Slaters and others connected with building operations, were much exposed to accidents, hence among other causes arose the necessity or at least the great propriety of instituting and accumulating a fund for providing for their own and their succeeding brethren's wants while labouring under disease. It was thus that the members of the lodge almost unconsciously formed themselves into a Friendly Society," (Preamble to Bye-laws No. 13, A.D.) It is not more than about fifty years since the Rule of the Lodge to admit no other classes of the community as members than operative Masons and the tradesmen above alluded to, was relaxed.

The "Torphichen-Kilwinning Lodge Friendly Society," Bathgate, is held in connection with the Craft Lodge, although of course perfectly distinct from the latter as respects the financial arrangements. No one can be admitted a member of the Society "unless he has previously become a member of said Lodge, and that fact be duly certified to this Society." All the meetings are held in the lodge room, and the Rules are duly certified by the Registrar-General for Scotland.

Note.—"Expulsion from the Masonic Lodge will not necessarily infer expulsion from the Society, nor vice versa"—(Rule viii.) The dues are very light, for as late as 1803 they were only 5s. per annum. There was no annual subscription to the Lodge some little time since, and likely enough none is required now, as few lodges in Scotland pay anything beyond the fees exigible on admission.—A Bye-law of the lodge provided for the Friendly Society meeting in the lodge-room, when required, gratis.

(To be continued.)

MASONIC BAZAAR AT SKIBBEREEN.

We feel more than ordinary pleasure in drawing attention to the Bazaar for the 12th of August next, in aid of the funds for the building of a Masonic Hall in Skibbereen, a want long felt, as the Craft is rapidly progressing, and their present accommodation is quite inadequate for the increasing numbers of the ancient Lodge 15, the warrant of which was transmitted from Rossbarbery some thirty years ago. Bro. James H. Swanton has kindly appropriated the Lecture Hall, Mardyke, for the Bazaar, and has also given a subscription of £20. From all we can learn the arrangement will be a chef-d'œuvre, particularly when we record the names of the following nobility as patrons and patronesses:—Hon. J. F. Townsend, Judge of Admiralty, Earl and Countess of Bandon, Lord and Lady Carbery, Hon. Col. and Mrs. Bernard, Sir Jocelyn and Lady Coghill, Sir Henry Becher, Right Hon. Hedges Eyre Chatterton, Vice Chancellor; Thomas Somerville, D.L.; Col. and Mrs. Somerville, Sir James and Lady Cotter, J. E. Somerville, M.D., and Mrs. Somerville, J. H. Swanton and Mrs. Swanton, the O'Donovan, H. W. O'Donovan and Mrs. O'Donovan, S. N. Townsend, A. Newman, &c., &c. A number of the above patronesses are catering to render it a complete success, and that amusement may harmonize with recreation, a fashionable promenade will take place at the low entrance fee of six-pence, where archery and other suitable games will take place. We also learn the stalls will be replete with both useful and ornamental articles of various descriptions, and that there will be a lottery on the second day, of unique goods, which were sent to our office for inspection, and we pronounce them to be both valuable and beautiful. It is to be hoped the Queenstown, Cork, and Bandon Lodges will pay us a visit. They will be amply repaid by the attractiveness of the bazaar, the wild scenery of our hills and valleys, and the pretty faces of our country maidens. It is the intention of the brethren that the edifice will be an ornament to the town, and credit to the craft; not inferior to any building lately erected, a sufficient reason, that, one and all should use every effort to make the bazaar profitable by united exertions.—The Skibbereen Paper.

LORD RAVENSWORTH is busy with a general work on "Antiquity" for the Newcastle Society of Antiquarians, of which the noble lord is President.

BRO. D. G. BERRI has received a letter of thanks from the Lords of the Committee of the Council of Education of the South Kensington Museum, for his cleverly written book on "Monograms," which is placed in the library for the benefit of the art students.

Births, Marriages, and Deaths.

DEATHS.

CRUCIFIX.—On the 20th inst., at 6, the Grove, Gravesend, in her 90th year, Jane, widow of the late Bro. Robert Thomas Crucifix, M.D., who was a Past Grand Deacon of England, and Editor of "The Freemasons' Quarterly Review" for several years.

Answers to Correspondents.

CAVALIER.—We advise you to take no notice of the anonymous scribbler, who applies the offensive word "spurious" to an order of undoubted status in the annals of chivalry. Ex parte statements of that kind are estimated at their proper value by all impartial minds, and may be safely ignored.

BOOKS RECEIVED.

"Bard and Authors of Cleveland and South Durham," by Bro. Geo. Markham Twedjell. Published by the Author, at Stokesley.

"Proceedings of the Grand Lodge of Louisiana, New Orleans, 1869."

"The Craftsman," Hamilton, Canada.

"The Masonic Monthly," Boston, U.S.A.

"The American Freemason," Cincinnati, Ohio.

The Freemason,

SATURDAY, JULY 31, 1869.

THE FREEMASON is published on Saturday Mornings in time for the early trains.
The price of THE FREEMASON is Twopence per week; quarterly subscription (including postage) 3s. 3d.
Annual Subscription, 12s. Subscriptions payable in advance.
All communications, letters, &c., to be addressed to the Editor, 3 & 4, Little Britain, E.C.
The Editor will pay careful attention to all MSS. entrusted to him, but cannot undertake to return them unless accompanied by postage stamps.

SPURIOUS MASONIC BODIES.

IN last week's FREEMASON we inserted a letter from Brother J. Fletcher Brennan, editor of the American Freemason in which our able confrere expresses his dissent from the views we enunciated with reference to the claims of the soi-disant Supreme Council of Louisiana.

Brother Brennan appears to be under the impression that our opinions were formed from a one-sided and prejudiced statement of the case, and that our article was written mainly in the interest of the Councils of the Ancient and Accepted Rite for the Northern and Southern Jurisdiction of the United States.

We regret that Brother Brennan should deem us so oblivious of our paramount duty as a journalist as to ignore the manly and Masonic principle of fair play, and we also deplore the assumption that our remarks were made at the instance of Brother Goodall, or any other member of the Thirty-Third degree in America, or elsewhere.

As a justification of our course of action, and in vindication of our views, we must therefore recapitulate certain circumstances which have a bearing upon the subject under discussion.

On the 31st May, 1801, the first or Mother Supreme Council of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite was opened at Charleston, South Carolina, by Bros. John Mitchell and Frederick Dalcho, and in the year 1813, a similar body was created for the Northern States of America, under the auspices of the Southern Council. We have little or nothing favorable to state with regard to the legality of the establishment of these Masonic Jurisdictions; indeed, a strong impression prevails that their foundation was based upon a superstructure of falsehood and fraud; and therefore, we shall hardly be suspected of any undue partiality for the system which they represent. But whatever its origin may have been, the so-called Scottish Rite has found favor in the sight of many brethren who are willing to condone the errors of its founders and to forget the myths circulated respecting Frederick the Great, in their admiration for one or two degrees—such as the Rote Croix and the Kadosh, which are unquestionably beautiful.

A Supreme Council of the Rite having become un fait accompli, and certain laws having been promulgated for the government of its members, it will be generally admitted that such laws ought to be considered binding upon all who recognise the validity of the authority from whence they emanated.

According to the Constitutions of the Ancient and Accepted Rite, only one Supreme Council, consisting of nine members, can exist in each nation, with the exception of the United States of America, where two are permitted.

The State of Louisiana was formerly a French territory, and a Council of the 33° appears to have been legitimately constituted therein.

Upon the cession of Louisiana to the United States, brethren who preferred working Freemasonry under the York Rite in due time established a Grand Lodge of Master Masons, and were duly recognised as a legal body by every State Grand Lodge in the American Union.

The Grand Lodge of Louisiana finding that the Supreme Council of the 33° exercised the right of making Masons, and Chartering Lodges in the Craft degrees, entered into a treaty with the latter potentates, in the year 1833, by which the power of constituting and administering Symbolic Lodges throughout the limits of the State was vested in the Grand Lodge alone.

After this period, if our information be correct, the Supreme Council of the Ancient and Accepted Rite had become virtually defunct, when a Brother James Foulhouze revived it, and re-assumed the right to constitute Symbolic Lodges.

Foulhouze was disowned by the French Masonic authorities, and we believe ultimately expelled from the Order, and the Council again fell into abeyance until a certain M. Chassaingac rehabilitated it in all its former pretensions, including the power of Initiating Freemasons and Chartering Lodges.

Against M. Chassaingac's intrusion the Grand Lodge of Louisiana protests, and we contend, with justice; for if his Council is the legitimate successor of the Council erected under the French authority, it is bound by the treaty of 1833 to respect the rights and privileges of the Craft Grand Lodge, and has no valid claim to exercise Jurisdiction over Master Masons' Lodges; and if it is a self-constituted body, it must be evident that it has no locus standi whatever, and must be considered a spurious and irregular branch of the Masonic Institution.

We cannot agree with Brother Brennan in the distinction he draws between the Grand Lodge of England and Grand Lodges in other Kingdoms or States. The laws of Freemasonry are universal, and are no more monarchical in England than they are in Switzerland or America. Looking to the interests of the Craft itself, we conceive that the existence of two conflicting and jarring Masonic Jurisdictions in one country or dominion, is not only a scandal to the Fraternity, but an injury to society at large, and to human progress and development generally throughout the world.

The fact that Chassaingac admits colored men to the privileges of Freemasonry, although we approve of their admission per se, must not be permitted to weigh with us in his favor, or induce us to overlook his invasion of the rights secured to the Grand Lodge of Louisiana by a solemn treaty; nor should we under any circumstances be disposed to support the pretensions of any Supreme Council of the 33° to dominate over Craft Lodges.

The question, we readily admit, has little interest for English brethren if viewed solely in reference to the working of the so-called High grades, but it has also a broader and more comprehensive aspect.

In stating deliberately our conclusions upon the subject, we apprehend that they will be found more in accordance with the opinions expressed by Brother Brennan than he is at present disposed to allow, and if our views are based upon erroneous data, we hope our worthy confrere will correct them.

We are strongly of opinion that the authorities of the Grand Orient of France have acted injudiciously in recognising Chassaingac, after having condemned Foulhouze, and we believe that the Grand Lodge of Louisiana, and the other governing bodies in the United States would have merited the contempt of the Cosmopolitan Craft if they had tacitly submitted to the arrogant and unwarrantable assumptions of the pseudo-Supreme Council at New Orleans.

Even from the Ancient and Accepted Rite point of view, we are unable to discern how a Supreme Council can be legally established in any single state of the American Federation, under the existing laws of the Rite.

If the present Constitutions are impolitic, let them be abrogated in a proper manner, but until then, they should be respected by all who owe, or profess to owe, allegiance to those Statutes.

We are therefore unable to side with the Grand Orient of France in the position it has chosen to take upon the question, and we consider that the American Grand Lodges have done wisely, and will, in resisting so gross a violation of their rights and privileges as rulers of the Craft.

Obituary.

BRO. JOHN IRVINE HAZLETT, W.M., LODGE 69, LONDONDERRY.

The members of the Craft in the neighbourhood of his mother lodge, and friends generally, will long regret the Brother who on Thursday, the 15th inst., at the early age of 31 years, has passed away from among them. He had but a short time since filled the chair of his lodge, No. 69, and also held office in the Provincial Grand Master's Lodge, No. 52.

Bro. Hazlett was a young man of many personal and amiable attractions; to a prepossessing exterior he added a well-cultivated mind, and a gentleness of manner which never forsook him made him universally beloved. He had only about a month since succeeded to his late father's estate, and in that short period followed him to the grave. He succumbed to an illness under which he had been suffering for some years past, and fell a victim to decline, though no apprehension was entertained of so sudden a termination to its course during the week previous to his death.

The funeral procession was largely extended by the carriages of the gentry of the surrounding district, and proceeded at an early hour from the family residence, Carrownaff (a beautiful spot on the banks of Lough Foyle) towards Londonderry, from which it is distant about 16 miles. On arriving within about a mile and a half of the town it was met by about fifty of the brethren, attired in black with crape armlets, and sprigs of acacia in their breasts, but wearing no other emblems. They walked three abreast, taking their places immediately after the carriages of the relatives of deceased, till the procession arrived at the graveyard gate of the Chapel of Ease. On reaching this spot the coffin was removed from the hearse, and borne by four of the Brotherhood to its last resting-place. An appropriate address was delivered by the Rev. William McClure, and each brother, before retiring, cast his sprig of acacia into the open grave.

UNITED GRAND LODGE OF ENGLAND.

A special meeting of Grand Lodge, pursuant to the notice inserted in last week's FREEMASON, was held at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, on Wednesday, the 28th inst., at 7 precisely, for the purpose of disposing of Appeals.

The throne was occupied by the R.W. Bro. the Right Hon. the Earl De Grey and Ripon, (Lord President of Her Majesty's Council), Deputy Grand Master, in the unavoidable absence of the Grand Master. His lordship was supported by the R.W. and Right Hon. the Earl of Limerick, P.G.M. for Bristol, as Deputy Grand Master. R.W. Bros. Henry Murray, D.G.M. for China, as S.G.W.; J. G. Dodson, M.P., J.G.W.; and J. Havers, P.G.W.; Revs. T. F. T. Ravenshaw and C. J. Martyn, G. Chaplains; J. Ll. Evans, P.B. Gen. Purposes; J. Hervey, G. Sec.; S. Leith Tomkins and J. Cooper Forster, G. Deacons; J. Udall, J. Savage, G. Cox, H. Browne, B. Head, J. M. Clabon, P.G.D.'s; A. W. Woods, G.D.C.; C. C. Dumas, A.G.D.C.; J. Nunn, G.S.B.; T. Mason, P.G.S.B.; W. Ough, G.P.; J. Brett, A.G.P.; J. Smith P.G.P.; R. Spencer, P.G.S.; F. Hockley, P.G.S.; H. G. Buss, P.M., 27; R. W. Little, P.M., 975; J. Coutts, P.M., 27; M. Edersheim, W.M., 967; H. W. Hemsworth, W.M., 190; G. Townsend, W.M., 820; J. E. Saunders, P.G.S.; W. M. Bywater, P.M., 19; C. Bennett, P.M., 25; H. Dicketts, W.M., 25; F. B. Davage, W.M., 167; F. Kemble, P.M., 190; H. Carvill, P.M., 201; J. Chamberlain, W.M., 205; J. J. West, W.M., 548; F. Robinson, P.M., 259; J. Henderson, P.M., 700; J. B. A. Wolpert, W.M., 720; T. Bartlett, S.W., 813; C. E. Thompson, J.W., 1158; C. A. Cottebrune, W.M., 1257; R. W. Marsh, W.M., 1196; J. Stevens, P.M., 720.

The Grand Lodge was opened in due form, and the summons convening the meeting was then read by the G. Secretary.

Bro. HAVERS, P.G.M., moved that as the appeal of Bro. J. Gonzalez was short, it be read for the information of the brethren, which was agreed to.

Bro. HAVERS then said, that in the absence of the G. Registrar, and having had the advantage of that able officer's opinion and council upon all the appeals, he should throw himself upon the indulgence of Grand Lodge, while he gave them as briefly as possible the conclusions which had been arrived at upon the several cases.

Bro. HAVERS recapitulated certain circumstances which had occurred in the Royal Phoenix Lodge, No. 911, and out of which the present appeal mainly arose. Bro. Gonzalez had been suspended by the D.G.M. for Trinidad, for his share in those transactions, and his suspension had been confirmed by the Grand Lodge of England, until due submission should have been made. A letter from Bro. Gonzalez to the D.G.M. was then read, and Bro. Havers concluded his lucid and exhaustive synopsis of the case by remarking that although the letter of the suspended brother did not contain a specific acknowledgment of his faults, it was couched in respectful language, and he, Bro. Havers, would therefore submit a resolution to the following effect for the adoption of Grand Lodge:—That in consideration of the long period, during which Bro. Gonzalez had been suspended, his submission be accepted, and that he be reinstated in his former Masonic privileges.

Bro. EVANS, President of the Board of General Purposes, seconded the resolution, which was carried nemine contradicente.

Bro. HAVERS then proceeded to state the substance of the second appeal, which was that of Bro. Antonio G. Julia, against his alleged suspension by the D.G. Master for Trinidad. It appeared that in consequence of the D.G.M. having summoned the Treasurer of the Royal Phoenix Lodge to produce his books, the lodge took offence, and at a certain meeting unanimously resolved to return their warrant to Bro. D. Hart, the D.G.M. Bro. Julia and the other brethren of the lodge were then very properly prohibited from visiting other lodges in the district more than once during their secession from the Craft, although it also appeared that in Bro. Julia's case, he had been admitted to the D.G. Lodge as a P.D.G. Officer, and upon Bro. Havers' motion it was resolved that Bro. Julia's appeal could not be entertained, inasmuch as there was no evidence that he had ever been suspended, and moreover, the D.G.M. distinctly denied that such supposed suspension had ever taken place.

Bro. HAVERS then entered into the case of the Royal Phoenix Lodge itself, the warrant of which had been returned to the D.G.M., and intimated that as a better feeling now prevailed amongst the brethren in Trinidad he should move that the D.G. Master be empowered to restore the warrant within six months, upon proper submission being made by the brethren, and there being reasonable ground for belief that the lodge would be better conducted in future.

Bro. EVANS seconded the proposition.

Bro. H. MURRAY, D.G. Master for China, opposed it on the ground that it would be unworthy of Grand Lodge to ask a number of contumacious brethren to take back a warrant which had been surrendered.

Bro. F. ADLARD, P.M., 7, concurred with Bro. Murray's observations, and Bro. E. Cox, P.M., 657, also questioned the legality of reviving a warrant which was virtually extinct.

Bro. HAVERS explained that he had considered the question with the eye of a judge, and not with that of an advocate; he had no personal feeling whatever in the case, and left the matter entirely in the hands of Grand Lodge.

Bro. J. SAVAGE, P.G.D., objected to the proposition as he considered the lodge defunct.

Bro. J. MASON, P.G.S.B., followed in a similar strain, and thought the warrant ought not to be restored.

Bro. J. M. CLABON, P.G.D., supported Bro. Havers' motion, as a better feeling had been exhibited, and it would be advisable to afford the brethren an opportunity of retracing their steps.

Bro. J. NUNN, G.S.B., called attention to the statement that all the members of the lodge had concurred in the surrender of the warrant—all the members who attended that particular meeting might have done so, but if there had been even only one absentee, who had not been consulted, it could not be said that the action of the lodge was unanimous. He supported the motion.

Bro. MURRAY, still objecting, Bro. Havers further explained that the object of the resolution was to empower not to direct, the D.G.M., to restore the warrant, and in order to temper justice with mercy he adhered to the resolution.

After some remarks from Bro. S. L. TOMKINS, G.S.D., the resolution was put and carried by a considerable majority.

The appeals by Bros. Brown and Patterson against sentences passed upon them by the St. George's Lodge, No. 440, Montreal, were then entertained.

From the evidence adduced, it appeared that in a conversation held in the street, Bro. Brown made some remarks respecting the conduct of the W.M. towards his father, whose funeral was then taking place, and Bro. Patterson was guilty of hearing Bro. Brown's remarks. Upon this a Brother complained to the lodge, who suspended Bro. Brown for twelve months, and severely censured Bro. Patterson. It was unanimously resolved that the action of the Lodge was illegal, and the resolution was ordered to be entered on the minutes of No. 440, and the sentences were directed to be erased therefrom accordingly.

The Grand Lodge, which was very thinly attended, was then closed with the usual formalities.

Mulum in Parbo, or Masonic Notes and Queries.

Queries.—1. Does it make any difference to a candidate which Masonic Rite he is initiated in, whether York, French, A. & A., &c.?—2. Must a brother belong to some lodge to be recognised as a Mason by the Craft, even supposing his life be spent travelling about?—ASPIRANS.

When the Master of a Scotch Lodge dies or removes during the year, is it competent to elect a new Master immediately? If not, who are the proper parties to carry on the Lodge? Quote authorities. The laws of Grand Lodge only authorize an "annual election," but are quite silent on a temporary one. Could this silence be construed into sanctioning negatively an election at, say the present time?—ELEHORNAL.

The Labarum.—I beg to thank "R. W. L." for his kind remarks at page 42, and can assure him that, so far as circumstances will allow me the necessary time, I shall feel great pleasure in assisting in the elucidation of any masonic subject I take up; and although I feel bound to differ occasionally from some of my brethren or fellow-masonic students, it is only because my views of the interests of truth and historical consistency compel me so to do.—LEO.

Masonic History.—Allow me to reproduce the following under the above heading:—"We want more light as to the transactions of the Fraternity during the reigns of the Stuarts, and we desire to find traces of its existence in England at a still earlier stage of our national history." Let those who are able and willing contribute to this desirable result. What we want are facts and records, not "Celestial Mysteries" and humbug. "Leo" and others such are worth all the "New Lights" put together.—RES NON VERBA.

The Rosicrucians.—I should be glad to learn the aim and object of the society of this name recently established in London. Does it claim any descent from the old association? The traditional history of the Rose Croix degree, under Baron Ranelagh, as given at Nottingham, referred to the Rosicrucian brotherhood. The chief promulgator of the opinions of this sect in A.D. 1300 was Raymond Lull; from him they passed to Theophrastus Paracelsus Bombast, who styles himself "Monarch of Philosophers, Prince of Spagyrista, Chief of Astronomers, Paradoxical Physician, and Grand Master of Mechanical Secrets." Cornelius Agrippa, about A.D. 1509, belonged to a secret association holding like views, and the revived brotherhood published its existence in England about 1630. The "Chemical Nuptials of Christian Rosy Cross," seems to convey allusions both to Craft and Arch Masonry, and the Alchemists used the symbol now upon our Arch pedestal. Ashmole is the first Freemason and last Rosicrucian we read of in England, but bitter allegations of Rosicrucianism were brought against Masonry between 1722 and 1731. The present brotherhood may find useful employment in trying to ascertain how far the R.C. brotherhood used and adapted Masonic organization.—JOHN YARKER, Manchester.

NARROW ESCAPE of Bro. Sir F. A. Gore Ouseley, Bart, P.G. Chaplain of England. As this esteemed brother was passing an ironmongers shop in the High Street, Hereford, a few days since, a heavy rake which was suspended above the shop, suddenly fell and, grazed the Rev. gentleman's back so closely as to rend his coat to a considerable extent, fortunately without inflicting any personal injury. The rake was a heavy implement, and fell with such force upon the pavement as to fracture the stone, and damage the front of the building.

PAPERS ON MASONRY.

By A. LEWIS.

XVII.—MASONRY IN FRANCE.

"Heureux l'homme qui n'a jamais commis une seule faute! Qu'il jouisse de sa vertu; mais qu'il sache apprécier les faiblesses des autres; et qu'il ne ressouvienne qu'il ne peut se vanter de l'estime publique."—Max Esarte, ou Le Fou qui vend de la Sagesse. Par M. Coffin-Rony, Paris, 1807. Vol. I. p. 45.

"Happy the man who has never committed a single fault! Let him rejoice in his virtue; but let him know how to excuse the weaknesses of others; and remember that repentance restores us to public esteem."—My Escapes, or The Fool who sells Wisdom. By M. Coffin-Rony, Paris, 1807. Vol. I. p. 45.

"And in those times there was no peace to him that went out, nor to him that came in, but great vexations were upon all the inhabitants of the countries. And nation was destroyed of nation, and city of city: for God did vex them with all adversity. Be ye strong, therefore, and let not your hands be weak: for your work shall be rewarded."—2 Chronicles xv, 5, 6, 7.

Masonry, in the country governed so long with a fictitious success, the glory of which is tinsel, and its endurance a dream, seems in a somewhat darkened condition. It is all very well to send in satisfactory bulletins, for of this kind were some recently published documents by an eminent Ruler of Nations, who was conspicuous alike for a series of daring successes, one great injustice towards his first wife, and one final and irrevocable failure. The Bulletin and Order of the Day is not a difficult, but a dangerous style to adopt. I fear it is like to prove so at the present time in reference to Masonry in France.

Some very few days ago, the Masons of France, in the presumed security of their Grand Orient, met to consider what action should be taken as to rebutting an insult levelled at them by the Pope—or rather his advisers. The Grand Master, General Mellinet, was undoubtedly accepted by order of the Autocrat of France—who, in the words of a facetious contemporary, has apparently "lowered the curb," but really done no more than try a last failing attempt to save himself from political ruin—this Grand Master dissolved a meeting of honest and honourable men, in a manner as Imperial as it was Imperially ordered.

It was truly a happy day for distracted France, when the nation, swayed by Jesuitical influences, allowed a certain gentleman to moderate a Republic gradually into an Empire. Of course Baron Haussmann could, if instructed, pull Paris down to employ the artisans to build their own prison. The Grand Orient of France bowed to the storm, warmed the adder, and it stings.

This is natural to the adder, but it cannot be said to be natural in Masonry. If no protest can be forwarded; if even a Papal non possumus cannot be elicited, where is French Masonry at the end of the conflict? It was right for the adder to sting the traveller, because the traveller should not have been so foolish as to have let him in.

Without alluding to many matters in connection with the action of Masonry within the last twenty years in France, which would point to its gradual betrayal, and therefore decadence, it is only sufficient to consider present facts. Where there is a strong Government, but no fair open Government, no real good can be effected. The Government of France is very strong and very secret. Its cunning has also made use of the usual non-interference doctrine professed by Freemasons, to utterly shackle that noble body. How many eminent and agreeable Masons in France are well-known police spies? Or, rather, how many are not?

And that very numerous body, as they are at the mercy of unscrupulous and irresponsible chiefs who believe and act upon a motto which becomes worse than a blasphemy when used by them ("Ad majoram Dei Gloriam") are they not powerless? My friends, the days of the Inquisition are not passed away. The principle has only become more powerful, because centralized. Far be it from me to revive unpleasant reminiscences, but certain persons, for certain acts have been thrown out of New York windows. Hence it was that I gave precedence to a motto from a French book, a faithful translation of which has been appended by me, published when the events of 1806 to 1812 were being meditated and accomplished.

Those whom it may concern had better look to it. Grand Masters of Masons, desiring, as they should, a peaceful, social, scientific association, should beware of oppressing those to whom the Tyler's toast now so aptly applies. "Be ye strong therefore, and let not your minds be weak: for your work shall be rewarded."

The truth, however, is that if you let any institution whatsoever alone, and free to act according to its own proclaimed standards, it will not turn against the ruling power, however bad that may be; it is the meddling pertinacity of the Jesuits that draw upon them the opposition they most righteously receive. It is well-known in certain circles that the abortive Northern Italian Revolution of 1848-9—not that of Rome in the same year—was artfully fomented by the Jesuits, just as the last Polish Insurrection was caused by them in order to complicate matters with the Eastern Church. They furnished means by which to place Louis Napoleon in the Presidential chair, and so lightly do they esteem him, that they would not hesitate to pluck him down if it suited any purpose of their own.

It is somewhat remarkable, but appears to be a law of history, that the founders of such institutions are almost without exception amiable and well-meaning men—but, as the conceiver of a great idea alone can grasp its entirety—so those who succeed to it warp it selfishly to their purposes. Masonry is the only institution which has been true to itself; and to those who respect it, it is a great matter of regret to see it oppressed in countries where its quiet influence is humanizing mankind, and forming a bond of union which overcomes racial antipathies, and neutralizes the influence of political animosity. But, I repeat, we must not blame the brethren of enslaved countries if their Masonic action be tinged with political and patriotic motives. It is neither wise for the Emperor, whose Imperial robes are covered with wasps—not bees—to order Freemasons to sit down in silence, nor is it even politic. If he choose to "remember that repentance restores us to public esteem," he will act fairly and expel the Jesuits from France; it is only fair if he muzzles the Freemasons.

Never was a time when the biblical text I have chosen for this paper was more aptly illustrated. In these days, amidst astounding political and social convulsions, there can be no peace to him that goeth out, nor to him that cometh in. Great vexation is, truly, upon the inhabitants of the countries. We have seen agitations in all parts of the world—poverty and disease are amongst us, but from the alleviation of these the Fraternity of Charity is not debarred. Why then stop their action when it is absurdly and cruelly assailed by those who ought to know better?

There is an ominous rest among the armed hosts of Europe, portending violent struggles between these serried multitudes, but the Brotherhood of Peace is repressed! This can never last. "Nation was destroyed of nation, and city of city," and so it will be again, methinks, if the only intermediators who teach science, kindness, straightforward labour, and a love of truth, are thrust out and humiliated.

But I do not suspect that Freemasons and other secret societies—not enjoying the Papal or Imperial favour—will desist from their objects. At any rate, some are free to fight against the paralyzing influence both of Popery and Jesuitism. While their unbroken chain of members exist—and it is not likely that even the Jesuits can prevail over that—the battle will be continued for the good of man, and the advancement of his mental welfare.

Should the Emperor desire to be "healed," he will expel the Jesuits, dethrone the miserable Pope, and fulfil that specious declaration at Bordeaux, L'empire c'est la Paix. But?

CRYPTONYMUS.

On Sunday morning last, a most interesting and instructive sermon for the benefit of that excellent institution, the School for Boys, at Wood Green, was preached at the church of St. Helen's, Bishopsgate, by the Vicar the Rev. J. E. Cox, M.A., F.S.A., Past Grand Chaplain (who wore the riband and jewel of a P.G.C.) from Genesis chap. 4, part of verse 9, "Am I my brother's keeper?" from which sentence the Rev. Bro. most eloquently drew a very beautiful moral on the subject of brotherly love, and brotherly duties, and in a most able manner introduced and applied in an effective style many of the beautiful sentences of morality and the various virtues and duties made use of and inculcated in the several ceremonies and lectures of our lodges and chapters, but as the Very Worshipful and Rev. Brother's sermon is to be published and sold for the benefit of the school funds, we forbear to dilate further upon it, but strongly recommend every Brother Mason and Brother Christian to purchase it, and read the instructive lesson upon that most beautiful of all Masonic and Christian virtues, Universal Charity, inculcated in it. We regret to add that the attendance of the Brotherhood was not so numerous as could have been wished, but those worthy Brothers and friends who did attend, contributed very liberally. This venerable and beautiful old church is well worth a visit, the choral services are exceedingly well conducted.

FREEMASONRY VERSUS MASONRY.

In THE FREEMASON for April 10th, page 6, I made a few remarks upon the above subject, which I was glad to find met the approval of some of our Masonic students, and since then my ideas on the antiquity there expressed have only been deepened by time; at least, as yet, I have seen nothing to change them, but rather otherwise, for I now have to assert that I know, as yet, of no substantial evidence of the existence of our Freemasonry as a Speculative Institution previous to the "revival," as it is called, of A.D. 1717. Further, our Masonic histories (?)—with the exception of Findell's; few I have seen are of much worth, generally speaking—make much of the circumstance of Elias Ashmole becoming a member of the Masonic body in 1646, but I am not inclined to allow that he was then made a Freemason as we now understand the term, for I consider that to have been impossible; because so far as I can judge, Freemasonry was not then in existence. Ashmole therefore was simply made a Freeman of the Masons' Society; that is, that he being admitted, thereby became free of it, and was therefore entitled to the privileges and honours of membership; but that merely made him a Free-mason, just as joining the weavers would have made him a Free-weaver, or a Freeman of the Weavers' Society. The London Weavers are very old, having, it is said, been chartered by Henry II. in 1164.

Another idea I have formed, is that Freemasonry somehow was a product of the Reformation. It was not, so far as I know, in existence during the Reformation struggles as an institution, nor in Shakespeare's time, or we would be able to trace, or hear about it. Then, had Freemasonry really occupied the position (previous to 1717) which our notions have given it, how comes it that amongst the twelve "Great Livery Companies" of London, the Masons are non est? and are so far back amongst the "Companies" in precedence as No. 90? Then when in the time of Edward III.—1327 to 1377—many of the trade fraternities were incorporated, the King joined one of them, not the Masons, but the Merchant Tailors, or as they were then designated the "Linen Armourers."

About this time all artificers and people of mysteries had each to choose his own mystery, which ever after had to be kept by.

Honour to whom honour is due, therefore if the "revivalists" of 1717 were the real founders of Freemasonry they are entitled to the honour; they may have used an old site, but their building was new, and of materials which the site had never before upheld. To call Ashmole the founder of Freemasonry—as Chamber's Encyclopedia says—is therefore a mistake. As I observed before, Operative Masonry is one thing and Freemasonry another, and at present I know of no real evidence of the existence of Freemasonry previous to the second decade of the 18th century; however, I am quite open to be set right if I be wrong. Only substantial proof must be forthcoming, and—let Truth triumph. LEO.

In Part I. of "Life and Fashion," published by James Watson, 334, Strand, price 6d., there is a portrait of the Earl of Zetland as Grand Master of the Freemasons of England.

The death is announced of Mr. Edward Richardson, the sculptor, at the age of fifty-seven. He was the restorer of the effigies of what are called the Knight Templars in the Temple Church, and of the recumbent effigy of the Earl of Powis at Welshpool.

The Hon. James Ludovic, the Master of Lindsay, was married on the 22nd inst. to Miss Wilbraham, daughter of Colonel Edward Bootle Wilbraham, of the Scots Fusilier Guards, at St. George's, Hanover-square. At the dejeuner afterwards there were present the Earl and Countess of Derby, Earl Crawford, Lord Skelmersdale, Lord Stanley, Lord and Lady Lindsey, and Lady Adela Mary Wilbraham. Bro. Lindsay is a member of the Lodge of Harmony, No. 255, and a zealous Mason.

In our report of the Festival of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Kent, last week, we omitted to mention the interesting fact, that on investing Bro. Turtle (W.M. 184) with the collar of Prov. Grand Supt. of Works, the R.W. Grand Master presented him, on behalf of the lodge over which he presides, with a centenary jewel, to be worn by the W.M. of the lodge for the time being, the Chatham United Lodge of Benevolence having completed the centenary of its consecration.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS. — Diseases and casualties incidental to youth may be safely treated by the use of these excellent medicaments according to the printed directions affixed to each box and pot. Nor is this Ointment applicable alone to external ailments; conjointly with the pills it exercises the most salutary influence in checking inflammations situated in the interior of the body. When rubbed upon the chest and back it gives the most sensible relief in asthma, bronchitis, pleurisy and threatening consumption. Holloway's remedies are especially serviceable in liver and stomach complaints. For the cure of bad legs, all sorts of wounds, sores, and likewise scrofula and scabulous affections, this ointment produces a cooling and soothing feeling most acceptable to the sufferer. — ADVT.

SUPREME COUNCIL, NEW YORK.

REPORT OF HLL. BRO. ALBERT O. GOODALL, GRAND REPRESENTATIVE, ON FOREIGN RELATIONS.

To the Supreme Council of Sov. Gr. Ins. Gen. of the 33rd and last degree Ancient Accepted Rite, for the Northern Masonic Jurisdiction, U.S.A.

PORTUGAL—CONTINUED.

THE GRAND ORIENT LUSITANO,

From information which I had received from other Jurisdictions, also from the regular Masonic Bodies at Lisbon, that the said Gr. Orient was irregular and spurious, induced me to make a careful investigation in regard to their claims and organization; for this purpose I called on His Excellency, the Conde de Paraty, who holds the position of Gr. Master, and informed him of my Masonic authority, mission, and desire to obtain authentic information relative to all Masonic Bodies, for the purpose of establishing fraternal relations. This gentleman received and treated me, during my stay at Lisbon, with marked attention and courtesy which I will ever retain in pleasing remembrance, but in regard to his Masonic claims he totally failed to produce any evidence that would entitle him to be acknowledged as a Mason, or the so-called Grand Orient Lusitano, a Masonic Body. He freely and candidly admitted to me the glaring defects of what he understood of Masonry as it appears to exist under his authority, and expressed an earnest desire for more "light, information, and union among his Brethren." While strictly avoiding, with such a Body, any Masonic intercourse, I deemed it proper to have some evidence that would enable our Sup. Body to decide understandingly, and for that purpose I addressed to him the following communication:—

Lisbon, August 6th, 1868.

To His Excellency Conde de Paraty.

Dear Sir,—In addition to the documents received from you this morning, and according to our verbal understanding, you will please favor me, at your earliest convenience, with the following information:—

1st. When, by whom, and at what place, were you initiated into what you claim to be the mysteries of Freemasonry?

2nd. When and by what authority did you organize or join with the society styling themselves the Grand Orient Lusitano, and claiming to be a regular Masonic Body?

3rd. Under what Masonic Rite do you or they work, and what degrees do you or they confer?

4th. If any regular foreign Masonic Grand Bodies have recognized the Grand Orient Lusitano, and if so, the names of the same, with certified copies of such recognition?

5th. How many Lodges now compose or work under authority of the Grand Orient Lusitano, and the total number of members?

By communicating to me the foregoing particulars and any other information you may deem necessary, and forwarding the same to my address in New York City, U. S., they will receive careful attention, and be properly presented to the Sup. Con. for the Northern Masonic Jurisdiction of the U. S. for their consideration and decision, of which a reply will be duly communicated to you.

With very kind regards, I have the pleasure to remain,
Most respectfully yours,
A. G. GOODALL.

Soon after my return I received the following letter:—

Lisbon, 30th of August, 1868.

Dear Sir,—In reply to your letter of the 6th inst., which you addressed to me in continuation of the conversation that we had, and desiring to oblige you, I have to say to you that I was received in the Respectable Lodge "Tolerancia a Regeneradora," with the formalities which the General Statutes of the Order recommend.

I was elected Gr. Master by the vote of my Brethren, as it is customary to practice among all the Orients, and in consequence I addressed myself to the Grand Orient of France, which, on the 18th of November, recognized the Grand Orient Lusitano as the only one legally constituted in the Kingdom of Portugal. Up to this time the Grand Orient Lusitano has relations with that Orient constantly.

The Rite which predominates is the French, there being no Orient whatever in the Scottish Rite.

I have now the satisfaction of sending you the following:—

1st. Relation of the Lodges of the Grand Orient Lusitano, the numbers which are wanting are Lodges 9.

2nd. Our constitution lately approved.

3rd. Discourse at the opening of the Grand Lodge and its reply.

4th. List of the dignitaries of the Gr. Orient Lusitano for this year.

5th. Discourse of the Venerable of the Respectable Lodge Cosmopolite.

In view of this I judge your desires will be satisfied and you may believe that I am ready to give you whatever information you need from here, as much for the good of our August Order as in being of particular service.

I am with satisfaction, respectfully yours,

Signed, CONDE DE PARATY.

The following extract from their Constitution appears to be their only authority for constituting a Grand Masonic Body:—

TRANSLATION.

To the Glory of the Sup. Arch. of the Universe.
To all Masons on the surface of the globe.

H. S. U.

"The Grand Diet, constituent of the Grand Orient Lusitano, extraordinarily convoked and regularly constituted and formed under the geometric point only known by the sons V. L., in a place very bright very hidden and entirely inaccessible to the sight of the profane, where reign only fraternal peace, love, and the good of the Order.

"Considering that the decree of its convocation promulgated by the Supreme power, imposes upon it the mission of arranging, discussing and decreeing the Constitution which should govern the same Grand Orient.

"Considering that the convenience of the Order requires that the code should be founded on the most liberal principles, there being guaranteed the full liberty of the Lodges of the Circle and the entire independence of superior bodies.

"Considering that the prosperity of the Grand Orient Lusitano depends essentially upon its definitive and complete organization.

"And having in view that during the discussion there were pronounced freely the opinions of the legitimate and natural representatives of the Lodges of the Circle which assisted at the labors of the Grand Constituent Diet"

Decrees then follow the articles of their Constitution, and are dated January 31st, 1868.

The want of satisfactory replies from the Conde de Paraty to my questions, his apparent want of knowledge relative to the history and actual condition of Masonry in Portugal, especially the Ancient Accepted Rite (Scottish), the admitted informality of their entire proceedings, together with the other evidences herewith submitted, warrant me in believing that all regular Masonic Grand Bodies must declare the so-called Grand Orient Lusitano to be irregular, spurious and clandestine.

It is further asserted by the Fraternity at Lisbon that the Conde de Paraty was not regularly initiated, but received the degrees by communication from an expelled Mason. Copy of the decree of said expulsion I transmit herewith. Their recognition by the Gr. Orient of France cannot justly be used as an argument for their legality, as it is a well-known fact in the Masonic world that the Grand Orient of France generally recognizes every so-called Grand Body that applies to them, without investigating the facts, and arrogating to themselves a supremacy of opinion in such matters without deigning to be guided by the knowledge and co-operation of those with whom they are in fraternal alliance.

There are two Independent Lodges professing to work in the Ancient Accepted Rite (Scottish) under the Visconde Soares Bramo. They are generally known as a military club, and have no relations with any parties except the Lusitanos, and claim to have obtained their authority from Montezuma, of Brazil, about 1842, who was an expelled Mason.

A number of Lodges, under the name of Masonic Federation, organized without authority at various times, and only having intercourse with the Grand Orient Lusitano, who, being in the same irregular position, co-operate with any and all such assemblies.

There are also several isolated Lodges working independent as a political and pecuniary speculation, making no claim to any regular Masonic authority.

Such is the brief but correct history and present condition of Masonry in Portugal, which I obtained after a careful and laborious investigation, having only in view as a compensation an earnest desire to give reliable information to the Fraternity at large, and thus enable them to act knowingly, and have intercourse only with the regular Masonic authority in that Kingdom.

SPAIN,

that has so long been under the barbarous rule of ignorance and priestly despotism, gives no brighter or better historical record than Portugal, as the tyrannical proceedings and inhuman murders during the powerful sway of the Inquisition, and the hatred of the Jesuits, priestly power and influence of later periods, have effectually prevented Freemasonry from maintaining any fixed organization in that country.

The earliest reliable record of the introduction of the Order in Spain was about 1727, when Lodges were established at Gibraltar by authority of the Gr. Lodge of England, and a Gr. Lodge was soon after established at Madrid, but its existence was short, as the edict of a papal bull was vindictively enforced by the police and hirelings of the Inquisition and the prisons of the latter were the abode of the Fraternity until all were disposed of by the punishment of torture, death and the galleys. In 1751 another anatomy was hurled forth against the Order from the church and throne, when the perjured monk and inquisitor of Spain, Father Peter Torrubia, gave to the world an example and true illustration of the cursed, fiendish principles that actuated the Romish Church in their endeavour to perpetuate despotic power for ruling mankind under the hypocritical garb of a pretended religious faith. The initiation of Torrubia in 1751, under false pretences, his violation of a sacred oath, and treacherous betrayal of the Order, by which over ninety Lodges were placed in the savage power of the Inquisition, and thousands thereby had to suffer long imprisonment and painful trials under the merciless rule of their inhuman judges. But notwithstanding these persecutions, Masonry, like "Truth crushed to the earth will rise again"—continued its work in secret, and by strict caution, and keeping no records, evaded the vigilance of their enemies, and so continued, with varied phases of success and suppression, till 1807, when the French occupation of Spain enabled the Fraternity to work in public. The Order rapidly increased, and the Gr. Lodge on being re-established at Madrid, in 1809, enjoyed the proud satisfaction of occupying the Hall of the Inquisition. In 1811, it is asserted that Joseph Bonaparte, while acting as Gr. Master, created Chapters of the higher degrees, which is so peculiarly adapted to the French ideas and taste for display. But the prosperity of the Order was of short duration; and on the return of Ferdinand VII. to the throne, his first progressive act was to re-establish the Inquisition, and this hypocritical tyrant, in May, 1814, issued a violent and stringent edict against Freemasonry, and the fate of the Order was again sealed in benighted Spain.

Additional decrees were issued against the Order at various times, and the one of August 1, 1824, required that all the members should appear within a month and deliver up all their papers—the penalty for not complying being hanging without ceremony or trial. In 1825, seven members of one Lodge were put to death at Grenada; and the death penalty was awarded to many as late as 1833, and among them several prominent personages.

About 1849, the "Grand Orient Hesperico" is said to have been established, incorporating the Ancient and Accepted Rite to the 33rd degree, and admitting all the Lodges then working in Spain in other Rites. This Grand Orient had no fixed locality, and its authority emanated from the "Invisible Valley," and their meetings were held in different parts of the country for security.

The existence of this Grand Lodge, or Orient, is not generally known, and they have never been able to enter into relations with any foreign Gr. Bodies.

In 1853, the Lodge St. John of Spain was betrayed by its treasurer, and dissolved by the Minister of Police, the Master and members that were caught condemned to four years' imprisonment, and finally pardoned by Queen Isabella.

At the present date the Order is still strictly prohibited, and no Lodges are working in public except those in Gibraltar, and one or two in the different sea ports under foreign authority and protection. The late successful revolution in Spain which has driven a long-existing despotic power from the throne, given liberty and toleration to the people, will no doubt continue in the good work of reform and progress, and by establishing an enlightened government will soon enable our Fraternity to again resume their Masonic labours, and henceforth be permitted to continue their work in peace and harmony for the benefit of universal brotherhood, light and knowledge.

(To be continued.)

METROPOLITAN MASONIC MEETINGS

For the Week ending August 7, 1869.

Monday, August 2.

Lodge No. 188, "Joppa," Albion Tavern, Aldersgate-street.

Tuesday, August 3.

Colonial Board, Freemasons' Hall, at 3.

Lodge No. 167, "St. John's," Holly Bush, Hampstead.

Chapter 169, "Temperance," White Swan, Deptford.

" 507, "United Pilgrims," Horns Tavern, Kensington.

Domestic Lodge of Instruction, Palmerston Tavern, Grosvenor-park, Camberwell, at 7.30.

Wednesday, August 4.

GRAND CHAPTER, Freemasons' Hall at 7.

Lodge No. 217, "Stability," George Hotel, Aldermanbury.

" 1044, "New Wandsworth," Spread Eagle Hotel, Wandsworth.

" 1216, "Macdonald," 1st Surrey Volunteers' Headquarters, Brunswick-rd., Camberwell.

United Strength Lodge of Instruction, No. 228, Bull and Gate, Kentish Town road.

Thursday, August 5.

Lodge No. 554, "Yarborough," Green Dragon, Stepney.

" 742, "Crystal Palace," Crystal Palace.

" 1155, "Excelsior," Sydney Arms, Lewisham-rd.

" 1178, "Perfect Ashlar," Gregorian Arms Tav., Jamaica-road, Bermondsey.

Chapter 733, "Westbourne," New Inn, Edgeware-road.

" 742, "Crystal Palace," Crystal Palace.

Friday, August 6.

Chapter No. 754, "High Cross," White Hart Hl., Tottenham.

Metropolitan Lodge of Instruction, George Hotel, Aldermanbury, at 7; Bro. Brett, Preceptor.

Belgrave Lodge of Instruction, Duke of Wellington Hotel, Spring-gardens, Charing-cross.

Saturday, August 7.

General Committee of Boy's School, Freemasons' Hall, at 4.

MASSONIC PICNIC AT SUNDERLAND.

The annual picnic of the Freemasons of Sunderland took place on Wednesday week (July 21st,) when 200 ladies and gentlemen left the Fawcitt-street Station, Sunderland, by special train at 7 a.m.; for Studley Royal, the Yorkshire seat of the Right Hon. the Earl de Grey and Ripon, the M.W.D.G.M. of England. Ripon station, a distance of 62 miles, was reached before half-past nine o'clock. Some of the party remained a time to inspect the different objects of interest, most notable the old cathedral. Others proceeded on at once in the conveyances provided to Studley, where, divided into parties, they wandered on through the delightful and charming grounds. Our space will not permit us to describe at length the varied beauties of the valley in which are situated the picturesque grounds of Studley and the ruins of Fountains Abbey. Doubtless several of our readers are as well acquainted with them as we are. Entering at the park lodge a noble avenue of limes above a mile in length (with a distant view of an obelisk) is traversed, and leaving the Mansion House on the right hand, we diverge down a beechen avenue till we reach the valley of the Skell, which is all comprised in the grounds. Entering the grounds the eye is first struck by the ornamental lakes, the scattered, statues and the magnificent trees that surround the visitor on every hand. The Octagon Tower, the Temple of Piety, Anne Boleyn's Seat, Robin Hood's Well, and other landmarks are passed, and the noble ruins of Fountains Abbey are reached. The visitor stands for some time in amazement at this grand relic of the energy and piety of our forefathers. The fine Tower, the Lady Chapel, the Cloisters, and every part is minutely inspected, and a return is then made to Kendall's Walk (a long glade near the entrance gates) where all sit down to luncheon. After luncheon many trip the light fantastic on the greenward, till tea, which being over, dancing is resumed, until a move was made homewards.

The return train left Ripon at 8 p.m., and reached Sunderland close upon 10.30, p.m. All parties expressed themselves well and highly delighted with the day; favored by one of the finest days we have had this season, the arrangements at every point carried out without a single hitch, pleasant company, and the remembrance of the fine scenery they had left, made the ladies especially wish the "Masons" would on an early date arrange for a similar day's enjoyment. The management was in the hands of an influential committee, of which Bros. S. J. Wade (W.M. 80), was Chairman; Scott (W.M. 94), Vice Chairman; R. Hurlson (S.W. 949), Treasurer; and J. H. Conter (949) Secretary. The train was specially in charge of Bro. Hudson; the conveyances of Bros. A. Clay (S.D. 97), W. H. Pearson, and J. H. Conter; the luncheon of Bro. Scott; the dancing of Bros. W. H. Crookes (P.G.S., P.M. 80), and J. Tillman (W.M. 949).

The very excellent luncheon and tea were supplied by Bro. Blacker of the Crown Hotel, Ripon, who did everything that man could do (and succeeded), both at his hotel at Ripon and in the grounds, to provide for the comfort and wants of the party. The conveyances, which were also first class and well horsed, were supplied by Bro. T. Mountain, of the same borough. Some good photographic groups were taken by Bro. P. Stabler of Sunderland, and Bro. Pettitt of Keswick and Giltland Spa.

THE Grand Lodge of Nova Scotia was formally organized at Halifax, on last St. John's day, by the union of the self-elected body with the English lodges in the province. The Hon. Alexander Keith was elected W.V.G.M. of the new Grand Lodge.

RETIREMENT OF AN INSPECTOR.—After twenty years' service in the Detective Department of Scotland-yard, Inspector Tanner has retired from the police force on a pension of £100 a year. In the course of his connection with the police Mr. Tanner has been very successful in tracing and arresting celebrated criminals. Among those whom he apprehended were Mullins, who murdered Mrs. Emsley; Forward, the murderer of the three children in a coffee-house at Holborn; Hunt, who committed murder in a cab; and Muller, who killed Mr. Briggs on the North London Railway, having arrested him in New York.—Daily Papers. [Bro. Tanner is a most straightforward and upright man, and we wish him every success in his new career in civil life. He is also an estimable and zealous Mason, and at the present time holds the position of W.M. of the Domestic Lodge (177), and Scribe N. of the Rose of Denmark Chap. (975).—Ed. F.]

THE first theatrical representation of the Talce Amateur, Musical, and Dramatic Society, took place on Monday evening last, before a crowded and fashionable audience. The pieces selected for the evening were, the comedy of "Delicate Ground," and the burlesque of the "Maid and the Magpie," in the latter Bro. W. J. Fagar played the very difficult role of "Isaac," the old clothesman, in a most superior style; Bro. T. Graham sustained the part of the farmer in every way doing justice to the character. The other parts were very well performed by various local gentlemen, under the direction of Mr. Fitzroy Wallace, late of Theatre Royal, Cork.

Advertisements.GEORGE KENNING,

3 and 4,

Little Britain, London, E.C.MASONIC DEPOT.*THE LARGEST STOCK in the WORLD

Jewels,
Clothing,
Furniture,
Banners,
Books, &
Requisites

For all Degrees in Freemasonry.

3 and 4, Little Britain, London, E.C.

Price Lists on application.

NAVAL & MILITARY WAREHOUSE.

Laces,
Embroidery,
Swords,
Belts,
Chacos,
Buttons,
Epaulettes,
Sashes,
&c., &c.

3 and 4, Little Britain, London, E.C.

Price Lists on application.

GEORGE KENNING,

3 and 4,

Little Britain, London, E.C.

THE Advertiser is in IMMEDIATE WANT of £50. He holds a situation of £150 per annum, and has been in the same employment upwards of 30 years. He would willingly and honestly repay the same, with interest, at £1 per week. An interview with any one so disposed will prove satisfactory (no Loan Society need apply). Letters, addressed Y.Y., Mr. S. HALL, Newsvendor, Bermondsey New-road, S.E., will meet with prompt attention.

SHED WANTED, about 100 feet long, near the City.—State particulars, addressed to Office of this Paper.

THE EUROPEAN MAIL.

A Summary of Universal Intelligence and Exact Commercial Statistics from Mail to Mail, specially prepared for the Colonies and Trans-Oceanic World generally.

THE EUROPEAN MAIL IS THE LEADING TITLE OF EIGHT TOTALLY DISTINCT NEWSPAPERS, AS FOLLOW—

No. of issues annually	Destination.	When Issued.	Rate of Subscription per annum, including postage.
24 A.	European Mail for the West Indies, Central America, Chili, Peru, &c.	2nd & 17th of the month	40s.
24 B.	European Mail for South Africa, St. Helena, Ascension, &c.	10th & 24th	40s.
52 C.	European Mail for North America, i.e., the United States, Canadian Dominion, British America, Cuba, Mexico, &c.	Every Saturday	52s.
36 D.	European Mail for the Brazils and River Plate, Azores, &c.	9th, 19th, & 29th	54s.
39 E.	European Mail for China, Japan, Ceylon, Penang, Singapore, Siam, Sumatra, Java, Borneo, and the Philippines	27th August 1869, & every fortnight after, by English Mail; and on Sept. 2nd, 1869, & every fourth Thursday by French Mail.	52s.
52 F.	European Mail for India, Burmah, Egypt, &c.	Sept. 3rd '69, and every succeeding Friday.	39s.*
13 G.	European Mail for Australia and New Zealand	Every 4th Friday.	13s.
24 K.	European Mail for the West Coast of Africa, Madeira, Teneriffe, &c.	3rd & 23rd of the month.	40s.

* Or with Manifest Supplement, 65s.
N.B.—All Subscriptions payable in advance.

EACH Paper contains every item of intelligence, from Mail to Mail, specially affecting the country or colony for which it is published, with an exhaustive summary of home and continental politics, science, art, and social news, and a retrospect of commercial transactions in Great Britain and on the Continent.

Manufacturers and Merchants may command the greatest markets of the world for their products through the medium of publicity afforded by the EUROPEAN MAIL. A demand may be created where none exists at present, or an existing demand may be sustained and increased against the most energetic competition.

The EUROPEAN MAIL gives such perfect mercantile information that it is the highest commercial authority in the vast and prosperous territories through which it circulates. It is therefore an imperative necessity to the merchant who orders goods in bulk, and to the wholesale and retail distributor; it is also the most complete newspaper despatched from England, and is eagerly sought by all classes; it thus, unlike merely commercial newspapers, reaches and leaves the great communities who are the actual consumers of all products, and who must be acted upon by advertisement to require a special article before the merchant will venture to order a consignment.

Scale of Charges for ADVERTISEMENTS each insertion per Paper as follows:—

FOR PAPERS C, F, & G ONLY.	FOR PAPERS A, B, D, E, & K ONLY
One Page ... 7 10 0	One Page ... 5 0 0
Two-thirds of a Page ... 5 9 6	Two-thirds of a Page ... 3 13 0
Half-Page ... 4 2 6	Half-Page ... 2 15 0
One-third of a Page ... 3 0 0	One-third of a Page ... 2 0 0
Quarter-Page ... 2 8 0	Quarter-Page ... 1 12 0
Eighth of a Page ... 1 7 0	Eighth of a Page ... 0 18 0
Below an Eighth of a Page.	Below an Eighth of a Page.
Per inch.	Per inch.
Across the Page ... 0 18 9	Across the Page ... 0 12 6
Two-thirds across the Page ... 0 12 9	Two-thirds across the Page ... 0 8 6
Half across the Page ... 0 9 9	Half across the Page ... 0 6 6
One-third across the Page ... 0 6 9	One-third across the Page ... 0 4 6
Page next matter, Rate and a Half.	Outside pages, Double Rate.

* * The above Scale of Charges is subject to a Discount of 10 per cent. for Advertisements appearing in the consecutive issues of a paper for 3 months; of 15 per cent. for 6 months; and 20 per cent. for 12 months.

When an Advertisement is ordered for insertion simultaneously in all the Papers, the lowest rate above is charged all through.

Post Office Orders to be made payable at the Cannon-street Post Office, London.

Remittances payable to William Vaughan.

The EUROPEAN MAIL may be ordered through the Local Agent, direct from the London Office, or through any Firm having representatives in England. In the last case, the usual system is to order the EUROPEAN MAIL to be forwarded until countermanded; the representative of the Firm in England being directed, under similar conditions, to make payment annually.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF SOUTH WALES (EASTERN DIVISION).
R. W. Bro. THEODORE MANSEL TALBOT, Prov. G. Master.
NOTICE is hereby given that a Provincial Grand Lodge will be held at the TOWN HALL, NEATH, on THURSDAY, August 5th proxo., at Twelve o'clock, P.M. punctually, when the Members of the Provincial Grand Lodge and the other Brethren of the Province are requested to attend.

By command of the R.W. Prov. G. Master.
JOHN JONES, Jun.,
Prov. G. Sec.
The Banquet will be served at 4 o'clock punctually. Tickets (including Dessert and Wines) 7s. 6d. each; may be procured of the W.M. of the Cambrian Lodge, (No. 304), Neath, or of the Provincial Gr. and Stewards. Caehir, Aberaven, 15th July, 1869.

MECHI'S TOURISTS' OUTFITS.

MECHI'S DRESSING BAGS.

MECHI'S 23s. DRESSING CASES.

MECHI'S COURIER BAGS.

MECHI'S HAND BAGS.

MECHI'S TOURIST WRITING CASES.

MECHI'S PICNIC CASES.

MECHI'S DRINKING FLASKS, 1s. 6d. to £7.

MECHI, 112, REGENT STREET.

MECHI—ALL THE NEWEST STYLES.

MECHI—GOOD AND CHEAP.

MECHI'S MAGIC STROP AND PASTE.

MECHI'S SHOW-ROOM, 55 YARDS.

MECHI'S SPORTING KNIVES, 3s. 6d. to £7.

MECHI'S CARRIAGE AND RETICULE BAGS.

MECHI'S LADIES' WORK BASKETS.

BRO. H. T. LAMB,

MANUFACTURER OF MASONIC JEWELS,

ST. JOHN SQUARE,

CLERKENWELL,

LONDON.

ILLUSTRATED PRICE LIST POST FREE ON APPLICATION.

B. R. JAMES STEVENS (25, 720, 1216, &c.),
Auctioneer and Surveyor, House and Estate Agent, &c., Clapham Common.—Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duties. Agent to the Imperial Fire & Life Insurance Offices.

ESTABLISHED 1840.
BRO. W. H. WAGHORN Manufacturer of Regalia for all Societies. Masonic Aprons, Collars, Ribbons, Sashes, and every requisite for all degrees in Freemasonry always in Stock.
10, VINEGAR YARD, COVENT GARDEN, LONDON, W.C.

MONEY.—LOANS Granted from £100 to £2,000 at 5 per cent., repayable over Three Years, on Personal Security and Life Policy effected with the WEST OF ENGLAND INSURANCE CO., (Established 1807.)
Apply to the Superintendent or Agents,
Bro. J. CROCKER, Gateshead-on-Tyne.
Agents Wanted.

BRO. ADLARD'S REGISTERED JEWEL ATTACHER. Price 7s. 6d. Universally adopted. Maker of the Improved Fitting Lodge Collars and Masonic Clothing. 225, High Holborn, London, W.C.

MONOGRAM AND CIPHER DIES, of the most Artistic Designs, found in any two or three Initials, without charge for Dies, and 5 Quires of Superfine Note Paper with 100 Best Safety Envelopes, stamped in various Colours, for 5s., by Post 8d. extra; or half the quantity for 2s. 6d. Makes a very useful and pretty present. Relief Stamping in Colours done on the premises at 1s. per 100 from any die. Gold and Coloured Illuminating Impressions can be obtained from your own Monogram or other Dies. Arms, Crests, and Monogram Dies cut and designed. A. Unwin, Heraldic Stationer and Engraver, 25, Whitcomb Street, Leicester Square, W.C.
Card Plate and One Hundred Cards, 4s.

ARMS, CRESTS, and MONOGRAMS.—
A MASONIC EMBLEMS Engraved on Seals, Dies, &c. Official Stamps designed and Engraved.—Bro. D. G. BERRI, Engraver to Her Majesty's Post Office, Stationery Office, &c., 36, High Holborn (opposite Chancery-lane), London, W.C.

THE NEW MUSICAL PITCH.
COLLARD-MOUTRIE has just invented, perfected, and secured by Royal Letters Patent, an important improvement in the manufacture of Pianofortes, by which the Pitch is raised to the Philharmonic or lowered to that of the French normal diapason in an instant, at the option of the performer. This invention can be applied to any Pianoforte. The Profession, Amateurs, Musical Critics, Musical Public, and the Trade are invited to witness its utility and effect, between the hours of Eleven and Four, at the Manufactory, 77, Southampton-row, Russell-square. Established 1849.

THE AMERICAN FREEMASON
is Monthly, of sixteen double-column quarto pages of entirely original matter, and translations from the French Italian, and German Masonic papers and periodicals of the day. It is devoted to the discussion of the rights of Lodges and individual Freemasons, in contradistinction to the assumptions of Grand Lodges, and the un-Masonic doctrines and arrangements of "high degrees." Its motto is—Belief in the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man. Its price is Five Shillings a year—a sum so small that no Freemason, for pecuniary reasons, need be a non-subscriber to it. Trans-Atlantic Subscribers to the AMERICAN FREEMASON will receive it Post-paid from the Office of Publication direct, at their respective Post-offices, upon payment of the subscription to

BRO. GEORGE KENNING,
3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, LONDON, E.C.
All Subscriptions begin with March 15th, 1869, and end with February, 1870.

The AMERICAN FREEMASON is not the organ of any Grand Lodge; but speaking the words of truth, manhood, and independence, advocates freedom for Masonry in America, and the rights of Freemasons in their Lodges—rights which, by our Grand Lodges, in their subservency to high degrees, have been invaded, until at present they are nearly obliterated.

Subscribers in the British Colonies will please address all Subscriptions and Correspondence to J. FLETCHER BRENNAN, Editor, 114, Main-street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

VELOCIPEDES & BICICLES for either Sex.
Speed 30 miles per hour, hill-ascending, self-propelling and balancing, £100. Diagram, 6d.
Manufacturing Licences granted.

W. PIDDING, Esq., PATENTEE, 31, Kings'-row, Walworth-road.

"Having drawn Mr. W. PIDDING'S Specification of Patent, I am able to certify that his improvements in Velocipedes (bicycles particularly) will render them self-balancing, capable of ascending hilly ground, and that they would travel on a newly-made road without inconvenience to the rider, either in the way of jolting or in retarding of the great speed the improvements will secure. The travelling, in fact, would be as though on level ground.

(Signed) "J. G. WILSON, C.E.
"Belgrave-terrace, Peckham, S.E.; formerly of 18, Gt. George-street, Westminster."

"MR. W. PIDDING'S PATENT SELF-PROPELLING AND BALANCING VELOCIPEDES AND BICICLES.—Having seen the diagrams, and perused a specification of Mr. Pidding's patent, we hesitate not for an instant to say that that gentleman will accomplish all he professes to do by means of his invention."—Sporting Opinion.

New Edition, in post 8vo, with about 80 Woodcuts, price 12s. 6d.

A Co-operative Discount of Twenty per Cent. to Brothers.

FOR GOUT—Use OIL of HORSE CHEST-NUTS, which imparts a natural circulation. 2/9, 4/6, and 11/- per bottle.

FOR GOUT—Drink WILDUNGEN WATER, the only natural solvent for Stone and Gravel. 1/6 per bottle; 15/- per dozen.

FOR INDIGESTION—Take DANDELION, CAMO-MILE and RHUBARB PILLS. 1/1½ per box; 2/9, 4/6, and 11/- per bottle.

FOR INDIGESTION—Take the PURE VEGETABLE CHARCOAL, prepared according to Mr. BIRD'S formula. 3/6 per bottle. The only internal disinfectant.

ANDERSON'S MEDICAL LABORATORY,
2, Lower Seymour-street, Portman-square; and 30, Duke-street, Manchester-square, London, W.

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.

Opiates, Narcotics, and Squills, are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary Diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.

SELECT TESTIMONIAL.
Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says:—"I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued Cough, Pain, and Irritation of the Chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."

This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold by all respectable Chemists and Patent Medicine Dealers, in bottles at 1s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each, and wholesale by JAS. M. CROSBY, Chemist, Scarborough.

* * * Invalids should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be obtained gratis of any respectable Chemist.

HUMAN FINS, for Swimming, 12s. the set, BARNETT, patentee, Paris (complete specification). With these ready adopted fins the swimmer can with ease and rapidity perform long distances with security against cramps. Sold by HEMARDINQUER, agent, 5, Falcon-street, City; and all Indiarubber Warehousemen, &c.

BRO. R. FLETCHER, Masonic Stationer, Masonic Emblems, Arms, Crests, Monograms, Addresses, &c., beautifully stamped on note paper and envelopes in Gold, Silver or Colours. Lodge Stationery correctly and carefully prepared. Jewels copied and Signet Rings engraved with minute care. The patronage of the Craft respectfully solicited by Bro. R. FLETCHER, Masonic Stationer, 10, Winsley-street, Oxford-street, London, W., opposite the Pantheon.

TO THE NERVOUS & DEBILITATED EPILEPTIC SUFFERERS AND OTHERS.

HALL'S CHLORATE OF POTASSA, discovered, introduced, and extensively prescribed by the late eminent Dr. MARSHALL HALL, has proved an infallible remedy (by oxydizing the blood and supplying its saline constituent) for Indigestion, Debility, Coughs, Asthma, Consumption, Skin, Liver, Stomach, and Nervous Affections, more especially Epilepsy, Apoplexy, and Paralysis. The successful results of this new chemical preparation are beyond all precedent, and the extraordinary cures effected by the late discoverer, and by his successor (Dr. Sutton), in the above maladies are without a parallel in the annals of medicine; and it is confidently believed that in no case need the sufferer despair, for practical experience has demonstrated, and signal success warranted the assertion, that in 99 cases out of every 100 complete cures may be relied on.

Sold in Bottles at 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and Cases of £5 each, by

DR. SUTTON, M.D., 15, REGENT SQUARE, LONDON, W.C., and in BOLTON by PRIESTLEY, Chemist.

The following are a few Testimonials published by privilege. Sir Charles Locock, Physician-Accoucher to Her Majesty, stated at a meeting of the Royal Medical and Chirurgical Society, that in sixteen cases of Epilepsy he had effected permanent cures by the use of Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa.

"September 6, 1856.—The Editor of the Bury Gazette returns thanks to Dr. Hall for the great benefit he has received from his Chlorate of Potassa treatment in a severe nervous disease."

Sir J. Ferguson, King's College Hospital, London, says—"I have repeatedly precribed Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa and found it an agreeable and beneficial remedy."

Extract from the Lancet, April 1, 1857.—"In conclusion, we are of opinion that Hall's Chlorate of Potassa is a far superior remedy to the ones in general use for Nervousness, Indigestion, and Liver Complaints, when judiciously prescribed."

Sir Benjamin Brodie says—"What Chloride of Lime is to the foul sewer, Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa is to the blood."

Professor Syme says—"The effects of Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa in obstinate cases of disease are as astonishing as perplexing."

Dr. Lankester, the eminent coroner, says—"Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa is calculated to entirely supersede iron, mercury, sarsaparilla, quinine, and cod liver oil."

Sir Philip Crampton says—"I believe there is no condition of the system that may not be benefited by Dr. Hall's Potassa."

Sir T. Lawrence says—"I have found Dr. Hall's Chlorate an excellent remedy in Skin Diseases. I presume it is by oxydization."

Sir T. Watson says—"I know that it is an invaluable remedy."

Sir Edward Borough, 9, Fitzwilliam-square, Dublin, certifies Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa has been of the greatest benefit to a member of his family.

The Earl of Clarendon certifies that Dr. Hall's Chlorate cured a case of indigestion of 15 years' duration.

Dr. HALL'S CHLORATE OF POTASSA may be procured by order through any Chemist. Ask for "Dr. Hall's Chlorate," and do not be imposed on with the common article.

It is sold in Bolton by Priestley, Chemist, 12, Deansgate; or it may be had direct from Dr. Hall's successor, Dr. JOHN SUTTON, M.D., 15, Regent-square, London, W.C., who undertakes the positive cure of all chronic diseases before payment.

Dr. HALL'S Chlorate is sold in MANCHESTER by J. BURY, Market-street; in LIVERPOOL by PRESTLEY, Lord-street.

N.B.—Dr. Sutton will shortly repeat his Lecture on this subject.—The Lecture sent for two stamps.

DR. LEA'S CELEBRATED MEDICINES.

"The efficacy of Lea's Medicines is proverbial."

Daily Telegraph.

"Lea's preparations are excellent."—Morning Star.

LEA'S BENGAL ATRABILIUS PILLS.

Invaluable in all liver complaints, and as a Family Medicine (without Mercury). 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

LEA'S GOUT AND RHEUMATIC PILLS.

Will eradicate these disorders when every other remedy has failed, excellent also in Neuralgia, Lumbago, and Sciatica. 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

LEA'S CONSUMPTION SPECIFIC.

If persevered in, will seldom fail. 11s. and 22s.

LEA'S ASTHMATIC EMULSION.

Maintains its superiority for this complaint, Chronic, Cough, Bronchial affections, Colds, &c. 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

LEA'S WHOOPING-COUGH EMULSION.

A certain cure for this destructive complaint in a few days. 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

Prepared by G. LEA, M.D. Camberwell, Surrey.

LONDON AGENTS—BARCLAY, Farringdon-street; PAGE and TIBBS, 47, Blackfriars-road; and SUTTON, Bow Churchyard, * * * Advice free.

CONSUMPTION OF THE LUNGS.

Dr. RAIT has discovered a CERTAIN CURE for this fatal malady. Advice gratis. Address W. RAIT, M.D., Peckham, Surrey.

FITS.—EPILEPTIC FITS or FALLING SICKNESS.

A certain method of CURE has been discovered for this distressing complaint by a physician, who is desirous that all sufferers may benefit from this providential discovery. It is never known to fail, and will cure the most hopeless case after all other means have been tried. Full particulars will be sent by post to any address free of charge.—Address the SECRETARY, 48 George-street, Portman square, London.

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

EVERY requisite in GENTLEMEN'S CLOTHING, SHIRTS, and HOSIERY, for home or abroad, supplied on demand or promptly made to order by

GANN, JONES & CO.,

Tailors, Shirtmakers, Hosiers, Glovers, Outfitters, and Manufacturers,

171, FENCHURCH STREET; & MANUFACTORY, 15 & 16, BLOMFIELD STREET, E.C.

The principles of business in the Retail Department are specially recommended to the Craft and others seeking the best market. The unvarying rule is to give good value for money, to sell cheap when cheapness is consistent with quality, and to make a reduction on the price of an article when a quantity is taken. From this system of business—first established in 1805—their Wholesale Trade has grown, and GANN, JONES & CO.'s Shirts and Clothing are fast finding favour with Merchants, Shippers, and the best Houses in Town and Country.

Wholesale Lists forwarded to Shippers and the Trade, and Retail Price Lists on application

Unlike any other Plan known.
POSITIVE LIFE ASSURANCE is a new system, first introduced by the
MASONIC & GENERAL FIRE & LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY, Limited,
8, NEW BRIDGE STREET, BLACKFRIARS.

It secures Insurers a Promissory Note (instead of the ordinary Policy) for each premium paid, which is payable "To Bearer," either during the life-time or at the death of the assured.

Full Particulars on application to
FREDERICK BIGG,
Manager and Actuary.
Agents wanted in London and the provinces.

MONEY.

LOANS ON PERSONAL SECURITY, WITH
LIFE ASSURANCE,
AT FIVE PER CENT. PER ANNUM.

THE
WEST OF ENGLAND FIRE & LIFE OFFICE
(Instituted 1803)

GRANTS LOANS FOR A LIMITED NUMBER OF
YEARS ON THE ABOVE TERMS.

Chief Office—Exeter.
London—20, New Bridge Street.

By Appointment to the Queen.
Bookseller, Stationer, Newsagent, Printer, &c.

A MAGNIFICENT STOCK OF
MASONIC REQUIREMENTS

MAY BE SEEN AT
Bro. W. E. FRANKLIN'S,
42, MOSLEY ST., corner of St. NICHOLAS SQUARE,
NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE,
Agent for "THE FREEMASON."

BRO. JAMES B. SLY,
PRACTICAL
Heraldic Engraver to the Trade,
Of Gold, Silver, and Ivory,
DRAUGHTSMAN & DIE-SINKER,
9, Rathbone Place, London, W.

Plates Engraved; Gilt Pierced Mounts made for
Albums and Cigar Cases.

Designs made, of Crests, Monograms, Ornaments, and Arms,
and every description of Shooting Prizes, Presentation Plate,
Watches, Watch Domes, Dressing Cases, Bag-sets, and
Ivory Brushes, Engraved with care, delicacy, and despatch.
TO STATIONERS.

JAS. B. SLY having in his employ several Die-sinkers, and from his practical knowledge of the same is enabled to give immediate attention to the cutting of Dies that are emergent.
Companies' Dies cut. Illuminating and Stamping in colours.
Sample Sheets of Monograms and Addresses forwarded on application.

To the Sporting World.
BELL'S LIFE IN LONDON
is now Published
Every WEDNESDAY and SATURDAY Morning.
Price 3d.; stamped 4d.
Office, 170, Strand, London, W.C.

Bro. WOLPERT,
PRINTER, STATIONER & ACCOUNT-BOOK MAKER,
7, St. Swithin's Lane, E.C.
Authorised Agent to receive Advertisements for THE
FREEMASON, and all the London and Country Newspapers.

REFLECTED RAYS OF LIGHT
UPON
FREEMASONRY;

OR
The Freemason's Pocket Compendium.

WITH AN EMBLEMATICAL FRONTISPIECE.

A HAND-BOOK of the Principles of Freemasonry, and Pocket Vade-Mecum and Guide to the various Ceremonies connected with Craft Masonry, so far as the same are allowed to be communicable in accordance with the principles of the Order.

Price One Shilling; Post-free for Fourteen Stamps.

Bro. JAMES STEVENSON, 38, Wrotham-road, Gravesend; and sold by Bro. GEO. KENNING, Little Britain, London, E.C.

Just Published. Price Half a Guinea.

MONOGRAMS,
HISTORICAL AND PRACTICAL,
D. G. BERRI,

Engraver to Her Majesty's Post Office, Stationery Office,
&c., &c.,

36, High Holborn, (opposite Chancery-lane),
LONDON, W.C.

NEW SONG,
PRICE 3s.

THE RED CROSS SONG,
Words by R. W. LITTLE,
Music by H. PARKER.

Published by GEORGE KENNING, 3 & 4, Little Britain,
London.

Price Five Shillings,
LIFE OF CONSTANTINE,
BY
EUSEBIUS.
Masonic Depot, 3 & 4, Little Britain.

For Cheap Watches, Clocks, Gold Chains, and
Jewelry, go to

KIBBLE'S
22, GRACECHURCH STREET,
One Door from Lombard Street, and
51, LUDGATE HILL,
Opposite the Old Bailey.

Gold Watches	£2 15s.
Silver ditto	£1 5s.
Timepieces	from 9s. 6d.

EVERY ARTICLE WARRANTED.

Plate, Watches, and Jewelry, bought or exchanged.

List of Prices Post free.

MASONIC NOTE AND LETTER PAPER.

Sanctioned by The Most Worshipful
The Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of England

IT is impressed with the Masonic Die, and has also Masonic Emblems incorporated with its texture,
as Water Marks, while being manufactured.

Sold, in Quarto and Octavo Packets of Five Quires,
Wholesale and Retail, at the MASONIC DEPOT, 3 and
4, LITTLE BRITAIN, E.C.

Masonic Envelopes can also be obtained at the Depot.

Bro. G. W. CHINNOCK,
Statuary and Cemetery Stone Mason,
93, FULHAM ROAD, S.W.

MISSES E. & C. CHINNOCK,
Pianistes & Teachers of the Pianoforte,
93, FULHAM ROAD, S.W.

BRO. REEVES, SON & CO.,
Steam Printers, Engravers & Lithographers,
WHOLESALE STATIONERS,
AND ACCOUNT BOOK MANUFACTURERS,
Playhouse Yard, Blackfriars, London, E.C.
Next the "Times" Publishing Office.

SECOND EDITION.

8vo., Price 9s. 6d., Cloth.

DOCTORS' COMMONS, its Courts and
Registries; with a Treatise on PROBATE COURT
BUSINESS. By G. J. FOSTER, Clerk of the Papers of Her Majesty's Court of Probate.
London: Published by REEVES, SON & Co., Playhouse-yard, Blackfriars, E.C.
June, 1869.

BRO. BENJAMIN COOK,
Carpenter, Builder, and House Decorator,
SALISBURY COURT,
FLEET STREET, E.C.

Estimates for General Repairs.

Bro. J. G. MARSH,
ARCHITECT AND SURVEYOR,
159, Fenchurch Street, E.C.;
AND
842, Old Kent Road, S.E.

Bro. H. B. PRICE,
ARCHITECT AND SURVEYOR,
IMPERIAL CHAMBERS,
No. 1, Market Place, corner of St. Mary's-gate,
MANCHESTER.

WHY NOT VISIT THE
ROEBUCK GARDENS and GROUNDS?
Over 22 acres. Scenery unequalled.
Noted favourite resort for Dinners, Teas, Masonic Banquets,
School Treats, &c.

N.B.—The New Hall will dine over 500 persons. Ten minutes' walk from the Buckhurst-hill Railway Station; by road 10 miles.

Ordinary every Sunday at Two.

ROBERT COCKS and Co. have just issued
the following NEW DRAWING-ROOM COMIC SONGS:—"I'll Not Try it Again," "Medicine Jack," "Put it Down to Me," "B.R.A.G.," and "Not So Bad for Me."
All by A. S. GATTRY. Each free by post for 19 stamps.

FROM the MUSICAL TIMES.—"O FAIR
DOVE, O FOND DOVE." Ballad by A. S. GATTRY.
Sung by Mme. Patey. 3s. free by post 19 stamps. "The composer has set the words of Jean Ingelow like a musician and a poet. Indeed, we have not met with a contralto song for some time so thoroughly to our mind."

HAPPY BETHY DREAMS. Ballad. Music
by J. R. THOMAS. Arranged as a vocal duet for soprano and contralto. 4s., post-free for 25 stamps; as a song, price 3s.; and as a pianoforte solo, by Brinley Richards,
free for 19 stamps each.

London: ROBERT COCKS & Co., New Burlington-street.

ASTRINGENT TOOTH PASTE.—
HENRY NEWMAN'S "Astringent Tooth Paste,"
in Pots 1s. 6d. and 2s. 6d., to be had of all respectable Chemists. Wholesale Agents, Evans and Sons, Hanover-street; Raimes and Co., Hanover-street; Messrs Clay, Dodd
and Case, St. Anne street; or of the Proprietor,

BRO. HENRY NEWMAN,
SURGEON-DENTIST,
5, SLATER STREET,
LIVERPOOL.

Printed by Brother JAMES ADLEY REEVES and Son, Playhouse
Yard, Blackfriars, in the City of London; published by the Proprietor, Brother GEORGE KENNING, at his Offices,
3 and 4, Little Britain, in the City of London, and by the NEWSPAPERS' PUBLISHING COMPANY, Limited, at their Offices,
147, Fleet-street, in the City of London aforesaid.—SATURDAY,
JULY 31, 1869.

THE FREEMASON

Grand Lodge Reports are published with the sanction of the Right Honorable the EARL of ZETLAND, K.T., Most Worshipful Grand Master of England.

VOL. 2, No. 22.]

SATURDAY, AUGUST 7, 1869.

REGISTERED FOR TRANSMISSION ABROAD. [PRICE 2D.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

	PAGE
THE EARL OF ZETLAND, M.W.G.M. ...	61
ANNUAL ASSEMBLY OF THE PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF LINCOLNSHIRE ...	61
PAPERS ON MASONRY—
No. XVIII.—Masonry in Prussia ...	62
MARK MASONRY ...	62
PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF HERTFORDSHIRE ...	63
HUNGARY ...	63
THE CRAFT—Metropolitan, Provincial and Ireland ...	64
THE ROYAL ARCH—Metropolitan ...	64
THE PRINCE OF WALES AND THE GRAND LODGE OF SCOTLAND ...	64
UNITED GRAND LODGE OF ENGLAND ...	65
THE ORDER OF KNIGHTS TEMPLAR IN THE UNITED STATES ...	65
INELIGIBILITY OF BASTARDS AS FREEMASONS ...	65
MASONIC MEETINGS FOR NEXT WEEK ...	65
BIRTHS, MARRIAGES, AND DEATHS ...	66
ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS ...	66
SCIONS FROM THE PARENT STEM ...	66
FOREIGN MASONIC INTELLIGENCE ...	66
SUPREME GRAND CHAPTER OF ENGLAND ...	67
ORIGINAL CORRESPONDENCE—
Uniformity of Working ...	67
The Pope and Freemasonry ...	67
Origin of Freemasonry ...	68
Masonry and the Slave ...	68
Freemasonry in the United States ...	68
UNITED GRAND LODGE OF NOVA SCOTIA ...	70
ADVERTISEMENTS ...	70 71 & 72

NOW READY, PRICE 4/6,
VOL. I. OF

The Freemason,

NEATLY BOUND, EXTRA CLOTH, WITH GILT EMBLEMATICAL LETTERING.

3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, LONDON,
AND ALL BOOKSELLERS.

The article on "Royal Arch Masonry," which was to have been concluded this week, is unavoidably withheld till our next issue—the arrangement of the tables causing the delay.

THE EARL OF ZETLAND, M.W.G.M.

ON Saturday last, in company with a Masonic friend, we had the pleasure of paying a special visit to Bro. Morton Edwards' Studio, at 18, Hollywood Road, West Brompton, and of viewing some of the chef d'œuvres of his chisel as a sculptor. In No. 19, page 30, of THE FREEMASON we alluded to the artistic skill of Bro. Edwards, and particularized some of the best known creations of his genius, but until our visit we had no conception of the absolute and exquisite perfection to which he has attained. Our chief object was to see the bust of Lord Zetland, and as this work is of course the most interesting to our readers, we may state that the Grand Master is represented in his official Masonic Costume, and wearing the Jewels of the Lodges of Antiquity, and the Prince of Wales' Lodge and Chapter, together with the Order of the Thistle of which his Lordship is a Knight. The bust is beautifully modelled, and the likeness excellent.

We also saw the marble busts of Bro. B. B. Cabbell, Provincial Grand Master for Norfolk; Lord Chief Baron Kelly; W. E. Gladstone, M.P.; and an unfinished one of Behnes, the sculptor under whom Bro. Edwards studied, which when completed will be placed in the National Gallery.

It would be impossible to enumerate the many gems of art in Bro. Edwards' Studio, but we may mention a fine Christ on the Cross, in marble; models of the Prince of Wales; Archbishops Tait and Manning; Lord John Manners; Peabody, the philanthropist; and a life-like statue of Palmerston.

As a pupil of the celebrated Gibson, of Rome, Bro. Edwards has imbibed a taste for colored statuary, and a more admirable specimen of tinted work we never witnessed than his "Bather," which was exhibited last year at the Royal Academy. It is also right to add that Bro. Edwards's talents are not limited to marble work, as he is now executing in Electro-silver a vase of a very rich character, for the Hon. Society of the Middle Temple. The bas-reliefs on this noble production of art will illustrate two important events in the history of the Society:—

1. The Opening of the New Library of the Middle Temple by H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, October 31st, 1861.

2. The Inauguration of the Middle Temple Hall by Queen Elizabeth, in 1584, and according to the tradition, Shakespere reciting his Midsummer Night's Dream in the presence of the assembled company.

On the upper part of this splendid vase will be placed the figure of Lucas Beaumanoir, Grand Master of the Knights Templar, in the time of Richard Cœur de Lion.

As the Earl of Zetland's bust will be copied in two sizes, the first adapted for Lodge Rooms or Masonic Halls, at five guineas, and a smaller size at one guinea, we should recommend the brethren at once to send their names to Bro. Edwards, and procure so interesting a memento of our Masonic Sovereign.

Specimens of the busts, both large and small, will be on view at Bro. Kenning's extensive Masonic Show-rooms, Nos. 3, 4, and 5, Little Britain, E.C., and we shall also be happy to receive the names of subscribers.

ANNUAL ASSEMBLY OF THE PROV. GRAND LODGE OF LINCOLNSHIRE.

The annual assembly of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Lincolnshire was held at Boston, on Tuesday last, under the auspices of the Franklin Lodge, 838. In the unavoidable absence of His Grace the Duke of St. Albans, the P.G.M., Bro. Major Smyth, D.P.G.M., presided on the occasion.

The proceedings opened with an invitation breakfast to the Benevolent Committee, at the Peacock Hotel, after which the Charity Committee met for business.

At 1 o'clock the D.P.G.M. opened the Grand Lodge in the breakfast-room of the Assembly Rooms, when the reports of the Committees were read and adopted. An allowance of £10 a year for the remainder of his life was voted to Bro. Cotton, of Lincoln, from the Prov. Benevolent Fund.

Bro. Rev. G. Nash, of Belleau, P.G.C., then delivered an eloquent and impressive Address on, "Masonry in its Religious Aspects."

This was followed by the election of the Prov. Grand Officers for the ensuing year, as under:—

Bros. Capt. Locock, P.G.S.W.; Dr. W. Radley, P.G.J.W.; Rev. G. Hadath, P.G.C.; C. E. Lucas, P.G. Sec.; Nesbit, P.G.T.; Royle, P.G.R.; Dr. B. Bogg, P.G.S.D.; W. Bland, P.G.J.D.; W. Griffin, P.G.D.C.; Howlett, Asst. P.G.D.C.; Josse, P.G. Sword-bearer; W. H. Burland, P.G.O.; Hessay, P.G.P.; Cotton, P.G.T.; and Bros. Larkin, Kirk, Johnson, Coupland, and Tomlinson, P.G. Stewards.

THE BANQUET,

which was in every way worthy of the occasion, was provided by the Misses Jackson, of the Peacock Hotel, and served in the Ball-room of the Assembly Rooms, at 3 o'clock: Eighty brethren sat down, the D.P.G.M. presiding.

The after-dinner proceedings were commenced by the D.P.G.M. proposing the toasts of "The Queen and the Craft," "The Prince and Princess of Wales and the Royal Family," and "The Bishops and Clergy of the Diocese." The remaining toasts of the evening were such as are usual with the Craft on occasions of this kind.

We understand that the Belgian Masons are making preparations to hold a seance in Brussels during the approaching visit of the English volunteers, and it is to be hoped that the Brethren connected with the volunteer service will avail themselves of the opportunity thus afforded to become better acquainted with our warm-hearted Belgian freres.

PAPERS ON MASONRY.

By A. LEWIS.

XVIII.—MASONRY IN PRUSSIA.

"And when King Arad the Canaanite, which dwelt in the south heard tell that Israel came by the way of the spies; then he fought against Israel, and took some of them prisoners."—Vumbers, xxi. 1.

"When he giveth quietness, who then can make trouble? and when he hideth his face, who then can behold him? whether it be done against a nation, or against a man only."—Job, xxxiv. 29.

As Russia is bound up with the memory of Peter the Great, so is Prussia indissolubly united to the fame of Frederick the Second. Both, autocrats—but in widely different senses—these men have stamped the impress of their several geniuses on the world's history. The one was admired for his persistent hardihood, the other for his remarkable courage. To the former has been assigned an enigmatical position in the world's great story; of the other a "plain unvarnished tale" has been told. Both deserve our respect, the latter alone our esteem. But there is a subtle analogy between these two monarchs, who fought, each according to his light, against evil and darkness, well worthy of consideration. Reverse the centuries, and the two men in the same positions would have done the same. Peter, from a great brute mass of humanity, formed a nation—a Kyssaig worth thinking about. Frederick, with an instinct possessed by few men of his time, smelt the Revolution, stemmed its torrent, and brought into existence the most intellectual and enlightened monarchy the world has seen in these confused latter days. Peter knew nothing, and had he known, would have rejected, Freemasonry as quite at variance with his ideas of autocracy. Frederick, though at peril of his life, accepted it. He saw in it a refuge from the perplexing problems of his time; it formed a barrier against the sceptical philosophy of Baron Holmbach; it supplied a means of escape from the generalizations of Lavarek, and it pointed to that road which leads to advancement in an intellectual and moral sense. It inspired his actions in peace; it invigorated, while it chastened, his fierceness in war. There is no spectacle more noteworthy than that of this sad king, whose wars were made that peace might prevail; who wasted lands that they might become fertile; and whose latest and last efforts were devoted to the consolidation of the materials he had gathered by supreme suffering. He was a Mason in that great sense, so desirable to be understood by the mere chaffering crowd of initiates we now see about us, flaunting their ornaments wherever banquets are spread, and "doing the philanthropic" because they hope it may lead them to advancement.

Let us revert for a moment to Peter of Russia. Brute in passion he undoubtedly was; but whoever has seen Tatar races of our present times can doubt that he, by force of will—by strenuous exertion—humanized that which was Scythian before his day? He, too, was Masonic, but Masonic unawares. If any one remembers the state of the government of Kostroma, an interior circle of Russia, only fifteen years ago—if they can tell anything about the licences and enormities then, even, committed—they may form some conception of what Russia might have been before the patient Carpenter of Deptford set his shoulder to the wheel of State.

But even this great problem of Peter's was transcended by the simplicity of Brother Frederick. He found a nation of slaves, he left them men. He taught them that lesson which few communities like to learn, from shame; he told them to respect themselves! This was Masonic; and few, if any, nations owe more to Masonic influence than Prussia. I have lived there, and I know it. No silly questions of precedence were of the slightest avail; there was a gigantic misery, a wrong not to be defined—and this noble Mason solved it. This is, therefore, my construction of Freemasonry: that vi et armis it is to carry good to our homes, our hearths, ourselves. It is not a false Masonry, which, like

Vaulting ambition, o'erleaps itself,
And falls to the other side;

it is an absolute reality.

The circumstances of the initiation of the great man who made Prussia, may best be told in the words of Carlyle:—

"Trifling circumstance of Freemasonry as we read in Bielfeld, and in many books after him, befel in manner following. Among the dinner guests at Loo, one of those three days, was a Prince of Lippe-Bückeburg,—Prince of small territory, but of great speculation; whose territory lies on the Weir, leading to the Dutch connections. . . . he was a dinner guest; and one of the topics that came up was Freemasonry; a phantasmal kind of object, which had kindled itself, or rekindled, in those years, in England first of all; and was now hovering about, a good deal, in Germany and other countries; pretending to be a new light of heaven, and not a bog-meteor of phosphorated hydrogen, conspicuous in the murk of things. Boz-meteor, foolish, putrescent will-o'-wisp, his Majesty promptly defines it to be: Tomfoolery and Kinder Spiel, what else? Whereupon ingenious Bückeburg, who was himself a Mason, man of forty by this time, and had high thoughts in him of the Quixotic type, ventured on defence; and was so respectful, eloquent, dextrous, ingenious, he quite captivated, if not his Majesty, at least the Crown Prince, who was more enthusiastic for high things. Crown Prince, after table, took his Durchlaucht of Bückeburg aside; talked further on the subject, expressed his admiration, his conviction,—his wish to be admitted into such a hero-fraternity. Nothing could be well-comer to Durchlaucht. And so in all privacy, it was made up between them, that Durchlaucht, summoning as many mystic brothers out of Hamburg as were needful, should be in waiting with them, on the Crown Prince's road homeward—say at Brunswick, night before the fair, where we are to be,—and there make the crown prince a Mason. This is Bielfeld's account, repeated ever since; substantially correct, except that the scene was not Loo at all; dinner and dialogue, it now appears, took place in Durchlaucht's own neighbourhood, during the Cleve Review time; probably at Minden, 17th July 1738, and all was settled into fixed programme before Loo came in sight. Bielfeld's report of the subsequent procedure at Brunswick, as he saw and was himself part of it, is liable to no mistakes, at least of the involuntary kind; and may, for anything we know, be correct in every particular. He says (veiling it under discreet asterisks, which are now decipherable enough), the Durchlaucht of Lippe-Bückeburg had summoned six brethren of the Hamburg Lodge; of whom we mention only a Graf von Kielmansegg, a Baron von Oberg, both from Hanover, and Bielfeld himself, a merchant's son of Hamburg; these, with Kielmansegg's valet to act as Tiler, valet being also a Mason, and the rule equality of mankind,—were to have the honour of initiating the Crown Prince. They arrived at the western gates of Brunswick, on the 11th of August, as prearranged; Prussian Majesty not yet come, but coming punctually on the morrow. It is fair time; all manner of trades, pedlars, showmen, rendezvousing; many neighbouring nobility too, as was still the habit. 'Such a bulk of light luggage?' said the custom-house people at the gate;—but were pacified by slipping them a ducat. Upon which we drove to 'Korns Hotel' (if anybody now know it); and patiently waited. No great things of a hotel, says Bielfeld; but can be put up with;—worst feature is, we discover a Hanover acquaintance lodging close by, nothing but a wooden partition between us: How if he should overhear!—Prussian Majesty and suite, under universal cannon salvos, arrived, Sunday the 12th, to stay till Wednesday (three days) with his august son-in-law and daughter here. Durchlaucht Lippe presents himself at court, the rest of us not! privately settles with the prince: 'Tuesday night, eve of his Majesty's departure; that shall be the night: at Korns Hotel, late enough!' And there, accordingly, on the appointed night, 14th-15th August 1738, the light-luggage trunks have yielded their stage properties; Jachin and Boaz are set up, and all things are ready; Tiler (Kielmansegg's valet) watching with drawn sword against the profane. As to our Hanover neighbour on the other side the partition, says Bielfeld, we waited on him, this day after dinner, successively paying our respects; successively pledged him in so many bumpers, he is lying dead drunk hours ago, could not overhear a cannon battery, he. And soon after midnight, the Crown Prince glides in, a Captain Wartensleben accompanying, who is also a candidate; and the mysterious rites are accomplished on both of them, on the Crown Prince first, without accident, and in the usual way. Bielfeld could not enough admire the demeanour of this Prince, his clearness, sense, quiet brilliancy; and how he was so 'intrepid,' and 'possessed himself so gracefully in the most critical instants.' Extremely genial air, and so young, looks younger even than his years: handsome to a degree, though of short stature. Physiognomy, features, quite charming; fine auburn hair (beau brun), a negligent plenty of it; his large blue eyes have something at once severe, sweet, and gracious. Eligible Mason, indeed! Had better make despatch at present, lest Papa be getting on the road before him! Bielfeld delivered a small address, composed beforehand, with which the Prince seemed satisfied. And so, with Masonic grip, they made their adieus for the present; and the Crown Prince and Wartensleben were back at their posts, ready for the road along with his Majesty."

Supplementing this picturesque account of Frederick's great historian, I may, for the Masonic reader, mention that the lodge from Hamburg was a deputation of the Lodge "Absalom" in that city. Findel says that the ceremony was not over till four in the morning, in which case it would appear that, like H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, Frederick must have received all, if not most of the degrees on that memorable night. It was proposed to spare the Prince to some extent, but he particularly requested to be treated like any other person. His subsequent Masonic career proved the sincerity of his Fraternal principles. A lodge was organised at his castle at Reinsberg, November, 1739; Bro. Frederick, W.M., Bro. von Oben, W.M., and several others were admitted to the lodge. At the time of his accession, as was the case with

Bro. King William IV. of England, he wielded the gavel, and conducted the first work himself at the Palace of Charlottenberg, June 20, 1740.

From this time the progress of Freemasonry in Prussia was assured. I have lying by me at the present time a handsome volume of 364 pages, being the History of the Grand Lodge of the Three Globes, issued in German by the authorities, and containing an exact precis of their public actions from the institution of that lodge on the 13th September, 1740, to the present time, in unbroken series.

At the risk of protracting this article to an undue length, I will just add that the first W.M. of the Three Globes was thus chosen:—Frederick, who assumed the position of G.M., by one of the officials of his own private lodge, known as the Lodge du Roi notre Grand-Maitre, issued a permission or warrant for the erection of a new Lodge in Berlin. Brother Jordan hastened to communicate with other brethren in Berlin, and assembled four merchants, members of the Craft—Benezet, Gregory, Serre, and Simon. The minutes of the 9th November, 1740, thus state the order of proceeding:—"The V.W. Bro. Philippe Simon, W.M., Jean Serre, S.W., and Paul Benezet, J.W., with Christian Gregory, Treasurer, assembled on the 13th September, 1740, and resolved unanimously, under the Royal consent, to erect a just, perfect, and legal Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons (francs et libes Maçons). To this end they have founded and erected the same at the Hotel de Vincent in the Brüderstrasse, the left wing to the front in the third floor." After the installation the following candidates were admitted:—Dumontier de Montgubert, Captain and landlord of the house, as E.A. and F.C.; Röhsborn, Canon of Magdeburg, as E.A. Ballot was taken for the Imperial Captain Baron von Schmettau, the Royal Hereditary Chamberlain Count Schwerin, the goldsmith Jean Roman, and the valet of Count Schwerin (Jeremie Millenet), as Tyler and serving brother; these were duly initiated on the 21st September, with the exception of Count Schwerin, who was not elected until the 5th October. The first and second degrees were usually conferred at once, and the lodge was first opened in the third degree for an initiation on the 26th October, for the raising of Bro. von Schmettau. They assembled every week. The by-laws were agreed to on the 10th November, when a general meeting was held but no work done. On this day there were twenty ordinary members of the lodge, and before the end of the first year their numbers had increased to thirty-one. Among additional young members were Bros. the Prince William of Prussia, the Duke of Holstein-Beck, the Margrave Charles, Count Truchses von Waldburg, Jordan, and Lord Hindfort, the English Ambassador.

I will not here follow the long history of the Lodge of the Three Globes further, only adding that at the present time the M.W. G.M. is Bro. K. F. von Messerschmidt; D.G.M., Br. Dr. Wilhem von Horn; S.G.W., Bro. F. C. H. Wiebe; J.G.W., Bro. Dr. C. L. A. Knaest; G.S., Bro. L. L. Hillgenhoff. Including 14 dormant lodges, this Grand Lodge has under its warrants 106 St. John's lodges and 58 St. Andrew's lodges.

The Royal descendants of Prussia have kept true to their ancestor's idea, and William I. is a brother; let him be tried.

It will thus be apparent what great good issued to Masonry by the efforts of that great monarch whose name is a beloved "household word" throughout all Prussia, and who consistently, although in so apparently fitful a manner, raised that country from a second-class to that of a first-class power. The quiet progress which has thus been effected, illustrates the exclamation of Job: "When he giveth quietness, who then can make trouble?" and in the great battle of Right against Wrong, we cannot but approve of the wisdom of thus fighting against Israel—that "stiffnecked people"—and so taking some of them prisoners, as Arad, the Canaanitish King, is related to have done.

CRYPTONYMUS.

MARK MASONRY.

SHEERNESS.—A regular meeting of Mark Masters was held at the Masonic Lodge Room, Sheerness, on 22nd July. The lodge was opened in solemn form by the Worshipful Master, Bro. Keddell, P.M., P.P.G.S.W., P.Z., supported by the whole of his officers, when the following brethren were advanced to the Mark Master's degree:—Bros. Ralph, 77; Hollingham, 77; Shern, P.M., 77; Barczinsky, W.M., 77; Hicks, 77; Woodley, 158; Wootton, 158; Mudd. The ceremony was performed in Bro. Keddell's usual impressive manner. Among the visitors were noticed Bro. F. Binkes, Grand Secretary of Mark Masons; Bro. Hill Rigg, 1089, and several other Brethren from the provinces. Bro. Binkes took the opportunity to compliment the W.M. on the efficient way he conducted the ceremony, and the able working of the several officers. The lodge was closed in due form, when the brethren, to the number of thirty (Mark Masters), repaired to the "Britannia," and partook of a sumptuous banquet, provided by Bro. Green in his usual elegant style. The usual toasts were well responded to, and the meeting was closed at 9 P.M.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF HERTFORDSHIRE.

A Provincial Grand Lodge for Herts was held on Wednesday last, at Berkhamstead, in the Town Hall. The Provincial Grand Master, Bro. W. STUART, P.S.G.W., presided, and he was supported by a large number of provincial and metropolitan brethren, among whom we noticed Bros. Francis, D.G.M.; Geo. Lambert, acting as G.S.W.; Cox, as J.G.W.; Rogers, P.G. Treas.; Sedgwick, P.G. Sec.; Finch, P.G. Chap.; H. C. Finch, P.G. Reg.; John Havers, P.G.W.; Wilson, P.G. Dir. Cers.; Walter Gompertz, W.M. (869), P.G. Purst.; Winter, G. Sup. Works; J. H. Adams, P.G.S.B.; R. Bruce (869); Jas. Terry (869); H. Mandeville (259); E. A. Simson, J.W. (403); R. T. Andrews, W.M. (403); T. S. G. Carter (403); Thos. Laxton (504); W. Wyman (403); F. Evans (187); G. F. Foster (504); T. B. Harvey (P.P.G.C. Herts) and P.M. (504); John Cheese, P.P.G.O., Hereford; G. F. Swan; A. S. Copeland, W.M. (404); Edgar Lewis, (196); and W. A. Skinner, (504.)

The lodge having been opened in ample form, Prov. G. Secretary read the minutes of last Prov. G. Lodge which were put and confirmed. The Prov. G. Secretary then read the accounts of the Province, which shewed a balance of £33 6s. 6d. in hand.

Bro. C. SWAN, P.P.G.D., moved, and Bro. LAMBERT, seconded the motion, that these accounts be received. The motion was put and carried unanimously.

The Prov. D.G.M. moved that Bro. W. Rogers, Junr., be Prov. G. Treasurer for the ensuing year.

Bro. HEATH seconded it, and it was carried unanimously.

The following brethren were then appointed, and invested by the Prov. G.M. as his officers for the year:—

Bro. Francis, Deputy Prov. G. Master; Bros. Heath, Pro. G.S.W.; Andrews, Pro. G.J.W.; the Rev. Geo. Finch, G. Chaplain; W. Rogers, Junr., Pro. G. Treasurer; H. C. Finch, Pro. G. Registrar; Sedgwick, Prov. G. Secretary; Wright, Pro. G.S.D.; Bruce, Pro. G.J.D.; W. H. Rowe, Pro. G. Sup. Works; Wilson, Pro. G. Dir. Cer.; James Terry, Pro. G.S.B.; Olney, G. Purst.; G. F. Swan, P.G. Steward; Goodlife, P.G. Steward; Thomas, Pro. G. Tyler.

The PROVINCIAL G.S.W. proposed a vote of thanks to Bro. Rogers, Senr., the late Prov. G. Treasurer, who had for many years performed the duties of that office. He was sorry that that officer had felt that his age prevented him from discharging his duties satisfactorily to himself, but he trusted he would live many years among his brethren and see the progress of the Grand Lodge.

The G.M. seconded the vote, which was carried.

Bro. LAMBERT proposed that as the funds of the Prov. G. Lodge were so flourishing a portion of them should be devoted to defraying the expenses of the restoration of Berkhamstead Church.

The DEPT. P.G.M. thought that as the Prov. G. Master had presided for twenty-five years over the Province, some testimonial should be presented to him from the funds of the Prov. G. Lodge; yet he was very glad to hear it proposed that the beautiful Church of Berkhamstead should benefit by this meeting.

Bro. GOMPERTZ seconded the motion.

Bro. LAMBERT thought the sum of £10 should be given, in the Prov. G. Master's name, towards the restoration of the church. They all appreciated the services of the G. Master, and wished to mark their sense of his conduct, and he thought this was a good opportunity of showing it.

The DEPT. P.G.M. said a sum might be given to one of the charities, in the Prov. G.M.'s name, and so accomplish this object.

The Rev. Bro. HERVEY explained that the expense of restoring the church was very great, but as Secretary to that fund, he felt bound to say, that even a small sum from such a distinguished body as the Hertfordshire Masons, would be highly appreciated, and as recognizing the efforts of the Prov. G.M. in the cause of Masonry, he should be happy to see the money applied to such an excellent purpose.

The motion that £10 10s. be given in the name of the Prov. G. Master, towards the restoration of Berkhamstead church was then carried.

Bro. GOMPERTZ proposed that a committee of brethren of the province be appointed to consider how best to recognise the services of the Prov. G. Master.

Bro. WRIGHT seconded it.

The PROV. G. MASTER said he was quite satisfied already with the good opinion of the brethren, and did not wish any further recognition of his services. He was at all times ready to serve the brethren, and he hoped for some years he should be able to preside over them.

The lodge was then closed with solemn prayer, and the brethren adjourned to the King's Arms, where a splendid banquet was provided, and which the brethren thoroughly enjoyed.

When the banquet was over the room was close tyled, and grace having been sung by the vocalists, the Prov. G. Master proceeded to give the usual toasts, which were drunk with that warmth and enthusiasm which characterises all meetings of Freemasons. The toast of "the Deputy Grand Master and the rest of the Grand Officers" was associated with the name of Bro. John Havers, and was drunk with great fervor.

Bro. J. HAVERS, in responding, said that on behalf of the Earl de Grey and his brother Grand Officers he begged to render the brethren his most respectful thanks. Of Lord de Grey he need scarcely say one word, for any more energetic or business-like nobleman, or one more attached to the great institution of masonry it would be difficult to find. He (Bro. Havers) had often said, and he said it again, that it was a grand thing for Freemasonry that noblemen, the highest in the land, and statesmen holding positions in the councils of the sovereign were willing and found time to become Deputy Grand Masters of Masons. It told well for the institution, and told well for the men. With regard to the rest of the Grand Officers of the Grand Lodge of England, they held a position parallel to that of the Past Masters of a Lodge.

They were appointed to their offices on account of the services rendered to the Craft, and on account of what was expected of them in future; and he could say with certainty that they always fulfilled those expectations. For himself, he had been received so well, even since he had been made a Mason thirty years ago, that he hardly thought he deserved it; but during that time he had seen carried out the dearest wish, the greatest object of his Masonic life, the great institution of Freemasonry possessing not only the finest building of any Masonic Grand Lodge in the world, but finer than all the other Grand Lodges put together. He had seen that noble property separated entirely from tavern influences, and standing out pre-eminently as the grandest in the world. He did not wish to speak for himself in this work, but of those who were associated with him and so nobly assisted him. It was more than ten years ago that he first proposed this scheme of building Freemasons' Hall, and he was laughed to scorn when he said that it would cost £30,000, and that that sum could be easily spent without being missed. And now, what had Masonry done? Why, within eight years the work had been completed, and in addition, not only had that sum been spent, but with the charities, which he held to be part and parcel of Freemasonry—the brightest jewels in the diadem of Freemasonry—Freemasons had spent in that time £100,000. It had been spent well, and what was more, as far as Grand Lodge was concerned, they had never missed it. He was looking yesterday over the income accounts, and he found that of the three charities was £18,300, and of Grand Lodge £47,000. There never was found in any part of the world any such wealth obtained by such means. But there was one thing wanted. What they wanted was not more money, nor more masons, but men to administer the funds. If he wanted to-day or tomorrow a contribution of £500 for any case of distress he could pick upon fifty men who would give it, or any other amount, but if he wanted to find half a dozen men to give him two or three days a month to administer the funds of the charities he could not get them. Now, they must look to their charities or they might bring great trouble and distress. He had but one more word to say. Some time ago he was in a bad state of health, and he came down to Hertfordshire, to his little place here, as he thought to die, but it had agreed with him so well that he was daily getting better, and he hoped, if the brethren thought him worthy of it, to join some Hertfordshire Lodge. In his little way he might be able to work out some useful plans for them. On the part of the Grand Officers (Br. Havers continued), I thank you, and especially for myself I thank you. Before sitting down, permit me to refer to another subject. I have read, and there may be those among you who have read also that dreary book, the Book of Constitutions. In it we are told that Freemasonry is founded upon two facts, brotherly love is the first; and I am sure if I were to search Masonry through a better example of it than that set this evening could not be given, for a more kindly, friendly, brotherly body I could not find than those I have met here. But we are also told it is founded on refreshment. Now I think your refreshment is perfect; your soup, your fish, your entrées—your everything has been perfect; and you are perfect patterns, both in brotherly love and refreshment. Permit me to propose to the health of your most valued, most respected Provincial Grand Master (cheers). I assure you it needed not that cheer to tell me that which I knew before, how entirely that worthy brother most deservedly reigns in your affections. The perfect readiness you have shown him, the thought and attention you pay him, and the affectionate regard every one feels for him tells me how much you appreciate him. May your lodge prosper, and may our worthy Brother Stuart long live to preside over you.

The toast having been most enthusiastically drunk, and "the Brave old Temeraire" having been sung:—

The PROV. G. MASTER said! I must return thanks for the very kind way in which you have received my name, and I thank Bro. Havers for his high terms in proposing it. I cannot help thinking that the song which has just been sung fits my own case. It is nearly forty years since I first became a Mason in this country, and I am no longer so young as I was, but my greatest desire has been to conduct the affairs of this province properly, and I hope I may long live and be among you.

"Our friends depart and are forgot

As time goes fleeting by;

In after years none, none are left,

For them to heave a sigh."

And I feel that I, too, must depart soon. After seventy we cannot expect to live much longer in this world, but I hope when it pleases the Great Architect of the Universe to take me, I shall be found ready. I thank you for the high honor you have done me.

The toast of "The Deputy Prov. G. Master," was responded to by Bro. FRANCIS, and that of "The Masters of the different lodges in the Province," by Bro. WRIGHT. Bro. ROGERS, Past Prov. G. Treas., had a separate toast drunk in his honour, and after he had returned thanks, the brethren departed for London.

The meeting was a most successful one. The arrangements had been entrusted to a committee, consisting of Bros. Wright, Heath, Wilson, and Adams, and their work was done to perfection. Bro. George Lambert, of Coventry-street, also had a large share of the labour of bringing the meeting up to the point of satisfying every one. By him the tables, which were most tastefully arranged, were adorned with a superb silver service of candelabra and vases. The mantle-pieces were also supplied with rich gold and silver ornaments, and over the entrance to the room was a handsome display of banners. Bro. Lane of Berkhamstead sent some magnificent flowers and fruit, which won praises from all. The whole company expressed their satisfaction, and the admiration of the taste which all these brethren had displayed.

During the evening the brethren were favored with beautiful harmony, by Bros. W. J. Fielding, Donald King, and W. Winn. Among the songs sung was a capital Masonic song by Bro. D. King entitled "Our Song," "The Brave Old Temeraire," by Bro. Winn, "The Birth of St. Patrick," by Mr. Fielding, "Mynheer Vanduuck," sung as a glee, "The Mac Gregor's Gathering," by Bro. D. King, a Masonic glee "Hail to the Craft," and that capital song "The Vicar of Bray," by Bro. Winn, all of whom were heartily cheered.

HUNGARY.

Eljen Magyar! Progress of Freemasonry in Hungary. It is with heartfelt pleasure at the progress of our Craft—and, with it, that of freedom—that we report the following: The Lodge of The Three White Lillies "zu den 3 weissen Lilien," at Temesvar, Hungary, which had existed already in 1784, but suppressed by the progress of imperial tyranny in the lands under the Hapsburgs of Austria, has been resuscitated on the 3rd April, 1869. Bro. Professor Dr. Lewis Levis, W.M. of the Lodge of Unity in Fatherland, "zur Einigkeit im Vaterlande," at Pesth, together with two other officers of the same lodge, were delegated to perform the edifying ceremonies of reinstating the ancient lodge at Temesvar. Our venerable brother is identified with the struggles of Freemasonry in Austria. In Vienna he established a lodge in 1848, which cost him his professorship in the Academy of Engineers, being ejected from it by the reactionary ministry of Thun and Bach. He lives now to see the labors of his hands blest in autonomic Hungary. It was natural that Bro. Levis should have gone to Temesvar to conduct the re-opening of the lodge of the Three White Lillies there. The ceremony was conducted with the deepest solemnity and earnestness, and culminated with an address by Bro. L. to the brethren assembled. He spoke of the nature and importance of Freemasonry, and showed that the noble aims of the Fraternity are the promotion of humaneness, ennobling of humanity, the achievement and spread of true freedom, equality, and fraternity. His masterly speech culminated in the sentence, that true freedom can only be attained through education and culture, and true prosperity only through freedom. With these noble words the venerable brother ended his speech. After this the Lodge of the Three White Lillies, at Temesvar, was declared as lawfully constituted, and the nomination of a W.M. and other officers was proceeded with. With this act the solemnities close, and the second lodge of Freemasonry in Hungary is now duly constituted.

While our Masonic feelings are gratified at this auspicious event, our liberty-loving heart prompts us again to repeat to all Hungarians—Eljen Magyar! —Exchange.

Reports of Masonic Meetings.

THE CRAFT.

METROPOLITAN.

Royal Alfred Lodge, 706.—The above lodge met on Friday, the 23rd inst., at the Star and Garter Hotel, Kew, Bro. S. May, W.M., in the chair. The lodge being opened, and the minutes of the former lodge read and confirmed, the W.M. performed the ceremonies of raising, passing, and initiating, in a manner characteristic of his well-known perfect working. This being the night for the election of W.M. for the ensuing year, Bro. G. Littlewood was unanimously elected; as well as the Treasurer and Tyler. It was proposed, seconded, and carried that a vote of thanks be recorded on the minutes to the W.M. for the very elegant collar and massive jewel attached, in solid silver, in the shape of a cornucopia, as a Wine Steward's collar, which was carried unanimously. The W.M. in reply, said he had the interests of the Royal Alfred Lodge at heart, and his only care was to see the prosperity of the lodge. The lodge was then closed, and the brethren sat down to a very excellent dinner, provided by Bro. Banks. The W.M. on the removal of the cloth, proposed the toasts, loyal and Masonic, and that of the newly-initiated being responded to that of the Visitors followed. Bro. B. P. Todd, P.M. of the Egyptian Lodge, No. 27, responded, as well as Bro. Jones (of the Vitruvian Lodge); the former brother said he had great pleasure in being present on this occasion. He had the honor of being present at the consecration, and the installation of the present W.M., but he hoped to witness the installation of his successor, provided he received an invitation, and when he looked around him, among those present, he was sure to receive one for the next meeting, from one whom he regarded as an old friend and brother, the worthy P.M. and Sec., Bro. Buss. Several toasts followed, and were duly responded to, and the brethren returned to town after spending a delightful afternoon.

Royal Oak Lodge, No. 871.—At the Royal Oak Tavern, 162, High-street, Deptford, on Wednesday, July 25th, this well-established lodge held its regular meeting. Bro. Frederick Walters, W.M., opened the lodge punctually at 6 o'clock. The minutes of the previous lodge-meeting were read and unanimously confirmed. Ballots were unanimous in favour of all the candidates for initiation. The only work out of a large list of candidates for the several degrees was that of raising Bro. John Parsons to the third degree, and initiating Mr. H. Rattle into the mysteries and privileges of ancient Freemasonry. The ceremonies were both well and ably rendered. It was carried unanimously that a letter of condolence be sent to the widow of the late Bro. S. G. Cook, J.D. of this lodge, who had died since the last meeting of the lodge, and for whom on this occasion the Brethren were attired in mourning. Bro. John Hawker, P.M. and Secretary, agreed to stand as the steward to represent this lodge at the Girls' School for 1870. The lodge was then closed. There were present during the evening, Bros. H. Whittle, S.W.; J. W. T. Barrett, J.W.; H. A. Collington, P.M. and Treasurer; J. Hawker, P.M. and Secretary; T. Killner, S.D.; J. Whiffen, J.D.; W. Andrews, P.M.; S. G. Lewin; J. W. Reed; G. Ellis; W. H. Truelove; G. Andrews; J. Truelove; R. West; W. Dalziel, and many others. Amongst the visitors were Bros. H. Keeble (73); T. Arnold, P.M. (141); H. Bartlett, I.G. (147); T. Griffin, S.D. (333); Digby (933); Oliver (507), and others. Brother G. Ellis, under his personal superintendence, had a good repast served up. The usual toasts, both loyal and Masonic, were given and responded to. That of the visitors was responded to by Bro. T. Arnold, P.M. (141), who was called upon by the W.M. to do so. The usual happy evening was spent, and the Brethren separated.

PROVINCIAL.

York.—Union Lodge, No. 236.—At a lodge held on the 19th inst., being the same day on which several of the brethren had attended the funeral of Bro. Lambert. Bro. March, P.M., at the request of the W.M. delivered a short but impressive address on the occasion, in which he observed that though he had not personally known Bro. Lambert previous to his joining the Craft, he at once felt the influence of the kindness of his disposition, the urbanity of his manner, and the goodness of his heart, and that he did not know that he ever felt the loss of any one so much after such a recent acquaintance. None of the brethren who had witnessed Bro. Lambert's zeal, practicality, and readiness to do all that lay within his power for the benefit of his lodge, but would at once feel that his death was a very severe loss. He (Bro. March) could not but see in the alarming suddenness of Bro. Lambert's decease a warning from the G.A.O.T.U. to all, and hoped that the brethren would lay that warning seriously to heart, by endeavouring to prepare for even such a sudden call from this sublunary abode to the Grand Lodge above. Bro. Cooper, P.M., endorsed all that had been said by Bro. March, and after paying a high tribute to the excellencies and worth of Bro. Lambert, thought they ought not to separate without a letter of condolence to Mrs. Lambert and family, assuring them of the high estimation in which their husband and father was held amongst the brethren. This was cordially seconded and supported by Bro. Todd and other brethren who spoke in the highest terms of Bro. Lambert's conduct, not only in the lodge and amongst the brethren, but also in the outer world.

Berkhamstead.—Lodge No. 504.—The usual meeting of this lodge was held on Wednesday, at the Kings Arms, Berkhamstead, at high twelve. Bro. R. A. Wright, W.M. presided, assisted by his officers, Bros. Adams, S.W.; Wilson, J.W., Olney, S.D.; J. H. Adams, J.D.; Rowe, I.G. Mr. Martin Luther Hayward was initiated; Bros. W. Abbott, and C. T. Youngman were passed, and Bro. C. Glasborow was raised. Bro. Wilson was appointed Sec., in place of Bro. Lane, d. ceased, to whose representatives a letter of condolence was ordered to be written; and a vote of regret was passed, to be entered on the lodge minutes. Bro. G. F. Swan was appointed D.C., and the lodge was then closed. The brethren afterwards joined the Provincial Grand Lodge, for the proceedings at which we must refer our readers to our separate report.

IRELAND.

Tralee Lodge, No. 379.—The ordinary monthly meeting of this flourishing lodge was held on Monday evening last, 2nd inst.; previous to which a Past Masters' lodge was convened for the purpose of inducting Bro. Thomas Morris into the office of W.M., at which the following P.M.'s were present. Bros. R. C. Mason; D. De C. McGillicuddy, sen. J.P.; Richard Day; W. Mason; Benjamin Smith; W. Hill; John Y. Eagar; R. H. Walpole, I.P.M.; D. De C. McGillicuddy, Jun., &c. Lodge having been lowered to first degree, the officers took their places as follows:—W. Hill, acting S.W.; F. McCarthy, J.W.; Sealy Weekes, S.D.; Arthur E. D. Rowan, J.D.; William G. Benner, I.G. The accounts of the late concert were brought forward by the I.P.M., and ordered to lie over for further consideration. The brethren proceeded to investigate a charge brought against a member of the lodge by a retired mason, and on the motion of Bro. Hill, it was agreed that the offender receive due admonition. The proposer of Mr. Harold F. Clode, late of London, having produced satisfactory references as to necessary qualifications, the candidate was balloted for and admitted. Owing to the late hour a great deal of other business was postponed until Monday next, the W.M. having summoned an emergency for that evening. At refreshment, Bros. Gray and Lambert's songs were greatly admired.

THE ROYAL ARCH.

METROPOLITAN.

Caveac Chapter, 176.—The quarterly convocation of this well-established chapter was held on Friday, July 23rd, at Radley's Hotel, New Bridge-street, Blackfriars. The chapter was opened punctually at the appointed hour by Comps. C. T. Dorey, M.E.Z.; J. Lacey, H.; P. A. Nairne, J.; and F. Walters, P.Z., S.E. and Treasurer. The companions were then admitted. The minutes of the previous convocation were then read and unanimously confirmed. Ballots were unanimous in favour of all the candidates for exaltation. Bros. John F. Smyth (No. 176) and H. Puckle (No. 176) were exalted. The ceremony was impressively rendered. The ballots for officers for the ensuing year resulted in the election of Companions J. Lacey for M.E.Z.; P. A. Nairne, H.; P. Browne, J.; F. Walters, P.Z., S.E., and Treasurer, re-elected. M. Scott, S.N.; R. S. Foreman, P.S.; C. T. Speight, Janitor, re-elected. The days of meeting were altered from the fourth Friday to the second Tuesday; the alteration to commence in 1870. A five-guinea jewel was voted from the chapter funds to be presented to Comp. C. T. Dorey, M.E.Z. The audit committee was appointed, and the chapter closed until Friday, October 22nd, which will be the installation meeting. There were present besides those already named, Comps. J. Hills, J. C. Hall, W. Nelson Smith, and others. Visitor, Comp. W. Smith, C.E., P.Z., 33, who, in an able manner, acknowledged the toast of the visitors. Comp. J. Hart served up one of his excellent banquets, which added (if possible) to his reputation as a caterer to his Masonic friends, who are fortunate enough to belong to a lodge or chapter which meets at his establishment.

Joppa Chapter, No. 188.—A convocation of this excellent chapter took place on Monday, the 26th inst., at the Albion Tavern, Aldersgate-street. The chapter was opened by the M.E.Z., Comp. J. Lazarus, Comp. Littaur, and Comp. J. Abrahams, supported by P.Z.'s Lazarus, H. Harris, E. P. Albert, Eskell, Cohen, &c. A ballot was taken for the admission of Bro. Rice, of the Royal British Lodge, Mauritius, and on its proving in his favour, he was duly exalted by the M.E.Z. in a very perfect manner. This being the night for the election of M.E.Z. for the ensuing year, the choice of the companions was unanimously in favour of Comp. Littaur. J. Abrahams (H.); Rev. M. B. Levy (J); Cohen, treasurer; Hemsworth (E.); Pollitzer (N.); Stanton Jones (Principal Sojourner); Smith (Janitor). Comp. A. Fakell (P.Z.) proposed that a sum of two guineas be given from the funds of the chapter, and a further subscription be entered into for the purpose. It was then proposed, seconded, and carried, mem. con., that a vote of thanks be recorded on the minutes to Comp. H. F. Isaacs, S.E., for his valuable services rendered to the chapter during three successive years. The chapter was then closed with solemn prayer, and the companions sat down to a very elegant banquet provided by Bro. Jennings, of the Albion and London Tavern Company; and superintended by Comp. Keeping. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were proposed. Comp. Rice, and the newly-exalted Comp., in a brief, but appropriate manner, returned thanks. The health of the M.E.Z. was proposed and responded to. The M.E.Z. then rose and said he had a very pleasing duty to perform, namely, that of proposing the toast of the M.E.Z. elect, and remarked that he knew but very few in the Order so eminently qualified to fill that important office. Comp. Littaur replied as follows:—"M.E. and Companions, I scarcely know how to respond to a toast so proposed as that which has been offered to you by our M.E. The M.E. was kind enough to speak of me in terms that go far beyond any deserts of mine. If I have done my duty, I simply did what each and all of us are bound to do according to our Masonic obligation, for that obligation exempts from no duty; it has no conditional limits; it is an act solemnly entered into by a free man, unfettered in every respect. It therefore pledges the present as well as the future of him who takes it; and he who violates it is a wretch. The Brother who renders himself unworthy of his obligation commits a grievous offence. He disgraces himself, he brings dishonour on Masonry, and prevents its progress through the world. On the other hand, if Masonry entails duties it also confers, we all know, immense advantages. I am sure those who have studied and reflected on Masonry know the value of the Institution. I am certain those who really understand our system will consider it the most perfect and beautiful, and must, consequently, be animated with the greatest enthusiasm for the Order. I consider, by being masons, we belong to the noblest society that ever graced mankind. No wonder, therefore, that our lodges always were, and still are, the resort of all the talent, rank and intelligence of every civilized country. Companions, I reverence Freemasonry. It throws down those hideous and unnatural barriers that inveterate prejudices have everywhere erected between man and man, for in no other society do we find that condescension of the superior to the inferior—that coming into contact of the humblest Brother even with an exalted personage like H.R.H. the Prince of Wales. Companions, I venerate Freemasonry, for in it we witness the triumph of mind over matter; in it we are taught that wisdom that cometh from above; and in it we finally become more and more acquainted with our Great Grand Master, who, by creating all men of one blood, undoubtedly destined all of us to be—no matter what the creed—of one heart and one mind. M.E. and Companions, I now return to you my best thanks for having elected me to the proud position of a first Principal, and for having so cordially drunk to my health. The toast of the P.Z.'s was very ably responded to by Comp. S. Lazarus. The toast of the Treasurer, Comp. Cohen, and H. F. Isaacs, S.E., was then given and responded to, and the companions separated at an early hour, after having spent a most agreeable evening.

THE PRINCE OF WALES AND THE GRAND LODGE OF SCOTLAND.

At a Quarterly Communication of the Grand Lodge, held at Freemasons' Hall, Edinburgh, on Monday, the 2nd inst., the Earl of Dalhousie, M.W. Grand Master Mason, proposed that His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales be elected Patron of the Masonic Order in Scotland, an office which was last held by His late Majesty King William the Fourth. Lord Dalhousie informed the Grand Lodge that he had had an interview with the Prince on the subject, and that His Royal Highness had expressed his willingness to accept the proposed honor. The motion was duly seconded and cordially adopted.

THE PRINCE OF WALES has presented to the Exeter Museum a mummy and coffin, discovered during the progress of some excavations recently made in Egypt, by command of his Royal Highness, with the sanction of the Viceroy of Egypt. Mr. S. Birch, of the British Museum, pronounces the mummy to be the body of Amenhotepai, a man, prepared by the wax process. The coffin is covered with hieroglyphical inscriptions, an explanation of which has been supplied by Mr. Birch.

UNITED GRAND LODGE OF ENGLAND.

The following Circular, we are convinced, will be hailed with great satisfaction by the Stewards:—

INAUGURATION FESTIVAL.

Sir and Brother,—You are requested to attend a Meeting of the Stewards at this place, on Wednesday the 11th day of August, at four o'clock p.m. precisely, to audit the Treasurer's accounts, and for other business.

The Commemoration Jewel will be presented in Grand Lodge at the next Quarterly Communication, on the 1st September, to those of the Stewards who may be present on that occasion. Those who may be unable to attend may receive their Jewels on application to the Grand Secretary after that day.

(By order)

JOHN HERVEY, G.S.

Hon. Sec.

Freemasons' Hall, London, 4th August, 1869.

THE ORDER OF KNIGHTS TEMPLAR IN THE UNITED STATES.

The Fourth Grand annual conclave of the Grand Commandery of Knights Templar of Minnesota was held in Masonic Hall in this city, on Thursday the 24th June, R. E. J. M. Cole, of Winona, Grand Commander, presiding. All the Commanderies in the State were fully represented.

The following Sir Knights were elected as Grand officers for the ensuing year:—

R. E. Sir E. D. B. Porter, Mankato, Grand Commander; V. E. Sir Geo. L. Otis, St. Paul, Dep. Grand Commander; E. Sir M. W. Getchell, St. Anthony, Grand Generalissimo; E. Sir R. A. Jones, Rochester, Grand Capt. Gen.; E. Rev. Sir D. B. Knickerhacker, Minneapolis, Grand Prelate; E. Sir Charles Nichols, St. Paul, Grand Sen. Warden; E. Sir E. A. Groff, Minneapolis, Grand Jr. Warden; E. Sir H. L. Carver, St. Paul, Grand Treas.; E. Sir G. A. Savory, Minneapolis, Grand Recorder; E. Sir H. B. Upman, Rochester, Grand Standard Bearer; E. Sir S. F. Barney, Mankato, Grand Sword Bearer; E. Sir B. H. Langley, Winona, Grand Warden; E. Sir A. Richardson, St. Paul, Grand Capt. Guards.

The next annual conclave will be held in the city of Rochester, June 24th, 1870.

After the adjournment of the Grand Commandery, the visiting Sir Knights, as the guests of Mankato Commandery, were invited to a banquet prepared by Brockway Brothers, and spread in Red Jacket Hall. At half-past nine o'clock, the Sir Knights, numbering between sixty and seventy, having assembled at Masonic Hall, marched in a body to the banquet room, where everything was in readiness. Two long tables were spread, and adorned with a most tempting repast. Full justice was done to the entire bill of fare—Brockway's inimitable strawberry shortcake in particular—after which an hour or more was very agreeably spent in social converse, interspersed with impromptu speeches, abounding in humorous points and telling hits. Sir Knights Otis, R. A. Jones, Carver, Savory, and Getchell were especially facetious. The former, in response to repeated calls, said that he had been thinking for some time of the propriety of locating the Grand Commandery, like the other grand bodies of the State, in some one of our prominent cities and he had hoped that St. Paul might be selected as the place. After partaking of the sumptuous feast provided by the Sir Knights of Mankato, he had changed his mind, and was now in favor of locating the grand commandery here, and in strawberry time.

Judge Cleveland, of the Union made a brief response to a toast complimenting the Mankato press, and about eleven o'clock the assemblage dispersed, all delighted with the evening's entertainment.—Exchange.

We are glad to announce that the warrant for a new lodge in the neighbourhood of Bethnal-green has been granted; and when we state that Brother James Terry is to be the first W.M., the craft may rest assured that the lodge will be admirably conducted. The name of a great and good lady, Miss Burdett Coutts, will be associated with the lodge, and under such honored auspices it cannot fail to achieve success.

INELIGIBILITY OF BASTARDS AS FREEMASONS.

The article on the Ineligibility of Bastards as Freemasons, which appeared in our columns of the 12th June, has called forth a reply, given to the world by a Masonic contemporary, on the 26th of June under the remarkable title of "Ears of Wheat from a Cornucopia." The title exhibits the modesty of the author, and his estimate both of what he has produced, and of what he is able to produce. The author is Bro. D. Murray Lyon, "A.M., Masonic University of Kentucky, U.S.; Hon. Corresponding Member of the Union of German Freemasons, and of the Rosicrucian Society of England; one of the Grand Stewards of the Grand Lodge of Scotland; P.G.S.W. of Ayrshire; author of the 'History of Mother Kilwinning,' &c." We have great pleasure in quoting all the honorable designations which Bro. D. Murray Lyon appends to his name, but we cannot express our belief that the ears of wheat from his cornucopia are well ripened and well filled. He tells us that no Scottish Masonic statute known to him bears out our statement as to the ineligibility of bastards as Freemasons. We believe him thoroughly; and in like manner, we would believe him if he were to tell us that he does not know whether Hudson's Bay is situated in Europe, Asia, or America, or whether it was Charlemagne or Julius Caesar who, on one important day in the world's history, crossed the Rubicon. But really it is of no great importance to the world to be informed how ignorant Bro. D. Murray Lyon is. We quoted in our article of 12th June, the Eighteenth Landmark, in which it is declared as amongst the necessary qualifications of a candidate for admission into the Ancient and Honourable Order of Freemasonry that he "be able in all degrees—that is, free-born, no bastard, of a good kindred, true, and no bondman, and that he have his right limbs as a man ought to have." What does Bro. D. Murray Lyon make of this? He takes no notice of it at all! He assures us that the statutes of the Ayr Squaremen Incorporation, dated 1556, and the ordinances of William Shaw, Master of Work to James VI., dated 1598-99, and the records of the Lodge of Edinburgh (Mary's Chapel), No. 1, dating from 1598, and those of the mother Lodge of Kilwinning, dating from 1642, contain nothing as to the exclusion of bastards. His mode of reasoning reminds us of a case which came under our observation some years ago, when a man accused of falsehood, fraud, and wilful imposition in respect of certain transactions, endeavoured to defend himself by showing that in these transactions he had dealt with perfect honesty. The defence was not found satisfactory, and neither do we find Bro. D. Murray Lyon's argument satisfactory in the present case. He is so well satisfied with it himself, however, that in his concluding paragraph he says, "on the part of Scotchmen and Scotch Masons, therefore, we repudiate the dogma of the 'ineligibility of bastards as Freemasons,' as in any respect applicable to lodges working under the Grand Lodge of Scotland." By what right does Bro. D. Murray Lyon put himself forward as the representative of Scotchmen and Scotch Masons? How many Scotchmen have heard of this man? How many Scotch Freemasons are aware that they have the honour to reckon him as a brother? Now they find that they have in him a self-elected representative; but it does not follow that they will acknowledge him in that capacity, or approve of the views which he expresses on their behalf. Bro. D. Murray Lyon is almost unknown in the Grand Lodge of Scotland, and for the last ten years has probably not been more than three times present at her meetings, and in a Glasgow lodge, numbering nearly 800 members, when his name was mentioned a few days ago, it appeared that nobody had ever heard of him before. Again, in a lodge that made nearly 100 members in a single year, his name was brought up one day last week and they had never before heard of Br. D. Murray Lyon. So much for a the self-constituted representative of Scotchmen and Scotch Freemasons.

We repeat what we said in our article of the 12th June, that the Eighteenth Landmark expressly declares bastards to be disqualified for admission into the Ancient and Honourable Order of Freemasons; whilst the Twenty-fifth Landmark says, "The last and crowning Landmark of all is, that these Landmarks can never be changed." Nothing can be subtracted from them, nothing can be added to them; not the slightest modification can be made in them. As we have received them from our predecessors we are bound, by the most solemn obligations, to transmit them to our successors. One of the ancient charges read at the making of every Freemason, and which is of very old date, but to be found in a manuscript of the year 1685, contains the following words, "And that the apprentice be free-born, and of limbs whole as a man ought to be, and no bastard;" and these very words are engrossed in the minute books of some of the older Scottish Freemasons' lodges. How can Bro. D. Murray Lyon be ignorant of all this?

These landmarks were founded, and the ancient charges were in use, long previous to the Grand Lodge of Scotland; and it is quite clear that they adopted them, for in the tenth paragraph of the installation charge we read these words, "You admit that it is not in the power of any man or body of men to make alterations or innovations in Freemasonry?" The Grand Lodge of Scotland has therefore clearly adopted the law that bastards are ineligible for admission into the Order; and Scotch lodges and Masters are bound by the old laws, which are unalterable. Bastards may have been admitted as Freemasons, but this has been contrary to the law, and cannot take away its validity.

We have made enquiries of authorities in Freemasonry in Edinburgh, Glasgow, Dundee, Perth, Aberdeen, Inverness, Forfar, Brechin, Montrose, Leith, Portobello, Musselburgh, Dalkeith, Melrose, Jedburgh, Hawick, Linlithgow, Ayr, Irvine, Kilmarnock, Kilwinning, Greenock, and Dunfermline, and have also met with several thousands of Freemasons in Scotland and have put the question to them as to the eligibility or ineligibility of bastards, and all agree that bastards are ineligible.

Looking also to the lodges highest on the roll for Intrants for the last ten years, of the Grand Lodge of Scotland, we cannot find a single instance in which a bastard has been initiated.

A Masonic Lodge is formed on the model of Solomon's temple—nothing can be allowed in it but what is clean and perfect. The bastard was not permitted to enter the temple under the Levitical law, nor can he now enter our ancient and honourable Order under the ancient and unalterable laws of Freemasonry. We may pity the bastard for all the disadvantages of his birth, for which he is not himself to be blamed, but we cannot wish to see him relieved from them, because it would remove one of the restraints on vice, and as he cannot inherit property under the law of the land, so we think he ought to be excluded from the Masonic Order, of which one chief characteristic is its maintenance of moral purity.

We repeat, and add to our statement, that in a number of lodges holding charters under the Grand Lodge of Scotland, bastards have been refused initiation on the ground that the ancient landmarks and charges of the Order prevented their admission.

Some years ago, an article appeared in the Scottish "Freemasons' Magazine," maintaining the ineligibility of bastards as members of the Order. No Scotchman attempted to controvert the statements of that article. But Br. D. M. Lyon had abundant opportunity of doing so, and he must have been well aware of the publication of the article to which we refer—but probably he could not venture on it in a Scottish publication as he now does in an English one. However, it is hardly to be supposed that either in England or Scotland a protestation of ignorance should be accepted as a display of learning. CIPKS.

METROPOLITAN MASONIC MEETINGS

For the Week ending August 14, 1869.

Monday, August 9.

Lodge No. 879, "Peckham," Fdinbro' Castle, Peckham.
Chapter 720, "Pannure," Loughboro' Hotel, Brixton.

Tuesday, August 10.

Lodge No. 548, "Wellington," White Swan Tav., Deptford.
" 834, "Ranelagh," Windsor Castle Hotel, Ham-mersmith.
" 933, "Doric," Anderson's Hotel, Fleet-street.
Metropolitan Chapter of Instruction, George Hotel, Alder-manhury at 7; Comp. Brett, Preceptor.
Domestic Lodge of Instruction, Palmerston Tavern, Grosvenor-park, Camberwell, at 7.30.
Faith Lodge of Instruction, Metropolitan Railway, Victoria Station, at 8.

Wednesday, August 11

Committee of Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, Free-masons' Hall, at 8.
Lodge No. 1017, "Montflore," Freemasons' Hall.
" 1228, "Beacontree," private rooms, Leyton-tones.
United Strength Lodge of Instruction, No. 228, Bull an Gate, Kentish Town road.

Thursday, August 12.

Lodge No. 1076 "Capper," Marine Hotel, Victoria Dock.
" 1227, "Upton," Spotted Dog Tav., Upton, Essex.

Friday, August 13.

Emulation Lodge of Improvement for M.M.'s, Freemasons' Hall at 7.
Metropolitan Lodge of Instruction, George Hotel, Alderman-bury, at 7; Bro. Brett, Preceptor.
Belgrave Lodge of Instruction, Duke of Wellington Hotel, Spring-gardens, Charing-cross.

Saturday, August 14.

Lodge No. 178, "Caveac," Radley's Hotel, Blackfriars.
Domestic Chapter of Instruction, Horns Tavern, Kensington, at 7; Preceptor, Comp. R. Wentworth Little.

A CLEVER article which appeared in the Sunday Times some weeks ago on "Cardinal Cullen and Freemasonry," has been republished in the shape of a letter to his Eminence by the author, who signs himself "A Past Provincial Grandmaster."

THE National Artillery Association commenced its annual meeting at Shoeburyness, on Monday, the 2nd inst. We notice that our esteemed friend and Bro., Lieut. J. S. Charlton, of the 1st Middlesex Artillery, is again at his post as the senior Brigade Quarter-master.

Births, Marriages, and Deaths.

MARRIAGE.

BRAITHWAITE-ATKINSON.—On the 28th July, at Temple Sowerby, by the Rev. Geo. Braithwaite, M.A., uncle of the bridegroom, assisted by the Rev. Edward Taylor, incumbent, Christopher Wilson Braithwaite, of Plumtree Hall, Esq., in the county of Westmoreland (P.M. 1074), to Elizabeth, eldest daughter of Richard Atkinson, of Temple Sowerby, Esq., Westmoreland.

DEATHS.

NORMAN.—On the 28th July, at Bromley, Kent, Mary Eleanor, the only and dearly-beloved daughter of Brother Henry Norman, Buckingham Palace Road, aged twelve months, surviving her mother only six days.

SCHWITZER.—On the 30th July, at St. Leonard's-on-Sea, Minnie, the beloved wife of Bro. Theodore R. Schwitzer, of 36, Highbury Grove, N., a member of the Premier Conclave of England.

SMITH.—On the 31st July, at 23, Russell-street, Liverpool, aged 14 months, the much-beloved daughter of Bro. Dr. J. Kellett Smith, P.M. of Temple Lodge, 1094, Liverpool.

Answers to Correspondents.

All communications for THE FREEMASON should be written legibly, on one side of the paper only, and, if intended for insertion in the current number must be received not later than 10 o'clock a.m. on Thursdays, unless in very special cases. The name and address of every writer must be sent to us in confidence.

X. Y. Z.—You will find your question answered by the circular issued to the Inauguration Stewards, reproduced at page 65 of our present issue.

ENQUIRER.—As a rule, the influx of advertisements is a safe indication of a newspaper's success. The general public are not bad judges of a Journal's circulation, hence the non-Masonic advertisements to which you allude. Our steady increase in this direction will enable us to introduce improvements from time to time, so as to ensure the continuance and extension of the wide spread circulation which THE FREEMASON, we are proud to say, now enjoys.

A FRIEND IN JAMAICA.—Thanks for your high encomiums, which we shall endeavour to merit by increased exertions; and thanks also for the substantial proof of your esteem to which the list of subscribers received bears ample testimony. It is upon such brethren as yourself that we rely for assistance in our endeavours to render THE FREEMASON the cosmopolitan organ of the Craft.

31st.—We have no animus in the matter and have stated simple facts. The secret history of the Rite itself, as well as curious statements connected with the formation of a Council in England, are in our possession, and we are therefore in a position to judge. We quote the following from Bro. Goodall's Report (which will hereafter be found in its place) as a proof that the words "so-called Scottish Rite" were not used in an invidious sense:—"The word 'Scottish,' which has accidentally and improperly been incorporated with the Ancient Accepted Rite, appears to have no lawful origin as such; at least not from the land of Scotia, as they are among the last who have thus far adopted that Rite, and hence receive the word 'Scottish' from foreign jurisdictions." Verbum sap. Bro. Goodall, 88th, has promised to pay us a visit on his arrival in England in the course of this month, and we anticipate much edification and instruction from the interview. You may rely upon it that we are neither swayed by prejudice nor passion in any matter relating to Freemasonry.

AMBIDEXTER.—Your letter will appear next week.

BOOKS RECEIVED.

"Cholera: its Cause and Cure. The nature of the Poison; the part of the body first attacked; development and self-generation in the blood; effects on the nervous and vascular systems, and fatality thence arising; with observations on our means of defence against its infection, and the simple and rational method of treating this Asiatic Pestilence (with special directions)." In two discourses by Dr. TURLEY, F.R.S., &c., &c. Butler & Farmer, Frome and London; or H. Lamplough, 113, Holborn-hill, London. Price 6d.

The Freemason,

SATURDAY, AUGUST 7, 1869.

THE FREEMASON is published on Saturday Mornings in time for the early trains.

The price of THE FREEMASON is Twopence per week; quarterly subscription (including postage) 3s. 3d. Annual Subscription, 12s. Subscriptions payable in advance. All communications, letters, &c., to be addressed to the Editor, 3 & 4, Little Britain, E.C.

The Editor will pay careful attention to all MSS. entrusted to him, but cannot undertake to return them unless accompanied by postage stamps.

SCIONS FROM THE PARENT STEM.

THERE are few feelings in the human breast nobler, purer, or pleasanter than those with which a true parent contemplates the growth and healthy development of his children.

With eyes of affection, the father or mother watches the child's gradual advance from what

Byron calls "the dawn of little joys" to the meridian of matured strength and wisdom. And when the time arrives, as in the course of nature it must, for the severance of those ties which bound the scion to the parent stem—when the young tree must at length take root for itself, and send forth in its turn goodly branches and fruit—even then the true parent surveys the inevitable process of perpetuation with more happiness than sorrow, and rejoices in the vigour of those off shoots which are destined to transmit his name to posterity.

It is not to be denied, however, that some unwise and selfish parents, though fortunately such instances are rare, are unwilling to see the parental trunk forsaken by the younger branches, even when the latter are fully competent to manage their own affairs and to take their places as stately trees in the spreading forests of life. This is undoubtedly a foolish idea, one opposed to the order of Nature's laws, which point with unerring finger to the constant birth, progression, and succession of all created objects, whether endued with sentient, animal, or vegetable existence.

We have no sympathy with such a sentiment, or with the unkindly actions which occasionally flow from it.

States and societies, as well as individuals, have alike evinced this narrow feeling, but happily wiser and better counsels now prevail. The attempts of England to coerce her transatlantic colonies, and the sanguinary struggles of Spanish despots to retain rule over the South American republics are melancholy examples of the benighted policy to which we allude.

Even in Freemasonry, we find that the governing powers in parent states are strangely reluctant to admit that lodges situated in distant dependencies have, if sufficiently numerous, an undoubted right to Masonic autonomy and all the privileges of self-government.

It is an admitted fact that from the Grand Lodges of England and Scotland all the existing Craft organizations are derived.

In France, the first regular Masonic body was constituted under the title of the "Grande Loge Anglaise de France."

In Germany, Holland, and the Northern States of Europe, Freemasonry was similarly established under the auspices of British authority.

The rapid formation of lodges, and the general spread of the Fraternity throughout the Continent, soon rendered it imperatively necessary that the Craft should renounce allegiance to the Mother Grand Lodges, and erect independent governing bodies of their own for the several States.

It does not appear that any objection was offered by the Masonic rulers in either England or Scotland to these measures, and in point of fact we have evidence that the establishment of those sister Grand Lodges was witnessed by British Masons with great exultation, as so many additional proofs of the vitality and progress of the Order. Upon the termination of the American War, the United States became politically severed from England, and as citizens of an independent nation, the brethren in those vast territories likewise asserted and maintained their Masonic right of self-government.

Since then, about forty Grand Lodges have been organized in the United States alone, every one of which is recognized as regular by all the Masonic Jurisdictions throughout the world.

The principle, therefore, of autonomy in civil rights constituting a valid claim to autonomy in the affairs of Freemasonry has been thus clearly affirmed.

But the formation of the Grand Lodge of Canada, which was then only a colonial dependency of Great Britain, appeared to be a departure from this guiding principle, the colony being politically subject to England. For this reason the mother Grand Lodges of the United Kingdom were unwilling to acknowledge the legitimacy of the Canadian Grand Lodge, although in our opinion, the time had fully arrived for its establishment, and it was only after an arduous and protracted struggle that the victory of independence was achieved by our brethren in Canada. Recently, it is true, the Provinces as they were called have been erected into a political "Dominion," but even in the absence of such a consummation we should hold that the Canadian Masons were quite able to manage their own affairs, and the result of their efforts has certainly been favorable to the extension of the Craft.

Our object now, however, is to offer our hearty congratulations to the brethren in Nova Scotia upon the successful formation of their "United Grand Lodge," and to assure them that not a particle of envy or jealousy exists in the mind of any British Freemason as regards the auspicious union of Nova Scotian Lodges effected on the 24th June, 1869. On the contrary, we hold out to them, in the name of the English Craft, the right hand of fraternity, peace, and good-will. We bid them "God-speed" in their new career, feeling convinced that the connection which existed between the British and Irish Grand Lodges and the brethren in Nova Scotia is dissolved only in name; that our mutual sympathies remain undiminished, our friendship and fellowship as strong and as well-grounded as ever. We are also pleased to note that the former Provincial Grand Master under England and Scotland—the Hon. Alexander Keith—has been chosen the first Grand Master of the new organization; it is an evidence of unity, and an augury of continued success. In every respect, we are proud of our colonial brethren, and we feel sure that come what may they will never forget that they are "scions from the parent stem."

Foreign Masonic Intelligence.

CONSTANTINOPLE.

At a recent meeting of the French Lodge L'Union d'Orient, at Constantinople, which took place on the 12th of January, the Bro. Halim-Pacha, Provincial Grand Master of the English lodges in Egypt, was present. At this meeting all the lodges in Constantinople were represented, and the visitor was received with the Masonic honours prescribed for such an occasion in the French General Regulations. In response to the reception speech, addressed to him in happy terms by Bro. Amiable, the Master, Bro. Halim-Pacha spoke as follows:

"Worshipful Master, Officers of this respectable lodge, and brethren: Among the privileges of a Mason, I know of none more precious than that of being met in whatever country our fortune may conduct us, by fraternal hands and hearts. Sanctuaries of the sacred fire, our temples are open refuges upon all the routes of the known world, where the travellers find repose and refreshments, and there fortify themselves in the reviving atmosphere of devotion and friendship. Could I then neglect the gracious invitation which you addressed me to come and seat myself in your midst?

I thank you for the reception, impressive and cordial, that I receive of this respectable lodge. Believe me truly, when I say I entertain for you those sentiments which you would desire me to entertain, and that should occasion offer I shall be happy to render to you in my country, the hospitalities that to-day you offer me with a degree of grace of which the remembrance shall never be effaced from my memory.

Some become Masons from curiosity, others from following those solicitations, as natural as legitimate, addressed to them by men of good faith who wish to ally themselves by fraternal bonds with other men of good faith and good will. It was with the latter consideration influencing me that I became a Freemason; and I love the institution for the principles of fraternity and liberty of conscience which it proclaims. I have believed, and always will believe, my brothers, that man should be valued at his real value—nothing more, nothing less; that honesty and dignity of life, loyalty of action, in the exercise of virtue and the exact accomplishment of every duty, should be the only true titles which we can present with confidence to the Great Architect of the Universe and to each other; and that outside of these titles there is little or nothing true under the sun.

Assuredly I have had some allusions removed; I have assisted at some deplorable exhibitions of weakness; but this weakness and these allusions have not shaken my faith. A tribute paid to humanity, these failings by the way rise again even to the Masonic idea which, too much elevated to be ever lowered, reposes immovable and unattackable above mankind and the miseries inseparable from the nature of man.

And could my faith be dissipated while that each day men the most diverse in nationality, in language, in origin, in manners and in customs, seek and find admission among us; while that in our lodges all languages known are spoken; and that a new Babel, the tower of masonry, is erected by us without confusion in the Order, the majesty and the unity of a work destined to unite all worlds by the most fruitful and the most gigantic of alliances?

When the founders of this lodge named it 'L'Union d'Orient,' they comprehend well the beauty and adaptability of the name they bestowed upon that organization whose free suffrages have called you for the fifth time, Worshipful Master, to the honor of presiding over their labors. Union of the East! That is to say the liberty, fraternity, equality of all the peoples of this great empire, under Masonic laws which know neither distinction nor privileges; and under the terms of these laws, initiation into new ideas, progress incessant, peace and happiness, conquests pacific, victories without tears!

Thus, Worshipful Master, officers of this respectable lodge, and brothers, I wish to salute you in this prophetic name, so well borne, so full of promise and of hope.

Accept this cordial salutation of your Egyptian brother—'Union d'Orient!'

The correspondent concludes his communication by stating that it would be superfluous to attempt remarking upon the manner which accompanied the language of this address, as it came from the lips of the son of Mehemet-Ali, the Uncle of Ismail-Pacha, viceroy of Egypt, between whom there has been recently some disagreeable contests which were noticed by the journals, and to which the former alluded in this address. The audience were most pleasantly impressed with a sense of the real manliness and moral worth of him who thus eloquently addressed them; while his subsequent extreme cordiality, his elevation of sentiments, and the charm of his conversation rapidly gained upon every heart. Brother Halim-Pacha has long lived in France, where he was made a Mason. His language, as we have given it, stamps him as a man of liberal ideas and education, and it is (finally concludes the correspondent) difficult to remain in his presence many minutes without realizing that he is a very uncommon man. Those who assisted at the meeting, at which he remained unto the end, will not forget the happy remembrance of his speech and presence.—Exchange.

SUPREME GRAND CHAPTER OF ENGLAND.

A Quarterly Convocation of Grand Chapter was held in the Zetland Chamber, Freemasons' Hall, on Wednesday, the 4th inst. M.E. Comp. the Rev. John Huyshe, M.A., 3rd Grand Principal, and P.G. Supt. for Devonshire, presided as Z., and was supported by E. Comp. F. Pattison, as H.; S. Rawson, P.D.G. Supt. for China, as J.; W. Pulteney Scott as E.; J. M. Clabon, N.; S. L. Tomkins, P.S.; E. S. Snell and Brackstone Baker, Assist. Soj.; H. Empson, Sword Bearer; C. C. Dumas, Standard Bearer; J. Nunn, D.C.; J. Savage, P.G.S.B.; A. Holman,

P.G.S.B.; H. Muggeridge, P.G.S.B.; Rev. C. R. Davy, P.G.P. Soj.; J. Udall, P.G.A. Soj.; N. Bradford, P.G.D.C.; G. W. K. Potter, P.G.P. Soj.; J. Smith, P.G.D.C.; W. E. Walmsley, P.G.S.B.; H. Browse, P.G.S.B.; A. M. Walls, . . . D.C.; G. Cox, P.G.S.B.; H. G. Buss, P.Z., 177; W. Pound, Z., 19; F. Bennoch, P.Z., 2; R. Wentworth Little, Z. 177, P.Z., 975; R. Spencer, P.Z. 3; Raynham W. Stewart, 12; James Brett, P.Z. 177, 975; W. Smith, P.Z. 390; L. Mercik, Z. 534; W. Ough, P.Z. 749; J. Lockley, J. 757; H. Johnson, J. 749.

In the absence of Comp. Hervey, G.S.E., the minutes were read by Comp. W. Pulteney Scott, President of the Grand Chapter Committee.

The Report of the Committee (which appeared in The Freemason last week) was taken as read.

A short discussion ensued upon the infliction of a fine upon the Chapter of Concord, No. 394, Southampton, for violating the regulations of the Order, but the action of the Committee was, in effect, unanimously sustained.

Upon motion duly made and seconded, a charter was granted for a chapter to be attached to the lodge St. George, No. 549, Bombay.

Comp. Francis Bennoch, P.Z., No. 2, pursuant to notice of motion, then moved the following resolution:—

"When the minutes of the previous meeting have been read, and their accuracy unimpugned, and their confirmation proposed:—no motion to omit any substantial portion of the business recorded as transacted shall be accepted, unless due notice of such motion shall have been given and printed in the usual paper of business."

Comp. RAYNHAM W. STEWART, in order to elicit a discussion on the subject, seconded the motion.

Comp. J. SAVAGE, in a voluminous speech, objected to the proposition, first, on technical grounds, and then upon its merits. He considered it highly inexpedient to pass resolutions in Grand Chapter of a contrary tendency to the practice in Grand Lodge.

Comp. BRACKSTONE BAKER warmly supported the motion, contending that when once a resolution is carried it would be only fair that its supporters should know that it was likely to be opposed upon the minutes being put for confirmation.

A lengthened debate ensued, in which Comps. Clabon, Browse, Stewart, Smith, Nunn, Walmsley, Snell, Tomkins and Walls took part.

In his reply, Comp. BENNOCH intimated that in view of the expressions of opinion elicited, he was willing that the whole subject should be referred back to the Grand Chapter Committee, a suggestion which was received with applause. An amendment to that effect was then proposed by Comp. Snell and seconded by Comp. Tomkins, when Comp. Savage again interposed his veto to the amendment being considered after Comp. Bennoch's reply, but was over-ruled by the M.E.Z., who thereupon put the proposition that the motion be referred to the Grand Chapter Committee for report, and declared it carried by a majority of two to one.

The Grand Chapter was then closed in due form.

We are sorry that pressure of matter compels us to defer the publication of several interesting articles.

It is the book that makes known to man, through the Saviour, the mercy of God to all true believers, that gives proof of their belief in their conduct. It is the book that gives the lives and actions of the Apostles and other holy men who preached the truths of the Gospel from Divine inspiration of the souls, without a view to profit or any other worldly consideration.—Ellis.

Original Correspondence.

[The Editor is not responsible for the opinions expressed by Correspondents.]

UNIFORMITY OF WORKING.

(To the Editor of the Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I was one of, doubtless, many who watched the efforts made by yourself, Brother Stevens, and others to rouse the authorities with reference to the establishment of an orthodox ritual for the Craft; efforts which were met, I conceived, by a display of masterly inactivity on the part of our rulers. But it appears that I was mistaken, and that the Board of General Purposes have really commissioned a certain Brother to promulgate a revised working; though why he should select a lodge at Woolwich as the first place in which to exemplify the same is more than I can conjecture. I am glad, however, to find that something has been done, and hope that the brother will speedily communicate the new ritual to the London brethren, so that before the lodge season recommences we may be able to cut a decent figure.

I enclose you a circular of the lodge at which the approved working was first given, and you will perceive that the fact is duly noted on the summons.

Yours fraternally,
SIGMA.

THE POPE AND FREEMASONRY.

(To the Editor of the Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I must really demur to the strong language used by "Cryptonymus" in reference not only to political events, but to political personages.

I quite agree with your able contributor that the course pursued by the despots of Europe, and especially by the Court of Rome, towards Freemasonry deserves the strongest reprobation, but in common with many English brethren, I must earnestly deprecate the use of opprobrious epithets as a rejoinder to those foolish efforts to repress freedom and obscure light.

A good cause can dispense with the weapons of vituperation, and the fact that they are levelled at certain individuals instead of the systems which those individuals represent, adds strength to the argument.

Freemasonry on the Continent can accomplish more by a change of tactics than by identifying her mission with the cause of misguided though well-meaning enthusiasts. As an Englishman, I respect the right of revolution in certain cases, and heartily applaud the glorious spirit of liberty wherever displayed. But I object to a philanthropic and law-abiding institution like Freemasonry—as we in England understand the term—being made a plot-house for conspirators, or a camera obscura for free-thinking fanatics. Undoubtedly, as "Cryptonymus" indicates, "we must make great allowances for the exigencies of the Craft in countries where the free utterance of opinion is unknown, because in such cases the moral power of the Fraternity may be justly exercised to combat wrong and promote the amelioration of the people; but at the same time let me insist that Freemasons, as such, have nothing to do with political or religious systems, and the more they refrain from meddling with either, the better it will be for the Order at large. Nothing can be more injurious to the well-being of Freemasonry than the suspicion that it offers the security of its inviolable shade and secrecy to the foes of religion and civil government.

Personal attacks on rulers are, if possible, still more objectionable, as they import a more concentrated spirit of bitterness into the contest. I can safely assert my entire innocence of any admiration for the principles or practices of the Romish Church, but at the same time I am not prepared to brand its present Chief with the sardonic appellation of "The miserable Pope." In his private life, Pius IX. is, I believe, a very estimable personage, and no one can deny that he is entitled to our respect as a gentleman, even if we discredit his pretensions as a priest. 'O a man brought up in the Romish faith, and surrounded from his childhood by its pompous ceremonies and traditional policy, the course the present Pontiff pursues is strictly one of consistency with his belief. He acts according to his light, and our conviction that he is in error is no justification for a diatribe on his personal character. Of course, "Cryptonymus" uses the term "miserable" as an equivalent for "despicable," for in its mental signification I conceive it has no bearing upon the subject, or else the words of the song, "The Pope, he leads a happy life," are wanting in one essential particular—namely, veracity.

Bro. Mastai Ferretti, however, has shown that he can be a humourist at times, and on the whole I doubt not that he manages to pass through life pretty comfortably. Upon this head the following anecdote may not be considered mal apropos:—

"The Pope's sense of humour is proverbial in Rome, and he gave a good example of it the other day to a corporation of bakers, who asked an audience of him in order to remonstrate against a new and excellent public oven, which supplies far better bread on much lower terms than they had been in the habit of making. This interference with their long-enjoyed monopoly was, of course, although a great popular benefit, a grievous injury in their eyes. "Holy Father" said the spokesman, "It is very hard on us; we have worked so long for the public benefit." "It is quite true, my son," replied the Pope; "and it's high time you rested a little, and let other people work."

My summing up is, that if we have a good and noble cause to vindicate, and I for one believe it most heartily, there is no occasion to abuse the "plaintiff's attorney."

Yours fraternally,
VIATOR.

ORIGIN OF FREEMASONRY.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER.—I consider your excellent correspondent "Leo" engaged in a work of supererogation when he labors to fix the date of the "origin" of our Order. Personally, I care not to enquire whether it dates from A.M. 4004, or A.D. 2717, for uncertainty on the point to me possesses a charm, and not to me only but to thousands of others who range under our banner.

Your correspondent appears to take some interest in our late Brother Elias Ashmole. The following note, prefixed to the By-laws of the Lodge of Lights, No. 148, Warrington, may not, perhaps, be unacceptable to him:—

NOTE.—The Lodge has to acknowledge its obligations to William Beaumont, Esq., for the following extract:—From "Memoirs of the life of Elias Ashmole drawn up by himself." (Pubd. by Charles Burman, Esq.) London, 1717.

Page 15. "October 16th, 4 hor 30 minut a post merid.—I was made a Free Mason at Warrington, in Lancashire, with Colonel Mainwaring, of Kyrincham, in Cheshire; the names of those that were then at the Lodge, Mr. Richard P. Neth, Warden; Mr. James Collier, Mr. Richard Sankey, Henry Litter, John Ellum, Richard Ellum, and Hugh Brewer."

It is a matter for great regret that the ancient records are lost, and that the history of Freemasonry in Warrington cannot now be connectively traced further back than November 8th, 1765. JOHN BOWES, Hon. Sec

Yours fraternally,

JOHN BOWES, P.M. P.Z.,

2nd August, 1869.

P. Prov. G. Reg., &c., &c.

MASONRY AND THE SLAVE.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

SIR AND BROTHER.—The thirteenth "Paper" of "Cryptonymus" which appeared in your issue of the 3rd of July, on "Masonry and the Slave," has attracted my attention. The humane and charitable spirit of the article has won my esteem for the writer. But I am compelled to dissent from his conclusions.

"Cryptonymus" aims to diffuse light; to throw all the light that is in him on his theme. My own purpose in writing is to further illuminate the question he raises—the relationship of Freemasonry to the slave, to the man born in bondage and now free. To me the light of your correspondent seems discolored—the discolored medium undoubtedly being his theory of the origin of Masonry. His object and my own, I will submit, are the same, and being the same, it is in no egotistic spirit that I say criticism may help him, his reader, and myself to discover truer and sounder views.

"Cryptonymus" adopts as his texts Noah's reputed curse of Canaan, and certain language of Paul to Philemon. Canaan was undoubtedly a very naughty fellow and richly deserved the displeasure of his grandfather, but I cannot see the propriety of accepting the far-reaching wrath of Noah as a law in Masonry. I rather like the tone of Paul's discourse to Philemon, but as neither Noah nor Paul, neither Canaan nor Philemon, were Masons, as far as we can ascertain, I cannot see what significance there is in the discussion of the meanings to be placed on the language of Noah or of Paul so far as Freemasonry is concerned.

The tenets of Masonry are brotherly love, relief and truth, and the position which Masonry is to assume, on the question raised by "Cryptonymus," must be deducible from these principles, and not from any condition of things growing out of the quarrels in the family of Noah, or out of the usages of society in the days of Paul. That only is for authority in Masonry on this and other questions pertaining to the morals or ethics of Masonry, which is erected on the eternal foundations of right and justice. That which the ancients of any race or region may have done or said, is of no authority whatever, except so far as it accords with the dogmas of Masonry, so grounded, and with truth.

It is too late, in the nineteenth century, to admit that there ever was any divine basis underlying the institution of slavery. It ever was altogether human, and never divine. It never could have been right or just. It was the offspring of human barbarism and cruelty and not at all the offspring of a benevolent deity, and there never was, or can be, a malevolent deity. Slavery always was a crime, and an outrage against humanity—a condition against submission, to which the divinely implanted instincts of every son of woman urge them to revolt, and against the perpetration of which crime all revolt is, and ever was, righteous.

Masonry is light and truth; Masonry is love and justice. Light and truth, love and justice, are attributes of God. They admit of no compromise with darkness and error, hatred and wrong. In the light of these divine attributes, there is no ray which throws a divine sanction around slavery, or any of the conditions or usages of society outgrowing from slavery.

The distinctions which were made in New Testament times, between men enslaved recovering their freedom, and men born in slavery—men slave-born or free-born—are distinctions which in Masonry, and as Masons, we have no right to recognize. The distinctions which other times have made are not landmarks in Masonry, except in so far as these distinctions were already made Masonic, by the use and approbation of Masons, for Masonic purposes. Such distinctions as Paul may have referred to, obtained under a social system based on wrong and injustice. It is not for Masonry, which is founded on a belief in the divine fatherhood, and a recognition of the subsequent human brotherhood, to receive law from man's ignorance and unfraternal hate, man's error and wrong.

Whatever form or usage in the Masonic institution operates to rivet the chains of slavery, to perpetuate suffering from the wearing of those chains, to continue a wrong and injustice to any race or class of men, white, black, or red, cannot with any truth or propriety be regarded as a landmark. It must be an innovation and intrusion of something essentially foreign to the nature of Freemasonry. Violence is done to the spirit of genuine Masonry by retaining among its forms anything inspired by such distinctions. The Grand Lodge of England acted in the closest harmony with the spirit of Masonry in striking out the word free-born and substituting free-man, while the Grand Lodges of the United States act un-Masonically in maintaining, in the American sense, free-birth as a requirement to candidates. As Hamlet is made to say of the vice of drinking in Denmark, so may we say of all these forms and usages, and every remnant of them, that they are "more honored in the breach, than the observance." All technicalities concerning free-birth or slave-birth, are mere evidences of the corrupting influences of corrupt social systems upon the institutions which have existed under such influences, and from which it is clear that even Freemasonry has not escaped. Any interpretation of those technicalities which would to-day operate unfavorably towards any race or class of men must be regarded as utterly abhorrent to the true instincts of Speculative Masonry—as absolutely un-Masonic.

It is a greater wrong, a more outrageous crime against humanity, to permit a child to be born in slavery, than to reduce a freeman to slavery. It is a double crime, against the mother and against the babe. Yet the theory of "Cryptonymus" would add to the burden of the greater crime, against the man accidentally born a slave, by refusing to admit him into Masonry after becoming free, while it would altogether omit to see that the free-born man afterwards enslaved and then recovering freedom may have become enslaved from his own weakness or fault. The theory of "Cryptonymus" places Masonry in the false position of refusing to extend the hand of sympathy to the one of two who has suffered the most from the curse of bondage, and of extending that hand to the one who has suffered the least. The slave-born man, as the sufferer from a greater crime, a grosser outrage against his liberty, is even entitled to a stronger and deeper sympathy than the slave free-born. But "Cryptonymus" would deny to him the privileges of Masonry after gaining his freedom. The true theory would extend to him that heartier sympathy.

It is un-Masonic and behind the times to demand that a candidate for the rights and benefits of Freemasonry shall be free-born in the American sense. It is un-Masonic in Masonry to make a distinction where God makes none, when divine truth and love and justice make none; wherein only man in barbarism, or man not wholly escaped from barbarism, makes any. These distinctions are null and void in Masonry, because of the injustice and immorality, because of the wrongs which they would help the ignorant or the prejudiced to perpetuate.

If the Masonic Institution in any part of the world persists in keeping up these iniquitous distinctions, it only proves that when society there permitted men to be enslaved, it also demoralized Masonry to such an extent as to render it subservient to slavery and injustice.

I would press the foregoing considerations upon "Cryptonymus," in the hope that he may review and rebuild his theory—"that the persons who have attained to the knowledge of Masonic secrets by virtue of the warrant said to have been granted to Prince Hall and others, are practically Masons no one can doubt, although they must technically be regarded as clandestine Masons."

This is too low ground, Brother "Cryptonymus," elevate thy platform, deepen thy foundations, get rid of the slavery with which slavery hath enslaved thee, purify thy theories in the light of freedom and quit hair-splitting.

The colored Masons of America, of the line of Prince Hall, areas regular in their Masonic standing, in the light of logic and sound sense, as is your own beloved Grand Master, or the white Masons of England, or of any part of the world. They trace their pedigree through unbroken Masonic generations to the same pure source of Masonry that you do, or any other Masons on the face of the earth.

I am fraternally yours,

SAMUEL EVANS,

Editor of Masonic Monthly, Boston, U.S.A.

Boston, U.S., July 16th, 1869.

In a future letter I shall say something more as to the true rendering and pedigree of the word "free-born." S.E.

FREEMASONRY IN THE UNITED STATES.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

PART I.

The Grand Lodge of New York, at its last annual session, sounded the tocsin and declared war against the Grand Orient of France. All the Grand Lodges in these States will doubtless follow suit, and we may look for a grand blow-up from the collision of these grand bodies. The casus belli are somewhat similar to that now pending between Great Britain and the United States. What right had England to declare its neutrality between the North and South? And now, what right has the Grand Orient of France to acknowledge not only a certain body in New Orleans as bona fide true blues, but what right has the G.O. to acknowledge the members of all the Negro Lodges in the United States as Masons?

The last is the most ticklish part, which the dignitaries of New York cannot swallow. They do not indeed allude to it; it will not do at present to allude to it, but this is undoubtedly the real grievance. To make this plain to the English reader, it is necessary to lay before him a sketch of Freemasonry in America.

First, then, no sooner has a young man received the M.M. degree in any of our cities, some one whispers in his ear, "Now you ought to take the R.A. degrees, then you will know the whole secret." Of course he is soon after proposed in a Chapter, where he receives four more degrees. This being over, he receives a hint to take the Council degrees, when he receives three more degrees. Having done this, he is next induced to become a Knight Templar, this gives him an addition of three degrees, thus making a total of thirteen degrees. The time necessary to acquire the rituals of all the degrees, and of attending four distinct organizations, leaves the brother little time for improvement in general knowledge, while the expense of taking these degrees, the cost of the different paraphernalia and of supporting these organizations deprives them of the means of giving charity. "Why," the reader would ask, "do our Yankee friends, who are so shrewd in other respects, allow themselves to be gulled in this?" We answer, simply because people may be shrewd in some respects, and may yet be very foolish in others; and, secondly, in our city lodges it is very difficult for one to get an office without belonging to the high degrees. These high degree gentry form themselves into cliques in those lodges, and the question with them is, not the amount of information a brother possesses, but—how high is he gone?

In addition to all these drawbacks, there are other evils flowing from these so-called Masonic degrees which must not be overlooked. Masonry proper, is founded on the brotherhood of man. In the higher degrees, the brotherhood is renounced. The former is based on universality, and the latter on sectarianism, and being misnamed higher, the sectarianism is shamelessly introduced into what they call "lower degrees." One would naturally suppose that thirteen degrees, with four organizations, would be sufficient for any reasonable man. But no, their appetite for a multiplicity of degrees is most marvellous. Within the last six years, what are called the "Scotch Rite" degrees became popular here. These consist of thirty degrees. The former group of degrees, are here seriously called "The legitimate system," "The American system," and "Ancient York Rite." Why they call it "York Rite" is more than any one can tell. Dr. Oliver has informed us where the R.A. was manufactured, and the other degrees of that system undoubtedly had an American origin. And it is equally strange why they call the others, "Scotch Rite;" the Grand Lodge of Scotland having repeatedly declared that she knew nothing about them. As it is, however, the Scotch Rite Council in New Orleans, which gave rise to all that hubbub, a brief history of these Scotch Rite degrees in America will not be out of place in connection with the subject. Between the years 1730 and 1780, there were manufactured in France about a thousand degrees, called Masonic. Some of those degrees were undoubtedly fabricated by Chavalier Ramsay and other adherents of the Stuarts, who pretended that they brought them from Scotland. In 1758, certain Masons, styling themselves "Princes and Grand Officers of the Grand Sovereign Lodge of St. John at Jerusalem" founded at Paris a chapter of "Emperors of the East and West," which consisted of twenty-five degrees, including the blue degrees. In 1762 these degrees were introduced in Charleston, South Carolina. In 1802 the possessors of those degrees in Charleston issued a document, setting forth that Frederick the Great had discovered and deciphered ancient Masonic manuscripts brought by crusaders from the holy land, and thereupon added eight more degrees, thus making the thirty-third, the last and highest degree; and in the same documents they also announced that in the Most Puissant Sovereign Grand Commander of all the Emperors in Charleston rests the power to rule all the Grand Lodges. The Grand Lodge of South Carolina naturally felt offended at their presumption, and appointed a committee to investigate this hitherto unheard-of claim. The M.P.S.G.C., Rev. Dr. F. Dalcho (the real Frederick the Great), replied to the G.L. that a certain Stephen Morin received the power of establishing Symbolic Lodges from the French Emperors of East and West, and who conferred the said power on him (Dalcho) and his successors, but at the same time he agreed to waive that right. "This" Folger says, "was the commencement of strife among the brethren, which has continued to the present day," and this is precisely what the Scotch Rite Council at New Orleans have ceased to waive. We see now where the chicken was hatched, but we must proceed with our narrative. About the year 1804 the Charlestonian Emperors sent a certain Abraham Jacobs to New York to propagate their sublime degrees, and establish consistories, &c., in the said city; there were, however, certain Christian sublimated Masons in New York who were discontented with bowing to a Jewish Emperor, so they picked up a Frenchman, who is described as an illiterate peddling jeweller. He also pretended to have received the thirty-third degree from Morin, and this pedlar was made Sovereign G.C. So there were two Most Puissants in New York, the Charleston one was Jacobs, and the other was named Joseph Cerneau. In 1813 De La Motta came to New York from Charleston and pronounced Cerneau and his Council as imposters, at the same time declared that Frederick the Great ordered that only two independent Councils should exist in the United States, or in other words, Frederick established the original "Mason and Dixon line," the line that divided the slave from the free States. Cerneau, however, continued to propagate not only the "Scotch Rite," but instituted and organised other rites and degrees, such as the "Knight Templars," "Band of Aaron," etc., and among others, he granted a commission to New Orleans for a Scotch Rite Consistory. This Consistory or Supreme Council made some treaty with the Grand Lodge of Louisiana, and continued in a kind of partnership with it, notwithstanding the hue and cry of the then Charleston Emperor, and this treaty lasted until 1850, when the G.L. of Louisiana had its conscience pricked by the Charleston Emperor, for harbouring a spurious Consistory in its bosom. The said G.L. thereupon broke up the treaty, or "concordat" as they styled it; several of the lodges preferred to work under the Consistory, and the said Consistory had ever since 1850 issued charters and formed its own lodges. The G.L. of New York did not, however, for many years take the least notice of that irregularity, but on the contrary, we find that its dignitaries in 1852 received the most illustrious Bro. Foulhouze, the chief mover in the New Orleans Consistory, as a representative to the New York, or Cerneau concern. The said Foulhouze even installed its officers, and made a treaty of everlasting union and friendship between the New Orleans and New York Consistories. Now, we venture to assert, that some of these men, who made the treaty with Foulhouze, are now active members of the G.L. of New York. The question we now ask is, why was it right in 1852 to court the society and flatter the very man who first issued charters in defiance of the G.L. of Louisiana, and why is it wrong now?

PART II.

We will now take up the rival branch of the Scotch Rite, established by the Charleston Emperors in the City of New York. These sagacious statesmen, finding that a Frenchman was more popular as a Sovereign Grand Commander in the City of

New York than a Hebrew schoolmaster, Abraham Jacobs was therefore superseded by J. J. Gourgas, the said Gourgas (I was assured by Bro. John W. Simons, P.G.M. and present Grand Treasurer of New York), never received more than the first degree in a regular constituted lodge, and moreover, was never seen inside a blue lodge. Gourgas became Emperor for life with power to appoint his successor. This concern, like the others, repeatedly fell asleep and then woke up again. Two remarkable events, however, took place in the year 1844. The two greatest Masonic authorities in the United States, and some will have of the world, became sublimated by those wonderful mysteries. These were Albert G. Mackey, of South Carolina, and Charles W. Moore, of Massachusetts. With such master minds to move the levers the concern was not likely to continue slumbering, either North or South; we consequently find in 1844, Bro. Mackey, reascended the Charleston concern; and in 1848 Bro. C. W. Moore and E. A. Raymond, of Boston, met the said Gourgas and a few others in the City of New York, when they issued a manifesto, that we Messrs. Gourgas, G. W. Moore and Co., were alone entitled according to ancient Masonic law, to confer the Scotch Rite degrees north of Mason and Dixon line, at the same time denouncing all other pretended Councils in downright Billingsgate style, and further repeated their favorite dogma, that "We, Gourgas, C. W. Moore and Co.," have a right to rule all the Grand Lodges north of the said Mason and Dixon line, but for the present they obligingly waived to exercise the said right. So we see here again, the doctrine to rule Grand Lodges by these higher degrees was affirmed by the greatest Masonic authority in the world, as he believes himself to be. Yes! C. W. M., of Boston, said it is so, and who shall dispute his decision? In 1851, this Gourgas and Moore concern removed its Grand East from New York to Boston, when the aforesaid E. A. Raymond was appointed Most Puissant Sov. Grand Commander, and C. W. M. as Illustrious Grand Secretary; and in 1854, the Most Puissant Sov. and Illustrious Grand Secretary had a quarrel, which resulted in a split of their joint concern. So we had now, two Grand Easts in Boston, one in New York, one in Charleston, South Carolina, and one in New Orleans. Of these five concerns, the Cerneau Council of New York renounced its right to rule Grand Lodges; the one of Charleston, and the two of Boston, only waived it while the one in New Orleans or Louisiana exercised that right. In the year 1867, the three concerns in the North finally amalgamated. The one of New Orleans, however, which according to the will of Frederick the Great ought to succumb to Albert Pike, the present Charleston Emperor—we say it ought, but it will not succumb; they will not be persuaded that Albert Pike alone has the power to rule the whole South, so the New Orleans Council, as soon as the late war was over, and the abolition of slavery in the South became an established fact, the said New Orleans Council issued circulars to all the Negro Lodges in the United States, acknowledging the said organizations as Masonic, and allowing its members mutually to visit each other's lodges. This stroke of policy produced its effect in Europe. Belgium and France successively acknowledged the New Orleans Consistory. The Southern Emperor, Albert Pike, some time ago fulminated a decree of expulsion against the Grand Orient of Belgium. Belgium, however, did not appear to feel the thunder of the Southern Vatican. So now, he ordered his agents to stir up the Grand Lodges in the United States, to suspend intercourse with the Grand Orient of France. These Grand Lodges are and will be used by him, after the fashion of the monkey and cat's paw. The leaders and movers of his Orders do not care so much about the invasion of Louisiana by the French Orient, nor do they care a button about the rights of the Grand Lodge of Louisiana. It is evident from the foregoing: first, that the Louisiana Council received its right in 1813, from its New York instructors; second, that the Grand Lodge of Louisiana by making a treaty or concordat with the said New Orleans Council, virtually surrendered its exclusive right to the jurisdiction of the State; thirdly, the very leaders and movers in the New York Grand Lodge for suspension of intercourse with the Grand Orient of France were active members of the Cerneau concern, when Foulhouze was received by them with the greatest marks of distinction; and fourthly, we have seen that they all agree in the doctrine of the right of these Councils to rule Grand Lodges, and we have no hesitation in stating, that Messrs. Albert Pike and C. W. Moore would long since have enforced their pretended right if it paid them better to do so. The main cause of the New York leaders was therefore not the rights of the Grand Lodge of Louisiana, but the acknowledgment by the Grand Orient of France of the Negro Lodges and Masons in the United States. Here, then, is the real sore part. Our democratic Emperors cannot bear the idea that a despised negro should be acknowledged by any one in the world, not only as a Mason, but as a sublimated Mason; a Mason of the "ineffable degrees," a Mason of the "Ancient and Accepted Rite," etc., etc.; that is too shocking, positively too shocking to their sensitive nerves. For my own part, while I despise all kinds of so-called higher degrees, and while I detest the dogmas of their right to rule Grand Lodges, yet in this case there is very little choice, both parties, North and South, have ever preached up that pretended right; the question now is, which of the two acts more in accordance with Masonic ideas of universality and cosmopolitanism. This I must, in common with the Grand Orient of France, award to the New Orleans Consistory. Whether their acknowledgment of the Negro Lodges proceeded from conscientious motives or from motives of policy is immaterial, the action was truly Masonic, and we hope it will be sustained by other Grand Lodges besides those of France and Belgium. There is, however, another question which must be taken into consideration. Does the acknowledgment of the New Orleans Consistory by France merit this contemplated uproar? The Grand Orient of France did not declare the illegitimacy of the Grand Lodge of Louisiana. It merely said—gentlemen, whenever either of you should visit France, we shall be glad to receive and acknowledge you, either in our lodges as brethren, or in our consistory as Illustrious Emperors. Surely, has it not a right to do that? There are now, I believe, two distinct bodies who grant charters in France for Symbolic Masonry, and members from each are admitted into all the lodges in the United States. There are three Grand Lodges in Prussia, and three in Great Britain and Ireland; are they not all treated alike in the United States. Again, while the schism from 1849 to 1858 lasted in the State of New York, both parties appealed to the Grand Lodge of England for its recognition, and the Grand Lodge of England, if I am rightly informed, acknowledged both parties, and members from both Grand Lodges were indifferently admitted as visitors into English Lodges, and this appears to be all that the Grand Orient of France is now doing with respect to Louisiana, and may be with other jurisdictions wherein Negro Lodges exist, and this will yet be done by other Grand Lodges besides France. It is all well enough for our American Grand Lodges to talk about their exclusive jurisdiction, but they cannot be allowed to act tyrannically and arbitrarily in their jurisdictions. If they insist in maintaining and defending a corrupt Masonic system, other Grand Lodges cannot, and should not tolerate their exclusive right to such jurisdiction. Thus we find that the Grand Lodge of England granted a charter to Jewish brethren residing at Frankfurt-on-Main, notwithstanding the claim of some local body to jurisdiction; and the Grand Lodge of Hamburg granted two charters to German brethren residing in New York. It is all well enough for the New York dignitaries to suspend intercourse with every Grand Lodge which look upon Masons from a different point to what the New Yorkers do, but what will be the result of it? Simply this, whenever there are a dozen French or Belgian brethren in New York who may be refused admission into Masonic Lodges, these French or Belgian brethren will apply for charters to France, and may eventually form a Grand Lodge of their own in the State of New York, or in any other State. These New York leaders forget the fact that one cannot be successful in establishing tyranny without possessing power to enforce it. Looking at the subject therefore from either side, I must come to the conclusion, that the Grand Orient of France has nothing to fear from the flattering ebullition of American Grand Lodges, while we hope on the other hand that the rebuke they received from those foreign bodies will stimulate the American Grand Lodges to the necessity of internal reforms. Let them make the Masonic Institution what it professes to be, and what it ought to be. Let them honestly carry out the principle, "to unite men of every country, sect, and opinion." Let them show to the Masonic world that the term men is not confined to white men alone; then we have no doubt all their internal and external troubles will cease.

Respectfully and fraternally yours,

JACOB NO. 10N.

Boston, Massachusetts, July 20th, 1869.

The forthcoming work by Bro. Wm. J. Hughan will contain:—1. An article on Masonic M.S.S., by Bro. Hughan. 2. A reprint of the Constitution of the Freemasons by the Grand Lodge of England, 1723, being the first edition (slightly abridged.) 3. A fac-simile lithographic reprint of Coles' copper-plate edition of the Constitutions, 1728, from transfers from the original in Bro. Hughan's possession. Seventy copies only are to be printed for sale, at 10s. 6d. each, and 30 copies for presentation. The work will be dedicated, by permission to the M.W.G.M., the Earl of Zetland. Subscriptions to be sent to the publisher, Bro. Wm. Luke, Truro, at once, stating name in full and Masonic position.

UNITED GRAND LODGE OF NOVA SCOTIA.

It gives us great pleasure to be able to announce the complete and entirely successful carrying out of the terms of union agreed to by the Grand Lodges of Nova Scotia. Everything seemed to favor the auspicious event; and not a ripple of ill-feeling or discontent marred the proceedings which took place in the City of Halifax on St. John's Day last.

On Wednesday evening the three Grand Lodges met in Masonic Hall, and elected officers for the ensuing year. The list comprises members from all the Grand Lodges, the highest position being filled by the Hon. Alex. Keith, who has for so long a time acted as Provincial Grand Master under the Grand Lodge of England.

Hon. Alex. Keith, G.M.; James Forman, D.G.M.; C. J. Macdonald, S.G.M.; J. N. Ritchie, G.S.W.; H. J. Marshall, G.J.W.; A. K. McKinlay, G.T.; H. C. D. Twining, G. Sec.; Rev. David C. Moore, G. Chap.; Newell Snow, G. Lecturer; Jas. Gossip, G.S.D.; C. C. Nichola, G.I.D.; J. D. Nash, G. Bible Bearer; Geo. Hyde, G.S.B.; J. M. Taylor, Grand Tyler.

The several officers were installed on the following morning, June 24th. The ceremony of installing the Grand Master was performed by A. A. Steven son, Esq., Grand Master of Canada. The other Grand Lodge officers were installed by the retiring officers of corresponding rank.

After the ceremony of installation, the whole body of Masons present, numbering about fifteen hundred, carrying the banners of the various lodges, in full masonic regalia, and accompanied by several bands, formed in procession, and marched to St. Paul's Church, where an oration was delivered by the Grand Chaplain. The procession then proceeded through the principal streets to the hall, where the Grand Lodge was closed in ample form. Altogether the demonstration was the finest of the kind ever witnessed in Halifax, many of the houses and public buildings along the route being finely decorated with bunting.

In the evening a Grand Banquet was partaken of at the Skating Rink. Many distinguished masons were present, among others the M.W. Grand Masters of Canada and New Brunswick. Toasts were given, and many good speeches made, which we regret we have not space to publish. The whole affair, from beginning to end, was a most enjoyable one, and reflects great credit upon the masons of the Province. G.M. Keith, in the course of his remarks, said that "he had now presided at one hundred and five banquets and dinners, but none had ever warmed his heart as this one had,—a banquet celebrating the union of the English, Scotch, Irish, and Nova Scotia Lodges of the Province, signaling the event of more glorious times, when should to shoulder the fraternity of masons would be brothers indeed, not in name only, but in very deed, deliberating, acting, moving, thinking, as masons, under the broad shadows of the wide-spread principles of the Order—peace, love, and harmony."—Boston Masonic Monthly, July, 1869.

THE fifth annual general meeting of the shareholders of the Freemasons' Tavern Company, Limited, was held at the tavern on Friday, the 30th ulto. A dividend of 4s. per share was declared, and Bro. Francis P. Inoch was elected a director in the room of Bro. T. Middleton. It was stated that the restaurant business is proving a steady and increasing source of income, but owing to the general depression of trade, a larger dividend could not be declared.

ERRATUM.—In the last paragraph of our article, page 54, for "wisely and will," read "wisely and well."

BREAKFAST.—EPPS'S COCOA.—Grateful and Comforting. The very agreeable character of this preparation has rendered it a general favourite. The Civil Service Gazette remarks:—"The singular success which Mr. Epps attained by his homoeopathic preparation of cocoa has never been surpassed by any experimentalist. By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills." Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold by the Trade only in $\frac{1}{4}$ lb., $\frac{1}{2}$ lb., and 1 lb. tin-lined packets, labelled—JAMES EPPS & Co., Homoeopathic Chemists, London.—ADVT.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—Counsel and Comfort.—A disordered stomach throws the whole system out of gear, and renders us unfitted both for work and amusement. A few doses of these strengthening and purifying Pills, taken according to the accompanying directions, will, however, speedily restore order, and re-enable the stomach to digest its food without difficulty. These excellent pills are suitable alike for the peer as the peasant, the soldier and the sailor, and particularly for home and foreign colonists. Holloway's Pills are very useful in checking feverish attacks, bilious complaints, and inflammations. They have also made the most signal cures in cases of dropsy, and diseases of the kidneys, head and lungs, when the sufferers seemed past the aid of medicine.—ADVT.

Advertisements.

TO ADVERTISERS.

THE Circulation of THE FREEMASON being now at the rate of nearly Half-a-Million per annum, it offers peculiar facilities to all who advertise.

It is well-known that the Fraternity of Freemasons is a large and constantly increasing body, mainly composed of the influential and educated classes of society; and as

The Freemason

is now the accepted organ of the Brotherhood in the United Kingdom, and also enjoys an extensive sale in the colonies and foreign parts, its advantages as an advertising medium can scarcely be overrated.

Only four pages can be allotted to advertisements. For terms apply to

GEORGE KENNING,
3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, LONDON, E.C.

COMPENSATION IN CASE OF INJURY, AND A FIXED SUM IN CASE OF DEATH CAUSED BY ACCIDENT OF ANY KIND,

May be Secured by a Policy of the Railway Passengers Assurance Company.
An annual payment of £3 to £6 5s. Insures £1000 at Death, and an allowance at the rate of £6 per week for Injury.

RAILWAY ACCIDENTS ALONE
MAY BE PROVIDED AGAINST BY
Insurance Tickets for Single or Double Journeys.
For particulars apply to the Clerks at the Railway Stations, to the Local Agents, or at the Offices,
64, CORNHILL, & 10, REGENT STREET, LONDON.
WILLIAM J. VIAN, Secretary.

SHIRTS,

2/6, 3/6, 4/6, 5/6, 6/6 upwards,
In all materials of Cotton and Wool.

CANN, JONES & CO.,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

Shirt Manufacturers, Tailors and Outfitters,
171, FENCHURCH STREET, E.C.

MANUFACTORY: 15 & 16, BLOMFIELD STREET, E.C.

"TRUTH MUST PREVAIL."

Common Sense.

Lamps, Baths, Cutlery, Bruahes, Fenders & Fire
Irons, Electroplate, & Nickel-Silver Goods.

R. D. PARR,

General House Furnishing Ironmonger,
42, BLACKMAN STREET, BOROUGH,

OFFERS nothing extraordinary, but REALLY
GOOD Articles at fair and reasonable prices. He does not keep an "Immense Stock," but SUFFICIENTLY LARGE for any person to select from. He does not sell "cheaper than every other house in the Trade," but quite as cheap as ANY.

A visit will, at all times, be very much appreciated.

MASONIC NOTE AND LETTER PAPER.

Sanctioned by The Most Worshipful

The Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of England

IT is impressed with the Masonic Die, and has also Masonic Emblems incorporated with its texture,
as Water Marks, while being manufactured.

Sold, in Quarto and Octavo Packets of Five Quires,
Wholesale and Retail, at the MASONIC DEPOT, 3 and
4, LITTLE BRITAIN, E.C.

Masonic Envelopes can also be obtained at the Depot.

By Appointment to the Queen.

Bookseller, Stationer, Newsagent, Printer, &c.

A MAGNIFICENT STOCK OF MASONIC REQUIREMENTS

MAY BE SEEN AT

Bro. W. E. FRANKLIN'S,
42, MOSLEY ST., corner of ST. NICHOLAS SQUARE
NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE,
Agent for "THE FREEMASON."

EDUCATION.—CROOM'S HILL SCHOOL,

Blackheath, near London,

PRINCIPAL, Rev. T. GOODWIN, M.A., D.C.L., LL.D.

Parents in search of a School combining the conscientious care of a home and the thorough efficiency of education in its several departments, are requested to apply for a Prospectus to the Principal, who is ready to submit to applicants all information concerning the School, the testimony of parents in its favour, and an account of the uniformly distinguished position its pupils have achieved in commercial pursuits, in the Civil Service, the Medical, the Army and Navy, and the University Examinations.

THE EUROPEAN MAIL.

A Summary of Universal Intelligence and Exact Commercial Statistics from Mail to Mail, specially prepared for the Colonies and Trans-Oceanic World generally.

THE EUROPEAN MAIL IS THE LEADING TITLE OF EIGHT TOTALLY DISTINCT NEWSPAPERS, AS FOLLOW—

No. of issues annually	Destination.	When Issued.	Rate of Subscription per annum, including postage.
24	A. European Mail for the West Indies, Central America, Chili, Peru, &c.	2nd & 17th of the month	40s.
24	B. European Mail for South Africa, St. Helena, Ascension, &c.	10th & 24th	40s.
52	C. European Mail for North America, i.e., the United States, Canadian Dominion, British America, Cuba, Mexico, &c.	Every Saturday	52s.
36	D. European Mail for the Brasils and River Plate, Azores, &c.	9th, 19th, & 29th	54s.
30	E. European Mail for China, Japan, Ceylon, Penang, Singapore, Siam, Sumatra, Java, Borneo, and the Philippines	27th August 1869, & every fortnight after, by English Mail; and on Sept 2nd, 1869, & every fourth Thursday by French Mail.	52s.
52	F. European Mail for India, Burmah, Egypt, &c.	Sept. 3rd '69, and every succeeding Friday.	52s.*
12	G. European Mail for Australia and New Zealand	Every 4th Friday.	12s.
24	K. European Mail for the West Coast of Africa, Madeira, Teneriffe, &c.	3rd & 23rd of the month.	40s.

* Or with Manifest Supplement, 65s.

N.B.—All Subscriptions payable in advance.

EACH Paper contains every item of intelligence, from Mail to Mail, specially affecting the country or colony for which it is published, with an exhaustive summary of home and continental politics, science, art, and social news, and a retrospect of commercial transactions in Great Britain and on the Continent.

Manufacturers and Merchants may command the greatest markets of the world for their products through the medium of publicity afforded by the EUROPEAN MAIL. A demand may be created where none exists at present, or an existing demand may be sustained and increased against the most energetic competition.

The EUROPEAN MAIL gives such perfect mercantile information that it is the highest commercial authority in the vast and prosperous territories through which it circulates. It is therefore an imperative necessity to the merchant who orders goods in bulk, and to the wholesale and retail distributor; it is also the most complete newspaper despatched from England, and is eagerly sought by all classes; it thus, unlike merely commercial newspapers, reaches and leavens the great communities who are the actual consumers of all products, and who must be acted upon by advertisement to require a special article before the merchant will venture to order a consignment.

Scale of Charges for ADVERTISEMENTS each insertion per Paper as follows:—

FOR PAPERS C, F, & G ONLY.	£ s. d.	FOR PAPERS A, B, D, E, & K ONLY	£ s. d.
One Page ...	7 10 0	One Page ...	5 0 0
Two-thirds of a Page ...	5 9 6	Two-thirds of a Page ...	3 13 0
Half-Page ...	4 2 6	Half-Page ...	2 15 0
One-third of a Page ...	3 0 0	One-third of a Page ...	2 0 0
Quarter-Page ...	2 8 0	Quarter-Page ...	1 12 0
Eighth of a Page ...	1 7 0	Eighth of a Page ...	0 18 0
Below an Eighth of a Page.	Per inch.	Below an Eighth of a Page.	Per inch.
Across the Page ...	0 18 9	Across the Page ...	0 12 6
Two-thirds across the Page ...	0 12 9	Two-thirds across the Page ...	0 8 6
Half across the Page ...	0 9 9	Half across the Page ...	0 6 6
One-third across the Page ...	0 6 9	One-third across the Page ...	0 4 6

Page next matter, Rate a d. a Half. Outside pages, Double Rate.

* The above Scale of Charges is subject to a Discount of 10 per cent. for Advertisements appearing in the consecutive issues of a paper for 3 months; of 15 per cent. for 6 months; and 20 per cent. for 12 months.

When an Advertisement is ordered for insertion simultaneously in all the Papers, the lowest rate above is charged all through.

Post Office Orders to be made payable at the Cannon-street Post Office, London.

Remittances payable to William Vaughan.

The EUROPEAN MAIL may be ordered through the Local Agent, direct from the London Office, or through any Firm having representatives in England. In the last case, the usual system is to order the EUROPEAN MAIL to be forwarded until countermanded; the representative of the Firm in England being directed, under similar conditions, to make payment annually.

GRAND LODGE OF MARK MASTERS OF ENGLAND, WALES, &c.BENEVOLENT FUND FESTIVAL, MITRE HOTEL, HAMPTON COURT.

Tuesday, 10th August, 1869.

BRO. REV GEO. RAYMOND FORTAL, M.A.,
M.W.G.M., in the Chair.

TICKETS, EXCLUSIVE OF WINE,

Lady 7s. 6d., Gentleman 10s. 6d., Double (Lady and Gentleman) 15s. 6d.

DINNER ON THE TABLE AT SIX O'CLOCK.

Trains Leave Waterloo at 2.5-3.15-4.30-5.20.

Applications for Tickets may be made at the office, 2, Red Lion Square, Holborn, W.C.

FREDERICK BINCKES, G.S.

4th August, 1869.

SUED or WORKSHOP WANTED, about 100 feet long, near the City.—State particulars, addressed to Office of this Paper.BOARD and RESIDENCE for one or two Gentlemen, in a quiet private house, close to Hyde-park, omnibus and railway. Terms, from 42s. per week.—Address, W., 15, Gloucester-terrace, Hyde-park, W.WILLIAM WINSOR, of 8, Miles-lane, London bridge, imports CIGARS of the very finest Brands only, and manufactures Cigars from the choicest Tobaccos. Wholesale and retail.BR. JAMES STEVENS (25, 720, 1216, &c.), Auctioneer and Surveyor, House and Estate Agent, &c., Clapham Common.—Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duties. Agent to the Imperial Fire & Life Insurance Offices.

ESTABLISHED 1840.

BRO. W. H. WAGHORN Manufacturer of Regalia for all Societies, Masonic Aprons, Collars, Ribbons, Sashes, and every requisite for all degrees in Freemasonry always in stock.

19, VINEGAR YARD, COVENT GARDEN, LONDON, W.C.

MONEY.—LOANS Granted from £100 to £2,000 at 5 per cent., repayable over Three Years, on Personal Security and Life Policy effected with the WEST OF ENGLAND INSURANCE CO., (Established 1807.) Apply to the Superintendent or Agents, Bro. J. CROCKER, Gateshead-on-Tyne. Agents Wanted.BRO. ADLARD'S REGISTERED JEWEL ATTACHER. Price 7s. 6d. Universally adopted. Maker of the Improved Fitting Lodge Collars and Masonic Clothing. 225 High Holborn, London, W.C.MONOGRAM AND CIPHER DIES, of the most Artistic Designs, found in any two or three Initials, without charge for Dies, and 5 Quires of Superfine Note Paper with 100 Best Safety Envelopes, stamped in various Colours, for 5s., by Post 8d. extra; or half the quantity for 2s. 6d. Makes a very useful and pretty present. Relief Stamping in Colours done on the premises at 1s. per 100 from any die. Gold and Coloured Illuminating Impressions can be obtained from your own Monogram or other Dies. Arms, Crests, and Monogram Dies cut and designed. A. Unwin, Heraldic Stationer and Engraver, 25, Whitcomb Street, Leicester Square, W.C.

Card Plate and One Hundred Cards, 4s.

ARMS, CRESTS, and MONOGRAMS.—A MASONIC EMBLEMS Engraved on Seals, Dies, &c. Official Stamps designed and Engraved.—Bro. D. G. BERRI, Engraver to Her Majesty's Post Office, Stationery Office, &c., 36, High Holborn (opposite Chancery-lane), London, W.C.BRO. H. T. LAMB,

MANUFACTURER OF MASONIC JEWELS,

ST. JOHN SQUARE,

CLERKENWELL,

LONDON.

ILLUSTRATED PRICE LIST PCST FREE ON APPLICATION.

LAMPLOUGH'S

PYRETIC SALINE

Is most invigorating, vitalizing, and refreshing. It gives instant relief in Headache, Sea or Bilious Sickness, and quickly cures the worst form of Eruptive or Skin Complaints. The various diseases arising from Constipation, the Liver, or Blood Impurities, Inoculation, the results of breathing air infected with Fever, Measles, or Small Pox ARE CURED AND PREVENTED BY ITS USE.

Sold by all Chemists, and the Maker, in Patent Glass Stoppered Bottles, at 2s. 6d., 4s. 6d., 11s., and 21s. each.

Notice my Trade Mark, and beware of spurious imitations.

H. LAMPLOUGH,

113, Holborn Hill, London, E.C.

THE NEW MUSICAL PITCH.—

COLLARD MOUTRIE has just invented, perfected, and secured by Royal Letters Patent, an important improvement in the manufacture of Pianofortes, by which the Pitch is raised to the Philharmonic or lowered to that of the French normal diapason in an instant, at the option of the performer. This invention can be applied to any Pianoforte. The Profession, Amateurs, Musical Critics, Musical Public, and the Trade are invited to witness its utility and effect, between the hours of Eleven and Four, at the Manufactory, 77, Southampton-row, Russell-square. Established 1849.

THE AMERICAN FREEMASON

Is Monthly, of sixteen double-column quarto pages of entirely original matter, and translations from the French Italian, and German Masonic papers and periodicals of the day. It is devoted to the discussion of the rights of Lodges and individual Freemasons, in contradistinction to the assumptions of Grand Lodges, and the un-Masonic doctrines and arrangements of "high degrees." Its motto is—Belief in the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man. Its price is Five Shillings a year—a sum so small that no Freemason, for pecuniary reasons, need be a non-subscriber to it.

Trans-Atlantic Subscribers to the AMERICAN FREEMASON will receive it Post-paid from the Office of Publication direct, at their respective Post-offices, upon payment of the subscription to

BRO. GEORGE KENNING,

3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN LONDON, E.C.

All Subscriptions begin with March 16th, 1869, and end with February, 1870.

The AMERICAN FREEMASON is not the organ of any Grand Lodge; but speaking the words of truth, manhood, and independence, advocates freedom for Masonry in America, and the rights of Freemasons in their Lodges—rights which, by our Grand Lodges, in their subservency to high degrees, have been invaded, until at present they are nearly obliterated.

Subscribers in the British Colonies will please address all Subscriptions and Correspondence to J. FLETCHER BRENNAN, Editor, 114, Main street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

VELOCIPEDES & BICYCLES for either Sex.

Speed 30 miles per hour, hill-ascending, self-propelling and balancing, £100. Diagram, 6d.

Manufacturing Licences granted:

W. PIDDING, Esq., PATENTER, 31, Kings'-row, Waltham-road.

"Having drawn Mr. W. PIDDING'S Specification of Patent, I am able to certify that his improvements in Velocipedes (bicycles particularly) will render them self balancing, capable of ascending hilly ground, and that they would travel on a newly-made road without inconvenience to the rider, either in the way of jolting or in retarding of the great speed the improvements will secure. The travelling, in fact, would be as though on level ground."

(Signed) "J. G. WATSON, C.E."

"Belgrave-terrace, Peckham, S.E.; formerly of 18, St. George-street, Westminster."

"MR. W. PIDDING'S PATENT SELF-PROPELLING AND BALANCING VELOCIPEDES AND BICYCLES.—Having seen the diagrams and perused a specification of Mr. PIDDING'S patent, we hesitate not for an instant to say that that gentleman will accomplish all he professes to do by means of his invention."—Supporting Opinion.

New Edition, in post 8vo, with about 80 Woodcuts, price 12s. 6d.

A Co-operative Discount of Twenty per Cent. to Brothers.FOR GOUT—USE OIL of HORSE CHEST-NUTS, which imparts a natural circulation. 2/9, 4/6, and 11/- per bottle.FOR GOUT—DRINK WILDUNGEN WATER, the only natural solvent for Stone and Gravel. 1/6 per bottle; 15/- per dozen.FOR INDIGESTION—Take DANDELION, CAMOMILE and RHUBARB PILLS. 1/14 per box; 2/9, 4/6, and 11/- per bottle.FOR INDIGESTION—Take the PURE VEGETABLE CHARCOAL prepared according to Mr. BIRD'S formula. 3/6 per bottle. The only internal disinfectant.

ANDERSON'S MEDICAL LABORATORY,

2, Lower Seymour-street, Portman-square; and 30, Duke-street, Manchester-square, London, W.

CROSBY'SBALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.

Opium, Narcotics, and Squills, are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary Diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.

SELECT TESTIMONIAL.

Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says:—"I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued Cough, Pain, and Irritation of the Chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."

This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold by all respectable Chemists and Patent Medicine Dealers, in bottles at 1s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each, and wholesale by JAS. M. CROSBY, Chemist, Scarborough.

*Invalids should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be obtained gratis of any respectable Chemist.

HUMAN FINS, for Swimming, 12s. the set. BARNETT, patentee, Paris (complete specification). With these ready adopted fins the swimmer can with ease and rapidity perform long distances with security against cramps. Sold by HEMARDINQUER, agent, 8, Falcon-street, City; and all Indianrubber Warehousemen, &c.BRO. R. FLETCHER, Masonic Stationer, Masonic Emblems, Arms, Crests, Monograms, Addresses, &c., beautifully stamped on note paper and envelopes in Gold, Silver or Colours. Lodge Stationery correctly and carefully prepared. Jewels copied and signed. Rings engraved with minute care. The patronage of the Craft respectfully solicited by Bro. R. FLETCHER, Masonic Stationer, 10, Winsley-street, Oxford-street, London, W. opposite the Pantheon.TO THE NERVOUS & DEBILITATED EPILEPTIC SUFFERERS AND OTHERS.*HALL'S CHLORATE OF POTASSA, discovered, introduced, and extensively prescribed by the late eminent Dr. MARSHALL HALL, has proved an infallible remedy (by oxidizing the blood and supplying its saline constituent) for Indigestion, Debility, Coughs, Asthma Consumption, Skin, Liver, Stomach, and Nervous Affections, more especially Epilepsy, Apoplexy, and Paralysis. The successful results of this new chemical preparation are beyond all precedent, and the extraordinary cures effected by the late discoverer, and by his successor (Dr. Sutton); in the above maladies are without a parallel in the annals of medicine; and it is confidently believed that in no case need the sufferer despair, for practical experience has demonstrated, and signal success warranted the assertion, that in 99 cases out of every 100 complete cures may be relied on.

Sold in Bottles at 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and Cases of £5 each, by

DR. SUTTON, M.D., 15, HOKSTON SQUARE, LONDON, W.C., and in BOLTON by PRINCELY, Chemist.

The following are a few Testimonials published by press: Sir Charles Locock, Physician-Accoucher to Her Majesty, stated at a meeting of the Royal Medical and Chirurgical Society, that in sixteen cases of Epilepsy he had effected permanent cures by the use of Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa.

"September 6 1868.—The Editor of the Bury Gazette returns thanks to Dr. Hall for the great benefit he has received from his Chlorate of Potassa treatment in a severe nervous disease." Sir J. Ferguson, King's College Hospital, London, says—"I have repeatedly prescribed Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa and found it an agreeable and beneficial remedy."Extract from the Lancet, April 1, 1867.—"In conclusion, we are of opinion that Hall's Chlorate of Potassa is a far superior remedy to the ones in general use for Nervousness, Indigestion, and Liver Complaints, when judiciously prescribed."

Sir Benjamin Brodie says—"What Chloride of Lime is to the foul sewer, Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa is to the blood."

Professor Syne says—"The effects of Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa in obstinate cases of disease are as astonishing as perplexing."

Dr. Lankester, the eminent coroner, says—"Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa is calculated to entirely supersede iron, mercury, arsenic, quinine, and cod liver oil."

Sir Philip Crampton says—"I believe there is no condition of the system that may not be benefited by Dr. Hall's Potassa." Sir T. Lawrence says—"I have found Dr. Hall's Chlorate an excellent remedy in Skin Diseases. I presume it is by oxidation."

Sir T. Watson says—"I know that it is an invaluable remedy."

Sir Edward Brough, 9, Fitzwilliam-square, Dublin, certifies Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa has been of the greatest benefit to a member of his family.

The Earl of Clarendon certifies that Dr. Hall's Chlorate cured a case of indigestion of 15 years' duration.

Dr. HALL'S CHLORATE OF POTASSA may be procured by order through any Chemist. Ask for "Dr. Hall's Chlorate," and do not be imposed on with the common article. It is sold in Bolton by Priestley, Chemist, 12, Deansgate; or it may be had direct from Dr. Hall's successor, Dr. JOHN SUTTON, M.D., 15, Regent square, London, W.C., who undertakes the positive cure of all chronic diseases before payment.

Dr. HALL'S Chlorate is sold in MANCHESTER by JAMES BURY, Market-street; in LIVERPOOL by PRIESTLEY, Lord-street. N.B.—Dr. Sutton will shortly repeat his Lecture on this subject.—The Lecture sent for two stamps.

DR. LEA'S CELEBRATED MEDICINES."The efficacy of Lea's Medicines is proverbial." Daily Telegraph."Lea's preparations are excellent."—Morning Star.

LEA'S BENGAL ATRABILIOUS PILLS.

Invaluable in all liver complaints, and as a Family Medicine (without Mercury). 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

LEA'S GOUT AND RHEUMATIC PILLS.

Will eradicate these disorders when every other remedy has failed, excellent also in Neuralgia, Lumbago, and Sciatica. 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

LEA'S CONSUMPTION SPECIFIC.

If persevered in, will seldom fail. 11s. and 22s.

LEA'S ASTHMATIC EMULSION.

Maintains its superiority for this complaint, Chronic, Cough, Bronchial affections, Colds, &c. 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

LEA'S WHOOPING-COUGH EMULSION.

A certain cure for this destructive complaint in a few days. 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

Prepared by G. LEA, M.D. Chancery-lane, Surrey.

LONDON AGENTS—BAICLAY, Farringdon-street; PAGE and TIBBS, 47, Blackfriars-road; and SUTTON, Bow Churchyard. *Advice free.

CONSUMPTION OF THE LUNGS.—

Dr. RAIT has discovered a CERTAIN CURE for this fatal malady. Advice gratis. Address W. RAIT, M.D., Peckham, Surrey.

FITS.—EPILEPTIC FITS or FALLING SICKNESS.—

A certain method of CURE has been discovered for this distressing complaint by a physician, who is desirous that all sufferers may benefit from this providential discovery. It is never known to fail, and will cure the most hopeless case after all other means have been tried. Full particulars will be sent by post to any address free of charge.—Address the SECRETARY, 48 George-street, Portman square, London.

Unlike any other Plan known.
POSITIVE LIFE ASSURANCE is a new system, first introduced by the
MASONIC & GENERAL FIRE & LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY, Limited,
 8, NEW BRIDGE STREET, BLACKFRIARS.

It secures Insurers a Promissory Note (instead of the ordinary Policy) for each premium paid, which is payable "To Bearer," either during the life-time or at the death of the assured.

Full Particulars on application to
FREDERICK BIGG,
 Manager and Actuary.
Agents wanted in London and the provinces.

M O N E Y .

LOANS ON PERSONAL SECURITY, WITH
 LIFE ASSURANCE,
 AT FIVE PER CENT. PER ANNUM.

THE
WEST OF ENGLAND FIRE & LIFE OFFICE
(Instituted 1803)

GRANTS LOANS FOR A LIMITED NUMBER OF
 YEARS ON THE ABOVE TERMS.

Chief Office—Exeter.
 London—20, New Bridge Street.

SECOND EDITION.

8vo., Price 9s. 6d., Cloth.

DOCTORS' COMMONS, its Courts and Registries; with a Treatise on PROBATE COURT BUSINESS. By G. J. FOSTER, Clerk of the Papers of Her Majesty's Court of Probate.

London: Published by REEVES, SON & Co., Playhouse-yard, Blackfriars, E.C.
 June, 1869.

Just Published. Price Half a Guinea.

MONOGRAMS,
 HISTORICAL AND PRACTICAL,
D. G. BERRI,

Engraver to Her Majesty's Post Office, Stationery Office, &c., &c.,

36, High Holborn, (opposite Chancery-lane,) LONDON, W.C.

Price Five Shillings,

LIFE OF CONSTANTINE,
 BY
EUSEBIUS.

Masonic Depot, 3 & 4, Little Britain.

NEW SONG,

PRICE 3s.

THE RED CROSS SONG,

Words by R. W. LITTLE,
 Music by H. PARKER.

Published by GEORGE KENNING, 3 & 4, Little Britain, London.

ROBERT COCKS and Co. have just issued the following NEW DRAWING-ROOM COMIC SONGS:—"I'll Not Try it Again," "Medicine Jack," "Put it Down to Me," "B.R.A.G.," and "Not So Bad for Me." All by A. S. GATTY. Each free by post for 19 stamps.

FROM the MUSICAL TIMES.—"O FAIR DOVE, O FOND DOVE." Ballad by A. S. GATTY. Sung by Mme. Patey. 3s. free by post 19 stamps. "The composer has set the words of Jean Ingelow like a musician and a poet. Indeed, we have not met with a contralto song for some time so thoroughly to our mind."

HAPPY BETHY DREAMS. Ballad. Music by J. R. THOMAS. Arranged as a vocal duet for soprano and contralto. 4s., post-free for 25 stamps; as a song, price 3s.; and as a pianoforte solo, by Brinley Richards, free for 19 stamps each.

London: ROBERT COCKS & Co., New Burlington-street.

To the Sporting World.

BELL'S LIFE IN LONDON

is now Published

Every WEDNESDAY and SATURDAY Morning.

Price 3d.; stamped 4d.

Office, 170, Strand, London, W.C.

WHY NOT VISIT THE

ROEBUCK GARDENS AND GROUNDS?
 Over 22 acres. Scenery unequalled.

Noted favourite resort for Dinners, Teas, Masonic Banquets, School Treats, &c.

N.B.—The New Hall will dine over 500 persons. Ten minutes' walk from the Buckhurst-hill Railway Station; by road 10 miles.

Ordinary every Sunday at Two.

GEORGE KENNING,

3 and 4,

Little Britain, London, E.C.

MASONIC DEPOT.

THE LARGEST STOCK in the WORLD
 of

Jewels,

Clothing,

Furniture,

Banners,

Books, &

Requisites

For all Degrees in Freemasonry.

3 and 4, Little Britain, London, E.C.

Price Lists on application.

NAVAL & MILITARY WAREHOUSE.

Laces,

Embroidery,

Swords,

Belts,

Chacos,

Buttons,

Epaulettes,

Sashes,

&c., &c.

3 and 4, Little Britain, London, E.C.

Price Lists on application.

GEORGE KENNING,

3 and 4,

Little Britain, London, E.C.

BRO. REEVES, SON & CO.,
 Steam Printers, Engravers & Lithographers,
 WHOLESALE STATIONERS,
 AND ACCOUNT BOOK MANUFACTURERS,
 Playhouse Yard, Blackfriars, London, E.C.
Next the "Times" Publishing Office.

Bro. WOLFERT,
 PRINTER, STATIONER & ACCOUNT-BOOK MAKER,
 7, St. Swithin's Lane, E.C.

Authorised Agent to receive Advertisements for THE FREEMASON, and all the London and Country Newspapers.

BRO. BENJAMIN COOK,
 Carpenter, Builder, and House Decorator,
 SALISBURY COURT,
 FLEET STREET, E.C.

Estimates for General Repairs.

Bro. J. G. MARSH,
 ARCHITECT AND SURVEYOR,
 159, Fenchurch Street, E.C.;
 AND
 842, Old Kent Road, S.E.

Bro. H. R. PRICE,
 ARCHITECT AND SURVEYOR,
 IMPERIAL CHAMBERS,
 No. 1, Market Place, corner of St. Mary's-gate,
 MANCHESTER.

Bro. G. W. CHINNOCK,
 Statuary and Cemetery Stone Mason,
 93, FULHAM ROAD, S.W.

Misses E. & C. CHINNOCK,
 Pianistes & Teachers of the Pianoforte,
 93, FULHAM ROAD, S.W.

For Cheap Watches, Clocks, Gold Chains, and
 Jewelry, go to

KIBBLE'S
 22, GRACECHURCH STREET,
 One Door from Lombard Street, and
 51, LUDGATE HILL,
 Opposite the Old Bailey.

Gold Watches £2 15s.
 Silver ditto £1 5s.
 Timepieces from 9s. 6d.

EVERY ARTICLE WARRANTED.

Plate, Watches, and Jewelry, bought or exchanged.
 List of Prices Post free.

BRO. JAMES B. SLY,
 PRACTICAL
 Heraldic Engraver to the Trade,
 Of Gold, Silver, and Ivory,
DRAUGHTSMAN & DIE-SINKER,
 9, Rathbone Place, London, W.

Plates Engraved; Gilt Pierced Mounts made for
 Albums and Cigar Cases.
 Designs made of Crests, Monograms, Ornaments, and Arms,
 and every description of Shooting Prizes, Presentation Plate,
 Watches, Watch Domes, Dressing Cases, Bag-sets, and
 Ivory Brushes, Engraved with care, delicacy, and despatch.

TO STATIONERS.

JAS. B. SLY having in his employ several Die-sinkers, and from his practical knowledge of the same is enabled to give immediate attention to the cutting of Dies that are emergent. Companies' Dies cut. Illuminating and Stamping in colours. Sample Sheets of Monograms and Addresses forwarded on application.

ASTRINGENT TOOTH PASTE.
HENRY NEWMAN'S "Astringent Tooth Paste," in Pots 1s. 6d. and 2s. 6d., to be had of all respectable Chemists. Wholesale Agents, Evans and Sons, Hanover-street; Raimes and Co., Hanover-street; Messrs Clay, Dodd and Case, St. Anne-street; or of the Proprietor,

BRO. HENRY NEWMAN,
 SURGEON-DENTIST,
 5, SLATER STREET,
 LIVERPOOL.

Printed by Brother JAMES ADLEY REEVES and Son, Playhouse Yard, Blackfriars, in the City of London; published by the Proprietor, Brother GEORGE KENNING, at his Office, 3 and 4, Little Britain, in the City of London, and by the NEWSAGENTS' PUBLISHING COMPANY, Limited, at their Offices, 147, Fleet-street, in the City of London aforesaid.—SATURDAY AUGUST 7, 1869.

THE FREEMASON

Grand Lodge Reports are published with the sanction of the Right Honorable the EARL of ZETLAND, K.T., Most Worshipful Grand Master of England.

Vol. 2, No. 23.]

SATURDAY, AUGUST 14, 1869.

REGISTERED FOR TRANSMISSION ABROAD. [PRICE 2D.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

	PAGE.
TO OUR BRETHREN OF THE MASONIC PRESS IN AMERICA	73
ROYAL ARCH MASONRY	74
HISTORY OF THE ORDER OF KNIGHTS HOSPITALERS	75
AN ESSAY	75
POETRY	75
THE CRAFT—Metropolitan, Provincial and Ireland...	76
THE ROYAL ARCH—Metropolitan	76
GRAND LODGE OF MARK MASTERS	76 & 77
BIRTHS, MARRIAGES, AND DEATHS	78
ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS	78
ENDYMION THE SLEEPER	78
NOTES BY A NOVICE	78
MASONIC ORPHAN BOYS' SCHOOL, DUNDEE	78
SPECIMENS FROM A MASONIC QUARRY	79
NOTES AND QUERIES	79
PAPERS ON MASONRY—
No. XIX.—Masonry in its Pure Expression	79
ORIGINAL CORRESPONDENCE—
The Literary Fund	80
Why do the Heathen Rage?	80
Freemasonry off the Plumb at Glasgow	80
Indiscriminate Almsgiving & Masonic Imposters	80
Freemasonry versus Masonry	80
Uniformity of Ritual	81
Ineligibility of Bastards as Freemasons	81
PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF SOUTH WALES	82
MASONIC MEETINGS FOR NEXT WEEK	82
ADVERTISEMENTS	82 83 & 84

TO OUR BRETHREN OF THE MASONIC PRESS IN AMERICA.

IF there be one incident more than another which has gladdened our heart and stimulated our spirit in the editorial work of THE FREEMASON, it has been the kindly sympathy and encouraging praise of our Transatlantic brethren, especially our co labourers in literature, who are not only our brethren of the "mystic tie," but of the mighty pen. The growth of the Masonic press in the United States is a luminous index of the intellectual progress of the American Freemasons, and we are simply uttering a well-known fact in stating that some of the most talented brethren in the great Republic are to be found enrolled in the Masonic editorial corps. By these eminent men our journal has been received in the most flattering manner, and, although conscious of our many shortcomings and defects, we cannot refrain from thus publicly acknowledging their courtesy.

We have now before us The Masonic Monthly for July, published at Boston, Massachusetts, in which the editor, Brother Samuel Evans, reciprocates our expressions of good will, and cordially recommends THE FREEMASON to his subscribers. This magazine, as we have stated before, is most admirably conducted, and advocates the true interests of the Craft.

Our namesake, The Freemason, of St. Louis, Mo., is edited by the R.W. Bro. George Frank Gouley, Grand Sec. of the Grand Bodies of the State: Bro. Gouley, in the number for July, pens a splendid essay, entitled "Equality an Ideal of Masonry," an extract from which we quote as an example of pure Masonic philosophy:—

"Wealth gives no man preference in Masonry. It is in brains, and soul, and heart, the great workshops of the divine inspiration, that the fraternity look for its pre-eminence. So in the world to come, man can carry none of the habiliments of earthly distinction or rank or wealth. He goes into that world spiritually, as he came into this mortally. He brought here the germ of soul, he leaves us with that soul elevated, developed and purified, fit to enter into the superior world, accordingly as he may have improved the opportunities given him. As each candidate comes equal and is regarded equal in the lodge according to his acquirements, so shall each soul enter the Celestial Lodge above, prepared for the exercise of its then boundless powers for love and joy, according to the will of the Great author and Giver of our existence."

Bro. Gouley then does us the honour to say:—
"We cannot close this essay without recommending to our readers the following beautiful editorial from THE FREEMASON of London, in its issue of 15th of May last. It is so full of thought, and enjoins an important lesson in so well-chosen words, that we hope all will read it;" and reprints our article on "The Paths of Virtue and Science."

We unfortunately differ with Bro. Gouley upon certain questions, but if honesty of purpose, strenuous zeal, and consummate ability ever merited praise, assuredly our Right Worshipful confrere is entitled to a foremost place in the Masonic Legion of Honour.

The Most Worshipful Brother Robert D. Holmes, Masonic editor of the New York Dispatch, a weekly journal of enormous circulation, has also won a corner in our heart by his fraternal encomiums. To speak in Bro. Holmes' praise would be truly a work of supererogation, although to us a labour of love. The Grand Lodge of New York has never had a better Grand Master than our worthy brother, to whom, in spirit—would it were in reality—we cordially extend the hand of friendship. It is a treat to read the columns under Bro. Holmes' charge, for none can better cull such a rich bouquet of Masonic intelligence for the edification of Masonic readers, arrayed in all the charms of mellifluous diction, and breathing the freshness and the fragrance of deep original thought.

M.W. Bro. Holmes, having been recently elected an Honorary Fellow of the London Literary Union, reproduces the proceedings at its last meeting, including an address delivered by the President, Bro. R. Wentworth Little, on "Literature in Relation to Fame," and then remarks:—

"The foregoing is from the London (England) FREEMASON, one of the most ably conducted periodicals in that realm. I should be very ungrateful if I did not feel highly flattered by the conferring of the degree above referred to—an honor unsought by me, and of which I had no knowledge until I had read the foregoing notice. This is the second time in my journalistic life that a similar recognition of my liberal efforts—I say nothing of merits—has been kindly tendered me, the degree of LL.D. having been conferred upon me some years ago, in view, principally, of my connection with the New York Dispatch, on the staff of which I have been for 12 years and upwards. Titles amount to but little in themselves, but they become valuable when they are—as in the instances referred to—the cheering evidences that a man's labors are deemed to be of value. I look upon them, also, as highly complimentary to the Dispatch, and feel as much pride in view of that feature as I do in the personal honor conferred."

We can assure Bro. Holmes on behalf of the London Literary Union, of which we are ourselves a member, that the Society fully estimates the distinction of bearing upon its roll of honor the name of such a true and trusty Mason as himself.

There is also our esteemed brother J. Fletcher Brennan, editor of the American Freemason published at Cincinnati, Ohio. He is verily a free and fearless spirit, ready to demolish, with the catapult of his honest wrath, every sham that shelters itself behind the impregnable fortress of Craft Masonry. No quarter to the Ever Wise and Perfect Princes of Memphis or elsewhere, is his battle-cry. No bowing of the knee to Baal, no passing through the fire or Moloch to the unclean things that darken with their bat-like wings the heaven of Freemasonry; evil sectarian-birds of prey, that would fain swallow up the peaceful dove of universal fraternity. Bro. Brennan will have none of them, and devotes the powers of his vigorous intellect to the advancement of what he considers "pure ancient Freemasonry." For the present we must pause; but in conclusion let us assure our American friends that they are heartily welcome to quote from our pages as often and as copiously as they please; we shall be happy to return the compliment, and also to exchange with any American Masonic paper not at present on our list. Union is strength, and we may thus derive mutual benefit.

Since writing the foregoing we have received a copy of The Freeport Journal, published at Freeport, Illinois, in which the following remarks are made respecting THE FREEMASON:—

1119450

"We have received a valuable acquisition to our list of Masonic exchanges in the shape of a neat twelve-page sheet, published weekly by Bro. George Kenning, at Nos. 3 and 4, Little Britain, in the City of London, England. We have no clue as to the agents in this country, and we are somewhat at a loss to divine what has procured us this unlooked for favor, which, however, affords us none the less pleasure, and we hereby heartily tender Bro. Kenning the right hand of fellowship, with none the less warmth and cordiality, because separated from him by 4,335 miles of land and water. THE FREEMASON bears evidences of being conducted with rare ability, and is a fitting representative of the Craft in a land where it has been known and honoured from the first years of the Christian era down to the present time."

ROYAL ARCH MASONRY.

BY THE SON OF SALATHIEL.

RABINNIC SIGNIFICATIONS OF THE SEPHIROTH.

According to Basnage's Table.

Ten Sephiroth.	The Names of God.	10 members of the archetypal Man or 10 orders of Angels.	Planets, or members of the Celestial Man.	Members of the Terrestrial Man.	The Ten Commandments of the Law.
The Crown (Kether)	I am that I am	Haoit Hakkodes or the Seraphim	The Empyrean Heaven	The Brain	Thou shalt have no other God but me.
Wisdom (Chochma)	Jah, the Essence	Ophanim, or Cherubim.	The Primum Mobile	The Lungs	Thou shalt not make any graven image.
Understanding (Binah)	Jehovah	Aralim, or Thrones	The Firmament	The Heart	Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord in vain.
Magnificence	God, the Creator	Haschemulin, or Dominions	Saturn	The Stomach	Thou shalt sanctify the Sabbath-day.
Might	The Mighty God	Seraphim, or Virtues	Jupiter.	The Liver	Honour thy father and mother.
Beauty	The Strong God	Melachim, or Powers	Mars	The Gall	Thou shalt not kill.
Victory	God of Hosts.	Elohim, or Principalities	The Sun	The Reins	Thou shalt not commit adultery.
Glory	The Lord God of Hosts	Ben-Elohim, or Arch-Angels	Venus	The Reins	Thou shalt not steal.
The Foundation	The Omnipotent	Cherubim, or Angels	Mercury	The Vitals	Thou shalt not bear false witness.
The Kingdom	The Lord Adonai	Ischim, or Souls	The Moon	The Womb	Thou shalt not covet.

ROSICRUCIAN SIGNIFICATIONS OF THE SEPHIROTH.

According to the Table of Rosenberg.

	LES NOMS DE DIEU CABALISTIQUES.	LES NOMS DE DIEU SELON LE NOMBRE de lettres en hébreu	LES SEPIROTH.	LES ORDRES DES BIENHEUREUX.	LES INTELLIGENCES DES SPHERES.	MS
N	Ehje	I	Kether	Haccodesch hajoth, Seraphins, saints animaux.	Mittatron Prince du monde.	7
N	Je serai.	Moi.	Couronne.			7
2	Jehova I Etre des êtres, moi.	El Jah	Hochma	Ophannim	Ratriel Courrier de Dieu.	7
O		Dieu, Etre de soi.	Sagesse.	Chérubins roues.		7
3	Elohim Jehova Dieu, être d. êtres.	Jeschou Schaddai, Jésus tout puissant.	Bina	Erelim	Tsapkiel Contemplation de Dieu.	7
P			intelligence.	Trônes puissant.		7
N	El	Jehova	Hesed	Haschmalin Dominations étincelantes.	Tsadkiel	7
Q	Dieu.	Etre des êtres.	Libéralité.		Justice de Dieu.	7
2	Gibbor Elohim	Jeheschouha elohim Elyon Sauveur Dieu Tres-Haut.	Geboura	Seraphim Puissances enflammées.	Sammael	7
R	Fort Dieu.		Force.		Punition de Dieu.	7
2	Eloah	El gibbor	Tiphereth	Malachim	Michael	7
S	Dieu.	Dieu fort.	Beauté.	Vertus Rois.	Semblable à Dieu.	7
N	Sebaoth Jehova, Seigneur des armées.	Araritha	Netsah	Elohim Principautés Dieux.	Hanniel	7
T		Immuable.	Victoire.		Grâce de Dieu.	7
2	Tsebaoth Elohim	Udahath Jehova	Hod	Elohim bene Arcanges Enfants d. Dieu.	Rephael	7
U	Dieu d armées.	science d. Dieu.	Louange.		Médecine de Dieu.	7
2	Schaddar	Tsebaoth jehova, Seigneur des armées.	Jesod	Kerbubim Anges comme des enfants.	Gavriel	7
X	Toutpuissant.		Etablissement.		Homme-Dieu.	7
N	Adonai	Tsebaoth Elohim	Malchouth	Ischim, Ames bienheureuses, Hommes.	Mittatron	7
Y	Seigneur.	dieu d. armées.	Royauté.		Messie.	7
2	Makom	Les Hébreux n'ont point de NOM de DIEU composé de douze lettres, parce que ce nombre passe chez eux pour imparfait, propre aux pécheurs et pénitents.				7
Z	Lieu.					7
2	Agla	Haccodesch Verouah Ben Ab, St.	On fait encore mention, dans la Kabbale, des NOMS de DIEU de 22 et de 72 lettres. Il faut voir la-dessus les Kabbalistes.			7
	Dieu Uni-Trinité.	Esprit et Fils, Père				7

The Rosicrucian system comprises most of the emblems used in Craft and Royal Arch Masonry, and the principal words and secrets of all the higher grades are to be found therein. This opens a wide field for speculation as to the connexion between the two organizations, and it is to be hoped that the archæological section of the modern Rosicrucian fraternity will carefully sift the evidence bearing upon the point, which at present seems to be in chaotic confusion. With an account of the constitution of various Grand Royal Arch Chapters at present existing, it was our intention to have closed these remarks upon Royal Arch Masonry, but as we purpose giving a synopsis of the history and presumed origin of the various branches of Freemasonry now worked in England, we consider it better to defer the account of the Royal Arch Degree until it can be embodied in its proper place. We have, however, written enough to prove our affectionate regard for Royal Arch Masonry, which is, indeed, the keystone and completion of the whole Masonic system.

(Concluded.)

HOSPITALARIA;

OR

A SYNOPSIS OF THE HISTORY OF THE ORDER OF Knights Hospitallers.

(Continued from page 50.)

In 1313, the magnanimous Jacques de Molai, its Grand Master, met death with a spirit worthy of his office, proclaiming the innocence of his Order; and the truth of his dying testimony remains unshaken. In a moment indeed of human weakness, to suspend his tortures, he had admitted some of the charges brought against his fraternity, for which he made recantation in his last hour in the most solemn and forcible manner. When almost stifled with the smoke of his funeral pyre, it is asserted that he cried aloud, "Clement, thou unjust judge and barbarous executioner! I cite thee to appear in forty days before the judgment-seat of God,"—a circumstance which made a deep impression, for the death of the pontiff occurred within that period. Be this as it may, the tears of the people watered the warrior's ashes, which were carefully gathered up, and treasured as a martyr's dust.

The princely possessions of the Templars, with the exception of what their oppressors appropriated, were added to the Hospitallers; but though the political importance of the Order was thus annihilated, its suppression as a fraternity was not accomplished. The succession of Grand Masters has been uninterruptedly maintained; the archives, seals, standards, and other relics, are preserved at Paris; and the Order is still in vigorous existence in the chief cities of Europe.

The vast accession of wealth which the Hospitallers obtained by the confiscation of the possessions of the Templars, amounting to nine thousand manors, conjoined with the conquest of Rhodes, raised the Order of St. John to a degree of splendour and renown which no military fraternity had ever before attained. Europe poured the younger sons of its aristocracy into the White Cross ranks, and a series of perpetual achievements against the infidels continued to add lustre to their arms. Amurath the First, Bajazet, whose name made Europe tremble, Tamerlane the Scourge of God, and Mohammed surnamed the Vanquisher, successively in vain attempted to furl their banner. Never did the White Cross ranks display a more numerous or braver array; the Chef Lieu boasted continually a thousand knights; for upwards of two centuries, in defiance of all the powers of the east, the Hospitallers held the supremacy of their island fortress, the Levant was covered with their war-galleys, and not a corsair durst shake out his sails in the Lycian waters.

At length, on the 26th of June, 1523, the victorious Solyman landed 150,000 men on the island of Rhodes; and soon afterwards appearing in person with additional forces, declared his head, his fleet, his army, and his empire to be for ever accursed if he did not conquer it. For a year and a half the Hospitallers, with the most desperate valour, foiled every attack; and it was only when the fortifications were no longer defensible, and the Rhodians had dwindled to a handful, that they consented to capitulate under the most honourable stipulations. As the knights, carrying the archives of their Order with them, looked their last on the shattered towers from which the fate of war had driven them, they were supported by the consciousness that, though Rhodes had passed from under their sway their protracted resistance had conferred the fame of victory even on defeat. The Turks, who had lost 80,000 men by the hands of the knights, in token of respect to the vanquished, refrained from defacing the armorial insignia and inscriptions on the public buildings of the city; and to this day they venerate it as a place worthy of being for ever held holy and illustrious in the estimation of mankind.

Under the laurelled reign of Villiers de l'Isle Adam, the most distinguished Grand-Master the Order ever possessed, the Hospitallers lost Rhodes and obtained Malta, that storied rock which was the closing scene of their triumphs and power. On the 24th of March, 1530, the Emperor Charles the Fifth ceded for ever to the Knights of Saint John, in fee-simple and absolute title, all the castles, fortresses, and isles, of Malta, Tripoli, and Goza. Here for upwards of two centuries and a half, the Hospitallers sustained their ancient renown, and completed those fortifications which will ever remain monuments of their military energy and skill. In 1565, under the Grand-Mastership of the celebrated John de Valette, Malta sustained the memorable siege of five months' duration, in which twenty-five thousand Turks perished. A more heroic resistance was never made by a beleaguered fortress, and it had this advantage over the scarcely less glorious defence of Rhodes—that it was successful. During the 17th century, the annals of the Order record many brilliant exploits. The siege of Candia, in 1650, witnessed the valour of the Hospitallers; and seven years afterwards, the Maltese squadron, combined with that of Venice, gained a signal victory over the Turkish fleet at the Dardanelles. Whilst the banner of Saint John was thus upheld in its ancient glory by sea and land, the frightful earthquake which ravaged Sicily and Calabria in 1783, and laid Messina and Reggio in ruins, and otherwise promote the prosperity of the degree. Having thus traced in some measure, the progress of Mark Masonry in England, we must now sketch the origin of the Festival which took place under such favorable auspices on Tuesday.

It was found imperatively necessary, that in a large body like the Mark Masters of England, provision should be made for the succour and relief of distressed brethren, and a Benevolent Fund was therefore established with that object. At the meeting of the Grand Lodge in June, it was resolved that a Festival should be held in order to awaken interest in the project, and form the nucleus of the Fund.

To this Festival it was also decided that ladies should be admitted.

Notwithstanding the short notice, and the lateness of the season, the Stewards vigorously set to work, and arranged that the Festival should be held at the Mitre Hotel, Hampton Court, on Tuesday, the 10th August.

FESTIVAL

A goodly number of brethren, with their ladies, left Waterloo Station for Hampton Court early in the day, and thus had an opportunity of enjoying a walk in the fine gardens attached to the Palace, or elsewhere in the immediate neighbourhood.

There is hardly a finer and more attractive ride out of town than the fifteen miles by rail to Hampton Court, and the weather was all that could be desired.

At half-past six o'clock the company assembled for dinner, when the chair was taken by the Most Worshipful Bro. the Rev. George R. Portal, Grand Master, who was supported by the R.W., Bro. Sir Edmund E. H. Lechmere, Bart., Deputy Grand Master; J. H. Hearne, T. Davidson, J. Udall and T. Meggy, Past Grand Wardens; F. Binckes, Grand Secretary; Rev. D. Shaboe, P.G. Chaplain; H. C. Levander, G.D.C.; T. J. Sabine, A.G.D.C., W.M., 22; T. Wescombe, G.S.B.; W. Smith, C.E., P.G.O.; J. H. Wynne, P.G.P.; S. Rosenthal, P.G.D.; R. Wentworth Little, P.M., No. 1; R. Spencer, P.G.S.; W. Paas, P.G.O.; H. Massey, W.M.-elect, 22; B. P. Todd, No. 1; W. Stanford, 75; S. Harman, 22; W. Hudson, 25; W. Henley, and a few other brethren whose names we were unable to ascertain. The greater number of the brethren present were accompanied by their ladies, and the actual number at the festival was fifty-three. Grace being said, the company sat down to a most recherche banquet comprising every delicacy, and after the cloth was cleared, the M.W. CHAIRMAN proposed in felicitous language, the health of "Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen," which was of course enthusiastically received.

"God Save the Queen," was then sung.

Sir Edmund Lechmere, D.G.M., then introduced the next toast, "The M.W. Grand Master." He said all the brethren present knew how admirably the Rev. Bro. Portal fulfilled the duties of his high position, and how zealously he had striven for the good of the Order. (Cheers.) It was therefore with great pleasure he proposed the toast. (The M.W. Brother's name was received with unbounded applause, and one cheer more was added for Mrs. Portal, who was present.)

Song: "The Faithful Echo," by Madame Thaddeus Wells.

The GRAND MASTER responded briefly for the honour which had been done to his name in the hearty reception of the toast, and assured the brethren that his interest in Mark Masonry remained as strong as ever. (Bro. Portal is one of the veterans of the Grand Lodge, and has supported the degree with unswerving fidelity.) He further expressed his delight at the progress which had been made, and concluded by proposing in eulogistic terms the health of the "Deputy Grand Master."

A French song, which elicited great applause, was then sung by Herr Deck.

Sir E. H. LECHMERE, Bart., returned thanks.

The health of the "Grand Officers" was then proposed by the Grand Master, who alluded to their services, and to the great assistance which they had rendered to the degree. The toast was most cordially drunk.

BROS. HEARNE and J. UDALL, responded.

Bro. Henley then sang a charming ditty.

The M.W.G.M. then announced the toast of the evening, "Success to the Mark Grand Lodge Benevolent Fund," and gave an explanation of its origin and objects. He very justly associated with the toast the name of Bro. Meggy, J.G.W., to whose unparalleled exertions so much of the Festival's success was clearly due.

A well-deserved reception was accorded to Bro. Meggy's name, and Bro. Binckes, G.S., then proceeded to read the list of donations, amongst which we noticed that R.W. Bro. F. Martin Williams, M.P.,

Prov. G.M. for Cornwall, who is always foremost in every good work, heading the list with fifteen guineas. The G. Master and D. G. Master contributed five guineas each, and Lords Carnarvon and Percy were also amongst the donors. The Stewards, whose lists were read, were Bros. Binckes (£52 10s.), T. Meggy T. Wescombe, T. J. Sabine and S. Rosenthal, and the total announced was upwards of £80.

Bro. Meggy then expressed his acknowledgments for the manner in which his name had been received.

Song, "Thady O'Flynn," by Madame Wells.

The "Health of the Ladies" was then given in an appropriate speech by the G.M., and Bro. HENLEY returned thanks on their behalf for the way in which it was responded to.

A duet was then rendered by Herr and Madame Deck.

The health of the Stewards was the last toast, which elicited a telling speech from

Bro. BINCKES, R.W.G.M. who said: Ladies and brethren, I rise to return thanks on behalf of a very small body of brethren, who have greatly contributed to a gigantic failure. (No, no.) Of course, sir, you will not take my words literally, I am just quoting what was said would be the case if a few sanguine Mark Masons banded themselves together for the purpose of inaugurating a festival for their Benevolent Fund, and the question was asked, how would it answer? I for myself never had any doubts as to its success. Friends, so called, chose to question the possibility of that success. Now in rising to respond in behalf of a failure—I am speaking now in a Pickwickian sense—I must say that if ever a success was achieved under a first experiment, that success has been achieved by us to-night. I take no credit for Bro. Meggy; I ask no credit for those few brethren who are stewards this evening, but we felt, a very few of us, that in the Mark Degree there was an essential vitality; that if we held ourselves out to inaugurate a festival of this kind, we would make the festival a success. Well, sir, success has an abstract notion attached to it, and a relative comparison. If we compare the number this evening with the number attending at our charity festivals, and the results achieved there, it will be said by some that this is a failure. The Mark Degree comprises within itself a certain number of sincere, honest, able, earnest Masons, who are imbued, I believe, most honestly and sincerely, with a thorough appreciation of the value of the degree with which they are associated, and who are determined, with honesty, and without rivalry of any other degree, to make the merits of the Mark Degree known throughout the world. We have found that there is one thing wanting—we have no Benevolent Fund. We have applied to our lodges; we asked our lodges to consent to have their members—I do not like to use the word "taxed"—but to have their members consent to a small sum per cent. put aside for the purpose of founding a fund, out of which a Mark Mason in distress, his widow or his children could be properly relieved. So large a minority objected to that, that Grand Lodge in its discretion—and I think perhaps wisely, taking into consideration the magnitude of that minority—did not persist in that rule. We then made an attempt to get assistance (without intending to make any reference to politics I may say), by trying the voluntary system, and the Grand Lodge, out of its very great kindness, voted a sum of £50. That sum of £50 was the sole nucleus we had for our fund, and by the demands made by little and little, it has been nearly exhausted. You remember, sir, occupying the distinguished position you do, the observations I made in Grand Lodge, at our last meeting. Those observations were not without their effect. This festival was the first organised, to see what the voluntary principle would do. And now, sir, I dare say many may ask why could not £80 have been added to the fund of the Grand Lodge of the Mark Masons of England, for the purpose of relieving our brethren in distress, without assembling at a festival like this? And this recalls to my mind, connected as I am with many of our great charities, an observation made by the late Duke of Newcastle, when I had an interview with him about taking the chair at one of them; "How is it, Bro. Binckes, that these large amounts of subscription, more especially connected with Freemasonry, cannot be obtained unless a certain number of brethren, with a certain number of ladies, are brought together to consume a large amount of bad wine, and eat a very bad dinner?" "Well," I said, "your grace, it is this I suppose, the genius Anglicanus, if I may use the term, runs in the direction of festivity." Now, I am satisfied of this, that we having made an attempt to organise this fund by a special appeal to our lodges, that having been refused, we have succeeded when we have fallen back on the voluntary principle, and enlisted private contributions. We then found our great delight—and when I say "our," I mean, ladies and gentlemen, to include the gentleman who occupies the distinguished position of our Most Worshipful Grand Master, and who has made the first attempt to assist our Benevolent Fund—that we having come here to-night, some 53 of both sexes, to my intense delight and intense satisfaction, and I am sure with the delight and satisfaction of my Bros. Meggy, and Udall, and Rosenthal, who have also aided us—that we have, by an expenditure of fifty guineas, added £80 to our Benevolent Fund. Has our evening been expended in vain? (No, no.) We have done this, we have brought together a large number of distinguished Masons, with those of the softer sex attached to them by the nearest and dearest associations; we have proved, I think, to the outer world, that we can enjoy ourselves in a legitimate manner, as none but Masons probably can do, and we have banded ourselves together for a holy object; charity is that holy bond that has brought us together this evening. Have we failed in our scheme? (No, no.) Now, M.W.G.M., I appeal to you if this was not made an experimental meeting; this was to be the test as to the sincerity of Mark Masonry, whether we could support a festival of this kind and make it a successful festival. Now sir, on behalf of the Board of Stewards—and this is why I hope you will fancy my observations not altogether inappropriate—I would say in the first place, you have met in a room not altogether fit for so large a company; in the second, I do not believe that our brethren of the Board of G. Stewards ever thought we should have numbered forty, and if we did, we thought we should have achieved a success. The question was, whether we should meet forty-five. We have met to-night fifty-three. Had we known it, we would have provided for the larger number elsewhere. We had not faith enough—even Bro. Meggy himself—in the Mark Masons and their ladies to assist in increasing their charity fund; but I believe most sincerely this, we ought to take a hint from it; it is a lesson we shall profit by, and distinctly understand this, that if we had known the numbers were likely to be so large, we should not have met at the Mitre Hotel to-night. We shall never meet again here, for the simple reason that the host has not the accommodation we shall require. I see now that this is established as an annual success. (Hear, hear.) I say this first meeting is a great success. I appeal to you whether you have not enjoyed yourselves. We have combined the pleasures of the table with the society of the ladies, and we think we may mutually congratulate ourselves, as in addition to enjoying ourselves we have been adding a larger amount of money to our fund than we can possibly spend in the next twelve months; and then, I look forward to the time with pleasure when we shall meet in largely increased numbers, and this will always be a red-letter day in Mark Masonry. (Hear, hear.) But on behalf of the Stewards, let me ask your kind indulgence and consideration for any short-comings you have noticed. We thought that forty would have collected here. Nearly sixty sat down at this table. I therefore beg that you will not accuse us of collecting you under false pretences, in any shape or way. You have given us your support, your kind encouragement; on behalf of our Board of Stewards, our sincere trust is that you will have seen enough to give us cause to congratulate ourselves this evening that everyone here will make a point of coming, not here but in another place, next year, where larger accommodation is provided, and bringing more friends than you have brought this evening, and so contribute to a still larger success than we have achieved to-night. (Cheers.)

The W.M., Bro. PORTAL then quitted the chair, and after partaking of coffee, the company returned to town by rail, well pleased with the entertainment and results of the day.

We cannot omit expressing our thanks to the vice-chairmen, Bros. Binckes and Meggy, for their great attention and courtesy, and we are certain all who attended the Festival must feel equally grateful to them, and to the other Stewards, for their exertions to promote the comfort of the guests.

The musical arrangements were entrusted to Bro. S. Rosenthal. The vocalists were Herr R. Deck, Madame Deck, and Madame Thaddeus Wells, who in the kindest manner, gave their services gratuitously and the proceedings were completely successful. Madame Deck presided at the piano-forte.

[In consequence of the length of the historical sketch in this report, we have been reluctantly compelled to abbreviate most of the speeches.—Ed. F.]

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Useful Sympathy.—Let all who sympathise with the afflicted, whom by their kind attentions bestowed in a mild and gentle manner they seek to soothe, and if possible, to save, remember that Professor Holloway has enabled their good deeds to prevail beyond their hopeful words. With his remedies, many have restored vigour to the failing memory, cheerfulness to the exhausted mind, and health to the wan cheek. Every visitor of the sick may without fear safely and effectively use Holloway's world-renowned Ointment and Pills. Appropriate instructions envelop every pot and box. Under Holloway's benign treatment, condolence is not long desirable, for convalescence comes on apace, and soon gives place to joyous health.—ADVT.

Births, Marriages, and Deaths.

MARRIAGE.

BATTERSBY—ENGLISH.—July 31st, at St. Peter's Church, Dublin, by the Rev. T. D. Gregg, D.D., assisted by the Rev. J. J. Welland, A.M., Bro. William Battersby, H.K.T., of Rathmines, Dublin, to Letitia, only daughter of the late James English, Esq., architect, Tralee, and sister of Bro. Henry English, Lodge 379.

DEATHS.

BABINGTON.—August 2nd, at his residence, Pump-street, Derry, Thomas Henderson Babington, M.D., Mayor of Derry, aged 56 years.

BENNER.—August 6th, at the Blennerhassett Arms Hotel, Tralee, Margaret, the wife of Brother Robert Benner.

Answers to Correspondents.

All communications for THE FREEMASON should be written legibly, on one side of the paper only, and, if intended for insertion in the current number must be received not later than 10 o'clock a.m. on Thursdays, unless in very special cases. The name and address of every writer must be sent to us in confidence.

TATIES AND TRIPE.—As the subject referred to has been fully ventilated, we cannot insert your letter, at the same time we feel that you have just cause to complain of the tone of Br. Lawson's communication, which was inserted during our absence from London. Our object is to cultivate friendly feelings between Freemasons, not to afford opportunities for the display of unfriendly sentiments and satirical animadversions. For the future we will exercise a strict supervision over the epistolary department, which has hitherto been confided to our sub-editor.

The Freemason,

SATURDAY, AUGUST 14, 1869.

THE FREEMASON is published on Saturday Mornings in time for the early train.
The price of THE FREEMASON is Twopenny per week; quarterly subscription (including postage) 3s. 3d.
Annual Subscription, 12s. Subscriptions payable in advance.
All communications, letters, &c., to be addressed to the Editor, 3 & 4, Little Britain, E.C.
The Editor will pay careful attention to all MSS. entrusted to him, but cannot undertake to return them unless accompanied by postage stamps.

ENDYMION THE SLEEPER.

It is an old story, reaching back to the fabled days when shepherd youths were kings—when gods and men were partners in adventure—when every forest glade had its nymph, and every fount its naiad. Endymion! why, as poor Keats sings, there's music in the very name; the bare sound is full of enchantment, conjuring up visions of strange delight, and wafting us in blissful dream to the moonlight-haunted cave where the shepherd-prince lies wrapt in statuesque calm. Anon, his divine visitant approaches, and the grey gloom of the cavern is kindled by her radiant beams. The enamoured goddess touches the marble brow of the sleeper, and he awakes from that wondrous trance, despite the adverse decree of Jove. "Thirty years shalt thou slumber," said the Thunderer, but he reckoned without Diana, who taking pity on the sleep-stricken offender, recalled Endymion to life by the celestial influence of her love.

Is it not a beautifully poetic and suggestive myth? and who would not gladly be aroused from dreamland—especially from enforced drowsiness, and unwelcome immobility—by such a magic touch? Now, we all admit that sleep is a good thing, and cheerfully concur with Sancho Panza in the propriety of invoking blessings on the head of him who invented it. But like some other good things, we may have too much of it, and were one of us doomed to-morrow to thirty years' sleep, like Endymion, we should probably look upon it as a kind of death-warrant. What! leave all our pleasures of song and dance—all our pageantries and pomp of state, or, it may be, our simpler joys of home and affection—to descend into the still caverns of sleep, and rest for years in utter unconsciousness of all that passes around. No! the lotus-eater's paradise is not for men of action endowed with faculties to conceive, and energies to execute their designs. For them the air must breathe business, progress and life. For them Nature is a treasury to be utilised by wide-awake brains, strong arms and willing spirits.

Let no shadows of somnolency approach them till the day's work is done, and well done. Wave no Lethean poppies before their eyes while the sun rides high in the heavens, and the glooms of evening are afar. Like Longfellow's blacksmith, they will earn their night's repose by conscientiously working while it is yet day. Now these are the men we want in Freemasonry; not the sloths who fold their arms and look on while others speed the plough; not the drones, steeped in torpor while earnest labourers build up the fabric of Universal Brotherhood. We want more vitality—more reality, more truth, more vigour—in the workmen, and greater results in the work. It is no secret that our Masonic Charities are mainly upheld by the same men year after year; that from the pockets of the few come those large and generous donations, the burden of which ought to be shared by every member of the Craft; that one of our institutions obtains abnormal support through the eloquence of its secretary; and, in a word, that our duty to promote one of the grand principles of the Order—the relief of distress—is at the best only imperfectly understood. But it is not only money that we want; large-hearted brethren will always be found who to a certain extent can cover the deficiencies of others. There is a greater desideratum, and it was forcibly indicated at the recent meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Hertfordshire by Brother John Havers, who, all will acknowledge, is himself an untiring toiler in the Masonic vineyard. We want men. We want administrators of our charities—brethren who will see that the funds are kept religiously sacred to the high and holy purposes for which they are designed. We want rays of light to penetrate the dark places, and magic touches to rouse the slumberers into life and action. It is the duty of every English Freemason not only to support the charities in a pecuniary sense, but to take an interest in the appropriation of his subscription. We know how keenly shareholders scan their balance-sheets, and how loudly they denounce this and that expense, when it involves a reduction of dividend. Unfortunately, however, in many cases, when a donor gives his money to a charitable institution, it being no longer his own, he considers its subsequent disposal a matter of little moment. This is neither just to himself nor to the recipients of his bounty, and we hope so unwise an apathy will be speedily dispelled with respect to our Masonic charities, in the administration of which a closer and more vigilant supervision should be exercised. We shall then be enabled to advocate their cause with greater interest; we shall then be entitled to rouse the supine with greater zeal, and proclaim to all the world not only how admirable charity is in theory, but how perfect, how divine it is in practice.

We are requested to state that the regular meetings of Royal Arch, Chapter 128, "Flowers of the Forest," Galashiels, are held on the third Thursday of each month, in the Masonic Hall, Bridge-place; Lodge 282, St. John's, Galashiels meet on the second Monday of each month, at the same place, at 8 o'clock p.m.; and also the lodge (under warrant of the Grand Lodge of Scotland,) holds meetings for the purposes of Masonry, in the town of Melrose, in the lodge-room, Abbey Hotel.

NOTES BY A NOVICE.

SEA-SIDE GOSSIP.

All the world and his wife are out of town—ruralizing in sequestered vales, sailing over waters blue, or climbing at the peril of their necks, those grand but dismal old Alps. However, as my native land hath charms for me, I'm here, enjoying the niggers on the sands, and the sound of the advancing sea. The "Cockney's marine Elysium," as a friend of mine in the "Echo" calls Margate, is now very full of heavenly visitants from the land of Cockayne.

Of course you have read Edgar Allan Poe's "Bells"? well there are better belles now at Margate than ever his were, and more of them. "Hear the belles," says the poet—not the bells up in the steeple, but the belles among the people. Why you have only to walk in the evening on the Pier—sacred to the memory of Ingoldsby—and you will hear and see them in countless numbers. Or you can go, as I did, to the Assembly Rooms in Cecil-square, where a very agreeable Concert takes place. The Great Vance has been down here, and charmed all hearts with his "Comic Impersonations." Really his "Walking in the Zoo" as a slightly exaggerated representation of aristocratic manners, is inimitable.

Vance is a brother of the mystic tie, and introduces a Masonic verse into one of his songs "Act on the Square," which is very appropriate. I am glad to be able to testify to the fact that his songs were carefully selected, and rendered with his usual versatile ability. After the Concert, dancing commences under the direction of Mr. James, who is a capital M.C.

Verily it brought back visions of boyish days to see them lightly tripping—tripping on the light fantastic toe. I was enticed to join the "Lancers," and thus gave evidence of those martial proclivities which I am known to possess.

The Cliftonville Hotel which stands on the Fort, near the Coastguard station, is a great acquisition to Margate, and it is so admirably managed by Bro. Sidney Spencer that, vast as is the accommodation, bed-rooms are scarce. "More power to his elbow" says an Irish friend at my side, by name O'Ryan—the same individual, who, as you may recollect, when contending for the antiquity of his family, clinched the argument by saying, "The —, I mean St. Patrick, fly away wid ye, wasn't it an O'Ryan (Orion) that sang upon the dolphin's back ages ago." I remember my suggestion that one Arion had performed the feat, was somewhat pooh-poohed.

MASONIC ORPHAN BOYS' SCHOOL, DUBLIN.

We are much pleased to learn that an election for two more pupils to this institution will be held in the month of September next. We understand that from the large number of applicants desirous of becoming inmates of the Masonic Orphan Boys' School, the committee have selected seven of the most deserving and pressing cases to be placed on the voting-papers, from which number the selection of the two successful candidates will be made by the governors at large. The only regret that we feel is that the funds of this most deserving orphanage do not admit of the entire seven applicants being admitted at once; and, indeed, it must be acknowledged that it is somewhat of a reproach to the Masonic Order that the number of annual governors subscribing at the rate of one pound each are not much more numerous than they are, when we consider the array of our most worthy and influential citizens, of all ranks and professions, who are proud to be known as brethren of the "Mystic Tie," one of whose principal characteristics is to help the destitute orphans of their deceased brethren; the more especially when an institution like this possesses the advantage of being managed by a committee consisting of (amongst others) such experienced and worthy gentlemen as the Vice-Chancellor, the Hon. and Rev. William C. Plunket, Sir John Marcus Stewart, Bart.; Maxwell Close, Edward Kinahan, Digges La Touche, Robert Warren, Vokes Mackey, the Revs. J. J. MacSorley and Henry Westby, Dr. Smyly, and Capt. Harte. We were pleased to observe, amongst the most recent donations, £50 from the executors of the late estimable and much regretted Bro. Brown, and £20 from the sunny island of Ceylon.—Dublin Paper.

afforded an opportunity of proving that the Christian virtues, which shed such a lustre on the Order in the olden time, were not obliterated, and that a munificent spirit of hospitality continued to adorn it even in the last years of its decline.

The close of the eighteenth century broke the links of the brilliant and extraordinary chain of the military exploits of the chevalier-brothers of Saint John. France which, since the days of Raymond du Puis, had been the nursery and munificent benefactress of the Order, lapsed in 1789, after a series of vicissitudes, into a state of anarchy unparalleled in the history of the world. Ancient institutions were overthrown, the landmarks of hereditary right were annihilated, blood deluged the land, and crime alone triumphed. In a revolution specially directed against the overweening ascendancy of aristocratical distinctions, and alike subversive of religious impressions and feudal privileges, an institution like that of Malta, based on ancestral and heraldic fame, could not long escape denunciation. Accordingly, first a decree was passed, subjecting the possessions of the Order in France to all the taxes imposed on other property; next, it was enacted that every Frenchman who was a member of any order of knighthood which required proofs of nobility, should cease to be regarded as a citizen of France; and lastly, by an edict dated the 19th of September, 1792, the Order of Saint John was declared to be extinct within the French territories, while its possessions were annexed to the national domains. Shortly after this, the sanctity of the Maltese territory was violated. On the 6th of June, 1798, the first division of the French fleet arrived before the port; and on the 9th the grand division of the squadron, with Bonaparte on board, furled sail in the offing. Access to all the ports, with liberty to debark, was immediately demanded of the Grand-Master; and the feeble-minded Ferdinand de Hompesch, the dupe of treachery and political intrigue, permitted, without a cannon being fired, the party-coloured flag, before which the Oriflamme had fallen, to supplant the untarnished standard under which, for more than seven centuries, the Knights of Saint John had conquered and bled.

On the occupation of Malta by the French, the illustrious fraternity, which had for upwards of two centuries exercised over it a mild dominion, was subverted, plundered, and dispersed, homeless and penniless, over the world. The rarities found in the public treasury and in the churches, together with the standards and trophies of the Order, were all carried away by the spoilers. Treason and a total absence of public magnanimity pervaded all ranks, and nothing escaped republican rapacity. These relics never, however, reached the country for which they were destined: part of them perished in the L'Orient, the French flag-ship which was blown up by Nelson at the Nile; and the rest were captured by the English in the Sensible frigate, which shortly after fell into their hands. The island itself, on which the tricolor had been so easily planted, was, after a two years' blockade, wrested from the usurpers, and now forms a dependency of the British crown. The change has been eminently beneficial to the natives, and they have ample reason to bless the fortune that placed them under the sway of the most enlightened and paternal government of the world.

As to the Order,—shattered into fragments by its expulsion from Malta, and the dilapidation of its resources,—its subsequent history is almost disconnected with the politics of latter times. Twelve knights and two servants at arms accompanied the Grand-Master into exile, who resigned an office for which nature had not qualified him, the moment he landed on the continent. Many of the brethren enlisted under the French banner, some to perish, as numbers of their predecessors had done, on the sands of Egypt; others to close their eyes before the walls of Saint Jean d'Acre, that city which the valour of the ancient Hospitallers had immortalized. The knights who followed the most prosperous course at the general dispersion, were those who took refuge in the Russian dominions. There they constituted themselves a Chapter, and elected the Emperor Paul to be their chief. In 1798 he was solemnly inaugurated as the seventieth Grand-Master of the Order, and formal notice was given of the same to all the Courts of Europe. At the same time the whole nobility of Christendom were invited to become knights of the Order, on production of the requisite gentilitical proofs, and the Standard of Saint John was hoisted on the bastions of the Admiralty of St. Petersburg, where it continues unfurled to this day.

(To be continued.)

MARK MASONRY.—The newly-established Mark Masters' Lodge, "Macdonald," No. 104, will meet this (Saturday) afternoon at 5 o'clock, at the Headquarters of the First Surrey Rifles, Brunswick road, Camberwell, under the presidency of the R.W.M. Bro. Thomas Meggy, P.G.M.O., when several advancements will be made, and a goodly muster of brethren is anticipated. We are authorised to state that the lodge will be happy to receive the visits of any duly qualified brethren on this occasion.

AN ESSAY

Concerning the most productive and most useful method of Masonic activity most in accordance with the ideas of Freemasonry, By Bro. B. A. CRAMER, at Eichenbarleben, Member of the Lodge at Aschersleben.

CROWNED PRIZE ESSAY—Continued from page 38.
[Specially translated for THE FREEMASON.]

Following those premises, we now give our Treatise on the subject in two chapters:—

1.—ACTIVITY AMONGST BRETHREN.

The work, then, that Freemasons purpose as their object is of a twofold nature, an harmonious individual development, for the purpose of creating a moral character, and the realization of the Masonic spirit in the profane world by actions. But whether in either direction, they must really work, they must be active in earnest. By cultivating only the one thing, viz., the life in lodges, we do not get rid of the former unproductiveness, which acts so depressingly on men capable of actions, and tends to keep the educated aloof from the Order. On the other hand it is requisite that the Freemason who is actively employed in deeds of benevolence, should find in the lodge, the genial centre from which emanates new life, exhortation, instruction, consolation and help, a quiet little retreat, in which he occasionally takes refuge, after the turmoil of the day, in order to reflect on the destiny of man, and where in conjunction with his brethren, he may in miniature represent the already gained ideal perfection. The lodge remains necessary now as before; but it is a general and deeply felt imperfection, that the labours in it have always something monotonous, owing to the forms being unalterably fixed, and also, that on every occasion, there are only a few brethren, and these always the same, who actively participate in the labours. To remedy such a state of things, we ought to again discover the art of Brother Desaguliers, who always understood how to render the labours in the lodges both interesting and useful. This however would require the initiative of the Grand Lodges, and for this reason, we can meanwhile only propose to create a counterpoise against the mischief that lies in the too passive state of the lodges, and which is the first cause of the sluggish condition of the brethren, "by the brethren being more frequently convoked, without any attendant-ceremonials, so that they may be able to promote each other's welfare without any constraint."

Hence there must be formed in every lodge, and in connection with it, a free association of brethren. It would be sufficient, to attain this end, if there were in every lodge even but one brother, who devoted to progress and fond of Masonry, would like to become, so to speak, the centre of attraction of the free association; such a brother would possess the talent of forming societies, and would soon understand to attach to himself the congenial elements, which then would form, so to speak, the solid framework of the new body, imparting solidity to the latter, whilst it would stimulate and keep in exercise the powers of the whole. This nucleus may be joined by other brethren, although it is not so much the great numbers, as proper qualifications that are required. It is of course understood that no one is bound to join the free association, and the association must be very careful so as not exclusively to stand out as a separate party against the other brethren not belonging to it; on the contrary, those differing in opinion with respect to the development of Freemasonry, must always be supposed to be capable of attaining the same effect according to their ideas. Let it be understood, that there exists no dogma in Masonry, but only the symbol producing toleration.

But such free associations are not only to be founded at places where there are lodges; it is necessary that those brethren who live at a distance from lodges should likewise periodically meet in convenient places. A tyled locality is indispensable for the sittings of the association, and the proceedings must not be disturbed and degraded by conversations on non-masonic topics, or any sensual enjoyments. The sittings must be regularly held, and very urgent motives only can excuse a Brother's absence. So much as to the outward appearance of the free association. If it be supposed that the above-mentioned indications may be totally disregarded, or that it be not necessary, strictly to conform to them, then those barriers which are requisite to keep the society closely and strongly together will be removed or loosened, and the evil consequences will soon show themselves. It is well known to us, that there exist already in connection with many lodges, free associations of brethren, and also for instance among the brethren of the Diaspora, so called Masonic clubs. We wish, however, that free associations, if possible, may become general and their proceedings systematical, and also that social enjoyments and all things belonging thereto, be strictly separated from the more serious occupations, and do never become the primary object. However we by no means underrate the value of social intercourse amongst the brethren, which acts more immediately than a deal of speaking, but this sociality is already sufficiently kept up, we must therefore take care that it become not undignified.

We will now endeavour to sketch, how the activity of the free association is to be kept alive. For the conduct of the meetings and the preservation of order, a President is required, and for the purpose of the recording of anything important during the proceedings, a Secretary, both to have deputies. The occupancy of these offices must often change amongst the brethren for the sake of practice. It is particularly incumbent on the Masters readily to accept these offices and to prove themselves Masters by the good services they render to the Brotherhood. No President who understands the Art rightly, will hold a meeting of the association without sufficient preparation; it is however the duty of the other participators, not to come themselves unprepared, because in that case, nothing important could be accomplished and the institution would in consequence decline. There are further to be appointed from amongst the brethren special reporters for all subject matters that may be discussed by the association; for the division of labour and the relieving of one another in the labours, must constantly be kept in view, so as to give exercise to all and over burdening no one. In this manner some brethren will have to make reports on the Masonic press, and first of all on the weekly papers. It would be quite useless and a waste of time to report lengthy articles already printed, which every one can better read at home, except they be very excellent and the reporting brother a practised reader. The contents are ordinarily only to be pointed out in a short synopsis, and the suitability of the form to be criticised. A second reporter would have to make objections, in case of his not being able to assent to the conclusion come to by the first; this method is also urgently to be recommended to the other reporters, as by doing so, a general interest is kept alive. It must be supposed that the aspiring brethren, will not only cause to have circulated amongst themselves those periodical papers, but that they will also procure the more important larger works, and methodically makes use of them. It is absolutely necessary to know, how far others are, and it would be making ourselves purposely Philistines, were we intentionally limiting our horizon. The brethren may also soon form a library, by means of those who possess good books collecting them in some convenient place where they would be left for general use. The books that may still be wanting will easily be provided by the association.

Other brethren will have to report on those persons who wish to join the Order. Every experienced brother knows that this is a matter of the highest importance to Masonry, and that in spite of all warnings, a great many are still received who are by no means qualified to be Masons; for the possession of an unstained and sociable character is not sufficient. It is requisite, that Freemasonry should be conceived as something really necessary and essential; an earnest wish must be evinced to serve our cause, and the possession of talents to promote it. It is therefore a task worthy of the free association, to examine with care and accuracy all those that seek to be admitted. They must personally be spoken to, so as to give proofs of their education and social virtues. They must be led to converse on Masonry in order to correct their perhaps erroneous opinions of it, and they must undoubtedly be informed of the duties that await them. Experience will soon indicate those rules that are to be observed for making systematic enquiries with respect to the petitioner, and the result of those enquiries will have to be reported to the brethren. We should always keep the fact in view, that it is far better for a lodge to cease working altogether, than to become paralysed by the admission of improper elements. It is far better for some of the brethren to continue to remain in a club, and gradually to work themselves up, than unprofitably to be occupied as a lodge for want of proper capacities.

(To be continued.)

THE ARK AND DOVE.

There was a lonely ark
That sailed o'er waters dark;
And wide around
Not one tall tree was seen,
No flower, nor leaf of green;
All—all were drowned.
Then a soft wing was spread,
And o'er the billows dread
A meek dove flew;
But on that shoreless tide
No living thing she spied,
To cheer her view.

There was no chirping sound
O'er that wide, watery bound,
To soothe her woe;
But the cold surges spread
Their coverings o'er the dead,
Now sunk below.

So to the ark she fled,
With weary, drooping head,
To seek for rest;
God is thy ark, my love,
Thou art the timid dove—
Fly to His breast.

Reports of Masonic Meetings.

THE CRAFT.

METROPOLITAN.

Royal Albert Lodge, No. 907.—The brethren of this lodge in accordance with their usual custom held their summer banquet out of town among the green and leafy bowers which surround Bro. Middlecott's hostelry, the Greyhound, Dulwich. The muster was not so strong as could be desired, but there were a goodly number of visiting brethren, who are always welcomed to the banqueting board of the Royal Albert. The W.M., Bro. Henry J. Lewis, was in his place and received a hearty welcome upon taking his seat at the head of the table. Supporting the W.M., were P.M.'s T. Lewis, P.G. Furst, J. A. Farnfield, I.P.M. Bro. Chard in the absence of the S.W., faced the W.M., while P.M. W. H. Farnfield occupied the seat of the J.W. The brethren were glad again to meet one of their brethren, Bro. Little, Commodore of the Columbian Navy, a right hearty greeting, he received from all around him. The usual Masonic toasts were quickly dispatched, and the brethren adjourned out of doors to quietly contemplate the beautiful works of the G. A. of the Universe, while others preferred to enjoy the out-door amusements which Bro. Middlecott provided for his guests.

Macdonald Lodge, No. 1216.—The usual monthly meeting of this lodge was held at the lodge-rooms, at head quarters of the First Surrey Rifles, at Camberwell, on Wednesday, the 4th inst. The lodge was opened by the W.M., Major A. L. Irvine, supported by Bros. James Stevens, S.W.; J. H. Hastie, as J.W.; Wagstaffe, S.D.; Larlham, J.D.; and Waterall, I.G. There were also present, Bros. T. Meggy, P.M.; E. Cronin, Treas.; J. J. Curtis, Sec.; H. N. Bridges, D.C.; Fourdrinier, Carnell, Patten, Dr. Blanc, Allen, Pike, &c.; visiting brethren, H. Francis, W.M., 177; Drysdale, P.M.; Major Palmer, Deane, and others. The minutes of the previous meeting having been read, were, together with a former decision of the lodge to change its date of meeting from the first to the second Wednesday in each month, confirmed. The lodge was then passed to the second degree, and Bro. Dr. Blanc having proved his proficiency, the lodge was opened in the third degree, and Bro. Blanc was raised with that impressiveness and solemnity for which the Macdonald lodge is becoming so justly celebrated. We again urge upon our brethren in the Craft, desirous of seeing how the ceremony in the third degree should be conducted, to visit this lodge, and we can assure them they will not fail to be deeply impressed with the careful attention given to every detail. The lodge having been closed to the first degree, was, as is the custom at every meeting, called off for a short interval for refreshment, during which the health of the visiting brethren was given, and ably responded to by Bro. Francis, who greatly praised the working he had witnessed. The Tyler's toast was given, the charity box circulated, and the lodge again called on in strict order and decorum. Mr. James Burnett Pike, of Oxford, and Capt. Norman W. Shaip, of the "King's Own" Militia, were then severally introduced and duly initiated into the Order. A petition was read on behalf of a distressed brother, formerly in good circumstances, who appealed to the lodge for assistance, and the same being supported by the testimonials of persons known to members of the lodge, the sum of £3 was unanimously voted from the Charity Fund to the petitioning brother. The lodge was then closed, and the meeting adjourned to the second Wednesday in September next.

PROVINCIAL.

Colchester, United Lodge, No. 697.—The regular meeting of this lodge took place at the George Hotel, Colchester, on Friday, 9th July. Present Bro. Newman, W.M.; Ray, S.W.; J. S. Smith, J.W.; Calthorpe, S.D.; Eustace, J.D.; Gill, I.G.; Rix, Treas.; Woodland, Fenn, Bell, O'Malley, Gavin, Kinlock, Piper, Jenkinson. Visitors: Bolton, Shury, Cobb, Breall, Cole, and G. W. Smith. The lodge was opened in due form in 1st degree, and the summons convening the meeting was read, and the minutes of the last regular meeting were read and confirmed. A report from the Board of General Purposes was read, stating that the characters of Robert Steen Gray, Adjutant 3rd Dragoon Guards, and Sergeant James Warren, 49th Regiment, had been considered satisfactory. A report was read from the Royal Masonic Institution giving an account of their last half-yearly meeting. Jane P. Pattison was recommended to the United Lodge as a worthy object for their votes at the next election in November. The United Lodge unanimously gave their votes. The Lodge was then opened in 2nd degree, and Bros. Fenn and Woodland being about to be raised to the sublime degree, the questions appertaining to the 2nd degree were first put to them, and having been answered satisfactorily they retired, and the lodge being opened in 3rd degree, they were raised to the sublime degree of Master Masons. Bro. Piper was then passed to the second degree. The lodge was then closed to 1st degree, and Sergeant James Warren was duly initiated. Bro. Ray proposed, and Bro. J. S. Smith seconded, that the subscription of members of the United Lodge be 5s. each, which was referred to the Board of General Purposes, for their consideration. Bro. Rix proposed, and Bro. Eustace seconded, that Bro. G. W. Smith, Angel 51, be received as a joining member of the United Lodge No. 697. The lodge was afterwards closed, and the brethren retired.

Liverpool, Royal Victoria Lodge, No. 1013.—A regular meeting of this lodge was held on the 4th inst. at the Masonic Temple, Hope-street, Liverpool, the business being the second and third degrees. There was a good attendance of brethren and visitors, amongst the latter was Bro. Bushier, P.M. & P.G.S.B. of England. After the lodge was opened and the minutes of the previous meeting read and confirmed, the S.W., Bro. Lowe, delivered the charge to the E.A.'s, which was omitted at the last meeting, owing to the large amount of business on hand. The lodge was then opened in the second degree, and Bros. Feeling, Thompson, and Jordan, who having previously shown the progress they had made in the former degree, were admitted and passed to the degree of F.C. by the W.M., Bro. J. B. Robinson. The working tools being very ably explained by the J.W., Bro. Gawith. The W.M. afterwards delivered an interesting lecture on the tracing board of this degree, in his accustomed lucid and efficient manner. Bro. Mawson having shown his proficiency as a Craftsman, he was entrusted with a test of merit and retired. The lodge was then opened in the third degree, when Bro. Mawson was admitted and raised to the sublime degree of M.M. by the W.M., assisted by his officers, so correctly and impressively as to convince the brethren present that the officers of this lodge (who had been selected for merit and ability), were fully able to discharge all the duties required at this, the first meeting after their appointment. The lodge was in due time closed, and the brethren departed at an early hour.

THE ROYAL ARCH.

METROPOLITAN.

Panmure Chapter No. 720.—The quarterly convocation of this Chapter was held at the Horns Tavern, Kennington, on Monday evening, the 9th inst., when there were present Comps. H. C. Levander, M.E.Z.; E. Worthington, H.; Joseph Nunn, P.Z. as J.; James Stevens, P.Z., Scribe E.; Wm. Watson, P.Z. as P.S.; Rev. W. B. Church, E. Cronin, S. Poynter, A. Perrott, H. Francis 859, visitor, &c., &c. The Chapter having been duly opened and companions admitted, the minutes of the previous convocation were confirmed, and a ballot was taken for Bro. Chas. Hammerton, of the Macdonald Lodge 1216, which proving unanimous, that brother was introduced and exalted to the supreme degree, the addresses from the principal chairs being most efficiently rendered. On the proposition of Comp. Stevens, P.Z., the election of Comp. R. Leal Shaw as an Honorary Member of the Chapter, in appreciation of his services during the past few years as Scribe E., which position he had been compelled to resign in consequence of physical infirmity, was unanimously voted. The Chapter was then closed, and the meeting adjourned to the second Monday in November. The companions shortly afterwards met for refreshment, when the usual loyal and Royal Arch Masonic toasts were duly honored, and the health of newly exalted companions was given, and responded to by Comp. Hammerton in a very earnest and able manner. The toast of the M.E.Z. was most heartily received, and in reply Comp. Levander expressed his sense of the excellent feeling which had at all times characterised the Panmure Chapter, and made connection with it, whether member or officer, subordinate or principal, a gratification and pleasure. He then proposed the healths respectively of the second and third principals; of Comp. Watson, P.Z.; and of Comp. Stevens, P.Z. and Scribe E., to all of which responses were given, and the Janitor's toast having been drunk, the companions separated at an early hour highly satisfied with the proceedings of the evening.

THE BLOOD PURIFIER.—Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla. Other Medical Testimony.—In speaking of the "Blood Purifier," old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla, G. C. Kernott, M.D., L.S.A. Lond., says:—"I strongly recommend it in cutaneous diseases and all impurities of the blood." March 24, 1869.—In a letter to the proprietors, June 6, 1869, Dr. Irvine, of Irvine's-town, says:—"I have been in the habit of ordering your Sarsaparilla for my patients with the best results. Send me six quarts and six mammoth bottles." For all skin diseases, for purifying the system of mercurial poisons, and building up the broken constitution it is the only safe and certain remedy.—In Bottles 2s. 6d., 4s., 4s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 11s. Sold by all Druggists. Pills and Ointment each in Boxes, 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d. Testimonials also from the Hon. the Dean of Lismore; General William Gilbert, of the Indian Army; ordered also by Apothecary Hall, London. Caution—Get the red and blue wrappers, with the Old Doctor's head in the centre. No other genuine.

—ADVT.

THE GRAND LODGE OF MARK MASTERS FOR ENGLAND, WALES, AND THE COLONIES, AND DEPENDENCIES OF THE BRITISH CROWN.

BENEVOLENT FUND FESTIVAL.

The position of the Mark Degree in England at the present time is a colossal monument of the energy and perseverance of its members. Fourteen years ago, Mark Masters were few in number, and destitute of any efficient organization for the preservation and perpetuation of the degree, but fortunately, those few brethren were men of earnestness and zeal, and by their exertions the subject was brought under the notice of some influential members of the Craft, with the view of obtaining the recognition of the degree by the United Grand Lodge of England. A committee of the Board of General Purposes, to whom the matter was referred, reported favorably, and on the 5th March 1856, the following resolution was unanimously adopted by Grand Lodge. "That the degree of Mark Mason or Mark Master is not at variance with the ancient landmarks of the Order, and that the degree be an addition to, and form part of, Craft Masonry, and consequently may be conferred by all regular warranted lodges, under such regulations as shall be prepared by the Board of General Purposes, approved and sanctioned by the Most Worshipful Grand Master."

However at the next quarterly communication of Grand Lodge, in June 1856, the above resolution was non-confirmed, in the absence of many brethren who would have attended the meeting and voted in its favor, had they been made aware of the intended opposition. Still as a deliberate expression of opinion, by such a body as the Grand Lodge of England, the above-quoted resolution has a most significant value and importance.

Thus shut out from practising the degree in Craft Lodges, the Mark Masters of England were compelled to do, as the four London lodges did in 1717, viz., associate together, and constitute a governing body of their own. This course was adopted by a number of distinguished brethren, and the Grand Lodge of Mark Masters was accordingly formed in June 1856, with Lord Leigh (Provincial Grand Master for Warwickshire,) at its head as the first Grand Master.

Other members of the degree continued working under the Grand Chapter of Scotland, by whose authority a warrant had been issued to Bro. H. G. Warren, H. R. Sharman, and Hughes, to form a Lodge of Mark Masters to be called "St Mark's Lodge," No. 1; and for some years this section of the brethren met with remarkable success, no less than 21 warrants having been issued by the Scottish Grand Chapter to English Mark Masons.

Some time-immemorial lodges also withheld their support from the new Grand Lodge for a time, but by degrees, the advantages of unity and consolidation became so apparent, that lodge after lodge gave in its adhesion to the national body, and as an example we may state that St. Mark's Lodge No. 1 of Scotland, is now No. 1 of England. Nearly all the Scotch lodges have surrendered their warrants, and joined the English organization, but we regret to add that just as the problem of a general union appeared to be solved, an obscure brother in Manchester, has had the bad taste to ignore the authority of the Grand Mark Lodge of England, by obtaining a warrant from Scotland. Such an ill-conditioned proceeding is truly pitiable.

Lord Leigh was succeeded as Grand Master, by the Earl of Carnarvon, under whose rule the Mark Degree continued to gain strength and influence, and the same remark applies to the reigns of his successors, Viscount Holmesdale M.P., and W. W. Bramston Beach, M.P., the latter being followed in the chair by the present M.W. Grand Master, the Rev. George Raymond Portal, M.A., who was installed last June.

The number of lodges on the roll of the Grand Lodge is now nearly one hundred, and the greatest praise must be awarded to those efficient brethren, and more especially to Bro. F. Binckes the Grand Secretary, for their untiring endeavours to achieve this noble result.

UNIFORMITY OF RITUAL.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I have been anxiously watching for the development of the movement originated by Bro. Stevens in your columns, and have been weekly expecting to see some notification of the holding of the proposed "Conference." It appears, however, from the letter of "Sigma," in your last week's impression, that Bro. Stevens' idea has passed from a mere suggestion to an already accomplished fact, that the ritual is already revised, and has even been authoritatively worked in open lodge in its revised form. The name of the lodge and of the new Preceptor are unfortunately not given.

Will not some of those who have so rapidly worked out so extensive and important a reform favour us with a few particulars, as to when and by whom the ritual has been revised, and from whom we are to seek instruction therein?

Yours fraternally,

DELTA.

INELIGIBILITY OF BASTARDS AS FREEMASONS.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—A strong nor'-easter seems to be setting in just now from certain quarters upon our Masonic kingdom; we find it blowing and blustering away not only in your columns, but also at the same time in those of your contemporary. It is terribly cold and dry; not a single drop of Christian love or Masonic sympathy to be seen or felt throughout the whole expanse. The man whom some accident has bereft of an arm, we are told by some would-be Masonic "light," is incapable of being a Freemason, even although he be of good moral character. Just as if Freemasonry was made up of arms and legs! I dare say there would be no use mentioning that this one-arm'd candidate may possibly work better at many things with his remaining arm than many other men with two. As such remarks might not be listened to, however, the custom of making men minus an arm or leg, has been often formally sanctioned by the Grand Lodge of Scotland, when the characters of the candidates could stand scrutiny. So our would-be "northern light," is in this instance simply "darkness visible." I consider that this un-Masonic spirit is the same as that which would keep out "men of colour," but as I gladly see by your remarks at page 6, May 22, you "side at once with the men of colour."

To come to the subject more immediately before us, viz., as to bastards being Freemasons, which is alluded to at page 65, I beg to say that I entirely differ from the dictum of "Cipes"; further his last article (page 65), is full of mistakes and is also most illogical. In his first article, page 8, June 12, he talks very much upon "the landmarks," but I am afraid that he does not very well know what the real landmarks of Freemasonry, or Speculative Masonry, are. I may therefore be allowed to state that these are Brotherly Love, Relief, and Truth. The pretended "ancient landmarks," as he reads them, are, I consider, both a lie and an imposition; further, whatever Operative Masonry might do in the 17th, or former centuries, Speculative Masonry, I trust, is not going to take its light from the dark and dim rays of ancient Jewish or Mosiac times. No! true Freemasonry takes its light, and I glory in saying it, from such doctrines and teachings as His who said, "Whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye even so to them," or other golden sentence, "love thy neighbour as thyself." Who then is our neighbour? Is not the bastard, especially if he be a good and true man himself, our neighbour? certainly, say I, and let him "that is without sin, first cast the stone." Again I ask, are the gates of Heaven shut against the good and true, who may happen to be bastards? No! Shall then the doors of an earthly lodge presume to shut out what the Grand Lodge above admits? Surely not! Viewed in the glorious light of Christianity, and in keeping with the march of modern civilization, true Freemasonry will find something better to do than examining into a man's pedigree. What, I would ask, have we to do with any man's parents? It is not them we deal with, it is the man himself. If he be a good man per se, we have no right to inquire what took place before he was born; he is not answerable for the faults of his parents; it is punishment enough for him to know the fact; and it is only the unthinking or cowardly in my opinion, who would throw such a circumstance in any man's face. One honest bastard, in my opinion, is worth a hundred lawfully born, or presumably lawfully born, but dishonestly acting specimens of humanity. It is an entirely mistaken and spurious view of the Spirit of Freemasonry, which would lock-out any honest bastard—a remnant of old Jewish legalism and selfish pride.

A few words now as to the remarks of "Cipes" upon our esteemed and talented brother and Masonic scholar D. Murray Lyon. "Cipes" says "Bro. Lyon is almost unknown in the Grand Lodge of Scotland," that is untrue, as Bro. Lyon is not only an office-bearer of said Grand Lodge, but is also well-known there, more especially by such brethren as take an interest in the Order; besides, the name of Bro. D. M.

Lyon is a household word among all students of Masonic literature; and for any Scottish Freemason to say he never heard of Bro. Lyon is tantamount to saying that he is entirely ignorant of the Masonic literature or history of his own country. Therefore as to "a Glasgow Lodge numbering nearly 800 members," in which "when his name was mentioned a few days ago, it appeared that nobody had ever heard of him before," I am ashamed to read such a statement; for if true, it clearly shows how little real Masonic light or knowledge is to be gained by attending it. I trust that this is not an exemplification of the old saying, "a prophet has no honour in his own country." Bro. Lyon is an honour to Scottish Masonry, and I am proud to hail him as a brother and as a most indefatigable co-worker in the field of Masonic research, and until I know who the "authorities in Freemasonry" are, to whom "Cipes" alludes, in the 23 towns he mentions, I am inclined to take Bro. Lyon's opinion before theirs, just as I prefer a silver florin to 23 copper pennies.

I am, yours fraternally,

LEO.

P.S.—I may inform "Cipes" that many Scots object to be called "Scotchmen," they prefer the designation "Scotsmen;" by attending to this "Cipes" may ward off a s-cotching.

[We entirely agree with the remarks of Bro. "Leo," and desire to explain that the paper signed by "Cipes," was inserted during our temporary absence from town. We have the highest opinion of Bro. D. Murray Lyon's literary abilities, and likewise of his character as an honourable man, and we may state once for all that we will not permit the columns of the THE FREEMASON to be made a vehicle for personal attacks upon any individual. Fair comments will never be excluded.]—ED. F.

PROV. GRAND LODGE OF SOUTH WALES (EASTERN DIVISION).

The annual meeting of the Grand Lodge of this province, was held at Neath, on Thursday, the 5th instant.

The attendance of brethren on the whole was good, although in point of numbers, far below the attendance expected, looking at the central position of place where the meeting was held, and the great facilities of communication afforded.

The various lodges were all, with one exception, represented, but it was a matter of general regret that with its great resources and its very close proximity, Swansea should have contributed so few to swell the numbers; the Cardiff lodges also were very inadequately represented as far as numbers went.

The Neath brethren, with the earnestness and zeal which distinguishes them on all these occasions, had laboured most successfully, to receive and entertain the Prov. Grand Lodge with the utmost ecclat; the Masonic Hall in which the meetings of the Cambrian Lodge are usually held, being considered not sufficiently capacious, it was determined to hold the Provincial Grand Lodge in the Town Hall, which was most kindly placed at the disposal of the brethren for the occasion. It was suitably fitted up with raised dais, and every convenience, and most tastefully decorated with banners flowers and choice plants.

The Prov. Grand officers and other brethren assembled in good time, in the rooms set apart for their use. Among those present were:—Bros. R. F. Langley, P. Prov. S.G.W.; F. D. Mitchaell, P. Prov. S.G.W.; Charles Bath, P. Prov. S.G.W.; James G. Hall, P. Prov. J.G.W.; P. H. Rowland, P. Prov. J.G.W. Rowland Thomas, P. Prov. J.G.W.; Reva. John Davies, David Thomas, and T. B. Hosken, P. Prov. G. Chaplains; A. B. Allen, P. Prov. G. Treas.; H. M. Rees, Prov. G. Treas.; Philip Bird, Prov. G. Reg.; M. Tennant, P. Prov. G. Reg.; John Jones jun., Prov. G. Sec.; Walter Whittington, John Felton, and David Williams P. Prov. G. Secs.; T. B. Bell, P. Prov. J.G.D.; E. I. Thomas, Thomas Powell, P. Donaldson, and Evan Jones, P. Prov. G.D.C's.; I. A. F. Sucad, and F. A. Hopwood, P.G.S.B's.; Richard Eva, and W. H. Bell, P.G. Purs't's.; Laurence Tulloch, J. Jones-Harrison, Geo. Causick, R. Webb, J. T. Nettell, Geo. Bradford, Edwin Pole, P. Prov. G. Stewards.

Among the distinguished visitors present were the R.W. the District Grand Master for China, Bro. Henry Murray, the V.W. the G. Chap. the Rev. Charles J. Martyn, J. J. Homfray, Prov. J.G.W., Monmouth; G. T. Smith, Prov. G. Sec. South Wales, W.D.; John Vaughan, Prov. G.S. Works, South Wales, W.D.; Frederick Binckes, Sec. Royal Masonic Institution for Boys; E. A. Moore, P. Prov. G. Reg.; &c., &c.

The Provincial Grand Lodge was opened at half-past 12 o'clock by the R.W. the Provincial Grand Master Bro. Theodore Mansel Talbot who conducted the business of the day, with the ability which he invariably displays.

He was supported by the W. the Dep. Prov. Grand Master Bro. Edward James Morris, the R.W. the District Grand Master of China, the V.W. Bro.

Martyn, Grand Chap.; and by the Prov. Grand officers and other brethren.

The minutes of the last Prov. G. Lodge held at Merthyr Tydfil, on the 3rd September, 1868, were read by the Prov. G. Sec., and confirmed.

The Prov. G. Treasurer's accounts for the past year were then presented, and on the motion of Bro. D. Williams, P. Prov. G. Sec., seconded by Bro. Philip Bird, Prov. G. Reg., were received and adopted, printed statements of same being freely circulated among the brethren.

On the proposition of Bro. Rowland Thomas, P. Prov. J.G.W., seconded by Bro. James G. Hall, P. Prov. J.G.W. Bro. William Morgan Rees was unanimously re-elected Prov. G. Treas., for the ensuing year.

The R.W. the Prov. G. Master then appointed the following brethren as Prov. G. Officers for the ensuing year, viz:—

Bro. Thomas Bruce, B.M. . . .	P.M. 960, S.G.W.
George Browne Brock . . .	W.M. 237, J.G.W.
Thomas Butterfil Hosken . . .	W.M. 651, G. Chap.
David Thomas . . .	W.M. 833, G. Chap.
William Morgan Rees . . .	P.M. 364, G. Treas.
Edward Stock Hill . . .	W.M. 36, G. Regis.
James Treggennin Nettle . . .	387, G. Sec.
Howel Cuthbertson . . .	P.M. 364, S.G.D.
William Edward Jones . . .	W.M. 110, J.G.D.
Geo. Robertson . . .	36, G. Supt Wks
William Williams . . .	W.M. 960, G.D.C.
David Longdon . . .	833, G.D.C.
Laurence Tulloch . . .	237, G.S.B.
Leonard Meddleeson . . .	364, G. Organist.
James Williams . . .	651, G. Purs't.
James Danes . . .	960, G. Tyler.
Charles Pegge . . .	364
Robert Wrentmore Thomas . . .	364
Albert Harries . . .	110
William Phillips . . .	237

The report of the Provincial Grand Lodge Committee, which was a very satisfactory one was presented.

The adoption of the report was moved by the W. the Dep. Prov. G.M., seconded by Bro. G. B. Brock, Prov. J.G.W., and unanimously agreed to.

The next business on the Agenda paper was the presentation of the Charity Jewel of Grand Lodge to Bro. H. L. Prichard, P. Prov. J.G.W., but in consequence of the indisposition of this Worshipful Bro. he was unable to attend to receive his well earned decoration.

Bro. CHARLES BATH, P. Prov. S.G.W., then moved the usual usual vote of twenty guineas to each of the Masonic Schools, which being seconded by Bro. R. F. Langley, P. Prov. S.G.W., was unanimously carried. Bro. Frederick Binckes ably responding on behalf of both the schools.

On the proposition of Bro. P. H. ROWLAND, P. Prov. J.G.W., seconded by Bro. Thomas Powell, P. Prov. P.D.C., a vote of five guineas was unanimously agreed to, towards the funds of Alderman Danes' Schools for the education of poor children.

The usual collection for charity was then made amounting to £6 7s. 9d., which in conformity with custom, was ordered to be placed in the hands of the Rector of Neath, for distribution among the poor.

The lodge was then closed in due form.

THE BANQUET

was served in the National School rooms, which had been most elaborately decorated, the walls were newly colored for the occasion, light stone with purple panneling; the various lodges, Chapters, and encampments were represented by new and tasteful banners bearing their respective names, and each banner was surrounded by a group of flags, these were connected by festoons of evergreens and flowers; between the groups of banners, and in the centre of the festoons, were shields bearing various Masonic emblems, but conspicuous amongst them were the quarterings of the Grand Lodge. At the head of the room and immediately behind the Provincial Grand Master's chair were three steps and a platform nearly the whole length of the school room, covered with crimson cloth, upon which were arranged with great taste, a most elegant assortment of flowers, shrubs, and ferns. Upon the platform were placed two Corinthian Columns, connecting which was an arch bearing the inscription "Cambrian Lodge" in silver letters on a pale blue ground, this was surmounted by the banner of the Cambrian Lodge and groups of flags. A crimson damask curtain formed a background to the design, in front of which was a marble bust of the Earl of Zetland, M.W.G.M. The effect of the decorations was complete, and reflected the highest possible credit upon every member of the Craft.

The "Queen and the Craft" being duly honored, and "The Most Worshipful the Grand Master" having been, as usual, enthusiastically received, then followed "The Health of the R.W. The Deputy Grand Master and the Grand Officers," coupled with the name of Bro. Martyn, Grand Chaplain.

Bro. MARTYN, G.C., responded in an amusing speech on behalf of the Right Worshipful the Deputy Grand Master and the Grand Officers, and in doing so fully endorsed all that had been said by Bro.

Talbot with regard to the Noble Earl, he said that the pleasure of doing so, however, was enhanced greatly by having an opportunity of witnessing the hearty reception which his dear friend (Bro. Talbot) had received that day, from brethren who had assembled from this, and the neighbouring province to do him honor. This gathering, delightful though it was, made his mind revert to the days when Bro Talbot and himself were fellow collegians at Christ church, and members of the Churchill Lodge, since that time they had been bound by ties of the closest friendship and brotherly regard, and he had determined that nothing should prevent him from being present that day, to witness the gathering of the province, who paid fealty to his distinguished friend. The Very Worshipful brother explained that he was not a sailor, in fact the sight of water of large quantities gave him singular qualms, however as he resided in Devonshire there was no help for it, but to screw up his courage, which he did manfully, and was fortunate enough to cross the "briny deep," between Burnham and Cardiff, without experiencing the slightest sea sickness, or being overtaken by a gale or shipwreck, as he had quite anticipated.

Bro. MORRIS, Dep. P.G.M. then proposed "The health of the R.W. P.G.M." which it is needless to say was received with great enthusiasm.

Bro. TALBOT made a suitable response, and proposed "The health of the Deputy Provincial Grand Master, Bro. Morris."

Bro. MURRAY, District Grand Master of China, in the course of his response, expressed himself highly gratified at the gathering which he had witnessed, and the reception which the "Cambrian Lodge" had given to their esteemed Grand Master.

"The health of the visiting brethren from the western division of South Wales" was then proposed, and responded to by Bro. SMITH, Prov. Grand Secy.

Then followed, "The visiting brethren from the Province of Monmouth," which was responded to by Bro. HOMFRAY, Prov. J.W.

"The health of the Prov. Grand Officers," was responded to by Bro. BELL, Prov. S.W., and Bro. BROCK, Prov. J.W., then followed, "The Masonic Charities," responded to by Bro. BINCKES, in a speech of considerable length, characterised by the usual fervour of his well-known eloquence.

"The health of the Cambrian Lodge" was next proposed by Bro. Talbot; and Bro. ROWLAND responded in suitable terms.

A number of other speeches followed, and the meeting, which was of a most satisfactory character, terminated at an early hour. The speeches were interspersed with vocal and instrumental music, which was ably conducted by Bro. Middleton, Prov. G. Organist.

Several reviews and other interesting articles stand over till next week.—ED. F.

ROYAL COMPLIMENT TO BRO. J. L. TOOLE.—A gratifying circumstance, showing the high respect in which the theatrical profession is held by Royalty, took place in connection with the recent Dramatic College Fete. After the dramatic entertainment had been given in the large theatre of the Crystal Palace, a special communication was sent to Mr. J. L. Toole, stating that their Royal Highnesses would be glad to receive that popular comedian at Rockhills. In the most courteous manner the Prince and Princess of Wales then requested Mr. Toole to oblige them with some songs and imitations given on the occasion of their visit to the theatre some three years since. It is said that Bro. Toole was deeply impressed with his gracious reception, the applause he elicited, and the high appreciation of his profession thus evinced by the Royal party.

MEETINGS OF LODGES, &c.—Macdonald Lodge, No. 1216, meets at Head-quarters of the First Surrey Rifles, Brunswick-road, Camberwell, on the Second Wednesday in every month throughout the year (not on the First Wednesday, as hitherto), at 6 p.m.—Macdonald Mark Masters' Lodge, No. 104, meets at Head-quarters of the First Surrey Rifles, Brunswick-road, Camberwell, on the Second Saturday in the months of August, October, December, February, April and June, at 5 p.m.—Macdonald Lodge of Improvement, No. 1216, meets every Wednesday evening from September to May (except on the occasions of the Mother Lodge Meetings), at the lodge rooms, at 7-30 p.m.

BREAKFAST.—EPPS'S COCOA.—Grateful and Comforting.—The very agreeable character of this preparation has rendered it a general favourite. The Civil Service Gazette remarks:—"The singular success which Mr. Epps attained by his homoeopathic preparation of cocoa has never been surpassed by any experimentalist. By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills." Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold by the Trade only in $\frac{1}{2}$ lb., $\frac{1}{4}$ lb., and 1 lb. tin-lined packets, labelled—JAMES EPPS & Co., Homoeopathic Chemists, London.—ADVT.

METROPOLITAN MASONIC MEETINGS

For the Week ending August 21, 1869.

Monday, August 16.

Lodge No. 720, "Pannure," Balham Hotel, Balham.

Tuesday, August 17.

Board of General Purposes, Freemasons' Hall, at 8.

Lodge No. 435, "Salisbury," 71, Dean street, Soho.

Chapter 186, "Industry," Freemasons' Hall.

Metropolitan Chapter of Instruction, George Hotel, Aldermanbury at 7; Comp. Brett, Preceptor.

Domestic Lodge of Instruction, Palmerston Tavern, Grosvenor-park, Camberwell, at 7.30.

Faith Lodge of Instruction, Metropolitan Railway, Victoria Station, at 8.

Wednesday, August 18.

General Committee of Grand Lodge, and Lodge of Benevolence, Freemasons' Hall, at 7 precisely.

Lodge No. 619, "Beacon," Greyhound Tavern, Dulwich.

"1150, "Buckingham & Chandos," Freemasons' Hall

United Strength Lodge of Instruction, No. 228, Bull and Gate, Kentish Town-road.

Thursday, August 19.

House Committee, Girls' School, at 4.

Lodge No. 733, "Westbourne," Lords' Htl., St. John's Wood.

"917, "Cosmopolitan," Terminus Htl., Cannon-st.

Red X Preceptory, "Plantagenet," Lyceum Tav., Strand, at 7.

Friday, August 20.

House Committee of Boys' School.

Lodge No. 813, "New Concord," Rosemary Branch Tavern, Hoxton.

Emulation Lodge of Improvement for M.M.'s, Freemasons' Hall, at 7.

Metropolitan Lodge of Instruction, George Hotel, Aldermanbury, at 7; Bro. Brett, Preceptor.

Belgrave Lodge of Instruction, Duke of Wellington Hotel, Spring-gardens, Charing-cross.

Saturday, August 21.

Lodge No. 1185, "Lewis," Nightingale Tav., Wood Green.

Advertisements.

GEORGE KENNING,

3 and 4,

Little Britain, London, E.C.

MASONIC DEPOT.

THE LARGEST STOCK in the WORLD

Jewels,

Clothing,

Furniture,

Banners,

Books, &

Requisites

For all Degrees in Freemasonry.

Price Lists on application.

GEORGE KENNING,

3 and 4,

Little Britain, London, E.C.

A GENTLEMAN, a Freemason, who can give first-class references, REQUIRES the LOAN of £350 to enable him to retain and carry on successfully a business upon which he has expended a considerable amount of labour and capital.—J.L., care of Mr. W. J. Clarke, jun., 4, Corbet Court, Gracechurch-street, London.

CONSUMPTION is CURABLE.—

To CONSUMPTIVES.—A Clergyman, whose son has been miraculously cured of deep consumption, desires in gratitude, and for the benefit of the afflicted, to send full particulars of the remedies used in his son's case, so that all may participate in this providential discovery. Sent to any address free of charge.—Address the Secretary, 48, George street, Portman-square, London.

EDUCATION.—CROOM'S-HILL SCHOOL,

Blackheath, near London,

PRINCIPAL, Rev. T. GOODWIN, M.A., D.C.L., LL.D.

Parents in search of a School combining the conscientious care of a home and the thorough efficiency of education in its several departments, are requested to apply for a Prospectus to the Principal, who is ready to submit to applicants all information concerning the School, the testimony of parents in its favour, and an account of the uniformly distinguished position its pupils have achieved in commercial pursuits, in the Civil Service, the Medical, the Army and Navy, and the University Examinations.

THE EUROPEAN MAIL,

A Summary of Universal Intelligence and Exact Commercial Statistics from Mail to Mail, specially prepared for the Colonies and Trans-Oceanic World generally.

THE EUROPEAN MAIL IS THE LEADING TITLE OF EIGHT TOTALLY DISTINCT NEWSPAPERS, AS FOLLOW—

No. of issues annually	Destination.	When Issued.	Rate of Subscription per annum, including postage.
24	A. European Mail for the West Indies, Central America, Chili, Peru, &c.	2nd & 17th of the month	40s.
24	B. European Mail for South Africa, St. Helena, Ascension, &c.	10th & 24th	40s.
52	C. European Mail for North America, i.e., the United States, Canadian Dominion, British America, Cuba, Mexico, &c.	Every Saturday	52s.
36	D. European Mail for the Brazil and River Plate, Azores, &c.	9th, 19th, & 29th	54s.
39	E. European Mail for China, Japan, Ceylon, Penang, Singapore, Siam, Sumatra, Java, Borneo, and the Philippines	27th August 1869, & every fortnight after, by English Mail; and on Sept 2nd, 1869, & every fourth Thursday by French Mail.	52s.
52	F. European Mail for India, Burmah, Egypt, &c.	Sept. 3rd '69, and every succeeding Friday.	39s.
13	G. European Mail for Australia and New Zealand	Every 4th Friday.	13s.
24	K. European Mail for the West Coast of Africa, Madeira, Tenerife, &c.	3rd & 23rd of the month.	40s.

* Or with Manifest Supplement, 65s.

N.B.—All Subscriptions payable in advance.

EACH Paper contains every item of intelligence, from Mail to Mail, specially affecting the country or colony for which it is published, with an exhaustive summary of home and continental politics, science, art, and social news, and a retrospect of commercial transactions in Great Britain and on the Continent.

Manufacturers and Merchants may command the greatest markets of the world for their products through the medium of publicity afforded by the EUROPEAN MAIL. A demand may be created where none exists at present, or an existing demand may be sustained and increased against the most energetic competition.

The EUROPEAN MAIL gives such perfect mercantile information that it is the highest commercial authority in the vast and prosperous territories through which it circulates. It is therefore an imperative necessity to the merchant who orders goods in bulk, and to the wholesale and retail distributor; it is also the most complete newspaper despatched from England, and is eagerly sought by all classes; it thus, unlike merely commercial newspapers, reaches and leavens the great communities who are the actual consumers of all products, and who must be acted upon by advertisement to require a special article before the merchant will venture to order a consignment.

Scale of Charges for ADVERTISEMENTS each insertion per Paper as follows:—

FOR PAPERS C, F, & G ONLY.	FOR PAPERS A, B, D, E, & K ONLY.
One Page ... 7 10 0	One Page ... 2 s. 0
Two-thirds of a Page ... 5 9 6	Two-thirds of a Page ... 3 13 0
Half-Page ... 4 2 6	Half-Page ... 3 15 0
One-third of a Page ... 3 0 0	One-third of a Page ... 2 0 0
Quarter-Page ... 2 8 0	Quarter-Page ... 1 12 0
Eighth of a Page ... 1 7 0	Eighth of a Page ... 0 18 0
Below an Eighth of a Page.	Below an Eighth of a Page.
Per inch.	Per inch.
Across the Page ... 0 13 9	Across the Page ... 0 13 6
Two-thirds across the Page ... 0 13 9	Two-thirds across the Page ... 0 8 6
Half across the Page ... 0 9 9	Half across the Page ... 0 6 6
One-third across the Page ... 0 6 9	One-third across the Page ... 0 4 6

Page next matter, Rate and a Half. Outside pages, Double Rate.

* * The above Scale of Charges is subject to a Discount of 10 per cent. for Advertisements appearing in the consecutive issues of a paper for 3 months; of 15 per cent. for 6 months; and 20 per cent. for 12 months.

When an Advertisement is ordered for insertion simultaneously in all the Papers, the lowest rate above is charged all through.

Post Office Orders to be made payable at the Cannon-street Post Office, London.

Remittances payable to William Vaughan.

The EUROPEAN MAIL may be ordered through the Local Agent, direct from the London Office, or through any Firm having representatives in England. In the last case, the usual system is to order the EUROPEAN MAIL to be forwarded until countermanded; the representative of the Firm in England being directed, under similar conditions, to make payment annually.

Masonic History, Antiquities, and Bibliography.

SPECIMENS FROM A MASONIC QUARRY.

By WM. JAMES HUGHAN, P.M., No. 131, TRURO,
Honorary Member "Mother Kilwinning," Scotland; Provincial
Grand Secretary for Cornwall, &c., &c.

SPECIMEN No. 2.—THE TORPHICHEN-KILWINNING LODGE, No. 13, BATHGATE.

(Continued from page 53.)

The Friendly Societies in connection with Craft Lodges form a distinguishing feature in Scottish Freemasonry. Although the lodges in England do not generally adopt the principle of adding a "Benefit Society" to their other attractions as Freemasons, we know of instances where the bye-laws provide for brethren on leaving the lodge receiving their share of the capital, proportionate to their age and length of membership, and in case of their decease, the widow would receive the sum to which her husband was entitled. In several Mark Lodges bona fide benefit societies are attached and are well sustained. We do not ourselves believe in any such methods for providing for indigent brethren, especially as the fact of their being such substantial advantages would necessarily tend to draw more candidates for initiation than desirable. In Scotland, however, there are weighty reasons for retaining such societies in connection with the operative lodges, although we apprehend there would not be a valid argument for permitting ordinary lodges to carry on the same system.

The Lodge of Torphichen-Kilwinning is one that comes under the exceptional clause, and as we before intimated, possesses a Friendly Society composed exclusively of Freemasons:—

"Though the Lodge and Society may in many respects be termed one body, yet the objects of both are distinct and well defined; the main object of the Lodge being the practice of the mysteries of Freemasonry, while that of the Friendly Society is purely for providing a fund to assist its members in the event of sickness, and securing a certain allowance payable to the friends of deceased members, to aid them in performing with decency the last sad rites of interment. The rules for regulating both Lodge and Society have hitherto been blended together in one code; they are now separated."—Bye-laws, A.D. 1850.

We have a copy of the bye-laws of the lodge before us agreed on by the members 27th Decr., 1849. There is nothing striking or peculiar about them, and though they appear framed carefully to exclude unworthy men, we think the initiation fee is so low that we should not wonder at some persons considering it as simply "entrance money" to the "friendly society." The following will give an idea of the character of the old minutes, and with their reproduction we must conclude our notice of this lodge:—

"At Livingston-Kirk, the 4th day of January, 1737.—The Lodge of Torphichen having mett, and after having unanimously chosen James Steile, mason at Bathgate, their senior Warden to preced [preside], the chair at that time being vacant till there should be a Master chosen for the said lodge. Accordingly he having taken the chair, proposed yt Mr. Walter Sandilands, Advocate, should be their Master, which proposell being unanimously assented to by the whole Lodge, the sd. Mr. Walter Sandilands took the chair as Master, and after being clothed and congratulated as such, he proceeded to choose his Wardens and Deputy Master; and accordingly chose Mr. William Dalrymple, advocate, for his Deputy; James Whitefoord, of Dindaff, Senior Warden; Alexander McConochie of Meadowbank, Junior Warden; George Dick, writer in Mid-Calder, Secretary; William Tennant, mason in Howden, Boxmaster; and John Tweeddale, Bailie in Mid-Calder, and Charles Wright (wright at Livingston-kirk), as Stewards to the said lodge; which choice being unanimously gone into, they proceeded to make laws for the better regulation of the lodge. And accordingly enacted that in all time coming the dues to be paid by any Apprentice at his entry should be four pounds Scots [6s. 8d.] by and besides half a crown [2s. 6d.] to be paid by them for the use of the Grand Lodge, and at passing four pounds Scots; all this by and besides the charge of treating the company that shall happen to enter in passing the said Apprentice, a Fellow Craft, &c."

Respecting the "treating" of the members, we have an old set of bye-laws that required the members to spend "ninpence out of every shilling for the good of the house." Then, Masonry must have proved a curse, instead of a blessing, to many. In the present day, although in too many instances lodges may be charged with over-feeding and drinking, a great improvement is manifest, and the "drinking customs" of Masons of the last century are rapidly on the decline.

The next minute states that the following meeting was to be held in the "house of Baillie Tweeddale, at Mid Calder, on 8th March, 1737." The lodges in Scotland about this date seemed to have power to move about wherever the majority decided, and "make masons," &c. During this decade, the lodge held meetings in Edinburgh, and received several members. These doings were signed by the Master, Wardens, Secretary, and twenty-three brethren. The next entry in the minute-book, dated 20th May, 1752, referred to a meeting held at Bathgate, at which place all subsequent meetings appear to have been held.

In the list of lodges holding of the Grand Lodge of Scotland A.D. 1804, the lodge is styled No. 16. It however stands the 12th on the roll, and in the Bye-laws for 1850 it is termed No. 12. It now ranks as No. 13, under the date of 1707.

The following is a list of the old lodges (mostly from the "British and Irish Masonic Calendar") holding of the Grand Lodge of Scotland, that claim an existence anterior to the institution of that Grand Lodge (1736), or of Grand Lodge of England (1717):—

0.	Ancient or Mother Lodge of Kilwinning	1128
1.	St. Mary's Chapel, Edinburgh	1518
2.	Canongate Kilwinning, Edinburgh	1677
3.	Scoon and Perth, Perth	1658
3 ^d	St. John, Glasgow	1190
5.	Canongate and Leith, Leith	1688
6.	St. John Old Kilwinning, Inverness	1709
7.	Hamilton Kilwinning, Hamilton	1695
8.	Journeymen, Edinburgh	1707
9.	St. John, Dunblane	1696
13.	Torphichen Kilwinning, Bathgate	1707
30.	Ancient Kilwinning, Stirling	1708
34.	Aberdeen, Aberdeen	1541
37.	St. John Operative, Forbes	1716
52.	St. Andrew's, Banff	before 1703
57.	St. John Kilwinning, Haddington	1599
118.	St. Bryde, Douglas	1714

Sketches or histories of No. 0, 2, 8, 13, and 52 have been written. Bro. Lyon, the Scottish Masonic Historian, is now engaged in writing that of No. 1 (the records of which have been entrusted to our friend and fellow masonic student for examination and reproduction), and we hope soon to hear of others who are anxious to make known to the world the character of their lodge records.

Multum in Parbo, or Masonic Notes and Queries.

"Domestic" and "Geomatic" Masons.—The following may be taken as an answer to R.T.'s query of July 24:—"Domestic is derived from the Latin word 'domus,' which signifies a house. It therefore means of, or belonging to, a house. Its Masonic meaning is transparent from its usage in former times. When a body of Freemasons who were also Operative Masons applied for a charter to found a Lodge, as was the case with the petitioners for Ayr Kilwinning in 1765, they designated themselves 'Domestic' Masons. On the other hand, members of Lodges who were not Operative Masons (nobles, lairds, etc.) were styled 'Geomatic' Masons—a term derived from the Greek word, gēa, the land or soil, and therefore intended to show that they were landed proprietors, or men in some way or other connected with agriculture. This was evidently the idea the word was meant to express at first; but it by-and-bye was applied to all Freemasons who were not Operative Masons, and who were in those days styled 'Gentlemen' Masons. Both the terms 'domestic' and 'geomatic' are obsolete."—D. Murray Lyon's 'History of Mother Kilwinning.'

D. MURRAY LYON.

MEETINGS.—Our meetings, when conducted according to the true spirit of the Order, are characterised by an emulation to excel in wisdom and the knowledge of practical virtue; and that the instruction incessantly poured from the Master's chair, is delivered from an ample and exhaustless mine, stored with the richest gems of morality and religion, to reform the manners, and cultivate genial propensities in the mind.

PAPERS ON MASONRY.

By A. LEWIS.

XIX.—MASONRY IN ITS PURE EXPRESSION.

"Shalt thou reign, because thou closest thyself in cedar? did not thy father eat and drink, and do judgment and justice, and then it was well with him. He judged the cause of the poor and needy; then it was well with him: was not this to know me? saith the Lord."

Jeremiah xxii. 15, 16.

Throughout nature, the visible token given of the Unseen by T.G.A.O.T.U., one compensating and sufficient system is apparent. It is, so to speak, entirely one edition of God's periodicals, printed at such vast cost that piracy is impossible. In presence of the appalling problem of existence in any sense, men of common intelligence have opposed Science—the kind mistress of those who are True, and the dire enemy of Dogma and Falsity.

A certain fallacious, because unintelligible, theory has been current about an Eidolon called Progress. If any one could really inform me—well accustomed as I am—from education and inclination, to the Land of Shadows, I should really feel obliged.

We wander on from day to day, sometimes a little hopeless about our science, but, if sensible, never doubting the excellent principle of Goethe—to seize the present moment. I am not going to wander into something about as useful as the great Angelic Doctor, Thomas Aquinas, nor am I a Didymus; I am much in the position of Gallio, who "cared for none of these things."

There is no determinate end, at present, of which we can give any intelligible account. I don't wish to be mistaken, but this really is not a political article. Neither my political ideas nor my political sympathies, either can or ought to prevent the meaning I seek to elicit from the words at the head of this article:—"Shalt thou reign because thou closest thyself in cedar?" Is one mere frail scrap of mortality to monopolize the one half of the world's wealth, because the other half is so cunning as to persuade him that it is not handy. But this is nothing to what might be accomplished by the heartless set of people imported into Masonry for the mere sake of its honours, advantages, and titles. To be a true Mason, my friends and readers, you must have studied long and hard. Ceremonies, however august, neither approach the intellect nor dazzle the mind. By slow and patient degrees the true Mason ascends to a position whence he can espy the sacred edifice of Charity and Freedom. How comes it that it is left for one who imparts Strength, to be the advocate where so many Masons are laggards? Because they have bowed to Dagon, and not Truth.

There are four corners to the world; these are Charity, Truth, Science and Honour. By their equal plane they form one, that one is T.G.A.O.T.U. But the miserable set of initiated idiots who disgrace the cause, rather because "they know not what they do," than from intention, require diligent looking after. It is of no use to close yourself in cedar, or to hide your light under a bushel.

The second expression in the words I have selected now come on for consideration:—"Did not thy father eat and drink, and do judgment and justice, and then it was well with him."

What is human life, unadorned with those feelings that render every heart at ease by having not only meant, or prayed for, but accomplished one deed of goodness between dawn and sunset? It would be a waste worse than the most awful abyss that the most abject drunkard could imagine in the kismet of stationary delirium tremens. He ate and drank, and did judgment and justice, and then it was well with him. Why? Because he had listened to that still small voice of Charity, tempered by Science, which constitutes the salvation of ourselves, by our self-respect.

What, however, following my text closely, was done by the one with whom it was well? "He judged the cause of the poor and needy," and, with the iteration of Hebrew enthusiasm, "then it was well with him," and the prophet, deeming himself qualified to add the words so impressive to every real (initiated or not) Mason's heart, "was not this to know me, saith the Lord!"

And is it not, to us, who bend in awe before the majestic and persistent powers of Nature; do not we see that our puny efforts to aid each other "in spirit and in truth," "doing no works of supererogation," are the noblest and most efficient thanks we can offer to the T.G.A.O.T.U.

Some people say as to manners, "let each reform one," and they mean the person whom they address. I would rather propose that each should be such an example to the other that the strife should be emulation, and so productive of good to all.

The beautiful phrase, "that peace of God which passeth all understanding," might then, without priests, become patent to every heart, and everyone might rest in the consciousness of performing, and not merely talking of performing, their duty. Who can doubt, my Masonic friends, and those of my own Order, who read these lines, that Jeremiah was right when he said:—"He judged the cause of the poor and needy; then it was well with him; was not this to know me, saith the Lord?"

CRYPTONYMUS.

Original Correspondence.

[The Editor is not responsible for the opinions expressed by Correspondents.]

THE LITERARY FUND.

(To the Editor of the Freemason.)

SIR AND BROTHER,—I believe your journal is the recognised organ of the Masonic body in the United Kingdom, and I therefore desire to make you acquainted with the fact that a gross insult has lately been levelled at the Craft at large. A Professor Robertson, of the Romish University here, has been granted a literary pension of £100 per annum. Now this man's only literary production of note is mendacious attack on Freemasonry, written to order, and yet he gets a pension from a Liberal (?) Government, of which Lords de Grey and Hartington are members! Where is their zeal for the Craft in this case? O tempora, O mores!

Yours,

AN INDIGNANT IRISH MASON.

Dublin, August 3, 1869.

WHY DO THE HEATHEN RAGE?

(To the Editor of the Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—You have no doubt observed that in the papers I have contributed to your excellent periodical, I have always abstained from commingling the remarks made upon any of those papers with the papers themselves. This week—in addition to much personal affliction of a very different kind—I have to descend into the arena at the call of my esteemed friend "Viator," and also to respond to a Transatlantic brother, "S. Evans," hailing from the "solid" town of Boston, Mass.

The Pope and the Slave, to my thinking, are very much like Cæsar and Pompey—so beautifully indistinguishable that you cannot tell them apart. The one, perhaps, has power to do that good which the other would fain effect. But I really must emphatically comment upon some remarks in both of these able letters.

I have looked at my article on Masonry in Italy, but I do not see what "opprobrious epithets" I have bestowed on Mastai Ferretti. I think he has simply failed in his duty, under the absolute rule of the gentleman whose chief recommendation to the Under World and Futurity is summed up in the word "Perugia." To this Ferretti is decidedly an accessory.

My esteemed friend "Viator" errs in some of his conclusions. He says, "Freemasonry on the Continent can accomplish more by a change of tactics than by identifying her mission with the cause of misguided, though well-meaning, enthusiasts." Does "Viator" mean to say that the landmarks of the Fraternity are to be used like chessmen on a board? How can Masons change their tactics? To criticise the latter portion of the sentence would be beneath my dignity. I must, however, appeal to the good sense of Bro. "Viator" to withdraw the expression of "the glorious spirit of liberty." Liberty is licence, not freedom. Freedom is a sacred thing, known only to the educated. You know you are free; you believe you have liberty. We have all heard of the "glorious privilege of being independent," but how few among the myriads of "Plato's men," as Diogenes termed the race, have any knowledge of the privilege! Equality is only possible by education, and Heaven help the unfortunate catechumen who receives it at the hands of Rome—as I have before said, the Rome of Antonelli.

"Bro. 'Viator' talks of not being prepared to brand the Roman pontiff with the designation 'miserable.' Did he read my paper with care? Surely 'miserable' is quite susceptible of a far other interpretation than 'despicable'! A man may be miserable from the consciousness of having committed a great wrong, or connived at a great fraud. Mastai Ferretti has done both; but he is a man, and the exquisite remark of Chremes in the comedy of Terentius Afer, applies to him:—'Homo sum, humani nihil a me alienum Puto.' He, by a fraud, claims infallibility, but he is unable to divest himself of humanity. I do not think, in the supremacy of his misery, that I could have used any other term. 'Viator' will kindly not assume that it is a matter of course that I meant, by 'miserable,' 'despicable.' 'Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown,' and none know that better than those to whom crowns have become familiar.

Without desiring to offend my critic and friend, may I suggest that there are higher authorities than the Morning Advertiser and Reynolds' Miscellany for anecdotes connected with the Papal Court. I have heard of Roscoe, and there is even the paid Giornale di Roma.

I am, in fine, "not abusing plaintiff's attorney"; I am denouncing a system on definite grounds, for definite reasons, with the utmost deliberation. I stated before that I had a very vehement personality—I repeat the phrase. If I had it not, I should not be able to strike flashes out of friend "Viator."

At the commencement of this letter I said the Pope and the Slave were much in the same position. In real truth, they might be bracketed together. They are both public nuisances, caused by Roman Catholicism—for let me just say that Las Casas made slavery in the States.

Brother Samuel Evans I salute cordially. He is known to me, although I am not known to him.

When I wrote my paper on Masonry and the Slave, I attempted to comment upon Lowell's remark in the Biglow Papers, that "Slavery ain't of nairy colour." We have no more right to enslave black men than we have white, or any other tinge of the integument. But if, unfortunately, we find a less advanced race in a state of trouble, surely it is better to lead than to drive. There is such a thing as natural subordination, because human life is too short, and exposed to too many infirmities, to admit of perfectibility. I remember the echoes of an anecdote which ended—"Brother, brother, we are all in the wrong!" But to my task.

I have no theory on the origin of Freemasonry; I have never proclaimed one. I am ultra vires in the matter. Therefore, as there is no "speculation in mine eye," there is no necessity for using coloured mediums. I really don't believe that the estimable worthies known as Noah, Paul, Canaan, or Philemon were Masons. What little real truth these legends contain, I leave to other folks to settle at their "own sweet will." Quantum sufficit ego habet. "Davius sum, non Ædipus."

"Slavery," Brother Evans properly says, "was altogether human, and never divine." Why! the very recent origin of Freemasonry accounts for the centuries of slavery's existence. It was a great wrong, created by the monstrous union of an English Protestant Queen and a meddling pseudo-philanthropic Spanish priest. Elizabeth and Las Casas have to answer this. She traded in "niggers," and he traded in "benevolence," as protector of the Indians. Bro. Evans, as an experienced man, will assess the value of the "noble savage." Somebody called him the "meanest cuss out!"

I will draw the attention of Bro. Evans to the fact that my object was rather to attempt some definite statement of the case, than to try and assume an ex cathedra position. I say a slave, born in slavery—if the landmarks of Masonry are to be respected—can not legitimately become a Mason. Should he attain his freedom—as, by proclamation in the States, has occurred—being born a slave, his issue would be eligible; and so, in a generation, Africans and coloured persons would be admissible. But this is a purely legal argument. With every respect I submit that the feeling is not really adverse to the slave, but is inherent in the principles laid down.

I am sure that neither Masonry nor other Orders are anxious or willing to tread upon the persecuted and the wretched; but their statutes, upon the due preservation of which their stability rests, must be regarded with reverence and cherished.

The great battles of Freedom can only be fought by Education, and by an extermination of the causes which repress this. With a kind farewell, again I say, Roma o Morte! CRYPTONYMUS.

P.S.—I have, as Bro. Evans wishes, carefully reviewed, not only this letter, but my own articles; may I suggest for the consideration of my good friend, the perusal of Bro. Oliver's last and greatest book—"The Symbol of Glory"? Should Bro. Evans think any of my "Papers" worthy of reproduction in the States, he has my perfect consent to do with them as he may think fit. I shall also write to him by mail. C.

FREEMASONRY OFF THE PLUMB AT GLASGOW.

(To the Editor of the Freemason.)

SIR AND BROTHER,—Your contemporary has blown the trumpet and opened the seal of a new mystic revelation in the go-a-head City of St. Mungo. There is a song that runs something like:—

"Logie i Buchan, and Logie the Laird,
They hae ta'en awa Jemie wha derved in the yaird."

Now that was a well-conditioned case of kidnapping, but our Buchan, you see, is soft a little, and is content not with a good stalwart delver who can handle the spade, but is quite delighted with stumps, cork legs, artificial arms, and glass eyes, judging from his own grand flourish, and is not so tremendously pernick as bluff Sir John Falstaff, who exclaimed on reviewing his army. "No eyes hath seen such scarecrows! I'll not march through Coventry with them, that's flat."

No certainly not, for his cry is: Come unto me all ye cripples, if ye can, but hobble up to my altar and I will make ye my brethren in the yoke and bondage of my Craft, and ye shall be anointed and for ever accepted amongst the chosen; for I, Buchan, have said it. All old things now have passed away, and a new form began.

Long has the face of fair woman been absent from our Temple,

"And the wisest man the world e'er saw,
He dearly lo'ed the lassies O."

Yea, her tongue has not wagged in our halls, she is fair to look upon, and symmetry and proportion are the beauty and strength of our Order. Gather ye gather ye, why keep ye out? Enter my Lazaretto, all ye hermaphrodites, and I will receive ye, for lo! the people who sat in darkness have, through my instrumentality, seen a glorious light! Hear then, ye long proscribed, and come forth from your hiding-places amongst men, for behold a link to compromise the sexual prohibition has been found in thee, and I, even I, have found it. Much hath been written on the antiquity of my lodge, and proud am I of it; but the ancient ordinances must dissolve "like the baseless fabric of a vision," before the light of my new revelation. There is no royal road to Freemasonry, saith the slave of conscience, but free as the eagle that soars above all earthly things—even kings, principalities, idealities, and powers, Provincial and Grand—I, even I, could have done the trick had his Royal Highness but condescended to believe himself when asked, "The wish may rise where waters flow," and Thistle Lodges may do the same by qualms of conscience, but as for me I have lived in the era of gutta percha and vulcanised india rubber; most invaluable substances for the requirements of man, on account of their great adaptability, flexibility, impressionability, and powers of stretching, and in general being rather soft a little.

I am, yours fraternally,

AMBIDEXTER.

FREEMASONRY VERSUS MASONRY.

(To the Editor of the Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—The question proposed by Bro. "Leo" (Vol 2, No. 21, p. 56) as to the reason of the absence of the "Company of Masons No. 30," from the Great Livery Companies of London, as apropos of landed possessions in Derry, does in fact answer itself:—"Because it was No. 30." The Guilds, or Corporations, or Companies who advanced the money, were the first or foremost on the list, the most wealthy in fact, and though our present Speculative Fraternity does in all instances claim, and in some actually take "the number one" in true charitable matters, I fear the Operative Fraternity No. 30 could not hold its own with "the twelve" as a mere matter of money. Yours faithfully and fraternally,

P.M. ANTIQUITY,

And a Brother Liveryman of the Drapers' "one of the twelve."

London, 5th Aug., 1869.

INDISCRIMINATE ALMSGIVING, AND MASONIC IMPOSTORS.

(To the Editor of the Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Would you kindly allow me to call the attention of the Masonic public, to the habit of giving relief to unknown and unworthy Masons, and to ask if any of your readers can make known a way in which these impostors could be made public. The desirability of establishing a good system of relief having been long felt by the brethren of Liverpool, Manchester, and Birmingham, they have organized in these towns, for the purpose of carrying out this object, certain committees. These Committees have been successful in their operations, and by a weekly interchange of Reports, find that they mutually protect each other from imposition, whilst opportunity is frequently afforded of giving more substantial relief than may be at the disposal of a single Committee.

My object in addressing you on this subject, is to ask the large towns where no Committees are established to join in this good work, and to adopt a similar system, and I shall be glad to lay our plans before your readers.

Our Committees have no desire to monopolize the relief of all, still less to check the flow of private benevolence; on the contrary, they wish to see charity widely exercised, but on deserving objects only, and not on impostors and vagabonds. I will now give you two cases of the many that come before our Committees, and will need no comments of mine.

Relief Committee, Liverpool. August 6th, extract from Report:—

H—n, 17 New York, relieved by the Liverpool Committee with 20s. to go to London to meet his mother, instead of going to London he went to Manchester, where he stated he had come direct from Glasgow by rail, had never been relieved in England. He was furnished with the Liverpool Report of 20s., he then admitted having been relieved by us in Liverpool, of course the Manchester Committee gave him nothing and sent him away empty.

JACQUES L—s, of Paris. This was a Frenchman; he came before the Liverpool Committee for means to go home; we sent him to the Distressed Foreigners' Society, they granted him a passage home, and we granted him 20s. also. Instead of going home he went to Manchester, and when asked if he had not had his passage paid he said he had not; he denied having been in Liverpool; this case is in the hands of the Distressed Foreigners' Society to deal with. He must be a great impostor. Hoping you will find room in your next.

I am, dear Sir & Brother, yours truly and fraternally,

THOMAS MARSH,

Hon. Secy., Liverpool Relief Committee.

Committee Rooms, Hope-st., Liverpool, Aug. 9th.

REFLECTED RAYS OF LIGHT UPON FREEMASONRY;

OR
The Freemason's Pocket Compendium.

WITH AN EMBLEMATICAL FRONTISPIECE.

A HAND-BOOK of the Principles of Freemasonry, and Pocket Vade-Mecum and Guide to the various Ceremonies connected with Craft Masonry, so far as the same are allowed to be communicable in accordance with the principles of the Order.

Price One Shilling; Post-free for Fourteen Stamps.

Bro. JAMES STEVENSON, 48, Wrotham-road, Gravesend; Bro. W. GAREY, 49, George street, Aberdeen; and sold by Bro. GEO. KENNING, Little Britain, London, E.C.

PROV. GRAND LODGE OF HERTFORD.

A M. M. APRON, in case, without name, was left in the carriage between Watford and Camden Town, and may be had at the Office of this Paper.

TO PARENTS.—Out-door Pupil wanted to the LITHOGRAPHIC Business; must have a taste for drawing. Premium required.—Apply personally after 2 p.m. to, or by letter to Bro. W. FRANCIS, 8, Red Lion Square, Holborn.

SHED or WORKSHOP WANTED, about 100 feet long, near the City.—State particulars, addressed to Office of this Paper.

BOARD and RESIDENCE for one or two Gentlemen, in a quiet private house, close to Hyde-park, omnibus and railway. Terms, from 42s. per week.—Address, W., 15, Gloucester-terrace, Hyde-park, W.

WILLIAM WINSOR, of 8, Miles-lane, London-bridge, imports CIGARS of the very Finest Brands only, and manufactures Cigars from the Choicest Tobacco. Wholesale and retail.

BR. JAMES STEVENS (25, 720, 1216, &c.), Auctioneer and Surveyor, House and Estate Agent, &c., Clapham Common.—Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duties. Agent to the Imperial Fire & Life Insurance Offices.

ESTABLISHED 1840.

BRO. W. H. WAGHORN Manufacturer of Regalia for all Societies. Masonic Aprons, Collars, Ribbons, Sashes, and every requisite for all degrees in Freemasonry always in Stock.

10, VINEGAR YARD, COVENT GARDEN, LONDON, W.C.

MONEY.—LOANS Granted from £100 to £2,000 at 5 per cent., repayable over Three Years, on Personal Security and Life Policy effected with the WEST OF ENGLAND INSURANCE CO., (Established 1807.)

Apply to the Superintendent or Agents.

Bro. J. CROCKER, Gateshead-on-Tyne. Agents Wanted.

BRO. ADLARD'S REGISTERED JEWEL ATTACHER. Price 7s. 6d. Universally adopted. Maker of the Improved Fitting Lodge Collars and Masonic Clothing. 225, High Holborn, London, W.C.

MONOGRAM AND CIPHER DIES, of the most Artistic Designs, found in any two or three Initials, without charge for Dies, and 5 Quires of Superfine Note Paper with 100 Best Safety Envelopes, stamped in various Colours, for 5s., by Post 8d. extra; or half the quantity for 2s. 6d. Makes a very useful and pretty present. Relief Stamping in Colours done on the premises at 1s. per 100 from any die. Gold and Coloured Illuminating Impressions can be obtained from your own Monogram or other Dies. Arms, Crests, and Monogram Dies cut and designed. A. Unwin, Heraldic Stationer and Engraver, 25, Whitcomb Street, Leicester Square, W.C.

Card Plate and One Hundred Cards, 4s.

ARMS, CRESTS, and MONOGRAMS.—MASONIC EMBLEMS Engraved on Seals, Dies, &c. Official Stamps designed and Engraved.—Bro. D. G. BERRI, Engraver to Her Majesty's Post Office, Stationery Office, &c., 86, High Holborn (opposite Chancery-lane), London, W.C.

BRO. H. T. LAMB,

MANUFACTURER OF MASONIC JEWELS,

ST. JOHN SQUARE,

CLERKENWELL

LONDON.

ILLUSTRATED PRICE LIST POST FREE ON APPLICATION.

LAMPLOUGH'S

PYRETIC SALINE

Is most invigorating, vitalizing, and refreshing. It gives instant relief in Headache, Sea or Bilious Sickness, and quickly cures the worst form of Eruptive or Skin Complaints. The various diseases arising from Constipation, the Liver, or Blood Impurities, Inoculation, the results of breathing air infected with Fever, Measles or Small Pox

ARE CURED AND PREVENTED BY ITS USE. Sold by all Chemists, and the Maker, in Patent Glass Stopped Bottles, at 2s. 6d., 4s. 6d., 11s., and 21s. each.

Notice my Trade Mark, and beware of spurious imitations.

H. LAMPLOUGH,

113, Holborn Hill, London, E.C.

THE NEW MUSICAL PITCH.—

COLLARD MOUTRIE has just invented, perfected, and secured by Royal Letters Patent, an important improvement in the manufacture of Pianofortes, by which the Pitch is raised to the Philharmonic or lowered to that of the French normal diapason in an instant, at the option of the performer. This invention can be applied to any Pianoforte. The Profession, Amateurs, Musical Critics, Musical Public, and the Trade are invited to witness its utility and effect, between the hours of Eleven and Four, at the Manufactory, 77, Southampton-row, Russell-square. Established 1849.

THE AMERICAN FREEMASON

is Monthly, of sixteen double-column quarto pages of entirely original matter, and translations from the French Italian, and German Masonic papers and periodicals of the day. It is devoted to the discussion of the rights of Lodges and individual Freemasons, in contradistinction to the assumptions of Grand Lodges, and the un-Masonic doctrines and arrangements of "high degrees." Its motto is—Belief in the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man. Its price is Five Shillings a year—a sum so small that no Freemason, for pecuniary reasons, need be a non-subscriber to it.

Trans-Atlantic Subscribers to the AMERICAN FREEMASON will receive it Post-paid from the Office of Publication direct, at their respective Post-offices, upon payment of the subscription to

BRO. GEORGE KENNING,

3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, LONDON, E.C.

All Subscriptions begin with March 15th, 1869, and end with February, 1870.

The AMERICAN FREEMASON is not the organ of any Grand Lodge; but speaking the words of truth, manhood, and independence, advocates freedom for Masonry in America, and the rights of Freemasons in their Lodges—rights which, by our Grand Lodges, in their subservency to high degrees, have been invaded, until at present they are nearly obliterated.

Subscribers in the British Colonies will please address all Subscriptions and Correspondence to J. FLETCHER BRENNAN, Editor, 114, Main-street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

VELOCIPEDES & BICYCLES for either Sex.

Speed 30 miles per hour, hill-ascending, self-propelling and balancing, £100. Diagram, 6d.

Manufacturing Licences granted.

W. PIDDING, Esq., PATENTEE, 31, Kings-row, Walworth-road.

"Having drawn Mr. W. PIDDING'S Specification of Patent, I am able to certify that his improvements in Velocipedes (bicycles particularly) will render them self-balancing, capable of ascending hilly ground, and that they would travel on a newly-made road without inconvenience to the rider, either in the way of jolting or in retarding of the great speed the improvements will secure. The travelling, in fact, would be as though on level ground.

(Signed) "J. G. WILSON, C.E.

"Belgrave-terrace, Peckham, S.E.; formerly of 18, Gt. George-street, Westminster."

"MR. W. PIDDING'S PATENT SELF-PROPELLING AND BALANCING VELOCIPEDS AND BICYCLES.—Having seen the diagrams, and perused a specification of Mr. PIDDING'S patent, we hesitate not for an instant to say that that gentleman will accomplish all he professes to do by means of his invention."—Sporting Opinion.

New Edition, in post 8vo, with about 80 Woodcuts, price 12s. 6d.

A Co-operative Discount of Twenty per Cent. to Brothers.

FOR GOUT—Use OIL of HORSE CHEST-NUTS, which imparts a natural circulation. 2/9, 4/6, and 11/- per bottle.

FOR GOUT—Drink WILDUNGEN WATER, the only natural solvent for Stone and Gravel. 1/6 per bottle; 15/- per dozen.

FOR INDIGESTION—Take DANDELION, CAMOMILE and RHUBARB PILLS. 1/1½ per box; 2/9, 4/6, and 11/- per bottle.

FOR INDIGESTION—Take the PURE VEGETABLE CHARCOAL, prepared according to Mr. BRID'S formula. 3/6 per bottle. The only internal disinfectant.

ANDERSON'S MEDICAL LABORATORY,

2, Lower Seymour-street, Portman-square; and 30, Duke-street, Manchester-square, London, W.

CROSBY'S

BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.

Opiates, Narcotics, and Squills, are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary Diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.

SELECT TESTIMONIAL.

Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says:—"I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued Cough, Pain, and Irritation of the Chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."

This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold by all respectable Chemists and Patent Medicine Dealers, in bottles at 1s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each, and wholesale by JAS. M. CROSBY, Chemist, Scarborough.

* * Invalids should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be obtained gratis of any respectable Chemist.

HUMAN FINS, for Swimming, 12s. the set, BARNETT, patentee, Paris (complete specification). With these ready adopted fins the swimmer can with ease and rapidity perform long distances with security against cramps. Sold by HEMARDINQUER, agent, 5, Falcon-street, City; and all Indianrubber Warehousemen, &c.

BRO. R. FLETCHER, Masonic Stationer. Masonic Emblems, Arms, Crests, Monograms, Addresses, &c., beautifully stamped on note paper and envelopes in Gold, Silver or Colours. Lodge Stationery correctly and carefully prepared. Jewels copied and Signet Rings engraved with minute care. The patronage of the Craft respectfully solicited by Bro. R. FLETCHER, Masonic Stationer, 10, Winsley-street, Oxford-street, London, W., opposite the Pantheon.

TO THE NERVOUS & DEBILITATED EPILEPTIC SUFFERERS AND OTHERS.

HALL'S CHLORATE OF POTASSA, discovered, introduced, and extensively prescribed by the late eminent Dr. MARSHALL HALL, has proved an infallible remedy (by oxydizing the blood and supplying its saline constituent) for Indigestion, Debility, Coughs, Asthma, Consumption, Skin, Liver, Stomach, and Nervous Affections, more especially Epilepsy, Apoplexy, and Paralysis. The successful results of this new chemical preparation are beyond all precedent, and the extraordinary cures effected by the late discoverer, and by his successor (Dr. Sutton), in the above maladies are without a parallel in the annals of medicine; and it is confidently believed that in no case need the sufferer despair, for practical experience has demonstrated, and signal success warranted the assertion, that in 99 cases out of every 100 complete cures may be relied on.

Sold in Bottles at 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and Cases of £5 each, by

DR. SUTTON, M.D., 15, REGENT SQUARE, LONDON, W.C., and in BOLTON by PRIESTLEY, Chemist.

The following are a few Testimonials published by privilege.

Sir Charles Locock, Physician-Accoucher to Her Majesty, stated at a meeting of the Royal Medical and Chirurgical Society, that in sixteen cases of Epilepsy he had effected permanent cures by the use of Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa.

"September 6, 1866.—The Editor of the Bury Gazette returns thanks to Dr. Hall for the great benefit he has received from his Chlorate of Potassa treatment in a severe nervous disease."

Sir J. Ferguson, King's College Hospital, London, says—"I have repeatedly prescribed Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa and found it an agreeable and beneficial remedy."

Extract from the Lancet, April 1, 1867—"In conclusion, we are of opinion that Hall's Chlorate of Potassa is a far superior remedy to the ones in general use for Nervousness, Indigestion, and Liver Complaints, when judiciously prescribed."

Sir Benjamin Brodie says—"What Chloride of Lime is to the fowl sewer, Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa is to the blood."

Professor Syme says—"The effects of Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa in obstinate cases of disease are as astonishing as perplexing."

Dr. Lankester, the eminent coroner, says—"Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa is calculated to entirely supersede iron, mercury, sarsaparilla, quinine, and cod liver oil."

Sir Philip Crampton says—"I believe there is no condition of the system that may not be benefited by Dr. Hall's Potassa." Sir T. Lawrence says—"I have found Dr. Hall's Chlorate an excellent remedy in Skin Diseases. I presume it is by oxydization."

Sir T. Watson says—"I know that it is an invaluable remedy." Sir Edward Brough, 9, Fitzwilliam-square, Dublin, certifies Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa has been of the greatest benefit to a member of his family.

The Earl of Clarendon certifies that Dr. Hall's Chlorate cured a case of indigestion of 16 years' duration.

DR. HALL'S CHLORATE OF POTASSA may be procured by order through any Chemist. Ask for "Dr. Hall's Chlorate," and do not be imposed on with the common article. It is sold in Bolton by Priestley, Chemist, 12, Deansgate; or it may be had direct from Dr. Hall's successor, Dr. JOHN SUTTON, M.D., 15, Regent square, London, W.C., who undertakes the positive cure of all chronic diseases before payment.

Dr. HALL'S Chlorate is sold in MANCHESTER by JEWELL, Market-street; in Liverpool by PRIESTLEY, Lord-street. N.B.—Dr. Sutton will shortly repeat his Lecture on this subject.—The Lecture sent for two stamps.

DR. LEA'S CELEBRATED MEDICINES.

"The efficacy of Lea's Medicines is proverbial."

Daily Telegraph.

"Lea's preparations are excellent."—Morning Star.

LEA'S BENGAL ATRABILIOUS PILLS. Invaluable in all liver complaints, and as a Family Medicine (without Mercury). 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

LEA'S GOUT AND RHEUMATIC PILLS. Will eradicate these disorders when every other remedy has failed, excellent also in Neuralgia, Lumbago, and Sciatica. 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

LEA'S CONSUMPTION SPECIFIC. If persevered in, will seldom fail. 11s. and 22s.

LEA'S ASTHMATIC EMULSION. Maintains its superiority for this complaint, Chronic, Cough, Bronchial affections, Colds, &c. 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

LEA'S WHOOPING-COUGH EMULSION. A certain cure for this destructive complaint in a few days. 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

Prepared by G. LEA, M.D. Camberwell, Surrey. LONDON AGENTS—BARCLAY, Farringdon-street; PAGE and TIBBS, 47, Blackfriars-road; and SUTTON, Bow Churchyard. * * Advice free.

CONSUMPTION OF THE LUNGS.—

DR. RAIT has discovered a CERTAIN CURE for this fatal malady. Advice gratis. Address W. RAIT, M.D., Peckham, Surrey.

FITS.—EPILEPTIC FITS or FALLING

SICKNESS.—A certain method of CURE has been discovered for this distressing complaint by a physician, who is desirous that all sufferers may benefit from this providential discovery. It is never known to fail, and will cure the most hopeless case after all other means have been tried. Full particulars will be sent by post to any address free of charge.—Address the SECRETARY, 48 George-street, Portman square, London.

TO ADVERTISERS.

THE Circulation of THE FREEMASON being now at the rate of nearly Half-a-Million per annum, it offers peculiar facilities to all who advertise.

It is well-known that the Fraternity of Freemasons is a large and constantly increasing body, mainly composed of the influential and educated classes of society; and as

The Freemason

is now the accepted organ of the Brotherhood in the United Kingdom, and also enjoys an extensive sale in the colonies and foreign parts, its advantages as an advertising medium can scarcely be overrated.

Only four pages can be allotted to advertisements.

For terms apply to

GEORGE KENNING,
3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, LONDON, E.C.

NOW READY, PRICE 4/6,

VOL. I. OF

The Freemason,

NEATLY BOUND, EXTRA CLOTH, WITH GILT EMBLEMATICAL LETTERING.

3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, LONDON,
AND ALL BOOKSELLERS.

NOW READY,

Cases to hold 4 copies of "The Freemason," 1/6.

Cases to hold 52 copies of "The Freemason," 2/6.

With THE FREEMASON emblematically depicted, and other Masonic emblems in gold.

To be had at the Offices, 3 & 4, Little Britain.

SECOND EDITION.

8vo., Price 9s. 6d., Cloth.

DOCTORS' COMMONS, its Courts and Registries; with a Treatise on PROBATE COURT BUSINESS. By G. J. FOSTER, Clerk of the Papers of Her Majesty's Court of Probate.

London: Published by REEVES, SON & Co., Playhouse-yard, Blackfriars, E.C.

Just Published. Price Half a Guinea.

MONOGRAMS,
HISTORICAL AND PRACTICAL,
D. G. BERRI,

Engraver to Her Majesty's Post Office, Stationery Office, &c., &c.,

36, High Holborn, (opposite Chancery-lane,) LONDON, W.C.

Price Five Shillings,

LIFE OF CONSTANTINE,

BY

EUSEBIUS.

Masonic Depot, 3 & 4, Little Britain.

NEW SONG,

PRICE 3s.

THE RED CROSS SONG,

Words by R. W. LITTLE,
Music by H. PARKER.

Published by GEORGE KENNING, 3 & 4, Little Britain, London.

MASONIC NOTE AND LETTER PAPER.

Sanctioned by The Most Worshipful

The Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of England

IT is impressed with the Masonic Die, and has also Masonic Emblems incorporated with its texture, as Water Marks, while being manufactured.

Sold, in Quarto and Octavo Packets of Five Quires, Wholesale and Retail, at the MASONIC DEPOT, 3 and 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, E.C.

Masonic Envelopes can also be obtained at the Depot.

WHY NOT VISIT THE

ROEBUCK GARDENS AND GROUNDS!
Over 22 acres. Scenery unequalled.

Noted favourite resort for Dinners, Teas, Masonic Banquets, School Treats, &c.

N.B.—The New Hall will dine over 500 persons. Ten minutes' walk from the Buckhurst-hill Railway Station; by road 10 miles.

Ordinary every Sunday at Two.

Unlike any other Plan known.

POSITIVE LIFE ASSURANCE is a new system, first introduced by the

MASONIC & GENERAL FIRE & LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY, Limited,
8, NEW BRIDGE STREET, BLACKFRIARS

It secures Insurers a Promissory Note (instead of the ordinary Policy) for each premium paid, which is payable "To Bearer," either during the life time or at the death of the assured.

Full Particulars on application to

FREDERICK BIGG,

Manager and Actuary.

Agents wanted in London and the provinces.

COMPENSATION

IN CASE OF INJURY, AND

A FIXED SUM IN CASE OF DEATH

CAUSED BY

ACCIDENT OF ANY KIND,

May be Secured by a Policy of the Railway Passengers Assurance Company.

An annual payment of £3 to £6 5s. Insures £1000 at Death, and an allowance at the rate of £6 per week for Injury.

RAILWAY ACCIDENTS ALONE

MAY BE PROVIDED AGAINST BY

Insurance Tickets for Single or Double Journeys.

For particulars apply to the Clerks at the Railway Stations, to the Local Agents, or at the Offices,
64, CORNHILL, & 10, REGENT STREET, LONDON.

WILLIAM J. VIAN, Secretary.

MONEY.

LOANS ON PERSONAL SECURITY, WITH LIFE ASSURANCE, AT FIVE PER CENT. PER ANNUM.

THE

WEST OF ENGLAND FIRE & LIFE OFFICE

(Instituted 1803)

GRANTS LOANS FOR A LIMITED NUMBER OF YEARS ON THE ABOVE TERMS.

Chief Office—Exeter.

London—20, New Bridge Street.

To the Sporting World.

BELL'S LIFE IN LONDON is now Published

Every WEDNESDAY and SATURDAY Morning.

Price 3d.; stamped 4d.

Office, 170, Strand, London, W.C.

SHIRTS,

2/6, 3/6, 4/6, 5/6, 6/6 upwards,
In all materials of Cotton and Wool.

CANN, JONES & CO.,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

Shirt Manufacturers, Tailors and Outfitters,

171, FENCHURCH STREET, E.C.

MANUFACTORY: 15 & 16, BLOMFIELD STREET, E.C.

"TRUTH MUST PREVAIL."

Common Sense.

Lamps, Baths, Cutlery, Brushes, Fenders & Fire Irons, Electroplate, & Nickel-Silver Goods.

R. D. PARR,

General House Furnishing Ironmonger,

42, BLACKMAN STREET, BOROUGH,

OFFERS nothing extraordinary, but REALLY GOOD Articles at fair and reasonable prices. He does not keep an "Immense Stock," but SUFFICIENTLY LARGE for any person to select from. He does not sell "cheaper than every other house in the Trade," but quite as cheap as ANY.

A visit will, at all times, be very much appreciated.

For Cheap Watches, Clocks, Gold Chains, and Jewelry, go to

KIBBLE'S

22, GRACECHURCH STREET,

One Door from Lombard Street, and

51, LUDGATE HILL,

Opposite the Old Bailey.

Gold Watches £2 15s.

Silver ditto £1 5s.

Timepieces from 9s. 6d.

EVERY ARTICLE WARRANTED.

Plate, Watches, and Jewelry, bought or exchanged.

List of Prices Post free.

BRO. REEVES, SON & CO.,

Steam Printers, Engravers & Lithographers.

WHOLESALE STATIONERS,

AND ACCOUNT BOOK MANUFACTURERS,

Playhouse Yard, Blackfriars, London, E.C.

Next the "Times" Publishing Office.

Bro. WOLPERT,

PRINTER, STATIONER & ACCOUNT-BOOK MAKER,

7, St. Swithin's Lane, E.C.

Authorised Agent to receive Advertisements for THE FREEMASON, and all the London and Country Newspapers.

BRO. BENJAMIN COOK,

Carpenter, Builder, and House Decorator,

SALISBURY COURT,

FLEET STREET, E.C.

Estimates for General Repairs.

Bro. J. G. MARSH,

ARCHITECT AND SURVEYOR,

159, Fenchurch Street, E.C.;

AND

842, Old Kent Road, S.E.

Bro. H. R. PRICE,

ARCHITECT AND SURVEYOR,

IMPERIAL CHAMBERS,

No. 1, Market Place, corner of St. Mary's-gate, MANCHESTER.

Bro. G. W. CHINNOCK,

Statuary and Cemetery Stone Mason,

93, FULHAM ROAD, S.W.

MISSSES E. & C. CHINNOCK,

Pianistes & Teachers of the Pianoforte.

93, FULHAM ROAD, S.W.

By Appointment to the Queen.

Bookseller, Stationer, Newsagent, Printer, &c.

A MAGNIFICENT STOCK OF

MASONIC REQUIREMENTS

MAY BE SEEN AT

Bro. W. E. FRANKLIN'S,

42, MOSLEY ST., corner of St. NICHOLAS SQUARE

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE,

Agent for "THE FREEMASON."

BRO. JAMES B. SLY,

PRACTICAL

Heraldic Engraver to the Trade,

Of Gold, Silver, and Ivory,

DRAUGHTSMAN & DIE-SINKER,

9, Rathbone Place, London, W.

Plates Engraved; Gilt Pierced Mounts made for Albums and Cigar Cases.

Designs made of Crests, Monograms, Ornaments, and Arms, and every description of Shooting Prizes, Presentation Plate, Watches, Watch Domes, Dressing Cases, Bag-sets, and Ivory Brushes, Engraved with care, delicacy, and despatch.

TO STATIONERS,

JAS. B. SLY having in his employ several Die-sinkers, and from his practical knowledge of the same is enabled to give immediate attention to the cutting of Dies that are emergent. Companies' Dies cut. Illuminating and Stamping in colours.

Sample Sheets of Monograms and Addresses forwarded on application.

A STRINGENT TOOTH PASTE.—

HENRY NEWMAN'S "Astringent Tooth Paste," in Pots 1s. 6d. and 2s. 6d., to be had of all respectable Chemists. Wholesale Agents, Evans and Sons, Hanover-street; Raines and Co., Hanover-street; Messrs Clay, Dodd and Case, St. Anne street; or of the Proprietor,

BRO. HENRY NEWMAN,

SURGEON-DENTIST,

5, SLATER STREET,

LIVERPOOL.

Printed by Brother JAMES ADLEY REEVES and SON, Playhouse Yard, Blackfriars, in the City of London; published by the Proprietor, Brother GEORGE KENNING, at his Office, 3 and 4, Little Britain, in the City of London.—SATURDAY, AUGUST 14, 1869.

THE FREEMASON

Grand Lodge Reports are published with the sanction of the Right Honorable the EARL of ZETLAND, K.T., Most Worshipful Grand Master of England.

VOL. 2, No. 24.]

SATURDAY, AUGUST 21, 1869.

REGISTERED FOR TRANSMISSION ABROAD. [PRICE 2D.]

TABLE OF CONTENTS

	PAGE.
FREEMASONRY IN THE UNITED STATES ..	85
REVIEWS—New Music ...	85
HISTORY OF THE ORDER OF KNIGHTS HOSPITALERS	86
PAPERS ON MASONRY—
No. XX.—Masonry among the Mormons ...	86
MAGNIFICENT DECORATION OF 33RD DEGREE ...	87
INELIGIBILITY OF BASTARDS AS FREEMASONS ...	87
THE CRAFT—Metropolitan and Provincial ...	88
THE ROYAL ARCH—Metropolitan ...	88
ORDERS OF CHIVALRY—Knights Templars ...	88
RED CROSS OF ROME AND CONSTANTINE—Provincial	88
MASONIC BAZAAR AT SKIBBEREEN ...	88
MEETING OF THE PROV. GRAND LODGE OF DEVON	89
BIRTHS, MARRIAGES, AND DEATHS ...	90
ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS ...	90
A STAR IN THE EAST, OR THE NEW MASONIC PROPHECY	90
ANNUAL FESTIVAL OF THE NEW CONCORD LODGE,
No. 813 ...	91 & 92
LODGE OF BENEVOLENCE ...	91
ST. ANDREW'S CONCLAVE, No. 15 ...	91
ORIGINAL CORRESPONDENCE—
Uniformity of Ritual ...	91
Ineligibility of Bastards as Freemasons ...	92
The Masonic Charities ...	92
The Origin of Freemasonry ...	92
MASONIC EXHORTATIONS ...	92
POLITICAL MASONRY IN POLAND ...	92
SUPREME COUNCIL, NEW YORK ...	93
FREEMASONRY IN IRELAND ...	93
MASONIC MEETINGS FOR NEXT WEEK ...	94
ADVERTISEMENTS ...	94 95 & 96

FREEMASONRY IN THE UNITED STATES.

JACOB NORTON AND WILLIAM JAMES HUGHAN.

All on this side the "Big Pond" who wish to understand the character of the struggle now onward in the United States, must feel grateful to Bro. Jacob Norton for his interesting epitome of the history of "Freemasonry in the United States inserted in THE FREEMASON August 7th. I, for one, admire his earnestness, and accept him as a zealous defender of the rights of Craft Masonry—i.e., pure and unadulterated Freemasonry, denominated the "Craft degrees" in contra-distinction to the hautes grades.

I think, however, that Bro. Norton is scarcely advocating a sound Masonic opinion in supporting the two Lodges in New York granted by the Grand Lodge of Hamburg; because, according to expediency and usage, it has been found desirable that some kind of exclusive jurisdiction should be observed by bodies of Masons in different countries. Hence the practice of late years has been for Grand Lodges to refuse warrants to Masons in parts where a recognized Grand Lodge already exists. The fact of the Grand Lodge of England issuing a warrant to certain Jewish brethren at Frankfort-on-the-Maine, is not a parallel case with New York and Hamburg. The Grand Lodge of England had previously established the Provincial Grand Lodge held at Frankfort, and it having acted contrary to the Constitutions, the parent simply acted in the cause of self-defence, and protection for some of its children in that country. New York was under no such obligation to Hamburg, and hence the parallelism is faulty.

I also deny the right of ANY body of Masons working the higher degrees to grant warrants for Craft Lodges by virtue of such authority. Craft Masonry existed long before the degrees of the "Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite;" and, in my opinion, will continue to flourish more than they in the United States, as the former is grandly universal and applicable to all religions and creeds, whereas the sectarian character of the latter, as also modern institution, militates against their boasted antiquity and so-called high position in Freemasonry.

For my part, I value no distinctions in any degrees equal to those pertaining to Craft Masonry, and consider the efficient discharge of the duties of the Worshipful Master of a lodge to be the highest official position in the Craft, and the most honourable distinction that a Freemason can attain. In this respect I most cordially agree with Bros. Norton, Evans, and Brennan, whose well-considered letters of late have afforded me much pleasure to peruse. It is pleasant also to witness THE FREEMASON being made a medium of communication between brethren of the two hemispheres, who will, no doubt, mutually profit by an interchange of ideas on Masonry.

Respecting the initiation of negroes—I say negroes, because there are no slaves in the now United States—I know of no Landmark of importance that would be infringed by so doing; but, on the other hand, I know of several that would be observed thereby. Any thoughtful Mason looking over the past hundred and fifty years, will see that when it has been shown that the general good of Freemasonry has required an alteration in the customs of the Craft, the same has been made. We need only mention, the alteration in the minimum age of initiation, the change in the Grand Lodge giving the Third Degree and, lastly, the fact that the Grand Lodge actually consented to the word of the Third Degree being transferred to the Royal Arch, to prove our statement. Surely, now that the freedom of the negro has been proclaimed in the United States, and the foul stain of slavery has been removed from the escutcheon of the "New World," Freemasonry should be the last institution that would seek to perpetuate any of the unnatural, inhuman, and barbarous laws of slave countries.

If then a negro be otherwise suitable, there would be no landmark of Freemasonry infringed by his initiation in the Craft Lodge, and I am proud to say that the Grand Lodge of England, by its warrant to the "Prince Hall" or "African Lodge" recognised that fact many years ago.

W. J. HUGHAN.

Truro, Cornwall, 14th August, 1869.

Reviews.

NEW MUSIC.

ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington Street, Regent Street, W.

Morn on the Meadow. By W. T. WRIGHTON. Words by CHAS. SWAIN.—To the charming words of the poet, Mr. Wrighton has wedded a most exquisite melody. The transition from a bright and beaming morn to the dark and silent night is plaintively expressed, and the hopeful solemnity of the last verse.

"But a morn shall yet rise, and the dead be re-born, And a beauty eternal shall circle that morn," is very effectively rendered by the composer.

The Lily. Words by J. STREAKES; music by W. T. WRIGHTON.—We are much pleased with this praise of the lily. The words are poetic, and the music is sweetly harmonious.

The Mother's Visit, by ALFRED SCOTT GALBY, is very pleasing; and The Owl, by the same talented composer, is a capital interpretation of the Poet Laureate's quaint verses on the bird of Minerva.

G. KENNING, 3, and 4, Little Britain,

The Red Cross Song. Words by R. W. LITTLE; Music by H. PARKER.—The stirring verses of this song, are linked to most appropriate music by this rising composer. We recommend our Red Cross and Templar friends to obtain the song, as both Orders claim an interest in the grand old flag of the Crusaders, to which it alludes.

HOSPITALARIA ;

A SYNOPSIS OF THE HISTORY OF THE ORDER OF
Knights Hospitallers.

(Continued from page 74.)

The venerable and sovereign Order of Saint John, during the period of its supremacy, enrolled from twenty to thirty thousand members, including knights, priests, and sergeants. The possessions of the fraternity (amounting after the suppression of the Templars to twenty-eight thousand manors, with the principality of Malta, Goza, &c.) were divided into priories, bailiages, and commanderies, and the government was administered by the Grand-Master and the Sovereign Council. This Supreme body, upon ordinary occasions, consisted of the Grand Master, whose style was "The most Illustrious and most Reverend Prince, the Lord Brother N—N—, Grand Master of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem, Prince of Malta, Gaules, Goza," &c.; the Bishop of Malta; the Prior of the Church of Saint John; the eight Pilliers, or Conventual Bailiffs, viz. the Grand Commander from the Language of Province, the Marshal from Auvergne, the Grand Hospitaller from France, the Admiral from Italy, the Grand Conservator from Arragon, the Turcopolier from Britain, the Grand Bailiff from Germany, and the Chancellor from Castile; and the eight Grand Priors of the different languages,—or eight Capitular Bailiffs. On extraordinary occasions there were added to these chief officers the Knights Grand Crosses, two being allowed to each language besides those ex officio, and the two senior Knights of each language; and this was called the Council complete.

The residence for the time being of the Grand Master, the Prior of the Church of Saint John, and the Conventual Bailiffs, was considered the Chief Lieu, or Head Quarters, of the Order; and it had attached to it a church, an hospital, and eight inns for the knights of the different nations. The Grand Priors were the acting resident chiefs in the provinces; and under them the Conservators, Procurators, and Commanders, administered the affairs of the respective languages according to the general statutes of the Order.

The war-dress of the Knights Hospitallers was a scarlet tunic, or sopra vest, on which was embroidered the sacred emblem of the Order. In the convent they wore a black robe similarly adorned, with a cap of dignity. The other insignia were—first, a star, which was worn on the left breast in the form of a cross patée, having eight points, symbolical of the eight beatitudes, and the eight languages which composed the Order; second, a badge formed of a white enamelled cross, having the angles charged with the supporters, or principal device, of the respective kingdom to which the language belonged. This, surmounted by an imperial crown, was worn originally suspended from the neck by a gold chain, latterly by a black riband, to these were added the sword, scarf, spurs, &c. As an armorial distinction, the knights were privileged to augment their family arms with a chief, gules, charged with a cross, argent; and exteriorly adorned the shield with the mantle, cap of dignity, banners, badge, and motto Pro Fide.

On the division of the Order in 1118, the Knights Hospitallers of England, Scotland, and Ireland constituted the sixth language or nation. This branch of the fraternity, which attained to great power and wealth in these islands, was under the administration of a Chapter, composed of the following principal officers; viz. the Turcopolier, or General of the Horse and Marine Guards; the Lord Grand-Prior, the acting Chief of the British branch, and Capitular Bailiff, or Lieutenant of England; the Lord Prior of Torphichen, or Bailiff of Scotland; the Lord Prior of Kilmainham, or Bailiff of Ireland; the Conservator; the Procurator; the Grand Crosses; the Commanders; the Grand Chaplains; the Grand Secretary, &c., &c.

The Grand Priory of the sixth language,—a magnificent edifice founded by Lord Jordan Bristet a little subsequently to 1101,—contained a church, an hospital, and inns for the knights, &c. It was situated in the parish of Clerkenwell, London, which is still rich in monuments of the grandeur of the Hospitallers. When the Knights Templars were suppressed in 1307, the whole of their extensive possessions in the British Isles were bestowed on the Knights of the sixth language. The Order in England possessed fifty-three Commanderies, and in Scotland and Ireland there was scarcely a county in which they did not hold estates. The Grand Prior sat in the Parliament of England as the Premier Baron of the realm; and the Prior of Torphichen, commonly called Lord Saint John, took his seat as Peer in the meeting of the Scottish Estates.

The House of Saint John, Clerkenwell, or the Grand Priory of the sixth language, was dedicated by Heraclius, Patriarch of Jerusalem, in the year of our Lord, 1185. It was set on fire in 1381, by the rebels under Wat Tyler, and burnt for seven days; and it was not finally repaired till one hundred and twenty-three years afterwards, when the Lord Prior Docwra, in 1504, put the finishing hand to all the various re-erctions which the calamitous event had made necessary. This building, in its widely varied decorations, both internally and externally, is said to have contained specimens of the arts both of Europe and Asia, together with collections of books and rarities, the loss of which in a less turbulent age, would have been a subject of national regret.

During the Crusades, bodies of knights from the European Commanderies were regularly drafted to serve under the standard of the Order; and latterly, for the defence of Rhodes and Malta, the Grand Masters frequently had occasion to summon the whole chivalry of the various languages to the field. It is recorded by a contemporary historian, that in the year 1237, in consequence of the Grand Master, Bertrand de Taxis, having ordered large succours from the West, there went from the Grand-Priory in Clerkenwell, three hundred knights, preceded by Theodoric, their Grand Prior. They marched with the banner of Saint John unfurled before them, and as they passed over London Bridge, they saluted the crowds who had congregated to see them depart; at the same time recommending themselves, and their cause, to their prayers.

After the loss of Rhodes, several of the European kings contemplated seizing on the revenues of the Order of Saint John within their territories, under the pretext that they were no longer applicable to the defence of Christendom. The suppression of the Templars was a precedent which avaricious princes treasured in vivid remembrance, and the Hospitallers, driven from their insular principality, and without a permanent and independent lodgment for their banner, found that the memory of their past services was but an indifferent shield between them and royal rapacity. Under these circumstances, the Grand Master, Villiers de l'Isle Adam, visited the courts of Spain, Portugal, and England; and by his eloquence, sagacity, and the halo that a long life of glory threw round him, succeeded in obtaining for the Hospitallers, from one of the sternest and most selfish hearts that ever ruled the destinies of nations, the barren rock which was the last scene of their political existence; and from the arrogant and rapacious Henry the Eighth, the temporary abandonment of the rigorous measures he had devised against the British branch of the Order. Respect for the venerable Knight, and the power of the Hospitallers of the sixth language, composed as it was of the chivalry of the nation, for a time deterred Henry from openly prescribing it; but at length, having come to an open rupture with the Pope, his wrath blazed forth in ungovernable fury. In 1534, by an arbitrary act of the legislature, the Order of St. John, which had a sovereign and independent existence, was abolished in the King of England's dominions; and the property in England, Wales, and Ireland, which belonged in common to the members of the eight languages of which the fraternity was composed, in violation alike of the law of nations and equity, was violently seized upon. Several knights, refusing to abjure their privileges, perished on the scaffold. Others, abandoning their country for ever, sought an asylum in Malta, where they were received by the Grand Master with the tenderness of a father, and had generously administered to them that consolation of which he himself stood in need. Sir William Weston, the Lord Grand Prior, overwhelmed with grief, died on the day on which the suppression of the sixth language was promulgated, and was buried in the chancel of the old church of Saint John, Clerkenwell. An altar-tomb in the architectural style of the age, was erected over his remains, which still exists. It represents the aged knight, lying on a winding-sheet, worn to a skeleton by distress of mind. The care and anxiety occasioned by the rigorous measures of the King of England, which bent the gray hairs of the illustrious Villiers de l'Isle Adam in sorrow to the grave, broke the heart of the Grand Prior of Britain; and the simple epitaph of the former, "Here lies Virtue triumphant over Misfortune," might also have been inscribed over the latter.

On the accession of Queen Mary to the throne of England, conscience-stricken at her father's unjust spoliation and persecution of the Order of Saint John, she determined to make restitution of all the commanderies and manors in the possession of the crown which had been confiscated. In 1553, an envoy conveyed to Malta an invitation to the knights to send a deputation to England without delay. Accordingly the Commander de Montferrat was despatched to that country, and in virtue of the authority reposed in him, was re-invested in the estates which had formerly belonged to the Order.

(To be continued.)

We are glad to be able to announce that Bro. the Rev. Robt. J. Simpson, M.A., of Oriel's College, Oxford, Vicar of Slough, has been nominated to the important metropolitan rectory of St. Clement Danes. Bro. Simpson is a Past Grand Chaplain of England, and our readers will remember that the Inaugural Oration, at the dedication of Freemasons' Hall, on the 14th April, was delivered by the Rev. brother as Grand Chaplain.

PAPERS ON MASONRY.

BY A LEWIS.

XX.—MASONRY AMONG THE MORMONS.

"Depart from me, ye evil doers: for I will keep the commandments of my God.—Psalm cix. 115.

"A false witness that speaketh lies, and he that soweth discord among brethren,"—Proverbs, vi. 19.

One of the most remarkable phenomena of modern times is certainly the facility with which men can and do strive to form sects, professedly of a religious character, but administering only to the satisfaction of the passionate emotions of mankind. While on the one hand we find men endeavouring with all their strength to elevate the mind by education, to introduce that happy state of calm which exists in a due balance between Superstition and Reason—between God as unseen, and Nature as seen—we find others rivetting the chains of Credulity by introducing new pretended revelations. They have the effrontery to support their "divine" claims by books of various kinds, according to the purposes their founders might desire to introduce for their own advantage. But we also find, in our singular era, men honestly seeking to cast out the foolish method; rejecting what is manifestly inconsistent, and reconciling Science, Nature, and God. Among this class we may reckon the body of Freemasons, who say:—

"For points of creed let senseless zealots fight,
He can't be wrong, whose life is in the right."

But I want to put a case of such a nature as to bring prominently before the more thoughtful readers of my papers, the question of what relations can exist between a Mason who has become converted to the creed of Joseph Smith and has submitted to the rule of Brigham Young, and his "Gentile" Brethren? I wish to know how polygamy stands as regards Masonry. It is a point worthy of discussion. That many Masons have become Latter-Day Saints, I can hardly believe; but it is well known that men, otherwise of the most lofty minds, have condescended to basenesses of a character hardly intelligible when even most carefully scrutinised. A Mason cannot divest himself of the knowledge he has gained of the ceremonies of Freemasonry. He may be degraded, but his expulsion is a farce; and we are aware that Masons have been known even to commit great crimes.

Do not let me be misunderstood; the creed of the Mormons may be all right for what I know, but my close and attentive perusal of the "Book of Mormon," a work of the most Herculean and Morphean character—the Mormons do not read much of it themselves—has led me to one of these two dilemmas: either that the Divine Spirit presumed to dictate revelations to mankind must have been suffering from a violent headache, or that the "Manuscript Found," written by a very indifferent author, named Solomon Spaulding, formed the main substratum of Joe Smith's imposture. Let me also mention that although polygamy was not universally adopted into practice in the commencement of the "Church," the Prophet Joe Smith "received a revelation" on the 12th July, 1843, in the presence, we are told, of Hyrum Smith, his father and Grand Patriarch, and Clayton, an early disciple. His mind was moved, and he appealed to the Lord—the following celestial telegram was returned: "Do the works of Abraham. If a man espouse ten virgins, who are given him by the law (the Mormon revealed law), he cannot commit adultery, for they belong to him; therefore he is justified. Let my daughter Emma receive all those who have been bestowed upon my servant Joseph, and who are virtuous in my sight."

Emma was the Prophet's wife, and was not edified. Now, supposing that a Freemason, once a Gentile, afterwards a Mormon, marries according to Mormon law, a Mason's sister, etc., how does he stand? It is worthy of reflection. In an article written by Joseph Smith himself in I. Daniel Rupp's "Original History of the Religious Denominations at present existing in the United States,"—published at Philadelphia, 1844, p. 410—the Prophet concludes his account of his Church in these words:—"We believe in being subject to kings, presidents, rulers and magistrates; in obeying, honoring, and sustaining the law. We believe in being honest, true, chaste, benevolent, virtuous, and in doing good to all men; indeed, we may say that we follow the admonition of Paul—we believe all things; we hope all things; we have endured many things, and hope to be able to endure all things. If there is anything virtuous, lovely, or of good report, or praiseworthy, we seek thereafter." The italics are mine—the words acknowledged to be Smith's. But enough of this point.

As it has been stated that Freemasonry exists among the Mormons, I am determined to show what those peculiar rites are, as reported by some who have passed through them. There is no violation of confidence, as they have long since been made public property, although the works containing the particulars are not easily accessible. But they contradict Joe's creed as above.

The ceremony in the first instance is denominated the Endowment, and is performed in a building specially devoted to the purpose. The candidates consist both of men and women; their names are enrolled in a Register, together with particulars usual in such cases sufficiently for identification. Should some of the husbands not have been sealed to their wives for all eternity, Heber C. Kimball, President of the Church, One of the Twelve Apostles, Councillor of the Presidency, High Priest of this Mormon Masonry, and President of the Conference of Elders, immediately seals them. The persons to be ordained are then introduced in a body into a long room, divided by white screens into various compartments, ranged in two lines. Men go to the right, women to the left, barefooted, with exception of the priests. Silence ensues; a splash of water and mysterious whispers alone are heard.

The next proceeding applies to the men. Each individual is undressed and laid in a tin bath; he is washed in warm water, and each individual member is blessed according to its function: brain, to be strong; ears, to be quick to hear the words of God's servants; eyes, to be sharp; nose, mouth, down to the feet, "to be swift to run in the ways of righteousness." Thus he is lustrated and pronounced clean from "the blood of this generation." An apostle then confers upon him "a new name by which he will be known in the celestial kingdom of God." In the next room he is anointed with oil from a horn, and oil is sprinkled all over his body, while benedictions are spoken. After this he receives a long tunic of muslin or linen, over this a shirt, and over all a long linen robe, touching the ground both before and behind. A small square apron of white linen or silk, ornamented with fig-leaves, is tied on. A linen cap, stockings and shoes of cotton, complete the costume. During this time the High Priest, as Elohim, consults with Jehovah, Jesus, and Michael (Adam), represented by other priests, as to creating and peopling the earth. This is the first section.

Jehovah, Jesus, and Michael now proceed to the place where the candidate is, they touch him with the ends of their fingers to imply Creation to the Body, and breathe on the face to induce the Spirit. He is then the original Adam. A woman who has been treated by persons of her own sex in exactly the same way, is then brought in. Adam is ordered to pretend to be asleep; his eyes are then opened, and he is introduced to Eve, his wife.

Adam and Eve soon after proceed to the room where Elohim presides over the Gods. This is Eden. A garden scene is formed by the painted hangings; fruit, real, hangs from a bush. The Devil (performed by W. W. Phelps) tempts Eve, Eve tempts Adam, and the Great Elohim then appears, drives away the Devil, curses everybody, and the Devil crawls out like a serpent, except that he has hands and knees.

At this point Adam and Eve being in a bad way, Elohim promises them restoration by means of the priesthood, invested with jurisdiction, unlimited power, and indisputable authority. Here oaths are administered of secrecy, submission, and chastity by both, subject to marriage by the head of the Church or his delegates. A grip and password are conferred, and they then are admitted to the third degree of endowment, or first degree of the Order of Aaron.

Man now enters the world possessed of the password of truth, and with sacerdotal authority. Light has, however, become Darkness, Darkness, Light. He is puzzled to find Truth, and the Devil again appears, who treats all the sects alike, politely addressing a crowd of persons as Methodist brother, Episcopalian brother, Mohammedan brother, Roman Catholic brother, &c., &c., saying "I love you all, my good friends"; three other Apostles come in as St. Peter, St. James, and St. John; they joke with the Devil, as in an old mystery play, but St. Peter presently turns him out. The Apostles now deliver addresses to, and ask questions of, the newly-initiated, and explain how the authority passed through Joseph Smith to Brigham Young. They are to be, in the exact words of the address, "Like a tattered rag in the hands of Brigham Young."

The pair then return to the Kingdom of God. Adam (man) doubly lost by original sin and by his own personal sins, has recovered powers and blessings, but has wandered away from the truth. The Priesthood promised a Redeemer, and they now propose to give him an instrument of redemption. Elohim, therefore reveals Solomon Spaulding's "Manuscript Found," by means I presume, of letting Joseph Smith, the printer's apprentice, know that it is in an unlocked drawer, and so he steals it. This is the Gentile account. Otherwise, an angel informs Joe of the Plates of Gold, which Professor Anthon detected to be a farrago of trash. At this moment—a fitting one, in my opinion—the new members take an oath to keep the secret—that it is all trash, I presume—under pain of having their heart torn out and cut to pieces, and other details. Here a new sign, grip, and password are given, and they are admitted into the second Order of Aaron.

Man is now partly saved (?), and is moved into a room where there is an altar. Here he is sworn to fidelity towards his Co-religionists, never to speak ill of Brigham Young, to put the Church above everything, and a great deal more too tedious to enumerate, except the obligation to be ready to sacrifice to the Church one's most intimate friend, one's nearest relative, one's most beloved wife, and even one's own life. The penalty is having the stomach opened and the entrails thrown to the swine—very nice pork! Another sign, another grip, password, and the neophyte enters into the third degree or Order of Melchizedek.

He now proceeds to another room, and there finds the Bible, Book of Mormon, and the Book of Doctrines and Covenants (the Revelations to Joseph). Here more oaths are sworn, disavowing fealty to the United States, and other things of a like nature. Other penalties are here imposed, and new signs, grips, and passwords admit the gentleman to the second degree of the Order of Melchizedek.

This is considered sufficient to render the initiate acceptable to God. Prayers are offered up in the Abracadabran language, and the initiate is sworn to wear the tunic next his skin always—a somewhat superfluous and heremetic injunction.

There is yet one thing more to be accomplished. The initiate has to pass the Veil, a thin partition of linen, in order "to repeat the whole formula" communicated to him, while the assistants cut marks in his shirt with a pair of scissors and mutter a word in his ear in a low tone—perhaps, "Phlatto-thratto-phlatto-thratt," from the play of Aristophanes. Passing through the Veil, he is supposed to enter the kingdom of heaven, and then their wives are admitted and this monstrous farce is played over again. Then they proceed to refreshment for a short time, and being ordered to return, are addressed by some high dignitary of the Church "on the seriousness of the affair." I must exclaim, O Roli Polique, O perna et caulis!

Freemasons, and men that respect yourselves, have I not sufficiently proved the truth with which I employed the texts at the head of this paper? It is true, and is written in the pages of Remy and John Hyde.

CRYPTONYMUS.

MAGNIFICENT DECORATION OF THE 33RD DEGREE.

It is with much pleasure that we announce to our Masonic readers that the Supreme Council 33° A.A. Rite, for the Northern Masonic Jurisdiction of the United States, at its annual session held at Boston in June last, by unanimous resolve, voted a Grand Decoration of the 33° to Ill. Bro. Albert G. Goodall, 33°, as a testimonial of the estimation in which they held his invaluable services in the cause of legitimate Masonry, by his researches into and exhaustive reports on the origin and present status of the Supreme Councils and Grand Orients of portions of South America, Italy, Portugal, and Spain, while visiting those countries.

A description of this splendid jewel cannot be otherwise than interesting:—

On a plate of gold, representing the sun, is laid the Teutonic Cross enamelled. On this are the Grand Decorations of the Order, viz., a nine-pointed star, formed by three triangles of gold, one upon the other, and interlaced. From the lower part of the left side toward the upper part of the right, extends a sword, and in the opposite direction a hand of Justice. In the middle is the shield of the Order, blue; upon the shield is an eagle like that on the banner; on the dexter side of the shield is a golden balance, and on the sinister a golden compass resting on a golden square. Around the whole shield runs a stripe of blue, lettered in gold with the Latin words, Ordo ab Chao; and this stripe is enclosed by a doublet circle, formed by two serpents each holding his tail in his mouth. Of the smaller triangles formed by the intersection of the principal ones, those nine that are nearest the blue stripe are coloured red, and on each is one of the letters that constitute the word S.A.P.I.E.N.T.I.A.

On the reverse of the jewel is the following inscription: "From the Supreme Council Sov. Gr. Ins. Gen. 33° A.A.S. Rite, Northern Masonic Jurisdiction, U.S., to Ill. Bro. Albert G. Goodall, Sov. Gr. Ins. Gen. and General Foreign Representative. Boston, Mass., June 19th, 1869. V.E."

THE GAIETY THEATRE.—The new comedy drama by Mr. Gilbert, entitled "An Old Score," continues to draw large audiences at this splendid little theatre. The acting of Miss Henrade as Ethel Barrington is extremely good, Col. Calthorpe is admirably represented by Mr. Emery, and Mr. Neville is equally efficient as James Casby, the Bombay Merchant. The denouement is excellent, and the Scenery by Mr. George Gordon—especially a villa at Teddington, and Ovington Grange, leaves nothing to be desired. To all who wish to enjoy themselves thoroughly—we can only say go to the "Gaiety."

THE LION was a symbol of Jeremiah, because of the terrible voice of his threatening; and of St. Mark, because his gospel begins with the voice in the wilderness; but principally of Christ, who is denominated the lion of the tribe of Judah, and will ultimately subdue all things to himself—"for he must reign till he hath put all enemies under his feet."

INELIGIBILITY OF BASTARDS AS FREEMASONS.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

"DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Would you do me the favour of inserting in THE FREEMASON the following article which has been the subject of unasonic animadversion, and which ought, properly, to have been first sent to the magazine in which appeared the communication to which it was a reply.

Yours fraternally,

Ayr, August 14th, 1869. D. MURRAY LYON.

A writer in THE FREEMASON, in his anxiety to uphold the purity of Lodge membership speaks authoritatively on what he alleges to be the practice obtaining among Scotch Lodges in their relation to men who have had the misfortune to be horn out of wedlock. "It has, (he says) been an indisputable rule, and constantly acted upon in lodges of Britain in olden times, that no bastard could be received as a Freemason. . . . In Scotland this ancient landmark and law has been maintained with almost no exception; and it is not long since, in a Lodge holding a high position in the Craft, two men were positively rejected on no other ground than that they could not show the legitimacy of their birth."

No Scotch Masonic statute known to us bears out the statement here made as to the "ineligibility of bastards as Freemasons." The oldest Scotch Masonic statutes extant are those of the Ayr Squaremen Incorporation, dated 1556. The next in point of antiquity are the Ordinances of William Schaw, Master of Works to James VI., dated 1598-99. Neither in these documents, nor in the records of the Lodge of Edinburgh (Mary's Chapel), No. 1, dating from 1698, or of Mother Kilwinning, dating from 1643, is there to be found any law preventing the admission of bastards. The oldest of the documents quoted enacts that "gif the prentes be ane friemanis sone he sall pay entres silur fyve schillingis, and gif he not ane friemanis sone he sall pay ten schillingis." A similar privilege was enjoyed by the "lawful sons" of freemen in the ancient Lodges of Kilwinning and Edinburgh; but it was only in this respect that as apprentice masons the male offspring of legal marriages were treated differently from their illegitimate brothers and the sons of non-freemen, when any such presented themselves.

The erection of the Grand Lodge of Scotland did not place bastards in a worse position than that which, as applicants for admission to Freemason Lodges, they held when Lodges were purely Operative associations. And so far from initiation being in Scotland denied to the class of citizens referred to, innumerable instances, within the memory of masons still alive, could be given of the initiation of good men and true, the offspring of illicit intercourse. A notable instance of this kind occurred in the person of Lord Frederick Fitz-Clarence, one of the natural sons of William IV. Made under the French Constitution, he was affiliated in a Scotch Lodge, was Deputy Grand Master in 1840, and on the death of the Earl of Rothes, was elected to be Grand Master Mason of Scotland, which office he held during 1841-42. The sin of his parents did not affect his moral and religious qualifications as a candidate for the privileges of Freemasonry, neither was his admission regarded as a scandal upon the Fraternity. As was said of him by the Reverend Brother who pronounced the oration at the Grand Funeral Lodge that in 1854 was held at Edinburgh out of respect to his memory, "he was kindly esteemed in all the relations of life, and was, in an especial manner, an honour to Masonry—by his conduct reflecting back the honour it had conferred on him in his elevation to the supreme dignity of Grand Master of Scotland."

A Masonic character as fair and unblemished as that of the illustrious brother alluded to has been and is still borne by other brethren similarly situated as to the circumstances of their birth. No principle of Freemasonry, as recognised in Scotland, was violated by the admission of such men; for in its dealings with bastards the lodge has never presumed to raise itself above the Christian Church. In the Installation Service the Master of a Scotch Lodge is asked to give his assent to the charge which makes it imperative to institute due inquiry into the character of a man before he can be made a Mason; but no information is required as to his parentage.

With every disposition to believe in the truth of this statement above quoted anent the rejection by a Scotch Lodge of two men on the ground of their supposed illegitimacy, we hold that it is an isolated instance of a Scotch Lodge adopting a custom that is repugnant to the feelings of Scotch Masons, as it is also unauthorised by the Scotch Masonic Constitution.

On the part of Scotchmen and Scotch Masons, therefore, we repudiate the dogma of the "ineligibility of bastards as Freemasons," as in any respect applicable to Lodges working under the Grand Lodge of Scotland.

Reports of Masonic Meetings.

THE CRAFT.

METROPOLITAN.

Stability Lodge, No. 217.—The lodge met at the George Hotel, Aldermanbury, on Monday, 16th inst., at 5.30 p.m., Bro. E. Hughes in the chair. The business before the lodge at this, an Emergency, was "To confirm the minutes of the last regular lodge, and of the previous emergency; to initiate Mr. Henry Wilson, to pass Bros. Coley and Warsup (3), and to raise Bro. Lawrence." The lodge was opened in the first degree, and the summons convening the meeting was read, and the minutes of their previous meetings were read and confirmed. Apologies for unavoidable absence were given on behalf of Bro. James, S.W., travelling abroad, Bro. Hart, S.D., at the seaside, and Bro. Coley at York; Bro. Lawrence also was absent, as he recently took his departure for Australia. Mr. H. Wilson was duly initiated into the mysteries and privileges of Ancient Freemasonry, and retired. The lodge was opened in the second degree, and Bro. Warsup (3) was passed to the degree of Fellow Craft. The W.M. complimenting him on his proficiency, which reflected great credit on him, (Bro. W.) and his preceptors. The lodge was resumed in the first degree, when Bro. Taylor, P.M. and Sec., announced that an application was shortly to be made for a warrant to hold a Chapter of R. A. Masons, under the sanction of Stability, No. 217, and he hoped to be able to obtain the necessary authorization in time to meet shortly after the commencement of the winter session (October), at the new head-quarters of the lodge, Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street; he therefore begged that the names of those desirous of supporting the application, and assisting at the inauguration, should be sent to him as early as possible. The W.M. complimented the brethren on the fact that notwithstanding the meeting was held in the height of the holiday season, there was a round dozen ready to attend with punctuality to their duties without the temptation of a supper (this being an Emergency there was no banquet.) There being nothing offered for the benefit of Freemasonry in general, or of Lodge Stability in particular, the lodge was closed in due form and with solemn prayer. The brethren present were Bros. Hughes W.M.; Bro. Brodey, P.M. and Treas., S.W. pro tem.; Truscott, J.W.; G. A. Taylor, P.M. and Sec.; Warsup (1), S.D. pro tem.; Drummond, J.D.; Belcher, I.G.; and Bros. Bland, Thorp, Warsup (2 and 3), Wilson, and Grant, T. Visitors, Bros. Waterall, J.D., Neptune, 22; and Hopkins, King Hiram, 86.

PROVINCIAL.

Ipswich.—Lodge St. Luke, No. 225.—The usual monthly meeting of this lodge was held on the 11th inst., at the Coach and Horses' Hotel, Ipswich. Present: Bro. P. Whitehead, W.M.; Robb, S.W.; Clement, J.W.; Golding, J.D.; Prentice, I.G.; Barber, Sec.; Syer, Tyler; P.M.'s C. Davy, Westgate, Richmond, Whitehead, senr.; King; Bros. Pratt, Lewis and others. Visitors: Bros. W. A. Smith (376) and Fisher (555). The lodge was opened in due and ancient form with solemn prayer. The minutes of the last lodge were read and confirmed. A summons of emergency was read to ballot for Mr. L. Favre, which was unanimous in his favor. Mr. Edward Jackson was present and duly initiated (in the temporary absence of the W.M.) by Bro. C. Davy, the I.P.M.; the working tools being explained by P.M. Westgate, and the charge delivered by P.M. J. Whitehead. As time would not permit, the lecture on the tracing board was postponed until the next monthly meeting. The lodge was then closed in harmony, and the brethren (18) retired for refreshment.

THE ROYAL ARCH.

MARK MASONRY.

METROPOLITAN.

Macdonald Mark Masters' Lodge, No. 104.—The second meeting of this promising lodge was held at the Head-quarters of the First Surrey Rifle Volunteers at Camberwell, on Saturday last, when a good attendance of brethren gave support to the first labours of the new lodge. Every officer at present appointed was at his post, and each gave evidence of his ability and determination to make the working of the lodge perfect. The lodge was opened at five o'clock by the V.W. Bro. Thomas Meggy, P.G.M.O., W.M., assisted by Bro. Major A. L. Irvine, S.W.; W. Bro. James Stevens, G. Steward, J.W.; Bro. Dr. Eugene Cronin, M.O.; W. Bro. S. Rosenthal, G. Steward, S.O.; Bro. J. H. Hastie, J.O.; V.W. Bro. C. Swan, Sec.; Bro. G. Waterall, Recorder of Marks; Bro. Chas. Hamerton, S.D.; Bro. A. Wolton, Time-keeper. In addition to other members present, the visitors were V.W. Bro. J. H. Wynne, P.G.T., and P.M. of Kent Lodge; V.W. Bro. H. C. Levauder, P.G.D.C., and W.M. of St. Mark's Lodge No. 1; Bro. T. Vesper, P.M. Kent Lodge; Bro. Rev. W. B. Church, M.O. St.

Mark's Lodge No. 1; &c. A communication from the V.W. Bro. Frederick Binckes, Grand Sec., the Treas. of the lodge, expressing his regret that other Masonic engagements prevented his attendance was forwarded to the W.M. The minutes of the consecration meeting having been read and confirmed, several candidates for advancement were balloted for, and the propositions unanimously accepted. Absence from town, and other causes, prevented the attendance of all the candidates except one, thereby throwing over to the next meeting a large amount of work, but, on the other hand, giving increased opportunity for the careful performance of the beautiful and impressive ceremony in the advancement of Brother Charles Dorey, P.M. of the Caveac Lodge, No. 176. It was with considerable satisfaction—but without surprise, having previously had many opportunities of observing their splendid working in the other degrees in Craft Masonry—that we listened to the perfect manner in which all the officers rendered the ritual, and performed their several duties. We desire to make no invidious comparisons, but must express our opinion that many long-established lodges cannot, or at least do not, exhibit such perfection either in appointments, ritual, or working as this lodge of but two months' establishment. May such perfection continue and increase, and thereby materially aid and support the Order of Mark Masters, now becoming so generally recognized and appreciated. After the completion of the ceremony, the newly-framed bye-laws were read and approved, subject to confirmation by the General Board. The W.M. then promoted Bro. A. Wolton to the office of J.D., and invested the newly-advanced brother, C. Dorey, with the collar of Timekeeper. The W.M. having informed the lodge of the great success attending the late festival in aid of the Benevolent Fund (to which, we would observe, he personally contributed so greatly), and reported his list as Steward representing the Macdonald Lodge, No. 104, certain remarks were made and acquiesced in which will ensure the continued representation of the lodge at future festivals, by the stewardship of the presiding W.M. in each for many successive years. The lodge was then duly closed, and the brethren adjourned to refreshment, a pleasant evening being spent in convivial harmony, increased to the members of the lodge by the hearty expressions of satisfaction given by the visitors when responding to the toast proposed in their honour, and to the visitors themselves by the perfect concord and unity of purpose which was manifested throughout the whole of the proceedings. We augur for the Macdonald Lodge of Mark Masters a career of prosperity and usefulness, and that it will at no distance date become an acknowledged ornament to the Order.

ORDERS OF CHIVALRY.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR.

METROPOLITAN.

Temple Crossing Encampment.—A conclave of this encampment was held on Friday, the 12th inst., when there were present: The Eminent Sir Knights J. Blenkin, D.P.G.C.; Dr. Lilley, P.E.C.; F. W. Mitchell, P.E.C.; R. Farran, P.E.C., Registrar; G. Harrison, 2nd Captain; J. Dyer; &c., &c. After the usual business, a vote of condolence on the sudden decease of the Eminent Commander Sir Knight Major H. F. Smith, was unanimously carried and ordered to be entered on the minutes. [We must mention the elegant and convenient ante-room, &c., for the use of the Masonic Brotherhood, just completed by the worthy host of the Horns Tavern, Kennington, where the meetings of this encampment take place.]

RED CROSS OF ROME AND CONSTANTINE.

PROVINCIAL.

WESTON-SUPER-MARE.—Rose and Lily Conclave, No. 10.—An assembly of this Conclave was held on the 16th inst., at the Carnarvon Hall, Weston-super-Mare, presided over by the M.P. Sovereign the Illustrious Sir Knt. F. G. Irwin, K.G. Cross and Inspector-General for Bristol. The minutes of the previous Conclave having been confirmed, and the ballot declared clear for Bro. Sidney Jones, of St. Kew Lodge, No. 1222, Em. Sir Knt. Irwin gave place to Em. Sir Knt. Munbee, K.G.C. and Inspector-General for Somerset, as the working Sovereign for the installation; consequently Em. Sir Knt. Munbee being invested with the sceptre, took his seat as M.P.S. and proceeded to conduct the ceremony of installation, assisted by Em. Sir Knt. Irwin, Sir Knts. Clarke, V. E. Townsend, Senr.-Genl.; Gregory, Organist; and Cox, Recorder and acting Prefect. The ceremony was extremely imposing, and conducted with the most impressive solemnity. The oration was delivered by Em. Sir Knt. Munbee (in the absence of Sir Knt. the Rev. J. C. Pigot, High Prelate of the Conclave). The precepts taught were threefold—first, that Faith is the first principle by which means alone we can hope to rebuild in our hearts, the mysterious temple of the triune God; secondly, that Unity is the mighty chain by which we, as brethren, are bound together—the wondrous lever by which immortal Truth is raised out of darkness; and, thirdly, that zeal is the great and grand permeating fire of the soul stimulating our desires into action, and animating our labours. Em. Sir Knt. Irwin having resumed the sceptre, proceeded with the remaining business of the conclave. Moved by Em. Sir Knt. Irwin, seconded by Sir Knt. Clarke, V.E., and unanimously carried, that Em. Sir Knt. Munbee, K.G.C., be elected M.P.S. for the ensuing year. Moved by Sir Knt. Irwin, seconded by Sir Knt. Munbee, and carried, that Sir Knt. Clarke be re-elected V.E. Moved by Sir Knt. Irwin, seconded by Sir Knt. Munbee, and duly carried, that Sir Knt. George, be re-elected Treasurer. The installation of Ill. Sir Knt. Munbee, K.G.C., as the M.P.S., will be at the next meeting of the conclave, on the third Wednesday in October next. A new code of by-laws were approved of, and 100 copies ordered to be printed. It was moved by Em. Sir Knt. Irwin, seconded by Em. Sir Knt. Munbee, and resolved by acclamation, that Ill. Sir Knt. J. Daniel Moore, M.D., Inspector General for North Lancashire, be elected an honorary member of this conclave. After the labors of the conclave, the Chevaliers adjourned to a banquet, and spent a very pleasant evening together, under the presidency of the M.P.S., Sir Knt. Irwin.

MASONIC BAZAAR AT SKIBBEREEN.

This Bazaar, which was looked forward to with much interest for several weeks past by the residents of the locality, commenced on Thursday week. It was got up with the object of realising a fund towards the erection of a Masonic Hall in the town, as such a building is very much needed, especially as the members of that body have very considerably increased of late. The respectable portion of the inhabitants, shopkeepers and resident gentry, all united towards making it as successful as possible, particularly when they found that a counter-element of opposition was put in active force against them by denunciation from the altars of the Roman Catholic Chapels. This so thoroughly roused the spirit of those ladies and gentlemen who interested themselves in the getting up of the undertaking, that it added a stimulus to it, and, as it proved, materially assisted the cause instead of injuring it.

The first day set in very wet, and fears were entertained that it would operate sadly against the proceedings; but not so—the place was thronged to inconvenience, and a brisk day's business was carried on with unabated vigour till past 6 o'clock in the evening, and was resumed next day. The brethren assembled and marched in procession, attired in full regalia.

The stalls were efficiently presided over by the following ladies, who were most indefatigable, and transacted an amount of business far exceeding the anticipations of those connected with the undertaking. Mrs. Becher, Mrs. Dr. Levis, Mrs. J. F. Levis, Mrs. Dr. Hadden, Mrs. Townsend, Mrs. Hungerford, the Misses Roycroft, &c. The Post-office was presided over by the Misses French, and the refreshment tables and tents were under the management of Mr. C. Lawrence, assisted by others.

The stalls and tables were well stocked with a most beautiful variety of articles of every imaginable description, such as are to be always found at Bazaars, and would require a very extensive catalogue to enumerate. Outdoor amusements were got up, but the rain put a stop to them—nevertheless, some of the youngsters, wet as it was, would have an occasional shy at poor "Aunt Sally" with a pipe in her mouth. Considerable amusement was also created by a well-known "tile" which was all of a sudden seen ornamenting the top of a circular tent, acting as a weathercock, twisting about, the crown of the hat being cut round a little, and acting as a weather fan. This relic of old times, which had borne the brunt of (according to the owner's own statement) more than ten years' hard work, was a general object of amusement to many gentlemen, and they prevailed on the owner to let them put it up to raffle, to which he good-humouredly assented. The proceeds of the raffle must have been quite sufficient to purchase a very handsome and stylish hat of the most fashionable make. The lucky winner of the old "tile" was Mr. Swanton, but the coveted article was not destined to remain in his possession very long, as an active chap, used to climbing spars and rigging, at once conceived the idea of ornamenting the pole of the tent with the prize, and very soon carried his idea into execution to the intense amusement of the spectators. The band of the South Cork Light Infantry Militia regiment attended, and performed a very nice selection of music in a most creditable manner.

We are requested to announce for the information of the subscribers to the Masonic work "Reflected Rays of Light upon Masonry," edited by Bro. James Stevenson, and dedicated by special permission to the Rt. Hon. the Earl Dalhousie, K.T., G.C.B., G.M.M. of Scotland; that its publication will take place at the end of the present month.

MEETING OF THE PROV. GRAND LODGE OF DEVON.

On Thursday last week, the Provincial Grand Lodge of the Province of Devon, assembled at the Royal Hotel, Plymouth. There was a large attendance from all parts of the province and the business transacted occupied a large portion of the time set apart for it previous to the dinner. The R.W. the Rev. John Huyshe, M.A., G.M., presided, and was supported by the S.W., L. P. Metham, D.P.G.M., W. J. Maymott, P.P.G.W. for Surrey, and a large number of past Provincial Grand officers. Bros. Lieut-Colonel Elliott, R.M., S.G.W., Walrond, J.G.W., Revs. J. R. Nankivell, and J. Dickenson, G. Ch., W. G. Rogers, G. Bag., Isaac Latimer, G. Sec., J. J. Mackenzie, S.G.D., C. Elphinstone, J.G.D., W. H. Maddock, G. S. Works, Browning, G.D.C., Bartlett, Assistant G.D.C., J. Sadler, G. Swd. Br., G. G. Nicholls, Org. (W. F. Windeatt, acting), Witheridge, G. Pura, J. Gregory, G. Tyler, J. Rogers, Assistant G. Tyler, W. H. Geachias, W. Easton, Major Yates, G. Warren, J. Austin, and W. Oram, G. Stewards, occupied their respective positions within the lodge. Amongst those present were the following brethren:—

James Ferris, 70, P.M.; George Downe, 1212, W.M.; S. S. P. Blight, 39, P.M., P.P.G.O.; J. N. Blake, 230, S.W.; John Way, 39, S.W.; F. Horspool, 39; R. Anning, 39; Edwin Roseveare, 1099, J.W.; R. Lose, 159, P.M., P.P.G. Pur.; Edwin Patten, 223; J. B. Gover, 70, P.M.; H. W. Thomas, 70; H. Williams, 70; H. Moffat, 223, Wm. Hill, 105; John S. Phillips, 70, P.M.; John Davis, 156; Wm. Amery, 159, W.M.; Wm. K. Mitchell, 156, P.M.; George Hilson, 105, W.M.; James Wharry, 159; J. Filbern, 1212; John Pepper, 1212, J.D.; James Montgomery, 223, J. W.; James Ellis, 1212, J.W.; Thos. Menhnick, 954; P. James, 70, P.M.; A. Lethbridge, 159; James Greenfield, 328, W.M.; Thomas Oliver, 328, J.W.; T. W. Greenfield, 282; W. R. Northway, 282, W.M.; T. W. B. Forster, 189, J. W.; Aaron Woolf, 223, P.M.; H. Miller, 1205, P.M.; Thos. T. James, 1051; Samuel Chapple, P.M., 159 and 954; R. Dowse, P.M., P.P.G.S.D., Treas. 189; I. Watts, P.M., 70, P.P.G.T.; Edward Murch, P.M., 202, P.P.G.O.; J. Maden, 1205, M.; William Browning, P.M., 223, P.G.D.C.; John Port, 159, D.C.; Thos. Hunt, 159, S.S.; John Lynn, 230, J.W.; John Pridham, S.W., 710; Thos. Chapman, P.P.G.D.C.; John Walker, 282; J. W. H. Hawton, P.M., 1091, W.M., 954; M. Paul, J. W., 954; J. H. Bowman, 70; John R. H. Spry, P.P.S.D.C., 954; Fras. Codd, P.M., 230; C. G. Gibson, P.M., 189; W. J. J. Spry, P.P.G.O., 230; Jas. Bennet, S.W., 1247; James H. Keats, 70, 1247; John Beer Witheridge, P.P.G.P., 223, P.M.; Joseph Mathews, P.M., 282 and 1255, P.P.G. Supt. of Works; John W. Tripp, P.M., 202; Wm. J. Taylor, 202; Edward Murch, P.M., 202; Edward Thomas, 202; J. Purse, 202; J. B. Price, P.M., 202; W. F. Windeatt, 1247; J. M. Helly, W.M., 223; S. Cotton, 202; M. Brown, W.M., 1099; W. H. Gillman, 1099; J. T. Warn, 223; T. C. Lewarn, 223; James P. Phillips, 223; S. Zeffert, 223; Vincent Bird, 954, P.M. and T.; W. D. Thomas, 159, J.W.; Alfred Bodley, 39, Secretary; W. H. W. Sargent, 1099, Secretary; Herbert J. Hearle, 156, Secretary; Alfred Winstanley, 39; James Bartlett, 159, J.D.; G. C. Bignell, 105, J.W.; John Herries, 1091, W.M.; W. J. Smith, 954, S.W.; F. P. Balkwill, 189, W.M.; W. H. Roberts, 954; W. T. Pilditch, 156, I.G.; W. Shepherd, 1091; H. Morgan, 1091, S.; William Langley Pope, D.D., 797, Chaplain; W. F. Taylor, 1205; H. R. Russell, 1205; J. Moore, 1205; John Oxland, 515; John May, P.M., 223; J. Tucker, 39; Robert Boorman, 1091; R. M. Andrews, J.W., 70; Albert White, J.W., 1091; G. E. Stentiford, 159; E. Brooming, S.W., 282; G. Chowin, P.M., 1205; J. H. Blackell, J.D., 1099; W. H. Maddock, P.M., P.G.S.W., 189; Henry W. Hooper, 39; R. S. Merrifield, P.M., 282; Robert Foale, 797; S. S. Tremayne, S.W., 1212; L. D. Westcott, 70, S.W.; T. S. Bayley, P.M., 189; Richard Rowe, P.M.; Geo. P. Smith, P.M.; C. H. Cooper, 105; Edwin Pitts, 202; James Cox, P.M., 105; Henry J. Holman, P.M., 105; William H. Holman, 105; John Hamley, I.G., 1091; F. A. Thomas, 70; B. Dicks, P.M., 39; E. Basset, 189; William Merrifield, P.M., P.P.G.T.; P. L. Blancham, 444; E. S. N. Rea Davies, S.W., 1099; H. M. Bartlett, 308, W.M.; James Rowe, P.P.G.S., 105; W. G. Ellis, I.P.M., 797; James Williams, 17, Quebec; W. Mann, P.G.S., 421; Albert F. Luke, 39.

The R.W. GRAND MASTER opened the lodge in due form, and the Rev. J. Dickenson, G. Ch. invoked the blessing of the G.A. of the Universe on their labours.

The P.G. SECRETARY then read the minutes of the several Grand Lodges that had been held during the past year. There were some incidental discussions arising on these minutes. In reply to Bro. Watts, it was stated that the Committee of Petitions consisted of the D.P.G. Master, the Treasurer, and Secretary. Bro. WATTS suggested subsequently that the committee should consist of the W. Master of each of the lodges, and that they should meet once a quarter at Plymouth. An amendment was moved to this by Bro. COCK, who said he came more than a hundred miles to attend this meeting, and he thought that there should be something like fairness and that the meetings should be held alternately at Exeter and at Plymouth. He moved an amendment to this effect, and it was carried by a large majority. It was agreed that the meetings should be held quarterly, and that each lodge should be requested to nominate either the W.M. or a delegate to act for the year.

The SECRETARY also read the returns of the different lodges. Some of these had only just been sent in, whereas they ought to have been made before the end of February. The balance to credit of the Grand Lodge was estimated to be about £106; but as it could not be exactly stated from the cause mentioned a discussion arose upon the difficulties of getting in the returns. It was suggested that the returns should be sent in, printed, and circulated to the lodges before the end of June. The G. MASTER said that if there were any lodges that did not send in their returns by that time he should make it a rule, however painful to him it might be, to preclude those lodges receiving any appointments to the Grand Lodge—a determination which elicited loud cheers.

Another question arose as to the amount that had been received during the past year for fees of honour from the members appointed to office in Grand Lodge. In consequence of the absence from England of Bro. J. P. Ley this could not be stated with certainty. But Bro. CANN, the permanent G. Treasurer, stated that he had that morning, since he entered the room, received several fees. The G. Secretary had also received some, and there were others to come in. [Since the meeting the writer of this report has received a letter from Bro. Ley, stating that he had received £13 13s. fees.]—Bro. S. Jew, P.P.G. Treasurer, spoke of the neglect in matters in past years, and urged that the law should be enforced, that no officer who had not paid his dues should be permitted to rank as a P.G. officer. He moved that there should be a scrutiny of the accounts since the year 1859, for the purpose of ascertaining what dues were unpaid. The matter was one of importance in every point of view, as it was from these fees that the Fortescue Annuity Fund received additions. Bro. the Rev. J. C. CARWITHEN suggested that the time should be confined to the period from 1861, and this was unanimously agreed to.

The Committee on Petitions recommended votes of £10, and two sums of £5 each, should be given to certain applicants, which was agreed to.

The D.P.G. MASTER stated that he should act at the next meeting as G. Steward of the Girls' School, to which he intended to contribute ten guineas as his subscription, and he called upon the G. Lodge to subscribe liberally towards this institution. He proceeded to show that little was done by Devon, as compared with other Provinces, in behalf of this institution, and concluded an eloquent appeal by moving that 25 guineas be voted from the funds of Grand Lodge for this object.—The motion was seconded by Br. Col. ELLIOTT.—Br. CLASE proposed that it should be 50 guineas; but the G. MASTER said that their funds would not allow of so large a sum being thus appropriated, and the vote of 25 guineas was unanimously agreed to. £10 was also voted to the Widows', and £10 to the Benevolent Fund.

The TREASURER next read a statement of the Fortescue Annuity Fund, in account with Br. John Pope, the Treasurer. The account showed receipts to the amount of £116 15s. 8d., and payments to the amount of £87 5s. 9d., leaving a balance in the hands of the Treasurer of £29 9d. 11d. The assets showed investments: Amount on Land Debentures, £1,100; ditto Devon and Exeter Club, £200; cash in Savings' Bank, £45 17s. 7d.

The GRAND MASTER then proceeded to the appointment of his officers. On the motion of Bro. P.M. Rodd, seconded by Bro. P.M. Dowse, Bro. T. S. Bayly, P.M. of Lodge Sincerity, was appointed G. Treasurer. Bro. L. P. Metham, 189, P.M., P.G.D. of England, D.P.G.M. Bro. Captain Tanner Davy, 421, P.M., P.P.G., Warden, S.G.W. Bros. Major G. H. S. Yates, 1138, P.M., J.G.W.; Rev. John Dickenson, 1125, P.G.C., G. Chaplain; Dr. William Langley Pope, 797, Chaplain, G. Chaplain; Levett, Prinsep, 797, W.M., G. Registrar; Wm. Goddard Rogers, 112, P.M., G. Secretary; Wm. H. Geachias, 39, W.M., S.G. Deacon; J. J. Hambly, 70, P.M., J.G. Deacon; J. S. Phillips, 1212, P.M., G. Supt. of Works; James Hawton, 954, P.M., G. Dir. of Cer.; George Warren, 159; P.M., G. Asst. Cer.; Josiah Austin, 1099, P.M., G. Organist; Wm. Cotton, 112, P.M., G. Sword-bearer; Peter James, 159, P.M., G. Pursuivant. Stewards:—Wm. Easton, 39, P.M.; Wm. Oram, 421, P.M.; W. K. Michell, 156, P.M.; F. Codd, 230, P.M.; C. S. Willshire, 251, P.M. and W. Master; Samuel Jones, P.M., 1135, and W.M. 112. P.G. Tylers:—James Gregory, 112, G.P. Tyler; John Rogers, 202, P. Assistant G. Tyler, P.M., Assistant do.

The remainder of the business transacted was of no public importance.

THE DINNER.

Shortly after four o'clock, the brethren, to the number of 122, sat down to an excellent cold collation, supplied by Br. Pearse, the lessee of the Royal Hotel. The R. W. the Grand Master, the Rev. John Huyshe, presided, and was supported on his right by the D.P.G.M. Br. Metham, and on his left by the G. Ch., the Rev. J. Dickenson, and by other G. Officers. Br. Lieut-Col. Elliott, P.S.G. Warden, in the absence of Br. Captain Tanner Davy, S.G.W., who was, we regret to say, prevented from being present by illness, occupied the vice-chair. Grace was said by the G. Ch., and after dinner by the Rev. Wm. Langley Pope, D.D., Ch. of the Dartmouth Lodge.

After dinner, the G. MASTER proposed "The Health of the Queen," which was drank with due Masonic loyalty.

Br. WINDEATT presided at the piano, and Bro. KNOWSLEY ably led the singing, taking several solos. In the course of the evening, Br. JAMES ROWE, a veteran Mason of more than 70 summers, sang with remarkable vigour and ability the fine old national song, "Hail to thee, England," and the beautiful ballad, "Come, welcome once more." Bro. THOMAS and Bro. CLASE also sang other songs with marked ability.

In proposing the next toast, "The R. W. Bro. H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, Past Grand Master of England," the GRAND MASTER remarked that the toast was premature. It was intended to give His Royal Highness the honour of Past rank, but he had not got it yet. Every one of them would regard with pleasure the day when they could hail him as a brother, and he was sure that he would be well pleased to be called by that name—our Royal brother the Prince of Wales—(cheers).

Air—"God bless the Prince of Wales."

In proposing "The Most Worshipful the G.M. of England, Bro. the Right Hon. the Earl of Zetland, K.T.," the G. MASTER spoke in terms of the highest eulogy. The Earl of Zetland had been their Grand Master for twenty-five years. It was true that their brethren in Ireland had in his Grace the Duke of Leinster a Grand Master who had most ably presided over them for fifty years. But the Earl of Zetland came next in length of services, and he did not say one word exceeding the praise he deserved when he said that he had never seen a Grand Master who came up to him. (Loud applause).

Bro. METHAM, D.P.G.M., proposed as the next toast "The R.W. the Provincial Grand Master of Devon, Bro. the Rev. John Huyshe, M.A., P.G. Chaplain of England." The toast was received with an outburst of enthusiasm. Everything, Bro. Metham remarked, that the G. Master had said of the Earl of Zetland might be applied to himself. He trusted that he might be long spared to preside over them, and that during their lives there might be no occasion for any one to succeed him. Of his many good qualities he would say not a word, for they all knew them as well as he did. (Prolonged cheers).

Air—"Auld lang syne."

The G. MASTER, in acknowledging the compliment which had been so warmly accorded to him, expressed the gratification he felt at the song which had followed it; and in reference to the sentiment of that song, remarked that fifty years had now nearly passed since he first put on the Masonic apron. It was a long time to look back, and he could not but feel that that very beautiful song touched a warm responsive chord in his heart. No doubt "auld acquaintance" should not be forgot. He applied this sentiment to his desire not to forget his obligations to his brethren, and what was due to each and all of them; which he always endeavoured as much as possible to remember. (Cheers). He next adverted to the desirability that care should be taken as to whom they admitted into the Craft, for it should never be forgotten that the moment a man passed the door of a lodge with his apron on, they were bound to protect him as a brother, and to receive him as a brother. They should take care, therefore, that they did not admit into any of their lodges a man who had been rejected elsewhere. (Hear, hear.)

A number of other toasts were proposed and speeches made, and after a very pleasant day, the toast list having been got through, the company separated about half past six o'clock.

BREAKFAST.—EPPS'S COCOA.—Grateful and Comforting.—The very agreeable character of this preparation has rendered it a general favourite. The Civil Service Gazette remarks:—"The singular success which Mr. Epps attained by his homœopathic preparation of cocoa has never been surpassed by any experimentalist. By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills." Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold by the Trade only in $\frac{1}{2}$ lb., $\frac{1}{4}$ lb., and 1 lb. tin-lined packets, labelled—JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœopathic Chemists, London.—ADVT.

Agents.

AMERICA: Bro. J. FLETCHER BRENNAN, 114, Main-street, Cincinnati, Ohio.
CANADA: Messrs. DEVERE & SON, Ottawa.
CEYLON: Messrs. W. L. SKEENE & Co., Colombo.
CONSTANTINOPLE: Bro. J. L. HANLY, Levant Times.
EAST INDIES:

Allahabad: Messrs. WYMAN BROS.
Byculla: Bro. GEO. BEASE.
Central Provinces: Bro. F. J. JORDAN.
Kurrachee: Bro. G. C. BRAYSON.
Madras: Mr. CALES FOSTER.
Mhow: Bro. COWASJEE NUSSEKWANJEE.
Poona: Bro. W. WELLIS.

GALATA: IPAIOK KAHN, Perchembè-Bajar.
PARIS: M. DROCHEVAUX-DUMESNIL, Rue de Harlay-du-Palais, 20, near the Pont Neuf; Editor Le Franc-Macon.

And all Booksellers and Newsagents in Great Britain and Ireland.

Births, Marriages, and Deaths.

BIRTHS.

BEARD.—On the 15th August, at Wilton House, Highbury New Park, the wife of Thomas Beard, Esq., (P.M. 101), of a daughter.

HUNTER.—August 18th, at 5, Marine-terrace, Margate, the wife of Bro. W. F. Hunter, J.W. Union Lodge, No. 127, of a son.

RIDGWAY.—On the 14th August, at Sheplegh Blackawton, South Devon, the wife of Captain Alexander Ridgway, of a son.

MARRIAGE.

ALLENDER—ALLENDER.—On the 18th August, at All Saints, Childwall, Lancashire, by the Rev. Aug. Campbell, M.A., Rector of Liverpool, William Henry, second son of Geo. Allender, Esq., of Kensington Park Gardens, to Mary Frances, only child of William Allender, Esq., of Canning-street, Liverpool.

DEATH.

CLOSE.—On the 15th August, at Drumbanagher, County Armagh, Edith, the beloved daughter of Maxwell Charles Close, Esq., P.G.W. of England, and Grand Secretary of Ireland.

WILLIAMSON.—On the 14th August, at Saltburn-by-the-Sea, aged 59 years, Robert H. Williamson, Esq., late Madras Civil Service, youngest brother of the late Sir Hedworth Williamson, Bart., and brother-in-law of the Right Hon. the Earl of Zetland, K.T.

Answers to Correspondents.

R.A.M. asks "Is it usual in London lodges, after being closed for the summer months, to charge the brethren with the subscriptions for the month the lodge has been closed?" —[Yes; as a rule the subscription to London lodges is payable half-yearly, e.g., April and October, and is chargeable during the summer recess. In a few lodges there is a small monthly subscription, and the members pay for refreshments when they attend, but the almost universal custom is a semi-annual payment of dues to cover all the expenses of the lodge.—Ed. F.]

VIATOR.—We will insert your letter next week.

HOMO AND A WOOLWICH MASON will see that the subject is fully ventilated in our present issue.

The Freemason,

SATURDAY, AUGUST 21, 1869.

THE FREEMASON is published on Saturday Mornings in time for the early trains.
The price of THE FREEMASON is Twopence per week; quarterly subscription (including postage) 3s. 3d.
Annual Subscription, 12s. Subscriptions payable in advance.
All communications, letters, &c., to be addressed to the Editor, 3 & 4, Little Britain, E.C.
The Editor will pay careful attention to all MSS. entrusted to him, but cannot undertake to return them unless accompanied by postage stamps.

A STAR IN THE EAST, OR THE NEW MASONIC PROPHET.

"TOLL for the brave, the brave that are no more." Sound a solemn dirge for departed greatness, a "De Profundis" for the old Masonic worthies. Take down your busts of Preston, and turn your portraits of the two Peters—Gilkes and Thomson—to the wall; blot out of your remembrance the fifteen sections, and prepare to receive the true light, for a star has arisen, and a new revelation looms in shadowy splendour over the mystic future of Freemasonry. Hide all your diminished heads, ye would be Teachers of the Craft. Let the "Emulation Lodge of Improvement" cease to work, and the "Stability" dissolve like the baseless fabric of a vision, for their occupation's gone, and their pedestals may now be sent to Wardour-street for the benefit of the dealers in old curiosities. Even as a taper is snuffed out at the advent of day, so must those ancient luminaries vanish before the dawn of our resplendent "New Light." Uniformity of ritual is achieved at last; the dream of earnest brethren is accomplished, only the process looks very much like Aaron's Serpent swallowing the sinuities produced by the Egyptian magicians; or the lean, ill-favored kine eating up the goodly beasts. However, let us be thankful for the refreshing waters of instruction, even if the sieve through which they percolate be somewhat unsavoury and unclean. For the sake of uniformity we must endure something, and as humble disciples of our self-elected Master, it is our duty to take the good which he is pleased to provide for us. But let us hasten to recount the particulars of this great event, which probably is as yet unknown to some few members of the Craft Universal. Know ye, therefore, all men, and particularly Master Masons, by these presents, without the use of Latin quotations, or other recondite phrases, that for many years past certain verbal variations have existed in the Masonic Ceremonial, as rendered by different expounders, and that of late a desire has arisen to effect a more uniform system of working.

This great idea fired the mind of an embryo Solon, an Attic philosopher of this wondrous metropolis, who for some time brooded over it in silence, till the happy thought struck him that by a slight sacrifice of truth, a small investment of £ s. d., and a considerable stock of assurance he might play the Mentor to that modern Telemachus, that poor forlorn atom of humanity, the "Free and Accepted Mason of England."

With the utmost magnanimity he determined to forsake his exalted abode; yea, even from his urban altitude he resolved to descend into the nether world, and scatter abroad his Attic salt and the wealth of his Masonic knowledge. Admirable resolution! inimitable zeal! while others talked, our "friend, philosopher and guide" acted; while others indited vain speculations, our Mentor girded up his loins and took his railway ticket. And here we must draw attention to the fact that the star of his genius declined to honour London with the first rays of its surpassing light, but like one of Chaucer's pilgrims wended its brilliant way towards Canterbury, only it didn't quite reach that ecclesiastical city, but rested on the road at the unromantic town of Woolwich.

Having arrived at the end of his pilgrimage, our philosopher sought the chosen arena for the display of his wisdom. Full of the grandeur of his mission, and big with the magnitude of his design, he entered the lodge-room, and, like Cæsar, was able to exclaim, "I came! I saw!! I conquered!!!" Like Robinson Crusoe, he could calmly look around—monarch of all he surveyed. The Worshipful Master collapsed before him; the Wardens were struck dumb in his presence; the brethren generally subsided into their side-springs and Wellingtons; and the Tyler shrank aghast from the terrors that sat on the great man's magisterial brow. He assumed the chair—we believe that phrase will best convey the portentous fact—and amid breathless silence it was announced that Bro. P.M. Atticus would promulgate the "new working as approved by the Board of General Purposes." Here, we confess, there was a trifling deviation from veracity; but Homer sometimes nods, and great men have their faults. Extenuating circumstances can doubtless be pleaded for this momentary forgetfulness. Truth, we know is an amphibious animal, and it is sometimes a pity to disturb her from her cozy quarters at the bottom of the traditionary well.

However, the preliminary formalities having been happily surmounted, Brother Atticus, in the plenitude of his power, proceeds to expound the mysteries of the Third Degree. Unfortunately in his progress he knocks down some foolish antiquated obstructions known to Masonic archæological students as "landmarks." Murmurs thereat arise, even among the crest-fallen audience; said murmurs are sternly silenced by the Oracle with the unanswerable dogmatism, "This is the approved working;" the dumb-founded audience again collapse, and the new illustrations of Masonry are concluded, whereupon the loosened tongues of the brethren, so long restrained, begin to comment freely and not altogether complimentarily, on the working sanctioned by the "Board of General Purposes." Sir Oracle, finding the atmosphere of the lodge-room becoming rather warm, beats a precipitate retreat, not, we are glad to say, assisted in his progress by an external application of the before-mentioned side-springs and Wellingtons.

Such is the ludicrous side of a transaction which has actually taken place in a lodge situate within the London district; such is the manner in which truth—one of our grand principles—is set at naught, and the authority of our governing Board contemned within a radius of ten miles from Freemasons' Hall. And all this buffoonery, incredible as it may appear, has been enacted by a brother whose insignificance will be urged as his best safeguard and shield from condign punishment.

In the first place, we have the false statement that an orthodox ritual had been approved by the Board of General Purposes; and, secondly, that this obscure brother was commissioned to promulgate it to the lodges. One of our correspondents, in referring to this subject, which is exciting a lively interest, states that the W.M. has been "brought up" for allowing the pseudo-ritual to be propounded in his lodge; but is there no law to reach the individual by whom he was led into so deplorable an error? It is a farce to impeach the scholar, and not the pedagogue; it is an absurdity to strike the foot, and leave untouched the head and front of this offence. If the real offender be suffered to escape unpunished, we may expect further manifestations of mingled folly and presumption, and further demonstrations of contempt for our constituted authorities.

For the honour of the Craft, however, it is gratifying to state that such displays have hitherto been rare, and we trust that by a just but vigorous exercise of his power in the present instance, our Most Worshipful Grand Master will for the future render them absolutely impossible.

LODGE OF BENEVOLENCE.

The monthly meeting was held at Freemasons' Hall, on the 19th inst., under the presidency of W. Bro. J. M. Clabon, P.G.D., W.M.; J. Smith, P.G. Purst., S.W.; W. Ough, G. Purst., J.W.; and there were also present Bros. J. Udall, P.G.D.; H. Grissell, P.G.D.; H. Browse, P.G.D.; J. Nuun, G.S.B.; J. Brett, A.G. Purst.; Raynham W. Stewart, H. W. Hemsworth, H. G. Buss (acting as G. Secretary), R. W. Little, A. A. Pendlebury, W. Edersheim, S. Rosenthal, F. W. Shields, J. G. Thompson, and others. A meeting of the Board of Masters was first held, after which nine petitioners were relieved, to the extent of £135, and five cases were deferred.

THE RED CROSS OF ROME AND CONSTANTINE.

St. Andrew's Conclave, No. 15.

The charter of this conclave having been transferred from Edinburgh to London, an assembly was held at the Freemasons' Tavern, Great Queen-street, for the purpose of installing selected brethren as Knights of the Order and members of the Conclave. Sir Knt. R. Wentworth Little, G.R., occupied the chair of Constantine; Sir Knt. W. H. Hubbard, G.T., that of Eusebius, and Sir Knts. J. G. Marsh, G.A.; H. C. Levander, M.A., G.A.T. and M.P.S. 6, and the Rev. W. B. Church, M.A., J.G. 6, assisted as junior officers, no other knights being required as this was only a preliminary meeting.

The following distinguished brethren were then installed as knights and charter members of St. Andrew's Conclave, No. 15:—

Bro Raynham, W. Stewart, 18°, W.M. 12, P.M. 108, P.Z. K.T., &c., member of the Board of General Purposes; Bro. Robert Kenyon, Phoenix Lodge, No. 173, R.A., &c.; Bro. Frederick Binckes, 30°, W.M. 60, P.M. 10, 11, 1185, P.Z. 382, Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge of Mark Masters, P.E.C., &c.; Bro. Sigismund Rosenthal, 33° (of Italy), P.M. 235, P.Z. P.M.W.S. of Mount Calvary Rose + and K.T. Encampment; Captain Clifford F. Henry, 18°, London Lodge, No. 108; William Jones, London Lodge, No. 108; Joseph Charles Dawson, London Lodge, No. 108.

The Conclave was then closed, and the Knights adjourned to dinner, where they were joined by an illustrious member of the 32°, and the evening was spent in the interchange of fraternal sentiments, under the chairmanship of Sir Kt. Raynham Stewart, who is to be the Sovereign of the Conclave.

We have no hesitation in saying that the St. Andrew's Conclave will have a brilliant career under the auspices of Bro. Stewart and the eminent brethren he has chosen to assist him, one of whom is related to the M.W.G.M. of Ireland, and we are informed an honorable member of Her Majesty's Government will be one of the first brethren installed after the formal dedication ceremony. The documents recently discovered in the archives of the Grand Lodge of England as to the antiquity of the Red + Order, and which by the Earl of Zetland's kind permission have been handed over to Lord Kenlis, bear such overwhelming evidence in favour of this chivalric degree, that the most sceptical are now convinced of its truth and importance.

ANNUAL FESTIVAL OF THE NEW CONCORD LODGE, No. 813.

This esteemed lodge held its summer Festival at the Crystal Palace, on the 12th inst., under the presidency of Bro. J. Hart, W.M., assisted by Bro. T. Bartlett, S.W., and T. Atkins, J.W. There was a large number of brethren amongst whom were J. Bertram, P.M.; Nightingale, P.M.; R. J. Boyce, P.M.; J. Salisbury, S.D.; Blythe, J.D.; Absell, I.G.; J. McDavitt, Org.; W. H. Main, P.M., and Sec.; Willson, P.M.; Spratt, Vaughan, Lloyd, Massey, W.M. (619); Gabb, Montford, T. Beard, P.M. (101); Vocani, Dearsley, P.M. (3); A. McNamara, (3); Davis, Burridge, Merrit, Captain Taylor, (172); Sinclair Walker, Maggs, Schweitzer, Keymer, Revel, Stone, Rev. D. Shaboe, J. Emmens, P.G.P., and P.M.; Hubbard, Cobham, Walker, Hunt, Osborne, together with their ladies and non-masonic friends to the number of 100.

The banquet was served in the grand saloon, and comprised everything that could be desired; at its conclusion grace was said by the Rev. D. Shaboe, and the usual loyal toasts were duly honored.

"The Army, Navy, and Volunteers" was the next toast, to which CAPTAIN TAYLOR, responded.

Bro. JOHN EMMENS, P.M., Past Grand Purst, whose rising was the sign for hearty and long continued cheering, proposed the next toast "The Right Hon. the Earl of Zetland, M.W. Grand Master." No one had a greater respect for his Lordship than he had, and it was with a great deal of pleasure and true sincerity he asked them to drink in bumpers to his health and long life. If it had not been for the Earl of Zetland they would not have been assembled that day, nor would they have had such a joyful afternoon and evening as they had spent. The Earl was a most estimable man, and he repeated, it was with the greatest pleasure and sincerity he offered the toast to their notice. (The toast, it is almost needless to say, was received in a most enthusiastic manner.)

The PRESIDENT proposed the next toast, "The Right Hon. the Earl de Grey and Ripon, Deputy Grand Master, and the rest of the Grand Officers," which he said would include a most worthy and esteemed brother of the New Concord Lodge, (hear, hear), one who was its founder and first Master, and of whom they were one and all justly proud. (Cheers.) He believed they all loved Bro. John Emmens as a brother and a friend. (Loud cheering.) He hoped the Great Architect of the Universe would long spare him to be as he was, a bright and shining light in the firmament of Freemasonry. For the Earl de Grey—he believed the Grand Lodge could not boast of a better man or a truer Mason. He therefore trusted they would drink the toast with the same enthusiasm they had the previous one. (The toast was drunk with three times three.)

Bro. EMMENS, who was again loudly cheered, said: Brother President, Vice Presidents, Ladies and Gentlemen, I really do not deserve the flattering language in which the Master has been pleased to address me; however, I am very grateful to him for giving me the opportunity of replying to this toast, for no one can entertain a higher opinion of any one, than I do of the Earl de Grey and Ripon, and for the rest of the Grand Officers I could say a great deal in their favour. The Earl is one of those indefatigable Masons the Craft desire to see occupying high positions. He does all in his power for Freemasonry, and has by that means, earned the respect and esteem of all those who know him. On behalf of the Right Hon. the Earl de Grey and Ripon, Deputy Grand Master, and of the rest of the Grand Officers, I beg to tender you my heartfelt thanks for the handsome manner in which you have received this toast, and also to you, sir, for what you have said about us. (Cheers.)

The next toast was "The Visitors," which was responded to by Bro. BEARD.

Bro. JOHN EMMENS said he was quite sure they would all readily join with him and respond in a hearty manner to the toast it was his great pleasure to offer to their notice. He did not intend to detain them with any long speech, but the W. Master of the Lodge, Bro. Hart (hear, hear), had done everything to promote their happiness and comfort that day. It would be superfluous to dilate upon his excellencies because he was so well known to them. In proposing his health he also wished him long life and prosperity. (The toast was received with loud plaudits.)

Bro. HART said when he joined Freemasonry he found it a very different thing to what some people supposed it to be, it was not simply eating and drinking, it was a society, a fraternal society, founded upon holy principles. He thanked them most kindly and sincerely for the way in which they had received his name, and he assured them he should ever remember the time when he presided over them as Worshipful Master of the New Concord Lodge (cheers), and of meeting so many kind friends and brothers as he now saw around him.

The PRESIDENT next gave "The Officers of the Lodge," for whom Bro. BARTLETT responded.

The PRESIDENT proposed the health of one who had been most indefatigable in his exertions to please, and had been most kind and courteous at all times. He alluded to Bro. Main, P.M. and Secretary. (Hear, hear, and cheers.) He had often met Bro. Main, not only in Masonic Lodges but elsewhere, and he was always the same genial, good-hearted fellow; and he asked them to join with him in drinking to the health of Bro. Main, P.M. and Secretary. (From the cordial manner in which this toast was received, it was very evident Bro. Main was not only personally known to and respected by the members, but also by many of the ladies present.)

Bro. MAIN, P.M. and Secretary, returned his very best thanks for the cordial manner in which his name had been received, and more particularly did he tender his thanks to the W.M., for the way in which he had proposed his health. The lodge had been rightly named the Concord Lodge, for ever since its formation they had been in every sense of the word in concord with one another. It was only the second time the ladies had been present at their annual gatherings, and he trusted the arrangements had given satisfaction. (Hear, hear.)

"The Ladies," acknowledged by Bro. BEARD; and "The Press," were the concluding toasts.

The proceedings were an entire success, and great praise is due to the W.M. Bro. Hart and to Bros. Emmens and Main, P.M., for their exertions to enhance the pleasure of the evening.

Miss Rose Hersee, and several professional brethren entertained the company with their magnificent singing, after dinner, and the musical arrangements were, in a word, admirable, thanks to the directing skill of Bro. McDavitt, Organist of the lodge.

We regret much that the pressure on our space precludes us from inserting in extenso the very excellent but voluminous report which we have received.

Original Correspondence.

[The Editor is not responsible for the opinions expressed by Correspondents.]

UNIFORMITY OF RITUAL.—PAST MASTERS AS PRECEPTORS.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—It is now some three months since I addressed you on the above subject. I have been prevented by the "more pressing emergencies of my public and private avocations," from giving the propositions I then put forward the further attention I had intended. My last letter informed you of anticipated success in the endeavour to awaken the sympathies of brethren in more important stations than myself, and the hope that the proposed conference would not long be delayed. 'Tis true I then had promise of support from some influential brethren, but there appeared to be much difficulty in securing their attendance in London on any given day, and a few disheartening and almost condemnatory remarks from some other brethren, coupled with a domestic bereavement and business matters, induced me to let the matter sleep.

May I ask your readers interested in this subject to refer back to your pages and scan the correspondence which has already taken place. It will be found in Nos. 3, 5, 6, 7 and 9, and its perusal will prevent the necessity for recapitulation in this letter.

I have met with no member of the Craft who does not readily admit the truth of the propositions made in such correspondence, and cheerfully approve of the suggestions for remedying the evils complained of. But I have met some who declare their perfect conviction that no attempt at alteration will succeed; that there are in authority those who would most assuredly obstruct any movement which may disturb the present apathy, and would designate any such attempt an innovation; and who are surprised and sorry that such humble members of the Craft as myself and similar small fry should persist in the Quixotic endeavour; &c., &c., &c. In fact, the dose they gave me was enough to set a weasel asleep; I don't wonder it "set me off!"

From the time referred to up to the present, I have no knowledge of any possible progress in the direction to which your other correspondents and myself have pointed. But now we have before us "Sigma's" statement in your impression of the 7th instant, and this announces that a brother has been commissioned to promulgate a revised working and has gone to—Woolwich!—to commence his labours. Well, I am sure that none of us would object to the place of starting, so long as we could see that the subsequent course is to be over good ground, the running fair and open, and the goal to be reached the very point that we have aimed at. Nor is it of consequence who may be the "mount" to guide the good steed "Uniformity" to the winning-post, so long as he be properly chosen, in good training, and firm of nerve and purpose. But that we have yet to learn. "Delta's" letter in your impression of the 14th, seems to hint that some of your correspondents on the subject have cognisance of this appointment. For myself and others who have communicated with me, I disclaim such knowledge, and can only say that if the fact is as stated, an unworthy use has been made of our suggestions without the slightest reference to, or acknowledgment of them. After all, it may be only a diversion to cover a retreat from an obligation which, I think, is imposed on those who are "in authority over us." To ascertain this, let a counter-demonstration be made, and let the suggested conference be at once held. If this is agreeable to even but a small section of those who think our object good, and I receive but a dozen promises of attendance, a meeting shall be called within a few weeks to discuss future proceedings. If we find that the right thing has been done and promises to succeed, we need not disturb the arrangements made; if not, then the proposed memorial can do no harm, and in any event the agitation will not have been altogether useless.

Yours fraternally,

JAMES STEVENS,

P.M. and P.Z., S.W. No. 1216.

Clapham-common, August 16, 1869.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I echo the implied request of "Delta," that the name of the new Masonic teacher should be given, and his authority published, before we are asked to suspend our present working.

Country lodges will be put to some inconvenience if they cannot confer the degrees until the approved ritual is promulgated; and, in any case, I do not see the necessity for withholding from the Craft the information by whom the work has been revised, and whether it is an amalgamation of Bro. Muggeridge's system with that of the late Stephen Barton Wilson, or an entirely novel production of its supposed authors.

Yours fraternally,

A P.M. of 241, Liverpool.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—The writers of letters in your journal on the subject of a new ritual are quite misinformed; and any W.M. working the alleged new Ritual would be summoned before the Board of G.P., as one has already, for the same offence.

Pray contradict the absurd statement.

Yours fraternally,

H. W. HEMSWORTH.

17, Stratford-place, W.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—As one who has worked much amongst the brethren of country lodges, and especially in Ireland, I am very glad to find that the subject of "Uniformity in Working" has been broached by a contributor ("Sigma") to THE FREEMASON.

I do not think that anything could be proposed more for the benefit of the Order than "Uniformity in Working," so that every brother who is properly up in the working of his own lodge, would be able to assist, on an emergency, at any other lodge than that to which he belongs. I was a great advocate for it a length of time ago in Ireland, and endeavoured to carry it out, but did so only with partial success. I found it a most difficult task in those lodges that had been working for a length of time, as all the old members were naturally accustomed and wedded to the old form and ritual; and moreover, I found they would have to unlearn what they had before learnt, and take up the fresh Ritual, which very few of them would undertake. I found it very much easier to get the working properly done in a newly-formed lodge than in an old-established one, according to the system and working as carried on in the Dublin lodges, the working of which is simple, compared to the English working, but at the same time very good, keeping up all the landmarks, signs, words, &c., &c. I proposed that an Instructor should be appointed by the Grand Lodge to go to all the country lodges, and hold frequent Lodges of Instruction, but there was no one that would undertake such a task gratuitously, and the Grand Lodge did not consider that it was justified in going to so great an expense, and so the matter was dropped. However, "Uniformity in Working," under each or either constitution, would be a great point gained, but I do not think, except in far and remote districts, that there is any serious difference in the working, and as there are now so many Lodges of Instruction, there cannot be any difference of consequence. The greatest difference is, I conceive, under the constitution of Scotland, and it would be a very difficult task to make a satisfactory change, without great alteration in that system, and it would require a great deal of consideration and management to do it. If "Uniformity of Working" could be established at the head quarters of each constitution, it would soon extend itself to the country districts and the colonies.

Yours, fraternally,

FRANCIS BURDETT, P.G.W.,

Rep. from G.L. Ireland at G.L. England.

Ancaster House, Richmond.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I am informed that the proceedings at the Woolwich lodge respecting the new working were unauthorized.

It appears to have been a hoax of a very unusual and serious character.

Yours faithfully and fraternally,

SIGMA.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

SIR AND BROTHER,—Your correspondents "Sigma" and "Delta" appear to be mystified with reference to a supposed new working for the Craft.

No such revision as that alleged has been effected, and the simple facts appear to be, that a foolish brother went down to a lodge at Woolwich, announcing that he would give the working approved by the Board of General Purposes, and that his intention to do so was printed on the summons. It also appears that the brother alluded to did really present to the brethren present a garbled version of the third degree as the orthodox ritual, but when he had finished it was scouted by all who knew anything of the ceremony.

As the brother's conduct will doubtless form the subject of inquiry before the Board whose authority he illegally assumed, I need add no more.

Yours fraternally,

A PAST GRAND OFFICER.

INELIGIBILITY OF BASTARDS AS FREEMASONS.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—There appeared in your last issue a letter signed "Leo," to certain observations in which I wish to take exception. The subject matter under consideration is the propriety of admitting bastards into the Masonic Order, and your correspondent seems most anxious that they should be admitted. But in supporting his view of the case he says, "he trusts that Speculative Masonry is not going to take its light from the dark and dim rays of ancient Jewish or Mosaic times." Now, what construction are we to place on this sentence? Is it not patent that Freemasonry takes its cue from the Bible, and that its teachings and principles have their foundation in the Holy Scriptures known as the Old Testament? What would Freemasonry be without the Word of God? I am afraid your correspondent's acquaintance with the Scriptures is not very great; otherwise, he would not have contradicted himself by saying that "True Freemasonry takes its light from such doctrines and teachings as His who said, 'Love thy neighbour as thyself.'" Anyone who has read the Bible, knows that this beautiful sentence came to us from those "ancient Jewish and Mosaic times," of which your correspondent speaks so deprecatingly; indeed, the divine behest was first taught to the world by Moses himself.

Into the question of admission of bastards to the Masonic Order I shall not enter. They may or may not be considered the equals of others born in honest wedlock. However, there can be no doubt that the stringency of the Mosaic legislation with respect to illegitimate offspring was most salutary, and that it acted as a deterrent. Without such laws it is likely that immorality and vice would be in the ascendant, and the number of those who could claim the protection of one parent only would be larger than society would desire.

I trust, sir, that in future your correspondent will consider well before penning such groundless and painful observations as those I have touched upon, and that he will see that the religion of which he is an adherent has not an entire monopoly of Charity and Love; for the older religion from which it spring—Judaism—may lay claim fairly to just a lette.

By kindly inserting these lines you will oblige,

Dear Sir and Brother, yours fraternally,

A JEWISH FREEMASON.

THE MASONIC CHARITIES.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—As a good many brethren are patiently waiting a definite reply to "Quidnunc," in yours of May 1st, page 13, before subscribing further to the Boys' School, it would be to the interest of that Institution, and Brother Binckes as well, if such explanation were given immediately; otherwise it will have a damaging effect to the raising of the fund of £9000, in which amount, I am sorry to say, that Institution is still in debt. It is nothing but fair and right that the subscribers should be supplied with full details of every item of expense.

W. M. (and Steward of both Schools).

ORIGIN OF FREEMASONRY.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I was somewhat amused at reading Bro. Bowes' letter at page 68; his ideas as there expressed, seem to me to be equivalent to stating that he would rather not be disabused of his old infantine notions as to the reality of such heroes as Jack the Giant-Killer, Robinson Crusoe, or Sinbad the Sailor; of course, in that case, it would be a pity to disturb the "charm" which such a view of the matter "possesses not to me only, but to thousands of others"—in fact, it would be a real "work of supererogation" to attempt it. However, there are many people whose numbers may also be reckoned by "thousands," who when they became men threw away childish things, and therefore prefer knowledge. Such, therefore, will not be satisfied with believing in dreams, or inconsistent statements—however highly coloured they be—as to the origin or existence of Freemasonry. They desire truth and historic consistency.

I see nothing in Bro. Bowes' oft-quoted extract (could he not have by this time got something new?) to prove that Elias Ashmole received any such "degrees" as are now given and worked under the banner of Freemasonry, or Speculative Masonry. He was admitted, of course, as a member of the Masons' Society, but I have no doubt that hundreds of names of other gentlemen could be quoted, if the books of the other co-existing London sodalities were examined, in which we might read of gentlemen being made Free-Weavers, Free-Tailors, Free-Cordwainers, or Free-Goldsmiths, &c.

I am not astonished at the Masons' Society in the 17th century being patronised by gentlemen, for that was the era of Inigo Jones, Wren, &c. And after King James ascended the English throne, in 1603, he took an interest in architecture, and I would not be surprised, although a few astrological or symbolic ideas had been adopted by the 17th century Masons, or rather, perhaps, by the 17th century Architects; especially, as Mr. Ferguson says (Freemasons' Magazine, page 23). "A whole literature had sprung up dating from the visit of King James I. to Stonehenge in company with his architect, Inigo Jones," &c. Taking a hint from that statement, I might say a whole literature has sprung up since the institution of the Grand Lodge of England in 1717. However, the aforesaid gives no proof of the existence in the 17th century of any such institution as Freemasonry, with its grand ideas, doctrines, rituals, and ceremonies.

No! such things were still in the womb of futurity; a Freemasons' Lodge in 1646 was rather different from a Freemasons' Lodge in 1746.

I am, yours fraternally,
LEO.

MASONIC EXHORTATIONS.

FROM THE GERMAN.

IV. Duties towards Mankind in General.

But should the compass of thy country, which opens to thee such a fruitful and charming field, still be too confined for thy benevolent activity; should thy sensible heart wish to expand beyond the limits of empires, and to embrace all nations with tender feelings of humanity; shouldst thou, reflecting on the universal pedigree, long to love tenderly all those that are with thee of the same shape, in the same need of benevolence, that have, like thee, the same desire to make themselves useful, and an immortal soul; come then into our temples, and lay down thy offerings on the sacred altar of humanity.

The mother country of a Mason is the world; within the circle of his compass is contained everything that concerns mankind.

Reflect with reference on the majestic structure, in which the ties of humanity and morality, too much relaxed, are bound closer.

Love this universal alliance of virtuous souls, that were capable of elevating themselves above the dust.

Thou wilt find it in every country where enlightened reason has forced its way, existing under the sacred banner of humanity, and under the guide of simple and uniform laws.

Be sensible of the sublime object of our reverend Order; all thy faculties, thy whole life, be consecrated to benevolence and the happiness of mankind.

Cultivate incessantly thy moral perfection, and effect the closest union with the Deity.

Thus only thou canst ennoble, purify, and fortify, the motives of this laudable Institution.

POLITICAL MASONRY IN POLAND.

Major Lukasinski, of a noble family, was in the army since 1806 with great merit. He distinguished himself in several battles in 1813. He founded a patriotic society to which he gave the name of National Freemasonry. The true meaning of that society was the restoration of Poland. The emblems were the same as those of Freemasonry in general. He applied the principal ideas of Freemasonry to the re-edification of Solomon's Temple—that is, the regeneration of human kind to the restoration of Poland.

The death of the Master Architect was the emblem of the dismembering of the country. His three murderers represented three monarchies which had co-operated in the spoliation. The brothers of this Masonry represented those that were sent after the murderers. The faith of the resurrection of Hiram was the type of Poland coming out victoriously from her tomb. This Freemasonry was established in 1819. It was propagated so rapidly through all the country that Alexander of Russia, full of anxiety, gave orders to shut up all the Freemasons' lodges; but this only made their ties more sacred and more fervent, and their cable-tow longer and stronger. At the head of Masonry in the Dukedom of Posen was General Uminski, a man full of courage and great talents. His presence in Warsaw redoubled the ardour of all its members. A traitor gained admission into the Order, and gave the names of its leaders. Immediately, Major Lukasinski was arrested. He was tormented during two years with questions in relation to his brothers; but nothing could make him false to his obligations. He was sentenced to nine years of hard labour; his brothers (Masons) to six years. Their epaulettes were publicly torn away from them; they were chained, and sent to the fortress of Zamosc. It was ascertained that the Grand Duke Constantine, when he left Warsaw, had taken Lukasinski away with him covered with rags, chained to a gun, and dragging heavy irons at his feet.

Such was the destiny of a noble martyr to a sublime cause—a pure heart, and a faithful Mason to his obligations.—Bro. A. Cykoski.

LIFE.—The sign of the cross amongst the Egyptians signified life, and was the mark by which the Cabalists expressed the number ten, which was a perfect number, denoting heaven, and the Pythagorean Tetractys, or incommunicable name of God.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Old Sores, Wounds, Ulcers.—The readiness with which Holloway's unguent removes all obstructions of the circulation in the vessels and lymphatics, explains their irresistible influence in healing old sores, bad wounds, and indolent ulcers. To ensure the desired effect, the skin surrounding the diseased part should be fomented, dried, and immediately well rubbed with the Ointment. This will give purity to the foul blood, and give strength to the weakened nerves—the only conditions necessary for the cure of all those hideous ulcerations which render life almost intolerable. No sooner is the Ointment's protective power exerted than the destructive process ceases, and the construction business begins—new healthy growths appear, to fill up the lately painful excavated pit.—ADVT.

SUPREME COUNCIL, NEW YORK.

REPORT OF HLL. BRO. ALBERT G. GOODALL, GRAND REPRESENTATIVE, ON FOREIGN RELATIONS.

To the Supreme Council of Sov. Gr. Ins. Gen. of the 33rd and last degree Ancient Accepted Rite, for the Northern Masonic Jurisdiction, U.S.A.

(Continued from page 57.)

ITALY.

That interesting historical land which, for the past fifteen centuries has filled such varied positions in the family of European nations, and given to the world those gems of poetry, literature, art and science that are still the standard and the admiration of all countries; but Italy, with all its bright historical memories, has, like Spain and Portugal, had the black pall drawn heavily over its fair land, and its inhabitants made to drink deep of the bitter cup of persecution under its cruel and despotic pagan, Christian and political rulers, and has never been a fruitful field for the proper practice and development of Freemasonry. The bulls and anathemas so profusely hurled forth by the Popish powers against the Order in other countries was not likely to permit the Order to exist or prosper in the land of the Eternal city; and so the same cruel hatred and barbarous persecutions of the Inquisition were extended in full force, and inhuman cruelties against the Fraternity throughout Italy so long as priestly and despotic power could exercise such intolerant authority. But amidst all this dark period, when nations were crushed, light extinguished, and ignorance ruled, Masonry was introduced, and has maintained its existence under variable and alternate phases of success and suppression.

The first lodge appears to have been established at Florence, in 1733, by Lord Charles Sackville, with authority from England; and in 1736 numerous lodges were in existence, located in the principal cities of Northern Italy; but in 1737 came the first fatal mandate from the house of the Medicis, and the Order was strictly prohibited, and the persecutions from Rome began their pleasing work of torture and death. For a time a controversy ensued between the Holy See and some of the rulers that wished to favor the Order, but the hatred and power of Clement XII. predominated, and his well-known bull of 1738 soon had the effect of dimming the light and opposing the progress of Masonry, while Naples and Sicily appear to have been especially selected by the Inquisition for the full exercise of its torture and persecution, aided by the civil powers, against the Fraternity; and the punishment, sufferings, and misfortunes of the members are given by many authors on that subject.

NAPLES.

From about 1750 to 1765, several foreign lodges were established at Naples, with authority from France, Holland and England (the latter having a Provincial Gr. Lodge); but these bodies did not work in harmony, as national prejudices appear to have divided the Craft, and a Grand National Lodge was formed in 1762, and for a time flourished; but political intrigue and partizan feeling unfortunately again put the members in the power of their enemies and the persecution continued till Queen Caroline came to the rescue, and, by her influence, the Order was revived in 1776, and the National Grand Lodge resumed labor. New lodges were instituted, which continued with varied success, under the jealous and watchful priesthood and treacherous despotic government.

Under the French rule and power, Masonry was again revived, and another Grand Lodge was established at Naples on the 24th of June, 1809, and Murat, King of Naples, occupied the Grand Mastership; but the ceremonies were all in accord with French customs and ideas, and the native element participated to a very limited extent during that period. When the Napoleon dynasty fell, so did Masonry, as the persecutions were renewed and vigorously enforced by the ecclesiastical and civil powers.

Soon after this period the secret organization of the "Carbonari," or Colliers, was organized, and although totally distinct in all features from Freemasonry, and exclusively a political union for freeing their country from despotic power, Popish and foreign yoke, yet Masonry had to suffer by its enemies making it appear that its principles were the same, which time had proved to be contrary, and nobly vindicated the Masonic Society. During the Bourbon dynasty, the Order was strictly prohibited, and it is not known if any lodges retained their organization; if so, it was in the greatest secrecy. After the revolutionary success of Garibaldi and expulsion of the Bourbons, the Grand Lodge was revived at Naples. Since then there has been a rather comical and decidedly irregular mixed combination of authority; but at present the Grand Body at Naples is known as the "Grand Lodge Sebezia," and has many symbolic lodges under its jurisdiction.

PALERMO.

The island of Sicily has long been noted for the workings of the Craft, and documents, lately brought forth from their long hidden recesses, show that lodges were established at Palermo, Messina and Girgenti, in 1730, by the foreign merchants and traders to these ports. According to one account, only the first and second degrees were given, the third being added many years later, and the authority under which they worked went from England and Scotland. The fate and persecutions of the Fraternity were the same as those at Naples; and there are many now living who give most interesting and thrilling accounts of the manner, and with what secrecy they were initiated in the caves and isolated places in the vicinity of the cities; and many a sad history is given of those who suffered torture and death. But here, as in all other places where Masonry had taken root, the severest acts of the Inquisition and civil powers failed to crush out the existence of the Order; and during the French occupation of Southern Italy, new lodges were established with authority from England, France and the United States, there being an extensive trade with the latter. During the dark political rule of the Bourbon dynasty, when freedom was crushed and tyranny governed, Masonry had to close its portals, conceal the jewels, and, in many instances, destroy the furniture to escape their watchful and merciless persecutors. This state of things continued till the successful revolution under Garibaldi at Palermo, in 1860, again struck off the shackles of despotism and gave freedom to the nation. Masonry immediately revived, and the lodges gradually resumed their labors.

In 1861, three Italians while visiting New Orleans, claim to have received the 33rd degree from an irregular and spurious Supreme Council of the Ancient and Accepted Rite in that city; the names of the parties given are Giuseppe Tortorici, Nicola Collura and Giuseppe Juglusmini. One or all of these parties returned to Sicily, in 1861, and under the professed impression that they possessed lawful Masonic and dogmatic powers, proceeded to form and constitute a Supreme Council and Grand Orient Ancient Accepted Rite for Italy, at Palermo, and claim to have incorporated under its authority all the lodges upon the Island of Sicily, and many in Naples and other parts of Southern Italy. In 1862, Gen. Giuseppe Garibaldi was elected Grand Master and Sov. Grand Commander, and duly installed as such at Palermo.

In May last the Supreme Council and the Central Grand Lodge held an extraordinary session at Palermo, relating to a general improvement in their organization for the better government and interest of the Order in that Jurisdiction. Printed, certified copies of these proceedings I enclose herewith; some important decrees and interesting items appear therein, such as the establishment of Sunday Schools in or under direction of the lodges, the system of reforms and progress of the Order, a communication to Garibaldi to learn exactly what are his intentions concerning their Grand Body, and as an illustration of the amount of business being done give the item of £15,837, or about 79,000 dols., received for initiations only. They claim to have under their Jurisdiction at this date, about one hundred lodges, twelve chapters Rose Croix, and one Consistory; as yet they have not been recognised by any foreign Grand Body, having only applied for the same to the Supreme Council of England, &c., who very properly refused their request in consequence of the spurious source from which the Palermo Body emanated. They now ask through their representative in London, that our Supreme Council will take into consideration their condition of having innocently accepted authority from parties they did not know were spurious, and ask that they may be legalized, or have a new and regular power granted that will admit them to the grand universal family of brotherhood throughout the world. From their candid admissions, regular adherence to the laws and usages of the Order, extent of numbers, and earnest desire to act upon the square, in conformity with our ancient laws, I must cheerfully recommend their petition to your favorable consideration. A copy of the diploma given to Giuseppe Tortorici, by the Supreme Body, dated at New Orleans, March 28th, 1861, and signed by James Foulhouz, is enclosed herewith.

TURIN.

is the next claimant for a Grand Body, and presents as diversified a history as the other sections of the country, with a repetition of the early persecution and sufferings of its members.

In 1848, Ill. Bro. Ferdinando Ghersi, 33°, claims the honor of having regularly constituted a Supreme Council and Grand Orient, Ancient Accepted Rite, Valley of the Po, at Turin, for all Italy, he being at that time the oldest Mason in that country, but it appears that this right of authority was contested by a Grand Body at Palermo. During this period Lombardy was favored with a more liberal government, while Central and Southern Italy was under the despotic rule of Church and State, and Masonry continued its organization undisturbed in Turin, and so long as that city was the capital of the kingdom, everything appeared to progress in harmony. In 1863, difficulties and dissensions occurred relative to changing the location of the Grand Body to Florence, and a separation occurred; the interested political parties withdrawing from the regular Body, for the purpose of establishing the new Grand Orient at the capital. The Supreme Council was immediately reorganized declining to change its Orient, and has continued its regular authority to the present date. The Grand Lodge, Pietro Micca, is the rather singular title of the governing Body for the Symbolic Lodges under jurisdiction of the Supreme Council. The official communication and protest from this Supreme Body, relative to the irregular proceedings of the new body at Florence, deserve special attention. As yet I have not been able to ascertain the number of lodges and chapters working under this Turin Grand Body.

(To be continued.)

FREEMASONRY IN IRELAND.

The following is an extract from the first Book of Constitutions ever printed in Ireland, bearing date 1730:—

"Nor must we forget the famous kingdom of Ireland, which, according to Cambrensis, was inhabited before the flood. But be that how it will, of this we are certain, that about three hundred years after the flood, and one hundred and forty-six after the confusion of Babel, (An Mundi, 1956, Ante Ch., 2048) Bartholan, son of Sera, of the offspring of Japhet, came and planted a colony here; and afterwards Nemethus, a Scythian, with his four sons, came and planted colonies in this island, but in short time was expelled by the inhabitants aforesaid; and about two hundred years after his expulsion, the five sons of Dela, from Greece, of the posterity of Nemethus, brought new colonies into Ireland, and having subdued it, divided the kingdom amongst them.

"About three hundred and seventy years before the birth of Christ, the four sons of Milesius, the Spaniard, with a fleet of sixty sail, came to Ireland, subdued the kingdom, settled themselves in several parts of it, planted colonies and erected lodges.

"And in short time after many famous schools of learning were erected in Ireland, to which the Britons, Saxons and Gauls, resorted for learning. See Bede's Eccl. Hist., Lib. 3, 27; Alcunius, Lib. 7, 4, &c.

"When Christianity reached this Island, (Anno Dom. 432) Masonry began to be much in request; for when St. Patrick was sent to Ireland, he converted the natives to the Christian faith, and founded the Cathedral of St. Patrick, at Ardmagh, which was rebuilt by Patrick Scanlain, Archbishop of Ardmagh, Anno Dom. 1262, and the Priory of St. Dabec, or Avog, in Lough Derg, was founded by St. Patrick and St. Dabec, nigh the famous cave commonly called St. Patrick's Purgatory.

"The ancient and principal Seat-Royal of the kingdom, for a long time, was Parah, in the county of Meath, where their solemn Feasts and Royal Assemblies were held at certain seasons; and there (Anno Dom. 455) King Lagarius kept their royal seat. Small remains of that ancient and noble building is to be seen at this day.

"The church of St. Mac Nisius, in Connor, was founded by Engus Mac Nisius, about A.D. 490, and St. Patrick's Cathedral, in Down, was founded by St. Cailan, Anno 500.

"The abbey of St. Coman, in Roscommon, was founded by Coman; and the Cathedral of St. Finian, in Clonard, was founded about the same time (Anno Dom. 550) by St. Finian, a man eminent for piety and learning.

"The present church of the Blessed Trinity, commonly called Christ's Church, in Dublin, was built by Sitricus, a Dane, and Donatus, Archbishop of Dublin, Anno 1038.

"Roderick O'Connor, King of Connaught, was an excellent Mason; who, among his other works, built (Anno Dom. 1161) a stately Stone Castle, at Tuam, which was called by the Irish the Wonderful Castle.

"The priory of St. John the Baptist, at Kilmaham, was founded by Richard Strongboro' Earl of Pembroke, Anno Dom. 1174; and the Cathedral of St. Bar, or Finbar, was built by St. Bar, at the same time.

"John De Courcy, Earl of Kingsail, was an excellent architect; he built the present St. Patrick's Cathedral, in Down, and the Priory of St. John the Baptist, St. Mary's Abbey of Innis, and the Priory of Neddum, with many others, Anno Dom. 1183; and the Priory of St. John the Baptist, without Newgate, in Dublin, was built by Alured C. Palmer, a Dane, Anno Dom. 1188.

"The present St. Patrick's Cathedral, in Dublin, was built by John Comin, Archbishop of Dublin, Anno Dom. 1190. The Priory of St. John, in Kilkenny, by William Marescall, Earl of Pembroke, Anno Dom. 1211; and Felix O'Ruaden, Archbishop of Tuam, rebuilt St. Mary's Abbey, in Dublin, Anno Dom. 1230, and covered it with lead. It was first founded by the Danes, in Anno 984.

"Nor must we forbear to mention Hugh de Lacy, Earl of Ulster, who was likewise an excellent Mason. He founded Carrickfergus, built a friary in Down, Anno Dom. 1232; the famous Castle of Trim, the Priory of St John the Baptist, in the territory of Ards, and also several other abbeys and castles, which would be too tedious here to mention. Let the curious but examine the histories and antiquities of Ireland, and they will find it able to vie with most kingdoms in ancient abbeys and venerable Gothic buildings, according to the architecture of the times wherein they were built. And now in this present age there are many curious buildings erected, and many now erecting throughout the kingdom, after the manner of the Augustan style; and the city of Dublin is supposed to have as curious and stately buildings, both public and private, as any one city in the world.

"As a catalogue of those curious and stately buildings would be too tedious here to insert, so it would be a crime not to mention the two famous Master Masons and curious Architects, in whom centers all that was truly ingenious in Vitruvius, Palladio, Inigo Jones, Sir Christopher Wren, &c., viz: Thos. Burgh, Esq., Engineer and Surveyor-General of His Majesty's Fortifications and Buildings, in Ireland; and Capt. Edward Lovet Pearce, the contriver and projector of that strong, well contrived, noble pile, the Parliament Hall, whose first stone was laid at the south side on February the 3rd, 1728-9, by the Lords Justices, together with several of the nobility and members of Parliament, attended by the yeomen of the Guard, a detachment of dragoons, and another of foot. In the body of which stone were laid two silver medals, with the effigies of their present majesties, King George and Queen Caroline, and over the medals was laid a plate of copper, on which is engraved the following inscription:—

"Serenissimus et Potentissimus Rex
Georgius Secundus,
Per Excellent Domium
Johannem Dominum Carteret Baron de Hawnes
Locum tenentem
Et per Excellent. Dominum
Hugonem Archiepm. Armachan.
Thomam Wyndham Cancell.
Guiliel. Conolly Dom. Com. Protocol.
Justiciarios Generales
Primum hujusce Domus Parliamenti, Lapidem
Posuit
Tertio Die, Februar. Anna Dom.
MDCCLXXVIII,

"And their excellencies, the Lords Justices, were pleased to leave on the stone a purse with twenty-one guineas, which the aforesaid Capt. Pearce, the architect, distributed among the Craftsmen, to drink towards the healths of their majesties, the Prince of Wales and the rest of the Royal Family.

"And now under, his present majesty, King George II., (a Mason king, whom God preserve) while arts and science flourish, while noblemen, gentlemen, clergymen and learned scholars of most professions and denominations have frankly joined to take the charges and to wear the badges of Free and Accepted Masons, let all Freemasons so behave themselves as to be accepted of God, the Grand Architect of the Universe, and continue to be, as they have ever been, the wonder of the world; and let the cement of the brotherhood be so well preserved, that the whole body may remain as a well built arch."

We are informed that Herbert Horace Newman, son of the late Bro. W. J. Newman, Superintendent of the Exhibition Department at the Crystal Palace, is a candidate for admission into the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys. This is a case that deserves, and doubtless will obtain, strong support, as the deceased brother was highly esteemed and respected by the Craft, and no less than sixty brethren recommend the application, amongst whom we may mention Bro. Dr. Hogg, P.G.D., of 1, Bedford-square, and Bro. Emmens, P.G.P., 128, Wenlock-street, N., and Bro. W. H. Harper, Crystal Palace, by all of whom proxies will be received.

CEMENT.—The lodge is strongly cemented with love and friendship, and every brother is duly taught secrecy and prudence, morality and good fellowship.

THE BLOOD IN OLD AGE.—As age advances, the blood becomes thin and cloudy—or, in a full habit, thick and cloudy. The failing of the powers of life requires extra nutrition and support, and the blood yielding the excess required is soon overcharged with carbon, which gives to it the cloudy appearance. Being then impure, day by day the vitiated matter increases, and the body suffers from a thousand ailments. "The Blood Purifier"—Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla—supplies the extra nutrition to the blood, and restores to it its florid hue, and then the progress of decay is arrested, and the ailments disappear; man lives out his days, and the sunset of life is unattended with suffering. Testimonials with each bottle from the Hon. the Dean of Lismore, General Wm. Gilbert, of the Indian Army; the Rev. Francis Monck, of "The Gospel Evangelist." Ordered also by the Apothecaries' Hall, London. Sold by all Druggists, in bottles 2s. 6d., 4s., 4s. 6d. 7s. 6d., 11s. Pills and Ointment each in boxes 1s. 1d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d.—Caution—Get the red and blue wrappers, with the Old Doctor's head in the centre. No other genuine.

METROPOLITAN MASONIC MEETINGS

For the Week ending August 28, 1869.

Monday, August 23.

Lodge No. 902, "Burgoyne," Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street.
" 904, "De Grey and Ripon," George Hotel, Great Ilford.

Tuesday, August 24.

Lodge No. 186, "Industry," Freemasons' Hall.
" 1158, "Southern Star," Montpelier Tavern, Walworth.

Metropolitan Chapter of Instruction, George Hotel, Aldermanbury at 7; Comp. Brett, Preceptor.

Domestic Lodge of Instruction, Palmerston Tavern, Grosvenor-park, Camberwell, at 7.30.

Faith Lodge of Instruction, Metropolitan Railway, Victoria Station, at 8.

Wednesday, August 25.

Lodge No. 507, "United Pilgrims," Horns Tavern, Kennington.

" 754, "High Cross," White Hart Hotel, Tottenham.

" 898, "Temperance in the East," Private Assembly Rooms, 6, Newby-place, Poplar.

United Strength Lodge of Instruction, No. 228, Bull and Gate, Kentish Town-road.

Thursday, August 26.

General Committee Female School, Freemasons' Hall, at 4.
Chap. No. 657, "Canonbury," George Hotel, Aldermanbury.

Friday, August 27.

Chap. No. 749, "Belgrave," Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street.

Emulation Lodge of Improvement for M.M.'s, Freemasons' Hall, at 7.

Metropolitan Lodge of Instruction, George Hotel, Aldermanbury, at 7; Bro. Brett, Preceptor.

Belgrave Lodge of Instruction, Duke of Wellington Hotel, Spring-gardens, Charing-cross.

Saturday, August 28.

(Nil.)

Advertisements.

PROV. GRAND LODGE OF HERTFORD.

A M. M. APRON, in case, without name, was left in the carriage between Watford and Camden Town, and may be had at the Office of this Paper.

SHED or WORKSHOP WANTED, about 100 feet long, near the City.—State particulars, addressed to Office of this Paper.

BOARD and RESIDENCE for one or two Gentlemen, in a quiet private house, close to Hyde-park, omnibus and railway. Terms, from 42s. per week.—Address, W., 15, Gloucester-terrace, Hyde-park, W.

ESTABLISHED 1840.

BRO. W. H. WAGHORN Manufacturer of Regalia for all Societies. Masonic Aprons, Collars, Ribbons, Sashes, and every requisite for all degrees in Freemasonry always in Stock.

10, VINEGAR YARD, COVENT GARDEN, LONDON, W.C.

 BRO. R. FLETCHER, Masonic Stationer, Masonic Emblems, Arms, Crests, Monograms, Addresses, &c., beautifully stamped on note paper and envelopes in Gold, Silver or Colours. Lodge Stationery correctly and carefully prepared. Jewels copied and Signet Rings engraved with minute care. The patronage of the Craft respectfully solicited by Bro. R. FLETCHER, Masonic Stationer, 10, Winsley-street, Oxford-street, London, W., opposite the Pantheon.

BRO. H. T. LAMB,

MANUFACTURER OF MASONIC JEWELS,

ST. JOHN SQUARE,

CLERKENWELL.

LONDON.

ILLUSTRATED PRICE LIST POST FREE ON APPLICATION.

BRO. ADLARD'S REGISTERED JEWEL ATTACHER. Price 7s. 6d. Universally adopted. Maker of the Improved Fitting Lodge Collars and Masonic Clothing. 225, High Holborn, London, W.C.

MONOGRAM AND CIPHER DIES, of the most Artistic Designs, found in any two or three Initials, without charge for Dies, and 5 Quires of Superfine Note Paper with 100 Best Safety Envelopes, stamped in various Colours, for 5s., by Post 8d. extra; or half the quantity for 2s. 6d. Makes a very useful and pretty present. Relief Stamping in Colours done on the premises at 1s. per 100 from any die. Gold and Coloured Illuminating Impressions can be obtained from your own Monogram or other Dies. Arms, Crests, and Monogram Dies cut and designed. A. Unwin, Heraldic Stationer and Engraver, 25, Whitcomb Street, Leicester Square, W.C.

Card Plate and One Hundred Cards, 4s.

A RMS, CRESTS, and MONOGRAMS.—MASONIC EMBLEMS Engraved on Seals, Dies, &c. Official Stamps designed and Engraved.—Bro. D. G. BERRI Engraver to Her Majesty's Post Office, Stationery Office, &c., 88, High Holborn (opposite Chancery-lane), London, W.C.

GEORGE KENNING,

3 and 4,

Little Britain, London, E.C.

MASONIC DEPOT.

THE LARGEST STOCK in the WORLD of

Jewels,

Clothing,

Furniture,

Banners,

Books, &

Requisites

For all Degrees in Freemasonry.

3 and 4, Little Britain, London, E.C.

Price Lists on application.

NAVAL & MILITARY WAREHOUSE.

Laces,

Embroidery,

Swords,

Belts,

Chacos,

Buttons,

Epaulettes,

Sashes,

&c., &c.

3 and 4, Little Britain, London, E.C.

Price Lists on application.

GEORGE KENNING,

3 and 4,

Little Britain, London, E.C.

EDUCATION.—CROOM'S-HILL SCHOOL,
Blackheath, near London,
PRINCIPAL, Rev. T. GOODWIN, M.A., D.C.L., LL.D.
Parents in search of a School combining the conscientious care of a home and the thorough efficiency of education in its several departments, are requested to apply for a Prospectus to the Principal, who is ready to submit to applicants all information concerning the School, the testimony of parents in its favour, and an account of the uniformly distinguished position its pupils have achieved in commercial pursuits, in the Civil Service, the Medical, the Army and Navy, and the University Examinations.

THE EUROPEAN MAIL.

A Summary of Universal Intelligence and Exact Commercial Statistics from Mail to Mail, specially prepared for the Colonies and Trans-Oceanic World generally.

THE EUROPEAN MAIL IS THE LEADING TITLE OF EIGHT TOTALLY DISTINCT NEWSPAPERS, AS FOLLOW—

No. of issues annually	Destination.	When Issued.	Rate of Subscription per annum, including postage.
24	A. European Mail for the West Indies, Central America, Chili, Peru, &c.	2nd & 17th of the month	40s.
24	B. European Mail for South Africa, St. Helena, Ascension, &c.	10th & 24th	40s.
52	C. European Mail for North America, i.e., the United States, Canadian Dominion, British America, Cuba, Mexico, &c.	Every Saturday	52s.
26	D. European Mail for the Brazils and River Plate, Azores, &c.	9th, 19th, & 29th	54s.
30	E. European Mail for China, Japan, Ceylon, Penang, Singapore, Siam, Sumatra, Java, Borneo, and the Philippines	27th August 1869, & every fortnight after, by English Mail; and on Sept. 2nd, 1869, & every fourth Thursday by French Mail.	52s.
52	F. European Mail for India, Burmah, Egypt, &c.	Sept. 3rd '69, and every succeeding Friday.	39s.
13	G. European Mail for Australia and New Zealand	Every 4th Friday.	13s.
24	H. European Mail for the West Coast of Africa, Madeira, Teneriffe, &c.	3rd & 23rd of the month.	40s.

* Or with Manifest Supplement, 6ss.

N.B.—All Subscriptions payable in advance.

EACH Paper contains every item of intelligence, from Mail to Mail, specially affecting the country or colony for which it is published, with an exhaustive summary of home and continental politics, science, art, and social news, and a retrospect of commercial transactions in Great Britain and on the Continent.

Manufacturers and Merchants may command the greatest markets of the world for their products through the mediums of publicity afforded by the EUROPEAN MAIL. A demand may be created where none exists at present, or an existing demand may be sustained and increased against the most energetic competition.

The EUROPEAN MAIL gives such perfect mercantile information that it is the highest commercial authority in the vast and prosperous territories through which it circulates. It is therefore an imperative necessity to the merchant who orders goods in bulk, and to the wholesale and retail distributor; it is also the most complete newspaper despatched from England, and is eagerly sought by all classes; it thus, unlike merely commercial newspapers, reaches and leaves the great communities who are the actual consumers of all products, and who must be acted upon by advertisement to require a special article before the merchant will venture to order a consignment.

Scale of Charges for ADVERTISEMENTS each insertion per Paper as follows:—

FOR PAPERS C, F, & G ONLY.	FOR PAPERS A, B, D, E, & H ONLY
One Page ... 7 10 0	One Page ... 5 0 0
Two-thirds of a Page ... 5 9 6	Two-thirds of a Page ... 3 13 0
Half-Page ... 4 2 6	Half-Page ... 2 15 0
One-third of a Page ... 3 0 0	One-third of a Page ... 2 0 0
Quarter-Page ... 2 8 0	Quarter-Page ... 1 12 0
Eighth of a Page ... 1 7 0	Eighth of a Page ... 0 18 0
Below an Eighth of a Page.	Below an Eighth of a Page.
Per inch.	Per inch.
Across the Page ... 0 18 9	Across the Page ... 0 12 6
Two-thirds across the Page ... 0 12 9	Two-thirds across the Page ... 0 8 6
Half across the Page ... 0 9 9	Half across the Page ... 0 6 6
One-third across the Page ... 0 6 9	One-third across the Page ... 0 4 6
Page next matter, Rate and a Half.	Outside pages, Double Rate.

* * The above Scale of Charges is subject to a Discount of 10 per cent. for Advertisements appearing in the consecutive issues of a paper for 3 months; of 15 per cent. for 6 months; and 20 per cent. for 12 months.

When an Advertisement is ordered for insertion simultaneously in all the Papers, the lowest rate above is charged all through.

Post Office Orders to be made payable at the Cannon-street Post Office, London.

Remittances payable to William Vaughan.

The EUROPEAN MAIL may be ordered through the Local Agent, direct from the London Office, or through any Firm having representatives in England. In the last case, the usual system is to order the EUROPEAN MAIL to be forwarded until countermanded; the representative of the Firm in England being directed, under similar conditions, to make payment annually.

THE NEW MUSICAL PITCH.—
COLLARD MOUTRIE has just invented, perfected, and secured by Royal Letters Patent, an important improvement in the manufacture of Pianofortes, by which the Pitch is raised to the Philharmonic or lowered to that of the French normal diapason in an instant, at the option of the performer. This invention can be applied to any Pianforte. The Profession, Amateurs, Musical Critics, Musical Public, and the Trade are invited to witness its utility and effect, between the hours of Eleven and Four, at the Manufactory, 77, Southampton-row, Russell-square. Established 1849.

THE AMERICAN FREEMASON is Monthly, of sixteen double-column quarto pages of entirely original matter, and translations from the French Italian, and German Masonic papers and periodicals of the day. It is devoted to the discussion of the rights of Lodges and individual Freemasons, in contradistinction to the assumptions of Grand Lodges, and the un-Masonic doctrines and arrangements of "high degrees." Its motto is—Belief in the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man. Its price is Five Shillings a year—a sum so small that no Freemason, for pecuniary reasons, need be a non-subscriber to it.

Trans-Atlantic Subscribers to the AMERICAN FREEMASON will receive it Post-paid from the Office of Publication direct, at their respective Post-offices, upon payment of the subscription to

BRO. GEORGE KENNING,

3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, LONDON, E.C.

All Subscriptions begin with March 15th, 1869, and end with February, 1870.

The AMERICAN FREEMASON is not the organ of any Grand Lodge; but speaking the words of truth, manhood, and independence, advocates freedom for Masonry in America, and the rights of Freemasons in their Lodges—rights which, by our Grand Lodges, in their subservency to high degrees, have been invaded, until at present they are nearly obliterated.

Subscribers in the British Colonies will please address all Subscriptions and Correspondence to J. FLETCHER BRENNAN, Editor, 114, Main-street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

VELOCIPEDES & BICYCLES for either Sex.
Speed 30 miles per hour, hill-ascending, self-propelling and balancing, £100. Diagram, 6d.

Manufacturing Licences granted.

W. PIDDING, Esq., PATENTER, 31, Kings'-row, Walworth-road.

"Having drawn Mr. W. PIDDING'S Specification of Patent, I am able to certify that his improvements in Velocipedes (bicycles particularly) will render them self balancing, capable of ascending hilly ground, and that they would travel on a newly-made road without inconvenience to the rider, either in the way of jolting or in retarding of the great speed the improvements will secure. The travelling, in fact, would be as though on level ground.

(Signed) "J. G. WILSON, C.E.

"Belgrave-terrace, Peckham, S.E.; formerly of 18, Gt. George-street, Westminster."

"MR. W. PIDDING'S PATENT SELF-PROPELLING AND BALANCING VELOCIPEDES AND BICYCLES.—Having seen the diagrams and perused a specification of Mr. Pidding's patent, we hesitate not for an instant to say that that gentleman will accomplish all he professes to do by means of his invention."—Sporting Opinion.

New Edition, in post 8vo, with about 80 Woodcuts, price 12s. 6d.

A Co-operative Discount of Twenty per Cent. to Brothers.

FOR GOUT—Use OIL of HORSE CHEST-NUTS, which imparts a natural circulation. 2/9, 4/6, and 11/- per bottle.

FOR GOUT—Drink WILDUNGEN WATER, the only natural solvent for Stone and Gravel. 1/6 per bottle; 15/- per dozen.

FOR INDIGESTION—Take DANDELION, CAMOMILE and RHUBARB PILLS. 1/1½ per box; 2/9, 4/6, and 11/- per bottle.

FOR INDIGESTION—Take the PURE VEGETABLE CHARCOAL, prepared according to Mr. BIRD'S formula. 3/6 per bottle. The only internal disinfectant.

ANDERSON'S MEDICAL LABORATORY, 2, Lower Seymour-street, Portman-square; and 30, Duke-street, Manchester-square, London, W.

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.

Opiates, Narcotics, and Squills, are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary Diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.

SELECT TESTIMONIAL.

Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says:—"I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued Cough, Pain, and Irritation of the Chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."

This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold by all respectable Chemists and Patent Medicine Dealers, in bottles at 1s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each, and wholesale by JAS. M. CROSBY, Chemist, Scarborough.

* * Invalids should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be obtained gratis of any respectable Chemist.

TO THE NERVOUS & DEBILITATED EPILEPTIC SUFFERERS AND OTHERS.

HALL'S CHLORATE OF POTASSA, discovered, introduced, and extensively prescribed by the late eminent Dr. MARSHALL HALL, has proved an infallible remedy (by oxydizing the blood and supplying its saline constituents) for Indigestion, Debility, Coughs, Asthma, Consumption, Skin, Liver, Stomach, and Nervous Affections, more especially Epilepsy, Apoplexy, and Paralysis. The successful results of this new chemical preparation are beyond all precedent, and the extraordinary cures effected by the late discoverer, and by his successor (Dr. Sutton), in the above maladies are without a parallel in the annals of medicine; and it is confidently believed that in no case need the sufferer despair, for practical experience has demonstrated, and signal success warranted the assertion, that in 99 cases out of every 100 complete cures may be relied on.

Sold in Bottles at 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and Cases of £5 each, by

DR. SUTTON, M.D., 15, REGENT SQUARE, LONDON, W.C., and in BOLTON by PRIESTLEY, Chemist.

The following are a few Testimonials published by privilege.

Sir Charles Locock, Physician-Accoucher to Her Majesty, stated at a meeting of the Royal Medical and Chirurgical Society, that in sixteen cases of Epilepsy he had effected permanent cures by the use of Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa.

"September 6, 1856.—The Editor of the Bury Gazette returns thanks to Dr. Hall for the great benefit he has received from his Chlorate of Potassa treatment in a severe nervous disease."

Sir J. Ferguson, King's College Hospital, London, says—"I have repeatedly prescribed Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa and found it an agreeable and beneficial remedy."

Extract from the Lancet, April 1, 1857—"In conclusion, we are of opinion that Hall's Chlorate of Potassa is a far superior remedy to the ones in general use for Nervousness, Indigestion, and Liver Complaints, when judiciously prescribed."

Sir Benjamin Brodie says—"What Chloride of Lime is to the foul sewer, Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa is to the blood."

Professor Syme says—"The effects of Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa in obstinate cases of disease are as astonishing as perplexing."

Dr. Lankester, the eminent coroner, says—"Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa is calculated to entirely supersede iron, mercury, sarsaparilla, quinine, and cod liver oil."

Sir Philip Crampton says—"I believe there is no condition of the system that may not be benefited by Dr. Hall's Potassa."

Sir T. Lawrence says—"I have found Dr. Hall's Chlorate an excellent remedy in Skin Diseases. I presume it is by oxydization."

Sir T. Watson says—"I know that it is an invaluable remedy."

Sir Edward Brough, 9, Fitzwilliam-square, Dublin, certifies Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa has been of the greatest benefit to a member of his family.

The Earl of Clarendon certifies that Dr. Hall's Chlorate cured a case of indigestion of 15 years' duration.

Dr. HALL'S CHLORATE OF POTASSA may be procured by order through any Chemist. Ask for "Dr. HALL'S Chlorate," and do not be imposed on with the common article. It is sold in Bolton by Priestley, Chemist, 12, Deansgate; or it may be had direct from Dr. Hall's successor, Dr. JOHN SUTTON, M.D., 15, Regent square, London, W.C., who undertakes the positive cure of all chronic diseases before payment.

Dr. HALL'S Chlorate is sold in MANCHESTER by JEWELL, Market-street; in LIVERPOOL by PRIESTLEY, Lord-street.

N.B.—Dr. Sutton will shortly repeat his Lecture on this subject.—The Lecture sent for two stamps.

DR. LEA'S CELEBRATED MEDICINES.

"The efficacy of Lea's Medicines is proverbial."

Daily Telegraph.

"Lea's preparations are excellent."—Morning Star.

LEA'S BENGAL ATRABILIOUS PILLS.

Invaluable in all liver complaints, and as a Family Medicine (without Mercury). 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

LEA'S GOUT AND RHEUMATIC PILLS.

Will eradicate these disorders when every other remedy has failed, excellent also in Neuralgia, Lumbago, and Sciatica. 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

LEA'S CONSUMPTION SPECIFIC.

If persevered in, will seldom fail. 11s. and 22s.

LEA'S ASTHMATIC EMULSION.

Maintains its superiority for this complaint, Chronic, Cough, Bronchial affections, Colds, &c. 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

LEA'S WHOOPING-COUGH EMULSION.

A certain cure for this destructive complaint in a few days. 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

Prepared by G. LEA, M.D. Camberwell, Surrey.

LONDON AGENTS—BARCLAY, Farringdon-street; PAGE and TIBBS, 47, Blackfriars-road; and SUTTON, Bow Churchyard, * * Advice free.

CONSUMPTION IS CURABLE.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.—A Clergyman, whose son has been miraculously cured of deep consumption, desires in gratitude, and for the benefit of the afflicted, to send full particulars of the remedies used in his son's case, so that all may participate in this providential discovery. Sent to any address free of charge.—Address the Secretary, 48, George street, Portman-square, London.

CONSUMPTION OF THE LUNGS.

DR. RAIT has discovered a CERTAIN CURE for this fatal malady. Advice gratis. Address W. RAIT, M.D., Peckham, Surrey.

LAMPLOUGH'S PYRETIC SALINE

Is most invigorating, vitalizing, and refreshing. It gives instant relief in Headache, Sea or Bilious Sickness, and quickly cures the worst form of Eruptive or Skin Complaints. The various diseases arising from Constipation, the Liver, or Blood Impurities, Inoculation, the results of breathing air infected with Fever, Measles or Small Pox

ARE CURED AND PREVENTED BY ITS USE.

Sold by all Chemists, and the Maker, in Patent Glass Stoppered Bottles, at 2s. 6d., 4s. 6d., 11s., and 21s. each.

Notice my Trade Mark, and beware of spurious imitations.

H. LAMPLOUGH,

113, Holborn Hill, London, E.C.

TO ADVERTISERS.

THE Circulation of THE FREEMASON being now at the rate of nearly Half-a-Million per annum, it offers peculiar facilities to all who advertise.

It is well-known that the Fraternity of Freemasons is a large and constantly increasing body, mainly composed of the influential and educated classes of society; and as

The Freemason

is now the accepted organ of the Brotherhood in the United Kingdom, and also enjoys an extensive sale in the colonies and foreign parts, its advantages as an advertising medium can scarcely be overrated.

Only four pages can be allotted to advertisements.

For terms apply to

GEORGE KENNING,
3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, LONDON, E.C.

NOW READY, PRICE 4/6,

VOL. I. OF

The Freemason,

NEATLY BOUND, EXTRA CLOTH, WITH GILT EMBLEMATICAL LETTERING.

3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, LONDON,
AND ALL BOOKSELLERS.

HUMAN FINS, for Swimming, 12s. the set, BARNETT, patentee, Paris (complete specification). With these ready adopted fins the swimmer can with ease and rapidity perform long distances with security against cramps. Sold by HEMARDINQUER, agent, 5, Falcon-street, City; and all India-rubber Warehousemen, &c.

WILLIAM WINSOR, of 8, Miles's-lane, London-bridge, imports CIGARS of the very Finest Brands only, and manufactures Cigars from the Choicest Tobaccos. Wholesale and retail.

BR. JAMES STEVENS (25, 720, 1216, &c.), Auctioneer and Surveyor, House and Estate Agent, &c., Clapham Common.—Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duties. Agent to the Imperial Fire & Life Insurance Offices

SECOND EDITION.

8vo., Price 9s. 6d., Cloth.

DOCTORS' COMMONS, its Courts and Registries; with a Treatise on PROBATE COURT BUSINESS. By G. J. FOSTER, Clerk of the Papers of Her Majesty's Court of Probate.
London: Published by REEVES, SON & Co., Playhouse-yard, Blackfriars, E.C.

Just Published. Price Half a Guinea.

MONOGRAMS,
HISTORICAL AND PRACTICAL,
D. G. BERRI,
Engraver to Her Majesty's Post Office, Stationery Office, &c., &c.,
36, High Holborn, (opposite Chancery-lane,) LONDON, W.C.

JUST PUBLISHED.

THE GENERAL STATUTES of the Imperial, Ecclesiastical, and Military Order of the Red Cross of Rome and Constantine, and the Laws of the K.H.S.; with an Appendix and Engravings of the Jewels and Regalia, to which is added a Sketch of the History of the Red Cross Order.

Published under the authority of the Grand Council by R. WENTWORTH LITTLE, G. Recorder, and sold by G. KENNING, Little Britain, E.C.

12mo Cloth, Bound and Lettered, Price 1s. 6d.

MASONIC NOTE AND LETTER PAPER.

Sanctioned by The Most Worshipful

The Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of England

IT is impressed with the Masonic Die, and has also Masonic Emblems incorporated with its texture, as Water Marks, while being manufactured.

Sold, in Quarto and Octavo Packets of Five Quires, Wholesale and Retail, at the MASONIC DEPOT, 3 and 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, E.C.

Masonic Envelopes can also be obtained at the Depot.

WHY NOT VISIT THE

ROEBUCK GARDENS AND GROUNDS?
Over 22 acres. Scenery unequalled.
Noted favourite resort for Dinners, Teas, Masonic Banquets, School Treats, &c.

N.B.—The New Hall will dine over 500 persons. Ten minutes' walk from the Buckhurst-hill Railway Station; by road 10 miles.

Ordinary every Sunday at Two.

Unlike any other Plan known.
POSITIVE LIFE ASSURANCE is a new system, first introduced by the
MASONIC & GENERAL FIRE & LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY, Limited,
8, NEW BRIDGE STREET, BLACKFRIARS

It secures Insurers a Promissory Note (instead of the ordinary Policy) for each premium paid, which is payable "To Bearer," either during the life-time or at the death of the assured.

Full Particulars on application to

FREDERICK BIGG,
Manager and Actuary.

Agents wanted in London and the provinces.

COMPENSATION
IN CASE OF INJURY, AND
A FIXED SUM IN CASE OF DEATH
CAUSED BY
ACCIDENT OF ANY KIND,

May be Secured by a Policy of the Railway Passengers Assurance Company.

An annual payment of £3 to £6 5s. Insures £1000 at Death, and an allowance at the rate of £6 per week for Injury.

RAILWAY ACCIDENTS ALONE

MAY BE PROVIDED AGAINST BY

Insurance Tickets for Single or Double Journeys.

For particulars apply to the Clerks at the Railway Stations, to the Local Agents, or at the Offices,
64, CORNHILL, & 10, REGENT STREET, LONDON.

WILLIAM J. VIAN, Secretary.

MONEY.

LOANS ON PERSONAL SECURITY, WITH
LIFE ASSURANCE,
AT FIVE PER CENT. PER ANNUM.

THE

WEST OF ENGLAND FIRE & LIFE OFFICE
(Instituted 1808)

GRANTS LOANS FOR A LIMITED NUMBER OF YEARS ON THE ABOVE TERMS.

Chief Office—Exeter.

London—20, New Bridge Street.

MONEY.—LOANS Granted from £100 to £2,000 at 5 per cent., repayable over Three Years, on Personal Security and Life Policy effected with the WEST OF ENGLAND INSURANCE CO., (Established 1807.)

Apply to the Superintendent or Agents,

Bro. J. CROCKER, Gateshead-on-Tyne.

Agents Wanted.

SHIRTS,

2/6, 3/6, 4/6, 5/6, 6/6 upwards,
In all materials of Cotton and Wool.

CANN, JONES & CO.,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

Shirt Manufacturers, Tailors and Outfitters,

171, FENCHURCH STREET, E.C.

MANUFACTORY: 15 & 16, BLOMFIELD STREET, E.C.

"TRUTH MUST PREVAIL."

Common Sense.

Lamps, Baths, Cutlery, Brushes, Fenders & Fire Irons, Electroplate, & Nickel-Silver Goods.

R. D. PARR,

General House Furnishing Ironmonger,

42, BLACKMAN STREET, BOROUGH,

OFFERS nothing extraordinary, but REALLY good Articles at fair and reasonable prices. He does not keep an "Immense Stock" but SUFFICIENTLY LARGE for any person to select from. He does not sell "cheaper than every other house in the Trade," but quite as cheap as ANY.

A visit will, at all times, be very much appreciated.

For Cheap Watches, Clocks, Gold Chains, and Jewelry, go to

KIBBLE'S

22, GRACECHURCH STREET,

One Door from Lombard Street, and

51, LUDGATE HILL,

Opposite the Old Bailey.

Gold Watches £2 15s.

Silver ditto £1 5s.

Timepieces from 9s. 6d.

EVERY ARTICLE WARRANTED.

Plate, Watches, and Jewelry, bought or exchanged.

List of Prices Post free.

BRO. REEVES, SON & CO.,
Steam Printers, Engravers & Lithographers.
WHOLESALE STATIONERS,
AND ACCOUNT BOOK MANUFACTURERS,
Playhouse Yard, Blackfriars, London, E.C.
Next the "Times" Publishing Office.

Bro. WOLPERT,

PRINTER, STATIONER & ACCOUNT-BOOK MAKER,

7, St. Swithin's Lane, E.C.

Authorised Agent to receive Advertisements for THE FREEMASON, and all the London and Country Newspapers.

BRO. BENJAMIN COOK,

Carpenter, Builder, and House Decorator,
SALISBURY COURT,

FLEET STREET, E.C.

Estimates for General Repairs.

Bro. J. G. MARSH,

ARCHITECT AND SURVEYOR,

159, Fenchurch Street, E.C.;

AND
842, Old Kent Road, S.E.

Bro. H. R. PRICE,

ARCHITECT AND SURVEYOR,
IMPERIAL CHAMBERS,

No. 1, Market Place, corner of St. Mary's-gate,
MANCHESTER.

Bro. G. W. CHINNOCK,

Statuary and Cemetery Stone Mason,

93, FULHAM ROAD, S.W.

Misses E. & C. CHINNOCK,

Pianistes & Teachers of the Pianoforte

93, FULHAM ROAD, S.W.

By Appointment to the Queen.

Bookseller, Stationer, Newsagent, Printer, &c.

A MAGNIFICENT STOCK OF
MASONIC REQUIREMENTS

MAY BE SEEN AT

Bro. W. E. FRANKLIN'S,

42, MOSLEY ST., corner of St. NICHOLAS SQUARE
NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE,

Agent for "THE FREEMASON."

BRO. JAMES B. SLY,

PRACTICAL

Heraldic Engraver to the Trade,

Of Gold, Silver, and Ivory,

DRAUGHTSMAN & DIE-SINKER,
9, Rathbone Place, London, W.

Plates Engraved; Gilt Pierced Mounts made for Albums and Cigar Cases.

Designs made of Crests, Monograms, Ornaments, and Arms, and every description of Shooting Prizes, Presentation Plate, Watches, Watch Domes, Dressing Cases, Bag-sets, and Ivory Brushes, Engraved with care, delicacy, and despatch.

TO STATIONERS.

JAS. B. SLY having in his employ several Die-sinkers, and from his practical knowledge of the same is enabled to give immediate attention to the cutting of Dies that are emergent. Companies' Dies cut. Illuminating and Stamping in colours. Sample Sheets of Monograms and Addresses forwarded on application.

A STRINGENT TOOTH PASTE.—HENRY NEWMAN'S "Astringent Tooth Paste," in Pots 1s. 6d. and 2s. 6d., to be had of all respectable Chemists. Wholesale Agents, Evans and Sons, Hanover-street; Raimes and Co., Hanover-street; Messrs Clay, Dodd and Case, St. Anne street; or of the Proprietor,

BRO. HENRY NEWMAN,
SURGEON-DENTIST,
5, SLATER STREET,
LIVERPOOL.

Printed by Brother JAMES ADLEY REEVES and Son, Playhouse Yard, Blackfriars, in the City of London; published by the Proprietor, Brother GEORGE KENNING, at his Offices, 3 and 4, Little Britain, in the City of London.—SATURDAY, AUGUST 21, 1869.

THE FREEMASON

Grand Lodge Reports are published with the sanction of the Right Honorable the EARL of ZETLAND, K.T., Most Worshipful Grand Master of England.

VOL. 2, No. 25.]

SATURDAY, AUGUST 28, 1869.

REGISTERED FOR TRANSMISSION ABROAD. [PRICE 2D.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

	PAGE.
THE PRINCE OF WALES AND FREEMASONRY ...	97
REVIEWS—
Notes on the Orders of the Temple and St. John, and the Jerusalem Encampment, Manchester	97
Doctors' Commons, its Courts and Registries ...	98
Masonic Record of Western India ...	98
PAPERS ON MASONRY—
No. XXI.—Masonry and the Age ...	98
HISTORY OF THE ORDER OF KNIGHTS HOSPITALIERS	99
THE CRAFT—Provincial ...	100
MASONIC MEETINGS FOR NEXT WEEK ...	100
OBITUARY—
Bro. Colonel Peter M'Lennan ...	100
GIVE US MORE LIGHT ...	101
GERMAN PRIZE ESSAY ...	101
BIRTHS, MARRIAGES, AND DEATHS ...	102
ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS ...	102
BUSINESS TO BE TRANSACTED IN GRAND LODGE ...	102
KNIGHTS TEMPLAR JOTTINGS ...	103
ORIGINAL CORRESPONDENCE—
Royal Arch Masonry ...	103
Hospitallaria, &c. ...	103
Specimens from a Masonic Quarry ...	104
"Cipes" and Bro. D. Murray Lyon ...	104
Origin of Freemasonry ...	104
THE IMITATIVE AND THE SYMBOLICAL ...	104
MASONIC EXHORTATIONS ...	104
SUPREME COUNCIL, NEW YORK ...	105
POETRY—"Sit Lux—Et Lux Fuit" ...	105
THE SYMBOLISM OF MASONRY ...	105
MASONIC MISCELLANEA ...	106
ADVERTISEMENTS ...	106 107 & 108

NOW READY, PRICE 4/6

VOL. I. OF

The Freemason,

NEATLY BOUND, EXTRA CLOTH, WITH GILT EMBLEMATICAL LETTERING.

3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, LONDON, AND ALL BOOKSELLERS.

THE PRINCE OF WALES AND FREEMASONRY.

WE are both astonished and pained to find the following paragraph in an American journal under the heading, "Masonic Matters": "The Prince of Wales having become a Freemason, a brother Mason takes the privilege of the Order to write him a letter, assuring him that if he does not reform his course of life the English people will never endure him as a ruler."

Now, really this item of news is one of the most mendacious ever penned. No member of the English Craft, however distinguished, would venture to soar to such a sublime height of audacity as that indicated, simply because we are not quite so credulous as to believe the absurd rumours which daily circle round the lives and actions of our great men.

It is a delicate subject to handle, but one thing is clear, that Freemasonry ought never to have been coupled, even in a newspaper paragraph, with such an atrocious calumny. We are no apologist for evil doings in high places, but we draw a wide distinction between well-authenticated evidence and the scandals of table-talk. The English people neither expect nor desire their princes to be peripatetic or even itinerant preachers, but they wish and believe them to be honorable English gentlemen, capable of ruling a free and generous nation, and ready to lead the march of true progress and civilization. The Prince of Wales is a man of the age in which he lives, and has by travel and observation acquired a much larger experience of men and manners than has ever fallen to the lot of his royal predecessors. He is undoubtedly not a Prince of the "Farmer George" type, but, at the same time, we are firmly convinced that his only resemblance to "George, Prince Regent," consists in his courtly bearing and pleasing address. No one can accuse his Royal Highness of indifference to the social questions of the day, for, although tacitly excluded from politics, he and his truly amiable Princess are always ready to support in person and purse every charitable institution which needs their aid, and which commends itself to the sympathy of our common humanity. In this respect the Prince follows in the footsteps of his illustrious father, than whom a better exemplar never existed, and whose memory settles deeper and deeper, as years roll on, in the hearts of the English people whom he loved and served.

Bearing in mind these facts, we trust that Freemasons, at least, will not be linked publicly with the circulation of libels respecting the domestic life of our Prince, and in any event, we are bound to repudiate, on the part of the English Craft, the extraordinary statement which has appeared in our Transatlantic contemporary, and to express our conviction in all honest sober truth, without an iota of subserviency or servility, that the Prince of Wales will prove himself to be a good Freemason, and worthy in every respect of the exalted position to which Providence has called him.

Reviews.

Notes on the Orders of the Temple and St. John, and the Jerusalem Encampment, Manchester. Collected by JOHN YARKER, junior, P.M., P.M. Mk., P.Z., P.E.C.T. Pt. R.X., Past Grand Vice Chancellor of Cheshire, and Past Grand Constable or Mareschal of the Order in England, Member of the Masonic Archæological Institute, Honorary Fellow of the London Literary Union, &c., &c.

It has long been patent to every Masonic student that but scanty evidence of a reliable character has been adduced to support the high claims of the various chivalric degrees to antiquity in connection with Freemasonry. Theory after theory is started, but documentary evidence and other substantial proofs are rarely accessible. If the members of those degrees had in former days carefully extracted from their own records the facts which Bro. J. Yarker has now collected respecting the Jerusalem Encampment, they would have rendered a greater service to the cause they had at heart, and to the interests of truth in general, than by promulgating a series of romantic fictions destitute alike of vraisemblance, coherence, or consistency.

There is nothing in the history of the ancient Knights of the Temple to lead us to believe that they were allied to the Masonic Order, although they practised secret ceremonies, and possessed a similar organization adapted to military purposes. But it is quite another matter to deny the possibility of the alleged fraternization of the dispersed Templars with the operative Masonic bodies, after the bloody persecution of the former by Philip the Fair and Pope Clement.

Granting the existence of a Masonic fraternity at the period alluded to, and assuming that its mode of admitting members was secret and solemn, there is nothing improbable in the supposition that the Knights sought refuge from their foemen's rage in the ranks of a peaceful and unsuspected association. But beyond the traditions of the Masonic Knights Templar there is absolutely nothing to support this hypothesis, however probable it may appear to those who have studied the entire bearings of the question.

Bro. Yarker, however, clearly sets forth the links that seem to establish the parallelism between the present and the past—between the modern Order of the Temple in England, now held under that good man and excellent Mason, Bro. William Stuart, of Aldenham Abbey—and the more formidable, though not more chivalrous confraternity of the days of old. He unravels the history of the Jerusalem Encampment—the oldest in Lancashire—with the hand of a master, and presents us with every item of a valuable or useful description to be found in its records. By the perusal of these carefully-compiled "Notes," we are confirmed in our opinion of the connection and continuity of all the chivalric degrees now worked in England, and it seems a pity that some well-considered scheme cannot be adopted to weld them into a compact and comprehensive system. Thus, in addition to the Templars and the Knights of Malta, we find that the Red Cross of Constantine, and the Holy Sepulchre degrees are incidentally elucidated by Bro. Yarker's learned researches.

The fact is, that the introduction of the fantastic degrees of the Ancient and Accepted Rite into England dislocated and destroyed the Ancient York working, which comprised everything that is really interesting in the pseudo-Scottish Rite; viz., the Rose Croix and Kadosh degrees, both of which, as well as the others referred to, were conferred as appendages to the Order of the Temple. Doubtless, Dunckerley, as Bro. Yarker intimates, must be held responsible for many unwarrantable innovations on the simpler plan existing in his time, but he did good service by creating a central governing body for the Templars—an advantage which they have since retained. The Duke of Sussex was at first an enthusiastic admirer of the Chivalric Orders, but after the exposé of the French "Ordre du Temple," in which he held a high position, the ardour of his Royal Highness suddenly cooled, and it is believed that long before his death he would willingly have witnessed the extinction of all those Orders in England.

One thing is certain, that he contemplated grouping them all, with one exception, under the wing of a certain Order, with the view of restricting their working to the metropolis, and thus reducing their future action to a focus. Upon this point we can speak with authority, as evidence exists to substantiate the assertion. A singular discovery of papers recently made at Freemasons' Hall, which comprised documents of the utmost value to the Craft, also contained a memorandum of the late Grand Master's to this effect:—"That a warrant be granted to the Red Cross Knights of Palestine, empowering them to work all the inferior degrees in Masonry, except the R.A. and Templars."

We are informed that this curious memorandum, and also portions of the Red Cross ritual, were, upon the application of Lord Kenlis, the present head of the Red Cross Order, delivered over to his lordship by the present Grand Master's command. It may also be observed that the conveyance of the documents of the York Grand Lodge to the Duke of Sussex, as mentioned by Bro. Yarker, receives a certain corroboration from the fact that the original warrant and books of the Mount Calvary Encampment in London were conveyed to his Royal Highness for inspection and never returned. There cannot be a doubt in the mind of any one who has considered the subject, that no Supreme Council of the 33° would ever have been suffered in England during the life-time of the Duke, and accordingly, no such body was established—and then under American authority—until December 1845. Upon this matter we could speak volumes; but time and space will not permit, although the real history and origin of the Council would be decidedly interesting to all who have studied the rise and transformation of the hautes grades. Bro. Yarker touches the key to a great part of the mystery in his account of the proceedings of one Matthew Dawes, 33°, who, in the good old despotic style, "put his foot" upon every degree formerly worked by the Templars which in his vain imagination conflicted in the slightest manner with any of the new inventions of the "Ancient and Accepted Rite."

The Order of the Temple in England is, however, greatly indebted to Bro. Yarker for the ability and industry with which he illustrates so important a phase in the history of Chivalric Masonry; and although we believe that the historian of "Eighteenth Century Freemasonry in England" has yet to be found, we are convinced that Bro. Yarker has contributed more than one chapter to the work, whenever it shall be written. The Masonic Order in general reaps the benefit of such investigations, for in this enlightened age every episode of the past—every straggling ray of light which serves to illuminate the sentiments or the deeds of our Masonic forefathers—must be welcomed by every lover of truth. In this spirit we heartily commend the efforts of Bro. Yarker, and congratulate the Knights Templar upon the possession of so distinguished a member.

Doctors' Commons, its Courts and Registries; with a treatise on Probate Court Business. By G. J. FOSTER, formerly Clerk of the Papers of the Prerogative Court of Chancery, and now of Her Majesty's Court of Probate. London: Printed and published by REEVES, SON & CO., Playhouse-yard, Blackfriars, E.C. (2nd edition.)

The various amendments effected by the Legislature in the laws relating to Ecclesiastical Courts culminated, as many of our readers are aware, in the Act of 1857, by which the peculiar jurisdiction of those cumbrous relics of antiquity was abolished and centered in the Court of Probate. Of the advantages to the public which accrued from this change we need hardly speak; although it was doubtless unpopular among the proctors. It is beyond question that the ancient machinery was intricate, involved, and expensive; whereas the present system, especially as regards the Probate Court, possesses the antithetical merits of being at once simple, clear, and cheap. Mr. Foster, who has acquired a vast and practical experience both in the old and new courts, now places before the profession and the public a book which we can heartily recommend as an admirable treatise on the various modes of procedure in Doctors' Commons, and as an unerring guide to its formalities and practice.

It not only affords complete information as to the powers and privileges of the Ecclesiastical Courts and the Courts of Probate and Divorce, but recites clearly and succinctly the law of testamentary jurisdiction in County Courts—a subject which, we imagine, is little known outside the legal profession, although it is one of great importance to the mass of the community. This useful work has now reached a second edition, which has been carefully revised by the author, and we may add that its value is considerably enhanced by a copious index, marginal references, and concise quotations from the various Acts relating to cases decided in Doctors' Commons. The Appendix comprises an exhaustive list of the forms used in every branch of the Courts, and we can safely congratulate Mr. Foster upon having compressed into this manual of 264 pages such an array of technical and legal knowledge as will, justly entitle him to the thanks not merely of the profession, but of the public at large. The work is neatly got up, and the typography is excellent.

Masonic Record of Western India, June and July, 1869. Byalla, Bombay. Edited by Brother GEORGE BEASE.

Items of general Masonic news compose the first pages of this Magazine. The June number contains an interesting memoir of the late Bro. Major-General Ramsay, P.D.G.M. for Bengal; and a Report of the District Grand Lodge of Madras, and there are several reports of other Masonic meetings. In the July number the editor refers to having received a stray copy of THE FREEMASON, which he pronounces a "powerful rival" to our English Masonic contemporary. We say nothing about rivalry, but we can safely assert that THE FREEMASON is now at the head of the European Masonic Press, both in circulation and influence. That fearful tale, the "Nemesis," is, thank the gods, concluded in the July number. Verily, it is a sufficient nemesis for any poor mortal to read its inflated platitudes.

We like the "Masonic Record" on the whole very much, and shall be glad to exchange with it, news from our Indian Empire being always interesting. We may note that our article on "The New Grand Officers" is quoted at length.

It is a matter for regret to learn that the editor of this able periodical, is at present, by what appears to be a hasty and harsh act of the District Grand Lodge of Bombay, excluded from the Order. Without passing judgment upon the case, we bespeak for it that impartial and enlightened consideration which has ever been accorded to appeals by the Grand Lodge of England.

PAPERS ON MASONRY.

BY A LEWIS.

XXI.—MASONRY AND THE ASS.

"And the Lord opened the mouth of the ass, and she said unto Balaam: What have I done unto thee, that thou hast smitten me these three times?"—Numbers xxii. 28.

"Tell ye the daughter of Sion, Behold, thy King cometh unto thee, meek, and sitting upon an ass, and a colt the foal of an ass."—Matthew xxi. 5.

Throughout all historical ages, whether in the East or the West, the ass has been held in estimation for its Humility, Patience, and Endurance. But these well-known qualities only form a portion of the symbolical attributes of the animal, and to the Masonic student these attributes are well worthy of consideration.

Henry Cornelius Agrippa, to whom I referred in my paper on the Number Seven—of which the present is designedly a multiple—in his remarkable treatise, "On the Vanity of Arts and Sciences," devotes a whole chapter to the praise of the Ass, nor are other authors without passages referring to its mystical meaning. Towards the conclusion of that semi-serious and semi-sarcastic book, in which Agrippa holds up to public shame the condition of the wisdom and pseudo-wisdom of his time, writing, as it were, as if his pen, followed the immediate inspiration of his scornful and saddened spirit, he suddenly winds up a chapter in praise of the Word of God in these words:—

"It is therefore better, and more profitable, to be an Idiot, and without knowledge; to believe by faith and charity, and to become next to God, than being lofty and proud, through the subtleties of the Sciences, to fall into the possession of the Serpent. Thus we find in the Gospel how Christ was received of Idiots, of the vulgar people and of the simpler sort, while he was rejected, despised and persecuted even to death, by the High-priests, by the Lawyers, by the Scribes, by the Doctors and Rabbis. For this cause, Christ chose his Apostles not Scribes, not Doctors, not Priests, but unlearned persons of the vulgar people, void of knowledge, unskilful and Asses."

He then defends himself against the imputation of irreverence in thus calling the Apostles Asses, by entering on his "Digression in praise of the Ass." This animal the Hebrew Doctors regard as the hieroglyphic of Fortitude and Strength, Patience and Clemency, and in the Sephiroth it is assigned to Hochma, the second of the Sephiroth, signifying Wisdom. According to other authorities, the Ass was connected with Strength, through Vulcan; its month is September and its sign is Libra. "For his conditions," exclaims Agrippa, who had had bitter experience of the poor life of a literary man, "are most necessary for a scholar of wisdom; for he lives by little food, and is contented with whatsoever it be. Patiently he endures penury, hunger, labour, stripes, and all manner of persecutions; yet of so low and poor an understanding that he cannot discern between lettuce and thistles; of a clean and innocent heart, void of cholere, being at peace with all living creatures; patiently carrying all burthens laid upon his back, as a reward whereof, he is never troubled with lice, or any diseases, and liveth longer than any other beast." In the Levitical Law, the ass was especially exempted, together with man, from sacrifice, in the case of the first-born, a ransom being possible.

An old tradition, often used by the Biblical painters of the middle ages, connects the presence of an ass with the Nativity, and we frequently find pictures of the Holy Family accompanied by the ass from the first. The middle ages possessed a festival of the Ass, in which many orgies were enacted. I shall have occasion later on in the paper to allude to the mysteries of Greece, and there the ass plays no inconsiderable part. In connection with the flight into Egypt, whether all religious and philosophical teachers seem in antiquity to go, we find the ass, and therewith the common proverb that "the ass carries mysteries." I do not propose to follow Cornelius Agrippa through his labyrinth of illustrations, two more remarks will suffice. "It was a name," says he, "common to the Christians among the Romans, to be called Asinarii; and they were wont to paint the image of Christ with the ears of an ass, as Tertullian witnesses." It should be remembered that Agrippa belonged to the secret Society of Rosicrucians, of which John, Abbot of Trittenheim, Beuchlin, and others were members. It could be shown why Christ should be, without irreverence, so depicted, but it is entering on the domain of religion. The fact of the horns of Moses should not be forgotten.

The head of the Ass, however, was itself worshipped and preserved in the Holy Place, by the later Jews. Of this fact Apion makes mention, and publicly accuses them of sacrilege. He affirms in his treatise against Josephus that the discovery was made when Antiochus Epiphanes spoiled the Temple, and there found an Ass's head of pure gold with many offerings appertaining to it. Although Josephus denies the accusation, there does not appear to be any reason to doubt the fact—Josephus not being renowned for a scrupulous adherence to the truth. Apion likewise receives the indirect support of Tacitus, an historian whose veracity and Latinity are alike unimpeachable. He says that whatever was sacred to the Romans, was profane to the Jews—what among other nations is impure and unlawful, with them is permissible. I will just refer to Exod. xxii. 19, Levit. xviii. 23, xx. 15-16, and Deuter. xxvii. 21, where the prohibition to most horrible crimes shows that they were practised. Even the Egyptians, in their worship of the Mendesian goat, did not perform such horrors, and the latter is stigmatized by Herodotus (ii. 46), as “a prodigy.” Tacitus adds (Hist. v. 4), that “the figure of the animal through whose guidance they slaked their thirst and were enabled to terminate their wanderings, is consecrated in the Sanctuary of their Temple.” (Effigies animalis, quo monostrante errorem solumque depulerant penetrali sacravere). One Zabidus, having got secretly into the Temple, carried off the Ass’s head, and conveyed it to Dora. Suidas says, on the authority of Democritus, the historian, that the Jews not only adored this head, but sacrificed a man to it every three or seven years, after cutting him to pieces, and Plutarch (Sympos. iv. 5) says the same. This, however, formed only a portion of the animal worship of the degenerate Jews.

In the mysteries of ancient Greece, the Ass and the Rose—the emblem of silence—again re-appear, and a perusal of the Golden Ass of Apuleius from a Masonic point of view will show how intimately connected with the mysteries this animal was. Lucius, the hero of that romance, was changed into an Ass—the “braying” of which was proverbially said not to agree with “the sound of harps.” By attaining the rose—still used by the Roman Catholics in their ceremonies—he was to recover his human form. In a vision, Isis appears to him and addresses him in the following words, sufficiently suggestive to those who choose to understand:—

“I am here, O Lucius, I am here, pitying thy misfortunes, favourable and propitious. Cease thy tears, and subdue thy lamentations; cast away grief. For now, through my providence on thy behalf, the day of salvation hath dawned for thee. Listen with an attentive ear to my commands. The day which will be born from this night hath been dedicated to me by the religion of all time, at which season—the storms of winter being now allayed, the tempests of the sea assuaged, and the ocean safe for ships—my priests, having consecrated to me a new bark, offer up the first fruits of traffic. At this festival thou must evince neither anxiety nor irreligion. A priest, admonished by me, will, in the very first part of the procession, bear a crown of roses in his right hand, hanging from a sistrum. Without fear do thou at once join in the procession, confiding in my protection; and, as if about to kiss the hand of the priest, bite the roses, and, immediately thou shalt cast off that skin of a vile and by me detested, animal. Dread not these my commands as difficult; for at the same moment at which I am present with you, I am present with him also, I will tell thee what will follow, and in a dream, will teach my priest what remains for him to do. At my bidding the multitude will give thee passage, nor amidst the joyous ceremonies and cheerful spectacle will any one think wrong of thy sudden transformation. Carefully remember, and keep it for ever treasured up in thine inmost heart, that the rest of thy life, to thy last breath, is dedicated to my service. Nor is it unjust that thou shouldst devote thine whole life to her by whose bounty thou livest. But thou wilt live blest, yea, glorious, under my tutelary care, and when thy natural life shall have been fulfilled, thou shalt descend to the subterranean shades; there, also, in the lower hemisphere, living in the Elysian fields, shalt thou constantly adore me, thy propitious goddess, whom thou wilt behold shining amidst the blackness of Acheron, and ruling the Stygian abysses.”

This article is already so long that I must reserve for another opportunity and another mysterious number the future elaboration of this symbolic theme. I have, I think, however, thrown some light on the connection of Masonry with the Ass. It should be remembered that the Ass’s head was said to be a Knights Templar symbol.

CRYPTONYMUS.

WHO cannot keep his own secret, ought not to complain if another tells it.

WINE and passions are racks oft used to extort words from us.

THE BLOOD PURIFIER.—Old Dr. Jacob Townsend’s Sarsaparilla. Other Medical Testimony.—In speaking of the “Blood Purifier,” old Dr. Jacob Townsend’s Sarsaparilla, G. C. Kernott, M.D., L.S.A. Lond., says:—“I strongly recommend it in cutaneous diseases and all impurities of the blood.” March 24, 1869.—In a letter to the proprietors, June 6, 1869, Dr. Irvine, of Irvine’s-town, says:—“I have been in the habit of ordering your Sarsaparilla for my patients with the best results. Send me six quarts and six mammoth bottles.” For all skin diseases, for purifying the system of mercurial poisons, and building up the broken constitution it is the only safe and certain remedy.—In Bottles 2s. 6d., 4s., 4s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 11s. Sold by all Druggists. Pills and Ointment each in Boxes, 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d. Testimonials also from the Hon. the Dean of Lismore; General William Gilbert, of the Indian Army; ordered also by Apothecaries Hall, London. Caution—Get the red and blue wrappers, with the Old Doctor’s head in the centre. No other genuine.—ADVT.

HOSPITALARIA;

OR

A SYNOPSIS OF THE HISTORY OF THE ORDER OF Knights Hospitallers.

(Continued from page 86.)

In 1557, Sir Thomas Tresham was duly elected Lord Grand-Prior of the Sixth Language, being the thirty-eight from Garnerius de Neapoli, the first who held the dignity; Sir Richard Shelly was appointed Turncopolier, and Commander of Slebiche in Pembroke-shire, and Halston in Norfolk; Sir Peter Felix de la Nuca, Bailiff of Aquila in Lincolnshire; Sir Cuthbert Laithen, Commander of Newland in Yorkshire; Sir Edward Browne, Commander of Temple-Bruer in Lincolnshire; Sir Thomas Thornell, Commander of Willoughton; Sir Henry Gerard, Commander of Ivey and Barowe in Cheshire; Sir George Aylmer, Commander of South Badesley in Hampshire; Sir James Shelly, Commander of Temple-Combe in Somersetshire; Sir Oliver Starkey, Commander of Quenyngham in Gloucestershire, &c.

The charter of King Philip and Queen Mary, restoring the British branch of the Order, recites the intention of these sovereigns to maintain their title of “Defenders of the Faith,” as a part of their name, style, honour, and royal dignity; and in consideration of the eminent services of the Order in the cause of religion and humanity, they restore to it all its ancient possessions and privileges within their dominions. Further, as an instance of their special and sincere affection to the Order, they granted for themselves and successors that the Prior, the Bailiffs, and Commanders, &c. of the Sixth Language, and their successors, should in all time coming form a corporate body; that as such they should sue and be sued; that they should have a common seal; and that the charter should to all intents and purposes remain valid and efficient in law.

Notwithstanding, on the accession of Queen Elizabeth, the reinvestment of the Hospitallers in their manorial rights was again abrogated in England, Wales, and Ireland; whilst in Scotland, Sir James Sandilands, the last Lord of St. John, having embraced the Protestant faith, resigned the possessions of the preceptory of Torphichen, in 1563, into the hands of Mary Queen of Scots, who erected them into a temporal barony, which she gave him hereditarily for the sum of ten thousand crowns, and an annuity of five hundred marks. These possessions his descendants, the present Lords Torphichen, continue to enjoy. On the dissolution of the Templars in 1494, their principal house at Saint Germain, in East Lothian, with its immediate revenues, was conferred by King James IV. on the college of Aberdeen; whilst their other possessions, which were extremely extensive, there being few burghs or shires in Scotland where there was not part of them, were granted to the Hospitallers. Such of these lands, &c., as were not comprised in the Lordship of Torphichen, came into the hands of the Haddington family; and being resigned, they were incorporated, in 1617, into the free barony and regality of Drem, to which was attached many important privileges.

On the resumption by Queen Elizabeth of the possessions of the Knights Hospitallers within her dominions, they gradually withdrew from England; but the act of Queen Mary, re-incorporating the Sixth Language, never was repealed, and consequently is in force at this day. During the period that elapsed from the death of Queen Mary to the cession of Malta, the Sixth Language was uniformly represented in the Sovereign Council of the Order by two knights specially elected for that purpose; and though it was dormant in the British islands from 1603 till its revival in 1834,—a space of two hundred and thirty years,—nothing has occurred during that period to extinguish the Order, or to affect its independent right to adopt such measures as shall lead to the resuscitation of all its branches.

On the death of the Imperial Grand-Master Paul, his successor, the late Emperor Alexander, issued a proclamation, (March 1801,) in which he assumed the character of Protector of the Order; and at the same time ordained that the imperial palace should continue its chief residence, until such time as circumstances should permit the election of a Grand-Master according to the ancient forms and statutes; and that in the interim, Field-Marshal Count Soltikoff should act as Lieutenant of the Mastership. In July of the same year, the Council of the Order met to deliberate on the matter; when it was resolved that, as the elements of a General Chapter could not be assembled at Saint Petersburg, the different Grand-Priors should be invited to convene their Chapters, for the purpose of forming lists of such knights as were worthy of succeeding to the sovereign dignity. These lists the Council proposed afterwards to submit to the Pope, with an invitation for him to choose a Grand-Master out of the number, but under a protest that this submission was not to be regarded as a precedent injurious to the independent right of the Order to elect its Chief in all after times. Accordingly, on the 9th of February, 1805, Pius the Seventh nominated Tomasi, an Italian knight, Grand-Master; since which time the changes in the Superiority have excited no general attention.

In 1814, a meeting of the Knights Hospitallers took place at Paris in a General Chapter (Prince Camille de Rohan, Grand-Prior of Aquitaine, presiding) for the purpose of electing a permanent Capitulary Commission. The government being declared concentrated in this Commission, it was empowered to regulate all civil and financial affairs connected with the Order. Under its direction, a formal but fruitless application was made to the Congress of Vienna for the grant of some Sovereign independency in lieu of that of which the Order had been despoiled. In 1822, when the Greek cause began to wear a prosperous aspect, the same Chapter entered into a treaty for the cession of two islands on the western shore of the Morea, but the negotiation ultimately failed. Since then no further steps have been taken; the formalities of the Order, however, are still observed with splendour in several of the continental capitals, and it enumerates a number of members of the highest consequence and distinction in their respective kingdoms.

Whilst the altered state of European society renders it unnecessary that the Order of Saint John should revive its ancient military objects, the independent jurisdiction which, as a knightly degree, it has maintained throughout the vicissitudes of nearly eight centuries, remains entire. Considering the moral influence which such a venerable and august Order, as a bond of fraternal union and benevolent exertion, is admirably calculated to produce in eight of the principal kingdoms of Christendom; and further how undesirable it is in a nation so attached as is the British to its ancient institutions, that an Order which once held so distinguished a position in the United Kingdom should be allowed to remain dormant,—the present reign, as one of reformation, in which many classes are reviving ancient rights, has been considered a fitting era for reviving the Sixth Language of the Order of Knights Hospitallers. Accordingly, in compliance with the degree of the Council of London, A.D. 1126, which provides that every Grand-Prior must be in priest’s orders, on the 24th February, 1834, the present Grand-Prior qualified for his office, under the charter of Philip and Mary, in the Court of King’s Bench; and on Sunday, the 2nd of March following, he received the sacrament on his installation, pursuant to the Corporation laws of England, and it is now a record of the kingdom. Since that period, several members have been admitted into the Sixth Language of the Order, and this Synopsis is published with a view to increase its numbers, and place its re-establishment on a basis worthy of its ancient dignity and beneficent objects.

Preparatory to the resuscitation of the Order of Knights Hospitallers in the British Empire, the necessary powers were received from the continental authorities through the medium of the Agent-general; and since then, the acts of the Grand-Prior and Council have been approved by a majority of the Languages. The Charter of Philip and Mary, re-incorporating the Order of this country after the arbitrary suppression of it by Henry VIII., as has been already stated, remains in force; but had it been otherwise, the power of the Order to revive its dormant branches cannot be questioned. The constitution of the Order was confirmed in 1118, the date of its division into eight Languages, by Pope Boniface as the head of the Christian world. It was further confirmed by him at a moment when the kings of the respective nations in which it was established held their crowns of the papal chair. The right of the Order, therefore, to perpetuate its existence by a distribution of its diplomas and dignities is indefeasible: no king in Europe can produce a better title to his crown. These privileges no potentate ever possessed the right of conferring, and consequently no potentate ever possessed the right to take them away. It forms the peculiar glory of the Order of the Baptist, that it is a sovereign fraternity; and its independence will ever be jealously preserved by those governments who are desirous of upholding the ancient institutions of Christendom. These remarks do not apply, however, to the possessions of the Order: these were adventitious,—some by gift, others by conquest; and they have been lost,—some by force and others by fraud,—and so they must remain. The right of the British crown to Malta, and of the Ottoman Porte to Rhodes, is the same as that by which the Hospitallers themselves held and lost the latter island; and should the time ever arrive,—which is not probable,—in which the Order shall again entertain political views, it is certain that the Sixth Language would take no part in any such proceedings. Indeed, it is distinctly to be understood, that by the revival of the British branch no objects whatever are contemplated but those of benevolence; nor will its resources be expended except within its own bounds,—viz. the British Isles. Its external pursuits will be limited to the cultivation of brotherly relations with the members of the foreign branches of the Order, remembering that active charity has at home paramount demands.

(To be continued.)

Reports of Masonic Meetings.

THE CRAFT.

PROVINCIAL.

CHESHIRE—Combermere Lodge, No. 605.—The above lodge met at the hotel, Seacombe, on Friday evening, August 19. Bro. H. Davis, was in the chair. Bro. T. Shaw, S.W.; and Jos. Sillitoe, J.W. The only work out of a large list of candidates for the several degrees was that of raising Bro. David Tomb and W. T. Barry to the third degree, and initiating Mr. W. Smith and Mr. J. Cullen into the mysteries and privileges of ancient Freemasonry. The ceremonies were both well and ably rendered, characteristic of this lodge. The minutes of the previous lodge meeting were read and confirmed. A communication was read from Grand Lodge, signifying its intention of holding a meeting at the Music Hall, Birkenhead, on September 9th, respectfully inviting attention thereto. A proposition was put forward as to the procuring of new clothing for the officers of the lodge, which was carried. The lodge was then closed in peace and harmony, and the brethren retired for refreshment provided by Bro. Stokes in his usual excellent style. The W.M., on removal of the cloth, proposed the usual toasts, both loyal and Masonic, and that of the newly-initiated being responded to, the visitors followed, which was ably responded to by Bro. Manning, Lodge 249, when after some excellent singing from several of the musical brethren, and the usual happy evening spent, the members separated with hearty good wishes and the usual refrain, "Happy to meet, sorry to part, happy to meet again."

LIVERPOOL—Everton Lodge, No. 823.—The usual monthly meeting of this lodge was held on Wednesday, the 18th inst., at the Masonic Temple, Hope-street. This being the first meeting for work of the new officers, it attracted numerous members and visitors, numbering upwards of fifty. The lodge was opened in due form, the officers present being Bros. John Jackson, W.M.; Thomas Ashmore, I.M.P.; Samuel Haynes, S.W.; Joseph Holland, Sec., (acted as J.W. in the absence of J. D. Pierce, J.W.); W. J. Lunt, Treas.; Boulton, S.D.; William Bird, J.D.; Nash, I.G. The minutes of the last monthly meeting were read and confirmed, after which the lodge proceeded to initiate Mr. Pickers into the mysteries and privileges of Ancient Freemasonry. The ancient charge in this degree was given in an impressive manner by Bro. S. Haynes, S.W. The lodge was then opened in the second degree, when two brethren were passed to the degree of Fellow Craft. The lodge being closed to the first degree, several communications were read, and relief granted, including the case of Bro. the Rev. W. A. Tattersall M.A., Vicar of Oxtou, wherein he had been put to the cost of £600 in defending the case for false imprisonment, in the case of "Torekler v. Tattersall," to which the lodge voted £5 5s. After several propositions for initiation, the lodge was closed in due form. Before closing this report we would recommend all brethren in Liverpool who want to see good working, to visit Everton Lodge, which stands second to none in the province of West Lancashire.

ESSEX—Upton Lodge, No. 1227.—This young, but very prosperous lodge held its first annual meeting at the Spotted Dog, Upton, on Thursday 21st inst. Bro. Bellerby, W.M., presided, supported by Bros. Picking, S.W., and W.M. elect.; Mather, J.W.; Bratton, Treas.; P. M. Goddard, Sec.; Balton, S.D.; Morton, J.D.; English, I.G.; and Woodstock, Tyler. The lodge was opened in due form with solemn prayer, and the minutes of the last lodge were read and confirmed. Bros. Murrell, Simmonds, and Stevens were duly raised to the sublime degree of M. Masons; and Bros. Levick and Calverley were duly passed to the degree of Fellowcraft Masons. Bro. Wescombe, P.M., then presented Bro. Picking to Bro. Mather, to receive from him the benefit of installation, which ceremony was duly performed, the lodge being opened in each degree. The W.M. was pleased to appoint and invest the following brethren, officers for the ensuing year, viz., Bros. Bellerby, E.P.M.; Mather, S.W.; Bolton, J.W.; Goddard, P.M., and Sec.; Bratton, Treas.; Morton, S.D.; English, J.D.; Woodstock, Tyler. During the investiture the W.M. explained to each of his officers their various duties, and was listened to with marked attention. All Masonic business being ended the lodge was closed in due form, and adjourned until the second Thursday in September next. After the lodge was closed, an excellent banquet was provided by the worthy host, to which ample justice was done by the brethren to the number of about forty. After the removal of the cloth the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and duly honoured. Bro. Bellerby, P.M., then in very complimentary terms proposed the health of Bro. Picking, W.M., and alluded to the excellent way in which he discharged the duties of the offices he had had the honour to fill at the same time wishing him a most pleasant year of office as W.M.

The toast was very cordially responded to. The W. Master, in reply, thanked the brethren for the very cordial manner in which they had drunk his health, and assured them that he would do all in his power to secure the prosperity of the Upton Lodge. The W. Master then said before he gave the next toast, he had a very pleasing duty to perform, which was to present to Bro. Bellerby, P.M., a P. Master's jewel and a diamond ring, in token of esteem and regard of the members of the lodge, and for the very efficient manner he had performed the duties as W. Master for the past, and first year of the Upton Lodge. He then proposed Bro. Bellerby's health, to which the brethren very heartily responded to. Bro. P. M. Bellerby thanked the brethren for the very flattering manner his health had been received; likewise for the very handsome presents they had been pleased to make him, at the same time assured them, that he would to the utmost of his power endeavour to forward the interests both of the lodge and its members. The health of the different officers was given and replied to by each in appropriate terms. Amongst the visitors were Bros. Henderson (P.M., 13, 829, 700, 913, 1076, 1107, P.Z. 13, &c.), Watkins (P.M., and W.M. 1076), Mather, and several others. The health of the visitors was responded to by Bro. P. M. Watkins. The Tyler's toast was then given, which brought a very pleasant evening to a close.

METROPOLITAN MASONIC MEETINGS

For the Week ending September 4, 1869.

Monday, August 30.

Lodge No. 881, "British Oak," Bank of Friendship Tavern, Bancroft-road, Mile End.

Knights of the Red X of Rome and Constantine, Premier Conclave, Freemasons' Tavern.

Camden Lodge of Instruction, No. 704, Adelaide Tavern, Haverstock Hill, at 8; Bro. T. A. Adams, Preceptor.

Tuesday, August 31.

Metropolitan Chapter of Instruction, George Hotel, Aldermanbury at 7; Comp. Brett, Preceptor.

Domestic Lodge of Instruction, Palmerston Tavern, Grosvenor-park, Camberwell, at 7.30.

Faith Lodge of Instruction, Metropolitan Railway, Victoria Station, at 8. Bro. C. A. Cottebrune, Preceptor.

Wednesday, September 1.

Quarterly Communication of Grand Lodge, Freemasons' Hall, at 7.

Lodge No. 217, "Stability," Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street.

"1210, "Macdonald," 1st Surrey Volunteers' Head Quarters, Brunswick-rd., Camberwell.

United Strength Lodge of Instruction, No. 228, Bull and Gate, Kentish Town-road.

Thursday, September 2.

Lodge No. 554, "Yarborough," Green Dragon, Stepney.

"822, "Victoria Rifles," Freemasons' Hall.

"1155, "Excelsior," Sydney Arms, Lewisham-road.

"1178, "Perfect Ashlar," Gregorian Arms Tav., Jamaica-road, Bermondsey.

Chapter 733, "Westbourne," New Inn, Edgeware-road.

"742, "Crystal Palace," Crystal Palace.

Friday, September 3.

Chapter No. 754, "High Cross," White Hart Hotel, Tottenham.

Emulation Lodge of Improvement for M.M.'s, Freemasons' Hall, at 7.

Metropolitan Lodge of Instruction, George Hotel, Aldermanbury, at 7; Bro. Brett, Preceptor.

Belgrave Lodge of Instruction, Duke of Wellington Hotel, Spring-gardens, Charing-cross.

Saturday, September 4.

General Committee Boys' School, Freemasons' Hall, at 4.

Chapter No. 975, "Rose of Denmark," Star and Garter Hotel, Kew.

Obituary.

BRO. COLONEL PETER M'LENNAN,

A distinguished Scotchman, and a member of the Mystic Tie, who died at Volusia, Florida, U.S.

A career, brief but brilliant, has just been closed. That hecatomb of victims to the greatest struggle of modern times, into which liberty and civilisation gathered the ashes of thousands of martyrs, between the reveille at Fort Sumpter and the sunset at Richmond, has caused Scotland, among other nations, to waft across the western waves many tears of sorrow for the loss of some of her bravest sons; but for none more distinguished than Bro. Colonel Peter M'Lennan, whose name, in connection with the battles in the Wilderness, will long be remembered in the annals of American history, and in the hearts of many friends in Glasgow.

Bro. Colonel Peter M'Lennan has just succumbed to a wound he received at the second battle of Bull's Run, and, having been a resident of and well known in Glasgow, we deem that a brief sketch of his career will not be uninteresting to our readers.

In 1857, Bro. Colonel M'Lennan—then a youth of twenty—emigrated to America from Glasgow, leaving behind an uncle, the late Donald M'Lennan, a well-known merchant here; a brother, Mr. Colin M'Lennan, still living, and other relatives—buoyant with that ambitious hope, so characteristic of his countrymen, of fighting his way to that eminence which he has so early and so dearly purchased.

We first hear of him as a farm labourer at Camillus, N.Y., where his ardent desire for knowledge and unremitting application soon found him an enrolled student of the Munro Collegiate Institute at Eldridge, and, shortly after, an advanced student at the Conference Seminary at Cazenovia, in which he was preparing and perfecting himself for the practice of the law. But these studies were interrupted. Sumpter had fired his first gun. M'Lennan offered his services to the Federal Government, and, so high was the opinion entertained of the youthful student, he was at once forwarded a captain's commission in the 101st U.S. Infantry. It was while leading this command that he received that fearful wound which proved the remote cause of his death. When partially recovered, again "eager for the fray," he, in the fall of '65, raised a battalion for the 22nd U.S. Cavalry, and received his commission as major. Here begins that career of brilliant achievements which, by their consummate skill in execution and gallant hardihood under the most hopeless conditions, repeatedly carried his name to Washington in the despatches of his distinguished commander; and in the battles of the Wilderness so conspicuous to the enemy was the bravery of himself and his handful of men, that they earned to themselves, from the "Rebs," the soubriquet of "M'Lennan's Slashers." At last, in the heat of an engagement, he was tempted to follow up the success by a raid on the retreating rebel cavalry. He went too far—cut off from the main body, he was surrounded and taken prisoner, and for eight months subjected to the most brutal treatment. Taken to Richmond, he, with other brave men, was thrown into that modern hell, the "Libby," from which, after several attempts, he ultimately effected his escape. Recaptured, he was sent to Charleston, where, by order of the Confederate Government, he, with other distinguished officers, was exposed to the shot and shell of the Union guns. From Charleston he was removed to other Confederate prisons—twice escaping from his captors, and twice recaptured. Early in 1866, he was paroled, rejoined his regiment, and was promoted to its full command as Lieutenant-Colonel. Thus he served until the close of the war, when he was honourably mustered out, and returned home to Camillus. Once more he entered on his studies, joined the firm of Hall and Wallace, solicitors, and about twelve months since was admitted to the bar, and commenced the active duties of his profession. But, alas! the wound at Bull's Run, and the ripening seeds of that fatal disease—pulmonary consumption—sown at Libby and in other Southern prisons, here prostrated him. In a desperate effort to recruit his shattered energies, he went to Florida, hoping that in that earthly Eden, with its milder skies and balmy air, to bolster up a fast-failing vitality. But the die was cast. Neither the sunshine nor the orange groves of Florida could avert the doom. Surrounded by many he loved, and in the house of his intimate friend, Dr. Lungren, at Volusia, without pain he calmly fell asleep.

He was buried with the highest Masonic honours, the solemn and impressive services of the Order being performed over the grave by the Grand Master of the Province. The procession to the grave was lengthy and imposing, being led by the various lodges of the Province in deepest mourning, &c., &c. The hearse was attended by brother-masons bearing the pall, followed by coaches bearing the clergy, and by a lengthy cortege of his veteran comrades of the grand army, the rear being brought up by over a thousand citizens and strangers. Glasgow cannot afford to part with a son who has so well sustained her reputation in a foreign land without feeling proud to hear a few words of the eloquent funeral sermon preached in commemoration by Bro. the Rev. J. S. Bacon, Presbyterian Minister, of Amboy. In the course of his discourse he says:—"M'Lennan sleeps in an unmarked grave far from his childhood's home in loved Scotland—far from the burial place of his fathers. Here affection cannot weep beside his tomb, nor parental hands plant perennial flowers; but guardian angels watch the tombs of the patriot-dead, while their fadeless memory shall live enshrined in the nation's heart, and their deeds of valour be rehearsed so long as poets sing or historians write. M'Lennan was not of us but with us. He came to us empty-handed and alone, yet possessed of treasures gold cannot buy. He brought with him integrity, which could not be corrupted; industry, which was itself the earnest of success; and an unwavering hope which disappointment could never dim. In his strong hands and brave true heart he possessed all the capital necessary to procure a man's success in this goodly land of ours. Go and tell this, kindly messengers, to the parents, brothers, and sisters, unto whom his kindly genial presence will never more bring cheer to the heart, or bless the home made sad and desolate by his untimely loss. Tell them that here he lives in the memory of an unblemished character and a spotless reputation; that he will long be remembered as a true man at home and a hero on the field; that we will not forget that his life was as much a sacrifice to his country's honour as though he had died amid the clash of arms and left his bones to bleach beneath a Southern sun. Tell them that we will add his name to the long roll of Freedom's martyrs, and give him no mean position among our honoured dead. Brethren of the mystic tie, I give to you the dust of your departed brother; tenderly bear it to its silent resting-place, and put on everlasting record the memory you love so dearly."

Dulce et decorum est pro patria mori. None can read this special message of mourning from our absent brothers to the memory of one of our own without feeling that this lad, who left Glasgow at 19, and in the circle of 10 years so nobly fought his way up to the high grade in the military profession to which he reached, and retiring on his laurels, fitted himself for and entered on the active duties of the learned profession he had chosen, without feeling a deep regret that a career so nobly started should have found so speedy a termination.

Our brother rests in peace in a foreign land, and in his example let us follow it. To do that which is right continually, ever remembering that the same Father watches over all.

GIVE US MORE LIGHT.

It has been my lot to meet with members of the Masonic fraternity whose chief care it was to be considered leading Masons, and who sought such distinctions more by words than deeds; who, if tried by the Masonic rule, could hardly be pronounced good and square work, and who were certainly deficient in a knowledge of the true light and the practice of those virtues which alone could distinguish them as good Masons. True, this is an evil from which no order, sect, or denomination is exempt. Yet, is there not a remedy for it, to a great extent, in Masonry?

I see but one way to eradicate this great evil—universal improvement, enlightenment.

The accomplishment of such a work is the great desideratum. It is an herculean task—but can it not be accomplished? Is it not of sufficient importance to stimulate all true Masons to the effort? Are there not enough of brilliant lights, were their rays judiciously diffused, to expel the darkness which enshrouds so large a portion of the Masonic edifice? This work, or a great portion of it, if done at all, must be done through the influence of Masonic literature, and would not writers for Masonic periodicals accomplish more good by turning their talents in this direction—pointing to the evil and showing the remedy—than by those oft-repeated laudations of the principles of our Order, which there are none among the intelligent to gainsay—exhorting the brethren to avoid this rock or that quicksand—interspersed with such illustrations and wholesome lessons as would be acceptable to the good sense and judgment of the brethren generally; impressing upon their minds the great importance of adhering to the Landmarks, and the danger of innovation?

The first and most important step to be taken in this reform, is to induce the members to read. It is absolutely necessary they should enlighten their minds by communion with the great lights of the Order, both ancient and modern, through the medium of Masonic books, magazines, papers, &c. The first step accomplished, the rest is comparatively easy. But to achieve the first step, the united influence of every writer, lecturer, and intelligent Mason, of whatever calling, is indispensable. Let all, then, direct their efforts to this point. Let all urge their co-workers in the Masonic vineyard to read—to study—to become thoroughly acquainted with the true principles of Masonry.

AN ESSAY

Concerning the most productive and most useful method of Masonic activity most in accordance with the ideas of Freemasonry. By Bro. B. A. CRAMER, at Eichenbarleben, Member of the Lodge at Aschersleben.

CROWNED PRIZE ESSAY—Continued from page 75.
[Specially translated for THE FREEMASON.]

We must endeavour at once to win over for the free association the newly-initiated brethren, particularly for the sake of immediately laying in them the foundation for the development of a certain esprit de corps which would set the Brotherhood off advantageously, but above all the brethren individually, in the estimation of non-Masons. This spirit of fellowship in which the one always feels himself as the representative of the whole, and in which the individual brother is always and everywhere endeavouring to preserve the dignity of the corporation by his own conduct, this spirit, we say, is wanting. It must therefore be created and improved until it gathers such an amount of strength as to become in some measure, a sort of external conscience, which would point out to every brother, even in the most secret doings of his private life, how to act at all times more humanely and more perfectly than "the profane." This esprit de corps also manifests itself in ordinary things; e. i. it does not allow of one's boasting of belonging to the lodge, nor does it allow of adjoining immediately after the ceremonies of the lodge to the public house, where thoughtless expressions, might produce a bad effect on non-Masons. This esprit de corps neither allows a brother passing away the time in playing in the ante-room previous to the opening of the lodge. It also requires that the lodge be visited in the evening dress adopted by good society, and that the strictest decorum be always observed when the banquets are over.

The free association shall further take care, that nothing dishonourable, unesthetic, or morally weakening shall take place among the brethren. The prototype of that which is dishonourable, is the well-known phrase, that pernicious poison amongst the brotherhood, the extirpation of which, cannot be sufficiently urged. Every brother would deserve well of the fraternity by occasionally pointing out the nature of the phrase and indicating the means of stamping it out. With respect to that which is unesthetic, we put down as such amongst other things, the monotonous and imperfect rendering of the ritual. The Wardens, their substitutes, and those that are appointed to the offices, must therefore be careful, to make themselves proficient in the ritual. This need not be done during the sittings of the free association, but ought to take place in the presence of criticising brethren. The ritual and symbolical ceremonies are to produce an harmonious spirit amongst the brethren, and bring about that concentration of the mind which causes us to forget the outer world, and facilitates a communion with ourselves. We finally consider as that which is weakening, the purely sensual enjoyments.

Masonic strength is not to be proved by overloaded banquet tables, for the expensive banquets even keep the brethren away from our festivals, to say nothing of the damaging reports of the profane. As to the costliness of our banquets—of course, all these things are only hints. The observant brother will find in the lodge many occasions on which he may lend a helping hand, or where the necessity for some improvement might urge him to appeal to his brethren. To support him in these propositions to the lodge, becomes so much the more necessary, as a careless manner in outward appearances tends to lower the dignity of our labours.

As there are almost in every lodge brethren who, although members, do not come to the workings, or very rarely, some of the brethren of the free association should specially occupy themselves with learning the cause and seeking the removal of such an abnormal condition of things, and report thereon. Sometimes a quarrel would be the cause of a brother's staying away. In that case the hostile brethren should be induced to allow their differences to be adjusted by each choosing a brother for his advocate, who on their part would have to agree upon some third unprejudiced person, whose judgment will then have to be considered final. The members of the free association should at all times consider themselves bound to nip in the bud in this manner any differences that may arise. There are other brethren, who very often excuse their frequent absence by alleging that the lodge has nothing tempting to offer them. This very often means nothing more than that they themselves do not contribute their due share to the community; it means, that they have neither seized the true idea of Masonry, nor have they attempted to bring about its realisation; they are always ready to receive, but not to give. What wonder then, if such selfish persons reap neither love or friendship, and therefore withdraw morosely. The free association may perhaps succeed in regaining such brethren, and secure their regular attendance at the lodge meetings. With respect to brethren who neither wish to settle their differences, nor understand how to turn our institution to profit, it would be desirable that they should leave the lodge, for otherwise they may not only injure themselves, but also the lodge through their selfish living to themselves, which gives the profane "opportunities for forming erroneous opinions." It is only from a close connexion with and devotedness to our fellow-creatures, that life, movement, and progress are created. Consequently every party spirit is not only to be opposed, but the brethren ought also to consider how to render their union closer; and it is not out of place now to consider a proposition already made, viz., whether the apprentices should not choose certain masters whom they should prefer and specially look up to. Such an arrangement appears to be so practical and desirable that the free association should endeavour to bring it about. By so doing, the Masters are stimulated to render themselves more perfect, and the third degree becomes more valuable. Such relations between Masters and Apprentices would be particularly useful in places where free associations could perhaps not be formed as we propose. In such relations as these, the Masters would have to exercise very great tact to prevent their becoming insignificant or mere opportunities for the exercise of favouritism. A Protectorate of any kind is only an empty form or a useless guardianship, and kills the individual principle of self-help, which is the very thing that we try to produce. On the other hand, protection easily leads the protogés to feast on undue and immoderate praises, which are so exceedingly repulsive to serious, free, and equal men.

After the labours in one's own lodge, as well as after the visits to other lodges, it would be interesting and very useful were the brethren to represent to each other in free conversation the impressions they have received. This would best conduce to the remedy of various defects which many a brother might have perceived previously without taking the trouble of ascertaining the causes of, and carelessly passed over. On the occasion of such conventional criticism in outspoken independent opinions, it often unfortunately happens that some brethren feel themselves hurt, for they still possess that kind of selfishness, which we call vanity. This is as un-Masonic as can possibly be. Why not allow the truth to appear? why not make assertion against assertion? Let us fight each other with the weapons of reason, but always in a tone of brotherly kindness. No brother should forget that the cement of the original brotherhood is formed of sincerity. If this sincerity is no more to prevail in our circles, then has the greatest vital power gone from us and the mere phrase prevails exclusively.

The brethren must be allowed a free utterance of expression with regard to each other, otherwise no material advancement is possible, as the individual never has a sufficient insight of himself to enable him to exercise a healthy self-criticism. It is even a duty not to withhold censures that are deserved, nor absurdly to extend the brotherly leniency ad infinitum. The Masonic lectures form a principal part of the labours in the lodge. They are mostly instructive when they operate on the mind, and more edifying when they influence the heart.

At every meeting of the Free Association, such a lecture should be given. Should the Free Associations be considered as suitable auxiliaries to the lodge, we propose that edifying speeches given in the lodge and instructive lectures before the Free Associations. For, in a word, speaking openly, the Free Association composed of the most zealous brethren, and under the most masterly guidance, would not only render the lodge not superfluous, but most clearly demonstrate its want, and value. When we are labouring at our great work, a solemn convocation of the brethren at certain fixed periods is absolutely necessary that our minds may become more intimately united by common inspirations, be better to be enabled to meet the stern realities of life, and to fulfil the mission imposed on us. This solemn convocation requires a consecrated spot and a ceremonial, in order to separate the brethren from trivial and worldly things. The lodge, therefore, has rather to deal with the heart, with the sphere of spiritual life, which directly connects us with the first cause of things, whilst the Free Association would rather develop the mind. However, the Free Association by no means intends, by its instructions to occupy a distinct position from the lodge; on the contrary, it wishes to unite the brethren in closer communion with the lodge, and as has already been mentioned, it only intends to make the necessary preparations for the lodge, to be serviceable to it, so that the cultivation in the lodge of the mind exclusively shall not become monotonous or degenerate into fancies and dreams, or into that contemplative passive life which would entirely make us forget our great aim. As experience demonstrates the lodge now does out to its members the requisite instruction in a very inadequate manner, for the superficial explanations and purposeless instructions are extremely insufficient. The little that is taught is done unmethodically, notwithstanding all the extollings of Square and Compasses, and the lodge does not trouble itself about the progress of its adherents.

(To be continued.)

Births, Marriages, and Deaths.

BIRTH.

HAWKES.—On August 19th, at 9, Garden Row, Ramsgate, the wife of Bro. G. E. Hawkes, S.W. 127, of a daughter.

MARRIAGE.

WAY—SELBY.—On the 19th August, at St Mary's, Brooke, by the Rev. J. P. Gage, rector, Broadley Wilson, son of W. W. Way, Esq., of Newport, to Ellen Anne, youngest daughter of W. Selby, Esq., of Brooke, Isle of Wight.

DEATHS.

CAMPBELL.—On the 19th August, at 30, Elderslie-street, Glasgow, Bro. Robert Campbell, of the Star Lodge, No. 219, ex-champion sculler of Scotland.

EDEN.—On the 19th August, at the Hill Farm, Rickmansworth, Bro. George Manning Eden, P.M. and P.Z. 382, formerly Postmaster of Uxbridge, aged 46 years.

HUNTER.—On August 17th, at 5, Marine-terrace, Margate, Jane Benson, the dearly-loved wife of Bro. W. F. Hunter, M.D., J.W. Union, Lodge, No. 127, aged 25 years.

NORTH.—On 20th August, at Bray, Co. Wicklow, Colonel Charles Napier North, late 60th Royal Rifles, in his 53rd year.

Answers to Correspondents.

AN INITIO.—The Hon. Secretaries of the London Literary Union are Angelo J. Lewis, Esq., Erskine Chambers, 86, Lincoln's Inn Fields, and W. R. Woodman, Esq., M.D., Vittoria Villa, Stoke Newington Road, N.

A.L.B.—In Ireland all the Masonic bodies are under one head, viz., the Duke of Leinster, but the higher degrees are little better than close corporations, so that what is gained in one direction is practically lost in the other.

HIRAM.—A Freemason cannot be a Fenian, because he is bound to respect the laws of the country in which he resides. It is an insult to the Craft to couple treason with its name.

BOOKS RECEIVED.

"The Manchester Unity of Odd Fellows," by Francis G. P. Neison, Junr., A.S.A., Consulting Actuary.

"Annals of Iowa Masonry," edited by T. S. Parvin, Grand Secretary, Iowa.

"Proceedings of the Grand Lodge of Louisiana," James C. Batchelor, M.D., Grand Secretary.

The Freemason,

SATURDAY, AUGUST 28, 1869.

THE FREEMASON is published on Saturday Mornings in time for the early trains.

The price of THE FREEMASON is Twopence per week; quarterly subscription (including postage) 3s. 3d.

Annual Subscription, 12s. Subscriptions payable in advance.

All communications, letters, &c., to be addressed to the Editor, 3 & 4, Little Britain, E.C.

The Editor will pay careful attention to all MSS. entrusted to him, but cannot undertake to return them unless accompanied by postage stamps.

BUSINESS TO BE TRANSACTED IN GRAND LODGE.

THIS is a heading which is familiar to a considerable number of our English Masonic readers, and to some it probably suggests ideas of a very dry and prosaic character.

Other brethren, however,—and they are, of course, the great majority, for while a few rule and teach, the many submit and obey—other brethren, we repeat, may take an interest in the forthcoming deliberations of a body which is associated in their minds with dim conceptions of all that is dignified, august or venerable.

And a noble legislature it is—this Grand Lodge of England—an aggregation of good and true men, ever anxious to promote the prosperity of our Universal Craft, and to extend as widely as possible the humanizing influences of knowledge, peace, and fraternity.

And a goodly thing it is to see the long procession of Grand Officers as they enter the Temple; to gaze upon those veterans of the cause whose services have placed them in the foremost rank; to watch the eager looks of the brethren when the stately Sword-bearer announces the approach of their beloved chief, and to hear the ringing cheers with which the arrival of the Most Worshipful Grand Master is greeted. All this, although it may be described, must be seen to be appreciated, and it is not too much to say that the assemblies of the Grand Lodge of England will bear a favorable comparison with those of any other legislative body in the world, not only for scenic splendour and effect, but for the admirable decorum with which the business of the evening is conducted.

The Grand Lodge is, of course, opened with prayer, but the other formalities observed are totally dissimilar to those practised in the opening of subordinate lodges. The object, however, is the same, and the Grand Pursuivant is charged with the duty of seeing and vouching not only that all present are members of Grand Lodge, but that they are properly ranged under their respective banners.

Let us now glance at the Agenda paper. The minutes of the last Quarterly Communication, and of an intervening Grand Lodge will be read, and doubtless confirmed.

Then the Grand Master will make a communication respecting the recently established Grand Lodge of Nova Scotia, and will move a resolution to acknowledge it. This important announcement we fore-shadowed in our article in No. 22, and need only tender our hearty congratulations to the Grand Master and Grand Lodge, upon the wise and comprehensive spirit of liberality which prompts this graceful act of recognition.

The Grand Master will then distribute the Jewels to the Stewards of the Inauguration Festival, held on the 14th April.

This Jewel bears upon the obverse an excellent likeness of Lord Zetland, and on the reverse a representation of Freemasons' Hall, together with the name of the Steward and the lodge which he represented. We shall not express an opinion as to the general appearance of the Jewel beyond stating that it has not given universal satisfaction.

The next business in Grand Lodge will be the election of the Committee of Management of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, after which the Report of the Board of Benevolence, comprising six recommendations for grants, to the extent of £230, will be considered, and without doubt approved. Then follows the Report of the Board of General Purposes, in which is embodied the sentence passed upon the Worshipful Master of the Union Waterloo Lodge, No. 13, Woolwich, for suffering a statement to be circulated that the "new working, approved by the Board," would be worked in his lodge. We miss from the record the name of the real culprit, or any allusion to the graver fact that the pseudo-ritual was really worked, but from the letters we have received on the subject the Craft may rest assured that the Worshipful Master, who is personally a most estimable man and Mason, will not be suffered to remain the scapegoat of a gross imposition.

The Report of the Committee appointed to devise a suitable recognition of the services of the Building Committee will then be taken, and with their recommendations we cordially concur:

They suggest that a sculptured Tablet, with an appropriate inscription, be placed in a conspicuous part of the New Buildings; to be surmounted by a marble bust of Bro. John Havers, the chairman, and surrounded by medallion portraits of his colleagues of the Building Committee.

The sum to be allocated for this purpose, viz., 300 guineas, is by no means extravagant, and we are certain it will be cheerfully voted by the Grand Lodge.

The Report of the Committee on the Fund of Benevolence is the next business on the paper. Our readers will remember that we opposed from the first any attempt to interfere with the natural increment of the Fund, and so far as that portion of the Report is concerned the Committee's suggestion was negatived by Grand Lodge. There are, however, many excellent details in the scheme of reform submitted by Bro. Clabon, who has evidently studied the system in all its bearings. We hope, therefore, that the subject will be fully discussed, and the advantages to be derived from many of the recommendations made by the Committee will then be thoroughly understood by the brethren. As it is very improbable that Grand Lodge will be able to transact all the business on the agenda up to this point, we refrain from specifying the various Notices of Motion.

There is, as all can readily perceive, an ample bill of fare for our Masonic legislators, but with short speeches and business habits a great deal can be done in the time. We presume that the Grand Master's proposition, that H.R.H. the Prince of Wales be invested with the rank of a P.G.M. will be submitted to the brethren at this meeting, and as the Prince has returned from Germany it is not improbable that His Royal Highness may be present in Grand Lodge to have the distinction conferred upon him. It is supposed by some that the grant of such past rank is an anomaly; it is not, however, an unusual occurrence—six Princes of the House of Brunswick have received a similar token of favor, and it is within the Grand Master's prerogative to confer past rank upon any worthy brethren. Thus, H. H. the Maharajah Dhuleep Singh, Colonel A. J. Greenlaw, and Colonel F. Burdett, Representative from the Grand Lodge of Ireland, are Past Grand Wardens, and Bro. H. C. D. Twining, Grand Secretary of the newly-formed Grand Lodge of Nova Scotia, is an Honorary Past Grand Deacon of England.

Multum in Parbo, or Masonic Notes and Queries.

"Uniformity of Work."—The letter concerning the "Uniformity of Work" (or rather the want of it) in lodges, by the Ill. Bro. Colonel Francis Burdett, P.G.W., is a valuable one, as our able Brother's experience has been varied and extensive. I quite coincide with his views respecting the appointment of Grand Lecturers, and feel persuaded that the institution of authoritative instructors in Freemasonry would be of the greatest benefit to the Fraternity. The system has been found to work well in the United States, and it is the opinion of many who are familiar with European Masonry that the same plan would, if adopted generally in the Grand Lodges, consummate the "uniformity" that is desired. W. J. HUGHAN.

"Freemasonry in Ireland."—I am glad to see your notice of the Book of Constitutions published by the Grand Lodge of Ireland A.D. 1730, and hope you will continue the same until the whole has been reproduced in your columns. I have not the first edition of the Irish Constitutions, although I have those of England from A.D. 1723 to the present time. There is, however, in my library the Irish Constitutions for 1744, "Approved of and agreed upon by the Grand Lodge in Dublin, on the 24th June, 1741,—TURLAMORE, Grand Master"; and also the next, or 1751 edition, compiled by Edward Spratt, of Dublin. The Book of Constitutions of Ireland for 1730 is to be found in Bro. R. Spencer's Catalogue (No. 85), and in a note it is stated that "this book is rarely met with; it was compiled a few years after the removal of the Grand Lodge of Ireland from Cork (where it was anciently held) to Dublin." Bro. J. G. Findel, of Leipzig, wrote me some time since respecting the "Grand Lodge of Munster," and stated there were some valuable papers, consisting of records of its transactions, in the possession of a brother in Ireland, of about 1726 to 1729. Any information on this point would be welcomed by him, and others as well who are much interested in the early history of Freemasonry anywhere. What was the origin of the Craft in Ireland has never yet been solved. Any authoritative facts on the subject are therefore of importance. W. J. HUGHAN.

KNIGHT TEMPLAR JOTTINGS.

BY WILLIAM JAMES HUGHAN,
Honorary Member of the "Immemorial Antient York Conclave of Redemption, Hull," &c.

According to the Calendar of the Order of the Temple for 1868-9, there are six "Immemorial" Encampments in England, viz. :—

A. Abbey Chapter	Nottingham.
B. Antient York Conclave of Redemption	Hull.
C. Baldwyn	Bristol.
D. Mount Calvary	London.
E. Observance	London.
F. Union, or Rougemont	Exeter.

There are also seven Encampments said to have been warranted during the last century. They are thus described :—

1. Antiquity, Bath ... 1791, March 11.
2. Royal Naval, Portsmouth ... 1791, March 11.
3. Plains of Rama, Keighley ... 1792, March 17.
4. Hope, Huddersfield ... 1793, Oct. 5.
5. Jerusalem, Manchester ... 1795, May 20.
6. St. George's, London ... 1795, Oct. 27.
7. Loyal Encampment of Volunteers, Ashton-under-Lyne 1796, Aug. 12.

Thus making 13, in all, in existence before the nineteenth century.

We think the above arrangement, however, to be unsatisfactory with respect to the Jerusalem Encampment, as on turning to the admirable history of that conclave written by Bro. John Yarker ("Notes on the Orders of the Temple and St. John," 1869), we find it first commenced its labours A.D. 1786, by virtue of a warrant (still preserved), dated 17th day of October in the same year. The above classification did not come into use until this last year, for previously the Encampments were not numbered in the Calendar.

Judging from the evidence given, the "Jerusalem Encampment" is entitled to a higher position on the roll, and should have been classified under the letter F, at least. It is to be regretted that but little is known of the others. With the exception of the Encampments B, C, I, and 5, we know not even when the earliest records preserved commence, and why they have been selected to occupy so prominent a position (except in some few instances) we are equally at a loss to explain. Surely it is high time we should know publicly on what grounds the other Encampments claim precedence or "Immemorial" designations. None, however, have produced any documentary evidence of their existence anterior to A.D. 1779, so that the Masonic Knights Templar would wisely leave out any claim to be considered of much antiquity.

The 18th century not only must have witnessed the revival of Freemasonry early in that period, the fabrication of the Royal Arch about 1740, and the innovations on "pure and ancient Freemasonry" from that date to 1760, but also have seen the birth of the Masonic arrangement of the Order of the Temple at a still later date.

Some of the most enlightened and illustrious Masons of the last century were connected with the Order, and certainly now, each succeeding year seems to witness a fresh increase of numbers and influence to this chivalric organization.

We have been much interested in the perusal of Bro. John Yarker's "Notes," and have been pleased to see the care he has generally taken as to their accuracy and fidelity. A few errors, we think, have been made. In a work, however, on such an intricate subject, we do not wonder at their being some mistakes; the real wonder is, how it has been written with so few unhistorical statements.

Bro. Yarker, whilst alluding to the "seceding or Ancient Grand Lodge of England," says, "This body was recognized by the Grand Lodge of All England at York, as the representative of what was termed 'Ancient Masonry' in the south" (page 14). This is not correct, for the only Grand Lodge formally recognized at any time by the authorities at York was the Lodge of Antiquity, when it seceded from the Regular Grand Lodge of England. It was then termed the "Grand Lodge of England south of the Trent." The Grand Lodge at York never recognized the Grand Lodge of the "Ancients," and there has never been a fact produced to prove its having done so at any period.

Brother Yarker states that "English Freemasonry was a speculative system before Scottish Freemasonry." This I deny, and would be glad to know on what grounds such an opinion is based.

Bro. Yarker has "been told, on respectable authority, that at Eastwood, near Todmorden, they have separate York warrants authorizing them to confer a Red Cross degree, as also the K.T., the Priestly Order, Rose Croix, and other degrees." This, also, I demur to; and as I have copies of the said warrants which are not of a "York" origin, I may be permitted to declare my disbelief of such pretensions as to authority from the Grand Lodge of York to work any such degrees at Todmorden.

What authority can be produced for the existence of a Knights Templar ritual in connection with Freemasonry of A.D. "1735, if not beyond?" Such a statement ought not to be mentioned without good foundation, and as it is of a much earlier date than has been claimed for Masonic Knights Templar generally, surely the ritual should be examined by some neutral parties, so as to decide approximately as to its age. For my part, I doubt its being earlier than 1780. We desire to give an especial prominence to the following statement by Bro. Yarker, which is somewhat new to us, and deserves to be well examined :—

"Owing to the documents of the Grand Lodge at York having been conveyed to the Duke of Suffolk by Brother Godfrey Higgins, there are but a few stray papers left at York."

We would ask, where are these documents now? To whom do they belong, if not to the "Union Lodge" at York? and certainly they should be at once restored to their lawful owners. But we never heard the statement before, and feel much surprised at not having heard of any attempt being made to recover the documents, or to ascertain their character, &c.

We quite agree with the remarks of the author of the "Notes" (page 36) on the question of the surrender of certain degrees to the "Ancient and Accepted Rite" by some old Encampments. The Baldwyn, however, still continues to work the following degrees at Bristol, as heretofore, viz., "Knights of the Nine Elect," "Knights of Kilwinning," "Knights of the East, Sword, and Eagle," and "Knights Rosæ Crucis," and we know of no Masonic authority than can prevent their doing so, while they keep them distinct from the Knights Templars and Masonic lodges, &c. We sincerely wish that this Encampment had a qualified historian in its midst, like Bro. Yarker, who would undertake to write its history.

We know of one eminent Mason in Bristol who would do so were the necessary information afforded him, and no doubt there are others also. We think if the "Notes on the Temple and St. John" were widely circulated they would act as an incentive to further research, and be a model for subsequent endeavours to chronicle the facts relating to the Order.

(To be continued.)

Original Correspondence.

[The Editor is not responsible for the opinions expressed by Correspondents.]

ROYAL ARCH MASONRY.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

SIR.—Being a constant reader of your valuable paper, I took great interest in the perusal of the papers on Royal Arch Masonry just concluded, written by the Son of Salathiel, and am much pleased at the able manner in which he treats the subject; the object of my writing you I am sorry to say is to take exception to certain passages relating to the Tau and the emblem of our Christian faith. I feel convinced they have been inadvertently used, especially as in one instance the passage occurs in a transcript from a work on mythology, and is consequently not his own composition.

The first quotation I take is as follows :—"The Tau having been regarded in the light of a mystical sign by various nations of the ancient world, this superstition pervaded the minds of many of the early Christians, particularly those of the Roman Catholic communion, which belief might have given rise to a superstitious reverence of this symbol especially as connected with the event of our Saviour's crucifixion. Had not this notion of it prevailed before the establishment of Christianity, it is probable that the cross, so far from being venerated as a sacred symbol, would have been held in detestation as the instrument of a most cruel and sanguinary punishment, more particularly as it was unjustly inflicted on the Saviour of the World." The second quotation states that "A like veneration is bestowed upon this figure—that is, the cross—by Roman Catholics, which like other customs of the ancients, has probably been adopted by them without understanding its origin, and which they attribute to a different source."

The fact of the Tau being in the form of a cross, I attribute to accident; indeed, it is not shown that that was the real form. The Tau may be seen marked on the foreheads of Hindoos at the present day to distinguish their caste. Then, what connection can be shown between the cross of the early Christians and the nilometre of the Egyptians, other than the convenience of that form of instrument for marking the rise and fall of the waters, the same as a surveying instrument of the present day for taking levels? As in like manner, the cross would be the most convenient form of instrument on which to affix the human frame with arms outstretched. Also, were not the early Christians of one mind, these unhappy dissensions not having taken place, which separated the Eastern and Western churches? If this particular form of instrument was so much venerated, how comes it that it was used as a means of punishing malefactors as the most ignominious death they could suffer, and that its use was forbidden as an instrument of death, solely on account of the veneration shown towards it by reason of the Son of God having nailed our sins on his own most blessed body to the tree?

I think it is a most unjust and cruel assertion to say that the figure of the cross is adopted by "Catholics," whether Roman or not, without understanding its origin and which they attribute to a different source.

The Christian builds his church in the form of a cross, he surmounts it with a cross, he places a cross on his altar, he carries it in procession, he is marked with it at his baptism, he wears it on his person, and places it in various parts of his house, and when he is laid to rest a cross is placed over his mortal remains. In all these and many other ways the cross is used as an outward and visible sign of his belief in the truths of his holy religion, and for no other conceivable cause. Fancy telling a woman that the cross she wears on her breast, was originally venerated on account of its being the instrument used to mark the rise and fall of the waters of the Nile! No, let us reverence Royal Arch Masonry, and the lessons it teaches, but let us not try to pervert the symbols used in the ceremony to the purpose of throwing ridicule on the faith and practice of Catholics, more especially at a time like the present, when the chief Bishop of the sister Isle has been denouncing Freemasonry, but let us show by brotherly love and real charity, that Freemasonry and Christianity are not antagonistic.

The following beautiful lines show the effect the sight of the emblem of a Christian's faith has upon him :—

"It makes the coward spirit brave,
And nerves the feeble arm for fight,
It takes its terrors from the grave,
And gilds the bed of death with light."

Apologising for the space I have taken up in your valuable paper, and hoping that the Son of Salathiel will take this effusion in no unkind spirit,
I am, yours fraternally,

CATHOLICUS.

HOSPITALARIA &c.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—At page 74, of 14th inst., I read the following :—"But though the political importance of the Order (Knights Templar) was thus annihilated, its suppression as a fraternity was not accomplished. The succession of Grand Masters has been uninterruptedly maintained, &c.; and the Order is still in vigorous existence in the chief cities of Europe."

I beg leave to state that the above is a decided mistake, for neither as an Order nor as a Fraternity did the Knights Templar exist in the 15th, 16th, or 17th centuries, so far as I know; and the presumed interrupted "succession of Grand Masters" is purely imaginary. It is true there is a pretended charter of transmission, but said document is, I believe, a forgery, and unless I know of some substantial evidence to prove the contrary, I consider my opinion the truth.

The chivalric Masonic degree of Knights Templar has no more to do with the 13th century Knights Templar, than the said 13th century Templars had to do with Freemasonry. Speculative Masonry was not in existence till several centuries after A.D. 1314; neither was Masonic Knight Templarism; consequently "the Order is" not "still in vigorous existence in the chief cities of Europe."

I am, yours fraternally,
LEO.

SPECIMENS FROM A MASONIC QUARRY.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I read with great interest the remarks of our esteemed Bro. W. J. Hughan, at page 79, and I beg to express my high appreciation of his labours. I see he gives a list of the old lodges, with their dates anent, which I am glad to see that the old 1057 date of No. 3 dis has been deservedly rubbed out and something nearer the truth, "1109," put in. I see the date of No. 0 is "1128," but there is some mistake here by the calendar, as at page 35, Freemason's Magazine for January 9th, we find an account of the "Mother lodge's celebration of its 727th anniversary," which would give the date 1140, which is the presumed date of the foundation of Kilwinning Abbey. Perhaps the publisher or editor of the Masonic Calendar will look to this; as by giving 1140, it would also be coming nearer the truth. The date of the Aberdeen Lodge, No. 34, is given as "1541" but as mentioned at page 8 of your issue of June 19th, the Aberdeen "masonry of the luge" are spoken of in 1483.

In the list of Scottish lodges which claim to be older than 1736, which Bro. Hughan gives, he omits the following:—

4. Glasgow Kilwinning	1735
10. Dalkeith Kilwinning	1727
12. Greenock Kilwinning	1728
23. Dunse Kilwinning	1730
27. St. Mungo, Glasgow	1729
28. St. John, Kilwinning, Kir-Kentillock	1726

From a minute of St. Mungo Lodge, written in 1774, it would seem to have been in existence in 1723. In 1729 it has the following composition of names as its designation, viz.:—"Lodge of St. John, St. Mungo's, Kirk of Glasgow, Kilwinning."

I see that Bro. Hughan only intended his list to be composed of those in existence before 1717, when Grand Lodge of England was formed.

I am, yours fraternally,
LEO.

"CIPES" AND BRO. D. MURRAY LYON.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER.—I am very glad to see your note at foot of Bro Leo's spirited answer to the calumnies of "Cipes" anent my dear friend Lyon; especially as you repudiate the reckless and unmasonic assertions of the writer of the article in question.

I say nothing as to the merits of the discussion, neither do I wish to say a word in reference to Bro. D. Murray Lyon's social, literary, and Masonic character. Those who are familiar with the literature of Freemasonry know him well, and those who are not, are in no position to give an assertion. As to his private life, it would only be seeking to "gild refined gold," to speak of it as its merits, so I conclude, by hoping another such article will never be found in THE FREEMASON.

W. J. HUGHAN.

Truro, August 14th, 1869.

ORIGIN OF FREEMASONRY.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

"Disparage not the faith thou dost not know."
Shakespeare.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Your erudite correspondent "Leo" is to hard upon a poor, simple, provincial brother. However, as banter seems to afford him pleasure, and certainly does me no harm, he is at liberty to indulge ad libitum. "Leo's" pet subject, like others, has two sides, and much can be said on both; but I am not a controversialist, so at once

"Hide my diminished head," content to be considered "charm"-ing, and rejoicing in the fact that I have "somewhat amused" my "most learned justicier."

Yours fraternally,
JOHN BOWES, P.M.

21st August, 1869.

"WHY DO THE HEATHEN RAGE?"

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I regret much to learn that "Cryptonymus" has had to combat with personal afflictions, and can assure him of my entire sympathy under such circumstances. My object in writing is not to provoke recriminations, but I cannot help recording a protest against my friend's interpretation that the tactics at present pursued by certain Continental Freemasons, constitute "landmarks" of the Order.

On the contrary we are taught by the "Ancient Charges" to be peaceable subjects, neither conspirators against government, nor rebels against lawfully constituted authority.

I also demur to his dictum that "Liberty is licence," as I, in common with others, have entertained a directly opposite notion.

However, with this general protest I content myself at present, as I have neither time nor inclination for a more lengthy dissertation. At a future time I may record my impressions of Continental Freemasonry in more shapely and circumstantial fashion.

Yours fraternally,
VIATOR.

THE IMITATIVE AND THE SYMBOLICAL.

The fine arts are merely imitative in their infancy, though as they become mature they also become symbolical. And this maturity is first attained by the architect, because he ministers to a want more urgent than the rest, because in the order of time the edifice must precede the works designed for its embellishment and because finding in nature no models except from the details of his performance, he must from the first be inventive in the composition of it. Thus the children of Benedict, when contemplating their lofty avenues sacred to meditation, and the mellowed lights streaming through the foliage, and the flowers clustering in the conventual garden, and the pendulous stalactites of the neighbouring grottoes, conceived of a Christian Temple in which objects resembling these, though hewn out of imperishable stone and carved into enduring forms, might be combined and grouped together into one glorious whole, with a ritual addressed to the eye rather than to the ear—a sacred pantomime of which the sacrifice of the mass was the action, priests the actors, and the high altar the stage. Nothing more was requisite to the solemn exhibition but the cathedral as its appropriate theatre.

It arose, therefore, not the servile representation of any one natural object, but the majestic combination of the forms of many, and full of mystic significance in the cruciform plan, the lofty arch, the oriel windows, the lateral chapels and the central elevation. Not a groining, a mullion or a tracery was there in which the initiated eye did not read some Masonic enigma, some ghostly counsel, or some inarticulate summons to confession, to penitence, or to prayer.

Every niche without and every shrine within these sanctuaries was adorned with images of their tutelary saints, and especially of her who is supreme among the demigods of this celestial land. But instead of rising to the impersonation of holiness, beauty, or power in these human forms, the monkish sculptors were content to copy the models of humanity within their reach, and the statues, busts and reliefs which in subsequent times fell beneath the blows of Protestant iconoclasts had little if any value but that which belonged to their peculiar locality and their accidental association. In painting, also, whether encaustic, in fresco, or on wood, the performances of the early Benedictine artists were equally humble. In order to give out their visible poetry, the chisel and the pencil must be guided by minds conversant with the cares and enjoyments of life, for it is by such minds only that the living soul which animates rude nature can ever be perceived, or can be expressed in the delineation of realities, whether animate or inanimate.

In ecclesiastical and conventual architecture, and in that art alone, the monks exhausted their creative imaginations. Covering Europe with monuments of their science in states and dynasties and with monuments of that plastic genius which form an infinity of elaborate, incongruous and often worthless details, they knew how to invoke one sublime and harmonious whole.

In these august shrines, if anywhere on earth, the spirit of criticism is silenced by the belief that the adoration of men are mingled in blessed accord with the hallelujahs of heaven.

WE are requested to state that the Domestic Chapter of Instruction, held at the Horns Tavern, Kennington, has suspended its convocations until November, in consequence of the absence from town of many of the members.

WE are informed that a committee of brethren interested in the question of "Uniformity of Working," have resolved to bring the recent extraordinary occurrences at the Union Waterloo Lodge, No. 13, Woolwich, under the special notice of the Earl of Zetland, with the view of devising measures to prevent a repetition of such a scandal to the Craft.

MASONIC EXHORTATIONS.

FROM THE GERMAN.

V. Benevolence.

Being created in the similitude of God, who in his mercy and immense bounty communicated himself to men and expanded over them the abundance of his blessings, strive thou assiduously, by making mankind as happy as possible, to resemble this divine original. Thou canst not imagine any thing good that is not an object of Masonic activity.

Look down upon the helpless situation of infancy, it challenges thy assistance; reflect on the sad inexperience of youth, it demands thy good counsels.

Find thy happiness in protecting them against errors and seduction, the common rocks of that age.

Awake in them the heavenly fire of genius, and instruct them how to unfold it for the benefit of the world.

Every suffering being has a sacred claim on thy assistance; take care not to deny it.

Do not wait till thy ears ring with the lamentations of the miserable; affectionately anticipate the wants of the unfortunate, and inspire them with courage.

Do not poison thy gifts by ostentation.

Thou shalt not find thy reward for thy benefactions in the vain and loud applauses of the multitude; a Mason will always find it in the silent and secret testimony of his heart, and in the sacred pleasure with which the Deity looks down upon him.

Has Providence granted thee abundance? Let it be far from thee to make an inconsiderate or shameful use of it.

God has given thee above thy wants, and thou mayst cause those that have received a scanty lot to feel less the inequality of the distribution of the riches of the earth. Enjoy this glorious prerogative.

May the most abominable of all passions, avarice, never predominate over thee: may thy heart for ever revolt against the worthless calculations of covetousness.

But should this melancholy vice overpower thee, approach no more the temples of Philanthropy; they would have no more charms for thee, and we could no longer discover in thee the image of God.

Let religion, wisdom, and prudence be the rule of thy benefactions.

Thy heart might be inclined to relieve every want, but thy reason must direct to assist where necessity is most pressing.

Instruct, advise, intercede; be charitable, console according to the exigency of circumstances.

If thou findest at last that thou art confined, and that thy soul begins to mourn, and to lament the incapacity of expanding as much happiness as thou wishest, then haste to our temples.

Behold here the sacred tie of benevolence, and, contributing as far as thy abilities permit towards the laudable Institutions of our Fraternity, rejoice at the idea of being a fellow-citizen of this better world, and enjoy the sweet fruits of our faculties united and concentrated to one point.

The sources of relief will then flow more abundantly; instead of helping one, thou wilt co-operate to make thousands happy, and thy wishes will be fulfilled.

VI. Further Duties towards Men.

Love thy neighbour as thyself, and do unto others as thou wishest to be done by.

The faculty of expressing thy thoughts by words is an external sign of thy command over nature; make use of this gift to alleviate the wants of thy fellow-creatures, and to encourage them to virtue.

Be affable and serviceable; edify others by thy example, and bear thyself kindly, and without repining at the prosperity of others.

Do not suffer thy heart to entertain any envy; it would undermine thy happiness, and rage in thy breast.

Pardon thy enemy, and have manliness of heart enough to do him good.

This generous sacrifice, one of the most exalted precepts of religion, will awake in thee the most benign sensations; thou wilt represent the image of the Deity, who with adorable kindness pardons the errors of men, and, disregarding their ingratitude, pours down His blessings upon them.

Always recollect that this is the most glorious victory thy reason can obtain over the brutal instincts; and thy motto be,

"A Mason forgets only injuries, never benefits."

BREAKFAST.—EPPS'S COCOA.—Grateful and Comforting.—The very agreeable character of this preparation has rendered it a general favourite. The Civil Service Gazette remarks:—"The singular success which Mr. Epps attained by his homoeopathic preparation of cocoa has never been surpassed by any experimentalist. By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills." Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold by the Trade only, in $\frac{1}{4}$ lb., $\frac{1}{2}$ lb., and 1 lb. tin-lined packets, labelled JAMES EPPS & Co., Homoeopathic Chemists, London.—ADV'T.

SUPREME COUNCIL, NEW YORK.

REPORT OF ILL. BRO. ALBERT G. GOODALL, GRAND REPRESENTATIVE, ON FOREIGN RELATIONS.

To the Supreme Council of Sov. Gr. Ins. Gen. of the 33rd and last degree Ancient Accepted Rite, for the Northern Masonic Jurisdiction, U.S.A.

ITALY,

(Continued from page 93).

MILAN

Also sends to us her claims of admission to the list of independent governing Grand Bodies in Italy.

Ill. Bro. de Grasse Tilley, who appears to have had a general roving authority from the Supreme Council at Charleston, established a Supreme Council, 33rd degree, Ancient accepted Rite, at Milan, in 1805, for the kingdom of Italy, and Prince Eugenius was for some time the Sov. Grand Commander and Grand Master of a kind of side introduction known as the Grand Orient de la Division Militaire. This Grand Body with all its Lodges appears to have quietly passed into permanent oblivion under the Austrian rule, as the Pope's commands were strictly obeyed in regard to prohibiting Masonry. In 1863, when the difficulties and withdrawal of some of the members from the Supreme Council at Turin occurred, they embraced the opportunity of exercising the imaginary Masonic right of independence, declared themselves free from the Supreme Council and higher degrees, and constituted what they call a Grand Council of Symbolic Masonry, and elected Antonio Franchi as Grand Master, and have about twenty Lodges under their jurisdiction.

FLORENCE.

The parties who separated from the Supreme Council and Grand Orient at Turin, in 1863, organized the "Grand Orient of Masonry in Italy," at Florence, in 1864, but unlike the other Grand Bodies in that country, it is not content with a local jurisdiction, but ignoring all the rest, regardless of Masonic law and precedence, constitutes itself a supreme power over all, and asserts that it is

"Monarch of all it surveys,

Their rights there are none to dispute."

The entire proceedings of this so-called and self-constituted Masonic Body are so entirely irregular and contrary to the long-established and universally-acknowledged laws of Masonry, that it is painful to have to record such proceedings as facts and historical incidents at this age and progress of the Order, and demonstrates very clearly the necessity of a general repudiation, or re-organization of the Order in Italy, before they can be received or fraternize with the Brotherhood in this country, according to our system, laws and work.

The only argument and claim worthy of note which the Grand Orient at Florence condescends to make known, as its authority for creating this new Masonic Body, is to be found in the circular accompanying these documents, with translation of same, by which it appears that Guiseppe Garibaldi, and F. de Luca, called a meeting of the Lodges in Italy and its colonies, which assembled at Naples, in June, 1867, abolished by their edict all the other governing Grand Bodies in Italy, and declared themselves the only Body of legitimate authority for that entire country, all of which was without the consent or co-operation of the other parties then long in power. Of the three hundred lodges in Italy only sixty appear to have been represented at the Naples assembly. Garibaldi was, and still is, the nominal Grand Master of the Body at Palermo, which being irregular is not recognized, and F. de Luca, was the nominal Grand Master of the same style and irregular Body at Florence, neither possessing any Masonic power to call the assembly, enact any laws or constitute a Great Orient, while the general phraseology of their circular and novel mode of electing officers must be rather comical to our old members who are sticklers for ancient land marks and Masonic jurisprudence.

They first declare Garibaldi honorary member for life, and the first Mason of Italy (while Gheri, of the Turin Body, claims to be the most ancient Mason in Italy). They then create a defective Grand Master, who, it appears, by a subsequent notice, is not able to attend to the duties, and they make two supplementary Grand Masters Adjunct, that may be called upon if wanted to do anything they may deem expedient. Two of the articles in the general Statutes of this Body are also deserving of attention, of which the following is a translation:

1st. To abolish in the several degrees the practice and forms which have become incompatible with the civilization of the present times.

2d. To democratize the prerogatives and jurisdictions of those "Rights" which are distinguished by the multiplicity of degrees.

The four other Bodies, viz. at Palermo, Naples, Turin and Milan, ignore this new and progressive Florence Grand Orient, and have issued protests against it, while the Palermo Body have repudiated the acts of Garibaldi, who, it appears, has never taken an active part, and is sadly deficient in his knowledge of Masonic law, usage and principles, and however much honor there may be to him in the political world, he certainly is not entitled to any such claims in Masonry, which has gained nothing in Italy by his direct association with it. These four Grand Bodies have also agreed to wait until Rome is the capital of Italy, when they will then unite and constitute a Grand Masonic centre for that country. In obedience to this mutual agreement, the Palermo Body have the following addition to their official heading: "Finché Roma non sia capitale degl' Italiani" (until Rome will be the capital of Italy).

Prominent among the irregularities of the Grand Orient of Florence, in their foreign operations, is the granting of Warrants to Lodges, now working under their authority in the Masonic Jurisdiction of the Supreme Bodies at Montevideo and Buenos Ayres, under the title of "Esperanza," at the former, and "Italia" at the latter place, and the silent indifference with which the Florence Body ignores the correspondence and protests made to them on this subject as set forth in the enclosed official communications from those River Plate Grand Bodies, deserves your careful consideration and decided action thereon, especially as to the class of expelled and unworthy members of the Order, legalized and profanes rejected by the regular Lodges, that are made Masons by these two Italian Lodges.

The several foreign Grand Bodies that have correspondence with and indirectly recognized this Grand Orient at Florence, is an illustration of the careless and imperfect manner of "taking things for granted" that all Bodies are legitimate that send forth what apparently purports to be a Masonic document asking for recognition.

On the eve of my departure from this city, in October, 1867, I sent (in obedience to direction from the Council) the Balustre announcing the union of the two Grand Bodies in this Jurisdiction, to all of our foreign Representatives, and among them to our Ill. Bro. T. Bigelow Lawrence, residing at Florence, as I did not know at that time the irregular and divided condition of the Masonic family in Italy. The official reply of Bro. Lawrence, is herewith enclosed.

TURKEY AND EGYPT.

The land of the Mussulman and the Bible naturally claims the greatest interest of the Mason, being the land of our historical birth and legends, and the Mecca of the Masonic world.

Leaving the Temple of Solomon to be tortured into any shape that may answer the variable purposes and futile brain of the historian, and afford a wide imaginary field for the lecturer, we will take our data at a much later period, when Masonry had assumed a more definite organization, according to our knowledge of its workings at the present time.

The first attempt of introducing Masonry into Turkey, was the opening of a Lodge in the house of an English interpreter at Constantinople, in 1749; a number of Turks being initiated, the Government authorities gave summary notice that if any more meetings were held, the house and all in it would be burnt. There being no record of the tragic event having occurred, we infer that the Lodge was permanently closed. Nearly a century later, about 1836, the Grand Lodge of England granted a second authority and a Lodge was opened in the same city, but the fanatical opposition proved too strong and the Order again died out.

A third attempt of the Grand Lodge of England has been more successful, and in 1859, Oriental Lodge, No. 988, was more firmly established in her jurisdiction, and I had the pleasure of being present at the meeting and first banquet given by that lodge at Constantinople, on the 27th day of December, 1859. I subsequently saw the work and initiation done in this Lodge in five different languages. A French Lodge, Etoile du Bosphore, under authority of the Grand Orient of France, had also just been organized. The honors and decoration they gave me as the first American Mason that had visited them from the New World will ever remain vivid among the many pleasing incidents of my Masonic wanderings.

Since 1859, Lodges have increased rapidly in the dominions of the Sultan, and as the curious fact is developed, of the Arts and Sciences being sent back to the old world and the East, the time may not be far distant when a Masonic Temple will again be erected on the foundation stone of our first great edifice, and from the ruined walls of Jerusalem the Masons of the world will have a centre to disseminate light and knowledge, preach and practise peace, good will, and brotherhood to all mankind.

In 1860, Ill. Bro. Hyde Clarke, 33°, so well known in literary and scientific circles began his Masonic labors under authority of the Grand Lodge of England, as Acting District Deputy Gr. Master, and during his several years sojourn in European Turkey, Asia Minor, Syria, Egypt and Africa, he contributed more to systemize, legalize and harmonize the working of the Order than any person that has yet visited those remote regions.

(To be continued.)

SIT LUX—ET LUX FUIT.

Brother, kneel before the Altar,
In silence grave;
Show no weakness—do not falter,
Like cowan knave.

Honest brethren stand around you,
With heart and hand,
Ready to encourage, aid you—
A noble band.

Here you need not fear deception,
All are true;
Every Brother here assembled
Knelt like you.

With throbbing hearts they silent listen
To your voice,
As you tell in earnest whisper,
Your free choice.

* * * * *
Gently loose the new-made Brother
From his cord,
He is bound by stronger fetters,
On God's word.

Hearken to the Master's language—
Pray for light;
Responsive voices chant the echo:
"Let there be light."

Welcome, Brother, to our household,
You are free;
May it ever prove a blessing
Unto thee.

I. J. Cummings

THE SYMBOLISM OF MASONRY.

The speculative principles of Freemasonry are not cultivated in our modern lodges with that care and minuteness which their importance requires and which their influence upon the destiny of the lodge demands. There are but a very, very small proportion of modern Masons who have ever given a thought to the great principles which lie concealed from the vulgar eye in the symbolism of our ritual, and its necessary adjuncts of preparation and ceremonials. What, but the symbolic teachings of our Order, give any importance to it not possessed by other organizations? I conceive it to be the soul of Masonry, and if the Order were deprived of it we might bid adieu to our time-honoured institution, for when novelty ceases there will be nothing left to sustain it. When the initiate has been regularly admitted and instructed, his mind is open and he is prepared to give attention to the Liberal Art, and it is much to be deplored that the candidate is here left with his mind open and in an anxious state of inquiry, yet doomed to disappointment in consequence of those whose duty it is to gradually unfold the system to him being themselves grossly ignorant of these principles. It is not to be wondered at that the real teachings of the Order are entirely neglected. With many, the making, advancing and raising, particularly the latter, form the sumum bonum, the entire system, the whole of Masonry, and the minds of too large a proportion of our membership are, I am sorry to record it, entirely satisfied therewith.

Is this, however, Masonry? Why, yes, thousands are ready to exclaim, and stand wondering what else is contained in our system. As their teachings have embraced nothing else, they are in a state of innocence and are not to be censured. But how are they to be enlightened? The general diffusion of universal Masonic literature may tend to show many that there is something more in our system, and a portion of these may learn how to unfold the mysteries in a greater or lesser degree. But no great change can be effected among the masses unless these teachings become, as of old, a part of the lodge instruction, so that all may be led "in the way they know not," and "walk in the paths they have not known." To them "the crooked paths must be made straight and the rough places plain." Then shall "the error of darkness flee away" and light, celestial light, pervade the minds of our brethren, and they shall "become as gods, knowing evil from good" and reflecting their principles and their illumination abroad among mankind, thus restoring our time-honoured institution to its pristine brightness, and opening its real character, thereby extending the sphere of its usefulness.—Bro. James B. Taylor.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—Impurities of the Blood.—To ensure health it is absolutely necessary that the fluids and solids of the human body should be kept free from those impurities which are continually getting into the system, through erroneous living, unwholesome atmosphere, or disordered stomach. The only safe and certain way to expel all impurities, is to take Holloway's Pills, which have the power of cleansing the blood from all noxious matters, and at the same time removing any irregularities which their presence may have already produced in any organ. Holloway's Pills expel all impurities which taint or impoverish the blood, which they purify and invigorate, and give general tone. They are applicable to all alike, young or old, robust or delicate.—ADVT.

Masonic Miscellanea.

At the unveiling of Field Marshal Keith's statue at Peterhead, on the 16th inst., several Masonic lodges took part in the interesting ceremony, and afterwards assisted at laying the foundation stone of the new Court House in that town. Past Master A. Boyd, of the Keith Lodge, No. 56, officiated as Grand Master, and the proceedings were favored with the presence of the Earl of Kintore, Lord Lieut. of the county and other local celebrities. The cast of Marshal Keith's statue was presented to his native town by the King of Prussia, and this graceful act on the part of His Majesty, and the courtesy of Count Bismarck were duly acknowledged at the banquet which followed the public celebration.

SECRETS.—There are secrets in and about its every department. Veins, arteries, ligaments and flesh and bone have their secrets. The blood which animates the human frame flows on in silence. And how quiet are the communings of the heart. There are feelings, and thoughts, and sympathies, which never emerge from their solitary retreats. And who has ever heard those mighty spirits which walk so majestically in history, or those associated events and principles which have come down from the past? Time, with a quiet and noiseless hand, is continually drawing out the invisible wires which connect century with century, those mystic lines which enable us to commune with the remotest ages. Yes, there is mystery everywhere—mystery in the present, mystery in the past, and mystery in the future.

IMPOSTORS.—Look out for those fiends who prowl about the holy places and prey upon the funds sacred to the destitute, the widow, the orphan. Examine them well, and then examine their claims. Many of these cowardly thieves are not entitled to relief, even from their own showing. It is not incumbent upon Masons to support a man in idleness when he ought to be at work. Nay, more, those who thus disburse a fund that belongs to the deserving alone show themselves to be careless, if not faithless, stewards. These rascals are abundant in some portions of the country, and from the negligence of Masons in many sections their increase is greatly encouraged. Many of them make ten times what they could by honest labour, and then, perhaps, spend it in the lowest debauchery.

Agents.

AMERICA: Bro. J. FLETCHER BRENNAN, 114, Main-street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

CANADA: Messrs. DEVRIE & SON, Ottawa.

CEYLON: Messrs. W. L. SKEENE & Co., Colombo.

CONSTANTINOPLE: Bro. J. L. HANLY, Levant Times' EAST INDIES:

Allahabad: Messrs. WYMAN BROS.

Beyulla: Bro. GEO. BEASE.

Central Provinces: Bro. F. J. JORDAN.

Kurrachee: Bro. G. C. BRAYSON.

Madras: Mr. CALEB FOSTER.

Mhow: Bro. COWASJEE NUSSEERWANJEE.

Poona: Bro. W. WELLIS.

GALATA: IPSICK KAHN, Perchembé-Bajar.

PARIS: M. DECHEVAUX-DUMESNIL, Rue de Harlay-du-Palais, 20, near the Pont Neuf; Editor Le Franco-Macon.

And all Booksellers and Newsagents in Great Britain and Ireland.

Advertisements.

BRO. ADLARD'S REGISTERED JEWEL ATTACHER. Price 7s. 6d. Universally adopted. Maker of the Improved Fitting Lodge Collars and Masonic Clothing. 225, High Holborn, London, W.C.

ARMS, CRESTS, and MONOGRAMS.—MASONIC EMBLEMS Engraved on Seals, Dies, &c. Official Stamps designed and Engraved.—Bro. D. G. BERRI, Engraver to Her Majesty's Post Office, Stationery Office, &c., 86, High Holborn (opposite Chancery-lane), London, W.C.

BRO. R. FLETCHER, Masonic Stationer. Masonic Emblems, Arms, Crests, Monograms, Addresses, &c., beautifully stamped on note paper and envelopes in Gold, Silver or Colours. Lodge Stationery correctly and carefully prepared. Jewels copied and Signet Rings engraved with minute care. The patronage of the Craft respectfully solicited by Bro. R. FLETCHER, Masonic Stationer, 10, Winsley-street, Oxford-street, London, W., opposite the Pantheon.

BRO. H. T. LAMB,

MANUFACTURER OF MASONIC JEWELS,

ST. JOHN SQUARE,

CLERKENWELL

LONDON.

ILLUSTRATED PRICE LIST POST FREE ON APPLICATION.

GEORGE KENNING,

3 and 4,

Little Britain, London, E.C.

MASONIC DEPOT.

THE LARGEST STOCK in the WORLD

Jewels,

Clothing,

Furniture,

Banners,

Books, &

Requisites

For all Degrees in Freemasonry.

3 and 4, Little Britain, London, E.C.

Price Lists on application.

NAVAL & MILITARY WAREHOUSE,

Laces,

Embroidery,

Swords,

Belts,

Chacos,

Buttons,

Epaulettes,

Sashes,

&c., &c.

3 and 4, Little Britain, London, E.C.

Price Lists on application.

GEORGE KENNING,

3 and 4,

Little Britain, London, E.C.

HATS! HATS! HATS!

T. OLIVER & SON,

14, ALDERSGATE STREET, E.C., AND
59, FULHAM ROAD, S.W.

EVERY description of SHOOTING HATS for the season. PARIS HATS, 10/6 to 21/-, of the finest silk makes.

A Brother, who can obtain security, SEEKS EMPLOYMENT in any capacity; is strong, in good health, not afraid of hard work, and has good testimonials as to character, &c.—W. S., 4, Little Britain, E.C.

ESTABLISHED 1840.

BRO. W. H. WAGHORN Manufacturer of Regalia for all Societies, Masonic Aprons, Collars, Ribbons, Sashes, and every requisite for all degrees in Freemasonry always in Stock.
10, VINEGAR YARD, COVENT GARDEN, LONDON, W.C.

PRICE'S BENZODYNE,

A Newly-discovered principle residing in Gum Benjamin (Styrac Benzoin), the chief chemical product of which has hitherto been Benzoic Acid, well known and highly valued by medical practitioners. The great difficulty which the discoverer encountered in bringing out this important remedy was the form in which to present it to the faculty and the public, the new chemical being amorphous and incapable of crystallization. It has therefore been deemed advisable to prepare a highly-concentrated solution of the product, combining it with such adjuncts as are considered natural auxiliaries. Price's "Benzodyne" is stimulant, anodyne, and mechanically astringent, arresting fluxes and hemorrhages of all kinds both external and internal. Possessing singular efficacy in the following diseases:—Ague, Bronchitis, Consumption, Colic, Cholera, Cold, Cough, Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Debility in all its various forms, Fevers, Influenza, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Spasms, Tiedolereux, &c., &c. Price's "Benzodyne" has been tried repeatedly in these cases and has never failed to cure.

It immediately relieves all pain, actually sheathing the organs with a protective matter, which defies the action of the most virulent blood-poisons, and thus "Benzodyne" acts as the most powerful styptic now known to science, and being the only effective external application for cuts, bites of insects, and all open wounds. In Cholera, as in Consumption its effects are astounding, while Chronic Cough yields to its curative influences in a few hours.

PRICE'S BENZODYNE is acknowledged by the highest Medical authority to be the most wonderful medicine yet introduced to the public; it may be taken at any time by both young and old with the most beneficial effects in all cases, leaving no bad effects like Laudanum, Chlorodyne, or any other sedative preparation, and can be given when no other could be tolerated.

In Consumption and Cancer its peculiarly soothing properties render it a boon to the sufferer in allaying the cough, mitigating night perspirations, and in relieving pain, &c.

In every stage of those dire diseases it gives an amount of ease not attainable by any other remedy.

In all cases of Chest Affections, as Asthma, Bronchitis, Winter Cough, Palpitation, &c., "Price's Benzodyne" is a very valuable medicine, producing a composed and tranquil state of the system, and quickly relieving the cough, assisting expectoration, and in a few days removing the most distressing symptoms.

In Hysteria, Epilepsy, Gout, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and all Nerve Pains it is justly valued, as it is given with immediate benefit, relieving pain and suffering however violent the attack.

In Diarrhoea, Cholera, Alvine Discharges, all spasms and colics of the intestines, &c., its effects are signal, as it never fails to check the disease.

CONSUMPTION IN ALL ITS STAGES CURED.

Coughs, Whooping Cough, Asthma, Bronchitis, Fever, Ague, Diphtheria, Hysteria, Rheumatism, Diarrhoea, Spasms, Colic, Renal and Uterine Diseases are immediately relieved by a dose.

During the period of Dentition of Children it will be found invaluable, and in curing Whooping Cough, Spasms, dispelling Flatulency, preventing Convulsive Fits, Heats, &c., to which they are so liable.

"Price's Benzodyne" is specially adapted for Naval, Military or Traveller's medicine chests, and for Hospitals and Dispensaries everywhere.

Sold in bottles at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s. and 22s., by all chemists

THROUGHOUT THE WORLD.

Prepared and guaranteed by

Mr. PRICE, Analytical Chemist,

and sold wholesale by PRICE & Co., 2, Lower Seymour Street, and 80, Duke Street, Portman Square London, W.; or through the following agents:—

LLEWELLYN & Co., Shanghai, China.

LLEWELLYN & Co., Hiogo, Japan.

FAULDING & Co., Adelaide, Australia.

LEVY BROTHERS, Melbourne.

EPILEPSY OR FITS.

FITS—A sure cure for this distressing complaint is now made known in a Treatise (of 48 octavo pages) on FITS—Foreign and Native Herbal Preparations, published by Prof. O. PARLAP BROWN. The prescription was discovered by him in such a providential manner that he cannot conscientiously refuse to make it known, as it has cured everybody who has used it. FITS—for Fits, never having failed in a single case. The ingredients may be obtained from any chemist.—Persons desiring a copy may address Prof. O. PARLAP BROWN, No. 2, King Street, Covent Garden, London, enclosing stamp; six copies, three stamps.

EDUCATION.—CROOM'S-HILL SCHOOL,
Blackheath, near London,
PRINCIPAL, Rev. T. GOODWIN, M.A., D.C.L., LL.D.
Parents in search of a School combining the conscientious care of a home and the thorough efficiency of education in its several departments, are requested to apply for a Prospectus to the Principal, who is ready to submit to applicants all information concerning the School, the testimony of parents in its favour, and an account of the uniformly distinguished position its pupils have achieved in commercial pursuits, in the Civil Service, the Medical, the Army and Navy, and the University Examinations.

THE EUROPEAN MAIL

A Summary of Universal Intelligence and Exact Commercial Statistics from Mail to Mail, specially prepared for the Colonies and Trans-Oceanic World generally.

THE EUROPEAN MAIL IS THE LEADING TITLE OF EIGHT TOTALLY DISTINCT NEWSPAPERS, AS FOLLOW—

No. of issues annually.	Destination.	When Issued.	Rate of Subscription per annum, including postage.
24 A.	European Mail for the West Indies, Central America, Chili, Peru, &c.	2nd & 17th of the month	40s.
24 B.	European Mail for South Africa, St. Helena, Ascension, &c.	10th & 24th	40s.
52 C.	European Mail for North America, i.e., the United States, Canadian Dominion, British America, Cuba, Mexico, &c.	Every Saturday	52s.
24 D.	European Mail for the Brazils and River Plate, Azores, &c.	9th, 19th, & 29th	54s.
52 E.	European Mail for China, Japan, Ceylon, Penang, Singapore, Siam, Sumatra, Java, Borneo, and the Philippines	27th August 1869, and every fortnight after, by English Mail; and on Sept 2nd, 1869, and every fourth Thursday by French Mail.	52s.
52 F.	European Mail for India, Burmah, Egypt, &c.	Sept. 3rd '69, and every succeeding Friday.	59s.*
13 G.	European Mail for Australia and New Zealand	Every 4th Friday.	13s.
24 K.	European Mail for the West Coast of Africa, Madeira, Teneriffe, &c.	3rd & 23rd of the month.	40s.

* Or with Manifest Supplement, 65s.
N.B.—All Subscriptions payable in advance.
EACH Paper contains every item of intelligence, from Mail to Mail, specially affecting the country or colony for which it is published, with an exhaustive summary of home and continental politics, science, art, and social news, and a retrospect of commercial transactions in Great Britain and on the Continent.

Manufacturers and Merchants may command the greatest markets of the world for their products through the mediums of publicity afforded by the EUROPEAN MAIL. A demand may be created where none exists at present, or an existing demand may be sustained and increased against the most energetic competition.

The EUROPEAN MAIL gives such perfect mercantile information that it is the highest commercial authority in the vast and prosperous territories through which it circulates. It is therefore an imperative necessity to the merchant who orders goods in bulk, and to the wholesale and retail distributor; it is also the most complete newspaper despatched from England; and is eagerly sought by all classes; it thus, unlike merely commercial newspapers, reaches and leaves the great communities who are the actual consumers of all products, and who must be acted upon by advertisement to require a special article, before the merchant will venture to order a consignment.

Scale of Charges for ADVERTISEMENTS each insertion per Paper as follows:—

FOR PAPERS C, F, & G ONLY.	FOR PAPERS A, B, D, E, & K ONLY
One Page ... 2 s. d.	One Page ... 2 s. d.
Two-thirds of a Page ... 1 10 0	Two-thirds of a Page ... 1 10 0
Half Page ... 1 5 0	Half Page ... 1 5 0
One-third of a Page ... 1 0 0	One-third of a Page ... 1 0 0
Quarter Page ... 0 8 0	Quarter Page ... 0 8 0
Eighth of a Page ... 0 4 0	Eighth of a Page ... 0 4 0
Below an Eighth of a Page, Per inch.	Below an Eighth of a Page, Per inch.
Across the Page ... 0 18 9	Across the Page ... 0 18 9
Two-thirds across the Page ... 0 12 9	Two-thirds across the Page ... 0 12 9
Half across the Page ... 0 9 9	Half across the Page ... 0 9 9
One-third across the Page ... 0 6 9	One-third across the Page ... 0 6 9
Page next matter, Rate and a Half.	Outside pages, Double Rate.

* The above Scale of Charges is subject to a Discount of 10 per cent. for Advertisements appearing in the consecutive issues of a paper for 3 months; of 15 per cent. for 6 months; and 20 per cent. for 12 months.

When an Advertisement is ordered for insertion simultaneously in all the Papers, the lowest rate above is charged all through.

Post Office Orders, to be made payable at the Cannon-street Post Office, London.

Remittances payable to William Vaughan.
The EUROPEAN MAIL may be ordered through the Local Agent, direct from the London Office, or through any Firm having representatives in England. In the last case, the usual system is to order the EUROPEAN MAIL to be forwarded until countermanded; the representative of the Firm in England being directed, under similar conditions, to make payment annually.

THE NEW MUSICAL PITCH.

COLLARD MOUTRIE has just invented, perfected, and secured by Royal Letters Patent, an important improvement in the manufacture of Pianofortes, by which the Pitch is raised to the Philharmonic or lowered to that of the French normal diapason in an instant, at the option of the performer. This invention can be applied to any Pianoforte. The Profession, Amateurs, Musical Critics, Musical Public, and the Trade are invited to witness its utility and effect, between the hours of Eleven and Four, at the Manufactory, 77, Southampton-row, Russell-square. Established 1849.

THE AMERICAN FREEMASON

is Monthly, of sixteen double-column quarto pages of entirely original matter, and translations from the French Italian, and German Masonic papers and periodicals of the day. It is devoted to the discussion of the rights of Lodges and individual Freemasons, in contradistinction to the assumptions of Grand Lodges, and the un-Masonic doctrines and arrangements of "high degrees." Its motto is—Belief in the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man. Its price is Five Shillings a year—a sum so small that, no Freemason, for pecuniary reasons, need be a non-subscriber to it. Trans-Atlantic Subscribers to the AMERICAN FREEMASON will receive it Post-paid from the Office of Publication direct, at their respective Post-offices, upon payment of the subscription to

BRO. GEORGE KENNING,
3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, LONDON, E.C.
All Subscriptions begin with March 15th, 1869, and end with February, 1870.

The AMERICAN FREEMASON is not the organ of any Grand Lodge; but speaking the words of truth, manhood, and independence, advocates freedom for Masonry in America, and the rights of Freemasons in their Lodges—rights which, by our Grand Lodges, in their subservency to high degrees, have been invaded, until at present they are nearly obliterated. Subscribers in the British Colonies will please address all Subscriptions and Correspondence to J. FLETCHER BRENNAN, Editor, 114, Main-street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

VELOCIPEDES & BICYCLES for either Sex.

Speed 30 miles per hour, hill-ascending, self-propelling and balancing, £100. Diagram, 6d.

Manufacturing Licences granted.
W. PIDDING, Esq., PATENTER, 31, Kings'-row, Walworth-road.

"Having drawn Mr. W. PIDDING'S Specification of Patent, I am able to certify that his improvements in Velocipedes (bicycles, particularly) will render them self-balancing, capable of ascending hilly ground, and that they would travel on a newly-made road without inconvenience to the rider, either in the way of jolting or in retarding of the great speed the improvements will secure. The travelling, in fact, would be as though on level ground.

(Signed) "J. G. WILSON, C.E.
"Belgrave-terrace, Peckham, S.E.; formerly of 18, Gt. George-street, Westminster."

"MR. W. PIDDING'S PATENT SELF-PROPELLING AND BALANCING VELOCIPEDES AND BICYCLES.—Having seen the diagrams, and perused a specification of Mr. PIDDING'S patent, we hesitate not for an instant to say that that gentleman will accomplish all he professes to do by means of his invention."—Sporting Opinion.

New Edition, in post 8vo, with about 80 Woodcuts, price 12s. 6d.

A Co-operative Discount of Twenty per Cent. to Brothers.

FOR GOUT—Use OIL of HORSE CHEST-NUTS, which imparts a natural circulation. 2/9, 4/6, and 11/- per bottle.

FOR GOUT—Drink WILDUNGEN WATER, the only natural solvent for Stone and Gravel. 1/6 per bottle; 15/- per dozen.

FOR INDIGESTION—Take DANDELION, CAMOMILE and RHUBARB PILLS. 1/4 per box; 2/9, 4/6, and 11/- per bottle.

FOR INDIGESTION—Take the PURE VEGETABLE CHARCOAL, prepared according to Mr. BIPP'S formula. 3/6 per bottle. The only internal disinfectant.

ANDERSON'S MEDICAL LABORATORY,
2, Lower Seymour-street, Portman-square; and 80, Duke-street, Manchester-square, London, W.

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.

Opium, Narcotics, and Squills, are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary Diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.

SELECT TESTIMONIAL.
Dr. R. B. Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says:—"I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued Cough, Pain, and Irritation of the Chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."

This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold by all respectable Chemists and Patent Medicine Dealers, in bottles at 1s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each, and wholesale by J. & M. CROSBY, Chemist, Scarborough.

* Invalids should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be obtained gratis of any respectable Chemist.

TO THE NERVOUS & DEBILITATED EPILEPTIC SUFFERERS AND OTHERS.

HALL'S CHLORATE OF POTASSA, discovered, introduced, and extensively prescribed by the late eminent Dr. MARSHALL HALL, has proved an infallible remedy (by oxydizing the blood and supplying its saline constituent) for Indigestion, Debility, Coughs, Asthma, Consumption, Skin, Liver, Stomach, and Nervous Affections, more especially Epilepsy, Apoplexy, and Paralysis. The successful results of this new chemical preparation are beyond all precedent, and the extraordinary cures effected by the late discoverer, and by his successor (Dr. Sutton), in the above maladies are without a parallel in the annals of medicine; and it is confidently believed that in no case need the sufferer despair, for practical experience has demonstrated, and signal success warranted the assertion, that in 99 cases out of every 100 complete cures may be relied on.

Sold in Bottles at 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and Cases of £5 each, by

DR. SUTTON, M.D., 15, REGENT SQUARE, LONDON, W.C., and in BOLTON by PRIESTLEY, Chemist.

The following are a few Testimonials published by privilege.

Sir Charles Locock, Physician-Accoucher to Her Majesty, stated at a meeting of the Royal Medical and Chirurgical Society, that in sixteen cases of Epilepsy he had effected permanent cures by the use of Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa.

"September 6, 1856.—The Editor of the Bury Gazette returns thanks to Dr. Hall for the great benefit he has received from his Chlorate of Potassa treatment in a severe nervous disease."

Sir J. Ferguson, King's College Hospital, London, says—"I have repeatedly prescribed Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa and found it an agreeable and beneficial remedy."

Extract from the Lancet, April 1, 1857.—"In conclusion, we are of opinion that Hall's Chlorate of Potassa is a far superior remedy to the ones in general use for Nervousness, Indigestion, and Liver Complaints, when judiciously prescribed."

Sir Benjamin Brodie says—"What Chloride of Lime is to the foul sewer, Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa is to the blood."

Professor Syme says—"The effects of Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa in obstinate cases of disease are as astonishing as perplexing."

Dr. Lancaster, the eminent coroner, says—"Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa is calculated to entirely supersede iron, mercury, arsen-parilla, quinine, and cod liver oil."

Sir Philip Crampton says—"I believe there is no condition of the system that may not be benefited by Dr. Hall's Potassa."

Sir T. Lawrence says—"I have found Dr. Hall's Chlorate an excellent remedy in Skin Diseases. I presume it is by oxydization."

Sir T. Watson says—"I know that it is an invaluable remedy."

Sir Edward Borough, 9, Fitzwilliam-square, Dublin, certifies Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa has been of the greatest benefit to a member of his family.

The Earl of Clarendon certifies that Dr. Hall's Chlorate cured a case of indigestion of 15 years' duration.

Dr. HALL'S CHLORATE OF POTASSA may be procured by order through any Chemist. Ask for "Dr. HALL'S Chlorate," and do not be imposed on with the common article. It is sold in Bolton by Priestley, Chemist, 12, Deansgate; or it may be had direct from Dr. Hall's successor, Dr. JOHN SUTTON, M.D., 15, Regent square, London, W.C., who undertakes the positive cure of all chronic diseases before payment.

Dr. HALL'S Chlorate is sold in MANCHESTER by JEWELL, Market-street; in Liverpool by PRIESTLEY, Lord-street.

N.B.—Dr. Sutton will shortly repeat his Lecture on this subject.—The Lecture sent for two stamps.

DR. LEA'S CELEBRATED MEDICINES.

"The efficacy of Lea's Medicines is proverbial."
Daily Telegraph.

"Lea's preparations are excellent."—Morning Star.

LEA'S BENGAL ATRABILIOUS PILLS.
Invaluable in all liver complaints, and as a Family Medicine (without Mercury). 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

LEA'S GOUT AND RHEUMATIC PILLS.
Will eradicate these disorders when every other remedy has failed, excellent also in Neuralgia, Lumbago, and Sciatica. 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

LEA'S CONSUMPTION SPECIFIC.
If perverted in, will seldom fail. 11s. and 22s.

LEA'S ASTHMATIC EMULSION.
Maintains its superiority for this complaint, Chronic Cough, Bronchial affections, Colds, &c. 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

LEA'S WHOOPING-COUGH EMULSION.
A certain cure for this destructive complaint in a few days. 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

Prepared by G. LEA, M.D. Camberwell, Surrey.
LONDON AGENTS—BARCLAY, Farringdon-street; PAGE and TIBBS, 47, Blackfriars-road; and SUTTON, Bow Churchyard, &c. Advice free.

CONSUMPTION IS CURABLE.—

TO CONSUMPTIVES.—A Clergyman, whose son has been miraculously cured of deep consumption, desires in gratitude, and for the benefit of the afflicted, to send full particulars of the remedies used in his son's case, so that all may participate in this providential discovery. Sent to any address free of charge. Address the Secretary, 43, George street, Portman-square, London.

CONSUMPTION OF THE LUNGS.—

Dr. RAIT has discovered a CERTAIN CURE for this fatal malady. Advice gratis. Address W. RAIT, M.D., Peckham, Surrey.

LAMPLUGH'S PYRETIC SALINE

Is most invigorating, vitalizing, and refreshing. It gives instant relief in Headache, Sea or Bilious Sickness, and quickly cures the worst form of Eruptive or Skin Complaints. The various diseases arising from Constipation, the Liver, or Blood Impurities, Inappetence, the results of breathing air infected with Fever, Measles, or Small Pox ARE CURED AND PREVENTED BY ITS USE.

Sold by all Chemists, and the Maker, in Patent Glass Stopped Bottles, at 2s. 6d., 4s. 6d., 11s., and 21s. each.

Notice my Trade Mark, and beware of spurious imitations.
H. LAMPLUGH,
113, Holborn Hill, London, E.C.

TO ADVERTISERS.

THE Circulation of THE FREEMASON being now at the rate of nearly Half-a-Million per annum, it offers peculiar facilities to all who advertise.

It is well-known that the Fraternity of Freemasons is a large and constantly increasing body, mainly composed of the influential and educated classes of society; and as

The Freemason

is now the accepted organ of the Brotherhood in the United Kingdom, and also enjoys an extensive sale in the colonies and foreign parts, its advantages as an advertising medium can scarcely be overrated.

Only four pages can be allotted to advertisements.

For terms apply to

GEORGE KENNING,
3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, LONDON, E.C.

NOW READY,

Cases to hold 4 copies of "The Freemason," 1/6.

Cases to hold 52 copies of "The Freemason," 2/6.

With THE FREEMASON emblematically depicted, and other Masonic emblems in gold.

To be had at the Offices, 3 & 4, Little Britain.

PROV. GRAND LODGE OF HERTFORD.

A M. M. APRON, in case, without name, was left in the carriage between Watford and Camden Town, and may be had at the Office of this Paper.

SHED or WORKSHOP WANTED, about 100 feet long, near the City. — State particulars, addressed to Office of this Paper.

BOARD and RESIDENCE for one or two Gentlemen, in a quiet private house, close to Hyde-park, omnibus and railway. Terms, from 42s. per week. — Address, W., 15, Gloucester-terrace, Hyde-park, W.

HUMAN FINS, for Swimming, 12s. the set, BARNETT, patentee, Paris (complete specification). With these ready adopted fins the swimmer can with ease and rapidly perform long distances with security against cramps. Sold by HEMARDINQUER, agent, 5, Falcon-street, City; and all India-rubber Warehousemen, &c.

WILLIAM WINSOR, of 8, Miles's-lane, London-bridge, imports CIGARS of the very Finest Brands only, and manufactures Cigars from the Choicest Tobaccos. Wholesale and retail.

BR. JAMES STEVENS (25, 720, 1216, &c.), Auctioneer and Surveyor, House and Estate Agent, &c., Clapham Common. — Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duties. Agent to the Imperial Fire & Life Insurance Offices

SECOND EDITION.

8vo., Price 9s. 6d., Cloth.

DOCTORS' COMMONS, its Courts and Registries; with a Treatise on PROBATE COURT BUSINESS. By G. J. FOSTER, Clerk of the Papers of Her Majesty's Court of Probate.

London: Published by REEVES, SON & CO., Playhouse-yard, Blackfriars, E.C.

Just Published. Price Half a Guinea.

MONOGRAMS,
HISTORICAL AND PRACTICAL,
D. G. BERRI,

Engraver to Her Majesty's Post Office, Stationery Office, &c., &c.,

36, High Holborn, (opposite Chancery-lane,) LONDON, W.C.

JUST PUBLISHED.

THE GENERAL STATUTES of the Imperial, Ecclesiastical, and Military Order of the Red Cross of Rome and Constantine, and the Laws of the K.H.S.; with an Appendix and Engravings of the Jewels and Regalia, to which is added a Sketch of the History of the Red Cross Order.

Published under the authority of the Grand Council by R. WENTWORTH LITTLE, G. Recorder, and sold by G. KENNING, Little Britain, E.C.

12mo Cloth, Bound and Lettered, Price 1s. 6d.

MASONIC NOTE AND LETTER PAPER.

Sanctioned by The Most Worshipful

The Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of England

IT is impressed with the Masonic Die, and has also Masonic Emblems incorporated with its texture, as Water Marks, while being manufactured.

Sold, in Quarto and Octavo Packets of Five Quires, Wholesale and Retail, at the MASONIC DEPOT, 3 and 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, E.C.

Masonic Envelopes can also be obtained at the Depot.

Unlike any other Plan known.

POSITIVE LIFE ASSURANCE is a new system, first introduced by the
MASONIC & GENERAL FIRE & LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY, Limited,
8, NEW BRIDGE STREET, BLACKFRIARS

It secures Insurers a Promissory Note (instead of the ordinary Policy) for each premium paid, which is payable "To Bearer," either during the life-time or at the death of the assured.

Full Particulars on application to

FREDERICK BIGG,
Manager and Actuary.

Agents wanted in London and the provinces.

COMPENSATION
IN CASE OF INJURY, AND
A FIXED SUM IN CASE OF DEATH
CAUSED BY
ACCIDENT OF ANY KIND,

May be Secured by a Policy of the Railway Passengers Assurance Company.

An annual payment of £3 to £6 5s. Insures £1000 at Death, and an allowance at the rate of £6 per week for Injury.

RAILWAY ACCIDENTS ALONE

MAY BE PROVIDED AGAINST BY

Insurance Tickets for Single or Double Journeys.

For particulars apply to the Clerks at the Railway Stations, to the Local Agents, or at the Offices,
64, CORNHILL, & 10, REGENT STREET, LONDON.

WILLIAM J. VIAN, Secretary.

MONEY.

LOANS ON PERSONAL SECURITY, WITH
LIFE ASSURANCE,
AT FIVE PER CENT. PER ANNUM.

THE

WEST OF ENGLAND FIRE & LIFE OFFICE
(Instituted 1803)

GRANTS LOANS FOR A LIMITED NUMBER OF
YEARS ON THE ABOVE TERMS.

Chief Office—Exeter.

London—20, New Bridge Street.

MONEY.—LOANS Granted from £100 to £2,000 at 5 per cent., repayable over Three Years, on Personal Security and Life Policy effected with the WEST OF ENGLAND INSURANCE CO., (Established 1807.)

Apply to the Superintendent or Agents,
Bro. J. CROCKER, Gateshead-on-Tyne.
Agents Wanted.

SHIRTS,

2/6, 3/6, 4/6, 5/6, 6/6 upwards,
In all materials of Cotton and Wool.

CANN, JONES & CO.,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

Shirt Manufacturers, Tailors and Outfitters,

171, FENCHURCH STREET, E.C.

MANUFACTORY: 15 & 16, BLOMFIELD STREET, E.C.

"TRUTH MUST PREVAIL,"

Common Sense.

Lamps, Baths, Cutlery, Brushes, Fenders & Fire
Irons, Electroplate, & Nickel-Silver Goods.

R. D. PARR,

General House Furnishing Ironmonger,

42, BLACKMAN STREET, BOROUGH,

OFFERS nothing extraordinary, but REALLY
GOOD Articles at fair and reasonable prices. He does not keep an "Immense Stock," but SUFFICIENTLY LARGE for any person to select from. He does not sell "cheaper than every other house in the Trade," but quite as cheap as ANY.

A visit will, at all times, be very much appreciated.

For Cheap Watches, Clocks, Gold Chains, and
Jewelry, go to

KIBBLE'S

22, GRACECHURCH STREET,

One Door from Lombard Street, and

51, LUDGATE HILL,

Opposite the Old Bailey.

Gold Watches £2 15s.
Silver ditto £1 5s.
Timepieces from 9s. 6d.

EVERY ARTICLE WARRANTED.

Plate, Watches, and Jewelry, bought or exchanged.

List of Prices Post free.

BRO. REEVES, SON & CO.,

Steam Printers, Engravers & Lithographers,
WHOLESALE STATIONERS,
AND ACCOUNT BOOK MANUFACTURERS,
Playhouse Yard, Blackfriars, London, E.C.
Next the "Times" Publishing Office.

Bro. WOLPERT,

PRINTER, STATIONER & ACCOUNT-BOOK MAKER,
7, St. Swithin's Lane, E.C.

Authorised Agent to receive Advertisements for THE FREEMASON, and all the London and Country Newspapers.

BRO. BENJAMIN COOK,

Carpenter, Builder, and House Decorator,
SALISBURY COURT,
FLEET STREET, E.C.

Estimates for General Repairs.

Bro. J. G. MARSH,

ARCHITECT AND SURVEYOR,
159, Fenchurch Street, E.C.;
AND
842, Old Kent Road, S.E.

Bro. H. R. PRICE,

ARCHITECT AND SURVEYOR,
IMPERIAL CHAMBERS,
No. 1, Market Place, corner of St. Mary's-gate,
MANCHESTER.

Bro. G. W. CHINNOCK,

Statuary and Cemetery Stone Mason,
93, FULHAM ROAD, S.W.

MISSSES E. & C. CHINNOCK,

Pianistes & Teachers of the Pianoforte
93, FULHAM ROAD, S.W.

By Appointment to the Queen.

Bookseller, Stationer, Newsagent, Printer, &c.

A MAGNIFICENT STOCK OF
MASONIC REQUIREMENTS

MAY BE SEEN AT

Bro. W. E. FRANKLIN'S,
42, MOSLEY ST., corner of St. NICHOLAS SQUARE
NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE,
Agent for "THE FREEMASON."

BRO. JAMES B. SLY,

PRACTICAL

Heraldic Engraver to the Trade,
Of Gold, Silver, and Ivory.

DRAUGHTSMAN & DIE-SINKER,
9, Rathbone Place, London, W.

Plates Engraved; Gilt Pierced Mounts made for
Albums and Cigar Cases.

Designs made of Crests, Monograms, Ornaments, and Arms,
and every description of Shooting Prizes, Presentation Plate,
Watches, Watch Domes, Dressing Cases, Bag-sets, and
Ivory Brushes, Engraved with care, delicacy, and despatch.

TO STATIONERS.

JAS. B. SLY having in his employ several Die-sinkers, and from his practical knowledge of the same is enabled to give immediate attention to the cutting of Dies that are emergent.
Companies' Dies cut. Illuminating and Stamping in colours.
Sample Sheets of Monograms and Addresses forwarded on application.

A STRINGENT TOOTH PASTE.—
HENRY NEWMAN'S "Astringent Tooth Paste,"
in Pots 1s. 6d. and 2s. 6d., to be had of all respectable Chemists. Wholesale Agents, Evans and Sons, Hanover-street; Raimes and Co., Hanover-street; Messrs Clay, Dodd
and Case, St. Anne street; or of the Proprietor,

BRO. HENRY NEWMAN,
SURGEON-DENTIST,
5, SLATER STREET,
LIVERPOOL.

Printed by BRO. JAMES ADLEY REEVES AND SON, Playhouse
Yard, Blackfriars, in the City of London; published by the Proprietor, Brother GEORGE KENNING, at his Offices,
3 and 4, Little Britain, in the City of London.—SATURDAY,
AUGUST 28, 1869.

THE FREEMASON

Grand Lodge Reports are published with the sanction of the Right Honorable the EARL of ZETLAND, K.T., Most Worshipful Grand Master of England.

Vol. 2, No. 26.]

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 4, 1869.

REGISTERED FOR TRANSMISSION ABROAD. [PRICE 2D.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

	PAGE.
REVIEWS—
The Michigan Freemason	109
The Masonic Trowel	109
The Voice of Masonry	109
MASONIC NOTES AND QUERIES	109
HISTORY OF THE ORDER OF KNIGHTS HOSPITALERS	110
LIST OF STEWARDS AT THE INAUGURATION FESTIVAL, 14th April, 1869	111
MASONIC ACTIONS	111
PAPERS ON MASONRY—
No. XXII.—Masonry and Dissension	111
ITALY	111
THE CRAFT—Provincial	112
THE ROYAL ARCH—Provincial	112
MARK MASONRY	112
ANCIENT AND ACCEPTED RITE	112
OUR SOUTH-EASTERN HOTELS	112
GREAT MASONIC GATHERINGS AT CARNARVON	112
DISTRICT GRAND LODGE OF BENGAL AND ITS TERRITORIES	113
BIRTHS, MARRIAGES, AND DEATHS	114
A BUMPER TOAST	114
GRAND LODGE NOTES	114
OBITUARY—
Bro. Dr. James Hunt	114
GRAND LODGE	115, 116 & 117
SUPREME COUNCIL, NEW YORK	117
MASONIC MEETINGS FOR NEXT WEEK	118
ADVERTISEMENTS	118 119 & 120

eminent Masons and litterateurs, and we heartily wish it every success.

The Masonic Trowel, Springfield, Illinois, July 15, 1869, is also to hand. This is a capital periodical from which we should like to quote, but in view of the enormous and accumulating pressure on our space, most reluctantly refrain. It is ably edited by Bro. Harman G. Reynolds, who is the present Grand Master of the State.

The Voice of Masonry, Chicago, Illinois, July and August, 1869. This handsome magazine ought to be well edited, seeing that it has no less than nine editors, and so it is. Our welcome to its appearance in our sanctum is none the less warm because it bears the honoured name of our friend and collaborateur. Bro. W. J. Hughan on its title-page as "one of the nine." Rob. Morris, the finest Masonic lyrist of the age, recounts his pilgrimage to the East in picturesque prose, interspersed with an occasional tuneful appeal to the "Nine"—Muses, we mean, gentle reader, not Editors! Hughan is then to the "fore" with his lively "Sparks from a Masonic Anvil." Bro. Goodall follows with his instructive Report on Foreign Masonic Relations, which our readers will find in THE FREEMASON. An abomination called "An Anti-Masonic Christian Convention" is next touched up. It only proves that the Church of Rome does not possess the monopoly of fanaticism and folly. In England we need only smile at the vain attempts of those puny priestlings, whose notions of Christianity are derived exclusively from their own narrow-minded sectarianism. We notice with regret that the system of "Adoptive Masonry" seems to be spreading throughout America. Give it any other name, and we do not object—nay, we rather like it; and, moreover, we are one of the few English Masons in possession of the "Eastern Star" degrees, which we received through the late Bro. Vincent W. Bate—a friend of Rob. Morris; but we must protest against those feminine "degrees" being tacked on to an institution like Freemasonry, as they are calculated simply to mislead those whom they profess to instruct. There never was, and never can be, a genuine system of Lady Masonry. There is a fine portrait of Bro. J. D. M. Carr, 32°, in the July number. Bro. J. C. W. Bailey is the chief editor.

We are glad to notice that a talented young comic singer, Mr. Earnest Robson, is engaged at Gatti's and other music halls. The songs of this promising young artiste are entirely free from that vulgarity and double entendre which so often reflect discredit upon similar effusions, and as the public must have entertainments of the music hall class, we conceive it our duty to call attention to a change in the right direction. Let us hope that the example will be speedily followed, and that wholesome and pleasant amusement, of an inexpensive kind may thus be provided for the masses.

Mulum in Parbo, or Masonic Notes and Queries.

"Specimens from a Masonic Quarry" and "Leo."—I have to thank "Leo" for extending the list of old lodges by adding six more to my series in THE FREEMASON for August 14th (page 79). I had, however, only intended to mention those that dated anterior to A.D. 1717, and as Bro. "Leo," in concluding his kind letter, notices the same fact, there is nothing more left for me to say, excepting that such fraternally intended corrections at any time will be esteemed by

WILLIAM JAMES HUGHAN.

The Red Cross of Rome and Constantine.—I am delighted to see the reference to H.R.H. the Prince of Wales and the above chivalric degree in Masonry. The absurd opposition of the "Ancient and Accepted Rite" of England has of itself contributed to the success of the Red Cross degree, and, although no prophet, I prognosticate the departure of several members of the "hautes grades" from the "Ancient and Accepted Rite" ere long, unless the Supreme Grand Council alter with respect to their present dogmatic and irresponsible rule. I hope soon to read more about those records handed over to Lord Kenlis.

RES NON VERBA.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

SIR,—I would take it as a very great favour if you or any of your numerous subscribers would give in an early number of THE FREEMASON a list of the thirty-three degrees of Masonry as practised in Ireland and America. I am sure it would afford much information to a great many Masons. I am not sure whether this is the number of degrees recognised in England by the Grand Lodge, and in Scotland I hear they have more than this number. I have received the following degrees, but am unable to say whether they are numbered correctly or not. In conversation with numerous Masons on this point I find they vary. Some say that Past Master should be counted a degree, some say differently; some, again, say that Excellent and Super-Ex. should be counted as separate degrees, others say that these were amalgamated with R.A. and all count as one:—Blue: 1, E.P.; 2, F.C.; 3, M.M.; 4, P.M. Red: 5, Excellent M.; 6, Sup. Ex. M.; 7, Mark M.; 8, R.A. Black: 9, K.T.; 10, Kt. of Malta; 11, Kt. of Sword; 12, Kt. of E; 13, Kt. of E.J.W. I may also state that I have received the "Priest's degree," one which is not recognized by the Grand Lodge of Ireland, though it has been sought to affiliate it if possible, but this has not yet been done. Hoping to receive the desired information, I remain, fraternally yours,

BELFASTICUSIA.

NOW READY, PRICE 4/6

VOL. I. OF

The Freemason,

NEATLY BOUND, EXTRA CLOTH, WITH GILT EMBLEMATICAL LETTERING.

3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, LONDON,

AND ALL BOOKSELLERS.

Reviews.

We have received the first number of The Michigan Freemason, published at Kalamagoo, Michigan, for July 1869. Our world-famed brother, Dr. Albert G. Mackey, "opens the ball" with a history of Freemasonry, in which he invests the traditions of the Order in the richest robes of that eloquence for which the learned brother is so renowned. The articles generally are well written, and we congratulate the Craft in Michigan upon the advent of such a creditable addition to the Masonic press in America. It is edited by Brothers Chaplin and Coffinbury, both

HOSPITALARIA;

A SYNOPSIS OF THE HISTORY OF THE ORDER OF
Knights Hospitallers.

(Concluded from page 99.)

By the statutes of the Order, the British Language and the German Language are strictly Protestant; and no man, be his rank or influence what they may, can obtain admission into the fraternity unless his moral character is unexceptionable, and his merits otherwise of known and appreciated value. The venerable and sovereign Order of Knights Hospitallers, as has already been shown, was originally founded for promoting the great offices of humanity and universal benevolence. Upon these, subsequently was engrafted the chivalrous object of defending and maintaining the institutions and possessions of the Christian faith. How well the members of the fraternity accomplished, in the olden times, both these meritorious ends, the preceding cursory narrative is an imperfect record. They have not read history aright, who merely look upon the banner of Saint John as the rallying point of those who were imbued with what is called a spirit of fanaticism; or that the rescue of a tomb in Palestine was the question for which so many successive generations of the Chivalry of the West fought and perished. No; the world's debate during the first five hundred years of the Order's existence, was whether the Christian religion, or the Mahomedan, should predominate;—the one hostile to civilization, and favourable to ignorance, despotism, and vice; the other radiant with charity, and friendly to learning, to freedom, and to virtue. If on the field the Hospitallers sustained the manhood of Europe, and proved the sword and the buckler of Christendom,—not less in the convent, in the expansive character of their benevolent institution, did they cherish the generous arts of peace, promote social improvement, patronise science, the refinement of taste, the culture of the mind, and all that adds grace and dignity to human life. "When the Greeks spoke of the Franks," says the historian of Charles the Fifth, "they described them as barbarous, fierce, illiterate, impetuous, and savage,—as a rude people, the very mention of whose names was sufficient to contaminate." Through the medium of the Crusades, and the religious military Orders, it was that enlightened views, and softened manners, and a long train of benefits,—which ought to be gratefully remembered, for they extend to the present day,—flowed into Europe. The sweet consolations indiscriminately administered to the sick and the unfortunate, the benefactions that made no distinction of sect or clime, the deeds which piety and benevolence inspire,—these were what gained for the Hospitallers a place in the estimation of mankind loftier and more enduring than any which they ever won by exploits in arms. Shall their remembrance be allowed to perish? No; the devout wish of Boisselin will find an echo in the breast of the noble and the good to the end of time:—"If, then, there exists no country wherein the Knights of Saint John may not claim some unhappy being restored to life and liberty by their charitable care, may they equally in whatever nation they fix their residence, still continue to practise that distinguished benevolence for which they have ever been so justly renowned! And may these same nations have no other cause of regret, than that Malta had so long deprived them of such valuable members of society!"

Of the two original objects of the institution of Saint John,—"Christian Benevolence and Military Valour,"—the former is permanent and obligatory, the latter temporary and spontaneous. "All who take the sword, shall perish by the sword;" but "Charity" is immutable, "it never faileth." In resuscitating, then, the ancient and illustrious fraternity of Saint John in Britain, it is intended to revive its original, and not its adventitious, objects. The times have happily long gone by in which, under the dawn of Gospel light, the pursuits and observances of monastic life were regarded as virtuous; whilst, under the meridian influence of the Sun of Righteousness, it is now equally acknowledged and understood, that in the busy concourse of social life, man can best discharge his relative duties to man. In accordance, therefore, with the sentiments and primary purposes of the Order, it is proposed, as soon as the funds of the members will admit, to re-found an institution in the Priory of the Sixth Language, to be called "The Hospitallarium," including—

1st. "A Chapter Hall" for the meetings of the Council and the Chapter; a Chapel, a Library, and such other accommodation as may be required.

2nd. A suite of apartments to be called "The Eight Inns of the Order;" to be open at all times as a place of resort and intercourse for the Knights Hospitallers of the various European Nations.

3rd. "A Dispensary" for gratuitous medical advice and the distribution of medicines to all such as the Prior and Council shall consider worthy of aid.

4th. "A Fund" for the pecuniary relief of the distressed; and to promote such other objects as the members in open Chapter shall consider as falling within the scope of the Institution.

The funds requisite for erecting "The Hospitallarium," and for realizing the various objects enumerated, will be raised by the passage-fees and annual subscriptions of the members admitted into the British Language; and by the donations and bequests of the charitable and humane. The whole funds to be administered according to the votes of the members in Chapters to be held periodically for that purpose; with the exception of such sums as may be directed by the donors to be applied to special objects.

The Sixth Language of the Order is composed, as originally, of three classes.—Nobility, Clergy, and Serjens. The first class is divided into Equites Justitie, and Equites Gratie; the former admissible only by proving four quarterings of arms, the latter by the production of testimonials of merit. The second class, the Clergy, are eligible virtute officii. The third class, the Serjens, do not require to produce proofs of gentilitia descent; they have a consultative, but not a decisive, voice in Chapter. To provide effectually against the introduction of ineligible persons, the statutes strictly enjoin, that if candidates (though possessing the requisite gentilitia qualifications) apply for admission into the Order, they shall be rejected. The names and pretensions of such noblemen and gentlemen as the Prior and Council may consider it desirable to admit, are submitted in Chapter; and, if approved, on payment of the fees, and subscribing the statutes, a diploma is granted under the seal of the Chapter, signed by the Prior and the members of Council.

In conclusion, in again reviving in Great Britain and Ireland the ancient institution of Knights Hospitallers, care has been taken to provide not only for its perfect and indestructible establishment, but also that it shall be rebuilt on a basis worthy of the ancient dignity and utility of the Order, as well as of a nation which has long stood at the head of Christendom. From the character of the age in which we live, it cannot be said that there is no room for the revival of the Hospitaller fraternity in Britain. The Order of Saint John is a bond of mutual amity and concord between those nations in which it is located. It is calculated to cherish and develop the best principles of the human heart, and to diffuse amongst the communities where it exists the most beneficent feelings and sentiments. The policy, then, of reviving an Order in Britain, which throughout the Christian world has been viewed for nearly a thousand years as the highest personal reward for wisdom, fortitude, clemency, devotion, and the manlier virtues, is self-apparent. It will at once be acknowledged by all whose minds are inaccessible to prejudice or dark and ungenerous passion. In other respects, its revival at the present moment will not be without important consequences. There never was a period in which, from domestic circumstances, it was more necessary to surround the "altars" of the realm with such as are imbued with sentiments similar to those which pervaded the religious militant Orders; whilst from the misery and distress that overspread a large portion of our fellow-subjects, it is most desirable that the efforts of the philanthropic of the United Kingdom should be associated, to enable them to carry on an organized system of benevolence. To these great and worthy ends, what better means can be devised than the revival of an Order, at once the most ancient and the most beneficent of all the knightly fraternities? True, the age of chivalry is gone, and the nation is lapsing fast into the sere and yellow leaf of social decadence. Nevertheless, there are yet those left behind, of wealth and influence sufficient, with whom the recollections of the past are not all a dream,—who are proud of times of domestic peace and morality, in which their ancestors faithfully and religiously discharged their duty,—and who will not be backward to lend their aid in their own day and generation, that "whatsoever things are true, honest, just, pure, lovely, and of good report,—if there be any virtue, any praise,—such things shall hold in remembrance, and be practised." The diploma of Saint John does not merely confer nobility,—a thing which every sovereign prince can bestow, and which is often bestowed on the undeserving,—but the statutes of the Order strictly provide that its members shall already be gentle by at least four descents; and further, that they shall be possessed of those personal virtues and imbued with those lofty and generous sentiments, which elevate their owners more than would a coronet. His late Majesty King George the Fourth, of brilliant memory, whose highest title of honour was, that he was the first gentleman in the British Empire, testified the high sense in which he held this illustrious fraternity, by never appearing in any other decoration on those occasions when he wore the Cross and Riband of a Knight Hospitaller. And why should he not? His Majesty, who had a perception of dignity elevated as became its source and arbiter in this triple kingdom, felt that decorations, however distinguished, which he had himself created, or which were the creations of the modern kings of Europe, were not to be put in comparison with those which had shown on the breasts of Godfrey of Bouillon, Guelpho of Bavaria, Richard Cœur de Lion, and their compeers, at Ascalon. Let, then, the members of those time-honoured families, who constitute par excellence the gentry of the British nation, who can trace their descent beyond those far remote days in which their ancestors upheld the Cross at Ascalon, become members of an Order which renders the position as high-born men—whether titled or untitled—of those who hold its diplomas as definite, and well understood in European society, as if their names were inscribed on the roll of Battle Abbey, written in the Golden Book of Venice, or in the Fasti Consulares of ancient Rome. It is certain that the revival of what will be viewed as an obsolete dignity in the British Empire, at a moment when democratic feeling is so much in the ascendant, will be regarded, except by the charitable and loyal, with jealousy and aversion. But this knightly phalanx has a jurisdiction independent in itself; it is identified with the best interests of men; it is intertwined with the hearts and habits of eight, at least, of the chief monarchical communities of Christendom; and the chivalrous spirit which pervaded the Order in olden time will assert its supremacy in the existing generation. The bond of union in the venerable fraternity of Saint John was originally religious feeling,—the desire to maintain the institutions of the Christian Faith. Events, to which it is unnecessary to refer, have unhappily arisen to separate the followers of the Cross. But there is another bond of union, second only to the former, namely, social feeling,—the desire to multiply the charitable institutions of Europe. Philanthropy is the first of moral duties as loyalty is the chief of civil obligations. An Order, comprised of men who shall "fear God, honour the king, and love the brethren," cannot be objected to on any grounds which the patriotic and virtuous need consider tenable;—for these principles of communion are those alone which conduce to individual peace, social concord, and national stability. In shaking out, then, from the dust of centuries, the illustrious banner of Saint John once more in the Grand Priory of the Sixth Language of the Order, let us hope that the ancient cry which first hailed its erection, "God wills it! God wills it!"—shall not be deemed inapplicable to its second elevation. As at that time, infidelity overspread the heritage of Christ, and an eruption of all the baser principles of human nature menaced the destruction of whatever is noble and best in the social fabric. The times, morally and politically, are out of joint; and need is, that recollections of the past should renovate the ancestral sympathies of the nation. That such men were as Gerard, Du Puis, De Moulins, Villiers, Daps, De l'Isle Adam, La Valette, Vignacourt, De Villaret, D'Aubusson, &c., should not be forgotten, for with them glory, devotion, valour, duty, magnanimity, were as precious as their own existence. These, and thousands of their compeers, descended to the tomb,—amid the tears of their fellow Christians,—leaving the memory of their bright example for posterity to emulate in later ages. Though, then, the Hospitaller's trumpet no longer summons to the field the White Cross chivalry of Europe, let it not therefore be supposed that the Order's occupation has ceased and determined; as noble names are to be acquired throughout Christendom by "deeds of charity," as have ever been won by the sword on the camouflé deck, or on the tented plain. A reward, too, better than accepted hands ever conferred,—even the blessings of the sick, the destitute, and the afflicted,—incites to exertion, and will not fail to accompany it. During, then, many more centuries of tranquillity than rose in which the Order existed in times of warfare, may the divine watchword of the fraternity, "Peace on earth and good-will towards men," stimulate its members to active deeds of philanthropy;—and throughout the kingdoms that acknowledge Christ may the venerable and trophical "Standard of the Hospitallers" ever be revered as the rallying point of the humane, the loyal, and the religious.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—Bilious Affections and Stomach complaints induced by atmospheric heat, or too liberal diet, if not checked at once are often attended with serious consequences. When anyone finds his ideas less clear than usual, his eyesight dimmed and his head dizzy, while he is indisposed for all exertion physical or mental, he may be sure that he is in immediate need of some cooling and purifying medicine. Let him send at once for a box of Holloway's Pills, after a few doses of which his head will be clear again, his spirits be elevated, and all his energies be restored. Printed directions for the guidance of patients in the use of this admirable medicine are affixed to every box.—ADV.

LIST OF STEWARDS AT THE INAUGURATION FESTIVAL, 14th APRIL, 1869.

Ldgs.	STEWARDS.	Ldgs.	STEWARDS.
7	Adlard, F.	46	Kingsford, W. H.
29	Allender, W. H.	172	King, Geo.
504	Adams, W. J.	259	Kaltenthaler, J.
569	Adams, H. J.	1197	Knott, Jno.
809	Aveling, Thos.	143	Lloyd, Horace.
829	Atkins, R. P.	174	Lacey, Chas.
1	Bennoch, F.	198	Lambert, Geo.
6	Burke, E. H.	216	Laidlaw, Wm.
9	Burton, Jas.	357	Lamert, Geo. F.
10	Beach, W. W.	632	Lawson, R. de M.
21	Baker, B.	1004	Lofthouse, G. M.
27	Buss, H. G.	1118	Latham, P. A.
68	Burton, W. S.	1194	Little, R. Wentworth
74	Brage, Thos.	4	Mc Intyre, E. J.
79	Bonacey, R.	41	Mitchell, S. G.
92	Bigg, H.	108	Mallam, Benjn.
124	Brignall (jun.), W.	111	Morrell, Joseph
145	Boyd, J.	144	Mason, Jas.
147	Bolton, G.	157	Millis, Saml.
237	Brook, G. B.	186	Mortlock, Thos. S.
862	Brett, J.	197	Monckton, J. B.
936	Banning, J. S.	780	May, Saml.
3	Cordwell, G.	811	Molineaux, J.
162	Capper, G. C.	1051	Moore, J. Danl.
321	Cope, R.	134	Nunn, Joshua
657	Cox, E.	1209	Neall, Geo.
820	Carless, T. T.	72	Oxford, Geo.
889	Clayton, A.	749	Ough, Wm.
907	Chard, C.	1044	Ord, Robt.
1201	Collett, R.	88	Percival, J. M.
1231	Crossley, F.	99	Powell, Fred.
25	Dicketts, H.	130	Parmenter, J. O.
861	Day, A.	271	Pelham, The Lord
1223	Dixon, J.	995	Pearson, R.
90	Eglese, Joseph	1163	Pursall, J.
253	Eastwood, R.	14	Richardson, F.
1178	Ebsworth, F. H.	78	Rose, David
8	Francis, S.	463	Roebuck, Wm.
58	Franklin, W. J.	554	Roberts, Geo.
69	Forster, J. C.	1	Saunders, J. E.
83	Fenn, Thos.	2	Stuart, Wm.
86	Fowler, J. W. J.	12	Stewart, R. W.
256	Farnfield, J. A.	22	Salter, Geo.
859	Frazer, A. B.	23	Stedwell, J. M.
83	Glegg, Jas.	91	Swainston, J. T.
187	Gruning, H.	177	Smith, Joseph
222	Grey, Robt.	423	Stanhope, C. W. S.
332	Glaisher, J.	478	Spiers, Richd. J.
534	Gilbart, F. H.	948	Shugar, Jno. M.
591	Gotto, F.	1656	Snow, Geo. M. E.
858	Godwin, A.	1143	Sison, Rob. J.
G.S. Lo.	Hockley, F.	1150	Smith, Hy. F.
5	Hale, Charles G.	1238	Smith, Wm.
7	Hervey, J. (G.S.)	101	Tanner, Joseph.
39	Huyse, Rev. J.	140	Tattershall, A. H.
55	Hadley, S. C.	228	Terry, Jas.
59	Hughes, W.	21	Vian, W. J.
190	Hornsworth, H. W.	42	Wike, J. M.
840	Hurford, A. S.	46	Woods, A. W.
731	Holbrook, W. S.	81	Whitbread, J. W. C.
857	Harrison, C. H. R.	280	Woof, Richd.
1098	Homfray, S. G.	586	Wyndham, C. W.
1242	Harwood, J. J.	871	Walters, F.
945	Jenkins, J. B.	60	Young, Wm.
1222	Inskip, E. T.	60	Young, Hy.

MASONIC ACTIONS.

As examples worthy of imitation might be mentioned, the conduct of Abraham when he "entertained angels unawares;" when he said to Lot, I pray thee let there be no strife betwixt me and thee, nor between my herdsmen and thy herdsmen; when he offered his only son (Isaac) for a burnt offering on the mountains of Moriah.

Rebecca said to the servant, drink thou and I will give the camels drink also.

Boaz told him that was set over the reapers, to let handfulls fall in the way of the fair Moabitish gleaner, that she and her aged mother-in-law might have bread, and feel not the humiliation of charity, but the pride of successful labor.

He that found a stranger by the way side, bruised and naked, and bound up his wounds, pouring in oil and wine, and took him to the inn and paid his charges, accomplished an eminently Masonic act.

He that said, if a man love not his brother whom he hath seen, how shall he love God whom he hath not seen? and again, ye love me if ye love one another, taught many Masonic lessons.

BREAKFAST.—EPPE'S COCOA.—Grateful and Comforting.—The very agreeable character of this preparation has rendered it a general favourite. The Civil Service Gazette remarks:—"The singular success which Mr. Eppe attained by his homoeopathic preparation of cocoa has never been surpassed by any experimentalist. By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Eppe has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills." Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold by the Trade only, in $\frac{1}{4}$ lb., $\frac{1}{2}$ lb., and 1 lb. tin-lined packets, labelled JAMES EPPE & Co., Homoeopathic Chemists, London.—ADV'T.

PAPERS ON MASONRY.

BY A LEWIS.

XXII.—MASONRY AND DISSENSION.

"Thou wilt quarrel with a man for cracking nuts, having no other reason but because thou hast hazel eyes."

Romeo and Juliet, act iii. sc. 1.

In my previous papers I have abstained from commenting on the voluminous and somewhat contradictory correspondence which from time to time has appeared in the columns of THE FREEMASON, and in offering a few words now, I desire in the first instance to say that in so doing I mean no discourtesy towards those who have thus shown themselves the champions of their several opinions. Nor is it my intention invidiously to hold up any special letter to the general gaze. My desire is rather to endeavour to induce a spirit of Conciliation, so necessary to Freemasonry and so consonant with the spirit of the Craft. In the position in which I stand it would be highly reprehensible for me to criticise the merits of these various epistolary communications, or the motives which actuated their production. "Tis not my vocation, Hal." Still it seems strange to find some little acrimony commingled with these emulative productions. It appears remarkable that in a Fraternity which adopts Peace and Good-will as its watchwords, personalities have occasionally become visible, savouring of polite Billingsgate. For one, I cannot understand the phenomenon. Is it really because the ordinary quarrel grounds of religion and politics are closed to Masons, that they seek other outlets for the pettier passions of the human heart? Do they really wish to imitate Tom Thumb in the play, who "Made the giants first, and then he killed 'em?"

I can very readily understand that in the ordinary affairs of life, animosities, both deep and lasting, may arise and rage for many a long day, and over many an attenuated column—a "linked sweetness long drawn out." In Masonry, however, such a want of unanimity is to me surprising. In the arenas of Science furious controversies have arisen, but there they have been stimulated by the poison of dogmatic theology, and fostered by the ambition of prejudiced theorists. In the Craft—universal over the globe, and uniform in its aims—the principle of seems so at variance with the spirit of fraternal co-operation, that I must hold up the hands of astonishment.

"Let dogs delight to bark and bite,"

Of course, if a position is advanced at variance with truth or historic fact, I can not only pardon, but applaud, those who take the trouble of correcting the error, or removing the veil aside a little further. Illustrations of the earlier annals of Masonry I can readily understand and welcome, especially at a period of the history of the Royal Art, when it is daily growing in public favour, and assuming larger proportions of social significance; but I trust I may be permitted to mention without offence, that of late there has been an increasing tendency to apply sarcasm of a more or less refined description in the correspondence columns of THE FREEMASON, and elsewhere. And this becomes the more enigmatical to me when I consider who the correspondents are, and what high attainments they have evinced in their several contributions. "A house divided against itself cannot stand," and it does not become the Masonic world to publicly exhibit its petty differences before the eyes of a ridiculing or indifferent public. So far as I am myself concerned, I like nothing better than a courteous controversy, carried on with spirit, equal justice, and good temper. I think, however, that I may legitimately protest against petty squabbles among men who, in the main, are bound together by so strong a tie as that which links the Sons of Light.

I said I should hold up no particular letter for remark, nor will I; but there have been several of late which any thoughtful reader could only deplore, in connection with events and circumstances of contemporary interest. For though these letters may even be almost courteously worded, their writers speak and wrangle over wrongs, or fancied wrongs, in the privacy of personal intercourse, and thus friendships are disturbed, and jealousies initiated, likely to burst into flame at some later time, and so disturb that Harmony which is the glory of Masonry.

It is scarcely credible that such a state of things should be—or, existing, should not prove highly detrimental to the corporate interests of the Fraternity. In this I speak from actual observation, having noticed in various quarters how a storm is blowing up which although no bigger than the "man's hand" spoken of by the prophet, may lead to a catastrophe of no mean magnitude, and of great destructive power. With letters breathing more or less of suppressed anger, must, sooner or later, come Disunity and Dissension. It is my sincere hope that these few words will be taken as they are meant—for the real good of the Fraternity, and not construed in a captious sense by any reader. What is the use of quarreling, in Mercutio's words, "with a man for cracking nuts, having no other reason but because thou hast hazel eyes?"

Unfortunately, however, discussions among Masons are not confined to this country at the present time. There are Masonic feuds going on, forming "very pretty quarrels as they stand," in different parts of the world, and it is greatly to be hoped that these differences are susceptible of settlement. Nor has the past been without great and important Masonic feuds. There was the William Morgan row, which so ridiculously agitated America for many years, and was turned to such a political use by unscrupulous politicians, culminating in the supposed victim's escape to Smyrna, where he passed the remainder of his days, and may, for aught I know, be yet alive. To this succeeded the memorable and protracted Crucifix controversy, in which battle parties were formed, and much acrimony created. Recently, we had the laughable farce of Brother Henry Melville, who has pertinaciously attempted to force on the attention of the Masonic world a system of interpretation at which archæologists burst out laughing, and at which Dominie Sampson, had he been a Mason, or an astrologer, would have emitted a "Prodigious!" of alarming length. But from the tone adopted by some late writers, I cannot but think that unless some hints are dropped in time, there may arise another Masonic storm to divert the energies of Masons from their principal aims. I trust this will be averted. I have every confidence that it may, for the eminent men who adorn Masonry, and so generously and unremittingly labour for the more complete elaboration of the history of its antiquities, are men gifted with such powers of discernment as to be able to "reef top-sails and make all snug" in time. But the bare possibility, even, of any such storm is by no means satisfactory to the friends and students of Masonic lore.

In concluding this article I think it right to say that had I not been aware my series of papers have won for me the confidence of many readers of THE FREEMASON, I should not have taken the liberty of saying what I have said above. It is only because I feel that what little good these papers contain has been appreciated, at perhaps even more than its real value, by brethren whom I respect, that I have ventured on a few words of friendly remonstrance: my aim is conciliation, not impertinent intrusion. It is, indeed, in my opinion, a good and pleasant thing to see brethren living together in unity; and while I have the pleasure to continue these papers it shall ever be my object to promote that harmony and general unanimity which it is the peculiar and undiluted happiness of Masons to teach, and, should be, to practise.

One last word in reference to the short letter of Bro. "Viator." When I say "Liberty is licence, not Freedom," I mean to be understood thus: Freedom is founded on self-respect; self-respect is induced by education, and the two latter, conjoined, make a man free. Liberty may be politically proclaimed, and nominally exist in many countries, but Freedom pertains more particularly to the individual who has fought it out for himself on the moral platform. An ignorant man may possess liberty, but unless he understands liberty in the sense of freedom, his ignorance may debase liberty into licence. Am I understood? "Let brotherly love continue," and in this season of cracking nuts—in more senses than one—think neither of the beam in our brother's eye, the mote in our own, nor of the colour of eyes at all—so that they be not "black eyes" in the magisterial point of view. CRYPTONYMUS.

ITALY.

In a circular issued by the M.W.G.M. Garibaldi, the attention of the lodges is directed, among other matters, to the following:—

"A strict observance of the principles of toleration and benevolence.

"The maintenance of a total freedom of rites.

"Every religious, political, and social question strictly forbidden in the Lodge.

"A participation in the progress of modern ideas, and in the national life.

"The consideration of modifications in the general statutes of the Order.

"Reforms necessary in the financial administration.

"The establishment of schools for the people, and the founding of charitable institutions.

"Consideration of means to enlist the sympathy of the working man for Freemasonry, and to favourably dispose the minds of females for the labours of the lodges."

We have pleasure in informing our readers that "The Constitutions of the Freemasons," by Bro. W. J. Hughan, is now ready, and may be had of Bro. William Lake, Boscawen-street, Truro; price Half a Guinea. The number is limited to 70, and intending subscribers are requested to send their names, Masonic position, and addresses to Bro. Lake, as the work will only be sold to Masons, and cannot be had through booksellers.

Reports of Masonic Meetings.

THE CRAFT.

PROVINCIAL.

WARRINGTON—Lodge of Lights, No. 148.—The regular monthly meeting of the Lodge was held at the Masonic Rooms, Sankey street, on Monday evening last. The W.M., Bro. D. W. Finney, was supported by Bros. William Mossop, S.W.; W. Richardson, J.W.; W. S. Hawkins, S.D.; Dr. Cooper, J.D.; H. B. White, P.M.; P.Z., P. Prov. G. D. Cera; John Bowes, P.M., &c., &c.; Rev. H. P. Stedman, Chap.; H. Syred, W. Fletcher-Wood, John Harding, James Bayley, Jos. Canidy, Geo. Blackhurst, Robt. Gibbons, Jas. Johnson, Tyler; James Hannah as I.G. Visitors:—Bros. J. Parr, S. Bellott, and W. Bowden; the W.M., S.W., and J.W. of the Bridgewater Lodge, No. 1213, Patricroft; P. J. Edleston, and Jas. Parry, No. 1131. The Lodge was opened in due form and the minutes of the previous meeting read and declared to be correctly recorded. Bro. Curry, of No. 637, was unanimously accepted as a joining member, Bro. James Bayley was passed, and Bro. John Harding was raised. The ceremonies being performed by the W.M., assisted by the G.W. and Bro. P.M. John Bowes. The case of "Torkler v. Tattersall" came before the Lodge, but the further consideration was postponed until after the meeting of Prov. Grand Lodge, in October. This being the whole of the business the Lodge was closed with the usual solemnities.

HALIFAX—St. James's Lodge, No. 448.—The regular monthly meeting of this Lodge was held on Tuesday, the 24th ult., when there was a very numerous attendance of brethren. This being the first meeting of the Lodge held in the new Masonic Temple in St. John's-place, erected by the joint efforts of the two Halifax Lodges, No. 61 and No. 448, no business was transacted beyond opening and closing in the three degrees. The brethren afterwards adjourned to the banquet room, where an elegant repast had been prepared by Bro. Millward. Bro. R. Lord, W.M., presided, and was supported on his right by Bro. J. Fisher, P.M., P.P.G. Treas.; and on his left by Bro. B. W. Jackson, W.M., No. 61, and a number of P.M.'s. The usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to the various speakers expressing their pleasure and pride in being removed from their old quarters in public-houses, and meeting in such a magnificent building as had now been erected for Masonic purposes. The lodge-room, when finished, is expected to be one of the handsomest in West Yorkshire. The banquet-room is the same size as the lodge-room, except in height. The building also contains two instruction-rooms, two voting-rooms, two tyler's-rooms, reading and smoking-rooms, steward's room, kitchens, rooms for the keeper, ample cellars, and the necessary appliances for the convenience and comfort of the Masonic body in Halifax.

ISLEWORTH—Villiers' Lodge, No. 1194.—An emergency meeting of this Lodge was held at the Northumberland Arms Hotel, on Saturday the 28th ult. The chair was occupied by Bro. R. Wentworth Little, P.M., the Secretary; and among the members present were Bros. J. Trickett, S.W. and W.M. elect; W. Dodd, J.W.; R. Gurney, Treas.; T. Smale, D.C.; Major H. W. Palmer, J. Jones, and L. Acworth. After the usual ballot, Messrs. Charles Tomlin and Thomas Lampard Green were initiated into the mysteries of the first degree by the presiding Master, who subsequently raised Bro. L. Acworth to the sublime degree of M.M. The audit of the Treasurer's accounts was then held, and the result also showed that great progress had been made by the Lodge during its brief existence of less than two years. We are informed that Bro. E. Clark, P.M., will represent the Lodge as Steward at the next Festival of the Boys' School, and no doubt he will be well supported by the brethren. Bro. Trickett, the incoming Master being a highly-esteemed member of the Craft, a large muster is expected at his installation, which will take place on the 2nd October. After partaking of light refreshments the brethren returned to town at an early hour.

THE ROYAL ARCH.

PROVINCIAL.

HALIFAX—Chapter of Regularity, No. 448.—The regular quarterly meeting of this Chapter was held in the new Masonic Temple, St John's-place, on Monday, the 30th ult., when there was only a medium attendance of the companions. The officers were:—Comps. W. Cooke, P.Z. as Z.; G. Normanton, P.Z. as H. R. Lord, J.; H. N. Bates, P.Z. as E.; J. Seed, as N.; W. F. Wilkinson, P.S.; W. J. Laidler and T. M. Dolan, as A.S., and J. Greenwood, P.Z., Janitor. The minutes of the previous meeting having been read and confirmed, Bro. Francis Waddington was balloted for, unanimously accepted, and subsequently exalted to the degree of R.A., Comp. Lupton giving the historical portion to the new companion. The Chapter was then closed, and the companions adjourned to their instruction room to partake of a friendly and social glass, and drink the usual Masonic toasts. There was a feeling of general satisfaction at the appearance of the Chapter in the new lodge-room, the size of which afforded ample scope for the furniture and fittings of the Chapter to be displayed to the best advantage.

MARK MASONRY.

CHESHIRE—The Joppa Lodge, No. 5, G.C.S. held its monthly meeting at the Masonic Rooms, Birkenhead, on Friday evening, Augst. 27th, the officers present being Bros. W. Bulley, W.M.; Mills, S.W.; Noworthy, J.W.; Stephenson, M.O.; Sillitoe, S.O.; Barclay, J.O.; Ambler, S.D.; Jacob, J.D.; J. Platt, G.P.J.W., Treasurer; T. Platt, P.M., Secretary; Hignett, Registrar; Lambert, Conductor; Sayers, T.K.; Robinson, Tyler. The Lodge having been opened in due form and the minutes of the last meeting read and confirmed, a ballot was taken for Cap. Hy. Harris, who was duly elected and advanced to the hon. degree of Mark Master. Bro. Howell presided at the instrument, and it was with considerable satisfaction that we listened to the perfect manner in which all the officers rendered the ritual and performed their several duties. Some financial business having been discussed, the lodge was closed in ancient form when the brethren adjourned to refreshment and enjoyed a most pleasurable and intellectual evening.

ANCIENT AND ACCEPTED RITE.

IRSWICH—Victoria Chapter Rose Croix of Heredom.—A meeting of this Chapter was held on Friday, the 27th ult., when the brethren unanimously elected Bro. F. B. Jennings, M.W.S. for the ensuing year. Two joining members were proposed.

OUR SOUTHEASTERN HOTELS.

In former days Kent was foremost in all improvements, and the first in civilization of all the English counties; more recently she may have seemed to fail in her old attributes, but, in the recent mania for improved and gigantic hotels, if she has not been the foremost, she has been perhaps the wisest, having waited for the inevitable crash she has proceeded to erect hotels, warned by the failures and enlightened by the experience of others. The Cliftonville at Margate, and the Granville at St. Lawrence-on-Sea, near Ramsgate, are two of the results of this caution and judgment. The former has been open for some time past, and is already well-known and approved of by the public, while the latter, of more recent erection, is if possible still more worthy of public patronage and esteem. Situated on the splendid cliff above the Ramsgate sands, commanding views of sea and harbour and headland, scenes the most important and famous in English history, close to the charming sea-side retreat of Sir Moses Montefiore, embellished by its own well-lighted gardens, and surrounded by a bracing atmosphere ever fresh from the sea, the externals of the hotel are as pleasing to the eye, as they are conducive to the health and vigour of the wearied visitor. And the hotel itself is worthy of its surroundings. Designed by its distinguished architect, Mr. Welby Pugin, in a light and elegant style, the building seems to speak of the holidays; and its internal convenience, its pleasant domestic character, and its excellent cuisine are already profoundly appreciated by its numerous visitors.

Novelties are dear to the hearts of summer tourists; they would find one pleasant surprise at least, in the unity, power and refinement of design which has grasped the lofty masses of the hotel, and yet has stooped to the smallest details of its comfortable furniture. Everything is in keeping, and the whole effect is novel and original. Moderation in charges, that most indispensable requisite of every modern hotel, is not omitted in the list of advantages offered to its patrons by the Granville Hotel.

THE BLOOD IN OLD AGE.—As age advances, the blood becomes thin and cloudy—or in a full habit, thick and cloudy. The failing of the powers of life requires extra nutrition and support, and the blood yielding the excess required is soon overcharged with carbon, which gives to it the cloudy appearance. Being then impure, day by day the vitiated matter increases, and the body suffers from a thousand ailments. "The Blood Purifier"—Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla—supplies the extra nutrition to the blood, and restores to it its florid hue, and then the progress of decay is arrested, and the ailments disappear; man lives out his days, and the sunset of life is unattended with suffering. Testimonials with each bottle from the Hon the Dean of Lismore, General Wm. Gilbert, of the Indian Army; the Rev. Francis Monck, of "The Gospel Evangelist." Ordered also by the Apothecaries' Hall, London. Sold by all Druggists, in bottles 2s. 6d., 4s., 4s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 11s. Pills and Ointment each in boxes 1s. 1d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d.—Caution—Get the red and blue wrappers, with the Old Doctor's head in the centre. No other genuine.—ADVT.

GREAT MASONIC GATHERING AT CARNARVON.

Not long ago the ancient town of Carnarvon tested the sweets of a visit from royalty, and on Wednesday week the inhabitants were afforded an opportunity of witnessing a demonstration of an entirely different but highly interesting character, the occasion being a Provincial Grand Lodge of the province of North Wales and Shropshire. The mandate was issued by the Right Worshipful Prov. Grand Master, Sir Watkin W. Wynn, Bart., M.P. The place of meeting was the room of the Segontium Lodge, No. 6-6, at the Royal Sportsman Hotel.

The meeting last year was held at Ironbridge, when only a small number of the brethren were present, but an attendance of about one hundred fully made up for that deficiency, and showed that the spirit of Masonry in the district of Carnarvon is of the right sort. Not only were the brethren of the lodges in the neighbourhood present in goodly numbers, but there were also representatives from the Grand Lodge of England, lodges in Yorkshire, Somersetshire, Scotland, Hong Kong, Australia, &c.

The following officers of the Provincial Grand Lodge were present: Bro. Sir W. W. Wynn, Bart., M.P., R.W.P.G.M.; Bro. E. H. Dymock, D.P.G.M.; Rev. R. Benson, P.G.C.; Dr. Goldsbury, P.P.G.S.W.; John Preece, P.P.G.S.W., acting on this occasion as J.W.; C. Wigan, P.G. Sec.; White, P.G. Treas.; W. Buckley Hughes, M.P., P.P.G.S.W.; R. Millington, P.G.S.B.; C. Oakley, P.G.R.; W. Blakeway, P.G. Steward. The officers of the Segontium Lodge present were: Bros. W. D. Potter, W.M.; T. C. Roden, P.M.; W. Maughan, S.W.; E. H. Williams, S.D.; John W. Poole, J.D.; Owen Thomas, J.W.; Robert Humphreys, Sec. and J.W. (584); Owen Jones, Treas.; G. C. Bralbury, I.G.; Rev. John Hughes, Chaplain. Amongst the principal visitors were Bros. S. Wilkes, P.M., (Sec. of 597); E. W. Thomas, W.M. (384); W. Hughes, W.M. (1113); John Wharton (123, Yorkshire); E. A. Wesley (768, Hong Kong); E. Bagaley, W.M. (601 and 419); W. F. Chapman, W.M. (755); C. Dutton, P.P.G.S.W., Cheshire; John Peters, S.W., (597); the Rev. J. Henn, Chaplain (755); John Savage, P.S.G.D. of England; Rev. G. A. Sall, P.G.C., Somersetshire; H. M. Sall, W.M. (600); John W. Edwards, W.M. (1143); &c.

After the lodge had been held, the Provincial Grand Lodge was opened in due form by the R.W.P.G.M., but the business brought forward was merely routine. The only item of interest was the presentation of jewels to Bros. Wigan and White by the P.G.M., and the reading of the minutes of previous meeting. After the closing of the lodge a procession was formed at the entrance to the hotel, which proceeded through the town to Christ Church, near the railway station. The progress of the brethren through the streets in full Masonic costume, the officers of the Grand Lodge carrying the insignia of office and rank according to ancient custom, attracted large crowds of people, who lined the streets nearly all the way. Arrived at the entrance gate of the church the brethren formed in line to receive the R.W.P.G.M. and his officers, who passed under the arch of steel at the gate. The prayers were read by Bro. the Rev. E. A. Sall, and the Litany was chanted by Bros. Orme and Halliday (Chester Cathedral), Bro. Roberts (basso, from Bangor Cathedral), and five boys, the organist being Bro. R. Roberts, of Nos. 384 and 606. The anthem was "I have surely built thee an house" (Boyce). The sermon was preached by Bro. J. Hughes, of the Segontium Lodge, who took for his text the second part of the 17th verse of 1 Peter, i.e., "Love the Brotherhood." After an eloquent discourse on the Christian grace, he finished by saying he felt sure the brethren present had entered fully into the spirit of what he had spoken. The ancient and noble fraternity to which they belonged was first conceived in that spirit, and had been so carried on to the present day. Masonry was confined to no particular country, but was extended over the whole of the terrestrial globe. It conquered social disagreements, smoothed down their individual angularities, and drowned their provincial and national peculiarities and prejudices. It was a truth not admitting of doubt that man only reached his highest life when he formed part of a society bound together by common sympathies and common aims. Mere interest would not bind men together, as some asserted, which was proved by a world of rushing competition. It was only love, based upon unwavering fidelity, which could do that; and true brotherhood, based upon that solid foundation, might outlive, as it had done in the case of Freemasonry, the decay of empires and the crash of revolutions. The preacher concluded by making an appeal on behalf of the Anglesey and Denbighshire Lunatic Asylum, the Carnarvon and Bangor Infirmary, and the poor of Carnarvon, for which a collection was afterwards made realising more than £18.

On returning to the hotel, between 80 and 90 of the brethren sat down to a banquet provided by Bro. Moreton, of the "Royal Sportsman." The R.W.P.G.M. was present, and after dessert was placed on the table, he proposed the usual loyal and patriotic toasts. In proposing "The Queen and the Craft," Bro. Sir Watkin referred to the peculiar propriety of the toast in that room, as they were almost under the shadow of the castle walls where the crowns of England and Wales were united. In submitting the toast of the "Prince and Princess of Wales," he expressed a hope that they would soon pay a second visit to the Principality. Since the last time he (Sir Watkin) had the honour of addressing the Brethren the prince had become a Mason. (Cheers.) He was sorry to think, however, that he had been initiated in a foreign lodge—(hear, hear)—but Lord Zetland had told him (Sir Watkin) that he had proved the Prince, and he went through his examination as well as any Mason he had ever met with. ("Hear, hear," and cheers.) In proposing the toast of "The Earl of Zetland, M.W.G.M. of England," Sir Watkin expressed a fear that his lordship, through old age and infirmity, would not long continue to occupy the position he now held.

"The health of the R.W.P.G.M." was proposed by Bro. Potter, W.M., No. 606, and enthusiastically endorsed by the brethren.

SIR WATKIN briefly thanked the proposer and the other brethren for the honour.

"Lady Wynn and the Ladies," "The W.M.," "The Visiting Brethren," "The Masonic Charities," &c., were also on the toast list, appropriate music being given by a glee party—gentlemen from Chester and Bagnor Cathedrals. Bro. Humphrys, who acted as secretary, deserves great credit for the completeness and satisfactory nature of the arrangements made for visiting brethren and others.

DISTRICT GRAND LODGE OF BENGAL AND ITS TERRITORIES.

At a quarterly communication of the District Grand Lodge of Bengal, held at the Freemasons' Hall, Calcutta, on Thursday, the 24th June, 1869:—Present: Right Worshipful Hugh D. Sandeman, District Grand Master; Worshipful W. J. Judge, Dep. D.G.M.; Dr. F. Powell, D.S.G.W.; J. Mackintosh, D.J.G.W.; J. H. Linton, D.G. Treas.; J. Pitt Kennedy, D.G. Registrar; H. H. Locke, D.G. Sec.; W. B. Farr, D.S.G.D.; Bro. W. G. Amos as D.J.G.D.; Worshipful J. Conway, D.G.D. of C.; Bro. Goddard, as D.G.S.B.; Worshipful Major Macdonald, D.G. Pursuivant; Bro. W. B. Mactavish, Worshipful J. Linfield, W. Nicholls, Broas. T. McKelvey, Dr. W. K. Waller, D.G. Stewards; H. L. Leape, Acting D.G. Stewards; D. J. Daniel, D.G. Tyler.

Representatives of Lodges:—"Star in the East," No. 67: Worshipful G. M. Goodricks, W.M.; Bro. Druit Halpin, as J.W. "Industry and Perseverance," No. 109: Worshipful W. H. Abbott, S.W. as W.M.; Bro. Robt. Harvey, I.G. as S.W. "True Friendship," No. 218: Bros. W. E. Jellicoe, S.W. as W.M.; G. J. Scott, J.W. as S.W. "Humility with Fortitude," No. 229: Worshipful W. F. Westfield, P.M. as W.M.; J. B. Knight, P.M. as S.W.; Bro. J. Morrison, J.W. "Marine," No. 232: Bro. A. Kaech, J.W. "Courage with Humanity," No. 392: Worshipful A. J. Sharpe, W.M. "St. John," No. 486: Bros. W. Stansfield, J.W. as W.M.; W. O. Allender, as S.W. "Temperance and Benevolence," No. 1160: Bros. A. J. Meyer, J.W. as W.M.; T. H. Girling, Sec. as S.W. Visitors: Worshipful W. F. Kruger, W.M. of Lodge No. 371 of Scotland; C. F. Jacobson, W.M. of Lodge No. 404 of Scotland; Capt. W. G. Murray, P.M. of Lodge "Dalhousie," No. 639.

1. The District Grand Lodge was opened in due form at 6.40 p.m.

2. Apologies from the following brethren were recorded:—Worshipful E. B. Lewis, D.G. Steward; Bro. H. J. Frew, J.W. of "Lodge Excelsior."

3. The Minutes of the Quarterly Communication of the 20th March, 1869, having been printed and circulated, were taken as read, put to the vote, and confirmed.

4. The Right Worshipful the District Grand Master addressed the District Grand Lodge as follows:—

"Worshipful Brethren,—The only important event which has taken place during the past quarter has been the first General Meeting of the supporters of the Bengal Masonic Association, for educating the children of indigent Freemasons. This association may now be said to be fairly launched, and I am glad to be able to report favourably upon it.

"Of the promised donations and subscriptions, aggregating about Rs. 12,000, a sum of over Rs. 8,000 has already been paid in; and I am glad to say that it has been resolved to invest all donations in Government Securities in the joint names of the Trustees of the Fund, while the interest only of such investment, together with the amounts of annual subscription, will be permitted to be expended. This is a very important feature in the rules of the Association, as by it the stability of the Fund is permanently ensured, and there can be no fear of our capital decreasing; while, on the other hand, every donation, however small, will contribute to increase our means of doing good. The Association is to be registered under The Registration Act of India, and every precaution has been taken to place it on a firm and permanent basis, and thus it is hoped, ensure general sympathy and active support. Our means, however, are as yet exceedingly small when the object of the Association is considered; and I would ask for your co-operation, not only by yourselves subscribing to this excellent charity, but by your endeavouring to obtain the assistance and support of your friends and brethren to the scheme. I earnestly commend it to your favourable consideration.

"A paragraph in the report of the Finance Committee warns us that we must submit to temporary inconvenience for the purpose of having the Masonic Hall thoroughly repaired. It is now five and a half years since the house was touched, and some portions of it are, it is feared, insecure, so that you will readily admit the necessity of at once thoroughly repairing the whole building. We have been asked to vacate the premises at the beginning of next month, and I have this day issued instructions to the District Grand Secretary to notify this to Masters of Lodges with a request that they will remove their property by the close of the current month. I request the ready co-operation of Masters in this matter, as any delay on their part will have the effect of retarding repairs, and will consequently delay our re-admission to the building. The repairs will probably take two months; and due notice will be given to you when the Hall is ready for re-occupation. In the absence, from Calcutta, of the District Grand Superintendent of Works, our W. Bro. Locke has kindly intimated to me his willingness to arrange for the appropriate decoration of the public rooms, and I need scarcely add that I have most gladly accepted his offer, knowing that for taste in decorative art he has no equal in Calcutta, and that we shall consequently benefit very greatly from his valuable assistance and superintendence. These decorations will naturally cost money and I am sanguine that every Lodge using the Hall will be glad to defray its proper portion of the expense, which like the cost of overhauling our lighting arrangements (which will also be necessary) will fall fairly upon Lodges generally, as they only pay just sufficient to cover the actual expenses of the Hall without profit to Grand Lodge. Masters of Lodges will have to make their own arrangements for Lodge Meetings during the time that the Hall is under repair, and no house rent will be charged to them during that time, while every endeavour will be made to have the building ready for occupancy by the earliest possible date.

"I am sorry to have to report the exclusion for non-payment of dues, of Bros. Emanuel Grant Costello, André Louis Briant, from Lodge "St. John's," No. 486; John Dickenson, William Pittar, from Lodge "Excelsior," No. 825; J. Hoskins, J. C. P. Campbell, W. Rawlston, J. Stewart, J. A. Wilson, J. C. Robb, from Lodge "Temperance and Benevolence," No. 1160.

"I regret further to inform you of the expulsion from Freemasonry, by the District Grand Lodge of Bombay, of Bro. G. Bease, the Editor of the Masonic Record in that Town."

5. Read the following Report of the Finance Committee:—

At a Meeting of the Finance Committee of the District Grand Lodge of Bengal, held at the Freemasons' Hall, Calcutta, on Tuesday, the 8th June, 1869—

Present: Worshipful John Mackintosh, D.J.G.W., in the chair; J. Conway, W.M., 825; Wm. B. Farr, W.M., 486; J. H. Linton, District Grand Treasurer; H. H. Locke, District Grand Secretary.

The accounts of the District Grand Treasurer for the 2nd Financial Quarter of 1869 were audited and found correct. The following is an abstract:—

DISTRICT GRAND LODGE		Rs.	As.	P.
Balance from 1st quarter	1,343	2	1
Received during this quarter	1,832	18	10
	3,180	15	11
Disbursed during this quarter	2,870	13	3
Balance to Credit	310	2	8
FUND OF BENEVOLENCE.
Received during this quarter	1,180	2	8
Balance from last quarter being against the Fund	245	14	6
Disbursed during this quarter	503	8	0
	749	6	6
Balance to Credit	430	12	2

The District Grand Secretary reported that, in consequence of certain statements which he had received from the Custodian of the Hall relative to the urgent need of repairs in which the premises now stood he had, under the instructions of the District Grand Master, written to the Landlord's Agent upon the subject, requesting that he would direct his builder to meet the Custodian with a view to ascertaining the extent to which repairs were necessary, and the time which they would take to execute. This meeting between our Custodian and the Landlord's Builder had taken place, but no further communication from the Agent had been received. Worshipful Bro. Amos, the Custodian, was, however, in attendance, to give the Committee such information as he possessed. The Committee, after consultation with the Custodian, proceeded with that officer to inspect the premises and gave instructions with a view to obtaining such information as might enable them to submit a memorandum upon the subject at the ensuing Quarterly Communication.

6. It was proposed by Worshipful Bro. W. H. Abbott, and seconded by Worshipful J. Conway, that the foregoing Report be adopted. Carried unanimously.

7. The following Report of the Grand Committee of the Bengal Masonic Fund of Benevolence was read for the information of the District Grand Lodge:—

MASONIC FUND OF BENEVOLENCE.

Report of Grand Committee for 2nd Quarter, 1869.

During the quarter, one of our cl. pensioners, who has been in receipt of an allowance of Rs. 20 per mensem for sixteen years, died. An application was made for the continuance of the grant to her son, who although a young man, is incapacitated for all active employment by fit of epileptic character. The Committee considered him a proper object to receive assistance from the Fund, and accordingly granted the request. This is the only new case.

There are now on the Fund:—

7 Widows drawing each Rs. 20 a month
1 Poor Brother " 20 "
1 Lewis " 20 "

Of these, two widows reside up-country the remainder in Calcutta.

One case has been referred to the full Committee with a view to obtain a larger grant than it is in the power of the Sub-Committee to bestow. The Committee were of opinion that no further grant should be made from this Fund.

The balance to credit shown in the Report of the Finance Committee is exclusively of the invested funds, which now amount to Rs. 3,600.

8. The District Grand Secretary reported that the Bye-laws Committee had met since the last communication of District Grand Lodge, and had advanced considerably in the work which had been entrusted to them. Owing, however, to the illness both of the Chairman and the Secretary when the last meeting of the Committee was summoned, it had been found impossible to prepare the report, which it was intended should be brought before the District Grand Lodge at this communication.

The District Grand Master said that, under these circumstances, he thought the Worshipful Brethren present would consent to the postponement of the subject till next meeting of District Grand Lodge.

9. Read a letter from the Secretary of Lodges 371 and 404 of Scotland, dated 24th June, 1869, offering to the District Grand Master of Bengal in the name of the Worshipful Masters of said Lodges, the use of the Scotch Masonic Hall, during the time that the English Masonic Hall is undergoing repair.

Ordered to be recorded, and that a letter of acknowledgment be written by the District Grand Secretary conveying the thanks of the District Grand Lodge for the courteous offer from the Worshipful Masters of the Lodges 371 and 404 of Scotland.

10. The District Grand Registrar said that one portion of the District Grand Master's observations had brought to his attention a matter which had often occupied his thoughts—he meant the erection of a Masonic Hall. No one could be satisfied with the position of the present Hall, and he was strongly of opinion that a body so influential, so wealthy, and so energetic as the Masons of Calcutta, would have no difficulty in providing a more suitable local habitation for the Craft. It occurred to him that, under the provisions of the Joint Stock Companies' Act, a company might be formed with limited liability which would easily raise the funds, and yield a good return to its promoters. He would, therefore, give notice of the following motion to be brought forward at the next meeting of the District Grand Lodge:—

"That a Committee of District Grand Lodge be appointed to consider the best mode of procuring the erection of a Masonic Hall in some suitable place in Calcutta."

The District Grand Master observed that this was a subject which had been, on more than one occasion, earnestly considered by his predecessors in office and by himself; many plans had been proposed, but none carried into effect. He would rejoice if the Worshipful Brother who had just spoken, could mature a plan by which the Freemasons of Bengal might have a suitable building of their own in the capital city of the district.

Ordered.—That the Worshipful Bro. Kennedy's notice of motion be entered on the agenda of business, for consideration at the next communication of the District Grand Lodge.

11. There being no further business to be brought forward, the District Grand Lodge was closed in due form at 7.45 p.m.

Agents.

AMERICA: Bro. J. FLETCHER BRENNAN, 114, Main-street, Cincinnati, Ohio.
 CANADA: Messrs. DUVRIE & SON, Ottawa.
 CEYLON: Messrs. W. L. SKENE & Co., Colombo.
 CONSTANTINOPLE: Bro. J. L. HANLY, Levant Times.
 EAST INDIES:
 Allahabad: Messrs. WYMAN BROS.
 Byculla: Bro. GEO. BEASE.
 Central Provinces: Bro. F. J. JORDAN.
 Kurrachee: Bro. G. C. BRAYSON.
 Madras: Mr. CALEB FOSTER.
 Mhow: Bro. COWASJEE NUSSEWANJEE.
 Poona: Bro. W. WELLS.
 GALATA: IPSICK KAHN, Perchembé-Bajar.
 PARIS: M. DECHEVAUX-DUMENIL, Rue de Harlay-du-Palais, 20, near the Pont Neuf; Editor Le Franc-Macon.
 And all Booksellers and Newsagents in Great Britain and Ireland.

Births, Marriages, and Deaths.

DEATHS.

CAMPBELL.—On the 30th ult., at 12, Carrick-street, Helen Smith, relict of Bro. John Wilson Campbell, late Secretary Lodge Clyde, No. 408, aged 36 years.
 HUNT.—On the 29th ult., Bro. James Hunt, Ph. D., F.S.A., Ore House, Hastings.
 LEVINSON.—On the 28th August, at Warwick-gardens, Kensington, Bro. Isidore Levinson, P.M. 7, in his 69th year.
 MCALISTER.—Recently, Lieut. Col. C. A. McAlester, K.H., Knight of Grace of the Order of St. John, in Anglia.
 PRATT.—On the 22nd August, at No. 7, Devonshire-place, Wandsworth-road, Mary Ann, the wife of Bro. Alfred Pratt, (P.M. 22 & 382), of Her Majesty's Customs.
 TAYLOR.—On the 28th ult., at 1, Springfield, Liverpool, in his 16th year. John, younger son of Bro. Dr. John Stopford Taylor, M.D., P.M. of Everton Lodge, 823.

BOOKS RECEIVED.

"Constitutions of the Freemasons, 1723," by Bro. Wm. J. Hughan, Provincial Grand Secretary, Cornwall. Lake, Truro.
 "Notes on the Colonial Empire of Great Britain," by Brother John Bowes, Head Master of the Blue Coat Hospital, Warrington. Author of the Text Book of the Geography of Palestine, &c. Simpkin, Marshall & Co., London; and Educational Trading Company, 29 & 30, Union Street, Birmingham.

The Freemason,

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 4, 1869.

THE FREEMASON is published on Saturday Mornings in time for the early trains.
 The price of THE FREEMASON is Twopence per week; quarterly subscription (including postage) 3s. 3d.
 Annual Subscription, 12s. Subscriptions payable in advance.
 All communications, letters, &c., to be addressed to the Editor, 3 & 4, Little Britain, E.C.
 The Editor will pay careful attention to all MSS. entrusted to him, but cannot undertake to return them unless accompanied by postage stamps.

A BUMPER TOAST.

THE custom of drinking toasts is an old one. We are afraid to say how old, but at any rate its origin is not within the recollection of the traditional centenarian yclept "the oldest inhabitant."

It is true that the practice has now almost entirely disappeared from our private festive meetings, but it still flourishes in all its pristine vigour at certain public feasts, and at the social gatherings of the Masonic body and other kindred societies. If we go to a great dinner at the Freemasons' or the London taverns, we find that a recognised officer, called the toast-master, is an indispensable adjunct to the olives and the "47 Port." We hear him announce in stentorian tones, "Gentlemen, the toast is 'Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen,'" and we time our cheering to his lead, just as musicians obey the baton of a Jullien or a Costa.

All this is very pleasant, and we are conservative enough to hope that in Freemasonry at least we shall retain the good old custom of drinking the healths of our Sovereign, our Grand Master, and our brethren generally till time shall be no more. Now, as the Grand Lodge of England bears upon its roll lodges situated in every quarter of the habitable globe, so that we might almost say the door of English Freemasonry is never shut, and as the ancient usages of the Order are followed in our lodges as closely and as strictly in Japan as in Australia, on the banks of the Hooghly as on the coasts of Southern Africa, it may be safely assumed that our Masonic work not only goes on without intermission day after day, but that the names we delight to honour in England are equally dear to the hearts of our distant brethren. The toasts we give are the same, the sentiments we breathe are identical; and we might almost say that the air is filled with the good wishes which are daily invoked on behalf of the chief officers of the English Craft. It is a pleasing reflection that kindly feelings and fraternal ideas are landmarks all the world over; that sweet memories of the parent land of Freemasonry are cherished by those who derive their Masonic existence from that fountain-source; and, in a word, that English Freemasons, though scattered widely over the four corners of the earth, are still as one in heart, in spirit, and in truth. So mote it be!

But will it be credited that an English lodge should so far forget the respect and allegiance it owes to the elected chief of the Grand Lodge of England as to refuse to drink the Grand Master's health when proposed from the chair? And yet, if we are correctly informed, such an incident actually occurred in a lodge in the Isle of Wight upon a recent occasion. It appears that great dissatisfaction has been caused amongst the brethren in the island by the annexation of their Masonic province to that of Hampshire, so, to evince their displeasure, they decline honouring the toast of the M.W. Grand Master. Now, really, a more puerile exhibition of temper, or one more unworthy of a Masonic body, we deem it impossible to conceive.

Surely there is a constitutional process by which the Supreme Ruler of the Craft can be made acquainted with the feelings of brethren without resorting to such a paltry expedient as refusing to drink his health. In the journal from which we glean this information it is stated that our Isle of Wight brethren have hoisted the flag of rebellion, and truly they may well be supposed to have proceeded to that extremity if the occurrence therein related be true. Upon the merits of the transaction which is said to have provoked their wrath we refrain from expressing an opinion, but however great the grievance may be, we contend that it ought to have been respectfully submitted to the Grand Master through the customary channels.

The publication of such an untoward proceeding as this is reported to have been in the newspapers of the day is calculated to do infinite harm to the Craft; it will provoke the sneers of those who deny the moral advantages of Freemasonry, and who scoff at its pretensions to unity, peace and good-will.

It is, moreover, such a flagrant breach of Masonic discipline—such a negation of courtesy and self-respect—that for the honour of Freemasonry we cannot believe that the report is true; we cannot credit that any body of enlightened men could yield to such childish petulance and folly.

It must be a weak device of the enemy—ever ready to plant thistles among the grapes, and to ridicule that which they cannot comprehend.

We shall, no doubt, receive a complete contradiction of the story in time for our next issue, and in the meantime we are sure all our readers will join us in the hope that "The Earl of Zetland, Most Worshipful Grand Master," may long be a bumper toast in the wide-spread lodges of the English Craft.

GRAND LODGE NOTES.

By an overwhelming majority the rank of Past Grand Master has been conferred upon his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, the only opposition being rather a question as to the propriety of the title than antagonism to the award of honorary distinction to the Prince. We have on several occasions maintained that the course pursued by the authorities of Grand Lodge in this case is perfectly in accordance with precedent, and for our own part, as a matter of taste, we object to the designation "Grand Patron" of an Order which neither seeks nor desires patronage in the ordinary sense of the word.

The recognition of the Grand Lodge of Nova Scotia is a wise and graceful act, albeit we are not insensible to the possible diminution of our extended Masonic empire in the colonies of England. Wherever the requisite conditions for effective self-government exist, we are of opinion that upon proper application being made, and after due investigation into the circumstances, the Grand Lodge of England is justified in acknowledging the independence of her District Grand Lodges.

Upon the report of the Board of General Purposes being brought up, Bro. Col. F. Burdett, P.G.W. and Representative from the Grand Lodge of Ireland, made a very pertinent inquiry as to the brother who is alleged to have worked a so-called approved ritual at Woolwich. The brother alluded to being present, denied that he had done so, and of course the matter must be further investigated, as the President of the Board affirmed that the W.M. of the Woolwich lodge stated in excuse that he had been misled into the commission of the error. In the interests of truth and the brother implicated, an enquiry must be held.

Obituary.

BRO. DR. JAMES HUNT.

Most scientific men, and the whole of the scientific world, will regret the death at an early age, of one of its greatest ornaments and most energetic workers. With a natural restlessness directed ever constantly towards the promotion of the science of Human Kindness—technically called Anthropography—he continued a rare faculty for advising and ruling those among whom his lot was cast. But this rule was truly Masonic, and had nothing of the nature of usurpation in it, his gentleness and courtesy were as marked as his cheerfulness and patience. He was emphatically one of those men who in elder days of the world's history would have played no inconsiderable part in the guidance and governing of mankind. He was no less distinguished as an author, and while, as he ought, he was justly proud of his own achievements, he encouraged and fostered with scrupulous assiduity those to whom fortune had been less kind. No one can say that with a deeper sense of verity than the writer of these few lines. Snatched from the world in the midst of his arduous duties—a limb from the body has been cut away—and though his spirit survives to cheer on the little band which was linked together in defence of the right, his actual presence will be sadly missed.

As a ceremonial Mason, Bro. Hunt did not take a very active spirit of Masonry, the Masonry of the heart inspired every action of his noble life. He died on Sunday, the 29th of August, at his residence, Ore House, near Hastings, after a short illness, under forty years of age. Those who have had the privilege of knowing him will mourn for one who was sans peur et sans reproche. He was a Fellow of the Society of Antiquaries, and Doctor of Philosophy, Fellow of the Royal Society of Literature and its Honorary Foreign Secretary, Ex-President and Founder of the Anthropological Society of London, Doctor of Medicine Honoris causa, (1867), of Gressen. Hon. Fellow of the Ethnological Society of London, Member of the Imperial Dresden Academy, Foreign Associate of the Anthropological Society of Paris; Corresponding Member of the Soc. Anthropol. Espana, Hon. Member of the Soc. des Amis de la Nature of Moscow, Hon. Fellow of the Cosmical Society of London, a good father and husband, and a sincere and unwavering friend. He is now ultra nubila in the Grand Lodge above.

KENNETH R. H. MACKENZIE

F.S.A., F.A.S.L., P.C.S.L.

GRAND LODGE.

The regular quarterly communication of Grand Lodge was held on Wednesday evening in Freemason's Hall. The meeting was very numerous attended, which is a very uncommon occurrence at the September gathering. On this occasion however about two hundred brethren were present, and the proceedings throughout were of an animated character. The Grand Master seldom attends at this time of the year, and as this fact is well known among the Craft, it was not the expectation of seeing him which caused so large an assemblage. No presumption that there would be any mention of the Prince of Wales connection with the Order could have drawn them together, for by some unlucky chance the Grand Master's proposition that Grand Lodge should confer the rank of Past Grand Master on his Royal Highness, did not figure on the paper of business. But whatsoever the cause, the brethren were more numerous than usual, and they had the gratification after all of conferring the dignity which the Earl of Zetland had proposed on the heir to the throne of England.

Grand Lodge was opened in due form and with solemn prayer at seven o'clock, and the post of the Grand Master was occupied by Bro. J. Bagshaw, Prov. G. Master for Essex. Among the other brethren we noticed Bros. the Rev. R. J. Simpson, P.G.C., as J.G.W.; Josh. Smith, P.G.P.; Joshua Nunn, G.S.B.; John Udall, P.G.D.; John M. Clabon, P.G.D.; H. Murray, D.G.M., China; J. Il. Evans, P.B.G.P.; Jabez Hogg, P.G.D.; A. W. Woods, G.D.C.; T. Fenn, P.A.G.D.D.; H. Browse, P.G.D.; George Cox, R. J. Spiers, John B. Monckton, J. Cooper Forster, J.G.D.; Brackstone Baker, J.G.D.; W. Farnfield, P.A.G. Sec.; Æ. J. McIntyre, G. Reg.; Hyde Pullen, W. Young, P.G.S.B.; D. Rose, W.M. (73); W. Ough, G.P.; James Brett, A.G.P.; W. Watson, Samuel May, C. Hosgood, T. J. Sabine, F. Binckes, W. Hill, Geo. King, W.M. (172); J. G. Thompson, F. Bennoch, R. Spencer, H. G. Buss, F. Walters, R. W. Little, Hyde Clarke, F. Adlard, F. H. Ebsworth, C. Bennett, P.M. (25); W. Dodd, H. Thompson, P.M. (177); H. Marston, John Hervey, G. Sec.; Benj. Head, John Symons, P.A.G. & C.; A. H. Tattershall, J. H. Whittle, Conrad C. Dumas, A.G.D.C.; Raynham W. Stewart, Rev. D. Shaboe, A. A. Pendlebury, C. A. Cottebrune, J. W. Wynne, W. H. Warr, H. D. Grissell, P.G.S.D.; James Stevens, P.M. (720 &c.); and James Mason, P.G.S.B.

The GRAND SECRETARY (Bro. John Hervey), having read the Minutes of the Quarterly Communication of 2nd June, and of the Especial Grand Lodge of 28th July, the same were put and carried unanimously.

The GRAND MASTER rose and said he feared he laboured under some disadvantage in occupying the chair of Grand Lodge that night, and under this further disadvantage that unfortunately he was unable to be present at the two last meetings of Grand Lodge when matters of great importance were brought before it; but he was sure for his deficiencies he might claim indulgence. Two or three matters of great importance devolved upon him, matters which required the grave consideration of the brethren, and which would be dealt with by them in the spirit which the circumstances of the case demanded. At the last Grand Lodge the M.W.G.M., whose absence he lamented this evening, made a proposition to the effect that the rank of a Past Grand Master be conferred on H.R.H. the Prince of Wales. That Communication was received by Grand Lodge in a spirit that could not be otherwise than satisfactory to the cause of Freemasonry. It was received with great enthusiasm, and he congratulated the Masons of England that they had so distinguished a Brother coming among them. But by some strange omission this proposition of the Grand Master did not appear on the papers that had been transmitted to the members of Grand Lodge for the transaction of business this evening, and therefore he would ask the brethren, and he thought they would see the importance of the request, to commit what might perhaps appear on the first blush of the thing to be an irregularity, in the absence of that printed notice, to confirm what the Grand Master proposed in June, that the rank of Past Grand Master be conferred on H.R.H. the Prince of Wales. This was not a novelty. They had precedents for these appointments. It was to the great advantage of Masonry that the Royal Uncles of our present Prince of Wales were elected into Masonry; and on their election they were one and all placed in that position which he now asked the brethren to confer on him. He trusted they would pardon the irregularity that had occurred. It seemed highly inexpedient to go into it, but it was necessary to mention it. As an individual he felt gratified at the thought that Freemasons were again to be supported by the Reigning House they so much valued. He believed Masonry owed its stability in a great measure to the encouragement it received from the throne, and that they might fairly congratulate themselves that so high and distinguished a person as the Prince of Wales was now numbered among them. He would therefore simply confine himself to carrying out the suggestion which had been put into his hands by the Grand Master, "that the rank of a Past Grand Master be conferred on H.R.H. the Prince of Wales."

Bro. H. MURRAY, District Grand Master for China, begged to second the proposition.

Bro. MATTHEW COOKE did not think that in that Hall they had a right, with the pictures of the progenitors of his Royal Highness hanging around them, to pass any such resolution as the present. Had the Grand Master himself said that the Prince of Wales should be elected to his proper position as Grand Patron of the Order, he (Bro. Cooke) would not have been one to stop it; but he did say to all the brethren that they had been anxious that the Prince should come among them, and now the Grand Master proposed to gird him with the Past Grand Master's apron, ticket and docquet him, and put him out of the way on the shelf. He did not think that was the right way. He demurred to the Grand Master's power to do anything of the kind. The power under which the Grand Master claimed to do this was a recent gift by Grand Lodge to him as would be found in the Book of Constitutions.

Bro. BRACKSTONE BAKER said it was a question for Grand Lodge. The Grand Master proposed it, and it was for the brethren to confirm it.

The GRAND MASTER concurred. It was a proposition of the Grand Master which could not be carried into effect without the approval of the Grand Lodge.

Bro. MATTHEW COOKE said that the Grand Master having made the proposition, he presumed that he (Bro. Cooke) was in perfect order in moving an amendment to the same. (Hear, hear.) Therefore, whatever Bro. B. Baker might say, they had no right to pay a less compliment to his Royal Highness than had been paid by the Grand Lodge of Scotland. He held in his hand an extract which said that on Monday night, the 2nd of August, 1869, at the Quarterly Communication of the Grand Lodge of Scotland held in the Freemasons' Hall, Edinburgh, the Right Hon. the Earl of Dalhousie, Grand Master Mason of Scotland, in the chair. Before proceeding to the business of the evening his lordship stated "that he had great pleasure in moving that H.R.H. the Prince of Wales be elected as Patron of the Masonic Craft in Scotland, in succession to his Royal Highness's uncle the late King William IV." Therefore, he (Bro. Cooke) thought that, whether the Grand Master proposed or the most humble member of Grand Lodge proposed it, the Prince was not to be placed in a worse position in England than he was in Scotland. It was by prerogative the Family became patrons of the Order, and not simply Past Grand Masters, by which they would be put out of the way and perhaps never heard of more. (Hear.) We want his Royal Highness among us (continued the speaker) I say distinctly, and I move as an amendment: "That this Grand Lodge begs to offer his Royal Highness the highest mark it can of its favour, by asking of him to accept the office of Grand Patron of the Freemasons of England." (Cheers).

Bro. W. YOUNG, P.G.S.B., I beg to second it.

Bro. JOHN HAVERS, P.G.W., had often said before, that he had never risen under circumstances of greater importance, but he was certain that as the time had now come when the Freemasons of England were to pay honour and respect to the eldest son of their Sovereign, this was the most important occasion on which he had spoken. At the last Grand Lodge, three months ago, the Grand Master gave public notice of his intention, after announcing the fact that the Prince had joined the Order, that he should, according to ancient custom, propose that the rank of a Past Grand Master be conferred upon him. By some unfortunate error—an error very pardonable during Grand Secretary's absence in the country—that public notice which the Grand Master gave failed to be recorded and placed on the agenda paper. It was then felt that the most proper and frank course would be to acknowledge the error, to admit that nothing should be brought forward to give surprise to the brethren, but relying upon the fact that the Grand Master having given notice, trust that frankly and loyally Grand Lodge would permit the motion to be put. It had been put most nicely, most pleasantly, and most tastefully by the Grand Master, and when it was done they were met by an objection; and from whom? From a brother who had proposed himself as Grand Master, and who had said Grand Lodge was going to put the Prince on the shelf. Now, they wanted to have him as a brother among them. The Grand Master when he told Grand Lodge that the Prince was a Mason, said he was ready to join three or four English Lodges. That did not look like putting him on the shelf. The Grand Master was far too good a man to put on the shelf. The course they were about to take was according to custom, with the single exception of the last Prince of Wales. He became a Mason and was a Sovereign subject to one of his own people. He became deputy to the Earl of Moira. The Duke of York, the Duke of Cumberland, the Duke of Kent, the Duke of Gloucester, all had the same rank—a cry of "No,"—at the very next meeting after they were made. The Duke of Kent was made in Geneva, the Duke of York at Berlin. A lodge was called, they were acknowledged to be brethren, and they had the rank conferred on them. He (Bro. Havers), did hope that it would not go forth to their brother, that there was the slightest hitch in the way of granting this rank on him. The Prince was most anxious to be among them, and this Grand Lodge should with one unanimous voice grant him the rank asked. He hoped it would not go forth that there was one dissentient voice to this proposition.

After a few words in correction between Bros. HAVERS and COOKE,

Bro. J. M. CLABON hoped they would all be unanimous. No one objected that the notice had been left out of the agenda paper, and every one wished to do honour to the Prince of Wales. Every one wanted him to be a working Mason, no one wanted him to be on the shelf. Why should they discuss the point, whether he should be Grand Patron or Past Grand Master? A Grand Patron was up in the clouds; a Deputy Grand Master would be a working-man, according to his (Bro. Clabon's) idea. He therefore trusted, that with one voice they would confer this dignity.

Bro. JOSHUA NUNN, G.S.B., thought that if Masons wished to see the Prince of Wales among them as G. Master on a future occasion they should carry this motion. He was sure that he would be an excellent Master, and would perform the duties of Deputy as well as if he was created Master.

The motion was then put and carried.

THE GRAND MASTER said he saw he had to make a communication with reference to the formation of a Grand Lodge of Nova Scotia, and he would therefore move a resolution to acknowledge it; but he would first call on the Grand Registrar to explain the circumstances.

BRO. A. J. MCINTYRE was sure the brethren knew that in most of our colonies Masons were living under three jurisdictions at least. The Grand Lodge of England held supreme sway over those lodges that held warrants from it. The Grand Lodge of Scotland was the recognised power in a number of the colonies. In many of our colonies also the Grand Lodge of Ireland had granted warrants to subordinate lodges which acted with the Grand Lodges of England and Scotland, although owing allegiance to the Supreme Grand Lodge of Ireland. This was the case in Nova Scotia, where England had the largest number of lodges, supported by the most eligible Masons. It happened some time ago that Grand Lodge of Scotland felt dissatisfied with the way in which their lodges were conducted, and those lodges determined to assert their independence; and unknown to the Grand Lodge of Nova Scotia, the Grand Lodge holding sway under the Grand Lodge of England, proving their loyalty to the mother country, and determined to uphold the interests of Masonry in that colony; but they found themselves in a very awkward position, because by the late continental law a notion was abroad that a certain number of lodges might form themselves into a Grand Lodge, and that they then got possession of the country. This caused a great deal of perturbation. They frankly and openly communicated their difficulty to the Grand Lodge of England. They themselves felt that the time had come that by the number and importance of Masons in that colony the 3 jurisdictions named might form a Grand Lodge, which would do honour to the 3 parents who had sent them forth. They joined together and held their various assemblies and communicated to the Grand Master that they thought the time had now come when they might assert their independence, and as the daughter of Grand Lodge might walk alone and maintain the interests of Masonry elsewhere. The Grand Master, with that loyalty which always distinguished him, gave them no countenance to throw off the yoke of England. If it was a yoke at all: but he said "If you find you are strong enough to stand alone, and approach the Grand Lodge of England as it should be approached, the Masons of England are too loyal and too sound Masons to reject the prayer of any such petition." Now, they had acted on that recommendation, and the substance of it was this:—They felt themselves in a position now to uphold Masonry in the colony; they had brought themselves to that strong position they now held, and they asked Grand Lodge of England to recognize them as a Grand Lodge, owing to the Grand Lodge the allegiance they had always held. There certainly appeared to him (Grand Registrar) to be nothing more honourable to them or this Grand Lodge, so deeply did they feel their obligations that they humbly solicited that they might retain the warrants they now held as a perpetual memorial, to be handed down from generation to generation, to shew that they sprang from the old tree of Masons in England. (Cheers.) Therefore he had much pleasure, in the absence of the Grand Master of England, in asking the Grand Lodge to recognise the prayer of this petition and to allow that the Grand Lodge of Nova Scotia should exist as an independent Grand Lodge, but allowing the lodges there to retain their warrants.

BRO. J. L. EVANS, President of the Board of General Purposes, seconded the motion on the ground that inconvenience must result in after ages from three independent Grand Lodges holding jurisdiction over the lodges in the colonies. When they felt themselves strong enough to establish themselves as an independent Grand Lodge, it was the duty of the Grand Lodge of England to recognise them as such.

The GRAND MASTER, a very old Mason, expressed his opinion that nothing could be more satisfactory than the way in which this subject came before Grand Lodge, and he thought that every old Mason must earnestly feel that his labours in Masonry extending itself to our colonies. This important application was significant of the progress Masonry was making in Nova Scotia, and he felt that the proposition would not meet with one dissentient voice.

BRO. HYDE CLARKE thought the motion of so much importance, that it was desirable that it should not pass without observation. The matter had been exceedingly well explained by the Grand Registrar, and also by the President of the Board of General Purposes. What was the importance of this subject? The independence of Nova Scotia was a necessary consequence of the independence of Canada; but if we did not take care under the circumstances that Grand Registrar had explained, we should lose the whole of our colonial jurisdiction; we should lose Australia, and we should certainly lose Nova Scotia. When a country reached that state of development, it threw off the dominion of this Grand Lodge. On the other hand, they must not forget that there were some of our colonies which thought it was of great advantage to them to have the organization and administration of one Grand Lodge. We know by experience the practical working of the unfortunate system of having two Provincial or District Grand Masters working against each other. (No, no). He was speaking not without some practical experience of the inconvenience. Three Grand Masters must create considerable rivalry, however well they might at times agree together. He therefore drew the attention of the President of the Board of General Purposes, and of the Colonial Board to the subject. He suggested that it would be possible by joint action of the three Grand Masters to bring about a much better state of things than existed now. It was a subject worthy of consideration, and of great importance with regard to Grand Lodge and the advancement of the Order.

BRO. HAYERS said there was one point in Bro. Clarke's address he must draw attention to. He had said that in the course of time we should lose Australia and other colonies. Now, he (Bro. Hayers) entirely doubted it, and for this reason. Australia was not a place to which a man went with the intention of living there. He went for the purpose of making money and then returning here to spend it. In the same way a man did not go to China to stay. But he did go to Nova Scotia to stop, and consequently required a Grand Lodge. Those countries in which we had a large number of Lodges, to which English Masons resort for purposes of business, were not likely to throw off allegiance to the Grand Lodge of England. If we found they were strong enough to stand alone he was sure we should rejoice at it, and welcome them as elder sons, and say, "go your way, and prosper."

BRO. F. BENNOCK would rectify a grand error of Bro. Hayers. The settlers in Australia were not a nomadic people. After going there they may in four or five years have returned here, but they had gone back and stayed, and found a good constituent body there; and he believed that in a few years our Australian colonies would be more important to us as a Masonic body. He drew attention to this because he did not wish it to be understood that the Australians were a nomadic people, returning here to spend their money. They were a large people who would become as great as the United States of America were at the present moment.

BROS. JAMES MASON, the REV. R. J. SIMPSON, H. MURRAY and another Brother having spoken on the subject, Bro. McIntyre replied and the motion was carried.

The Commemoration Jewel was then handed to about 100 different brethren who acted as Stewards at the Immigration Festival.

BROS. CHARLES HOSGOOD, P.M., (No. 192), H. M. LEVEY, P.M., (No. 188), John George Thompson, P.M., (No. 862), and Frederick Walters, P.M., (No. 73), were appointed members for the Committee of Management of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Aged Freemasons and the Widows of Freemasons. (Deferred from the Quarterly Communication in June last)

The GRAND SECRETARY read the following report of the Board of Benevolence for last quarter, in which are recommendations for the following grants, viz:—

BRO. J — J —, of the Lodge of Unanimity, 287, Stockport £30

BRO. W — W —, of the Lodge of Perseverance, 213, Stockport £30
The Widow of the late Bro. J — T —, of the St. Mild's Lodge, 240, South Shields... £50
BRO. J — R — B —, of the Royal Sussex Lodge, 342, Portsea £30
BRO. A — R —, of the Prince of Wales' Lodge, 259, London £50
BRO. W — G —, of Lodge of Prince George, 308, Bottoms, Stansfield £40

The following report of the Board of General Purposes was taken as read:—

1. A complaint was made by the Board of Benevolence against the Lodge of United Strength, No. 228, London, for having failed on two separate occasions to send any Brother from the Lodge to support the petition of a widow for relief, whose case had been recommended by the Lodge. The W. Master and Junior Warden attended the Board and produced the Warrant and Books. Having heard the explanation given by the W. Master, and it appearing that the Lodge itself had, in consideration of the delay which had occurred, relieved the Petitioner, the Board accepted the explanation, but cautioned the W. Master to be more careful for the future, and ordered the Warrant and Books to be returned.

2. It having come to the knowledge of the Board that the W. Master of the Union Waterloo Lodge, No. 13, Woolwich, had caused a summons for the meeting of his Lodge to be issued containing a paragraph stating, that the "new working as approved by the Board of General Purposes" would be given at the meeting of the Lodge therein referred to, the Board summoned the W. Master and his Wardens to attend before them to answer for having directed a statement to be circulated, calculated greatly to mislead the Brethren of the Lodge. The W. Master and both his Wardens accordingly attended and produced the Warrant and Books. It appeared from the explanation of the W. Master that he had been led into error through misunderstanding, and he freely admitted his fault, expressed his very great regret for the occurrence, and submitted to the judgment of the Board: under the circumstances the Board resolved—That the explanation be accepted, but ordered that the W. Master be reprimanded and be informed that this Board have not sanctioned or approved of any form of working whatever, nor has the question in any way come before the Board, and the W. Master was so informed by the President and was reprimanded accordingly. The Warrant and Books were thereupon returned.

3. The Board also beg to report that a perfect set of Plans and Sections of the valuable Freehold Buildings belonging to Grand Lodge has been received from the Grand Superintendent of Works. The Board have caused these Plans and Sections to be suitably bound, and have directed them to be deposited in the Muniment Room at Freemasons' Hall, so as to be available for future reference.

(Signed) J. LLEWELLYN EVANS, President.

Freemasons' Hall, 17th August, 1869.

To the Report is subjoined a Statement of the Grand Lodge Accounts at the last Meeting of the Finance Committee, held on the 13th August, 1869, showing a balance in the hands of the Grand Treasurer, of £1502 3s. 4d., and in the hands of the Grand Secretary, for Petty Cash, £75.

BRO. J. L. EVANS on the second section of this report reiterated the statements made in it, and said he wished it to go forth to the Craft, that any allegation that the Board of General Purposes had sanctioned any system of working was not true; and after receiving the explanation of the Master of No. 13, and his regret that he had allowed an unauthorised statement to appear on the summons, reprimanded him. It was left to a future occasion, to decide whether any system of working should be recognised, but at present nothing of the kind had been under their consideration, nor had any motion whatever been made to that effect.

BRO. COLONEL BURDETT said a brother had come down from London to Woolwich, and represented there was a new system of working, and worked it. The Master and Wardens were called before the Board of General Purposes, and reprimanded for sanctioning a new system of working. They had been deceived. No person had been sent by the Board to show this new system, and therefore he thought the Master and Wardens of the Lodge ought to be exonerated, and the name of the brother who mis-represented himself should be made known.

BRO. C. HOSGOOD, P.M., (No. 192), denied that when he went to the Union Waterloo Lodge, No. 13, he gave a new system of working. It was the system practised by Bro. Broxfoot, subsequently by Bro. Peter Thompson, and now so ably by Bro. Muggeridge—that was the fact. At the bottom of the summons was printed, "N.B. Bro. Past Master Hosgood will give the new working as approved by the Board of General Purposes." When he took the chair he called the W.M.'s and S.W.'s attention to this, and told them it was the working of Bro. Muggeridge.

Br. McINTYRE said as Br. Hosgood stated this on his Masonic honour, that it was Bro. Muggeridge's system, that must be so, whatever the Master stated to the Board. The Master and the Wardens attended before the Board, and said the brother represented that he was going to work the new system as sanctioned by the Board of General Purposes. The explanation of Bro. Hosgood might exonerate him, but it showed that the Master endeavoured to deceive the Board, and deserved a more severe reprobation. Further investigation might be necessary to throw light on the matter. There were two workings in the metropolis not widely different. He (Grand Treasurer) fortunately had been instructed by both the Masters, Stephen Barton Wilson, than whom a better Mason never walked in Grand Lodge, and Henry Muggeridge, who still happily worked among us, and he trusted might long continue to give the workings he had so well expounded; but he trusted that at no time until sanctioned by Grand Lodge, would the Board of General Purposes recognise any other system.

Bro. JAMES STEVENS, P.M., (No. 720, &c.) asked whether the Board had had their attention drawn to the correspondence in any of the Masonic Journals lately. He did not presume that they were to take cognisance of such matters, but he merely asked the question. Next, were the Board prepared to listen to suggestions of any members of the Craft, to obtain uniformity of ritual necessary to the welfare of various members of the lodges of London and the United Kingdom.

Bro. J. LI. EVANS said the Board had not had their attention called to any correspondence or discussion as to any mode of ritual.

Bro. JAMES STEVENS asked for a reply to his second question.

Bro. E. LAMBERT thought the question could not be asked without notice being previously given.

The GRAND MASTER concurred, and the subject dropped.

The Report of the Committee appointed by Grand Lodge to consider and report upon a suitable recognition of the services of the Building Committee was taken as read.

A discussion in which Bros. BRACKSTONE BAKER, BENNOCH, and LAMBERT took part, succeeded, and the annual report of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for aged Freemasons and the widows of Freemasons, dated the 21st day of May, 1869, was read from beginning to end by the Grand Secretary, because Bro. the Rev. R. J. Simpson said he had not seen it, and the business of Grand Lodge was therefore concluded with this lengthy document, it being only finished at ten o'clock, after which hour no new subject can be taken.

Grand Lodge was then closed in ample form, and with solemn prayer.

We have received from brother C. Hosgood, of 7, Walbrook, a letter, in which he states that our recent article, entitled "A Star in the East, or the New Masonic Prophet" is "evidently levelled at him" and requires the name of the writer. Bro. Hosgood is manifestly unacquainted with the etiquette of journalism, and we therefore take this opportunity of assuring him and all our readers that under no circumstances whatever will the names of our writers or correspondents be divulged without their consent. Bro. Hosgood's implied threat of legal proceedings does not at all disturb our equanimity. Like every other Mason he is bound by the laws of the Craft, and if upon proper investigation in accordance with those laws, the information upon which we based our comments shall be proved substantially incorrect, we shall have no hesitation in making the amende honorable to the person implicated. Until then Bro. Hosgood will excuse our reticence.

SUPREME COUNCIL, NEW YORK.

REPORT OF ILL. BRO. ALBERT G. GOODALL, GRAND REPRESENTATIVE, ON FOREIGN RELATIONS.
To the Supreme Council of Sov. Gr. The O. of the 33rd and last degree Ancient Accepted Rite, for the Northern Masonic Jurisdiction, U.S.A.

TURKEY AND EGYPT.

(Continued from page 105.)

There is now a District Grand Lodge of England at Constantinople, having twelve Lodges under its jurisdiction, and altogether about thirty-five Lodges are now working in Turkey and Egypt, under authority from European Grand Bodies.

In 1861, a French Bro., claiming to have the 33rd degree from the Sup. Coun. of France, constituted a Supreme Council, 33rd degree, Ancient Accepted Rite, at Constantinople, for Turkey and Egypt, but as usual with our French brethren who have a peculiar faculty of construing Masonic Law, its object, and principles into a very different shape, according to our ideas, there appears to have been some irregularity and want of proper authority in establishing such a Grand Body, and it remained in a dormant position. In 1864, Ill. Bro. Hyde Clarke, received the 33rd degree from the Sup. Coun. of France, and in that capacity claims to have legalized the Sup. Coun. for Turkey and Egypt, and changed its Orient or Valley to Smyrna, where it now exercises Masonic authority based on the constructions of 1762 and 1776, and have three symbolic lodges, seven Rose Croix chapters, and three consistories under their jurisdiction. Bro. Hyde Clarke is still the Sov. Gr. Com., but since his departure from Turkey nearly two years since, Bro. Constantine G. Carrere, 33°, is conducting the duties of that office, with Joseph Langdon, 33°, Sec. H.E. As yet they have not been recognized by any foreign Masonic body, and the question is simply whether Bro. Hyde Clarke possesses the proper authority to reorganize the Supreme Council, give the 33rd degree, and grant warrant to lodges, chapters and Consistories. Who will decide?

Much has been written and said of late years by enthusiastic Masonic writers and lecturers, relative to the existence of Freemasonry among the religious sects, tribes or orders of Dervishes in Turkey and Asia Minor. During my visit to that country I visited and attended repeatedly the meetings of several of those orders, and while there were many things in the ceremonies that resembled somewhat our mystic forms, yet it was very evident that they were in no way allied to our history, legends, or teachings of Masonry. Since that date our Ill. Bro. John P. Brown, Secretary and Dragoman of the U.S. Legation at Constantinople, has given a very thorough investigation to this subject; his long residence, and extensive travels in that country, and knowledge of the languages, have particularly fitted him for the task, and in his history of the Dervishes or Oriental Spiritualism, he makes the following statement:

"It has been thought by some persons that Freemasonry existed among the Mussulmans of Constantinople under another title, and consequently in other parts of the East. This I do not find to be the case, though, like in most secret fraternities, there may be points of resemblance accidentally. I have had an indirect intercourse with a Mussulman who asserted that Freemasonry does exist there, and he gave me a list of the places in which lodges were held in various parts of the Empire, adding that the Grand Lodge existed on the Lake of Tiberias, in Palestine, where it had been taken after the destruction of Jerusalem. It must, therefore, have existed and does still exist among the Jews. I regret to have to state that, notwithstanding all my researches to verify this declaration, I have not found any trace of the fact on which I could rely. My opportunities of inquiry have been numerous, and my desire to meet with brethren amongst Mussulmans led me to use all proper zeal in pursuit of this desirable object.

"Others may perhaps meet with more success. The title by which it is said Mussulman Freemasons are known, is, Melameeyoon; and when I come to speak of this order of the Mussulman Dervishes of the Aleide sect, the reader may judge how far the statement is correct.

"It is rather strange that the Dervishes of the Beklahee order consider themselves quite the same as the Freemasons, and are disposed to fraternize with them. The name of Freemasonry in the Turkish language is Fermason, and is one of great reproach. It signifies Atheism of the most condemnable character, and this may be said of the Beklahees who from some reason or other not quite clear to me are held in small repute among other Mussulmans, even those belonging to the other Dervish orders. No one in Constantinople may consider himself at all complimented when he is called a Fermason or a Beklahee."

Many of the educated and higher classes of Turks have of late years become members of the Order, being initiated either in France, or the lodges lately established in Turkey.

FRANCE.

The most correct detailed history of Masonry in France in the English language, is probably that by

J. G. Findell, published in 1866; but the subject has been so thoroughly digested in all its various phases, by able French writers, that any attempt to introduce a lengthy record of events and changes, would be superfluous in this miscellaneous and concise report.

The Grand Orient of France, the history of which forms a volume, has, during the past quarter of a century, occupied the most conspicuous position of any Masonic Grand Body on the Continent; but I regret to say that the record of its labours, system and teachings has not met with the flattering results that should have emanated from so prominent a Body, having control of such an extensive field of labour, and opportunities for perpetuating our sublime art. That Body appears to have been content since adopting the work in conformity with their ideas of Masonry, as illustrated in what is generally known as the French Modern Rite, to continue its practice regardless of the opinions of the fraternity in other countries, as to what is or should be the guide and rule, according to our ancient customs and mutual benefit of the Brotherhood in other Jurisdictions; and while admitting that climate, education, habits, local civil laws and customs may have a decided influence in changing somewhat the routine adopted by others, there certainly can be no justifiable excuse in making such radical changes in the work as to make it questionable whether their peculiar style of ceremonies are intended for the same Masonic purpose. This the Grand Orient of France has done, and it is a noted fact that the ceremonies, teachings and principles under that Jurisdiction are so peculiarly liberal and totally different from the Masonic Order as known and practised in Germany, England, Ireland, and throughout the United States, as to make it a subject of serious comment, whether our interchange of fraternity should exist, when the obligations are so totally different. The feeling and ideas of the Latin race do not harmonize with those of the Anglo-Saxon; and the question of a universal Brotherhood, based upon Masonic principles of mutual obligations and secret work for recognition, is yet to be accomplished; and the force so generally practised in France, of unintelligible, superficial, philosophical mummeries, must be changed to a more simple, comprehensive, practical system of mutual obligations and recognition in the mystic and sacred bonds of Masonry, free from the political influences that have so often been interwoven by designing, unscrupulous aspirants for the past half century, before we can justly unite with them on the broad platform of Masonic Brotherhood, according to our laws, ceremonies and obligations.

In 1862, it appears that the Grand Orient, not being able to control its high dignitaries, who, forgetting the golden rule and professed principles of the Order, were disposed to take a worldly and belligerent view of affairs, obliged the civil government to place a military ruler over its affairs, that comparative peace and harmony should prevail, and Marshal Magnan was duly initiated into all the mysteries, and installed the same evening as Grand Master of the Grand Orient; Murat, the spendthrift, having managed, during his term of office, to squander all the reserve capital, and leave the Grand Body heavily in debt. Fortunately, Magnan made a faithful presiding officer, and the Order improved under his good management. The principal charge against him being the attempt to coerce the Supreme Council, 33°, Ancient Accepted Rite under Viennet, and compel them to abolish that Supreme Body, which he failed to accomplish. Magnan died in 1865, and was succeeded by General Mellinet, commander of the National Guard of Paris, who was elected Grand Master in June, 1865.

Among the serious objections strongly urged against the administration of the Grand Orient is, the careless and indifferent manner in which they acknowledge nearly every spurious Masonic Grand Body that applies to them, thereby giving encouragement to illegal sets; and creating much controversy and dissatisfaction among the regular members of the Order at large, which, with a little more caution and attention, could easily be avoided. There are FIVE so-called Grand Bodies mentioned in their calendar for the present year that are irregular and spurious.

My earnest appeal to Bro. De Saint-Jean, president of the administrative Body, on this subject, during my visits to Paris in August last, induced me to believe, from his admission of these glaring errors, that this objectionable feature would be remedied by the Grand Orient in future; but incredible as it may appear, the Bulletin of the Grand Orient for October contains the official Decree of the Grand Master Mellinet, dated November 5, recognizing a spurious Grand Body, styling themselves the Supreme Council for the State of Louisiana, located at New Orleans.

(To be continued.)

The New Vade Mecum (invented and manufactured by Charles H. Vincent, optician, of 23, Windsor-street, Liverpool) consists of a telescope well adapted for tourists, &c., to which is added an excellent microscope of great power and first-class definition, quite equal to others sold at ten times the price. Wonderful as it may seem, the price of this ingenious combination is only 3s. 6d. and Mr. Vincent sends it (carriage free) anywhere, with printed directions, upon receipt of post office order or stamps to the amount of 3s. 10d.—ADVT.

METROPOLITAN MASONIC MEETINGS

For the Week ending September 11, 1869.

Monday, September 6.

Lodge No. 144, "St. Luke's," Pier Htl. Cheyne-walk, Chelsea.
 188, "Joppa," Albion Tavern, Aldersgate-street.
 No. 1 St. Mark's Lodge of Mark Masters, George Hotel, Aldermanbury.
 Camden Lodge of Instruction, No. 704, Adelaide Tavern, Haverstock Hill, at 8; Bro. T. A. Adams, Preceptor.

Tuesday, September 7.

Colonial Board, Freemasons' Hall, at 3.
 Lodge No. 167, "St. John's," Holly Bush Tav., Hampstead.
 Chapter 169, "Temperance," White Swan, Deptford.
 Metropolitan Chapter of Instruction, George Hotel, Aldermanbury at 7; Comp. Brett, Preceptor.
 Domestic Lodge of Instruction, Palmerston Tavern, Grosvenor-park, Camberwell, at 7.30.
 Faith Lodge of Instruction, Metropolitan Railway, Victoria Station, at 8. Bro. C. A. Cottelbrune, Preceptor.

Wednesday, September 8.

Committee of Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, Freemasons' Hall, at 8.
 Lodge No. 13, "Union Waterloo," Masonic Hall, Woolwich.
 " 87, "Vitruvian," White Hart, College-street, Lambeth.
 " 1017, "Montefiore," Freemasons' Hall.
 " 1216, "Macdonald," 1st Surrey Volunteers' Headquarters, Brunswick-rd., Camberwell, at 6.
 " 1228, "Beacontree," private rooms, Leytonstone.
 United Strength Lodge of Instruction, No. 228, Bull and Gate, Kentish Town-road.

Thursday, September 9.

Lodge No. 1076, "Capper," Marine Hotel, Victoria Dock.
 " 1227, "Upton," Spotted Dog Tav., Upton, Essex.
 Chapter No. 72, "Royal Jubilee," Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-st.
 " 619, "Beacon," Greyhound Tavern, Dulwich.

Friday, September 10.

Emulation Lodge of Improvement for M.M.'s, Freemasons' Hall, at 7.
 Metropolitan Lodge of Instruction, George Hotel, Aldermanbury, at 7; Bro. Brett, Preceptor.
 United Pilgrims' Lodge of Instruction, Horns Tavern, Kennington, 7.30.
 Belgrave Lodge of Instruction, Duke of Wellington Hotel, Spring-gardens, Charing-cross.

Saturday, September 11.

Lodge No. 176, "Caveac," Radley's Hotel, Blackfriars.

Advertisements.

WILLIAM WINSOR, of 8, Miles's-lane, London-bridge, imports CIGARS of the very Finest Brands only, and manufactures Cigars from the Choicest Tobaccos. Wholesale and retail.

BR. JAMES STEVENS (25, 720, 1216, &c.), Auctioneer and Surveyor, House and Estate Agent, &c., Clapham Common.—Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duties. Agent to the Imperial Fire & Life Insurance Offices

PRO. ADLARD'S REGISTERED JEWEL ATTACHER. Price 7s. 6d. Universally adopted. Maker of the Improved Fitting Lodge Collars and Masonic Clothing. 225, High Holborn, London, W.C.

ARMS, CRESTS, and MONOGRAMS.—MASONIC EMBLEMS Engraved on Seals, Dies, &c. Official Stamps designed and Engraved.—Bro. D. G. BERRI, Engraver to Her Majesty's Post Office, Stationery Office, &c., 86, High Holborn (opposite Chancery-lane), London, W.C.

BRO. H. T. LAMB,

MANUFACTURER OF MASONIC JEWELS,
 ST. JOHN SQUARE,
 CLERKENWELL,
 LONDON.

ILLUSTRATED PRICE LIST POST FREE ON APPLICATION.

MASONIC NOTE AND LETTER PAPER.

Sanctioned by The Most Worshipful

The Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of England

IT is impressed with the Masonic Die, and has also Masonic Emblems incorporated with its texture, as Water Marks, while being manufactured.

Sold, in Quarto and Octavo Packets of Five Quires, Wholesale and Retail, at the MASONIC DEPOT, 3 and 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, E.C.

Masonic Envelopes can also be obtained at the Depot.

GLENFIELD STARCH

is the only kind used in Her Majesty's Laundry.

THOSE LADIES who have not yet used the GLENFIELD STARCH, are respectfully solicited to give it a trial, and carefully follow out the directions printed on every package. It is rather more difficult to make than other Starches, but when this is overcome, they will say, like the Queen's Laundress, that it is the finest Starch they ever used.

GEORGE KENNING,

3 and 4,

Little Britain, London, E.C.

MASONIC DEPOT.

THE LARGEST STOCK in the WORLD

Jewels,
 Clothing,
 Furniture,
 Banners,
 Books, &
 Requisites

For all Degrees in Freemasonry.

3 and 4, Little Britain, London, E.C.

Price Lists on application.

NAVAL & MILITARY WAREHOUSE.

Laces,
 Embroidery,
 Swords,
 Belts,
 Chacos,
 Buttons,
 Epaulettes,
 Sashes,
 &c., &c.

3 and 4, Little Britain, London, E.C.

Price Lists on application.

GEORGE KENNING,

3 and 4,

Little Britain, London, E.C.

HUMAN FINS, for Swimming, 12s. the set, BARNETT, patentee, Paris (complete specification). With these ready adopted fins the swimmer can with ease and rapidity perform long distances with security against cramps. Sold by HEMARDINQUER, agent, 5, Falcon-street, City; and all India-rubber Warehousemen, &c.

A Brother, who can obtain security, SEEKS EMPLOYMENT in any capacity; is strong, in good health, not afraid of hard work, and has good testimonials as to character, &c.—W. S., 4, Little Britain, E.C.

SHED or WORKSHOP WANTED, about 100 feet long, near the City.—State particulars, addressed to Office of this Paper.

BOARD and RESIDENCE for one or two Gentlemen, in a quiet private house, close to Hyde-park, omnibus and railway. Terms, from 42s. per week.—Address, W., 15, Gloucester-terrace, Hyde-park, W.

PRICE'S BENZODYNE,

The Great Cure for Cholera and Consumption.

A Newly-discovered principle residing in Gum Benjamin (Styrax Benzoin), the chief chemical product of which has hitherto been Benzoic Acid, well known and highly valued by medical practitioners. The great difficulty which the discoverer encountered in bringing out this important remedy was the form in which to present it to the faculty and the public, the new chemical being amorphous and incapable of crystallization. It has therefore been deemed advisable to prepare a highly-concentrated solution of the product, combining it with such adjuncts as are considered natural auxiliaries. PRICE'S BENZODYNE is stimulant, anodyne, and mechanically astringent, arresting fluxes and hemorrhages of all kinds both external and internal, possessing singular efficacy in the following diseases:—Ague, Bronchitis, Consumption, Colic, Cholera, Cold, Cough, Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Debility in all its various forms, Fever, Influenza, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Spasms, Ticdolereux, &c., &c. PRICE'S BENZODYNE has been tried repeatedly in these cases and has never failed to cure.

It immediately relieves all pain, actually sheathing the organs with a protective matter, which defies the action of the most virulent blood-poisons, and thus PRICE'S BENZODYNE acts as the most powerful styptic now known to science, being the only effective external application for cuts, bites of insects, and all open wounds. In Cholera, as in Consumption, its effects are astounding, while Chronic Cough yields to its curative influences in a few hours.

PRICE'S BENZODYNE is acknowledged by the highest Medical authority to be the most wonderful medicine yet introduced to the public; it may be taken at any time by both young and old with the most beneficial effects in all cases, leaving no bad effects like Laudanum, Chlorodyne, or any other poisonous and imperfect preparations, and can be given when no other could be tolerated.

In Consumption and Cancer its peculiarly soothing properties render it a boon to the sufferer in allaying the cough, mitigating night perspirations, and in relieving pain, &c.

In every stage of those dire diseases it gives an amount of ease not attainable by any other remedy.

In all cases of Chest Affections, as Asthma, Bronchitis, Winter Cough, Palpitation, &c., PRICE'S BENZODYNE is a very valuable medicine, producing a composed and tranquil state of the system, and quickly relieving the cough, assisting expectoration, and in a few days removing the most distressing symptoms.

In Hysteria, Epilepsy, Gout, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and all Nerve Pains it is justly valued, as it is given with immediate benefit, relieving pain and suffering however violent the attack.

In Diarrhoea, Cholera, Alvine Discharges, spasms and colics of the intestines, &c., its effects are signal, as it never fails to check the disease.

CONSUMPTION IN ALL ITS STAGES CURED.

Coughs, Whooping Cough, Asthma, Bronchitis, Fever, Ague, Diphtheria, Hysteria, Rheumatism, Diarrhoea, Spasms Colic, Renal and Uterine Diseases are immediately relieved by a dose.

During the period of Dentition of Children it will be found invaluable, and in curing Whooping Cough, Spasms, dispelling Flatulency, preventing Convulsive Fits, Heats, &c., to which they are so liable.

PRICE'S BENZODYNE is specially adapted for Naval, Military or Traveller's medicine chests, and for Hospitals and Dispensaries everywhere.

Sold in bottles at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s. and 22s., by all chemists

THROUGHOUT THE WORLD.

Prepared and guaranteed by

Mr. PRICE, Analytical Chemist,

and sold wholesale by PRICE & Co., 2, Lower Seymour Street, and 30, Duke Street, Portman Square London, W.; or through the following agents:—

LLEWELLYN & Co., Shanghai, China.

LLEWELLYN & Co., Hiogo, Japan.

FAULDING & Co., Adelaide, Australia.

LEVY BROTHERS, Melbourne.

EPILEPSY OR FITS.

F I T S—A sure cure for this distressing complaint is now made known in a Treatise (of 48 octavo pages) on F I T S—Foreign and Native Herbal Preparations, published F I T S—by Prof. O. PARLES BROWN. The prescription was F I T S—discovered by him in such a providential manner F I T S—that he cannot conscientiously refuse to make it F I T S—known, as it has cured everybody who has used it F I T S—for Fits, never having failed in a single case. The F I T S—ingredients may be obtained from any chemist.—F I T S—Persons desiring a copy may address Prof. O. PARLES F I T S—BROWN, No. 2, King Street, Covent Garden, London, F I T S—enclosing stamp; six copies, three stamps.

EDUCATION.—CROOM'S-HILL SCHOOL,
Blackheath, near London.
PRINCIPAL, REV. T. GOODWIN, M.A., D.C.L., LL.D.
Parents in search of a School combining the conscientious care of a home and the thorough efficiency of education in its several departments, are requested to apply for a Prospectus to the Principal who is ready to submit to applicants all information concerning the School, the testimony of parents in its favour, and an account of the uniformly distinguished position its pupils have achieved in commercial pursuits, in the Civil Service, the Medical, the Army and Navy, and the University Examinations.

THE EUROPEAN MAIL.

A Summary of Universal Intelligence and Exact Commercial Statistics from Mail to Mail, specially prepared for the Colonies and Trans-Oceanic World generally.

THE EUROPEAN MAIL IS THE LEADING TITLE OF EIGHT TOTALLY DISTINCT NEWSPAPERS, AS FOLLOW—

No. of Issues annually.	Destination.	When Issued.	Rate of Subscription per annum, including postage.
24 A.	European Mail for the West Indies, Central America, Chili, Peru, &c.	2nd & 17th of the month	40s.
24 B.	European Mail for South Africa, St. Helena, Ascension, &c.	10th & 24th	40s.
24 C.	European Mail for North America, i.e., the United States, Canadian Dominion, British America, Cuba, Mexico, &c.	Every Saturday	52s.
24 D.	European Mail for the Brazil and River Plate, Azores, &c.	9th, 19th, & 29th	52s.
24 E.	European Mail for China, Japan, Ceylon, Penang, Singapore, Siam, Sumatra, Java, Borneo, and the Philippines	27th August 1869, every fortnight after, by English Mail; and on Sept. 2nd, 1869, a every fourth Thursday by French Mail.	52s.
24 F.	European Mail for India, Burmah, Egypt, &c.	Sept 3rd '69, and every succeeding Friday.	39s.
24 G.	European Mail for Australia and New Zealand	Every 4th Friday.	13s.
24 K.	European Mail for the West Coast of Africa, Madeira, Tenerife &c.	3rd & 23rd of the month.	40s.

* Or with Manifest Supplement, 65s.
N.B.—All Subscriptions payable in advance.
EACH Paper contains every item of intelligence, from Mail to Mail, specially affecting the country or colony for which it is published, with an exhaustive summary of home and continental politics, science, art, and social news, and a retrospect of commercial transactions in Great Britain and on the Continent.

Manufacturers and Merchants may command the greatest markets of the world for their products through the medium of publicity afforded by the EUROPEAN MAIL. A demand may be created where none exists at present, or an existing demand may be sustained and increased against the most energetic competition.

The EUROPEAN MAIL gives such perfect mercantile information that it is the highest commercial authority in the vast and prosperous territories through which it circulates. It is therefore an imperative necessity to the merchant who orders goods in bulk, and to the wholesale and retail distributor; it is also the most complete newspaper despatched from England and is eagerly sought by all classes; it thus, unlike merely commercial newspapers, reaches and leaves the great communities who are the actual consumers of all products, and who must be acted upon by advertisement to require a special article before the merchant will venture to order a consignment.

Scale of Charges for ADVERTISEMENTS each insertion per Paper as follows:—

For PAPERS C, F, & G ONLY.	For PAPERS A, B, D, E, & K ONLY
One Page ... 7 10 0	One Page ... 5 0 0
Two-thirds of a Page ... 5 9 0	Two-thirds of a Page ... 3 13 0
Half-Page ... 4 9 0	Half-Page ... 2 15 0
One-third of a Page ... 3 0 0	One-third of a Page ... 2 0 0
Quarter-Page ... 2 8 0	Quarter-Page ... 1 12 0
Eighth of a Page ... 1 7 0	Eighth of a Page ... 0 18 0
Below an Eighth of a Page, Per inch.	Below an Eighth of a Page, Per inch.
Across the Page ... 0 18 0	Across the Page ... 0 12 0
Two-thirds across the Page ... 0 12 0	Two-thirds across the Page ... 0 8 0
Half across the Page ... 0 9 0	Half across the Page ... 0 6 0
One-third across the Page ... 0 6 0	One-third across the Page ... 0 4 0
Page next matter, Rate and a Half.	Outside pages, Double Rate.

* The above Scale of Charges is subject to a Discount of 10 per cent. for Advertisements appearing in the consecutive issues of a paper for 3 months; of 15 per cent. for 6 months; and 20 per cent. for 12 months.

When an Advertisement is ordered for insertion simultaneously in all the Papers, the lowest rate above is charged all through.

Post Office Orders to be made payable at the Cannon-street Post Office, London.

Remittances payable to William Vaughan.
The EUROPEAN MAIL may be ordered through the Local Agent, direct from the London Office, or through any Firm having representatives in England. In the last case, the usual system is to order the EUROPEAN MAIL to be forwarded until countermanded; the representative of the Firm in England being directed, under similar conditions, to make payment annually.

THE NEW MUSICAL PITCH.
COLLARD MOUTRIE has just invented, perfected, and secured by Royal Letters Patent, an important improvement in the manufacture of Pianofortes, by which the Pitch is raised to the Philharmonic or lowered to that of the French normal-diaton in an instant, at the option of the performer. This invention can be applied to any Pianforte. The Profession, Amateurs, Musical Critics, Musical Public, and the Trade are invited to witness its utility and effect, between the hours of Eleven and Four, at the Manufactory, 77, Southampton-row, Russell-square. Established 1849.

THE AMERICAN FREEMASON
is Monthly, of sixteen double-column quarto pages of entirely original matter, and translations from the French Italian, and German Masonic papers and periodicals of the day. It is devoted to the discussion of the rights of Lodges and individual Freemasons, in contradistinction to the assumptions of Grand Lodges, and the un-Masonic doctrines and arrangements of 'high degrees'. Its motto is—Belief in the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man. Its price is Five Shillings a year—a sum so small that no Freemason, for pecuniary reasons, need be a non-subscriber to it. Trans-Atlantic Subscribers to the AMERICAN FREEMASON will receive it Post-paid from the Office of Publication direct, at their respective Post-offices, upon payment of the subscription to

BRO. GEORGE KENNING,
3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN LONDON, E.C.
All Subscriptions begin with March 15th, 1869, and end with February, 1870.

The AMERICAN FREEMASON is not the organ of any Grand Lodge; but speaking the words of truth, manhood, and independence advocates freedom for Masonry in America, and the rights of Freemasons in their Lodges—rights which, by our Grand Lodges, in their subversion to high degrees, have been invaded, until at present they are nearly obliterated. Subscribers in the British Colonies will please address all Subscriptions and Correspondence to J. KATONER BRENNAN, Editor, 114, Main street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

VELOCIPEDES & BICYCLES for either Sex.
Speed 30 miles per hour, hill-ascending, self-propelling and balancing, £100. Diagram, 6d.
Manufacturing Licences granted.
W. PIDDING, Esq., PATENTER, 31, Kings'-row, Walworth-road.

"Having drawn Mr. W. PIDDING'S Specification of Patent, I am able to certify that his improvements in Velocipedes (bicycles particularly) will render them self balancing, capable of ascending hilly ground, and that they would travel on a newly-made road without inconvenience to the rider, either in the way of jolting or in retarding of the great speed the improvements will secure. The travelling, in fact, would be as though on level ground."
(Signed) "J. G. WILSON, C.E.
Belgrave-terrace, Peckham, S.E.; formerly of 15, St. George-street, Westminster."

"MR. W. PIDDING'S PATENT SELF-PROPELLING AND BALANCING VELOCIPEDES AND BICYCLES—Having seen the diagrams and perused a specification of Mr. Pidding's patent, we hesitate not for an instant to say that that gentleman will accomplish all he professes to do by means of his invention."—Sporting Opinion.
New Edition, in post 8vo, with about 30 Woodcuts, price 12s. 6d.

A Co-operative Discount of Twenty per Cent. to Brothers.

FOR GOUT—Use OIL of HORSE CHEST-NUTS, which imparts a natural circulation. 3/9, 1/6, and 11/1 per bottle.

FOR GOUT—Drink WILDUNGEN WATER, the only natural solvent for Stone and Gravel. 1/6 per bottle; 15/- per dozen.

FOR INDIGESTION—Take DANDELION, CAMOMILE and RHUBARB PILLS. 1/14 per box; 2/9, 4/6, and 11/- per bottle.

FOR INDIGESTION—Take the PURE VEGETABLE CHARCOAL, prepared according to Mr. BIRD'S formula. 3/6 per bottle. The only internal disinfectant.

ANDERSON'S MEDICAL LABORATORY,
2, Lower Seymour-street, Portman-square; and 80, Duke-street, Manchester-square, London, W.

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.

Opiales, Narcotics, and Squills, are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary Diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.

SELECT TESTIMONIAL.
Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says:—"I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued Cough, Pain, and Irritation of the Chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."

This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold by all respectable Chemists and Patent Medicine Dealers, in bottles at 1s. 6d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each, and wholesale by JAS. M. CROSBY, Chemist, Scarborough.

* Invalids should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be obtained gratis of any respectable Chemist.

TO THE NERVOUS & DEBILITATED EPILEPTIC SUFFERERS AND OTHERS.

HALL'S CHLORATE OF POTASSA, discovered, introduced, and extensively prescribed by the late eminent Dr. MARSHALL HALL, has proved an infallible remedy (by oxydizing the blood, and supplying its saline constituent) for Indigestion, Debility, Coughs, Asthma Consumption, Skin, Liver, Stomach, and Nervous Affections, more especially Epilepsy, Apoplexy, and Paralysis. The successful results of this new chemical preparation are beyond all precedent, and the extraordinary cures effected by the late discoverer, and by his successor (Dr. SUTTON), in the above maladies are without a parallel in the annals of medicine; and it is confidently believed that in no case need the sufferer despair, for practical experience has demonstrated, and signal success warranted the assertion, that in 99 cases out of every 100 complete cures may be relied on.

Sold in Bottles at 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and Cases of £5 each, by

DR. SUTTON, M.D., 15, REGENT SQUARE, LONDON, W.C., and in BOLTON by PRINCEPLAY, Chemist.

The following are a few Testimonials published by privilege.

Sir Charles Locock, Physician-Accoucher to Her Majesty, stated at a meeting of the Royal Medical and Chirurgical Society, that in sixteen cases of Epilepsy he had effected permanent cures by the use of Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa.

"September 6 1866.—The Editor of the Bury Gazette returns thanks to Dr. Hall for the great benefit he has received from his Chlorate of Potassa treatment in a severe nervous disease." Sir J. Ferguson, King's College Hospital, London, says—"I have repeatedly prescribed Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa and found it an agreeable and beneficial remedy."

Extract from the Lancet, April 1, 1867.—"In conclusion, we are of opinion that Hall's Chlorate of Potassa is a far superior remedy to the ones in general use for Nervousness, Indigestion, and Liver Complaints, when judiciously prescribed."

Sir Benjamin Brodie says—"What Chloride of Lime is to the foul sewer, Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa is to the blood." Professor Syme says—"The effects of Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa in obstinate cases of disease are as astonishing as perplexing."

Dr. Lankester, the eminent coroner, says—"Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa is calculated to entirely supersede iron, mercury, sars parilla, quinine, and cod liver oil."

Sir Philip Crampton says—"I believe there is no condition of the system that may not be benefited by Dr. Hall's Potassa." Sir T. Lawrence says—"I have found Dr. Hall's Chlorate an excellent remedy in Skin Diseases. I presume it is by oxydization."

Sir T. Watson says—"I know that it is an invaluable remedy." Sir Edward Borough, 9, Fitzwilliam-square, Dublin, certifies Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa has been of the greatest benefit to a member of his family.

The Earl of Clarendon certifies that Dr. Hall's Chlorate cured a case of indigestion of 15 years' duration.

Dr. HALL'S CHLORATE OF POTASSA may be prepared by order through any Chemist. Ask for "Dr. HALL'S Chlorate," and do not be imposed on with the common article. It is sold in Bolton by Priestley, Chemist, 12, Deansgate; or it may be had direct from Dr. Hall's successor, Dr. JOHN SUTTON, M.D., 15, Regent square, London, W.C., who undertakes the positive cure of all chronic diseases before payment. Dr. HALL'S Chlorate is sold in MANCHESTER by JEWELL, Market-street; in Liverpool by PRINCEPLAY, Lord-street.

N.B.—Dr. Sutton will shortly repeat his Lecture on this subject. The Lecture sent for two stamps.

DR. LEA'S CELEBRATED MEDICINES.

"The efficacy of Lea's Medicines is proverbial." Daily Telegraph.

"Lea's preparations are excellent."—Morning Star.

LEA'S BENIGAL ATBRILIOUS PILLS.

Invaluable in all liver complaints, and as a Family Medicine (without Mercury). 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

LEA'S GOUT AND RHEUMATIC PILLS.

Will eradicate these disorders when every other remedy has failed, excellent also in Neuralgia, Lumbago, and Sciatica. 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

LEA'S CONSUMPTION SPECIFIC.

If persevered in, will seldom fail. 11s. and 22s.

LEA'S ASTHMATIC EMULSION.

Maintains its superiority for this complaint, Chronic Cough, Bronchial affections, Colds, &c. 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

LEA'S WHOOPING-COUGH EMULSION.

A certain cure for this destructive complaint in a few days. 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d.

Prepared by G. LEA, M.D. Canberwell, Surrey.

LONDON AGENTS—BARCLAY, Farringdon-street; PAGE and THBS, 47, Blackfriars-road; and SUTTON, Bow Churchyard. * Advice free.

CONSUMPTION IS CURABLE.

To CONSUMPTIVES.—A Clergyman, whose son has been miraculously cured of deep consumption, desires in gratitude, and for the benefit of the afflicted to send full particulars of the remedies used in his son's case, so that all may participate in this providential discovery. Sent to any address free of charge.—Address the Secretary, 48, George-street, Portman-square, London.

CONSUMPTION OF THE LUNGS.

Dr. RAIT has discovered A CERTAIN CURE for this fatal malady. Advice gratis. Address W. RAIT, M.D., Peckham, Surrey.

Pyretic Saline
It most invigorating, vitalizing, and refreshing. It gives instant relief in Headache, Sea or Bilious Sickness, and quickly cures the worst form of Eruptive or Skin Complaints. The various diseases arising from Constipation, the Liver, or Blood Impurities, Inoculation, the results of breathy ing air infected with Fever, Measles or Small Pox ARE CURED AND PREVENTED BY ITS USE.
Sold by all Chemists, and the Maker, in Patent Glass Stopped Bottles, at 2s. 6d., 4s. 6d., 11s., and 21s. each.
Notice my Trade Mark, and beware of spurious imitations.
H. LAMPOUGH,
115, Holborn Hill, London, E.C.

Pyretic Saline
It most invigorating, vitalizing, and refreshing. It gives instant relief in Headache, Sea or Bilious Sickness, and quickly cures the worst form of Eruptive or Skin Complaints. The various diseases arising from Constipation, the Liver, or Blood Impurities, Inoculation, the results of breathy ing air infected with Fever, Measles or Small Pox ARE CURED AND PREVENTED BY ITS USE.
Sold by all Chemists, and the Maker, in Patent Glass Stopped Bottles, at 2s. 6d., 4s. 6d., 11s., and 21s. each.
Notice my Trade Mark, and beware of spurious imitations.
H. LAMPOUGH,
115, Holborn Hill, London, E.C.

TO ADVERTISERS.

THE Circulation of THE FREEMASON being now at the rate of nearly Half-a-Million per annum, it offers peculiar facilities to all who advertise.

It is well-known that the Fraternity of Freemasons is a large and constantly increasing body, mainly composed of the influential and educated classes of society; and as

The Freemason

is now the accepted organ of the Brotherhood in the United Kingdom, and also enjoys an extensive sale in the colonies and foreign parts, its advantages as an advertising medium can scarcely be overrated.

Only four pages can be allotted to advertisements.

For terms apply to

GEORGE KENNING,

3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, LONDON, E.C.

THE RIGHT HON. THE EARL OF ZETLAND,
K.T., &c., &c.,

MOST WORSHIPFUL GRAND MASTER

OF THE

United Grand Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of England.

A Bust of the EARL OF ZETLAND in Masonic Costume, with the Collar and various Jewels worn by his Lordship on great occasions as the Most Worshipful Grand Master, modelled from sittings kindly afforded by his Lordship (at the solicitation of several Freemasons) to the Sculptor—Brother MORTON EDWARDS. Is executed in a large size suitable for Lodges, &c., and a smaller size for Mantle-piece or otherwise, and will be sent on receipt of Cheque, or Order on the Chief Post Office, payable to GEORGE KENNING, 4, Little Britain, London.

A Limited number will be published, and issued to Subscribers only.

Subscription for the Large Bust ... £5 5 0
" " Smaller " ... £1 0

REFLECTED RAYS OF LIGHT
UPON

FREEMASONRY;

OR

The Freemason's Pocket Compendium.

WITH AN EMBLEMATICAL FRONTPIECE.

A HAND-BOOK of the Principles of Freemasonry, and Pocket Vade-Mecum and Guide to the various Ceremonies connected with Craft Masonry, so far as the same are allowed to be communicable in accordance with the principles of the Order.

Price One Shilling; Post-free for Fourteen Stamps.

Bro. JAMES STEVENSON, 48, Wrotham-road, Gravesend;
Bro. W. GARRY, 49, George-street, Aberdeen; and sold by Bro. GEO. KENNING, Little Britain, London, E.C.

Just Published. Price Half a Guinea.

MONOGRAMS,

HISTORICAL AND PRACTICAL,

D. G. BERRI,

Engraver to Her Majesty's Post Office, Stationery Office,
&c., &c.,

86, High Holborn, (opposite Chancery-lane,) LONDON, W.C.

JUST PUBLISHED.

THE GENERAL STATUTES of the Imperial, Ecclesiastical, and Military Order of the Red Cross of Rome and Constantine, and the Laws of the K.H.S.; with an Appendix and Engravings of the Jewels and Regalia, to which is added a Sketch of the History of the Red Cross Order.

Published under the authority of the Grand Council by R. WENTWORTH LITTLE, G. Recorder, and sold by G. KENNING, Little Britain, E.C.

12mo Cloth, Bound and Lettered, Price 1s. 6d.

PIANOFORTES.

G. R. SAMSON.

(Successor to R. Addison & Co.),

RESPECTFULLY informs purchasers that he still continues to supply the same description of Instruments for which the above firm were justly celebrated.

Pianos from 20 to 60 Guineas.

Pianofortes for Hire upon the three years' system.
30, WELLS STREET, OXFORD STREET, W.
Agent for BORN, of Paris.

HATS! HATS! HATS!

T. OLIVER & SON,

14, ALDERSGATE STREET, E.C., AND

59, FULHAM ROAD, S.W.

EVERY description of SHOOTING HATS for the season. PARIS HATS, 10/6 to 21/-, of the finest silk makes.

Unlike any other Plan known.

POSITIVE LIFE ASSURANCE is a new system, first introduced by the

MASONIC & GENERAL FIRE & LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY, Limited,
8, NEW BRIDGE STREET, BLACKFRIARS

It secures Insurers a Promissory Note (instead of the ordinary Policy) for each premium paid, which is payable "To Bearer," either during the life-time or at the death of the assured.

Full Particulars on application to

FREDERICK BIGG,

Manager and Actuary.

Agents wanted in London and the provinces.

COMPENSATION

IN CASE OF INJURY, AND

A FIXED SUM IN CASE OF DEATH

CAUSED BY

ACCIDENT OF ANY KIND,

May be Secured by a Policy of the Railway Passengers Assurance Company.

An annual payment of £3 to £6 5s. Insures £1000 at Death, and an allowance at the rate of £6 per week for Injury.

RAILWAY ACCIDENTS ALONE

MAY BE PROVIDED AGAINST BY

Insurance Tickets for Single or Double Journeys.

For particulars apply to the Clerks at the Railway Stations, to the Local Agents, or at the Offices,
64, CORNHILL, & 10, REGENT STREET, LONDON.

WILLIAM J. VIAN, Secretary.

MONEY.

LOANS ON PERSONAL SECURITY, WITH LIFE ASSURANCE, AT FIVE PER CENT. PER ANNUM.

THE

WEST OF ENGLAND FIRE & LIFE OFFICE

(Instituted 1803)

GRANTS LOANS FOR A LIMITED NUMBER OF YEARS ON THE ABOVE TERMS.

Chief Office—Exeter.

London—20, New Bridge Street.

MONEY.—LOANS Granted from £100 to £2,000 at 5 per cent., repayable over Three Years, on Personal Security and Life Policy effected with the WEST OF ENGLAND INSURANCE CO., (Established 1807.)

Apply to the Superintendent or Agents,

Bro. J. CROCKER, Gateshead-on-Tyne.

Agents Wanted.

SHIRTS,

2/6, 3/6, 4/6, 5/6, 6/6 upwards,

In all materials of Cotton and Wool.

CANN, JONES & CO.,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

Shirt Manufacturers, Tailors and Outfitters,

171, FENCHURCH STREET, E.C.

MANUFACTORY: 15 & 16, BLOMFIELD STREET, E.C.

"TRUTH MUST PREVAIL."

Common Sense.

Lamps, Baths, Cutlery, Brushes, Fenders & Fire Irons, Electroplate, & Nickel-Silver Goods.

R. D. PARR,

General House Furnishing Ironmonger,

42, BLACKMAN STREET, BOROUGH,

OFFERS nothing extraordinary, but REALLY GOOD Articles at fair and reasonable prices. He does not keep an "Immense Stock," but SUFFICIENTLY LARGE for any person to select from. He does not sell "cheaper than every other house in the Trade," but quite as cheap as ANY.

A visit will, at all times, be very much appreciated.

For Cheap Watches, Clocks, Gold Chains, and Jewelry, go to

KIBBLE'S

22, GRACECHURCH STREET,

One Door from Lombard Street, and

51, LUDGATE HILL,

Opposite the Old Bailey.

Gold Watches £2 15s.

Silver ditto £1 5s.

Timepieces from 9s. 6d.

EVERY ARTICLE WARRANTED.

Plate, Watches, and Jewelry, bought or exchanged.

List of Prices Post free.

BRO. REEVES, SON & CO.,

Steam Printers, Engravers & Lithographers,

WHOLESALE STATIONERS,

AND ACCOUNT BOOK MANUFACTURERS,

Playhouse Yard, Blackfriars, London, E.C.

Next the "Times" Publishing Office.

Bro. WOLPERT,

PRINTER, STATIONER & ACCOUNT-BOOK MAKER,

7, St. Swithin's Lane, E.C.

Authorised Agent to receive Advertisements for THE FREEMASON, and all the London and Country Newspapers.

BRO. BENJAMIN COOK,

Carpenter, Builder, and House Decorator,

SALISBURY COURT,

FLEET STREET, E.C.

Estimates for General Repairs.

Bro. J. G. MARSH,

ARCHITECT AND SURVEYOR,

159, Fenchurch Street, E.C.;

AND

842, Old Kent Road, S.E.

Bro. H. R. PRICE,

ARCHITECT AND SURVEYOR,

IMPERIAL CHAMBERS,

No. 1, Market Place, corner of St. Mary's-gate, MANCHESTER.

Bro. G. W. CHINNOCK,

Statuary and Cemetery Stone Mason,

93, FULHAM ROAD, S.W.

MISSES E. & C. CHINNOCK,

Pianistes & Teachers of the Pianoforte,

93, FULHAM ROAD, S.W.

By Appointment to the Queen.

Bookseller, Stationer, Newsagent, Printer, &c.

A MAGNIFICENT STOCK OF

MASONIC REQUIREMENTS

MAY BE SEEN AT

Bro. W. E. FRANKLIN'S,

42, MOSLEY ST., corner of ST. NICHOLAS SQUARE

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE,

Agent for "THE FREEMASON."

BRO. JAMES B. SLY,

PRACTICAL

Heraldic Engraver to the Trade,

Of Gold, Silver, and Ivory,

DRAUGHTSMAN & DIE-SINKER

9, Rathbone Place, London, W.

Plates Engraved; Gilt Pierced Mounts made for Albums and Cigar Cases.

Designs made of Crests, Monograms, Ornaments, and Arms, and every description of Shooting Prizes, Presentation Plate, Watches, Watch Domes, Dressing Cases, Bag-sets, and Ivory Brushes, Engraved with care, delicacy, and despatch.

TO STATIONERS.

JAS. B. SLY having in his employ several Die-sinkers, and from his practical knowledge of the same is enabled to give immediate attention to the cutting of Dies that are emergent. Companies' Dies cut. Illuminating and Stamping in colours. Sample Sheets of Monograms and Addresses forwarded on application.

A STRINGENT TOOTH PASTE.—HENRY NEWMAN'S "Astringent Tooth Paste," in Pots 1s. 6d. and 2s. 6d., to be had of all respectable Chemists. Wholesale Agents, Evans and Sons, Hanover-street; Raimes and Co., Hanover-street; Messrs Clay, Dodd and Case, St. Anne street; or of the Proprietor,

BRO. HENRY NEWMAN,

SURGEON-DENTIST,

5, SLATER STREET,

LIVERPOOL.

Printed by Brother JAMES ADLEY REEVES AND SON, Playhouse Yard, Blackfriars, in the City of London; published by the Proprietor, Brother GEORGE KENNING, at his Office, 3 and 4, Little Britain, in the City of London.—SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 4, 1869.

THE FREEMASON

Grand Lodge Reports are published with the sanction of the Right Honorable the EARL of ZETLAND, K.T., Most Worshipful Grand Master of England.

VOL. 2, No. 27.]

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1869.

REGISTERED FOR TRANSMISSION ABROAD. [PRICE 2D.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

	PAGE.
CONSECRATION OF STAR LODGE, No. 1275...	121
PAPERS ON MASONRY—
No. XXIII.—Masonry and Politics ...	122
LODGE OF TORPHICHEN-KILWINNING, No. 13, BATH-GATE ...	122 & 123
MAXIMS OF PYTHAGORAS ...	123
THE CRAFT—Metropolitan and Provincial ...	124
THE ROYAL ARCH—Metropolitan ...	124
MARK MASONRY ...	124
MEETING OF THE PROV. GRAND LODGE OF DORSET-SHIRE ...	124
ANNUAL MEETING OF THE PROV. GRAND LODGE OF SUSSEX ...	124
PROV. GRAND LODGE OF LINCOLNSHIRE ...	125
MASONIC MEETINGS FOR NEXT WEEK ...	125
OBITUARY—
Bro. Dr. James Hunt ...	125
INELIGIBILITY OF BASTARDS AND THE MAIMED AS FREEMASONS ...	125
BIRTHS, MARRIAGES, AND DEATHS ...	126
INDISCRIMINATE ALMSGIVING ...	126
MASONIC NOTES AND QUERIES—
Foreign Notes by the Editor ...	126
The Thirty-three Degrees ...	126 & 127
ORIGINAL CORRESPONDENCE—
Jerusalem Encampment... ..	128
A "Bumper Toast"	128
Ineligibility of Bastards as Freemasons ...	128
Spurious Masonic Bodies Again ...	128 & 129
A Query	129
SUPREME COUNCIL, NEW YORK	129
ADVERTISEMENTS	130 131 & 132

NOW READY, PRICE 4/6

VOL. I. OF

The Freemason,

NEATLY BOUND, EXTRA CLOTH, WITH GILT EMBLEMATICAL LETTERING.

3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, LONDON, AND ALL BOOKSELLERS.

CONSECRATION OF THE STAR LODGE, No. 1275.

Another star has been added to the galaxy of English Freemasonry, another luminary adorns the Masonic firmament. As a rule we are not favorable to the rapid creation of new lodges, especially in districts where the Craft is already fairly represented, but at the same time we hail with satisfaction their establishment in such important localities as New Cross, which, although situated in close proximity to Deptford and Lewisham, where lodges exist, is such a populous suburb in itself as to demand a lodge of its own. The M.W. Grand Master having acceded to the prayer of the petitioners by granting the usual warrant, Friday, the 3rd inst., was fixed upon for the consecration of the "Star Lodge, No. 1275, at its intended place of meeting, the "Marquis of Granby," in New Cross-road.

The Consecrating Master was the deservedly popular Grand Secretary, Bro. John Hervey, P.G.D., who at half-past four o'clock opened the lodge in the three degrees, and called upon Bro. R. Wentworth Little, P.M., who acted as Chaplain, to commence the proceedings with prayer. The customary formalities having been complied with, Bro. Joseph Smith, P.G. Pursuivant and W.M.-designate, and the other members of the new lodge were presented by Bro. W. Watson, P.G.S., who acted as D.C., to the Consecrating Master, who signified his intention of constituting them into a regular lodge according to ancient form.

Bro. James Brett, Asst. G. Purst. (the renowned Masonic teacher), then delivered with fine effect the following oration, which we may remark en passant was composed by Bro. Little:—

"Having met on this auspicious occasion as fellow-labourers in the laudable work of erecting and dedicating a temple for the celebration of the solemn rites of Freemasonry, we may not unprofitably devote a few moments to a rapid review of the principles and tenets of our ancient institution. The early history of the Order is confessedly involved in obscurity, and the earnest researches of the most eminent Masonic antiquaries have as yet failed to illumine the darkness that fills the mighty void. It is, therefore, no intention of mine to trim my lamp for an adventurous pilgrimage into the dim cloudlands of tradition, or the mythic regions of imagination, more especially as I believe that the actual present and the dawning future will afford us, as Freemasons, more ample food for speculation and reflection, than even the venerated records of the past. It is undeniable that this is an age of progress, in every department of art and science astonishing discoveries have been made, and the path of life is cheered and comforted by the application of a thousand useful inventions. In the midst of this general advancement we find Freemasonry still occupying a foremost place in the estimation of intellectual men. Now, as of old, princes and the exalted ones of the earth are found clothed in the Mason's badge and wielding the Master's gavel. In this favoured land the Fraternity has been ruled for many years by a succession of distinguished chiefs, whose names adorn the annals of their country, and during the long reign of the beloved nobleman who at present presides so worthily over the Craft, Freemasonry has advanced with giant strides, and its beneficent influence is felt and acknowledged throughout every gradation of our social system. To you, my brethren, as Masons, I need hardly say that we owe this glorious position mainly to the grand principles on which our Order is founded. Indelibly inscribed on the pillars of our temple are the hallowed words—Brotherly Love, Relief, and Truth, and every true Mason bears them like a talisman engraven on his heart. By the exercise and practice of fraternal love we preserve the links that unite us in the holy bonds of brotherhood; by discriminative benevolence we sustain the helpless and the afflicted; and by diffusing the light of truth we elevate our fellow men from the depths of ignorance and superstition. Such are the objects inculcated in our precepts, and in this sense we may well regard Freemasonry as the mighty manifestation of a higher life; of a more spiritual and heavenly existence—its teachings are solemn as the breath of fate—they give a significance to many things; they interpret our most mysterious feelings and sublime emotions; they create our most exalted hopes. The utterances of our symbolic philosophy reach to all climes and to all nations—the emblems of our Order are found everywhere; its august ceremonies are not for one people, one empire, or one era; they are for all the earth and for all time. Again, our institution is the guide to Wisdom, instructing us to separate, with unerring alchemy, the true from the false, and to distinguish the darkness from the light; above all, it commends us to the devout study of the volume of the sacred law as the revelation of our divine Master's will and word. It is also the index which points to Strength, reminding us of the almighty power of the Great Architect of the Universe, as exemplified in the creation and preservation of the countless worlds that own His Omnipotent sway. It leads us to the contemplation of the beautiful in nature and science, enabling us to climb from the luminous worlds of wisdom to the shining spheres of strength, and finally revealing to us those radiant realms where Beauty, kindled by the smile of God, reigns in everlasting perfection. I will now bring to your notice a few words of practical application. We know that the tenets of Freemasonry are good, let us, therefore, endeavour to carry them out in our lives; let the reality of our professions be proved by our actions, and the faith that is in us be manifested in deed as in word. Life is too short for the cultivation of animosities, and our future inheritance too lofty to be rashly imperilled by foolish dalliance in the outer chambers of sin. Let us, therefore, decide to walk according to the light, that 'men may see our good works and glorify our Father which is in Heaven.' Let us persevere in the acquisition of Masonic knowledge; for, as the broken fragments of a pyramid can give us but a faint conception of the colossal grandeur of the structure, so can a partial and imperfect view of Freemasonry afford us but a dim idea of its vast and wondrous proportions. Carefully guard against the admission of unworthy candidates; permit not the frivolous, the dissolute, or the intemperate, to enter within our gates or to participate in ceremonies which they can neither comprehend nor enjoy. In conclusion, brethren, I would express a fervent hope, in which I am sure all present will heartily join, that the foundation we are laying this day may be solid and lasting, that the altar which we raise may be ever consecrated to the service of morality and virtue, and that centuries hence, when our living breathing forms shall have long mingled with their kindred dust, our descendants in the Star Lodge may still be found promulgating in all their original purity the genuine principles of our noble and time-honoured fraternity."

At the conclusion of this excellent address, Bro. Brett was greeted with Masonic applause.

After appropriate music, the dedication prayer was offered up by the Acting Chaplain, and the Consecrating Master then, in a most impressive manner, repeated the solemn "Invocation." Bro. Watson then led the procession of Past Masters, with the elements of consecration, reciting the usual sentences referring to their symbolical signification. The thurible was then carried round the lodge three times, in accordance with the custom of circumambulation in the ancient mysteries; and after the second dedicatory prayer, Bro. Hervey formally constituted the lodge, in the name of the Grand Lodge of England and by command of the Most Worshipful Grand Master, and the Patriarchal Benediction by Bro. Little closed the ceremony of consecration, which was performed by all the officers concerned in a manner rarely, if ever, surpassed. We must not omit to add that Bro. H. G. Buss, P.M., discharged the duties of Inner Grand with great efficiency, and the importance of having a tried and experienced Mason in such a position at the opening of a new lodge can be readily understood.

The lodge having been resumed in the second degree, Bro. Joseph Smith, P.G. Purst., was presented for installation, and that beautiful ceremony was also rendered to perfection by the Grand Secretary. The Wardens named in the warrant were Bros. Edward Palmer and Charles J. Hogg, Past Grand Steward, but the former was unable to be present. Bros. F. Walters was appointed Secretary, and H. Keble, S.D., the other offices being left vacant.

Among the visitors present were the following:—Bros. J. Hervey, G.S., the Consecrating Master; W. Ough, G.P., and J. Brett, A.G.P., who filled the Wardens' chairs; W. Farnfield, P.A.G. Sec.; Hyde Clarke, P.D.D.G.M. for Turkey; W. Watson, P.G. Steward; J. Dixon, M.D., P.M.; H. G. Buss, P.M.; R. Wentworth Little, P.M.; J. Terry, P.M., P.G.S.B. Herts; H. Potter, P.M.; H. W. Hemsworth, W.M., 190, J. Trickett, W.M.-elect 1194; J. Henderson, P.M.; H. Massey, P.M., 619; R. B. Newson, P.G.S.B. Kent; H. Whittle, S.W., 871; G. Bolton, P.M., 147; D. Rose, W.M., 73; D. Linas, 619; H. Bartlett, 1178; T. Trickett, 954.

The Grand Secretary was unanimously elected an honorary member, and the lodge was then closed.

A Banquet followed, and it is only bare justice to the host to say that it was admirably served, and comprised everything in season. Several capital speeches were made during the course of the evening by Bros. J. Smith, the W.M. (who for the eighth time fills the seat of Solomon); J. Hervey, G.S.; Hyde Clarke, W. Farnfield, W. Ough, J. Brett, F. Walters, the respected Secretary, R. W. Little, &c., and the effective recitations of Bro. Smith, (not the W.M.) who accompanied himself on the harmonium, added to the charm of a very pleasant evening.

PAPERS ON MASONRY.

By A. LEWIS.

XXIII.—MASONRY AND POLITICS.

"Thy kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and thy dominion endureth throughout all generations."—Palm cxlv. 13.

"Having spoken this, she only said to her officers, 'Tabachins, a panacea,' and strait they desired us not to take it amiss if the Queen did not invite us to dine with her; for she never eat anything at dinner but some categories, jecsbots, emnins, dimions, abstractions, harborins, chelemins, second intentions, carradoths antitheses, metempsychoses, transcendent prolepsies, and such other light food. Then they took us into a little closet, lined through with alarums, where we were treated God knows how."—RABELAIS (Pantagruel, Book v. ch. 20).

It has been made a charge against me, and by high authorities in Masonry, that I import somewhat too much politics into this series of papers. It is perfectly competent for gentlemen to hold what opinions they please, but I must firmly and respectfully respond to the charge made as to this political tone assumed by me.

It is not alone a question whether Freemasonry is political: it is a question, further, what the true meaning of politics may be.

Referring to Liddell and Scott's Lexicon, I find the following definitions:—Πόλις, a city, πόλις ἀκρη = ἀκρόπολις, a citadel, the right of citizenship; πολιτεία, the relation of a citizen to the State; πολίτης, a freeman, a statesman, transformed into polite (learned) courtesie, courtesy, and human kindness.

How, I will ask, can any Mason, with these facts before us, be otherwise than political? The object of the aggregation of individuals into a nationality is mutual defence and alliance—a combination to uphold right against wrong, and a vindication of the sacred name of justice. Plotters meet no mercy at the hands of real statesmen; the noble spirit of Patriotism is upheld by the lances of the free. Though war be a sad necessity, the profession of arms remains honourable, and whether our battlefields are pitched in the arenas of Science, of real Religion, or of Truth, the obligation remains upon us of speaking truth and shaming the Devil. This is the enduring Kingdom spoken of by the Psalmist; this thought inspired the Salique Law, and renders significant the singular dinner of Queen Whims.

Whether we build an acropolis, a temple, or a nationality, we are bound by laws identical. The polity we desire is mutual security and confidence; the freedom we fight for is the maintenance of the Right. No brother is exempt from a share in the burthen, nor will any real labourer skulk, or any true soldier of the Blazing Star be found malingering.

Whatever we possess of an everlasting nature is founded upon our individual efforts. Nature presents us the materials in rich variety—it is our duty to so raise up to Heaven in gratitude a structure where we can in spirit and in truth give hearty thanks to T.G.A.O.T.U. Every man has his part to perform in this most excellent labour, and healthy emulation carries us onward in the due performance of the sacred task. To the hands of some trusty disciple the torch of the Panethenaic Games is entrusted, but not to him alone—it is the universal property of mankind. With Bro. Johann Wolfgang von Goethe, we may exclaim, "More Light!" or mournfully mutter with the much misunderstood Byron, "My soul is dark!" The nefarious torch of a Harriett Beecher Stowe cannot mephitically extinguish the light of the glorious bard of Newstead. One qualification of society exists as Firmness, and that can only be attained by good government. Good government depends upon enlightenment. Masonry, in the sense of its remote founders, meant this last, and thus it is useless to raise the cry that Masonry is non-political. Were it not political, of what moment would it be that crowned heads should swell the columns of Masonry? It is founded upon kingship, but that kingship is intellectual; it is, though, Conservative, militant, for the sake of the Good, and throughout the ages of its endurance has appealed to the heart and the large motives which guide the real leaders of society. Unfortunately people think so sordidly, rely so much on mere money, that their senses have become dulled to the advantages of a chivalrous fight for the Real and Absolute.

I have hitherto been silent as to the higher grades in Masonry; the time is fast approaching when I shall be obliged to discuss their merits and uses. Their chief value consists in their militant strength, and in the confidence inspired by their universality. "The light of the body is the eye; if therefore thine eye be single, thy whole body shall be full of light." This singleness of the Eye is what I so strenuously contend for, and by the simplicity of which I conjure Masons to abandon the false principle that Masonry is non-political.

Wherever Freedom has been accomplished, it has been accomplished by the gradual progress of Masonry, and institutions akin to it or having similar aims. Such a revolution is real, bloodless, and permanent. Let any one recur to the historical "Inconfidencia" of Minas, and they will see that the great rising was promoted, as the Italian Revolution of Guiseppe Garibaldi—by Masonic influences. "Tira-dentes," Da Cost, Gonzaga, Andrade, José Alves Maciel, and others, were Freemasons, and by their gallantry, for which they sacrificed their lives and fortunes, secured the happiness and freedom of the Brazil. In an age like our own, when competition is substituted for emulation, and a race for gold esteemed more glorious than a race for intellectual distinction, Masonry must be combative, political, and outspoken. It is inherent in the very nature of things. But I would not go so far as to say that this political character is inconsistent with peace—it is to render the kingdom of T.G.A.O.T.U. an everlasting Kingdom, that I advise Queen Whims further to feed upon her fanciful "flap-doodle"—while men, not automat, continue to labour at the construction of the Acropolis of Glory and Human Happiness, "a temple not made with hands."

I therefore say in this sense Masonry is political, and so may it continue to be.

CRYPTONYMUS.

THE BLOOD PURIFIER.—Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla. Other Medical Testimony.—In speaking of the "Blood Purifier," old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla, G. C. Kernott, M.D., L.S.A. Lond., says:—"I strongly recommend it in cutaneous diseases and all impurities of the blood." March 24, 1869.—In a letter to the proprietors, June 6, 1869, Dr. Irvine, of Irvine's-town, says:—"I have been in the habit of ordering your Sarsaparilla for my patients with the best results. Send me six quarts and six mammoth bottles." For all skin diseases, for purifying the system of mercurial poisons and building up the broken constitution it is the only safe and certain remedy.—In Bottles 2s. 6d., 4s., 4s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 11s. Sold by all Druggists. Pills and Ointment each in Boxes, 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d. Testimonials also from the Hon. the Dean of Lismore; General William Gilbert, of the Indian Army; ordered also by Apothecaries Hall, London. Caution—Get the red and blue wrappers, with the Old Doctor's head in the centre. No other genuine.

LODGE TORPHICHEN-KILWINNING, No. 13, BATHGATE.

By BRO. D. MURRAY LYON,

A.M., Masonic University of Kentucky, U.S.; Hon. Corresponding Member of the Union of German Freemasons, and of the Rosicrucian Society of England; one of the Grand Stewards in the Grand Lodge of Scotland; P.G.S.W. Ayrshire; Hon. Fellow of the London Literary Union; author of the "History of Mother Kilwinning," etc., etc.

In presenting the second of those interesting "Specimens from a Masonic Quarry" to which our talented and industrious friend and brother, W. James Hughan, has of late been treating the readers of THE FREEMASON, he invites our aid in the further preparation of block No. 13. Although at present busy enough in our own "quarry," it would ill become us to ask Bro. Hughan to rest contented with an apology for declining the honour of being a co-worker with him in this particular instance. "Torphichen-Kilwinning, Bathgate," stands No. 13 on the roll of the Grand Lodge—its original number was 16,—and is there represented as having been instituted in 1728. 1707 is given by some as the supposed date of its erection; but the brethren, Fellow-Crafts and Apprentices, who were engaged in its resuscitation, in 1728-9 ascribed a "very ancient date" to that event, and claimed direct descent from the Lodge of Kilwinning. The exact date of its erection cannot now be fixed; for the Kilwinning records are silent upon this point. It appears, however, to have originally belonged to Torphichen, from which village it in all probability took its name, and not from Lord Torphichen, any more than the Lodge of Kilmarnock could be said to have derived its name from the Jacobite Earl who was its first Master. The practice of naming Lodges in honour of private individuals has, except in a few instances, never been adopted by the Scotch. Of the 32 lodges in the province from which we write, only one, that of "Blair, Dalry," bears the name of a brother (the late Colonel Blair of Blair, whom its originators delighted to honour). There is, we think, no good reason, for supposing that the Lodge of Torphichen ever had any connection with the Knights of St. John other than its members would, as operative masons, contract with those who chose to employ them. It is too late in the day to expect implicit belief in the fables with which the history of Freemasonry was wont to be embellished.

It was in May, 1729, that a communication of Mother Kilwinning was held specially to treat with a deputation of brethren from Linlithgowshire charged with obtaining from Kilwinning the recognition of the Lodge of Torphichen as a branch of the Mother Lodge—a petition to that effect having some months previously been forwarded to Kilwinning. As that document is a gem in its way—showing as it does the high repute in which the Lodge of Kilwinning was held out of Ayrshire, and at the same time enlightening us as to the mutual benefits that were expected to flow from a favourable consideration of its prayer—we shall here reproduce it from our notes on Mother Kilwinning:—

"East Calder, Decr. 12, 1728.

"The which day, we the undersubscribing Masons of the Lodge of Tarphichen, in the sheriffdom of Linlithgow, having met for our selves and for the remanent members of our brotherhood, and taken to our serious consideratione the great loss we have sustained and are still at through the neglect of our ancient Order formerly maintained in the honourable society of our Craft and airt. Considering Also that we can do nothing till such time we shall obtain authority and power to our Constitution from the honourable fraternity and society of the ancient Lodge of Kilwinning, of whom we acknowledge our selves to hold all our rights and priviledges. Therefor with all reverence and submission we hereby commissionat and delegat thrie of ouer number - - - of our number trustee in our name, with full power to treat with the honourable president and remanent worthy members of the Society and Brotherhood of the ancient Lodge of Kilwinning, that he may grant us a power of constitutione and acting in our Society under you in all things, to the recovering and main-taining of good order and suppressing immoralities and licenciousness in our constitutione, and hereby acknowledging our selves incapable for the time to be advantageous to you our honourable superiours, yet hoping by our legal constitution from you and the good order it may produce amongst us that ye shall reap your expected consolation from our good order and comely conversation, according to your prescribed rule, which in the Lord we promise to observe, craving pardon of the honourable society for this trouble; so saluting you, we subscribe our names for our selves and absent brethren for the time—

Fellow Crafts
 “William Tenant
 Thomas Clerkson
 David Liddel
 James Livingstone
 Samuel Purdie
 James Aikman
 George Young
 John Thorntonne
 Maine
 James Steill
 John Ruglan
 J. Binning
 (One name illegible)

Enter Prentices
 Wm. Christie
 John Hill
 Thomas Young
 Robert Marshel
 Michael Potter
 James Calder
 John Livingston.”

Watching over the morality of the brethren, as referred to in the foregoing petition, was an ancient characteristic of the Scottish Crafts; and the Masons of Torphichen would undoubtedly think it a recommendation in the eyes of the Kilwinning Fraternity to express their admiration of this feature of their original constitution, and their desire for its perpetuation. The privilege prayed for was granted in the following terms:—

“Kilwinning, May the 15th, 1729.

“According to a Petition given in to us by a company of Masons at Tarphichen for a privilege from our Lodge, and in answer to their petition we have granted them a liberte to hold a Communitie together at Tarphichen:—And we, in name of the rest of the members of the said Lodge of Tarphichen, do hereby oblige ourselves to pay yearly to us in Kilwinning the sum of one shilling Scots yearly for holding, if called forth from us; in witness whereof subscribed by us,

JOHN SHAW
 THOMAS WALLACE.”

The Lodge of Torphichen is again introduced to notice through the minute of the Mother Lodge's proceedings of date March 30, 1737. It does not appear that this daughter of Mother Kilwinning took part in the formation of Grand Lodge; but having in the year succeeding that event decided upon joining and becoming subject to the newly-constituted Grand Body, it was led to apply for a certificate confirmatory of its being “one of the ancient branches” of the Mother Lodge. The application, which is preserved among the fragmentary records of the Lodge of Kilwinning, proceeds:—

“To the Right Worshipfull Patrick Montgomerie, Esquire, Master of the Ancient Lodge of and at Kilwinning, and the Worshipfull Wardens and other Members of the said Lodge of Kilwinning,

“The Petition of the Right Worshipfull and Honourable Walter Sandilands, Esquire, Master of the also Ancient Lodge of Torphichen-Kilwinning, for himself and in name and behalf of the Worshipfull Wardens and other Members of the said Torphichen-Kilwinning Lodge, and as being authorized and empowered by them to the effect underwritten:

“Humbly Sheweth,

“That from the best information of some of the oldest members of our said Lodge, Wee had a Charter of Erection from our said Ancient Mother Lodge of and at Kilwinning, of a very ancient date, which we persuade ourselves will be yet Standing upon your Records. The Charter itself, or an extract thereof, is, & has been for some years past, fall'n by and amissing. And as Wee always were, and are still, part of the Company belonging to our said Mother Lodge of Kilwinning, and have always kept a brotherly Correspondence with the same, and stand bound & obliged to defend the Rights and Privileges thereof, and never to do anything prejudicial thereto.—We did apply to our said Mother Lodge by Petition, dated the 27th of December, 1728, for additional power to meet together in a Lawfull Lodge, and to Receive, Enter, & pass any Quality'd persons as Free and Accepted Masons, and Receive Entry Monneys from them, and make By-Laws and Statutes amongst ourselves for the good Ordinance and Government of our Trade and Craft; and by your deliverance thereon of the above date you were pleased, not only to Grant the desire of our said Petition, but also to promise to furnish us with what other necessary things wee wanted betwixt and the 15th day of May then next, as the Petition and Deliverance, therein extant, bear. And sicklike, agreeable to the forsaide application and Deliverance, Two of our Members of Torphichen-Kilwinning Lodge, having paid in to your Box the sum of Thirty pounds Scots money, besides the expense of an entertainment, they waited in person upon the Right Worshipfull Master and Worshipfull Wardens and other Members of our said Mother Lodge of Kilwinning, and obtained from them an Extract of certain of your original Statutes and Ordinances, with a new power to warrant and commission to them for themselves and remnant Members of our said Lodge, not only to put these Statutes and Acts to due execution, but also to make such other Acts & Statutes as we and our Society and Successors should think fit in all time hereafter, as the minutes and deliverance there-ant, dated the 15th of May, 1729, extant also bear.

“And now for the honour and interest of our Lodge, it being necessary that we should have an Extract of our Ancient and Original Constitution as being a branch of our said Mother Lodge of Kilwinning, and also a confirmation thereof in most ample form,

“May it therefore please the Right Worshipfull Masters the Worshipfull Wardens and other Members of our Mother Lodge of Kilwinning, to consider the premises and thereupon to cause search your Records and to Engross an Extract of our Ancient and Original Erection and Constitution, and to confirm, ratify, and approve of the same in the whole heads, privileges and clauses thereof, and to Declare our said Lodge of Torphichen to be one of the Ancient Branches of your said Lodge of Kilwinning, as you have been in use to do other Lawfull Lodges in the like cases. And your Petitioners shall ever pray.

“WAL. SANDILANDS, Master of the Torphichen-Kilwinning.”

Accompanying the above was a private letter addressed by the Hon. Mr. Sandilands to the Master of Mother Kilwinning, and couched in the following terms:—

“Right Worshipfull Broyr,

“You have a petition from our Lodge, which I beg the Favour you'll lay before our Mother Lodge wt your first Conveniency. You know the Grand Quarterly Communication hold upon the thirteenth of aprile next, at which time the precedence of the Different Lodges is to be determined, and therefore as we have the honour to be a verry old Branch of your Lodge, & are anxious to have the date of our Ancient Constitution ascertain'd, I in the name of our brethren of this lodge, beg That in case you shall be straitned in time, so as it may be inconvenient to have our Charter regularly exped betwixt and the next meeting, that, if our old Constitution is found upon your record, as doubtless it will, you'll please remit us a Certificate of the date thereof, as appears from the records under the Hands of the proper officers of our Most ancient and honourable Lodge, which will be a good Document to produce in order to our being ranked, and our Charter may be taken out more at leisure. Your good friend, Geo. Frazer, the Right Worshipfull of the Cannongate-Kilwinning, and severalls of our Brethren, are at present Drinking your health. If you'll please favour me wt a return, direct it to our Broyr Frazer, who will take Care of it, If I should Chance to be out of town.—I am, wt great esteem, “R. W. Broyr, yours most sincerely,

 “WAL. SANDILANDS.

“Edinbr. 19th March, 1737.”

The following extract from the records of the Mother Lodge will show how these communications from the Torphichen brethren were disposed of, but beyond this no further notice of the subject appears in the minute-book—although an old roll of the “Lodges constitute by authority of the Ancient Mother Lodge of Kilwinning,” places “Torphichan-Kilwinning” as having been erected in 1729:—

“There was also [March 30, 1737] presented by the Master and read, a letter from the Master of the Torphican-Kilwinning, and a petition desiring a corroboration of their former Ancient Charter from this Lodge, which was also recommended to the said Committee to answer and exped.”

The petition of 1737, it will be observed, while recapitulating the substance of that of 1728 and deliverance thereon, introduces a phrase which though not contained in either of the documents referred to, may properly enough be held to be a definition of what was embraced in the rights that were granted to Lodges of the time, viz., “to receive, enter and pass qualified persons”—a like privilege, expressed in the same words, having in 1677 been granted by the Lodge of Kilwinning to Canongate Kilwinning; but the petitioners of 1737 were in error when they made the term “Free and Accepted Masons” appear to have been in use as Lodge nomenclature among Scotch Masons at a date prior to the formation of the Grand Lodge. It was by such misuse of terms that a spurious antiquity was in the last century assigned to Freemasonry. The appellation in question was not adopted in Scotland before 1735, in which year Mother Kilwinning began to designate itself a Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons. Again, in erecting a Lodge on the application of a number of Fellow Crafts and Entered Apprentices, Mother Kilwinning has borne testimony to the fact that at the period in question it knew nothing of a Master degree. This is shown also by the manner in which the sederunts were then made up at Kilwinning. In calling the roll, members were arranged in the two grand divisions of “Fellows of Craft and Entered Prentices,” although when any of the former grade happened to be Masters, i.e. employers, they were noted as such.

In alluding to the expenses incurred in connection with the revivification of the Lodge of Torphichen, the petitioners for confirmation of the former authority exhibit the Lodge of Kilwinning seated at the festive board as the guests of the delegates who in 1729 went to Kilwinning to urge the suit of their Lodge. This is the earliest recorded instance of a Masonic entertainment in the Lodge of Kilwinning; although from the prominence that is given to the banquet in statutes of the Craft in the 16th century, taken in connection with the fact that in 1735 a stone punch-bowl was added to the Lodge of Kilwinning, there is every reason to believe that the gatherings of the ancient Fraternity would occasionally be characterised by a hilarity not uncommon in Lodges of our own day.

The Torphichen Lodge was not the only one in Linlithgowshire which hailed from Kilwinning. In 1784 “sundry Masons in Bathgate” applied for a “decreet of constitution,” which was granted to the Lodge “Lathgate Kilwinning,” placed as No. 76 on the roll of Lodges created by Mother Kilwinning.

MAXIMS OF PYTHAGORAS.

This distinguished philosopher and Mason was accustomed to instruct his pupils in sententious maxim, concealing, under a slight mask, the most important truths of his system. Some of these pithy sayings have been preserved. Wear not a ring. Do not encircle yourself with ignorance. Turn away from thyself every edge. Be prudent and subdue your passions. Take off thy right shoe first. Be careful of the consequences of every enterprise in which you may engage. Travelling from home turn not back, for the furies go back with you. When you begin a great and important undertaking, do it with the intention of completing it, and allow nothing to deter you or turn you back. This maxim Pythagoras particularly applied to his Masonic system. Those who entered it were exhorted not to stop short of the highest attainments in it of which they were capable. Look not into a glass by candle-light. Spurn superficial knowledge. The motto of Pope is:—

“A little learning is a dangerous thing;
 Drink deep, or taste not the Pierian spring.”

Shallow attainments are worse than little better than none. Aim at perfect knowledge, that you may learn of God and “know Him even as yourself are known.” Pass not over the balance. An exhortation to Equality and Justice. Put not meal in an unworthy vessel. Our Saviour gave the same maxim.—“Cast not your pearls before swine, lest they turn again and rend you.” Eat not the heart nor the brain. Do nothing that can effect the fraternal bond that makes one of the brotherhood. Sleep not at noon. Be awake and active to secure knowledge when it is in the way of being dispensed.

GREENWICH PROMINENCE AT OXFORD EXAMINATIONS.—Two Greenwich schools especially distinguished themselves at the Oxford local examinations of last year. These were Croom's Hill School, conducted by Dr. Goodwin; and Cambridge House, the Grove, Blackheath, presided over by Mr. John Bell, M.A. The lead has been kept by both gentlemen this year, and it is a singular fact that, as they passed a like number of boys last year and the year before, they have each passed fifteen scholars in 1869—this number being a larger one than that attained to by any other school in the London district.

BREAKFAST.—EPPS'S COCOA.—Grateful and Comforting.—The very agreeable character of this preparation has rendered it a general favourite. The Civil Service Gazette remarks:—“The singular success which Mr. Epps attained by his homoeopathic preparation of cocoa has never been surpassed by any experimentalist. By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills.” Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold by the Trade only, in $\frac{1}{2}$ lb., $\frac{1}{4}$ lb., and 1 lb. tin-lined packets, labelled JAMES EPPS & Co., Homoeopathic Chemists, London.—ADV'T.

Reports of Masonic Meetings.

THE CRAFT.

METROPOLITAN.

Beantree Lodge, No. 1223.—The installation meeting of this lodge took place on Wednesday last, at the private rooms, Leytonstone. Bro. T. Barford, W.M., after the minutes of the July meeting had been read and confirmed, passed Bros. Wragg and Hoar to the F.C. degree, and then installed Bro. W. Wrenn as W.M. for the next twelve months. In the discharge of all these duties Bro. Barford showed himself an adept, and was consequently greatly cheered when the ceremonies were over. Bro. Wrenn appointed Bros. Thorpe, S.W.; Chillingworth, J.W.; Vill, Treas.; G. Snow, Sec.; Alcock, S.D.; Ulysses Latreille, J.D.; Robert J. Chappell, I.G.; W. Morris, D.C.; Hoare, T. On the motion of Bro. Barford, seconded by Bro. G. Snow, the lodge voted a guinea each to the Girls' School, and the Benevolent Institution. The brethren then sat down to banquet, after which an unique P.M. jewel of the value of twenty guineas manufactured by Bro. H. Lamb, from drawings by Bro. Chappell, was presented to Bro. Barford. The W.M. in presenting it passed some high compliments on the I.P.M. not only for his excellent working but for his great generosity to the lodge. Bro. Barford, said in response that he had only endeavoured to do his duty, but was much gratified that his attempts had met with the approval of the brethren. The evening was very pleasantly spent, and was enlivened by some beautiful singing. The musical arrangements were entrusted to Bro. H. Parker. Among the visitors were the following brethren:—C. G. Hale (P.M., 5), L. A. Crowley (7), A. Strachan (55), A. Robbins (J.W., 1056), Y. Christian (829), T. Mortlock (186), Jas. Brett, A.G.P.; Jenkin Thomas (P.M., 70), Jas. G. Cowell (256), Jas. Myerscough (781), H. Parker (1250), H. Muggeridge (P.M., 715), J. J. Griffiths (193), W. J. Starkey (S.W., 222), Edmund A. Smith (J.W., 7), H. F. Atter (1056), F. Y. Latreille (W.M., 1056), and J. R. Tisen (1056).

-- PROVINCIAL.

LEICESTER.—St. John's Lodge, No. 279.—This lodge resumed its regular meetings after the summer recess at the Freemasons' Hall, Halford-street, on Wednesday, the 1st inst., when there was a good attendance. The W.M. having opened the lodge, the minutes of the last regular meeting in June, and of three subsequent Lodges of Emergency, were read and confirmed. The first business was to ballot for Mr. Richard Augustus Barber, as a candidate for our mysteries, which was unanimous in his favour: he was, however, prevented attending for initiation at this lodge. Bro. Joseph Roper then passed a satisfactory examination as an E.A., after which, on a Fellow Craft's Lodge having been opened, he was duly passed to that degree, the lecture on the tracing-board being ably given by the W.M. Bro. Tarratt was then called to the pedestal and examined in the second degree, after which he retired, and the lodge having been opened in the third degree, he was duly raised as Master Mason, and regularly invested and entrusted with the secrets and traditional narrative of that sublime degree. Two other candidates (Bros. Dr. Finch and L. B. Atwood) were not in attendance. Among those present on the occasion were Bros. Kelly, W.M. and D.P.G.M.; Clarke, I.P.M.; Pettifor, P.M. and P.P.S.G.W.; Weare, P.M. and Treas.; Stanley, S.W.; Crow, Sec. 2nd Org.; Hart, I.G.; Palmer, Atwood, Widdowson, Roper and Tarratt. Brothers E. Garner, J.W., No. 890, London; Toller, W.M., Major, Brewin, (P.P.S.G.W.), and W. B. Smith, (P.P.J.G.W.), P.M.s; Buzzard, S.W.; Sculthorpe, J.W.; Rev. Jno. Spittal, (P.P.S.G.W.) Chaplain; Hunt and Miller, of the John of Gaunt Lodge. During the ceremonies the musical chants were performed by Bros. Crow (who presided at the instrument), Palmer, and others. The lodge having been closed in the three degrees, the brethren adjourned to refreshment, and spent the remainder of the evening in the pleasures of social intercourse and harmony. Several excellent songs were sung by Bros. Palmer, Atwood, Hunt, and others, and the talented Sec. and Org. of the Lodge.

IPSWICH.—Prince of Wales' Lodge, No. 959.—There was a good attendance at the meeting of this lodge, on Friday, 6th inst., including several visitors from London and elsewhere. A gentleman was initiated into the mysteries of the Order by the W.M. in his usual effective style. The charge was given by a Past Master. Several propositions were made, and the lodge was closed in ancient form.

LIVERPOOL.—Duke of Edinburgh Lodge, No. 1182.—The second anniversary of this flourishing lodge was held in the Lodge Room, Coffee House Hotel, Wavertree, on Wednesday, the 18th ult. The lodge was opened in due form and with solemn prayer. The minutes of the previous lodge were read and confirmed—Installation: Bro. Capt. Mott, R.N., Prov. S.G.D., was the installing officer; there were also present Bros. Jas. Hamer, P.G.T.; Lunt, P.M. (823), &c. Bro. Hiram Thornton, W.M. elect, was presented to Bro. Woods, W.M., for installation by Bros. Mott and J. Thornton, I.P.M. The installation was then proceeded with, and upon re-admission of the brethren, under the very able direction of Bro. Mott, the full ceremony of installation was gone through in the most perfect and impressive manner. The W.M. then proceeded to invest his officers for the ensuing year, when the following brethren were invested:—Bros. W. Woods, I.P.M.; Samuel Cookson, S.W.; Phillip R. Thorn, J.W.; J. W. Brown, Treas.; John G. Bales, Sec.; R. G. Lupton, S.D.; W. Pugh, J.D.; Jas. W. Williams, I.G.; John Taylor, and R. B. Marson, Stewards; W. Crawford, Tyler. The W.M. then proceeded to initiate Capt. Fisher into the mysteries of ancient Freemasonry, which was done in a very effective manner. The lodge was opened in the second degree when Bros. Robinson and Humphreys were examined, it was then opened in the third degree, and Bros. Robinson and Humphreys were raised to the sublime degree of Master Masons. The brethren were then called from labour to refreshment, when fifty of the brethren sat down to a most sumptuous banquet, prepared on the most liberal scale, and splended style of the worthy hostess, Mrs. Thomas Wright. Bros. Lupton, Parkes, and Mowbray, aided greatly to the enjoyment of the evening, by singing solos, duets and glees. The last toast of the evening having been given, the lodge was closed in due form and with solemn prayer.

THE ROYAL ARCH.

METROPOLITAN.

Rose of Denmark Chapter, No. 975.—A quarterly Convocation of this Chapter was held at the Star and Garter Hotel, Kew Bridge, on Saturday, the 4th inst. The M.E.Z. Comp. Pendlebury, presided, supported by Comps. W. F. Smith, H.; G. Powell, J.; R. Wentworth Little, P.Z., S.E.; H. G. Buss, P.Z., Treas.; J. Erett, P.Z.; J. Terry, P.Z.; W. H. Hubbard, P.Z.; W. Dodd, 1st Assist.; J. E. Walford, D.C.; W. F. N. Quilty, C.S.; H. Allman, R. Montague, G. C. Banks, T. J. Cazaley, D. R. Still, and J. Arnold. After the confirmation of the minutes Bro. Thomas Smale, D.C. of the Villiers Lodge, No. 1194, was exalted to the supreme degree of R.A.M. The resignations of Comps. Gurney and Walker were announced, whereupon Comp. Walford was appointed 2nd Assist., vice Gurney; Comp. Quilty, D.C.; and Comp. Tinkler, C.S. The Chapter was then closed with the usual formalities, and the Companions adjourned to the banquet, which was served in the style for which the Star and Garter, under Comp. Banks' proprietorship, has acquired so high a reputation.

MARK MASONRY.

St Mark's Lodge, No. 1.

The installation meeting of this old lodge was held at the George Hotel, Aldermanbury, on Monday the 6th inst., when the following brethren were present:—W. Bro. H. C. Levander, P.G.D.C., W.M.; T. Wescombe, G.S.B., S.W.; J. G. Marsh, J.W.; Rev. W. B. Church, M.O.; T. Cubitt, S.O.; R. Wentworth Little, P.M., Sec.; F. Walters, P.G.P., R. of Marks; J. McKiernan, S.D.; H. Parker, Org.; F. Binckes, G. Sec., Hon. Member; E. Worthington; and J. Stevens, G. Steward.

The minutes having been confirmed, a communication from the Rev. G. R. Portal, Grand Master, was read, conveying his sanction to the restoration of the No. 1 to the lodge in lieu of No. 24.

A vote of thanks to the M.W. brother was unanimously passed for this important announcement.

Bros. R. J. Carey, A. Perrot, and J. Gilbert, being in attendance were regularly advanced to the degree of Mark Masters, after which the retiring Master installed Bro. Wescombe, W.M. elect, into the chair of Adoniram, and Bro. Binckes, G.S., delivered the customary addresses. The officers for the ensuing year were then appointed:—Bros. J. G. Marsh, S.W.; Rev. W. B. Church, J.W.; T. Cubitt, M.O. and Treas.; J. McKiernan, S.O.; Hon. E. P. Roper-Curzon, J.O.; R. W. Little, P.M. Sec.; F. Walters, R. of M.; R. J. Carey, S.D.; A. Perrot, J.D.; J. S. Charlton, I.G.; J. Gilbert, Tyler. A P.M.'s jewel was voted to Bro. Levander, and a committee to revise the bye-laws was appointed.

The brethren then adjourned to a sumptuous repast to which ample justice was done after the protracted labours of the evening, and with good wines, pithy speeches, popular toasts, and well sung stanzas, a most pleasant evening was spent by the brethren of St. Mark's Lodge of Mark Masters, No. 1 on the roll of England.

THE Prov. Grand Lodge of Somersetshire will be held at Weston-super-Mare, on Thursday, the 16th inst., under the auspices of the St. Kew Lodge, No. 1222.

MEETING OF THE PROV. GRAND LODGE OF DORSETSHIRE.

A grand lodge was held last week in Sherborne, and in the absence of R.W. Prov. Grand Master Joseph Gundry, the W. Deputy Provincial Grand Master J. P. Montagu presided.

After the usual business of the Grand Lodge, which embraced a large amount of charitable and benevolent action, the following officers were invested for the present year:—Bros. Louis Henry Ruegg, Sherborne, (P.P.G.S.B., W.M., Lodge 1168), P.G.S.W.; Charles Frederick Arden, Weymouth, (P.P.G.J.D., W.M., Lodge 170), P.G.J.W.; Rev. Wm. John Percy (Lodge of Benevolence, 1168), P.G. Chaplain; Major Cam Sykes (Lodge 417), P.G. Treasurer; Frank Herbert Tanner, Wimborne, (S.W., Lodge 612), P.G.R.; Thomas Coombs, Dorchester (P.M., Lodge 417), P.G. Secretary; Samuel Sylvester Moore, Lyme Regis, (W.M., Lodge 665), P.G.S.D.; Thos. Richard Charles, Weymouth (W.M., Lodge 1037), P.G.J.D.; Walter John Fletcher, Wimborne, (W.M., Lodge 622), P.G. Supt. Wks; Joseph Maunders, Weymouth, (P.M., Lodge 170), P.G.D.C.; Stephen Kerridge Woodward, Sherborne, (Treasurer, Lodge 1168), P.G.A.D.C.; Richard Hare, Fordington, (J.D., Lodge 472), P.G.S.B.; James Whitehead Smith, Wimborne, (S.D., Lodge 622), P.G. Organist; Henry Meader, Bourton, (Lodge 437), P.G. Pursuivant. P.G. Stewards: Bros. Thomas Lodder Wimborne, (Secretary, Lodge 622), Henry Charles Burt Wychampton, (J.D., Lodge 622), Frederick Ellis Wimborne, (Lodge 622), John Travers, Corfe Castle (Lodge 386), William Petts, (Wareham, Lodge 386), John Grace, Poole, (Lodge 137). P.G. Standard Bearers: Bros. Thomas Imber, Shaftsbury, (Lodge 472), and Alfred Parry, Sherborne, (Lodge 1168); Bro. John Lovelace, Dorchester (Lodge 417), P.G. Tyler.

After lodge business, over sixty brethren sat down to the banquet at the King's Arms Hotel.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF SUSSEX.

The annual meeting of this Lodge was held at the Royal Pavilion, on Friday, 27th ult., by the Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master Lord Pelham, assisted by the Worshipful Deputy Provincial Grand Master Bro. E. Furner, and the officers of Provincial Grand Lodge.

There were present Bros. Cunningham, P.S.G.W.; J. H. Scott, P.P.S.G.W. as P.J.G.W.; Griffiths, P.G.C.; G. E. Pocock, P.G.S.; W. Verrall, P.G.T.; Blessley, P.G.S.W.; Dawes, P.G.R.; Wilkinson, as P.S.G.D.; W. Lucas, as P.J.G.D.; C. J. Corder, P.G.D.C.; Taaffe, P.A.G.D.C.; Jeffery, P.G.S.B.; Mayall, P.G.O.; Settle, P.G.P.; G. Smith, A. Elmsley, and W. Hudson, P.G.S.; and W. Aucock, as P.G.T.; and several Past Provincial Grand Officers. The brethren present were Bros. J. D. Dodson, M.P., Junior Grand Warden of England; Hyde Pullen, W.D.P.G.M.; Binckes, P.G.S., Secretary of Royal Masonic Institution for Boys; Little, W.M.; Briscoe, P.M.; R. Geer, A. Catt, J. Farncombe (311), Wren (W.M., 315), Howland (W.M., 341), J. Reed (W.M., 732), Pryce (W.M., 56), Dixon (P.M., 271), Branwell (P.M., 271), W. Marchant (P.M., 315), Robinson (P.M., 315), S. R. Legg (P.M., 732), C. G. Reed (P.M., 732), Baldwin (P.M., 40), Trollop (P.M., 40), Beard, Eden, Rogers, Gill, Loveday, Mettra (271), A. H. Cox, Foakes, Gould, Carpenter, W. Smith (732), Lockyer, Butcher, J. Curtis, Pierson, Jackson, Bennett, Berry, Hudson, Devin, Lockyer, Butcher (315), Walker (811), Sabine (P.M., 73), Broadbridge, C. H. Davis (73), Hiles, Stern, Stoner, White, &c.

The Provincial Grand Lodge being opened in due form, the R.W.P.G.M. requested the Provincial Grand Officers to deliver up the insignia of their respective offices. He then proceeded to appoint and invest the Provincial Grand Officers for the ensuing year, as follows:—Bros. E. J. Furner, W.D.P.G.M.; C. J. Corder, P.S.G.W.; A. Elmsley (Lewes), P.J.G.W.; Griffiths, P.G.C.; W. Verrall, P.G.T.; G. E. Pocock, P.G.S.; Dawes (Rye), P.G.R.; W. Hudson, P.J.G.D.; Blessley (Eastbourne), P.G.S.W.; Taaffe, P.G.D.C.; Dixon, P.A.G.D.C.; S. R. Legg, P.G.S.B.; J. E. Mayall, P.G.O.; G. Smith, P.G.P.; W. Marchant, J. C. Coles (Eastbourne), and Gatehouse, P.G.S.; G. Aucock, P.G.T.

The next part of the business was of a very interesting character and was much appreciated by the brethren, it being the first time the lectures had been worked in Provincial Grand Lodge, and the admirable manner in which this was done by the following brethren met with repeated applause:—Bros. E. J. Furner, Griffiths, G. E. Pocock, C. J. Corder, W. Verrall, J. H. Scott, J. Fabian, V. P. Freeman, J. Dixon, Branwell, Challen, Mettra, J. E. Mayall, Gill, and Taaffe.

The Grand Lodge adjourned at half-past four.

At five o'clock, about eighty assembled in the banqueting-room, under the presidency of the R.W.P.G.M., Lord Pelham, the dinner being served by Bro. Cowley. At its conclusion, the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given, the health of the Provincial Grand Master being especially honoured. In reply, he expressed his especial gratification at the manner in which the late Masonic ceremony at Lewes—laying the foundation-stone—had been performed, and congratulated the brethren on the progress of Masonry in the county, and on its non-sectarian or political characteristics. They might rest assured that nothing of this kind would ever be introduced by him—nothing whereby in Masonry there should be cause for political differences. Bro. E. Broadbridge sang two songs, accompanied by Bro. Devin. Bro. Kuhe also played several of his well-known compositions on the piano. The proceedings were brought to a close at an early hour.

This meeting was one of the most successful ever held in the province—the only disappointment was the banquet was not quite up to the mark.—East Sussex News.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF LINCOLNSHIRE.

We are favoured with a copy of the printed proceedings of this Grand Lodge at its last Communication, which was held at Boston, on the 27th July, under the auspices of the Franklin Lodge, No. 838. Bro. Major W.H. Smyth, D.P.G.M., presided, and the meeting was attended by 110 brethren. The province is evidently well officered, and the comprehensive statistics and other valuable information annexed to the proceedings reflect the greatest credit on the excellent P.G. Secretary, Bro. C. E. Lucas. We regret that our space will not permit us to quote the reports at length, but the following resume will interest our readers.

The balance in the P.G. Lodge Fund of Benevolence is £385 19s. 0d. Bro. Cotton, the P.G. Tyler, has been awarded four shillings a week for life out of this fund.

The province contributed £111 6s. to the last festival of the Boys' School, at which the P.G. Secretary officiated as Steward.

The twelve lodges in the province have an aggregate of 522 subscribing members, being an increase of forty-three during the year. Sixty initiations have taken place during the same period.

The principal officers appointed for the year were:—Bros. Captain E. Locock, P.M., 712, S.G.W.; W. H. Radley, P.M., 838, J.G.W.; Rev. E. E. Hadath, W.M., 1232, Chaplain; W. G. Moore, P.M., 207, Registrar; C. M. Nesbitt, P.M., 712, Treasurer; C. E. Lucas, P.M., 712, Secretary.

The Duke of St. Alban's, P.G. Master, was unfortunately unable to attend in consequence of official duties calling him away from the county.

We congratulate our Lincolnshire brethren on the steady success which has attended their efforts during the past year, and wish them a continuance of prosperity in the future.

METROPOLITAN MASONIC MEETINGS

For the Week ending September 18, 1869.

Monday, September 13.

Lodge No. 879, "Peckham," The Maimore Arms Tavern, Park-road, Peckham.

Camden Lodge of Instruction, No. 704, Adelaide Tavern, Haverstock Hill, at 8; Bro. T. A. Adams, Preceptor.

Tuesday, September 14.

Lodge No. 548, "Wellington," White Swan Tav., Deptford 933, "Doric," Anderson's Hotel, Fleet-street.

Metropolitan Chapter of Instruction, George Hotel, Aldermanbury at 7; Comp. Brett, Preceptor.

Domestic Lodge of Instruction, Palmerston Tavern, Grosvenor-park, Camberwell, at 7.30.

Faith Lodge of Instruction, Metropolitan Railway, Victoria Station, at 8. Bro. C. A. Cottebrune, Preceptor.

Wednesday, September 15.

Lodge No. 700, "Nelson," Masons' Hall, William-street, Woolwich.

"1150, "Buckingham & Chandos," Freemasons' Hall. Chapter 10, "Westminster & Keystone, ditto.

United Strength Lodge of Instruction, No. 228, Bull and Gate, Kentish Town-road.

Thursday, September 16.

Lodge No. 917, "Cosmopolitan," Terminus Hill, Cannon-st.

Friday, September 17.

House Committee, Boys' School, at 4.

Lodge No. 813, "New Concord," Rosemary Branch Tavern, Hoxton.

Chapter 176, "Caveac," Radley's Hotel, Blackfriars

Emulation Lodge of Improvement for M.M.'s, Freemasons' Hall, at 7.

Metropolitan Lodge of Instruction, George Hotel, Aldermanbury, at 7; Bro. Brett, Preceptor.

United Pilgrims' Lodge of Instruction, Horns Tavern, Kensington 7.30.

Belgrave Lodge of Instruction, Duke of Wellington Hotel, Spring-gardens, Charing-cross; Preceptor, Bro. Pulsford.

Saturday, September 18.

(Nil.)

Obituary.

BRO. DR. JAMES HUNT.

[Last week we printed an obituary of this remarkable man. We greatly regret that some errors, owing to the hurry of getting to press, arose. We therefore now reprint it, at the author's request, with his corrections.]

Most scientific men, and the whole of the scientific world, will regret the death at an early age, of one of its greatest ornaments and most energetic workers. With a natural restlessness directed ever consistently towards the promotion of the science of Human Kindness—technically called Anthropology—he combined a rare faculty for advising and ruling those among whom his lot was cast. But this rule was truly Masonic, and had nothing of the nature of usurpation in it, his gentleness and courtesy were as marked as his cheerfulness and patience. He was emphatically one of those men who in elder days of the world's history would have played no inconsiderable part in the guidance and governing of mankind. He was no less distinguished as an author, and while, as he ought, he was justly proud of his own achievements, he encouraged and fostered with scrupulous assiduity those to whom fortune had been less kind. No one can say that with a deeper sense of verity than the writer of these few lines. Snatched from the world in the midst of his arduous duties, a limb from the body corporate has been cut away; and though his spirit survives to cheer on the little band which was linked together in defence of the right, his actual presence will be sadly missed.

As a ceremonial Mason, Bro. Hunt did not take a very active part; but the true spirit of Masonry—the Masonry of the Heart—inspired every action of his noble life.

He died on Sunday, the 29th of August, at his residence, Ore House, near Hastings, after a short illness, under forty years of age. Those who have had the privilege of knowing him will mourn for one who was sans peur et sans reproche. He was a Fellow of the Society of Antiquaries, and Doctor of Philosophy; Fellow of the Royal Society of Literature, and its Honorary Foreign Secretary; Ex-President and Founder of the Anthropological Society of London; Doctor of Medicine, Honoris causa (1867), of Giessen; Hon. Fellow of the Ethnological Society of London; Member of the Imperial Dresden Academy; Foreign Associate of the Anthropological Society of Paris; Corresponding Member of the Soc. Anthropol. Espanola; Hon. Member of the Soc. des Amis de la Nature of Moscow; Hon. Fellow of the Cosmical Society of London; a good father and husband, and a sincere and unwavering friend. He is now ultra nubila in the Grand Lodge above.

KENNETH R. H. MACKENZIE,
F.S.A., F.A.S.L., F.C.S.L.

MID-DAY.—As often as the Freemason commences his work, it is noon or mid-day, or that time in which the sun has attained its greatest altitude; for the earth being round, the sun is always on the meridian somewhere. The Freemason has the most enlightened and useful works to do; and when high noon is passed, he must be able to give the most satisfactory proofs of the utility of his labour.

PILLARS OF THE PORCH.—It is generally thought that these pillars were made and erected only for ornament, because they supported no building. But Abarbinel's conjecture is not improbable, that Solomon had respect to the pillar of the cloud, and the pillar of fire, that went before them and conducted them in the wilderness, and was a token of the divine Providence over them. He set two pillars at the porch, or entrance of the Temple (the one representing the pillar of the cloud, and the other the pillar of fire), praying and hoping that the Divine Light and the Cloud of His glory would vouchsafe to enter in there; and by them God and His providence would dwell among them in this house.

INELIGIBILITY OF BASTARDS AND THE MAIMED AS FREEMASONS.

By CIPES.

Our articles have called forth responses which, we think, have been sufficiently met. We answer "Leo" in the concluding part of this article, once and for all, although we must say we are sorry that such a promising Mason as "Leo" (whom in our research we have discovered), is of a different opinion to us and has really, we hope, without serious thought set himself at variance with the guiding laws of Freemasonry. We are not unsupported, however, and are glad to find in the person of "W. L." one of sound sense and judgment, and one acting up to those principles which he promised to uphold. We commend him much for it. "W. L." asks authorities to read our wayward disciples a salutary lesson. We will endeavour to point out a few facts for their quiet meditation.

The landmarks of the Order are the unalterable laws of Freemasonry; and as we have received them so must we hand them down to succeeding generations without adding to or taking from them.

They say:—

"That every candidate for initiation into the Order should be a man, un mutilated, free-born, no bastard, and of mature age."

The most ancient written laws are very express as to the qualifications of candidates. The fifth article of the Gothic Constitutions, adopted at York in the year A.D. 926, is in these words:—

"A candidate must be without blemish, and have the full and proper use of his limbs, for a maimed man can do the Craft no good."

The words "without blemish" comprehend everything, clearly denoting that bastards, cripples, eunuchs, deaf, dumb, blind, deformed, or dismembered, slaves, or not freeborn, are all ineligible.

Among the regulations of 1663, under the Grand Mastership of the Earl of St. Albans, we find this:—

"No person shall hereafter be accepted a Freemason but which are of able body."

The ancient charges at makings, dating as far back as 1688, the rule of the Order is given in these words:—

"That he that be made be able in all degrees; that is, free-born, no bastard, of a good kindred, true, and no bondsman; and that he have his right limbs as a man ought to have."

In the charges approved in 1772, it is said:—

"No master should take an apprentice unless he has sufficient employment for him, and unless he be a perfect youth, having no maim or defect in his body that may render him incapable of learning the art of serving his master's lord, and of being made a brother."

Again the words are repeated in this charge, "no maim or defect in his body." In the Book of Constitutions, edited by Dr. Anderson, and approved by Desaguliers, Cowper, and Payne, all Freemasons' of high reputation, we find the charge in the following unmistakable words:—

"The men made Masons must be free-born, no bastard, of mature age, and of good report, hale, and sound, not deformed or dismembered at the time of their working."

This law as to physical qualifications has been maintained among Freemasons in all parts of the world to the present day.

Attempts have been made to set it aside, but without success, for it is founded on one of the ancient and unchangeable landmarks. It is also, in fact, a necessary consequence of the essential principles of Freemasonry, and to dispense with it would be to throw the whole system into disorder, and to obscure the very purpose of its institution. Freemasonry dates its origin from the time of the building of Solomon's temple; its primary laws are derived from the Levitical law, and have the same symbolical meaning. The Levitical law ordained that any of the family of Aaron that had a blemish should not perform the services of the priesthood. (Lev. xxi. 16-23.) He was not to "go in unto the veil, nor come nigh unto the altar." The reason is obvious. Perfection was to be symbolised. And so in Freemasonry, it is required by those laws which have been transmitted without change from age to age, and which have been the laws of the Order ever since its institution, that the candidate for admission shall be free-born, no bastard, and of good repute. Any known vice—any defect in moral character—is a complete disqualification. But this is not all. The candidate must be perfect in body, and of sound mind, as well as of good moral character. No imperfection of any kind must appear. The most perfect ideal of human virtue must be constantly kept before the mind of every Freemason.

It is altogether a mistake to suppose that the reason for the law of Freemasonry, which requires physical perfection in candidates, has passed away, because Freemasons are no longer a mere fraternity of working-men, and the operative feature has given place to the speculative. The reason for this law has more relation to the speculative than to the operative.

We have pointed out the Laws and Charges prohibiting the imperfect to enter our Order. We will next point out what Grand Lodges have decreed on the subject, and also what other eminent brethren have said.

(To be continued.)

Births, Marriages, and Deaths.

MARRIAGES.

BROWN — LEDGER.—On the 4th September, at Blennerville Church, Tralee, Barrack-Sergeant Bro. Richard Brown, Lodge 379, to Mary, relict of the late Colour-Sergeant Bro. Ledger.

CAMPION — COOK.—On the 31st August, at St. Nicholas's Church, by the Rev. W. B. Wilson, Bro. Charles Campion, of Temple Lodge, 1094, and Slater-street, Liverpool, third son of Mr. Wm. Campion, Bedford, to Miss F. M. Cook, eldest daughter of the late John Cook, Esq., Uttoxeter.

DEATHS.

GAMES.—On the 28th August, at his residence, 45, Stafford-street, Liverpool, aged 37, much respected, Bro. Stephen Hughes Games, M.D., of Lodge of Sincerity, 292.

MORLEY.—On the 5th September, in her 3rd year, Maria fourth and greatly beloved daughter of Bro. Richard (and the late Mary) Morley, wholesale grocer, 29, Slater-street, and Temple Lodge 1094, Liverpool.

Answers to Correspondents.

All communications for THE FREEMASON should be written legibly, on one side of the paper only, and, if intended for insertion in the current number must be received not later than 10 o'clock a.m. on Thursdays, unless in very special cases. The name and address of every writer must be sent to us in confidence.

JACOB NORTON.—The name is "Lord Viscount Mountague," not "Montacute," at the date referred to in your note.

THENTLE.—We duly made the application, but have never received a reply. There seems to be a "Sleepy Hollow" somewhere in the Masonic region alluded to in our correspondent's note.

The Freemason,

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1869.

THE FREEMASON is published on Saturday Mornings in time for the early trains.

The price of THE FREEMASON is Twopence per week; quarterly subscription (including postage) 3s. 3d. Annual Subscription, 12s. Subscriptions payable in advance. All communications, letters, &c., to be addressed to the Editor, 3 & 4, Little Britain, E.C.

The Editor will pay careful attention to all MSS. entrusted to him, but cannot undertake to return them unless accompanied by postage stamps.

INDISCRIMINATE ALMSGIVING.

THERE is no nobler virtue than charity, and it is the pride of Freemasonry that her children are ever ready to succour the weak and relieve the distressed. In England—as the "Monde Magonique," one of our French contemporaries, justly remarked on a recent occasion—our resources are more centralized than in other countries, and the results of our beneficence are more tangible and better defined.

But there is another form of charity to which we desire to call the attention of our readers; there is another and a much less satisfactory mode of affording relief than by our contributions to the great Masonic schools or the institution for aged Freemasons and the widows of our deceased brethren. We mean casual relief to applicants who, because they assert their claims as Masons, are forthwith assisted, and go on their way rejoicing in the hope of future plunder. Experience—the real test in such cases—prompts us to declare that in nine instances out of ten the charity so bestowed is absolutely wasted; nay, it even results in positive injury to the cause of the truly necessitous Mason who is mulct of the advantages he might otherwise receive were our bounty strictly confined to those whose applications will bear the test of scrutiny. Brethren young in the Craft are more especially the victims of those specious individuals who having obtained by some means or other the certificates of genuine Masons, make a trade of the sacred precepts of the Fraternity, in order to lead dissolute lives and revel in a state of blissful idleness.

There are also men who, after being initiated, by their own misconduct forfeit their positions in society, and thenceforth resolve to prey upon the brethren; or, as an eminent Mason happily expresses it, they determine to render their fellow-creatures more extensively serviceable to their nefarious designs, instead of taking their stations in the battle of life and honestly working for their subsistence.

Next to actual impostors, these men are a snare and a stumbling-block to earnest young brethren; and we can conceive little or nothing more calculated to excite the distrust and suspicion of our newly-admitted members than an appeal for help from one of those itinerant professional beggars.

Fortunately, of late there has been a tendency to check this abuse, and by the establishment of local Boards of Relief—notably those in Lancashire—much good has been effected, in sifting and investigating the claims upon our Masonic funds. Great honour is due to such brethren as Brother J. L. Hine, who has taken a conspicuous part in this desirable reform, and we trust they will persevere in their praiseworthy efforts until the "tramp proper" is relegated to his appropriate station—the stone-yard of the union.

In London we are not so liable to be imposed upon, not because of our superior sagacity but simply because every Mason possessed of ordinary information knows that he can refer such applicants to the office of the Grand Lodge, and thereby relieve himself of the tax on his individual purse or the trouble of investigation.

And here we may point out a serious defect in our administration, and one which is not altogether without its effects upon the Fund of Benevolence. It is well known that the Board or Committee of Charity known as the Lodge of Benevolence sits but once a month at Freemasons' Hall, so that in many instances, petitioners for relief who happen to have applied just after a meeting has been held, are compelled to wait a month before their cases can be entertained. How is this evil to be remedied? In the local Committees of Relief now existing in the provinces we believe the Almoner is empowered to relieve to a certain extent in the exercise of his own discretion, and a similar privilege ought to be extended to the Grand Secretary as the real though not ostensible custodian of the funds of Grand Lodge. The advantages of such a concession would be twofold. In the first place, the poor distressed petitioner would obtain a sufficient sum to keep him or her from starving—a contingency that may occur at any moment under the present régime; and, secondly, in some cases the Fund itself would reap the benefit, because an immediate donation of from two to five pounds would enable certain applicants to proceed on their journey or voyage to their native homes, or to some sphere of labour where better and brighter prospects might await them. There is really no feasible objection to be offered to this scheme—and the Grand Secretary is the proper officer to make the necessary enquiries, and to disburse the fund in such cases of emergency. With his experienced staff of assistants, whose efficiency and integrity are beyond question, the Grand Secretary's duties in this respect would be comparatively light, although he would thereby be enabled to diminish materially the work of the monthly Board.

A reform in this direction is urgently needed, and we commend it to the consideration of Bro. Clabon, who has already devoted so much time and attention to the subject. In the meantime, let us warn our readers against the practice of indiscriminate almsgiving which, we reiterate, is simply holding out a premium to deception and imposture.

[Several Reviews, &c., stand over till our next issue.]—ED. F.

Multum in Parbo, or Masonic Notes and Queries.

FOREIGN NOTES BY THE EDITOR.

There are 43 lodges in Paris under the jurisdiction of the Grand Orient of France, and 10 in the suburbs. The Supreme Council (chef-lieu at 35, Rue de Grenelle, St. Honoré) numbers 27 lodges in the capital. There are, therefore, 80 Masonic lodges in or near Paris.

At a General Assembly of the Italian Freemasons held recently at Florence, Col. Ludovico Frapolli, 33°, a deputy of the Italian Parliament, was elected Grand Master all but unanimously, four votes being given to Bro. Macchi. Brothers Joseph Mazzoni and Francis Curzio were chosen Grand Masters adjoint. The Assembly decided to retain the phrase at the head of Masonic documents, "To the glory of the Great Architect of the Universe," for which some brethren proposed to substitute, "In the Name of our Universal Country and Unlimited Progress." They have, however, suppressed the interrogation usually addressed to their neophytes, "What is your religion?" and now demand, "What are the duties of man to his country, to himself, and to his neighbour?" From the Grand Master's discourse we gather that many of the Italian lodges have but an ephemeral existence, as no less than 61 have disappeared from the roll since 1867, although it is also stated that they have been replaced by 77 new lodges. This is not a gratifying state of affairs, but we believe that with increased confidence in their future, the Italian brethren will eventually consolidate and cement the scattered elements of Freemasonry in that glorious land of Dante and Michael Angelo.

There are 150 lodges under the Grand Lodge at Florence. Many of these are named after eminent individuals, for example, Abraham Lincoln, Archimedes, the First Brutus, Christopher Columbus, Dante Alighieri, Henry Dandolo, Garibaldi, Galvani, Galileo, Torricelli, Cavour, Pisani, &c.; while others express the national aspirations, such as "Social Progress," "Unity and Liberty," "National Unity," "Rome and Venice," "New Rome," "The Era of Italy," "Concord and Progress," &c. A few resemble our English names, as "Mount Sinai Lodge," "Minerva," "Hope," "Star of the East," "Universal," "True Friendship," &c. The nomenclature of lodges generally is an interesting study.

THE THIRTY-THREE DEGREES.

In answer to "Belfasticus," we feel pleasure in enumerating the degrees of the Ancient and Accepted Rite, premising that the Craft degrees of E.A., F.C., and M.M. form the basis of the superstructure.

4, Secret Master; 5, Perfect Master; 6, Intimate Secretary; 7, Provost and Judge; 8, Intendant of the Buildings; 9, Elected Knights of Nine; 10, Illustrious Elect of Fifteen; 11, Sublime Knights elected; 12, Grand Master Architect; 13, Knight of the Ninth Arch; 14, Grand Elect, Perfect and Sublime Mason.

The above are conferred in what is called a Lodge of Perfection, and they are supposed to be the completion of Ancient or Jewish Masonry.

In 15, the Knight of the East, we have Cyrus, the precursor of Christ. 16, Prince of Jerusalem; 17, Knight of the East and West; 18, Sovereign Prince Rose Croix of Herodotus.

These degrees form the boundary of work in Rose Croix chapters, the superior grades being conferred by the authority of Supreme Councils of the 33°.

19, Grand Pontiff; 20, Grand Master of all Symbolic Lodges; 21, Noachite, or Prussian Knight; 22, Knight of the Royal Axe, or Prince of Libanus; 23, Chief of the Tabernacle; 24, Prince of the Tabernacle; 25, Knight of the Brazen Serpent; 26, Prince of Mercy, or Scotch Trinitarian; 27, Sovereign Commander of the Temple; 28, Knight of the Sun; 29, Knight of St. Andrew; 30, Grand Elect Knight Kadosh; 31, Grand Inquisitor, or Enquiring Commander; 32, Sublime Prince of the Royal Secret; 33, Sovereign Grand Inspector General.

Our correspondent will observe that neither the Mark or P.M. figure on this list: The Knt. of the Ninth Arch (No. 13) is equivalent to the R.A. degree, and the 27th, S.C. of the Temple, to Knight Templar. The degrees of Knight of the East and Knight of the East and West, which "Belfasticus" has taken, do not correspond with those of the same name in the series we have given, but are doubtless the same as those conferred under the Grand Chapter of Scotland along with the Royal Ark Mariner's degree. None of these degrees are now practised in England, although several English brethren possess them. The 33 degrees refer only to the system of the Ancient and Accepted Rite, which is but one of the many rites now worked throughout the world.

We shall be happy to assist our correspondent at any time, so far as our knowledge of Freemasonry extends.—ED. F.

Always wishing to afford any information in my power to enquiring brethren, the following is in answer to the query by a Brother, in THE FREEMASON for September 4th (page 109).

It must be borne in mind that the Grand Lodge of England only recognizes the three Craft degrees, and the Royal Arch; Scotland, only the three Craft degrees, including the Mark and not the Arch; and Ireland only acknowledges the Craft degrees. This statement, however, refers to the Grand Lodges alone, wherein no jewel, medal, device, or clothing are permitted to be worn, belonging to any other degree than those considered to be included in Craft Masonry.

In Ireland, what are termed the higher degrees are worked in an orderly manner, and uniformly as they should be.

The degrees above the third are thus arranged:—4, Mark; 5, Arch; 6, Knight of the Sword; 7, Knight of the East; 8, Knight of the East and West; 9, Knight Templar; 10 Knight of Malta; 11, Rose Croix and the other hautes grades. In addition to these degrees, preceding No. 11, a candidate would have to be a Master Mason for seven years, and a Past Master of a Lodge, to be qualified to receive the Rose Croix, unless by special dispensation. In England every Rite seems to be a law to itself, and one degree in particular, worked before another Rite was formed and under the authority of the late and deceased Grand Master, is actually now by the latter Rite said to be irregular. This will serve to show how the Chivalric and other degrees are managed and controlled in this country, and how imperatively a change in such dogmatic rules is required.

In Scotland those in authority work more in unison above the Craft, and are slowly progressing towards a reciprocal treaty between all the Rites. The order observed in that Masonic country is as follows:—4, Mark; 5, Past Master; 6, Excellent Master; 7, Royal Arch; 8, Royal Arch Mariner; 9, Knight of the Sword; 10, Knight of the East; 11, Knight of the East and West, (three points of the Babylonish Pass), and the three Installation degrees of the principals (all these are recognised by the S. G. Royal Arch Chapter); 12, Knight of the Temple; 13, Royal Order of Scotland; 14, Rose Croix; 15, Knight Kadosh; 16, Thirty-Third.

In the United States, the order in giving the degrees usually is thus:—4, Mark Master; 5, Past Master; 6, Most Excellent Master; 7, Royal Arch (all recognized by the Grand Chapters); 8, Royal Master; 9, Select Master (worked by Grand Councils formed for these degrees); 10, Knight of the Red Cross; 11, Knight Templar. [Brother Hughan then enumerates the degrees of the A. and A. Rite, which are given above.]

I forbear giving the degrees of Misraim or the Rite of Memphis (96). The above will serve to illustrate the ingenuity of Masons, and evidence how brethren not content with the simple Craft Rite rush after high-sounding titles and Grand degrees.

WILLIAM JAMES HUGHAN.

I may reply to "Belfasticus" by giving him a short account of the 33° of the Ancient and Accepted Rite as established in America:—

4°. Secret Master.—Duties, to guard the sanctum sanctorum and sacred furniture of the Holy Temple.

5°. Perfect Master.—Gives particulars of the tomb of Hiram Abiff.

6°. Intimate Secretary.—Candidate represents Joabert, who in the way conveyed by the ceremonial obtained the secretaryship from Solomon and Hiram.

7°. Provost and Judge.—Constituting the office of Provost and Judge over all the workmen of the Temple of Jerusalem.

8°. Intendant of the Buildings.—The election of a successor to Hiram Abiff for the completion of the secret works of the Temple.

9°. Elect of Nine.—The punishment of the first assassin.

10°. Elect of Fifteen.—The punishment of the second and third assassins.

11°. Sublime Knights Elected.—A reward for the zeal of the elect of fifteen.

12°. Grand Master Architect.—A school of architecture, established by King Solomon.

13°. Knight of the Ninth Arch.—Alludes to the concealment of the Holy Name by Enoch—see the "Book of Enoch," brought from Abyssinia by Bruce, and translated by the Archbishop of Cashel. According to Finch's ritual, this degree formed the first part of the old English Arch.

14°. Grand Elect Perfect and Sublime Mason.—Professes to reveal the true pronunciation of the Sacred Name, and alludes to the crusading knights. Bro. Oliver states that it was invented by Bro. Ramsay; the chapter represents a subterranean vault, and it has been styled the "Sacred Vault of James VI.," who patronized a Lodge at Stirling. The foregoing degrees are termed "Ineffable" because they relate to the sacred name, they seem to have been practised in France about 1750. Degrees 4 to 8, are adapted from supposed offices in the temple, and the hint may have been taken from officers of a Grand Lodge. Degrees 9 to 14 are more historical.

15°. Knights of the East or Sword.—Represents the return of Zerubbabel. It is the English Royal Arch degree, and according to Finch formerly constituted the second part of the ceremonial prior to 1813. It is also identical with the degree of "Red Cross of Palestine."

16°. Prince of Jerusalem.—An appendant to the foregoing, and represents the edict of Darius.

17°. Knights of the East and West.—This degree professes to date from 1118, when eleven Knights made vows of secrecy, friendship, and discretion before the Patriarch of Jerusalem. The opening of the seven seals is common to this degree and that of the British Templar Priest, but they are differently applied.

18°. Prince of Rosy Cross, Rosy Croix, or Rose Croix.—The lecture of this degree, as given in England at the commencement of this century, derives the order from the old fraternity of the "Rosy Cross." It is probable that the degree was practised in England before the establishment of the modern Grand Lodge of 1717, and there is said to be documentary proof in 1721. The "Royal Order of Scotland" revived the two degrees of H.R.M. (The Red Cross, Royal Arch, or Knight of the East) and Rosy Cross in 1736, and are said to have minutes from 1740. Their ceremonial connects it, however, with the Templars who aided the Bruce at Bannockburn, and relates the history of the Order in quaint rhyme. Hence the question arises, whether a portion of the degree of Kadosh has not been engrafted on the Rosy Cross at its revival.

19°. Grand Pontiff.—In this degree St. John is mentioned as a Mason, and the ceremonial has reference to the New Jerusalem of the Apocalypse. The candidate enters decorated as a Knight of the East and West, and the two ceremonials seem to be nearly related.

20°. Grand Master of all Symbolic Lodges.—The candidate in this degree represents Zerubbabel admitted to the Symbolic Lodge of Grand Masters.

21°. Noachite, or Prussian Knight.—Alludes to Peleg and the Tower of Babel.

22°. Knight of the Royal Axe.—Alludes to felling of cedars for the Temple.

23°. Chief of the Tabernacle.—This degree commemorates the Jewish Order of Priesthood.

24°. Prince of the Tabernacle.—Represents the lodge held by Moses at the construction of the Tabernacle. These two degrees may be supposed to hold some relation to the "veils," forming an intermediate portion in the English Royal Arch.

25°. Knight of the Brazen Serpent.—This degree is said to have been founded by John Ralph during the crusades. The motto is "Virtue and Valor."

26°. Prince of Mercy, or Scottish Trinitarian.—Alluding to the triple covenant—first with Abraham by circumcision, next by Moses in the wilderness, third with all mankind by the sufferings of Jesus Christ.

27°. Sovereign Commander of the Temple.—It is difficult to pronounce on this degree. Teutonic crosses are used, and the words Solomon and I.N.R.I. It may have been intended to imply the connection of the Crusading Templars with the military officers of Solomon's Temple.

28°. Knight of the Sun, or Prince Adept.—This degree is philosophical and moral, and conveys us into the land of spirits; it may have been originally connected with some sect of modern Rosicrucians.

29°. Knight of St. Andrew.—Dr. Oliver states that this degree was invented by Ramsay, and was the first of his series. The learned Doctor must, however, in this case have drawn upon his imagination for his facts, as everything in relation to Ramsay's doings is purely conjectural.

30°. Knight of Kadosh.—Next to the Rose Croix, this ceremonial is the most important and ancient in the rite. It is really the ceremonial of the "Masonic Knight Templars," and five apartments are necessary to confer the Order properly. Candidate is instructed in the history of Masonry from Enoch to Solomon, Zerubbabel, and the Essenes, to the Crusaders of 1118; he is obligated and questioned, and receives seven passwords in a manner very similar to the degree of Knight Templar Priest, after which he is instructed in the history of the extirpation of the Templars. Bro. Dr. Leeson informs us that he has seen a Constitution, printed at Brussels in 1722, in which the following degrees are alluded to as mentioned in the 37th clause of the Constitutions of the English Grand Lodge, approved on St. John's Day, 1720:—"Masters of Lodges, Knights Elected Kadosh, Superintendents, Knights of Palestine, Princes of Jerusalem, Masters of the Secret, Scotch Elected Knights of St. Andrew, Ancient Masters of the Royal Arch, Officers of the Grand Lodge, Masters, Companions, and Apprentices." It is noteworthy that the Rosy Cross does not appear in this rite by name. Now, as Desaguliers visited the Operative Lodges of Scotland in 1721, the question arises whether the Belgians pre-dated the printing of this Constitution, or the Moderns in the intervening two years determined to strike off the high grades when they printed their Constitution in 1723 on what they found in Scotland where the Grand Mastership had passed into an hereditary office. It is quite certain pure Operative Masonry prior to 1717-21 had ceased to exist in England, and that the "Ancients" always asserted that their system was the old system of Speculative Masonry, and this view was shared by the Grand Lodge of York, which in common with the Ancient body, recognised the Royal Arch, Rose Croix, and Kadosh as of equal authenticity with the other degrees, and this as besides the question whether the present Order of St. John and the Temple had any formal connection with Masonry prior to 1745.

31°. Grand Inquisitor Commander.—Duties, to examine and regulate the subordinate degrees.

32°. Sublime Prince of the Royal Secret.—A lecture on the history of Masonry is given in this administrative degree, in which the whole is connected with Christianity and the Templars.

33°. Sovereign Grand Inspector General.—The Grand Commander represents Frederick the Great of Prussia, and the nine members of the Chapter have the control of the rite, the worst feature of which is that, like the late Manx "House of Keys," the Chapter elect themselves.

JOHN YARKER, JR.

43, Chorlton-road, Manchester.

DE SENIGALLI, in his memoirs, remarks:—"The Master Mason's is the highest; all other degrees that the Masons were kind enough to entrust me with are pleasant discoveries, but their symbolic orders do not raise the Master at all in substantial honor."

Original Correspondence.

[The Editor is not responsible for the opinions expressed by Correspondents.]

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Can you inform me whether there is any list in existence which shows the meetings of all English and Foreign Lodges, or if not the former, the latter; and where the same can be obtained? I enclose my card.

I am, yours fraternally,

A SUBSCRIBER TO "THE FREEMASON."
Liverpool, Aug. 31st, 1869.

[The Grand Lodge of England Calendar gives the information alluded to for all lodges under the English Constitution, and the Universal Masonic Calendar contains lists of Scotch, Irish and a few foreign lodges, but we are not aware of any publication in which the meetings of all lodges are recorded.]
—ED. F.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

SIR AND BROTHER,—In reference to two papers in your last week's number, I beg to submit for your consideration the question whether the admissibility into the Craft of a person born in slavery, or out of wedlock, is reconcilable with one fundamental law, that "no man can be made a Mason who is not 'free by birth?'"

Yours fraternally,

P. M.

[There can be no doubt that according to the "Ancient Charges," no bastard, freed-man, or slave, could be admitted a member of the Craft, but after the emancipation of the slaves in Jamaica, the Grand Lodge of England directed the omission of the word "free-born," and substituted "free-man," and this alteration is now embodied in the ceremony of initiation as practised by the English Craft.]—ED. F.

JERUSALEM ENCAMPMENT.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I am obliged to my friendly reviewers, and would crave a few words in reply to Bro. W. J. Hughan.

1.—In regard to the rank assigned to the Jerusalem Encampment, I may state that I have repeatedly written to the Grand Vice-Chancellor to rectify his dates, without any attempt having been made by his office to rectify the same; and with regard to those Encampments styling themselves "immemorial," steps must be taken to make them show dates, and they must be ranked according to the documentary evidence they can produce. This ought to be brought before Grand Conclave at once.

2.—Though the Grand Lodge at York may never have recognised the Ancient Grand Lodge in the South by formal document, yet even such recognition is proved in my pamphlet by the fact of the York Grand Lodge having granted a Templar warrant to an Athol Lodge and these writing the former under date of 1786—"Your immediate decisive answer to the following question agitated amongst us is desired: If a man who is an Ancient Mason in the three first degrees made Arch Mason and Sir Knt. Templar, but sitting under a modern warrant, may be accepted in our Royal Encampment."

3.—I am glad Bro. Hughan has been able to get copies of the Todmorden warrants, and hope to see them in your pages. I have made twenty applications for these documents, and therefore presume the brother withheld them because he knew that he had deceived me.

4.—There can be no doubt that the most important York documents were given to Bro. Godfrey Higgins by Bro. Blanchard, as the former states so in his Anacalypsis (vol. I, book x, chapt. viii, sec. I, page 768) and adds that he had conveyed them to His Royal Highness the Duke of Sussex.

5.—The late esteemed brother, Laurence Newall, D.P.G.C. of K.T., was chiefly my authority as to ritual of 1735, and I was given to understand both by him and others, that they had taken great pains as to evidence, both as to the appearance of the ritual, and also as to the hands through which it had passed.

I can only express my entire agreement with our esteemed Bro. Hughan, that something ought to be done by the Balwin and other old Conclaves to illustrate the proceedings of Chivalric Masonry.

Fraternally yours,

JOHN YARKER, JR.

Manchester, Aug. 26, 1869.

A "BUMPER TOAST."

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

SIR AND BROTHER.—Will you allow me, as an Isle of Wight Mason, space for a few remarks apropos to your last week's article, headed "A Bumper Toast." I am not a member of the lodge of which it is said that the members refused to drink the Grand Master's health, and not having been present when the alleged occurrence took place, I have no means of knowing whether the report be true or false; therefore I give no opinion about it. But I do think that the brethren of the Isle of Wight, have grave reasons for complaining of the way in which they have been treated in the matter of the appointment of a Prov. Grand Master. The Grand Mastership of the Isle of Wight lately became vacant by the resignation of Bro. Fleming, and that of Hampshire by the death of Bro. Sir Lucius Curtis. We never received the slightest intimation that the two Provinces, thus vacant, were to be united—there was no reason why they should be; but all at once we were electrified by a letter from the Grand Secretary, notifying us that the Grand Master had united the two Provinces, and appointed Bro. Beach as Prov. Grand Master for Hampshire and the Isle of Wight. A very natural and unanimous feeling of dissatisfaction at once showed itself. It was asked why this should be done, without the slightest attempt being made to ascertain our feelings upon so important a matter? The Isle of Wight had existed as a separate Masonic Province ever since 1813, and previous to that period it had a separate Grand Lodge, and a separate deputy Grand Master.

Why were we to lose our independence and be thus annexed to a Province, from which we are geographically separated by a line of the most marked character, namely, the sea itself, and no opportunity given to us to say yea or nay? We have had recourse to the constitutional means alluded to by you, and have, through the Grand Secretary, memorialized and petitioned the Grand Master, but without avail; and as a last recourse we appealed to the Board of General Purposes, on the ground that the Grand Master had no legal power to abolish a Masonic province which derived its existence from Grand Lodge. The Board, however, flatly refused to entertain the appeal, alleging that it was a question of the Grand Master's prerogative. I entertain not the slightest shadow of a doubt that the Board of General Purposes ought to have allowed our appeal as being perfectly constitutional, but they thought differently, and so it seems we must submit to what most of us consider to be a death-blow to Masonry in the Isle of Wight. Under these circumstances it is not to be wondered at if we feel rather sore and disgusted, but I do not know where the flag of rebellion has been hoisted, nor of what precise materials it may be composed. I may add that Bro. Beach would be very acceptable to us as P.G.M. if only we could maintain our independent status as a Province.

I am, Sir and Brother, yours fraternally,
Cowes, 6 Sep., 1869. JUSTITIA.

INELIGIBILITY OF BASTARDS AS FREEMASONS.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I am glad to see my brother, "A Jewish Freemason," taking an interest in this subject as per his remarks page 91, Aug. 21st, where he takes exception to my speaking of "the dark and dim rays of ancient Jewish or Mosiac times." I consider myself justified in saying so, because that was the era, when law and ceremonial minutiae reigned, whereas I count this the era more especially of love and freedom, when the "heavy burthens" which were formerly borne, are done away with. Again, anciently it was "an eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth," that was the doctrine of retaliation; whereas we now have more prominently brought before us the more noble doctrine of forgiveness, i.e., "Ye have heard that it hath been said, thou shalt love thy neighbour and hate thine enemy." That was the "dark and dim ray," but now we have it, "Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you and persecute you." Truly Moses was a great man, but the Jew who spoke the latter words I quote, taught like a God. He understood the spirit where others only saw the letter.

"A Jewish Freemason" mis-quotes me upon one point. I did not say "His who said love thy neighbour" &c. I said (page 81), "His who said, whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them," but I added on that other golden sentence, "Love thy neighbour as thyself," which the context may show I referred to in the light thrown upon it in the parable of the good Samaritan.

While I admit the many high and clear views which Moses and others of the prophets had or expressed, these were not generally understood: the majority of the pre-Christian Jewish teachers misunderstood the great truths and ideas of their own scriptures, and misled the people, being more taken up with outward ceremonial trifles than a clean heart and a practical good and honest life.

To those who would debar bastards—although good and true men per se—from being admitted as Freemasons, I would read a few historical statements, such as the 38th chap. of Genesis, where we perceive the doctrine of extenuating circumstances receiving practical effect; then read Ruth chap. 4 v. 18 to end, from which we learn that Pharez, who was a bastard (and not a common bastard, but even the son of Judah, by his daughter-in-law Tamar) was the ancestor of Boaz, who married Ruth—a Moabitish damsel, a descendant of Lot and his daughter, (Gen. 19th chap., 37th v.) from Boaz and Ruth, descended David and his son Solomon, &c., and from David, according to the flesh, descended Christ. As an example of God's dealings, the above remarks anent the pedigree of King David—from whose loins the Jews expected their Messiah to come—will serve as a sufficient practical exposition of the words in Isaiah chap. 1, verse 18th. The above from Jewish history shows that bastards may be eligible to even the highest privileges. How much more then should Christians, with their great pretensions be charitable in their dealings? There are some short-sighted individuals who would carry off the ocean of God's love in a bucket, and gather up the river of Masonic sympathy in a thimble; they have no idea of the universe of love exhibited by even some of the simplest-looking passages of the Bible, a universe in which worlds may disport in perfect freedom with an unknown amount of unoccupied space to spare.

While therefore we resist the actual evil-doer, let us encourage all who desire to, and do act well; let us be merciful that we may obtain mercy, God has forgiven us ten thousand talents, let us forgive one hundred pence (Mat. 18th chap., v. 23rd to end.) All the charitable and noble principles and teachings of Freemasonry are not worth a pin to any one except in so far as they are acted up to.

I am, yours fraternally,

LEO.

SPURIOUS MASONIC BODIES AGAIN.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER.—Thanking you for your notice of my communication under the above head, I take the liberty of responding, because I believe the discussion of this subject may do good and enlighten many American as well as our English brethren.

As to me assuming that your first article was prompted by the letter you published from A. G. Goodall, 33°, I beg pardon, and only now assume that that assumption was natural, inasmuch as you favoured decidedly the views of that gentleman, I think I had as much ground to thus assume, as I now have to assume that your article in THE FREEMASON of July 31, was prompted by my letter in that of July 24. In the latter article you proceed to copy the statement nearly verbatim of A. G. Goodall, 33°, as explanatory of your views and knowledge, thus again showing that you favour his account of the matter, and not the correct one. Now, where, than in that statement (his) you get the history you recount, is not for me to say, as I do not know. What I believe, as it is derived from competent and undisputed authority in reference to the matter, is this:—

In 1813 when Louisiana was ceded by France to the United States, there was extant in New Orleans, not a Supreme Council but a Consistory, which had therein been established whilst Lo. was yet a French province. In the same year was established the Grand Lodge of Lo. American, York, or Ancient Free and Accepted Masons. With this preface I will now quote from The American Masonic History of Dr. Folger, published in 1862, and which on this subject is regarded as most authentic:—

"In 1839 a Supreme Council of the 33° was erected in New Orleans by the Count St. Angelo, and others, in consequence of the United Supreme Council of the Western Hemisphere having ceased its activity. It assumed to be the successor of that body, was acknowledged by the Grand Orient of France in 1843, and the Consistory came under its charge. This Supreme Council continued in active operation until 1850, when a disturbance took place between the Grand Lodge of Lo. and itself. The Grand Lodge at that time dissolved the Scottish chamber which had been allied with it for seventeen years in harmony, and prohibited all connection with Scottish Masons and the Scottish Rite. Whereupon the Supreme Council immediately resumed its control (previously, agreeably with American practice, waived) over the first three degrees, chartered and established lodges, and has now over twenty under her jurisdiction in that State. As soon as the Grand Lodge dissolved the Scottish chamber, Dr. Mackey, of Charleston (Secretary-General of the Charleston Supreme Council), established a Consistory in 1852, and which was intended as a rival to the Supreme Council of Louisiana.

"In 1855 a quarrel (by design) took place between the officers of the Supreme Council, the principal of which resigned their offices, leaving behind a party who favoured the Charleston Council. Whereupon that party declared the Supreme Council of Lo. extinct, and at once revived the Consistory of 1813, which Consistory united with that created by Mackey in 1852, and the United body entered into a concordat with the Charleston Council and became its dependent. It is now in existence, as the Grand Consistory of the State of Lo. But these members who withdrew, at once re-erected the Supreme Council, renewed active operations, and now have twenty lodges, and nearly as many Rose Croix Chapters and Councils of Kadosh under their control."

You will see, from the above, how far you, following

Mr. Goodall or some other authority, so regarded, departs from it; and that no such matter as a Treaty was entered into in 1833, nor any other year, between the Supreme Council and Grand Lodge of Lo.; as also that my statement, to effect that no complete surrender of authority by the Supreme Council of Lo. ever took place, is correct.

Further, you say that "Even from the Ancient and Accepted Rite point of view we are unable to discern how a Supreme Council can be legally established in any single State of the American Federation, under the existing laws of the Rite," thereby meaning the so called Frederick Constitutions. Now law to be law must be uniform in its effects, or at least in its bearings, and no part of it should conflict with any other part. In the same Constitutions is found the following passage, viz—"A Supreme Council of the 33° once constitutionally established, whilst a single member remains, is considered in existence; and a Sovereign Grand Inspector-General once appointed is so for life." Now, unless you say, which you do not, that the Lo. Supreme Council was not legally established in 1839, you will perceive that under this clause it has never ceased to exist, no more in 1855, when the quarrel, by design on the part of some of its members, had taken place for the purpose of passing it into the hands of the Charleston Council, than in 1867, when Eugène Chassignac was elected its Grand Commander; for at no time were there not members of it remaining.

The whole story of this Lo. matter resolves into one of weakness until time and circumstances strengthened, on the part of one Masonic authority; and strength, until time and circumstances weakened, on the part of another; then a revival of the latter, under new and the promise of more favorable, because popular auspices, and a protest against that revival, with a call for help, by the former, which sees its power departing from it in favour of a proscribed race. As to right existing in one more than the other, he who believes that Masonry was made for Man, and not Man for Masonry, will not see it, notwithstanding all the blasts the intensely regular grand bodies may elect to blow from now to doom's-day.

The whole face of Louisiana society, in common with that of other Slave States, having been changed by the results of war, and the former slaves becoming free to the last one; to provide for this change, Bro. Chas. Chassignac, as a Freemason, in common with every other, was powerless, if bound by the wishes of the Grand Lodge of Lo. He knew that a grand body does not require a charter, therefore he proceeded to organise, unnecessarily in fact, under the old name a new creation, as subsequently he made it; for at present the organisation of which he is chief, is modelled upon the manner of the Grand Orient of France, with the Masters of his lodges composing an Executive Council. In fact, the American A.S. Rite is ignored by him entirely, and nothing of its constitutions preserved, but all rejected, as at war with American ideas and Republican principles. Notwithstanding this change, however, none of the European Masonic authorities which recognised him in 1867-8 have withdrawn that recognition, and, I believe, will not, no matter to what extent of protest American Grand Lodges may go, and but two of which up to the present have joined in that of Louisiana against the Grand Orient of France.

I am glad to have you say the laws of Freemasonry (by which I presume you mean its forms of government) are no more monarchical in England than they are in Switzerland or in the United States, because, though I still maintain that up to this time they are apparently so to me, thanks to the stand a few enlightened brethren are making, I look hopefully to see those forms lose their monarchical character, and the principles of self, or responsible government be recognised as sufficient for Freemasonry; and that eventually, these principles will be recognised, the world even in disposing a departure from the old order of things—State and National Grand Lodge, exclusive jurisdiction, and confinement to one rite—and the introduction of that better order, wherein each lodge of Freemasons shall be free to govern themselves, through their lawful representatives in local grand lodges, or general assemblies of the Craft in a certain district, and to practise that arrangement of the decret language, called a ritual of Freemasonry, which its members may elect to adopt, and be chartered to practise, no matter where the grand lodge may be located which grants such charter.

Fraternally yours,

J. FLETCHER BRENNAN,
Editor of the American Freemason,

Cincinnati, O., U.S.A., August 17th, 1869.

A QUERY.

(To the Editor of the Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER.—Can any M.M. tell me how the charter was not granted for the proposed Lodge, "Southern Star," in the S. district of Glasgow, there being abundance of scope for more?

Yours truly and fraternally,

A SUBSCRIBER.

SUPREME COUNCIL, NEW YORK.

REPORT OF ILL. BRO. ALBERT G. GOODALL, GRAND REPRESENTATIVE, ON FOREIGN RELATIONS.

To the Supreme Council of Sov. Gr. Ins. Gen. of the 33rd and last degree Ancient Accepted Rite, for the Northern Masonic Jurisdiction, U.S.A.

FRANCE.

(Continued from page 117.)

A translation of the decree and report of the argument upon which the decision was made I enclose herewith. The subject being of vital importance to all the Grand Bodies throughout the United States, will, no doubt, receive prompt attention and response to the gross violation on the part of the Grand Orient of France of relations of amity, by ignoring the lawful Masonic jurisdiction of the recognised Grand Lodge of Louisiana, and giving countenance and recognition to a new spurious Body, to work in the SYMBOLIC DEGREES, and initiate, according to their ideas, the NEGRO RACE, and force them upon the Fraternity in this country.

Although the Grand Orient professes to work only the seven degrees, making the Rose Croix the last and highest, yet they have what appears to be a decided anomaly of a College of Rites and Supreme Council, 33°, Ancient and Accepted Rite, which is rather inconsistent with the position they have so long taken in opposing the workings of this latter Rite, and if consistency is a jewel it certainly has never been attached to the regalia worn under authority of the Grand Orient of France.

THE SUPREME COUNCIL FOR FRANCE, ANCIENT ACCEPTED RITE, was established in Paris on the 22nd day of December, 1804, by Ill. Bro. De Grasse Tilley, under authority from the Sup. Council of the Southern Jurisdiction at Charleston, U.S.; and, being considered an innovation on the Masonic jurisdiction of the Grand Orient, a contest of authority ensued, and the two Grand Bodies have never worked in perfect harmony, and both have suffered more or less by the various political changes and revolutions in France, during the past half century. On three different occasions the two Bodies recognized each other, but they were of short duration, as the old antagonistic feeling soon separated them. In the early part of 1866, they again entered into relations of amity, which still continues, with rather a reserved feeling, and the name of the Supreme Council does not appear in the annual calendar of the Grand Orient.

For many years past, and especially during the administration of Viennet, the Supreme Council has made but little effort to extend its authority, and from their very limited communications but few foreign Grand Bodies were familiar with their existence; and a little more youthful and progressive spirit among them would be decidedly beneficial for the interest of the Rite.

In 1862, soon after Marshal Magnan assumed the duties of Grand Master of the Grand Orient, he attempted to force the Supreme Council to abolish their Masonic claims, close their labours in the Ancient Accepted Rite, and unite with Grand Orient, in all of which he made a signal failure. The Lodges of the Supreme Council were closed for a few days only, and Viennet, the Sov. Gr. Com., responded to the demands of Magnan, giving a history of the Order in France, and concluding with the decision of the Supreme Council, that, their claims being just, they determined to maintain them; which they have nobly done, for the interest of the Order and benefit of the Ancient Accepted Rite, and I most cheerfully embrace this first opportunity to correct a mistake made in my report two years since, that the Supreme Council had ceased to exist by orders of the civil government.

During my stay in Paris in August last, it was my pleasure to renew the long-existing amicable relations of our Grand Body with the Supreme Council, and to receive their assurances that they intended to adhere strictly to the ancient laws, usages and treaties of alliance governing the same. I was also favoured with an opportunity of being present, on the 17th of August last, on the occasion of the Funeral Fête in memory of their late much honoured Sov. Gr. Com. J. P. G. Viennet, who was buried on the 14th of July, with all the civil honours due to his exalted station as a member of the French Academy. The solemn ceremonies in the mystic circle of the Grand Lodge, Central of France, under the Supreme Council, were most impressive; a delegation from the Grand Orient was present, with many distinguished visiting Brethren, and the hall was crowded with the fraternity. The address by the Grand Orator was a finished production, but, according to our ideas, was more appropriate for the profane world than the sacred asylum of Masonry, having confined his discourse almost entirely to the political career of Bro. Viennet.

The concluding part is all that we can endorse, in which he appropriately says: "Let us precious keep and honour his memory, his truth, his learning and his character, and like him, let us ever stand up in defence of justice and truth."

Most Ill. Bro. B. Allegri, is now the Sov. Gr. Com., and Vte. De Lajonquiere the Gr. Cham. and Gr. Sec. H. E. Their jurisdiction is gradually increasing, and many new lodges and Rose Croix Chapters are being established in France and their colonies, and the Ancient Accepted Rite appears to be rapidly increasing in favour on the Continent.

The Rite of Memphis, or Misraim, with its ninety-six superfluous degrees is, I regret to state, acknowledged by both the Masonic Grand Bodies in France, and thus our sacred mysteries are to some extent divulged improperly to those who are not recognised in any other part of the world as having any connection whatever with the Masonic fraternity; but the extraordinary liberal and somewhat independent views that our French brethren have always taken in such matters, will probably continue until a regular assembled Masonic congress shall definitely settle all pending questions as to who and what Rites shall be accepted as Masonic.

ENGLAND.

My two visits to England since my last report, have favoured me with opportunities of renewing the agreeable fraternal relations previously formed, and arranging many important matters for the mutual interest and advancement of the Ancient Accepted Rite.

The history of Masonry in England is so closely identified with the Order in this country, and should be so familiar to every Masonic student, that I deem it necessary to speak only of the Supreme Council, 88rd degree, for England, Wales, and the British Colonies.

In my last, I had the pleasure of alluding to the very cordial, fraternal and hospitable receptions so generously extended to me by the brethren and different Bodies under jurisdiction of the Supreme Council, and I can but renew my sincere appreciation for the repetition of the same courtesies received during my last visit.

The Supreme Council, since the receipt of its Warrant by letters-patent from this Jurisdiction, and its organization as a governing body in 1846, has made but slow progress in extending the Rite under its authority, limiting their operations to London and its vicinity, and were guided more by a laudable desire to promote the interest and integrity of the Rite in admitting only those who would be a credit to the Order, instead of the wholesale system of miscellaneous admissions which has too often been permitted, to the detriment of the fraternity, in other Jurisdictions. On the 6th day of March last, Ill. Bro. Dr. Beaumont Lesson, Sov. Gr. Com., and one of its founders, resigned that position, and was succeeded by Ill. Bro. Colonel Henry Atkins Bowyer as Sov. Gr. Com., with Ill. Bro. Captain Nathaniel G. Phillips, Gr. Sec. Gen. H.E. Since that date the spirit of progress appears to have animated the members to make more exertion for extending their labours in the good work and extensive field open to that Masonic Jurisdiction. The new and spacious apartments now permanently occupied by the Supreme Council at 33, Golden-square, London, have in addition to their other useful ornaments, an extensive and valuable Masonic library of over three hundred volumes. At the last regular meeting of the Council, a highly satisfactory report was made, showing the financial condition to be on a solid basis, and with over a thousand members in England and Wales; was rapidly increasing its Chapters and Consistories in India, Australia, and other British possessions, a Consistory and four Rose Croix Chapters having lately been established by them in Canada, and already the fraternal courtesies have been extended to the latter from this Jurisdiction; and I feel warranted in stating that we are justified in being proud of the honour in having the authority accepted from us which by the Royal Mystic Art is again being perpetuated under such able and careful administration; and should all our American brothers visiting the Old World, be as fortunate as myself, they will not regret having paid a visit to the Grand East of the Ancient Accepted Rite in our fatherland, where the social and instructive hours I have often passed in the Mystic Circle, are to me

"Bright links in memory's chain."

(To be continued.)

MASONRY NOT A SUBSTITUTE FOR RELIGION.—It should not be overlooked—and by those whose experience in Masonry covers space and time it is not—that there is danger of some brethren receiving Masonry instead of religion, just as some, who are not Masons, receive morality. It is a mortal error, and should be carefully guarded against by all who value their souls.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Hearty and Healthy.—The experience of thousands, both at home and abroad, has amply demonstrated the power possessed by these healing and purifying remedies of removing cutaneous eruptions, repairing ulcerations, and relieving fistulas and abscesses. These hidden evils frequently rob life of every comfort, through the reluctance of the sufferer to expose his infirmity. Holloway's Ointment supersedes such dreaded publicity by placing within the reach of all plain instructions for curing themselves without any danger and without the necessity of mentioning their malady to anyone. The Ointment and Pills will likewise cure bad legs, scabs, rashes, and those blemishes which arise from the abuse of mercury and from the use of other deleterious drugs.

Advertisements.

TO BRITISH and FOREIGN MECHANICS.

TO AMATEUR MECHANICS in SCIENCE and ART.

TO ALL CONCERNED IN CHEMISTRY, Electricity, Astronomy, Engineering, Building, Inventions, Photography, Horology, or Technical Researches.

NEW and IMPORTANT ADDITION to SCIENTIFIC JOURNALS.

NOW PREPARING for PRESS, and will be published on SATURDAY, the 2nd of October next, No. 1 of the BRITISH and FOREIGN MECHANIC and SCIENTIFIC INSTRUCTOR—Conducted by Edward Henri Tode, Editor of the "English Mechanic" from March 31, 1866, to August 21, 1869; Projector of the "Building News," and for many years sole Editor of that journal; Projector and Editor of the "Steam Shipping Chronicle," and of the "Penny Newsmen;" Editor of the "Illustrated Builder's Journal," "World of Science," &c., &c., &c. Profusely Illustrated, Twopence Weekly.

The "British and Foreign Mechanic" has been projected with a view to meet a want long felt by mechanics—that of technical education. It has been too often taken for granted that the British workman would feel offended if instruction compiled in the manner intended by the projector of this journal were placed before him; but the projector of this journal, after patient investigation, has arrived at the conviction that our workers will gladly accept any sound instruction if given in an intelligent and attractive manner, and at a reasonable price.

In the pages of the "British and Foreign Mechanic," full and practical attention will be given to all matters relating to Amateur Mechanics' requirements, American and all Foreign Machinery Improvements—Organ, Pianoforte, and Harmonium Construction—Lathes and Lathe working—Photography—Electricity—Chemistry—Telegraphy—Building—Construction—Civil and Mechanical Engineering—Astronomy—Horology—Physical Science—Musical Instrument Construction—Velocipede Construction—Friendly Societies—Screw Cutting—Ship Building—Boiler Construction—Joinery—Weaving—Textile Fabrics—Natural History—Art and Nature—The Wonders of the Deep—Mining—Travels and Explorations in Foreign Lands—Sculpture—Engraving and Painting—Modelling—Philosophical Instrument Construction—Medical Science—Botany—Aërial—Locomotion, &c.

The "British and Foreign Mechanic" will be published on Saturday, the 2nd October next. It will consist of 32 large and profusely illustrated pages, with occasional supplements, and may be obtained through all newsagents and booksellers, who are requested to order early. A liberal discount will be given.

London Office: 40, Tavistock-street, Covent-garden.

MECHI'S TOURIST'S OUTFITS.

MECHI'S DRESSING BAGS.

MECHI'S 23s. DRESSING CASES.

MECHI'S COURIER BAGS.

MECHI'S HAND BAGS.

MECHI'S TOURIST WRITING CASES.

MECHI'S PICNIC CASES.

MECHI'S DRINKING FLASKS, 1s. 6d. to £7.

MECHI, 112, REGENT STREET.

MECHI—ALL THE NEWEST STYLES.

MECHI—GOOD AND CHEAP.

MECHI'S MAGIC STROP AND PASTE.

MECHI'S SHOW-ROOM, 55 YARDS.

MECHI'S SPORTING KNIVES, 3s. 6d. to £7.

MECHI'S CARRIAGE AND RETICULE BAGS.

MECHI'S LADIES' WORK BASKETS.

COONEY'S MUSTARD

IS universally acknowledged to be a First-class Article, Unrivalled for STRENGTH, PURITY, and FLAVOUR. Sold by Grocers, Druggists, &c.

Manufactory—STEAM MILLS BACK LANE, DUBLIN.

GEORGE KENNING,

3 and 4,

Little Britain, London, E.C.

MASONIC DEPOT.

THE LARGEST STOCK in the WORLD

Jewels,

Clothing,

Furniture,

Banners,

Books, &

Requisites

For all Degrees in Freemasonry.

3 and 4, Little Britain, London, E.C.

Price Lists on application.

GEORGE KENNING,

3 and 4,

Little Britain, London, E.C.

MASONIC.—Will any Brother kindly aid an old P.M. in obtaining light EMPLOYMENT of any kind. A case of true distress.—Address, R. K. Starling, 104, Weymouth-terrace, Hackney-road.

A Brother, who can give £60 security, SEEKS EMPLOYMENT in any capacity; is strong, in good health, not afraid of hard work, and has good testimonials as to character, &c.—W. S., 4, Little Britain, E.C.

BR. JAMES STEVENS (25, 720, 1216, &c.), Auctioneer and Surveyor, House and Estate Agent, &c., Clapham Common.—Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duties. Agent to the Imperial Fire & Life Insurance Offices

WILLIAM WINSOR, of 8, Miles's-lane, London-bridge, imports CIGARS of the very Finest Brands only, and manufactures Cigars from the Choicest Tobacco. Wholesale and retail.

ARMS, CRESTS, and MONOGRAMS.—MASONIC EMBLEMS Engraved on Seals, Dies, &c. Official Stamps designed and Engraved.—Bro. D. G. BERRI, Engraver to Her Majesty's Post Office, Stationery Office, &c., 86, High Holborn (opposite Chancery-lane), London, W.C.

HUMAN FINS, for Swimming, 12s. the set, BARNETT, patentee, Paris (complete specification). With these ready adopted fins the swimmer can with ease and rapidity perform long distances with security against cramps. Sold by HEMARDINQUER, agent, 5, Falcon-street, City; and all Indianrubber Warehousemen, &c.

THE NEW MUSICAL PITCH.

COLLARD MOUTRIE has just invented, perfected, and secured by Royal Letters Patent, an important improvement in the manufacture of Pianofortes, by which the Pitch is raised to the Philharmonic or lowered to that of the French normal diapason in an instant, at the option of the performer. This invention can be applied to any Pianoforte. The Profession, Amateurs, Musical Critics, Musical Public, and the Trade are invited to witness its utility and effect, between the hours of Eleven and Four, at the Manufactory, 77, Southampton-row, Russell-square. Established 1849.

BOARD and RESIDENCE for one or two Gentlemen, in a quiet private house, close to Hyde-park, omnibus and railway. Terms, from 42s. per week.—Address, W., 15, Gloucester-terrace, Hyde-park, W.

MASONIC NOTE AND LETTER PAPER.

Sanctioned by The Most Worshipful The Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of England

IT is impressed with the Masonic Die, and has also Masonic Emblems incorporated with its texture, as Water Marks, while being manufactured.

Sold, in Quarto and Octavo Packets of Five Quires, Wholesale and Retail, at the MASONIC DEPOT, 3 and 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, E.C.

Masonic Envelopes can also be obtained at the Depot.

By Appointment to the Queen.

Bookseller, Stationer, Newsagent, Printer, &c.

A MAGNIFICENT STOCK OF MASONIC REQUIREMENTS

MAY BE SEEN AT

BRO. W. E. FRANKLIN'S,

42, MOSLEY ST., corner of ST. NICHOLAS SQUARE
NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE,

Agent for "THE FREEMASON."

BRO. JAMES B. SLY,

PRACTICAL

Heraldic Engraver to the Trade,

Of Gold, Silver, and Ivory,

DRAUGHTSMAN & DIE-SINKER

9, Rathbone Place, London, W.

Plates Engraved; Gilt Pierced Mounts made for Albums and Cigar Cases.

Designs made of Crests, Monograms, Ornaments, and Arms, and every description of Shooting Prizes, Presentation Plates, Watches, Watch Domes, Dressing Cases, Bag-sets, and Ivory Brushes, Engraved with care, delicacy, and despatch.

TO STATIONERS,

JAS. B. SLY having in his employ several Die-sinkers, and from his practical knowledge of the same is enabled to give immediate attention to the cutting of Dies that are emergent. Companies' Dies cut. Illuminating and Stamping in colours. Sample Sheets of Monograms and Addresses forwarded on application.

BRO. H. T. LAMB,

MANUFACTURER OF MASONIC JEWELS,

ST. JOHN SQUARE,

CLERKENWELL,

LONDON.

ILLUSTRATED PRICE LIST POST FREE ON APPLICATION.

GLENFIELD STARCH

is the only kind used in Her Majesty's Laundry.

THOSE LADIES who have not yet used the GLENFIELD STARCH, are respectfully solicited to give it a trial, and carefully follow out the directions printed on every package. It is rather more difficult to make than other Starches, but when this is overcome, they will say, like the Queen's Laundress, that it is the finest Starch they ever used.

A Co-operative Discount of Twenty per Cent. to Brothers.

FOR GOUT—Use OIL of HORSE CHESTNUTS, which imparts a natural circulation. 2/9, 4/6, and 11/- per bottle.

FOR GOUT—Drink WILDUNGEN WATER, the only natural solvent for Stone and Gravel. 1/6 per bottle; 15/- per dozen.

FOR INDIGESTION—Take DANDELION, CAMOMILE and RHUBARB PILLS. 1/14 per box; 2/9, 4/6, and 11/- per bottle.

FOR INDIGESTION—Take the PURE VEGETABLE CHARCOAL, prepared according to Mr. BIRD'S formula. 3/6 per bottle. The only internal disinfectant.

ANDERSON'S MEDICAL LABORATORY, 2, Lower Seymour-street, Portman-square; and 80, Duke-street, Manchester-square, London, W.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

A GRATEFUL FATHER is desirous of sending by mail, free of charge to all who wish it, a copy of the prescription by which his daughter was restored to perfect health from confirmed Consumption, after having been given up by her physicians and despaired of by her father, a well-known physician, who has now discontinued practice. Sent to any person FREE.—Address O. P. BROWN, Secretary, 2, King-street, Covent-garden, London.

EDUCATION.—CROOM'S-HILL SCHOOL,
Blackheath, near London,
PRINCIPAL, REV. T. GOODWIN, M.A., D.C.L., LL.D.
Parents in search of a School combining the conscientious care of a home and the thorough efficiency of education in its several departments, are requested to apply for a Prospectus to the Principal, who is ready to submit to applicants all information concerning the School, the testimony of parents in its favour, and an account of the uniformly distinguished position its pupils have achieved in commercial pursuits, in the Civil Service, the Medical, the Army and Navy, and the University Examinations.

THE EUROPEAN MAIL.

A Summary of Universal Intelligence and Exact Commercial Statistics from Mail to Mail, specially prepared for the Colonies and Trans-Oceanic World generally.

THE EUROPEAN MAIL IS THE LEADING TITLE OF EIGHT TOTALLY DISTINCT NEWSPAPERS, AS FOLLOW—

No. of issues annually	Destination.	When Issued.	Rate of Subscription per annum, including postage.
24	A. European Mail for the West Indies, Central America, Chili, Peru, &c.	2nd & 17th of the month	40s.
24	B. European Mail for South Africa, St. Helena, Ascension, &c.	10th & 24th	40s.
52	C. European Mail for North America, i.e., the United States, Canadian Dominion, British America, Cuba, Mexico, &c.	Every Saturday	52s.
24	D. European Mail for the Brazil and River Plate, Azores, &c.	9th, 19th, & 29th	54s.
52	E. European Mail for China, Japan, Ceylon, Penang, Singapore, Siam, Sumatra, Java, Borneo, and the Philippines	27th August 1869, & every fortnight after, by English Mail; and on Sept. 2nd, 1869, & every fourth Thursday by French Mail.	52s.
52	F. European Mail for India, Burmah, Egypt, &c.	Sept. 3rd '69, and every succeeding Friday.	39s.
13	G. European Mail for Australia and New Zealand	Every 4th Friday.	13s.
24	H. European Mail for the West Coast of Africa, Madeira, Tenerife, &c.	3rd & 23rd of the month.	40s.

* Or with Manifest Supplement, 65s.
N.B.—All Subscriptions payable in advance.

EACH Paper contains every item of intelligence, from Mail to Mail, specially affecting the country or colony for which it is published, with an exhaustive summary of home and continental politics, science, art, and social news, and a retrospect of commercial transactions in Great Britain and on the Continent.

Manufacturers and Merchants may command the greatest markets of the world for their products through the mediums of publicity afforded by the EUROPEAN MAIL. A demand may be created where none exists at present, or an existing demand may be sustained and increased against the most energetic competition.

The EUROPEAN MAIL gives such perfect mercantile information that it is the highest commercial authority in the vast and prosperous territories through which it circulates. It is therefore an imperative necessity to the merchant who orders goods in bulk, and to the wholesale and retail distributor; it is also the most complete newspaper despatched from England, and is eagerly sought by all classes; it thus, unlike merely commercial newspapers, reaches and leavens the great communities who are the actual consumers of all products, and who must be acted upon by advertisement to require a special article before the merchant will venture to order a consignment.

Scale of Charges for ADVERTISEMENTS each insertion per Paper as follows:—

FOR PAPERS C, F, & G ONLY.	FOR PAPERS A, B, D, E, & H ONLY
One Page ... £ s. d. Two-thirds of a Page ... 5 9 6 Half-Page ... 4 2 6 One-third of a Page ... 3 0 0 Quarter-Page ... 2 8 0 Eighth of a Page ... 1 7 0	One Page ... £ s. d. Two-thirds of a Page ... 3 13 0 Half-Page ... 2 15 0 One-third of a Page ... 2 0 0 Quarter-Page ... 1 12 0 Eighth of a Page ... 0 18 0
Below an Eighth of a Page. Across the Page ... 0 18 9 Two-thirds across the Page ... 0 12 9 Half across the Page ... 0 9 9 One-third across the Page ... 0 6 9	Below an Eighth of a Page. Across the Page ... 0 12 6 Two-thirds across the Page ... 0 8 6 Half across the Page ... 0 6 6 One-third across the Page ... 0 4 6

* The above Scale of Charges is subject to a Discount of 10 per cent. for Advertisements appearing in the consecutive issues of a paper for 3 months; of 15 per cent. for 6 months; and 20 per cent. for 12 months.

When an Advertisement is ordered for insertion simultaneously in all the Papers, the lowest rate above is charged all through.

Post Office Orders to be made payable at the Cannon-street Post Office, London.

Remittances payable to William Vaughan.
The EUROPEAN MAIL may be ordered through the Local Agent, direct from the London Office, or through any Firm having representatives in England. In the last case, the usual system is to order the EUROPEAN MAIL to be forwarded until countermanded; the representative of the Firm in England being directed, under similar conditions, to make payment annually.

PRICE'S BENZODYNE, The Great Cure for Cholera and Consumption.

A Newly-discovered principle residing in Gum Benjamin (Styrax Benzoin) the chief chemical product of which has hitherto been Benzoic Acid, well known and highly valued by medical practitioners. The great difficulty which the discoverer encountered in bringing out this important remedy was the form in which to present it to the faculty and the public, the new chemical being amorphous and incapable of crystallization. It has therefore been deemed advisable to prepare a highly-concentrated solution of the product, combining it with such adjuncts as are considered natural auxiliaries. PRICE'S BENZODYNE is stimulant, anodyne, and mechanically astringent, arresting fluxes and hemorrhages of all kinds both external and internal, possessing singular efficacy in the following diseases:—Ague, Bronchitis, Consumption, Colic, Cholera, Cold, Cough, Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Debility in all its various forms, Fevers, Influenza, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Spasms, Tickleureux, &c., &c. PRICE'S BENZODYNE has been tried repeatedly in these cases and has never failed to cure.

It immediately relieves all pain, actually sheathing the organs with a protective matter, which defies the action of the most virulent blood-poisons, and thus PRICE'S BENZODYNE acts as the most powerful styptic now known to science, being the only effective external application for cuts, bites of insects, and all open wounds. In Cholera, as in Consumption, its effects are astounding, while Chronic Cough yields to its curative influences in a few hours.

PRICE'S BENZODYNE is acknowledged by the highest Medical authority to be the most wonderful medicine yet introduced to the public; it may be taken at any time by both young and old with the most beneficial effects in all cases, leaving no bad effects like Laudanum, Chlorodyne, or any other poisonous and imperfect preparations, and can be given when no other could be tolerated.

In Consumption and Cancer its peculiarly soothing properties render it a boon to the sufferer in allaying the cough, mitigating night perspirations, and in relieving pain, &c.

In every stage of these dire diseases it gives an amount of ease not attainable by any other remedy.

In all cases of Chest Affections, as Asthma, Bronchitis, Winter Cough, Palpitation, &c., PRICE'S BENZODYNE is a very valuable medicine, producing a composed and tranquil state of the system, and quickly relieving the cough, assisting expectation, and in a few days removing the most distressing symptoms.

In Hysteria, Epilepsy, Gout, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and all Nerve Pains it is justly valued, as it is given with immediate benefit, relieving pain and suffering however violent the attack.

In Diarrhoea, Cholera, Alvine Discharges, spasms and colics of the intestines, &c., its effects are signal, as it never fails to check the disease.

CONSUMPTION IN ALL ITS STAGES CURED.

Coughs, Whooping Cough, Asthma, Bronchitis, Fever, Ague, Diptheria, Hysteria, Rheumatism, Diarrhoea, Spasms Colic, Renal and Uterine Diseases are immediately relieved by a dose.

During the period of Dentition of Children it will be found invaluable, and in curing Whooping Cough, Spasms, dispelling Flatulency, preventing Convulsive Fits, Heats, &c., to which they are so liable.

PRICE'S BENZODYNE is specially adapted for Naval, Military or Traveller's medicine chests, and for Hospitals and Dispensaries everywhere.

Sold in bottles at 1s. 1d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s. and 22s., by all chemists

THROUGHOUT THE WORLD.

Prepared and guaranteed by
Mr. PRICE, Analytical Chemist,

and sold wholesale by PRICE & Co., 2, Lower Seymour Street, and 30 Duke Street, Portman Square London, W.; or through the following agents:—

LLEWELLYN & Co., Shanghai, China.
LLEWELLYN & Co., Hiogo, Japan.
FAULING & Co., Adelaide, Australia.
LEVY BROTHERS, Melbourne.

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.

Opiates, Narcotics, and Squills, are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary Diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.

SELECT TESTIMONIAL.

Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says:—"I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued Cough, Pain, and Irritation of the Chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."

This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold by all respectable Chemists and Patent Medicine Dealers, in bottles at 1s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each, and wholesale by JAS. M. CROSBY, Chemist, Scarborough.

* Invalids should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be obtained gratis of any respectable Chemist.

THE AMERICAN FREEMASON

is Monthly, of sixteen double-column quarto pages of entirely original matter, and translations from the French Italian, and German Masonic papers and periodicals of the day. It is devoted to the discussion of the rights of Lodges and individual Freemasons, in contradistinction to the assumptions of Grand Lodges, and the un-Masonic doctrines and arrangements of "high degrees." Its motto is—Belief in the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man. Its price is Five Shillings a year—a sum so small that no Freemason, for pecuniary reasons, need be a non-subscriber to it.

Trans-Atlantic Subscribers to the AMERICAN FREEMASON will receive it Post-paid from the Office of Publication direct, at their respective Post-offices, upon payment of the subscription to

BRO. GEORGE KENNING,
8 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, LONDON, E.C.

All Subscriptions begin with March 15th, 1869, and end with February, 1870.

The AMERICAN FREEMASON is not the organ of any Grand Lodge; but speaking the words of truth, manhood, and independence, advocates freedom for Masonry in America, and the rights of Freemasons in their Lodges—rights which, by our Grand Lodges, in their subservency to high degrees, have been invaded, until at present they are nearly obliterated.

Subscribers in the British Colonies will please address all Subscriptions and Correspondence to J. FLETCHER BRENNAN, Editor, 114, Main street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

TO THE NERVOUS & DEBILITATED EPILEPTIC SUFFERERS AND OTHERS.

HALL'S CHLORATE OF POTASSA, discovered, introduced, and extensively prescribed by the late eminent Dr. MARSHALL HALL, has proved an infallible remedy (by oxydizing the blood and supplying its saline constituent) for Indigestion, Debility, Coughs, Asthma Consumption, Skin, Liver, Stomach, and Nervous Affections, more especially Epilepsy, Apoplexy, and Paralysis. The successful results of this new chemical preparation are beyond all precedent, and the extraordinary cures effected by the late discoverer, and by his successor (Dr. Sutton), in the above maladies are without a parallel in the annals of medicine; and it is confidently believed that in no case need the sufferer despair, for practical experience has demonstrated, and signal success warranted the assertion, that in 99 cases out of every 100 complete cures may be relied on.

Sold in Bottles at 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and Cases of £5 each, by

DR. SUTTON, M.D., 15, REGENT SQUARE, LONDON, W.C., and in BOLTON by PRIESTLEY, Chemist.

The following are a few Testimonials published by privilege.

Sir Charles Locock, Physician-Accoucher to Her Majesty, stated at a meeting of the Royal Medical and Chirurgical Society, that in sixteen cases of Epilepsy he had effected permanent cures by the use of Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa.

"September 6 1858.—The Editor of the Bury Gazette returns thanks to Dr. Hall for the great benefit he has received from his Chlorate of Potassa treatment in a severe nervous disease."

Sir J. Ferguson, King's College Hospital, London, says—"I have repeatedly prescribed Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa and found it an agreeable and beneficial remedy."

Extract from the Lancet, April 1, 1857.—"In conclusion, we are of opinion that Hall's Chlorate of Potassa is a far superior remedy to the ones in general use for Nervousness, Indigestion, and Liver Complaints, when judiciously prescribed."

Sir Benjamin Brodie says—"What Chloride of Lime is to the foul sewer, Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa is to the blood."

Professor Syme says—"The effects of Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa in obstinate cases of disease are as astonishing as perplexing."

Dr. Lankester, the eminent coroner, says—"Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa is calculated to entirely supersede iron, mercury, arsenic, quinine, and cod liver oil."

Sir Philip Crampton says—"I believe there is no condition of the system that may not be benefited by Dr. Hall's Potassa."

Sir T. Lawrence says—"I have found Dr. Hall's Chlorate an excellent remedy in Skin Diseases. I presume it is by oxydation."

Sir F. Watson says—"I know that it is an invaluable remedy."

Sir Edward Brough, 9, Fitzwilliam-square, Dublin, certifies Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa has been of the greatest benefit to a member of his family.

The Earl of Clarendon certifies that Dr. Hall's Chlorate cured a case of indigestion of 15 years' duration.

Dr. HALL'S CHLORATE OF POTASSA may be procured by order through any Chemist. Ask for "Dr. HALL'S Chlorate," and do not be imposed on by the common article.

It is sold in Bolton by Priestley, Chemist, 12, Deansgate; or it may be had direct from Dr. Hall's successor, Dr. JOHN SUTTON, M.D., 15, Regent square, London, W.C., who undertakes the positive cure of all chronic diseases before payment.

Dr. HALL'S Chlorate is sold in MANCHESTER by JEWELL, Market-street; in LIVERPOOL by PRIESTLEY, Lord-street.

N.B.—Dr. Sutton will shortly repeat his Lecture on this subject.—The Lecture sent for two stamps.

TO ADVERTISERS.

THE Circulation of THE FREEMASON being now at the rate of nearly Half-a-Million per annum, it offers peculiar facilities to all who advertise.

It is well known that the Fraternity of Freemasons is a large and constantly increasing body, mainly composed of the influential and educated classes of society; and as

The Freemason

is now the accepted organ of the Brotherhood in the United Kingdom, and also enjoys an extensive sale in the colonies and foreign parts, its advantages as an advertising medium can scarcely be overrated.

Only four pages can be allotted to advertisements.

For terms apply to

GEORGE KENNING,
3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, LONDON, E.C.

THE RIGHT HON. THE EARL OF ZETLAND,
K.T., &c., &c.,
MOST WORSHIPFUL GRAND MASTER

OF THE
United Grand Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of England.

A Bust of the EARL OF ZETLAND in Masonic Costume, with the Collar and various Jewels worn by his Lordship on great occasions as the Most Worshipful Grand Master, modelled from sittings kindly afforded by his Lordship (at the solicitation of several Freemasons) to the Sculptor—BROTHER MORTON EDWARDS. Is executed in a large size suitable for Lodges, &c., and a smaller size for Mantle-piece or otherwise, and will be sent on receipt of Cheque, or Order on the Chief Post Office, payable to GEORGE KENNING, 4, Little Britain, London.

A Limited number will be published, and issued to Subscribers only.

Subscription for the Large Bust ... £5 5 0
" " Smaller " ... £1 0

Specimens of the above Busts are on view at Bro. GEORGE KENNING'S extensive Masonic Show Rooms, Little Britain, London.

REFLECTED RAYS OF LIGHT
UPON
FREEMASONRY;

The Freemason's Pocket Compendium.

WITH AN EMBLEMATICAL FRONTISPIECE.

A HAND-BOOK of the Principles of Freemasonry, and Pocket Vade-Mecum and Guide to the various Ceremonies connected with Craft Masonry, so far as the same are allowed to be communicable in accordance with the principles of the Order.

Price One Shilling; Post-free for Fourteen Stamps.

Bro. JAMES STEVENSON, 48, Wrotham-road, Gravesend; Bro. W. GAREY, 49, George-street, Aberdeen; and sold by Bro. GEO. KENNING, Little Britain, London, E.C.

Just Published. Price Half a Guinea.

MONOGRAMS,
HISTORICAL AND PRACTICAL,
D. G. BERRI,

Engraver to Her Majesty's Post Office, Stationery Office, &c., &c.,

36, High Holborn, (opposite Chancery-lane),
LONDON, W.C.

JUST PUBLISHED.

THE GENERAL STATUTES of the Imperial, Ecclesiastical, and Military Order of the Red Cross of Rome and Constantine, and the Laws of the K.H.S.; with an Appendix and Engravings of the Jewels and Regalia, to which is added a Sketch of the History of the Red Cross Order.

Published under the authority of the Grand Council by R. WENTWORTH LITTLE, G. Recorder, and sold by G. KENNING, Little Britain, E.C.

12mo Cloth, Bound and Lettered, Price 1s. 6d.

BRO. BENJAMIN COOK,

Carpenter, Builder, and House Decorator,
SALISBURY COURT,

FLEET STREET, E.C.

Estimates for General Repairs.

Bro. J. G. MARSH,
ARCHITECT AND SURVEYOR,
159, Fenchurch Street, E.C.;
AND
842, Old Kent Road, S.E.

ST. LAWRENCE-ON-SEA,
NEAR RAMSGATE, THANET.

"THE GRANVILLE,"

A FIRST-CLASS HOTEL (erected and furnished from the designs of WELBY PUGIN) is now OPEN. The situation, 70 feet above the North Sea, is one of the finest, and the air the purest and most bracing in England. Families can be accommodated with suites of apartments, for which a private external entrance is provided. To the Hotel is attached a Garden and Croquet Lawn. Below the cliff are unrivalled sands and bathing; machines belonging to the Hotel will be provided. Hotel charges moderate.

Applications for rooms and for tariff of prices to be made to Mrs. HALE, at the Hotel.

N.B. Arrangements can be made for the Annual Dinners of Societies, Masonic Meetings, &c.

PIANOFORTES.

G. R. SAMSON,

(Successor to R. ADDISON & Co.,)

RESPECTFULLY informs Purchasers that he still continues to supply the same description of Instruments for which the above Firm were so justly celebrated.

Prices from 20 to 60 Guineas.

PIANOFORTES FOR HIRE FROM 8s. PER MONTH, UPON THE 'THREE YEARS' SYSTEM.

30, Wells Street, Oxford Street, W., and 42, Maddox Street, W.

Agent for BORD, of Paris.

Unlike any other Plan known.

POSITIVE LIFE ASSURANCE is a new system, first introduced by the
MASONIC & GENERAL FIRE & LIFE
INSURANCE COMPANY, Limited,
8, NEW BRIDGE STREET, BLACKFRIARS

It secures Insurers a Promissory Note (instead of the ordinary Policy) for each premium paid, which is payable "To Bearer," either during the life-time or at the death of the assured.

Full Particulars on application to
FREDERICK BIGG,
Manager and Actuary.
Agents wanted in London and the provinces.

COMPENSATION
IN CASE OF INJURY, AND
A FIXED SUM IN CASE OF DEATH
CAUSED BY
ACCIDENT OF ANY KIND,

May be Secured by a Policy of the Railway Passengers Assurance Company.
An annual payment of £3 to £6 5s. Insures £1000 at Death, and an allowance at the rate of £6 per week for Injury.

RAILWAY ACCIDENTS ALONE
MAY BE PROVIDED AGAINST BY
Insurance Tickets for Single or Double Journeys.
For particulars apply to the Clerks at the Railway Stations, to the Local Agents, or at the Offices,
64, CORNHILL, & 10, REGENT STREET, LONDON.
WILLIAM J. VIAN, Secretary.

MONEY.

LOANS ON PERSONAL SECURITY, WITH
LIFE ASSURANCE,
AT FIVE PER CENT. PER ANNUM.

THE
WEST OF ENGLAND FIRE & LIFE OFFICE
(Instituted 1803)
GRANTS LOANS FOR A LIMITED NUMBER OF
YEARS ON THE ABOVE TERMS.

Chief Office—Exeter.
London—20, New Bridge Street.

MONEY.—LOANS Granted from £100 to £2,000 at 5 per cent., repayable over Three Years, on Personal Security and Life Policy effected with the WEST OF ENGLAND INSURANCE CO., (Established 1807.)

Apply to the Superintendent or Agents,
Bro. J. CROCKER, Gateshead-on-Tyne.
Agents Wanted.

SHIRTS,

2/6, 3/6, 4/6, 5/6, 6/6 upwards,
In all materials of Cotton and Wool.

CANN, JONES & CO.,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

Shirt Manufacturers, Tailors and Outfitters,
171, FENCHURCH STREET, E.C.

MANUFACTORY: 15 & 16, BLOMFIELD STREET, E.C.

BRO REEVES, SON & CO.,
Steam Printers, Engravers & Lithographers,
WHOLESALE STATIONERS,
AND ACCOUNT BOOK MANUFACTURERS,
Playhouse Yard, Blackfriars, London, E.C.
Next the "Times" Publishing Office.

Bro. WOLPERT,
PRINTER, STATIONER & ACCOUNT-BOOK MAKER,
7, St. Swithin's Lane, E.C.
Authorised Agent to receive Advertisements for THE FREEMASON, and all the London and Country Newspapers.

"TRUTH MUST PREVAIL,"
Common Sense.
Lamps, Baths, Cutlery, Brushes, Fenders & Fire
Irons, Electroplate, & Nickel-Silver Goods.

R. D. PARR,
General House Furnishing Ironmonger,
42, BLACKMAN STREET, BOROUGH,

OFFERS nothing extraordinary, but REALLY GOOD Articles at fair and reasonable prices. He does not keep an "Immense Stock," but SUFFICIENTLY LARGE for any person to select from. He does not sell "cheaper than every other house in the Trade," but quite as cheap as ANY.
A visit will, at all times, be very much appreciated.

For Cheap Watches, Clocks, Gold Chains, and
Jewelry, go to

KIBBLE'S
22, GRACECHURCH STREET,
One Door from Lombard Street, and
51, LUDGATE HILL,
Opposite the Old Bailey.

Gold Watches £2 15s.
Silver ditto £1 5s.
Timepieces from 9s. 6d.

EVERY ARTICLE WARRANTED.

Plate, Watches, and Jewelry, bought or exchanged.
List of Prices Post free.

HATS! HATS! HATS!

T. OLIVER & SON,

14, ALDERSGATE STREET, E.C., AND
59, FULHAM ROAD, S.W.

EVERY description of SHOOTING HATS for the season. PARIS HATS, 10/6 to 21/6, of the finest silk makes.

A STRINGENT TOOTH PASTE.—

HENRY NEWMAN'S "Astringent Tooth Paste," in Pots 1s. 6d. and 2s. 6d., to be had of all respectable Chemists. Wholesale Agents, Evans and Sons, Hanover-street; Raimes and Co., Hanover-street; Messrs Clay, Dodd and Case, St. Anne street; or of the Proprietor,

BRO. HENRY NEWMAN,
SURGEON-DENTIST,
5, SLATER STREET,
LIVERPOOL.

Printed by Brother JAMES ADLEY REEVES AND SON, Playhouse Yard, Blackfriars, in the City of London; published by the Proprietor, Brother GEORGE KENNING, at his Offices, 3 and 4, Little Britain, in the City of London.—SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1869.

THE FREEMASON

Reports of the Grand Lodges are published with the special sanction of the Right Hon. the EARL of ZETLAND, K.T., Most Worshipful Grand Master of England; and the Right Hon. the EARL of DALHOUSIE, K.T., G.C.B., Most Worshipful Master Mason of Scotland.

VOL. 2, No. 28.]

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 18, 1869.

REGISTERED FOR TRANSMISSION ABROAD. [PRICE 2D.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

	PAGE
REVIEWS—
Constitutions of Freemasons	133
Notes on the Colonial Empire of Great Britain	133
The Manchester Unity of Odd Fellows 133 &	134
DR. HERMANN ADLER ON THE PALESTINE EXPLORATION FUND	134
ROYAL ORDER OF SCOTLAND	134
RED CROSS OF ROME AND CONSTANTINE	134
BRO. JOSEPH DOLFI, THE BAKER OF FLORENCE	135
INELIGIBILITY OF BASTARDS AS FREEMASONS	135
THE CRAFT—Metropolitan and Provincial	136
THE ROYAL ARCH—Metropolitan	136
PAPERS ON MASONRY—
No. XXIV.—Masonry and Two-penny Trash ...	137
BIRTHS, MARRIAGES, AND DEATHS	138
INTERNATIONAL MASONIC RELATIONS	138
MASONIC NOTES AND QUERIES—
Union of Masonic Rites	138
Bro. Yarker and "Notes on the Temple" ...	138
Washington	139
Bro. Ralph Noel, P.G.M.	139
Masonic Hospitality	139
OBITUARY—
Bro. Ezekiel Loewenstark	139
ORIGINAL CORRESPONDENCE—
Uniformity of Working	139
Ineligibility of Bastards as Freemasons ...	139
ANNUAL MEETING OF THE PROV. GRAND LODGE OF CHESHIRE	140
PROV. GRAND LODGE OF CUMBERLAND AND WEST-MORLAND	141
MASONIC MEETINGS FOR NEXT WEEK	141
YOUNG FREEMASONS	141 & 142
ADVERTISEMENTS	142 143 & 144

elucidating its origin and investigating its claims to antiquity. It is true that such men as Preston and Oliver in the past, and Mackey and Rebold in the present generation, have done much to dispel the doubts that surround Masonic history, but elements of doubt and difficulty still remain to perplex and mystify the earnest enquirer. Let it be understood that we do not allude to the traditional account of Freemasonry which is embodied in the ceremonies of the Order, but rather to those romanticisms and childish myths that are gravely put forth as genuine narratives by men who must know that the merest sciolist in archæology can demolish their "house of cards" with a touch of the magic wand of truth.

In the front rank of the realists—the patient seekers of demonstrable facts respecting the Craft—may well be reckoned such brethren as William James Hughan, by whose untiring industry the actual records of Freemasonry have been so ably illustrated. Bro. Hughan's latest contribution to Masonic bibliography is a reprint of the Ancient Constitutions of the Fraternity in 1723, to which is prefixed an original article of his own containing an accurate summary of the various Constitutions that governed the Operative Craft in the olden time.

This transcript is most faithfully rendered, and forms an important addition to Masonic literature, as the original edition is now so rare that for ordinary purposes it may be considered absolutely unattainable.

There is also a fac-simile reprint of the copperplate Constitutions of Cole, published in 1728, which reflects the greatest credit upon Bro. Lake, the printer of the work. It is, as Bro. Hughan justly observes, the first fac-simile reprint of this scarce and beautiful edition since 1731. We do not know whether we are justified in quoting from the author's prefatory remarks, which form so valuable a commentary upon these ancient laws, but with Bro. Hughan's permission we shall be glad to reproduce for the benefit of our readers his masterly résumé of the Manuscript Constitutions, arranged in their presumed chronological order.

The work is dedicated to the Right Hon. the Earl of Zetland, Most Worshipful Grand Master, who has thus given a further evidence, if one were needed, of the interest he takes in everything relating to the Craft.

Notes on the Colonial Empire of Great Britain, by Bro. JOHN BOWES, P.M. 148, &c.; Head Master of the Blue Coat Hospital, Warrington.

We have perused this excellent little work with great pleasure. It presents, in a small but comprehensive compass, the main facts relating to the possessions of that empire upon which the sun never sets, and the compilation does the greatest credit to Brother Bowes' research and ability.

We quote from the author's introduction the following suggestive remarks:—"The British flag floats over, at least, one-fourth of the whole globe, and over no less than three hundred millions of human beings! Our beloved Queen rules over an empire greater than the greatest of the present or past ages, the population of which exceeds by thirty millions that of all the states in Europe put together. Classifying this population, we find it contains more Roman Catholics than the Pope rules over; more Mahomedans than the Sultan of Turkey governs, and more Pagans than are contained in the whole continent of Africa!"

We commend this to the croakers about England's "Decline and Fall."

The Manchester Unity of Odd Fellows, by FRANCIS G. P. NEISON, Jr., A.I.A., Consulting Actuary.

We have sincere pleasure in commending this interesting work to the serious attention of all who have the welfare of our great Friendly Societies at heart. Many a quicksand, many a shoal, will be avoided if the managers of such associations will only give heed in time to the warnings which Mr. Neison is so well qualified to give.

We have studied his book with care and attention, as it involves questions of great social interest—indeed, the future well-being of those powerful fraternities which have wrought so much good for the working classes is at stake, unless the sound remedial measures suggested by Mr. Neison's experience be at once adopted.

The author proves himself a true friend of the people by pointing out the defects arising from mismanagement, while at the same time he demonstrates the advantages of co-operation and union in those Orders, when conducted upon a stable financial basis. It may not be known generally that Odd Fellowship originated at Manchester in 1812, and as its founders were

NOW READY, PRICE 4/6

VOL. I. OF

The Freemason,

NEATLY BOUND, EXTRA CLOTH, WITH GILT EMBLEMATICAL LETTERING.

3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, LONDON, AND ALL BOOKSELLERS.

Reviews.

Constitutions of the Freemasons (dedicated, by permission, to the M.W. the Grand Master of England). By WM. JAMES HUGHAN, Prov. Grand Secretary for Cornwall; P.M. Lodge of Fortitude, Truro; Cor. Mem. German Masonic Union; Hon. Mem. Mother Lodge Kilwinning, Scotland; Marquis Dalhousie Lodge, London; &c., &c., &c.

One of the most hopeful signs in connection with Freemasonry at the present day is the increase in the number of Masonic students whose researches are directed to the practical object of Freemasons, we have a right to consider it as a development of Masonic principles in a somewhat lower stratum of society—this we say without the least disparagement to Odd Fellowship or Forestry—simply recognising the distinction between a purely philanthropic order and a mutual benefit society. The following account of its emblems will give our readers an idea of the value of the Odd Fellows Association. We may premise by stating that the interpretation is given by an Odd Fellow, and coincidences will doubtless be noticed especially by Masons of the Christian degrees:—

Friendship, Love, and Truth.—The Hand and Heart: This is intended as an emblem of Friendship because it is supposed to exhibit that confidence which all Odd Fellows (especially those who have properly learned what our lectures seek to inculcate) should repose in each other, after taking upon themselves the solemn obligations at their initiation.

The Dove and the Olive Branch.—This emblem represents Love in our Order. The Dove itself is an emblem of innocence and harmlessness; and, with the Olive-branch in its mouth, it represents peace.

The Hour Glass.—This is an emblem of Truth, seemingly saying to the beholder, "This is all you can command." How much truth is contained in this consideration. Another stern reflection is "Time stays for no one." What a lesson to each of us. We conclude these reflections on the emblems of the first of these virtues with the following lines:—

Of all the blessings known below,
And few those blessings prove,
The greatest ones that mortals know
Are Friendship, Truth, and Love.
Those calm delights let those despise
Whose maxim is to rove.
Be ours the solid joys that rise
From Friendship, Truth, and Love.

The next three emblems are to be regarded as derived from a belief in the divine laws of the Creator, which can only be considered by comparison.

Faith, Hope, and Charity.—The Lamb and Cross: This emblem claims our chief notice as the emblem of Faith; and as our Order, in its Lectures, refers to the character of Jesus Christ, and instructs us "to cleave to Him who was of undoubted comeliness and efficacy." We make no apology for introducing the subject; thus it must be remarked, with a view to explain the connection with the emblem referred to, that the scripture says, "Behold the Lamb of God that taketh away the sins of the world." After Jesus had sojourned on earth, and exemplified in His walk and conduct in what true holiness of life consists. He submitted to death on the Cross, and then rose triumphant from the grave.

The Cross Keys.—This emblem represents the second pillar of our Order, which is Hope: This is one of the divine doctrines inculcated in Holy Writ; at the same time that it is one so much called into practice, that we are continually exercising it, though almost unknown to ourselves. Who is there amongst us without it? When we are in trouble of mind, body, or circumstances, Hope steps in to suggest a remedy for the evil; and we almost instinctively rely on the suggestion, and feel a certainty that the remedy (if it could be applied) would answer the proposed end. The Cross Keys are a representation of the stability and certainty of Hope teaching us to rest secure that the proposed end will surely be accomplished by the means we are using.

The Eye of Providence.—The emblem under the present consideration may be regarded as the illustration of the third pillar of the Order—Charity. This attribute, said to be the third in our Order, is, at the same time, declared to be the greatest of all in operation. It is to be regarded as an emblem of the omniscience of the Great Creator, whose eye is over all our works. When we perform our charities our motives should be pure and affectionate towards those whom we relieve; then can we inwardly exclaim, "Thou, Lord! seest me." The duties of charity were to relieve distress, soothe calamity, alleviate misfortune, compassionate misery, and restore peace. Having here brought the reflections on the three pillars of Truth to a close, let us hope that many more will be found to give their cordial support in upholding the honour of this mighty unity.

There are a great many other emblems we could mention connected with the Order, but want of space will not allow us to enumerate all, so we must conclude with the following:—

The Bee Hive.—We regard the emblem before us as an illustration of Justice. An old adage hath it, "Be just before being generous." This, applied to Odd Fellows, teaches us that, in the lodge every brother has a duty to perform. All may not be capable of carrying out certain duties; but every one is able to assist by counsel or advice, or by his presence in the performance of the multifarious duties that devolve on an Order such as ours is. In the community of Bees there is a class known as drones, who would willingly partake of the honey, but who take no trouble to collect for the general store. This shows us that none ought to participate in the settled benefit of our Order but those who contribute to its stock; for if there were no reward for the provident brothers above such as spend their time in idleness, and abuse the means they have, who would make proper provision for the casualties of life? There would be no inducement for the practice of the virtue of self-denial, if, on the mistaken ground of indiscriminate charity the profligate and the provident were to be relieved in the same manner in the hour of need. We are constantly hearing complaints from regular attendants at the Lodge that some brothers do not take the trouble to ask who does the duties from which they benefit. Let us call on such to imitate the Bee—to be useful; and thus doing they may, without fear, expect that justice will reward them. The man who seeks to avoid all trouble and responsibility can never expect to receive that sympathy from the Order which is bestowed on those who bear the burden and heat of the day in the broad fields of Odd Fellowship, and to fully carry out the principles laid down as our rule by the Order. We may realize somewhat of the feeling of the Poet who sang our praise in the following lines:—

Let gratitude in acts of goodness show
Our love to God, in love to man below.

DR. HERMANN ADLER ON THE PALESTINE EXPLORATION FUND.

The Rev. Dr. H. Adler recently, in the course of his sermon, referred to the Exhibition of the Palestine Exploration Fund at the Egyptian Hall, in terms of which the following is an abstract:—Multitudes of our brethren travel many hundreds of miles to visit the ruins of a mediæval castle that belonged to some lawless baron; but how small is the number of those who wend their way to the "Western Hall!" There is now in this metropolis an highly interesting, though small, exhibition of various objects in connection with the Holy Land. But I fear it has attracted but very few Jewish visitors. You will see in that collection some excellent models of the grand mountain city and the Holy Temple, and a representation of its siege by Titus, which will give you a better idea of their appearance than a host of laboured descriptions. Specimens of various fruits which grow in the Holy Land are to be seen there, notably the apples of the Dead Sea, on which the curse of Sodom seems still to rest. They are fair and attractive from without, but when placed in the mouth they explode and have a most nauseous taste. On the walls, photographic views of the principal localities, towns, hamlets, and buildings in Palestine are to be seen, many of which contribute materially in explaining passages of the Bible: for instance, a photograph of the grand amphitheatre, formed by the recess on either side of the valley of Mount Ebal (in which there is little doubt the reading of the Law describes in Joshua [viii. 30, 35] took place), and which clearly shows how one half of the people might have stood over against Ebal, and half of them over Mount Gerizim, and the voice of the reader be heard by the whole multitude.

The most interesting views, however, are those of some portions of subterranean Jerusalem which have been brought to light by the exertions of the Society for the Exploration of Palestine. It was always known that the modern city stands on a heap of ruins; but nought was ever ascertained until the present day either of the depth of those ruins or of the secrets they entombed. It has been discovered that there are buildings at a depth of 90 feet below the surface—chambers, vaults, aqueducts, and subterranean passages, which ran beneath the city. Nay, even the ancient massive walls and foundations of Solomon's Temple have been disclosed. On these huge stones, Phœnician marks have been deciphered which were no doubt engraved by the stonemasons whom Hiram, king of Tyre, sent to his ally, Solomon. Various objects, principally pottery, glass and carvings, have been found in the shafts which were dug in localities familiar to every reader of the Bible; Ophel, the Mount of Olives, Jericho, the cave of Adullam, &c. Among these may be mentioned, for example, the so-called Lachrymatories or tear-bottles, that were used to collect tears wept in seasons of sorrow and which are alluded to in the Bible (Ps. 56, v. 9.) "Thou puttest my tears into Thy bottle; are they not in Thy book?" One may also see there various trinkets, chains, bracelets, nose rings, and ornaments for the feet, which will bring vividly before the mind the denunciation contained in the 3rd chap. of Isaiah against the luxurious vanities of the women of Jerusalem.

Among the objects there exhibited are various ancient coins, weights inscribed with the Phœnician mark, and a seal bearing the name, "Haggai, the son of Shebania." It cannot be asserted with any degree of certainty that this was the signet ring of Haggai the prophet, but at all events the relic is very ancient, and, to judge from its characters, cannot date from a later period than that of the Macabees. Altogether the collection, however meagre, well deserves a visit, and the work of the Palestine

Exploration Fund is one that merits our support, especially as its managers have, as is understood on good authority, pledged themselves, that in the pursuit of their investigations, they will not disturb our sacred burial places.

RED CROSS OF ROME & CONSTANTINE. PLANTAGENET CONCLAVE, No. 2.

An assembly of this Conclave was held at the Terminus Hotel, Cannon-street, on Wednesday, the 26th instant. V.E. Sir Knight Thomas Wescombe, G.S.B., in the chair, as M.P.S., supported by E. Sir Knight D. G. Berri, Viceroy E.; Sir Knight D. R. Still, S.G.; V. Ill. Sir Knight J. G. Marsh, G. Recorder; Sir Knights Henry Smith and George Payne.

The M.P.S. having opened the Conclave in imperial form, the minutes of the last assembly were read and confirmed. Sir Knight J. G. Marsh then occupied the chair of Constantine, and Bro. W. A. Wexford being present (having been approved and elected by ballot at the last assembly) was duly installed, according to ancient custom, a Knight of this Chivalric and Illustrious Order.

The Conclave was honoured with the presence of the following distinguished Sir Knights, viz., V. Ill. Sir Knight W. H. Hubbard, Grand Treasurer, member of the Premier Conclave; also V.E. Sir Knights Raynham W. Stewart, G. A. Herald, and Robert Kenyon, of the St. Andrew's Conclave, which will be shortly inaugurated, and will, we have no doubt, from the high position and respectability of members who have already enrolled their names as Companions in Arms, be a very important and valuable addition to the roll of the Order.

The Conclave having been closed the Companions adjourned to refreshment, under the presidency of Sir Knight T. Wescombe, the M.P.S., and separated at an early hour after having spent an agreeable evening.

The Conclave was not numerously attended owing to many of the Companions on the roll being out of town.

ROYAL ORDER OF SCOTLAND.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE FOR WESTERN DISTRICTS.

On Thursday, the 9th inst., the postponed quarterly communication of the Provincial Grand Chapter and Lodge of the Royal Order of Scotland, for the counties of Lanark, Renfrew, and Dumfries was held in the Masonic Hall, 213, Buchanan-street, Glasgow, at 4.30 p.m. Among those present were Knights Companions F. A. Barrow, R.W.P.G.S.W.; D. Sutherland, R.W.P.G.S.W.; G. L. Brodie, R.W.P.G.J.W.; J. D. Porteous, R.W.P.G. Sec.; Wm. Alexander, acting R.W.P.G. Sword-Bearer; A. B. Dick, acting R.W.P.G. Banner-Bearer; J. M. Allan, acting R.W.P.G. Examiner and Introducer.

An application for advancement and promotion of Bro. J. H. Lloyd, of Dublin, M.M. of 9 Lodge, and Companion of R.A. Chapter, "Royal Albert," 100, Ireland; Knt. of R.A. Chapter, 666, Ireland; Chev. Rose Croix, Paris; and Chev. K.D.S. 30° of France, &c., &c., was read and balloted for. The ballot being clear Bro. Lloyd was duly advanced to the degree of H.R.M., and subsequently promoted to the high honour of Knighthood of the R.S.Y.C.S. After some routine business being transacted, the P.G. Lodge was closed in simple form, and the Knt. Comps. retired to the ante-room, when upon the invitation of the R.W.P.G.M., Knt. Comp. Barrow, they sat down to a very recherché little entertainment, consisting of cake, wine and fruit. The usual toasts, amongst others that of "Our Hereditary Grand Master, H.R.H. the Prince of Wales," being duly honoured, the proceedings were brought to a close at 8 p.m.

LIGHT.—Light is a symbol of knowledge. May every Mason strive incessantly for light, and especially for the light eternal.

PROBITY.—When once a neglect of religion and a corruption of manners become general, they have a natural tendency to dissolve and enervate a nation, and to extinguish true public spirit and manly fortitude. Nor have any people long maintained their liberties, after having lost their probity and virtue.

BROTHER JOSEPH DOLFI, The Baker of Florence.

On this side of the Alps we are well acquainted with the rough representative of the Transiberine element of Rome, Brunetti (called Ciceruacchio), but the nobler figure of Bro. Joseph Dolfi has generally remained unknown.

Bro. Joseph Dolfi has died recently; his funeral was conducted with great ceremony by Freemasons; we purpose, therefore, to give a few outlines of his life.

Dolfi was simply a baker in the Borgo San Lorenzo, near the cathedral of Florence. His bread was excellent and, what is a rarity in Italy, well salted; he sat the whole day in his little shop, where hundreds of persons came daily for bread and advice. In the year 1853, the buon governo—or, as we should say, the police—came to search his house, but found nothing except—flour. In 1855, they succeeded, however, in confiscating a trough, the form of which showed unmistakable signs of high treason, and Dolfi was committed to prison for two months. Having now become suspected he was again, in 1857, sent to prison for three months, when the people of Leghorn had openly shown their sympathy for the fate of Pisacane. This moderate martyrdom made him very popular, so that when, in 1859, the programme "Italy free as far as the Adriatic!" was published, Dolfi was at once elected a member of the High Council of Florence. He immediately gathered on the Piazza 12,000 men, and made known to the Grand Duke that as he stood in the way of the unity of Italy, he had better take his departure. In vain did the latter offer liberty of the press, a Constitution, and everything else. Every offer of his was invariably answered by, "Fuora il Granduca." At last the Grand Ducal carriages made their appearance, and His Royal Highness departed.

"A rivederci" (to meet again), said he.

"Non s'incomodi" (don't trouble yourself), was Dolfi's reply.

When the news of the peace of Villafranca roused all Florence into fermentation, Dolfi was one of the few who did not lose courage, although the town was totally denuded of troops and there were only 400 rifles in the arsenal. With these Dolfi armed 400 men, undertaking to preserve order in Florence, and he succeeded so well that the peace of the city was never disturbed. Dolfi's 400 served as a nucleus upon which the Florentine National Guard was formed. In the midst of this excitement, Dolfi was by no means forgetful of his own affairs; on the contrary, he attracted many buyers by a gigantic doll, made of dough, representing Italy brandishing her sword and trampling under her feet the palm of peace.

Victor Emmanuel, on his entry into Florence, recompensed so much civic virtue and distinguished services with the knightly Order of St. Mauritius. On this becoming known, there was great rejoicing and astonishment in the city. Dolfi, however, hastened to the Pitti Palace, and was granted an audience.

"Ah! your Majesty, why did you do that to me?"

The King replied that it was a recompense for distinguished services, civic virtues, &c., and that he had no other means of testifying his appreciation.

Dolfi, however, replied, "Sire, this decoration undermines my influence with the people, and renders me ridiculous. I beseech your Majesty to take it back."

The King, evidently of opinion that Dolfi was not altogether wrong, said, "In your place, perhaps, I might have acted in the same manner."

"Then why did your Majesty give me the decoration?"

The King would not give a direct reply to this, but simply asked Dolfi whether there was anything more he could do for him.

"No," was the reply; "but stay—yes, make Italy one!"

During the time that Dolfi was at the palace, his friends, who could have been counted by hundreds, were flocking to his house, knocking at the door, and boisterously demanding admittance. His wife put her head out of an upper window, whereupon she was greeted with repeated shouts of "We must speak to Cavaliere Dolfi!" but the wife, not at all pleased with such an uproar, and disliking such a display, called loudly to them, "What do you want? Here lives a baker, but no Cavaliere. You had better make haste to leave, for otherwise you may get something on your heads!"

On Garibaldi landing in Sicily, Dolfi collected in his shop 162,000 francs, which he forwarded to the Dictator.

The funeral of Brother Dolfi was the first which took place without the assistance of the clergy. Immediately after the coffin was carried the banner of the Freemasons, followed by the banners of sixty democratic associations. In vain did the owners of the cemetery, in which the Franciscans had been in habit of performing the funeral services, make a protest to the Government; public opinion had expressed itself too strongly on the subject, and the protest remained unheeded. So far the "Magonnick Weekblad."

The "Monde Maçonnique," in its necrological part, gives the following respecting Dolfi's funeral: "Italy has just lost a great citizen, and Freemasonry one of its most illustrious members, viz., Joseph Dolfi, 33", member of the Supreme Council and the Great Orient of Italy, Grand Master of the Working Men's Associations, and a baker in Florence. The interment was purely civil. More than 6000 persons accompanied the hearse. On the coffin, which was covered with red velvet, was deposited the white sash of the 33°. The corners of the pall were held by Guerazzi and Mazzoni, ex-Triumvirs of Florence; Frapoli, Grand Master of Italian Masonry; the Director of the Bank of the People, and the Secretary-General of the Working Men's Associations. The Masonic banner was borne immediately after the hearse, and followed by over 500 Masons, all bearing acacia branches. Among these were remarked the Minister Mordini, the brethren Macchi and George Tamajo, members of the Supreme Council; several Generals and Senators, a large number of Deputies, and finally 80 ladies, wives of Freemasons, dressed in black. After the Masonic procession came the working men's societies, followed by a considerable number of the inhabitants. The whole city of Florence had gone out to see the funeral procession. The streets, squares, houses, and roofs, were filled with people."

"I have seen the obsequies of Cavour at Turin," writes to us our friend Frapoli, "but they were far from representing that unanimous, cordial, and spontaneous concourse of the whole population as witnessed on this occasion. Notwithstanding the great distance from the deceased's residence to the burial-place, the most perfect order was everywhere strictly observed."

The death of Bro. Dolfi has been cause for general mourning. Bills spontaneously appeared on the walls of the city announcing that all the theatres would be closed for that evening. Thus the Masonic banner has triumphantly traversed the City of the Medici; the ashes of Savonarola and the victims of so many kinds of intolerance have at last been avenged.

INELIGIBILITY OF BASTARDS AND THE MAIMED AS FREEMASONS.

By CIPES.

(Continued from page 125.)

In the Grand Lodge of Mississippi, in 1845, and in the Grand Lodge of North Carolina, in 1849, Bro. Giles Yates, Chairman of a Special Committee of the Grand Lodge of New York, said:—

"Freemasonry, in its original institution, was not formed by an association of men exclusively for the prosecution of physical labours. It has always been speculative and moral. The secret societies of antiquity, from which we can trace a lineal descent, were not devoted exclusively to the physical labours attendant on the erection of buildings, whether of wood or stone. They were the depositories of other arts and sciences besides architecture. They, moreover, taught sublime truths, and duties towards God, and regarding the world to come, as well as towards our neighbours and the 'brothers of the mystic tie.' Our ancient brethren were, in effect, more eminently speculative or spiritual than operative or practical masons. Those take too contracted a view of the subject who infer that, because in the sixteenth century and previous, the York architects in England were the almost exclusive conservatories of certain essentials in our mysteries, therefore the reason of the law in question had reference in olden times to operative masons only. The rationale of the law excluding persons physically imperfect and deformed, lies deeper, and is more ancient than the source ascribed to it. It is grounded upon a principle recognized in the earliest ages of the world, and will be found identical with that which obtained among the ancient Jews."

Bro. W. S. Rockwell, in an able report, presented in 1852 to the Grand Lodge of Georgia, decides in the same manner. He traces the law to remote antiquity, to the Egyptian and Mosaic rites, exhibits its symbolic meaning, and thus concludes:—

"The symbolic relation of each member of the Order to its mystic temple, forbids the idea that its constituent portions, its living stones, should be less perfect or less a type of their great original than the inanimate material which formed the earthly dwelling-place of the God of their adoration. We, the successors of those who received their initiatory rites at the hands of Moses and Solomon, received also, with this inestimable inheritance, the same symbols, and with the same expressive signification. Enough has been said to show at how remote a period in the history of Masonry this important Landmark was erected. Can man, in his short-sighted notions of convenience, vary its meaning? Can a Freemason, the solemnly-installed Master of a Lodge of his brethren and equals, consistent with the obligations he has voluntarily imposed upon himself, remove it from its place?"

The Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania, in 1783, in its Book of Constitutions, or "Ahiman Rezon," required that candidates should be "hale and sound, not deformed or dismembered at the time of their making." The same words are used in the "Ahiman Rezon" of North Carolina and Tennessee, published in 1805. The "Ahiman Rezon" of South Carolina, published in 1807, requires that "Every person desiring admission must be upright in body, not deformed or dismembered at the time of making, but of hale and entire limbs, as a man ought to be."

The Grand Lodge of Missouri, in 1823, unanimously adopted the report of a committee, requiring as a physical qualification of the candidates for initiation, that they should be "sound in mind and all their members;" and at the same time a resolution was passed, that the Grand Lodge cannot grant a letter of dispensation to a subordinate lodge working under its jurisdiction, to initiate any person maimed, disabled, or wanting the qualifications established by the Landmarks and ancient usage.

The Grand Lodge of Georgia's Committee of Correspondence, in 1848, says:—

"The conviction has been forced upon the minds, even against our wills, that we depart from the ancient Landmarks and the usages of Freemasonry whenever we admit an individual wanting in any of the human senses, or who is in any particular maimed or deformed."

The Grand-Master of the Grand Lodge of Indiana, in 1846, cautioning his brethren against laxity as to the requirement of physical and other qualifications, said:—

"Let not any one who has not all the qualifications required by our Constitutions and Regulations be admitted. See that they are perfect men in body and mind."

The Grand Lodge of Maryland, in 1848, adopted a resolution requiring its subordinates, in the initiation of candidates,

"To adhere to the ancient law, as laid down in our printed books, which says he shall be of entire limbs."

The Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of New Jersey, in his address in 1849, stated that he had rejected applications for admission of maimed candidates, deeming it necessary to maintain the ancient landmarks.

The Grand Lodge of Florida, after correspondence with other Grand Lodges, adopted the law prohibiting maimed or deformed persons from becoming members of the Masonic fraternity.

The Grand Lodge of Virginia was this year (1869) addressed by their Grand Master, who clearly and distinctly pointed out that bastards and maimed individuals could and ought not to be initiated, and pointed out the law prohibiting them.

The notice of the initiation of the bastard or the maimed in other Grand Lodges resulted in the recognition, or we should rather say the confirmation, of the ancient landmark, and has led the lodges of these countries to put an end to any laxity which might creep in. Freemasons have acknowledged the necessity and duty of maintaining the ancient principles of their Order, and by consideration of these principles have been brought to perceive more clearly than before their excellence and the value of the reasons upon which they are founded. The ancient rule has, however, been well maintained, and the tendency to laxity now effectually checked.

It is quite clear, therefore, that the Freemasons under the jurisdiction of the various Grand Lodges mentioned are unanimous in maintaining the ancient landmark, and insisting that candidates for admission shall be free of all known imperfections in body and mind.

The notion that Masonry was at first an association of mere operatives, and that speculative masonry is of comparatively recent growth, is one which cannot be reasonably maintained. It is an absolute contradiction to the well-established opinion as to the origin and history of our Order. The Freemasons who built the glorious cathedrals and abbeys of Europe, those who built the Abbeys of Melrose, Kelso, Jedburgh, and Aberbrothwick, and the Cathedral of Glasgow in the twelfth century, were certainly not mere operatives.

It may be mentioned that the question of physical qualifications was, not many years ago, practically applied in Edinburgh to the detection of an impostor, who having acquired some knowledge of Freemasonry, received pecuniary supplies from a number of Freemasons, but happening to call on one of the shrewder members of the craft, was detected in consequence of his using the left hand when he ought to have used the right. Instead of obtaining the money which he wished, he was carried to the Police Court, and sentenced to thirty days' imprisonment.

This at once shows the advantage of having only one settled way of communicating the secrets of Freemasonry.

Lastly, it is written, "the Candidate shall also solemnly promise to submit to the Constitutions, the Charges, and Regulations," so that any member of the order to alter them, without sanction of a Supreme Body, would be guilty of a violation of his duty as a Freemason.

(To be continued.)

GERMANY.—The Eclectic Lodge "a zur Bruderkette" (the Masonic Chair) excluded last year four members, for the simple reason of their having proved by their indifference unfit subjects for Freemasonry.

Reports of Masonic Meetings.

THE CRAFT.

METROPOLITAN.

Capper Lodge, No. 1076.—This truly hard-working Lodge held its first meeting for the season on Thursday last week, at the Marine Hotel, Victoria Docks, presided over by the W.M. Bro. Watkins. After the minutes of the former meeting were read and confirmed, a ballot was taken for three gentlemen for initiation, who were properly prepared, introduced, and duly received into Freemasonry. Bros. Alice and Jones were duly passed to the degree of F.C. Masons. Bros. Gann, Sheldon, Parker, Gilbert, Harris, and Harcourt, severally received the sublime degree of M. Masons in a very impressive manner. The lodge was then closed in each degree, and adjourned until the second Thursday in October next.

Southern Star Lodge, No. 1153.—An emergency meeting of this young and most prosperous lodge was held at the Montpelier Tavern, Walworth, (Bro. Allat's). Bro. R. E. Clarke, W.M., opened the lodge and presided. He in an excellent manner, which drew forth encomiums of praise from some of the old Masons who were visitors, did the initiations and passings. Bro. T. H. Pulsford, P.M. and indefatigable Secretary, in his usual superior manner did the raisings, and, as is usual with him, gave the traditional history and the third tracing-board. Bro. H. Thompson, the senior P.M., then read a paper on the death of the esteemed, respected, and deeply-lamented Bro. Horne, who had died since the last meeting, and for whom the lodge was in mourning. This paper certainly was an admirably composed one, and reflected great credit upon the composer, who had a difficult and painful subject to dwell on, but he certainly did it great justice and deserved the praise that was given him. The work done was initiating Messrs. Walter Joyce (Strand Theatre), Becks, Wright, and Walter, into Freemasonry; passing Bros. Davis, Mansell, and Moniton to the second degree; and raising Bros. Gibbs, Warne, and Alderson. A good cold collation followed, and the usual loyal toasts were duly given and received. Visitors, F. Walters, P.M. 73, W.M. 871; G. Word, 145; H. Massey, P.M. 619; T. Bird 177; J. Cole, P.M. 12; W. Bembridge, 757; R. Martins, 619; and others. At the banquet, or rather at its close, Bro. J. A. Taylor subscribed Ten Guineas to the Boys' School, in the name of the Secretary for the time being of the Southern Star Lodge, No. 1153.

Perfect Ashlar Lodge, No. 1178.—The election meeting of this prosperous lodge was held at the Grosvenor Arms Tavern, 96, Jamaica-road, Bermondsey, on Thursday, September 2nd. Punctually at six o'clock p.m., the Worshipful Master, Bro. F. H. Ebsworth, opened the lodge. The minutes of the last meeting were read and unanimously confirmed. Apologies were received from the four candidates for passing, excusing and regretting their absence, which was caused by circumstances entirely beyond their own control. The bye-laws of the lodge were then read. Bros. James William Avery, S.W., P.M. and Treasurer of 619, Beadon Lodge, was unanimously elected as the third W.M.; D. Dixon, P.M., 73 and 871, was for the third time unanimously elected Treasurer; W. Y. Laing, P.M., 45, by a show of hands, was for the third time re-elected as the Tyler; F. Walters, P.M. and Secretary, agreeably to his notice of motion and which had appeared on all the lodge summonses that were issued, proposed that a five guinea gold Past Master's Jewel be given to F. H. Ebsworth, W.M., as a mark of respect and gratitude for his efficient services rendered to the lodge as the W.M., which was duly seconded and carried nem. con.; one candidate for initiation was proposed for the next meeting. The lodge was then closed. Present, F. H. Ebsworth, W.M.; J. W. Avery, P.M., S.W.; Dr. Dixon, P.M., Treasurer; F. Walters, P.M., Secretary; H. Bartlett, S.D.; D. Rose, J.D.; G. J. Grace, I.G.; J. W. Dudley, D.C.; J. H. Harmsworth, J. A. Axtell, G. Free, G. Drapper, P. Fry, J. Joseph, S. Butcher, L. Ashton, J. H. Fudge, T. W. Cox, J. A. Smith, and others. Visitors, Bros. W. Saville, 15; H. Keeble, 73, S.D. 1275; H. Massey, P.M., 619.

Macdonald Lodge, No. 1216.—This lodge met on Wednesday, the 8th inst., at the lodge-room, Headquarters 1st Surrey Rifles at Camberwell, and was well attended. In the absence of the W.M. Bro. Major Irvine, who was unable to be present until a late period of the evening, the chair of K.S. was occupied by the Senior Warden, Bro. James Stevens, P.M.; Bro. Hammerton acting as S.W.; G. Waterall, J.W.; S. H. Wagstaffe, S.D.; H. Puckle, J.D.; and Latham, I.G. There were also present during the evening Bro. Major Irvine; J. J. Curtis, Secy.; E. Cronin, Treas.; Dr. Henry Blanc, Capt. Norman Shairp, S. Rosenthal, J. B. Pike, W. A. Willis, J. E. Newton, and other members; and Bros. E. Worthington, P.M. 507, Abel Perrot, S.W. 507, and W. Zernecke of Italy, visiting brethren. The lodge having been opened by the acting W.M., Bros. Pike and Shairp were passed to the degree of Fellow Craft, and Bro. Stevens then delivered the second lecture in that degree, and with the assistance of Bro. Worthington worked the whole of the remaining lectures appertaining to Fellow Crafts, to the satisfaction of all present and especially to the edification of the newly-passed brethren. On the proposition of Bro. Rosenthal the thanks of the lodge to Bros. Stevens and Worthington for the instruction afforded by them, was ordered to be recorded on the minutes. On the proposition of the same brother, a recommendation of a distressed brother to the favourable consideration of the Board of Benevolence was unanimously agreed to. The votes of the lodge for the coming election of boys to the Royal Masonic Institution were solicited by the acting W.M. on behalf of Robert Bryant, No. 26 on the list of candidates, and the proxy paper having been signed by the W.M., who was then present, was handed to Bro. Stevens who also received individual promises of support, for this truly deserving case. The lodge was then closed and the brethren adjourned to refreshment, and after a short period of social entertainment separated, much pleased with the proceedings of the evening.

PROVINCIAL.

EAST SURREY.—Lodge of Concord, No. 463.—The first meeting of this lodge, after the summer vacation, was held at the Greyhound Hotel, Croydon, on Thursday, the 2nd September. The W.M., Bro. William Roebuck, Prov. G.S.B. for Surrey, was supported by Bro. Prince, S.W.; &c. Visitors, Bros. Raynham, Stewart, Lee, Laurie, and Williamson. The lodge was opened in due form, and Bros. Hunt, Haynes, Godson, Potter, and Ebbert were passed, and Bros. Norra and Padmore raised; the ceremonies being performed by the W.M. in a very satisfactory manner. The brethren afterwards adjourned to the banquet-room, where an elegant repast was prepared by Bro. Budden, and the usual loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to. The W.M. presided, and was supported by P. M. Price, Close, Woodward, &c., and a very pleasant evening was spent. We are informed that the W.M. will represent the Lodge as Steward at the next Festival of the Boys' School, and will no doubt be well supported by the brethren.

ESSEX.—Star in the East Lodge, No. 650.—The brethren of this lodge held their annual meeting at the Pier Hotel, Harwich, on Monday, the 13th inst., under the presidency of Bro. South, the W.M. The brethren assembled to the number of twenty-two, at 4 p.m. After the confirmation of the minutes and a ballot taken for two joining members, the W.M. intimated that his time of office having expired he would request Bro. Townsend, P.P.S.G.W. Suffolk, to instal into the chair of K.S. his worthy brother and successor, Bro. Robert Dickson, whom they had by their unanimous vote chosen to preside over them for the ensuing twelve months. Bro. Dickson was then duly installed, proclaimed, and saluted. He then appointed and invested the following officers:—Bros. Tovell, S.W.; P.M. Ward, J.W.; Walford, Treas.; Brooks, Sec.; P.M. Durrant, M. of C.; Clements, I.G. The appointment of the Deacons was deferred. Previous to the installation, the Installing Master passed Bro. May to the degree of F.C. During the evening Bro. P.M. South, in a neat speech, presented a handsome P.M.'s jewel to P.M. Wymark, P.G.D. Essex, the late Sec., as a mark of the esteem in which he was held by his lodge. Bro. Wymark suitably returned thanks. The lodge having been closed in ancient form, the brethren retired to a beautiful banquet, provided by Bro. Brice of the Pier Hotel. Amongst the visitors were Bros. Westgate and Cuckow, of the Prince of Wales Lodge, Ipswich, and several others.

CARDIFF.—Bute Lodge, No. 960.—At the regular meeting of this lodge, on Tuesday evening, an official visit was paid by the Provincial Grand Master, Bro. Theodore Manael Talbot, who was accompanied by his Deputy Bro. E. J. Morris, Bro. R. F. Langley, Bro. Thomas Hodoe, P.P.G.S.W., and numerous other officers of Prov. G.L. past and present. The W.M. Bro. Wm. Willans, and supported by his past Masters, Bros. Martin, John Willans, Bell, and Bird; F. Ware, S.W.; Jas. Harman, J.W., and about 40 other members of the lodge, which, although the youngest, is about the most numerous and best worked lodge in the province. Mr. H. L. Ward was initiated into the Order, and Bros. J. L. C. Ward and T. Beddoes passed to the second degree, both ceremonies being performed in a manner which elicited the warmest eulogiums of the Prov. G. Master. A sum of five guineas was voted, upon the motion of Bros. John Willans, P.M., and W. H. Martin, P.M. and Treasurer to the relief of the widow of a late member of the lodge. After the proposition of two candidates for initiation at the next meeting, and other routine business, the lodge was closed, and the brothers, to the number of about 50, adjourned to the Windsor Hotel, where an "impromptu" supper had been provided by Bro. Marks, the only drawback to the enjoyment of which was the lateness of the hour to which the proceedings were protracted.

COCKERMOUTH.—Skiddaw Lodge, No. 1002.—The regular monthly of this flourishing lodge was held at the Masonic Temple, on Tuesday evening last. The W.M. Bro. Richard Robinson was supported by Bros. Thos. F. Taylor, S.W.; Jos. Mayson, J.W.; W. Shilton, I.P.M.; H. F. Faithfull, P.M. Past Prov. J.G. Warden; John Pearson, Prov. S.G. Deacon, Treas.; Rev. W. Williams, Hon. Sec.; Isaac Evening, as I.G.; Jos. Thwaites, Robt. Brown, Chris. Mayson, Jos. Lewthwaite, Jos. Allinson, W. Potts, Tyler, visitor Bro. John Bowes, P.M. P.Z. Past Prov. G. Reg. The lodge was opened in form, with solemn prayer according to ancient custom, when the minutes of the previous regular meeting and Lodge of Emergency were read and declared to be correctly recorded. The W.M. now requested Bro. Bowes to occupy the chair of K.S., when Bro. Jos. Allinson was passed to the degree of F.C. Bro. Lewthwaite was raised to the sublime degree of M.M. Both ceremonies had the advantage of the able deaconate of the W.M. Bro. R. Robinson, which was marked by accuracy and precision, as was the working of all the officers, indeed it would be difficult to find a Provincial Lodge where greater zeal is manifested in the Mystic Art. The chair of K.S. was again assumed by the W.M., and a cordial vote of thanks was passed to Bro. Bowes for his acceptable assistance during the evening, which that brother gratefully acknowledged. Some routine business having been transacted and nothing further being brought before the lodge it was closed with the usual solemnities. We must not close our report without a word of hearty commendation in reference to the lodge-room. The painting, decorations, fittings and furniture, are at once accurate and chaste, and reflect the highest credit on Bro. Faithfull, at whose cost and under whose superintendence the work was done. Bro. W. Taylor, a member of the lodge, executed the painting and decorating.

THE ROYAL ARCH.

METROPOLITAN.

Beadon Chapter, No. 619.—On Thursday, September 11th, at the Greyhound Hotel, Dulwich, the first anniversary of this chapter was held. The convocation was opened by Companions A. Avery, M.E.Z.; A. P. Leonard, H.; J. W. Avery, T.; and many others were present. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. Ballots were unanimous in favor of all the candidates being admitted. Bros. Rev. J. R. Macnab, Ayr, 165, S. Wells, 619, W. Tavenor, 619, and R. Dean, 1076, being in attendance, were in an admirable manner exalted to this sublime degree. The elections were then proceeded with, and the ballot in every case was unanimous with these results:—A. P. Leonard, Z.; J. W. Avery, H.; and H. Massey, J. The installations followed immediately. Companion A. Avery, P.Z., was elected Treasurer; F. Walters, P.Z., re-elected S.E.; C. A. Potter, S.N.; G. A. Smith re-elected P.S.; W. H. Green, 1st Asst.; Saul Wells, 2nd Asst.; F. Deering, re-appointed Reg.; J. McKiernan, S.B.; R. H. Williams, D.C.; E. Kimber, Organist; W. Y. Laing, Janitor; re-elected. Companion R. W. Little, P.Z., a member of this chapter, in his usual superior, faultless, impressive, and correct manner, rendered the ceremonies of installations to the admiration of all present. Several principals who work these ceremonies warmly congratulated him on his superior and excellent working. Companion A. Avery, as M.E.Z., rendered his work very well indeed. He was rewarded with a handsome P.Z.'s Jewel of the value of Five Guineas, which, with the handsome one presented to him by the members of his Mother Chapter, the Mount Lebanon, No. 73, on last April, now makes the second Past Z.'s Jewel he has received in less than six months, an honor which but few can boast of, and no one in the Royal Arch is more worthy of it. He is for the second time within ten years the W.M. of his mother lodge, the "Beadon," and when not in the chair is unanimously elected year after year as the Treasurer. The P.Z.'s Jewel was given at the banquet which followed the work of the chapter. Besides those already named, there were present Companions J. W. Halsey, P.Z.; R. Watts, P.Z., and amongst the visitors we noticed W. Ough, G.P., P.Z. 749; Hyde Pullen, P.D.G.M., Isle of Wight; James Stevens, P.Z., 720; T. Middleton, 11; A. J. Goodall from New York; and others whose names we were unable to ascertain.

Strawberry Hill Chapter No. 946.—The regular convocation of this chapter, took place on the 8th inst., at the Grotto Hotel, Twickenham. The M.E.Z. Comp. H. J. Codner, in the chair, supported by Comps. W. Smeed (H), J. Faithfull, (J.) The minutes of the former Chapter were read and confirmed. Bro. H. J. Smith, P.M. 946, was then exalted by the M.E.Z. in a very excellent manner, every officer in the chapter being perfect in the working. This being the night of installation, Comp. W. Smeed was installed by Comp. Watson in his usual excellent manner. The M.E.Z. then invested his officers as follows: Stedwell, (H); McIlwham, (J); W. Platt, scribe (E); Motion: (N); Wundsland, P. Soj.; Thompson, 1st Assis-Soj.; H. J. Smith 2nd Assis Soj. The newly installed M.E.Z. then presented Comp. Codner, I.P.Z., in the name of the chapter, with a very elegant P.Z.'s jewel, with an appropriate inscription, for the able manner he conducted the duties of the chapter during the past year. The chapter was then closed in due form, with solemn prayer. The companions then sat down to a very sumptuous banquet. The usual toasts were given and responded to. Comp. Watson, P.Z. proposed the toast of "The newly installed M.E.Z., Comp. Smeed," and in the course of his speech dwelt on the excellent working qualities of that working companion. Comp. Smeed returned thanks in suitable terms. He then stated he had a pleasing duty to perform namely, that of presenting Comp. Codner, I.P.Z., with a splendid testimonial on vellum, by private subscription of the companions. Comp. Codner in a most appropriate manner returned thanks. Several toasts followed. The visitors were Comps. States, P.Z.; Terry, P.Z.; Cook, P.Z.; Sedgwick, P.Z.; Harnett, &c. Some very good harmony was rendered by the companions, and a most delightful evening was spent.

PAPERS ON MASONRY.

BY A LEWIS.

XXIV.—MASONRY AND TWO-PENNY TRASH.

Here is the cap your worship did bespeak.

Pet. Why, this was moulded on a porringer:

A velvet dish; fye, fye, 'tis lewd and filthy.

SHAKSPEARE (Taming of the Shrew, act iv., sc. 3).

"Good master, what shall I do that I may inherit eternal life?" Mark, x. 17.

I was passing through a certain street in London, when my eye rested on a shop-window. I went in, and purchased the last new "exposure" of Freemasonry. I did not wince, nor were my withers unstrung. But I did laugh, and so will my Masonic friends with me, at a very cheap rate. "Two-pence more, and the acceleration of the assuine quadrupled will be amazing." I thought when I entered upon the perusal of the following astounding Revelation; if all the fools that ever disgraced themselves, could have resorted to such a pitiful means of revenge against the excellent Fraternity of Charity, could have stultified themselves more, I would have forgiven them! But unfortunately the hands of non possumus, the noble organs of the effete Roman Catholics are so paralytic, that they have now put forth some "two-penny trash" worthy to be preserved like flies in amber. So mote it be!

The tiara is exchanged for a fool's cap—moulded on a porringer—becoming a velvet dish; and, like Peter Dens, 'tis lewd and filthy. After this I may well inquire what I shall do to inherit eternal life?

Monseigneur de Segur, a mistaken man, writes words he will ever regret. Were he not a Roman Catholic he might fitly woo and wed, with a dispensation from the Holy Father, or without, his proper mate, Mrs. Harriett Beecher Stowe, for he is plainly akin to Her Filthiness. I am not a reviewer—but as I am in earnest, and do not want to waste more money in such a cause—I shall cut up his pamphlet to save time.

He says:—

"A formidable propaganda, increasing from day to day and covering as with an immense network not only Europe but the whole world, renders watchfulness and effort more and more necessary. There are eight millions of Freemasons, according to their last reports, and about five thousand lodges, without reckoning the secret lodges. In France, the number of Freemasons already exceeds sixteen hundred thousand. Names generally express things; but in this matter it is just the reverse: Freemasons are not free, nor are they masons. That they are not masons there is no need to prove, and it is no less clear that they are not free, since their society is dependent on secrets and mysterious initiations which they may not reveal to any one, under pain of death. Before the 'Profane' they assume the appearance of being simply a bacchanalian and philanthropic society—eating, drinking, singing, and doing good: we shall see whether there is anything underneath.

"The fantastical name of Freemasons comes, it appears, from Scotland. After Pope Clement V. and Philip the Fair, king of France, had very justly abolished the Order of Templars, early in the fourteenth century, many of those infamous men fled into Scotland, and there formed themselves into a secret society, vowing implacable hatred and eternal vengeance against the papacy and against royalty. For the better concealment of their plots, they affiliated themselves to corporations of masons, and, at a later period spread themselves over Europe. Their definite organization appears to date from the beginning of the 15th century. In order to throw dust in the eyes of the multitude, they pretended to trace back their descent as far as Solomon's Temple, the Flood, nay, the Garden of Eden. What, then, is Freemasonry? How do people become Freemasons? What takes place in these lodges? Are there secret lodges behind them? and, if so, what is done there? Is Freemasonry a praiseworthy, moral, religious, or even beneficent institution? Is it not, rather, essentially anti-Christian? Is it powerful and active? What are its objects? Is it allowable to enrol oneself under its mysterious banner? We will briefly answer these grave questions; but, first of all, let us lay down an important distinction, viz., that there are two kinds of Freemasons. There is Freemasonry which is more or less seen, and Freemasonry which is not seen at all, and the two together make one. 'Masonry is one; it has but one starting point,' said Bro. Ragon, one of the most accredited organs of the sect. To the first belongs an immense majority of Freemasons. Out of eight millions adepts, 'there are not much more than five hundred thousand active members,' is the formal confession made by Le Monde Maconique newspaper, August, 1866. These five hundred thousand are the Masons on active service—the picked Masons; but still they are not the Masons of the secret lodges, who know what they are doing, who deliberately wish to destroy Christianity and society, and who under different names, compose what is called the secret societies. The eight millions initiated in external Masonry, are, nearly all of them, tools, that know not, the greater part of their time, whither they are being led. They are made use of as a depôt to pick out recruits from, as trumpets to publish the praises of Masonry, develop its resources, and gain sympathy—and money. Behind this multitude who enjoy themselves and talk about morality, the real Masons conceal all their plots. 'The essential point to be observed,' wrote one of the secret chiefs, surnamed 'the little Tiger,' 'the essential point is to isolate a man from his family, and cause him to lose the habits of family life. Draw him off by degrees, give him some sort of importance, discreetly teach him to be weary of his daily work. Man is born a rebel; stir up this desire for rebellion into a flame, but let not the flame burst out.... When you have insinuated into a man's mind a distaste for family ties and religion (the one almost invariably follows the other), let fall certain words that will provoke a desire of being affiliated to the nearest lodge.... To find himself a member of a lodge, to feel that he is away from his wife and children, and called upon to keep a secret which will never be confided to him, is for some natures a pleasure and an ambition.' Another Mason, Brother Clavel, exposes the same system of recruiting. These are his words: 'Freemasonry, we tell those we wish to enrol, is a progressive philanthropic institution, whose members live as brothers.... To entice the curious, we add, that the Order preserves religiously a secret that can be shared by none but Freemasons.... To decide men of pleasure, we make the most of the frequent banquets.... As for artisans and tradesmen, we tell them that Freemasonry will be profitable to them, by extending the circle of their connection and custom. Thus we have arguments for every inclination, every vocation, every class.'

This is very nice writing and typical of the general spirit, which, under the Presidency of Bro. Mastai Ferretti, will govern the Council convoked for December

It is well-known and is a landmark, that recruiting, as it is pleasantly called, is out of the question, but our friends, the priests, ignore everything which does not quite suit them. They lie, like the illustrious Her Filthiness, for a purpose.

It would be easy, were my space not limited, to disprove seriatim the calumnies here announced, but my object is rather to promote healthy action of the diaphragm. Every Mason, every sensible man, who reads the above and what follows will experience this, leaving these priests their proper gall and bitterness.

This funny book contains extracts from every strained fiction about the Fraternity that has ever appeared. They are as authentic as the story of Jonah and the Whale, anent which the physiologist Blumenbach had a favourite story which was, that Jonah having come to Nineveh, lodged at the sign of the Whale, and being unable to pay was promptly ejected by the efficient landlord, he, being, it would seem, the biblical Mr. Ferguson, "who didn't lodge there."

I shall omit, just now, the very laughable forms of initiation, passing and raising, and give another sample of this ridiculous book.

Speaking of the High Degrees of Masonry, the festive author thus proceeds:—

"THE HIGH DEGREES OF FREEMASONRY.

"Under this name are included a quantity of initiations, independent of each other, and varying with the difference of locality and nation. Many of these are recent, whilst others no longer exist. There are Masons who disown them, amongst others the majority of the chiefs of external Masonry. Others acknowledge, praise, and join them, without thereby belonging to secret Freemasonry, or the secret societies, properly so-called. The high degrees are, as it were, an efflorescence, more or less secret, of common Masonry, a more advanced, yet still an incomplete initiation to what may be called the soul of Masonry, that is, to the final object of its plots. That final object is the universal destruction of all royalty and of all religion; it is the universal revolt of the world against God and His Christ: it is Satan and man wishing to reign in the world, instead of God and His Christ. Part of this infernal secret has been discovered by surprise; in vain do the half-honest Masons deny it. 'The object of the Order should remain its chief secret,' said the Grand Lodge of Germany in 1774. 'The world is not robust enough to hear the revelations of it.' Nor are the Masons themselves, even those of the high degrees, robust enough, it seems; for at the initiation to one of the high degrees of the Scotch rite, the Master of the Lodges says to the candidate, 'By this degree a thick wall rises up between us and the profane, and even between us and several of those amongst us.' In all the Masonic rites together there are nearly one thousand degrees. In the Grand Oriental there are thirty-three, and the same in the Scotch rite, though they generally give only seven. The Misraim rite has one hundred. The best known of the high degrees are, it seems, those of Philosophic Judge Grand Commander Unknown, Elect, Ancient, Knight of St. Andrew, Knight of the Sun, Kadosch, and Rosicrucian. In admitting a man to the degree of Philosophic Judge Grand Commander Unknown, the true meaning and practical application of the legend about Adoniram is undiguely revealed to the adept. (See Bro. Ragon's book on Masonic Orthodoxy.) 'Have not the degrees you have passed through,' says the Master of the Lodge, 'taught you to make a just application of Adoniram's death to the tragic and fatal end of Jacques Molay, Philosophic Judge Grand Commander of the Order? Is not your heart prepared for vengeance? and do you not feel that implacable hatred which we swore against the three traitors on whom we must revenge the death of Jacques Molay? This, my brother, is true Masonry, such as it has been transmitted to us.' Practically, these three traitors are:—1. The Pope, including the Catholic Church, and of Christianity; 2. The king including all royalty and all civil government (as now constituted); 3. Standing armies the present substitute for the old military orders. The Grand Master adds: 'You are now placed on a level with the zealous Masons who devoted themselves to us for the common vengeance. Carefully conceal from the vulgar the high destiny reserved for you.... You are now, my Brother, in the ranks of the elect who are called to accomplish the great work.... Amen.'

"THE HIGH GRADE OF KADOSCH.

"When Philippe Egalité was initiated to this grade, they put a dagger into his hand, and made him stab a crowned lay figure, placed besides a skeleton.... A blood coloured liquid flowed from the wound.... They told him that the skeleton was that of Jacques Molay, Grand Master of the Templars, and that the man whose blood he had just shed was Philip the Fair, King of France. Of course, this expression of vengeance was not really intended for Philip the Fair, who had been dead nearly five hundred years, but for royalty; and in fact the newly made Kadosch was among the principal murderers of Louis XVI. Nearly all the regicides of the Convention were Freemasons. According to the sacred author, Bro. Ragon, it is not only a crowned lay figure that the Kadosch has to stab, but a serpent with three heads, the first of which has a tiara or a key, the second a crown, the third a sword.

"THE HIGH GRADE OF ROSICRUCIAN.

"Amongst other things the candidate is questioned about the meaning of the inscription INRI. According to the Masons it does not mean Jesus of Nazareth the King of the Jews, but 'That the Jew, Jesus of Nazareth, was led by the Jew Raphael (Who is this Jew Raphael? Can it be Judas Iscariot, so attractive in the eyes of Brother Ragon?) into Judea to be justly punished for his crimes.' When the candidate has given this sacrilegious interpretation, the 'Most Wise' (i.e. Master of the Lodge—Trans), exclaims: 'My Brothers, the word is found.' Thus 'the word' means hatred of Jesus Christ. In the Masonic legends our Lord, as being descended from King Solomon, justly expiates on the cross the supposed murder of Adoniram by Solomon, who was jealous of his architect. Adoniram they assume to have descended from Cain, assumed to be the son of Lucifer and Eve; and the present struggle of the Revolution is but the logical result of the struggle begun in the Garden of Eden, the struggle of Lucifer, his son Cain, his descendant Adoniram, and a whole race of superior beings, who have received the gifts of science, light, and true virtue, against God, Adam, Abel, Solomon, Jesus, and the inferior race of the children of Adam, personified by priests and kings: and the characteristics of this second and blind force, tyranny, and ignorance. According to the Masons, God is jealous of Lucifer and persecutes him; Cain was persecuted by Adam and Abel, &c., which is truth upside down, and the deification of revolt. Still, however much advanced these Brothers of the high degrees may be in the secrets of Masonry, we must remember that they have not yet left 'the ill-lighted anti-chamber,' as the Little Tiger called it: they are as yet Masons but in leaf and blossom."

Brothers of Light and Common-sense, is not this enough, does it need refutation? As a really religious body, fearing T.G.A.O.T.U., and loving him in his creation, I need not say how clear you are of these foul aspersions.

CRYPTONYMUS.

P.S.—Who is the Little Tiger?

The Burdett Coutts Lodge, No. 1278, will be consecrated on Thursday, September 23rd, at 4 o'clock p.m., at the Approach Tavern, Approach-road, Victoria-park. The ceremonies by the Grand Secretary, Brother John Hervey, P.G.D.; Brother James Terry, W.M.-designate, P.M. 228.

BREAKFAST.—EPPE'S COCOA.—Grateful and Comforting.—The very agreeable character of this preparation has rendered it a general favourite. The Civil Service Gazette remarks:—"The singular success which Mr. Eppe attained by his homoeopathic preparation of cocoa has never been surpassed by any experimentalist. By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Eppe has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills." Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold by the Trade only, in 1 lb. and 1 lb. tin-lined packets, labelled JAMES EPPE & CO., Homoeopathic Chemists, London.—ADVT.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.—A grateful father is desirous of sending by mail, free of charge to all who wish it, a copy of the prescription by which his daughter was restored to perfect health from confirmed Consumption, after having been given up by her physicians and despaired of by her father, a well-known physician, who has now discontinued practice. Sent to any person free.—Address O. P. Brown, Secretary, 2, King-street, Covent-garden, London.—ADVT.

Births, Marriages, and Deaths.

BIRTHS.

CUNLIFFE.—On the 11th inst., at 14, St. Stephen's-square, W., the wife of Bro. Robert Cunliffe, Past Grand Warden, of a daughter.

GLASS.—On the 6th inst., at 135, Kent-road, Glasgow, the wife of Bro. Alex. Glass (408), of a son and heir.

MARRIAGE.

MACNAB-HARRISON.—On the 11th inst., at St. John the Baptist's Church, Kentish-town, the Rev. John R. MacNab, (Companion of the Beadon Chapter, No. 619), to Mary Ann, only daughter of Reuben Harrison, Esq., of Fortesterrace, Kentish-town. [No cards.]

DEATHS.

DAVIS.—On the 5th inst., the wife of Bro. E. W. Davis, (P.M. 95), aged 38 years.

LOEWENSTARK.—On the 13th inst., Bro. Ezekiel Loewenstark, (Mount Lebanon Lodge, No. 78).

PINNINGTON.—On the 4th inst., at 2, College-street, North Liverpool, aged 39 years, Mary Ann, wife of Bro. Philip Pinnington, W.M., of Mariner's Lodge, 249.

Answers to Correspondents.

REV. BRO. C. J. MARTIN, GRAND CHAPLAIN.—Your kind letter is received, and we are much obliged to you for pointing out the error in our report, which was overlooked in the hurry of going to press. A Provincial Grand Master having presided, of course Grand Lodge was opened "in form" only.

BRO. LEON HYNEMAN.—Thanks for your kind promise. Our publisher will send you the numbers from the commencement. We shall be happy at all times to hear from you, and reciprocate your courtesy.

BOOKS RECEIVED.

"The Mason's Home Book." First four numbers. Published by Bro. Leon Hyneman, No. 814, Chestnut-street, Philadelphia.
"Masonic Monthly," Boston, Mass., for August.

The Freemason,

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 18, 1869.

THE FREEMASON is published on Saturday Mornings in time for the early trains.
The price of THE FREEMASON is Twopence per week; quarterly subscription (including postage) 3s. 3d.
Annual Subscription, 12s. Subscriptions payable in advance.
All communications, letters, &c., to be addressed to the Editor, 3 & 4, Little Britain, E.C.
The Editor will pay careful attention to all MSS. entrusted to him, but cannot undertake to return them unless accompanied by postage stamps.

INTERNATIONAL MASONIC RELATIONS.

THE cardinal points of a Freemason's creed are belief in the Supreme Ruler of the Universe, and a sincere desire to promote the happiness of the human race. Rational faith and progress are the mottoes inscribed on the banners which we bear aloft in the universal camp of life, peace and goodwill to all mankind constitute our armour, and the weapon with which we encounter ignorance and vice is the sword of knowledge and virtue.

To thoughtful men in our ranks the question will nevertheless arise, whether the motive power for good which Freemasonry possesses is really exercised with that unity of purpose and identity of action upon which we so complacently pride ourselves. A superficial Masonic observer is content to regard the Craft as a grand cosmopolitan federation, linked together by common aspirations, and influenced by the same lofty designs. True, the landmarks are respected, as a rule, by Masons wherever dispersed. Our symbolic language affords means of recognition in every land, and mutual sympathy and mutual support are extended to worthy brethren wherever the flag of Freemasonry waves.

But this is not the boundary of our work, this is not the ultima thule to which we aspire. Let us take for example a scientific society, its objects are defined—geographers, whether in France or in Germany, follow the same path; astronomers, whether in the Old World or in the New, scan the heavens with similar aims. The elucidation of truth and the advancement of science are ever before them, and although differences of opinion have arisen, and will ever arise amongst learned men upon certain points, still in the exact sciences an infallible test of truth exists, and the true theory invariably proves triumphant. The recantation of Galileo under torture could not affect the accuracy of his philosophy; nay, even in the midst of his perturbation and anguish he was unable to control the impulse to exclaim that the world did move, notwithstanding his previous involuntary denial of the fact.

In astronomy and archæology, in geometry and anatomy, there are certain stern realities that cannot be overlooked; certain standards by which wise men are guided in their analyses of assertions and claims. Unfortunately, however, when we come to consider codes of morality, when we soar to the abstract region of ethics, every thinker becomes a law to himself; his definition of virtue is tinged with the hue of his own peculiar idiosyncrasy, and although many may agree in desiring to reach one goal, instead of pursuing the same road they travel by circuitous and seemingly opposite routes, when by united action in one direction they might accomplish more speedily and more satisfactorily the glorious result which each is anxious to achieve.

We consider that these remarks apply very forcibly to the present position of Freemasonry throughout the globe, and that a closer, a more brotherly, union is not only desirable but urgently needed, if we would really do all that so great and so important a fraternity should effect for the amelioration of suffering humanity.

We must enter into more intimate relations with our brethren in other lands; we must march with them shoulder to shoulder in the struggle which Right must ever maintain against Wrong, in the battle which Good must ever wage with Evil in this world. Our watch-words must be clearly defined, our shibboleth must be the same. In the attempt to make Freemasonry a vital power whose presence shall shed sunshine where darkness prevails—in the endeavour to scatter the Promethean fire of brotherly love into sordid hearts and servile minds, and to kindle life and soul in the breasts of those who droop beneath a thousand cares—we shall be sustained by the consciousness of victory, we shall be upheld by the prescience of inevitable triumph.

Yes, belief and progress, these two words embody and comprise the true Freemason's creed. We do not work in vain, but we can achieve more than has yet been done; let us weld the superb entities of Freemasonry, whether in Europe or in Africa, into one grand and harmonious union. Let not the diversities of worship, of colour, or of clime arise to bar our progress to the light, but let us merge all minor differences in the glorious aim that we each have in view to promote the happiness of our fellow-creatures. Unity is the doctrine we preach, and even if we had not to contend with such foes as priestcraft and superstition, it would still be our duty to utilise the opportunity afforded by our Order of presenting to the world the sublime spectacle of a brotherhood bound together by the strongest ties of affection, and acting together as one man, for the realisation of objects in the highest degree praiseworthy and honourable.

We have the pleasure of announcing that the Right Hon. the Earl of Dalhousie, G.C.B., M.W. Grand Master Mason of Scotland has accorded his sanction to the publication of the reports of the Grand Lodge of Scotland in the columns of THE FREEMASON. Our best acknowledgments are due to his Lordship for this mark of confidence.

Mulum in Parbo, or Masonic Notes and Queries.

UNION OF MASONIC RITES.

This will never be accomplished until these rites are better understood; and the only way to this is the publication of documentary evidence. Dr. Leeson has a large collection, if he could be induced to give to Masonic students. So far as the evidence yet goes, the following seems to be the result; all are more or less Templar rites,

Ancient York Rite in 1744. Revised in 1761.		Sicilian. 1748.		R. O. of Scotland, 1786-40.		Belgian (?), 1722?		Hund's, 1754.		Relaxed Overance.		Perfection, 1766.		Swedish Rite.		A. & A. Rite.
1. E. A. P. 2. F. C. 3. M. M. 4. R. A. of 3 parts. 5. Templar. 6. Holy Wisdom. Superadded, 1761 Bory Cross (?). [See Higgins's Anacalypsis.]		1. E. A. P. 2. F. C. 3. M. M. 4. Red Cross. 5. Temple, 6. Sepulture, 7. Malta. (?)		1. E. A. P. 2. F. C. 3. M. M. 4. Red Cross. 5. Bory Cross of the Templars. (?)		1. Apprentice. 2. Companion. 3. Master. 4. Royal Arch, 5. P. of Jerusalem 6. Kt. of St. An- drew, 7. Katoch Tem- plar. 8. Mason of the Secret.		1. E. A. P. 2. F. C. 3. M. M. 4. Scottish Master. 5. Novice. 6. Templar. 7. P. Knight.		1. E. A. P. 2. F. C. 3. M. M. 4. African P. 5. St. Andrew. 6. Kt. of Eagle. 7. Scottish Master. 8. Sov. Master. 9. Red Cross. 10. K. of Light.		[First 18 degrees as in the present A. and A. Rite.] [A branch of the rite of "Clerks of the foregoing Relaxed of Ob- servance.] [An amalgamation of the foregoing with more recent inventions.]

With this before us, it is difficult to see what the Rosicrucians had to do with Masonry, unless we think, with Rosetti, that they were Templars; or else that the Scotch Templars modified their rite in 1745.

but with considerable variation in details, pointing to a greater antiquity than opponents are willing to concede. Denials are only proofs of ignorance, and it is such an easy matter to say, "I defy you to the proof," for the hand that cannot build a hovel may demolish a castle.

JOHN YARBER, JR.

With this before us, it is difficult to see what the Rosicrucians had to do with Masonry, unless we think, with Rosetti, that they were Templars; or else that the Scotch Templars modified their rite in 1745.

JOHN YARKER, Jr.

BRO. YARKER AND "NOTES ON THE TEMPLE"

I have to thank Bro. Yarker, the historian of the Jerusalem Encampment, Manchester, for the fraternal notice of my review (to be continued) of his valuable work contained in his letter of the 26th ult.

It really is a pleasure to discuss any Masonic matter with Bro. Yarker, and were some writers in THE FREEMASON to adopt his style of keeping the subject in view, instead of fostering personalities and unbrotherly remarks, depend upon it there would be no cause then for the opportune and admirable paper by "A Lewis" on "Masonry and Dissension." I do not speak now as if I were faultless. If in any way my words have expressed unmasonic wishes or thoughts, I am sorry.

We only live a few years in this world, and surely, as Masons, we should endeavour to render our pilgrimage here as free from bitterness as possible. We do not write for pecuniary gain, and the fact of our upholding our views should, therefore, secure us a respectful attention and courteous answers.

When time permits I shall make a few more "Templar Jottings," and refer again to Brother Yarker's excellent work. W. J. HUGHAN.

SIR RALPH NOEL, P.G.M.

Now that the Byron controversy is raging it may be interesting to note that Sir Ralph Milbanke, the father of Lady Byron, who afterwards assumed the name of Noel, was Provincial Grand Master of Durham for many years.

ANTIQUARIUS.

WASHINGTON.

Extract from the records of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania, May 29th, 1788:—

"The lodge proceeded to the appointment of Master and Deputy Master, to be recommended to the Grand Lodge of Virginia, when George Washington, Esq., was immediately chosen Master; Robt. McCrea, Deputy Master; Wm. Hunter, jun., Senior Warden; John Allison, Junior Warden.

"The Grand Lodge of Virginia, in accordance with this request, granted a new warrant to the lodge at Alexandria, constituting Brother George Washington its first Master under its new warrant, and its registry number was changed from No. 39, of Pennsylvania, to No. 22, of Virginia."

A PENNSYLVANIAN.

Obituary.

BRO. EZEKIEL LOEWENSTARK.

Brother Ezekiel Loewenstark, of Mount Lebanon Lodge, No. 73, died at his father's house, on Monday, September 13th. He was the second eldest son of Bro. A. D. Loewenstark, P.M. 548 and 733, the eminent medallist, of Devereux-court, Strand. The deceased brother was only initiated into Freemasonry a few months ago, taking his first two degrees in Lodge No. 73. Being an enthusiast, he took his third degree in No. 328, when at Torquay for the benefit of his health. He was deservedly respected by all who knew him.

We understand that our esteemed Brother James Brett, A.G.P., will work the Ceremony of Consecration and Installation at the Metropolitan Lodge of Instruction, the "George," Aldermanbury, on Friday evening, the 24th instant, at 7 o'clock, by the request of the members, and we hope all brethren who can make it convenient will attend on that occasion and give him their support.

HUNGARY.—The lodge "A zur Einigkeit im Vaterlande," at Pesth, has elected Bro. Pulsky as W.M., and General Klapka as honorary member.

THE OXFORD MUSIC HALL, LONDON.—This magnificent hall, lately destroyed by fire, has undergone a marvellous transformation. It is now elegantly and tastefully decorated, and may be considered one of the finest halls in London. Great credit is due to the liberal and spirited proprietors, Messrs. Syers and Taylor, for the excellent taste evinced in every particular. A new feature is displayed in opening the hall in the day-time, free of charge, as a restaurant, where every description of viands, &c., of excellent quality are supplied at reasonable prices. The evening entertainment is sure to achieve success. The band, under the direction of Mr. Jennings, is perfect. Mr. Rivers, the new baritone, has an excellent voice. Miss Trevelli is nightly encored for her admirable rendering of operatic song. Mr. Fred. Foster is a very good comic singer, and Messrs. Lealie and Raynor are excessively amusing in their negro entertainment, whilst the feats of Raelus are perfectly astounding. A new cantatina, entitled the "Apple of Discord," has been very successful, and is loudly applauded. The hall itself is well worthy of a visit.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Tumours, Scrofulous and Glandular Swellings, Abscesses, &c. At this season of the year while the temperature is variable and malaria abounds everywhere, such diseases are constantly presenting themselves in sanguine and feeble frames. All have placed within their reach the antidote to these dreadful scourges, which, at their commencement may be readily arrested and cured, but when neglected resist for a long time the most appropriate remedies. Holloway's Ointment rubbed upon or near the affected parts will thoroughly eradicate the cause of these maladies and expel their seed from the system. Scurvy, Scrofula, and all kindred disorders disappear before this cleansing Ointment and these searching Pills, which purify and invigorate without weakening or inconveniencing the patient.—ADVT.

Original Correspondence.

[The Editor is not responsible for the opinions expressed by Correspondents.]

UNIFORMITY OF WORKING.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER.—I have read the comments in your contemporary upon this subject, and am impressed alike with their innocence of English grammar and common sense.

The Craft owe you a deep debt of gratitude for unveiling the proceedings at Woolwich, and I for one, as an old Mason, heartily thank you for your article. The point at issue can be compressed into a nutshell, as the learned Bro. A. J. McIntyre, Grand Registrar, stated at the last meeting of Grand Lodge. Either the W.M. of the Union Waterloo Lodge has wilfully deceived the Board of General Purposes, or the brother who worked the so-called approved ritual really did that which he is represented to have done. For my own part, I believe the latter to be the case, and I take this opportunity of saying that our esteemed brother Henry Muggeridge, whose name has been most unwarrantably imported into the discussion, will be the first to repudiate all connection with this Hogwood, or his performances at Woolwich, as he doubtless knows the individual but too well.

I am, Dear Sir and Brother,

Yours fraternally,

FIAT JUSTITIA RUAT CÆLUM.

INELIGIBILITY OF BASTARDS AS FREEMASONS.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER.—I regret that your correspondent "Leo" should still characterise the rays that illumined the world in the ancient Jewish or Mosaic times as dark and dim. His only justification for this extraordinary assertion, is "because that was the era when law and ceremonial minutiae reigned," but this does not prove that the Mosaic code was not merciful or tolerant. The observance of ceremonial laws was merely intended as an outward act, to remind the people of their special obligations to their religion and to its Divine author; and each and every one of these laws, has a wise and beautiful meaning. The repeated admonitions to practise charity, to protect the widow and orphan, to love the stranger, to befriend all who stood in need of help, even to care for the beast of burden, which we find in the Pentateuch, tended to make Judaism rather a religion of the heart, than one of ceremonial. Your correspondent is mistaken in thinking that the All-Merciful ordained that the doctrine of retaliation should be literally carried into practice. "Eye for eye, tooth for tooth" meant compensation fully equivalent to the loss the sufferer had sustained, either pecuniary or otherwise. This interpretation was accepted and acted upon from the earliest times and through all the Jewish polity, and never was an instance known in which the letter of the law was carried into effect, but simply in spirit. To come down to the present time, which your correspondent terms "an era more especially of love and freedom," if a little of the dark rays of the Mosaic times were shed upon those who now make and administer our laws, how many would have been spared from the terrible and violent mode of death called hanging? How many, perhaps, who have suffered innocently, would have been saved to us? The Mosaic law, which is so harshly judged, hampered the judicial proceedings, in cases where the question was one of life or death, with so many restrictions, and offered so many loop-holes through which the accused might escape, that a violent death was very rarely known in the days when the Israelites had a kingdom of their own; and it is a fact that in the time of the Sanhedrin, such an occurrence had not taken place for two centuries! So much for modern love and freedom as compared with the charity of ancient times when Judaism held sway.

Were I to follow "Leo" further in his rash statements, I am afraid I should be led into a religious controversy, which I wish to avoid. There is, however, an assertion so glaringly unfounded and bold, that I cannot help joining issue with him. He says:—"The majority of the pre-Christian Jewish teachers misunderstood the great truths of their own Scriptures, and misled the people, being more taken up with outward ceremonial trifles than a clean heart and a practical good and honest life." Will your correspondent mention by name these erratic teachers? Can he show one instance of infidelity in any of the prophets and teachers from Moses to Malachi? On the contrary, these have courageously and manfully—very often to their own detriment and personal injury—proclaimed the true precepts of the Divine religion and the attributes of God, and in common with their successors have always insisted on the unity and indivisibility of the Supreme. How, then, can they be said to have misunderstood the great truths of their own Scriptures, written in language so simple and intelligible?

If you will kindly find room for these remarks in your well-filled periodical, I will promise not to trouble you again with any further correspondence on this subject.

I remain, fraternally yours,
A JEWISH FREEMASON.

MASONIC HOSPITALITY.

(To the Editor of The Freemason.)

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER.—It has been a matter of congratulation to many of your readers for some time past to witness the interchange of kindly and fraternal sentiments between English and American brethren through the medium of THE FREEMASON. I for one heartily believe that any effort, however feeble it may be, which tends to unite more closely the two great branches of the Anglo-Saxon family, is a benefit to humanity at large. With the progress and expansion of those English-speaking nations, the future of mankind must become brighter, grander, and happier; and I may add that upon their alliance and friendship depend in a measure the world's hopes of peace, freedom, and civilization.

In the United States there are now thousands of lodges, and I may say hundreds of thousands of Freemasons. The Grand Lodge of New York alone numbers more than 700 lodges, and from this vast community we have at present in England an accredited representative in the person of Bro. Albert G. Goodall. This gentleman holds credentials as General Foreign Representative from the Grand Lodge of New York to all the Grand Lodges in Europe, and is now making a brief stay in London, preparatory to his Continental tour.

Of Brother Goodall's fitness for his post, the admirable Report recently presented to the Supreme Grand Council at Boston, and published in your columns, is an ample proof, and it is the opinion of some brethren in London that Brother Goodall should not be allowed to leave our shores without experiencing some slight proof of that hospitality which is so characteristic of English Masons. My object in writing is, therefore, to request that all who may desire to assist in promoting this object will kindly send their names at once, to Bro. Angelo J. Lewis, 36, Lincoln's Inn Fields, in order that the proper steps may be taken to invite Bro. Goodall to a fraternal banquet at an early date. The following brethren have consented to act as a preliminary committee.

Col. Fras. Burdett, P.S.G.W. of England, and representative from the Grand Lodge of Ireland, as Chairman.

Henry C. Levander, M.A.
Angelo J. Lewis, M.A.
W. R. Woodman, M.D.
Major H. W. Palmer.
Rev. W. B. Church, M.A.
R. Wentworth Little.
J. Trickett, C.E.
J. G. Marsh.
T. Wescombe.
Raynham W. Stewart.
George Kenning.

With power to add to their number.

The co-operation of the Craft in this instance, will add another link to the chain of union which already exists between British and American Masons. Anticipating a hearty response.

I remain, yours fraternally,
A MEMBER OF THE LONDON
LITERARY UNION.

To the Editor of The Freemason.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER.—In answer to a Subscriber's query at page 129. There was no member of Grand Committee to support the Petition, and the member from Glasgow put the veto on it, because he had not been consulted in the matter. Had they cringed and fawned to him no doubt they would have succeeded.

There are some strange things done in Grand Committee! But more of this anon.

Yours truly and fraternally,
MONTRA.

We are requested to state that Bro. Hughan's reprint of the "Constitutions of the Freemasons" is no longer on sale, all the copies printed being sold except a few reserved for eminent Masons. The list of subscribers will be published shortly, the Earl of Zetland being at the head of the list for two copies.

POLITICS.—Politics are entirely prohibited from a Freemason's Lodge, and no brother dare attempt to propagate his views upon politics by means of the Order, this being in direct opposition to the ancient statutes. The political opinions of mankind never agree, and they are thus directly opposed to brotherly union. If a peculiar set of political opinions gain the upper hand in a state, or if a revolution take place, or if a country be invaded by a foreign army, the lodges close themselves. Charity to a suffering warrior, let him be a friend or foe, must not be considered as a political act, for it is the general duty of mankind, and more especially it is a Masonic duty.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE PROV. GRAND LODGE OF CHESHIRE.

Masonry has within the last few years greatly increased in popularity in the province of Cheshire, and this fact was fully illustrated on Thursday week by the large and highly-enthusiastic meeting which took place at the Music Hall, Birkenhead. In pursuance of the directions of the R.W.P.G.M. (the Right Hon. the Lord de Tabley), the annual meeting of the Prov. Grand Lodge of Cheshire was then held, and the summons was cordially responded to, not only by the Prov. Grand Officers, W. Masters, P. Masters, and Wardens in the province, but also by the members of the sister lodges in other parts of the country, who numbered in greater numbers than are usually met with at these interesting periodical gatherings. There were about 300 of the brethren present, which shows a great increase upon the gathering which took place at Macclesfield last year. The Provincial Grand Lodge was announced to open at noon, but it was some time after that hour before the members were found in their places and the business of the meeting was proceeded with.

Amongst the most prominent of the brethren present were Bros. Thomas Wilcock, W.M. 245; Daniel Wooley, W.M. 287; Peter Willis, W.M. 1088; E. G. Reass, W.M. 430; J. E. Shanks, P.P.G.S.B., Devonshire; William Rigby, P.P.G. Pur., 758; H. S. Aspinwall, W.M. 267; E. Dakin Garvin, P.G.C.; T. Armstrong, P.G.J.D., West Lancashire; William Fair, P.P.G.S.W.; John Twiss, P.G.O.; Robert Wylie, P. Assist. G.D.C., West Lancashire; J. Healing, W.M. 1264; W. H. Perrin, W.M. 336; J. Hocken, W.M. 673; J. Beresford, W.M. 104; R. W. Worrall, 721; Peter Wadsworth, W.M. 295; H. Isherwood, W.M. 322; Robert Sykes, W.M. 324; G. White, W.M. 979; J. Martin, W.M. 293; T. Stafford, P.P.D.C., 1085; C. Atkinson, W.M. 323; J. Swindells, P.G. Tyler; W. Hague, W.M. 830; J. B. Platt, P.G.J.W.; J. Barclay, P.G.S., 539; F. Jackson, jun., P.G.D.C., Cheshire; A. J. Macintyre, G.R.; Thomas Platt, P.P.J.G.D.; F. Bincker, P.G. Steward; W. Evans, W.M. 220; Horatio Lloyd, P.P.G.S.D., Cheshire, 425; E. Newbold, P.G.S.D., 247; J. A. Sharpe, P.M., 292; H. S. Alpass, P.G. Sec. West Div. of Lancashire; R. Gracie, W.M. 477; G. H. Hobson, P.M., 477; E. G. Willoughby, P.P.J.W., P.M., 477; R. Meacock, P.M. 477; E. Harbord, S.W. 477; S. Jones, S.D. 477; C. Sayer, J.D. 477; J. H. Johnston, Sec. 477; J. Griffith, I.G. 477; W. R. Bainbridge, P.M. 721; C. Leadman, P.M. 220; C. J. Butterfield, Sec. 220; John Lunt, P.M. 1086; W. Archer, P.M. 1086; R. Humphreys, Sec. 606; J. W. 384 and 1113; C. Wigan, P.G.S., North Wales and Shropshire; J. Wood, Treas. 1094; J. Pemberton, S.W. 1260; &c. The brethren were requested to appear in full Craft Masonic clothing and jewels, with white cravats and gloves, and this order from head-quarters was almost unexceptionally attended to.

After some delay, the Provincial Grand Lodge was opened in proper form, Lord de Tabley taking his seat upon the throne by virtue of his office as R.W.P.G.M. The P.G. Sec. (Bro. E. H. Griffiths), after calling the roll, read the minutes of the previous Provincial Grand Lodge meeting at Macclesfield, and also the minutes of the committee of the Fund of Benevolence, which were found to be correctly recorded, and passed unanimously.

The Grand Treasurer (Bro. T. Bland, Macclesfield) read his financial statement, and reported that the expenditure last year was very large, in consequence of the disbursements for the Zetland Testamental, the Palestine Exploration Fund, the Cheshire Educational Institution, &c. Notwithstanding these extra demands, however, he reported that there was a balance in hand of £1371 5s. 1d. He proposed that, in addition to the money already invested with the Birkenhead commissioners a further sum of £200 should be so disposed of. The accounts, with the proposed disposal of the sum of £200, were unanimously adopted.

The P.G.M. then nominated Bro. T. Bland as the P.G. Treasurer, and in doing so thanked him very much for the trouble he had taken and the ability he had shown in the discharge of the duties of that office.

Bro. Bland's election was confirmed by acclamation.

The R.W.P.G.M. then proceeded to nominate his Grand officers for the ensuing year, and the following brethren were unanimously elected:—G. Cornwall Legh, M.P., R.W.D.P.G.M.; Captain Cope, P.G.S.W.; Henry Bulley, P.G.J.W.; Rev. G. H. Hobson and Rev. F. Terry, P.G. Chaplains; John Wood, P.G.R.; E. H. Griffiths, P.G. Secretary; Charles Dutton, P.G.S.D.; James Hampson, P.G.J.D.; F. Jackson and W. J. Bates, P.G.D.C.; —Brattin, P.G. Superintendent of Works; J. C. Chetham, P.G.S.B.; J. Harold, P.G.P.; J. Twiss, B.G.O.; J. Swindells, P.G. Tyler; J. H. Johnston, T. K. Stevenson, T. Leighton, O. Jones, J. Sillitoe, H. M. Barclay, P.G. Stewards.

In accordance with former practice, the R.W.P.G.M. then addressed the Provincial Grand Lodge on the condition of Masonry in Cheshire, and he remarked that he was happy to be able to congratulate the Craft on its continued prosperity, thanks to the efforts of the masters and brethren of the different lodges within the province. He also congratulated the brethren upon the successful efforts they had made in securing the admission of Bro. Saxby to the benefits of the Masonic Institution, and counselled the brethren to be unanimous in their votes as to any candidate who might be brought forward, as the only means of securing his admission. He concluded by thanking the grand officers and brethren for the sympathy they had shown to him during the past year, and for the cordial reception he had always met with when attending the Provincial Grand Lodge, and he assured them it would be always his endeavour to merit their support and confidence.

Bro. Captain Cope was re-appointed chairman of the committee of the Fund of Benevolence.

After considerable discussion it was agreed, on the motion of Bro. Latham, seconded by Bro. Fair, that the consideration of the nomination of the most deserving candidate by the Provincial Grand Lodge of Cheshire for admission to the Boys' School should be referred to the committee of the Fund of Benevolence, to meet in about ten days for that purpose.

The R.W.P.G.M. proposed a vote of thanks to the Rev. Mr. Sandberg, vicar of St. John's, for the use of his church for the day's services; and this proposition was unanimously adopted.

Lord de Tabley announced that he would hold the next Provincial Grand Lodge meeting at Congleton, where it had not been held since 1852.

This was all the business set down on the paper for disposal.

The Provincial Grand Lodge then proceeded from the lodge room to St. John's Church, by way of Atherton-street and Grange-lane, where a large crowd had assembled to witness the display. The following was the order of the procession:—

Two Tylers, with drawn swords.

Music.

Union flag.

Brethren not members of any lodge, two and two. The County Lodges according to their numbers, and each in the following order: juniors going first:—

The Clarendon Lodge, Hyde, No. 1166. Banner; Tyler, with drawn sword; Brethren, two and two; Inner Guard, with a sword; Stewards, Deacons, Secretary, Treasurer, Chaplain, Wardens, Past Masters, W. Master.

The Ashton Lodge, Cheadle, No. 1140.
The Oakwood Lodge, Romiley, No. 1126.
The Royal Edward Lodge, Staleybridge, No. 1088.
The Lodge of Four Cardinal Virtues, Crewe, No. 979.
The De Tabley Lodge, Knutsford, No. 941.
The Endeavour Lodge, Dukinfield, No. 880.
The Ellesmere Lodge, Runcorn, No. 758.
The Lodge of Independence, Chester, No. 721.
The Combermere Lodge, Seacombe, No. 605.
The Zetland Lodge, Birkenhead, No. 587.
The Eaton Lodge, Congleton, No. 538.
The Mersey Lodge, Birkenhead, No. 477.
The Lodge of Unity, Macclesfield, No. 467.
The Lodge of Fortitude, Newton, No. 461.
The Lodge of Fidelity, Dukinfield, No. 430.
The Lodge of Sincerity, Northwich, No. 428.
The Cestrian Lodge, Chester, No. 425.
The Samaritan Lodge, Sandbach, No. 368.
The Lodge of Industry, Hyde, No. 361.
The Lodge of Benevolence, Marple, No. 336.
The Moira Lodge, Staleybridge, No. 324.
The Lodge of Concord, Stockport, No. 323.
The Lodge of Peace, Stockport, No. 322.
The Lodge of Unity, Crewe, No. 321.
The Lodge of Loyalty, Mottram, No. 320.
The Lodge of Union, Macclesfield, No. 295.
The King's Friends' Lodge, Nantwich, No. 293.
The Lodge of Unanimity, Stockport, No. 287.
The Lodge of St. John, Stockport, No. 104.
The Lodge of Unanimity, Dukinfield, No. 89.

Union Flag P. G. Tyler.

Past P. G. Pursuivants. P. G. Pursuivant.

Floor cloth of the first degree.

Past P. G. Organists.

P. G. Organist.

Past P. G. Directors of Ceremonies.

P. G. Assistant Director of Ceremonies.

P. G. Director of Ceremonies.

Floor cloth of the second degree.

The Tracing Board, borne on a pedestal by a Past Master of a Lodge.

Past P. G. Sword Bearer.

Past P. G. Superintendents of the Works.

P. G. Superintendent of the Works.

Floor cloth of the third degree.

Past P. G. Deacons.

P. G. Secretary, with the Book of Constitutions.

Past P. G. Registrars.

P. G. Registrar, with his bag.

P. G. Treasurer.

Past P. G. Chaplains.

Past P. G. Wardens.

Visiting P. G. Officers, two and two, according to rank, juniors going first.

The Corinthian Light, borne by a Past Master of a Lodge.

The Column of P.J.G. Warden, borne by a Past Master of a Lodge.

The P.J.G. Warden, with the Plumb Rule.
P.G. Steward of the year, with Wand. } Banner of the } P.G. Steward of the year with Wand.
The Doric Light, borne by a Past Master of a Lodge.
The Column of P.S.G. Warden, borne by a Past Master.
The P.S.G. Warden, with the Level.

P.J.G. Deacon.
P.G. Steward of the year with Wand. } (The P.G. Chaplain, bearing } P.G. Steward of the year with Wand.
THE SACRED LAW } on a Cushion. }
Past D.P.G. Master.

The D.P.G. Master, with Square.

The Ionic Light, borne by a Past Master of a Lodge.
A Past P.G.M., or other Brother of eminence, bearing the Mallet.

P.G. Steward of the year, with Wand. } The Standard of } P.G. Steward of the year, with Wand.
the P.G. Master. }
The P.G. Sword Bearer.

The Right Worshipful the PROVINCIAL GRAND MASTER.

P.S.G. Deacon.

P.G. Tyler, with drawn Sword.

On arriving at the door of the church the procession halted, and the brethren opened to the right and left, faced inwards, so as to leave room for the P.G. Master to pass up the centre, he being preceded by his standard and sword bearers; the P.G. officers and brethren following in succession from the rear, so as to invert the order of procession.

Full cathedral service was given, the choir consisting of Bros. Edmondson, Baker, Wilson, Parker, T. J. Hughes, and Armstrong, assisted by Miss Green and Miss Phillips, and the choir boys of St. Peter's parish church, Liverpool. Bro. Twiss, P.G.O. of Cheshire, presided at the organ, and played an appropriate voluntary while the brethren were entering the church. The responses were Taffis, the Psalms for the evening being sung to chants by Haverall, Russell, and Goss, while the "Magnificat" and "Nunc Dimittis" were Boynton Smith's in E. flat. The anthem was "Great is the Lord" (Dr. Hayes), and the hymn before the sermon was the 100th Psalm, sung partly in unison and partly in harmony, the concluding selection being Mendelssohn's fine chorale from "St. Paul," "Sleepers, awake." With the exception of the chant from the Psalms, which was somewhat wanting in precision and certainty, the choral service was rendered with true devotional spirit, the organ accompaniments being played in admirable taste and with fine effect. The sermon was preached by the P.G.C. (Bro. Hobson), who chose for his text the 12th verse of the 10th chapter of Romans, "For there is no difference between the Jew and the Greek; for the same Lord over all is rich to all that call upon Him." In the course of his discourse the preacher referred at some length to the distinguishing features of Masonry, which recommended itself to the favourable consideration of every man, because it sought not his own glory, but the glory of God and the welfare of mankind. A collection was afterwards made in aid of the Birkenhead Borough Hospital and the provincial fund of benevolence. The brethren observed the same order in returning from Church to the Music Hall, where the Prov. Grand Lodge was duly closed. Mr. Superintendent Birnie, with three inspectors and twenty-five constables, was on duty at different points along the route, but their services were merely confined to keeping the observers in their proper position. The band of the 2nd C.R.V. accompanied the brethren to and from the church.

Shortly after the return of the brethren from church a banquet was served in the Music Hall, to which about 200 sat down, Bro. Stokes, of Seacombe, being the purveyor. Lord de Tabley presided, and was supported right and left by the officers of the Provincial Grand Lodge. The musical arrangements, which were admirably carried out, were under the direction of Bro. Twiss, P.G.O. (who presided at the piano-forte), assisted by Bros. Edmondson, Baker, W. Parker, T. J. Hughes, and T. Armstrong. After proposing the toast of "The Queen," which was most cordially received, the R.W.P.G.M. gave the toast "The Prince of Wales and Earl of Chester, the Princess of Wales, and the rest of the Royal Family," and in doing so he said he was happy to drink not only to the prince as Prince of Wales merely, but as P.G.M. of England. The toast was responded to with great enthusiasm. "The Cambrian Plume," a new song by Brinley Richards, was sung by Bro. Hughes with great spirit, and loudly cheered. The principal remaining toasts were:—"The Earl of Zetland, M.W.G.M., and the Officers of the Grand Lodge," (responded to by Bro. M'Intyre, G.R.); "Lord de Tabley" (proposed by Bro. Cope, P.G.S.W.); "The R.W.P. Grand Masters of Neighbouring Provinces" (responded to by Bro. H. S. Alpass, P.G. Sec., W. Lancashire), &c. The Grand Stewards deserve especial notice for the indefatigable zeal they displayed at the banquet and throughout the day's proceedings with the view of securing the comfort and satisfaction of all the brethren. After the concluding toast, "All Poor and Distressed Masons," the brethren separated, all expressing their pleasure at the result of the day's doings.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF CUMBERLAND AND WESTMORLAND.

The annual Festival of the Masonic Province of Cumberland and Westmorland was held at Maryport, on Wednesday, the 8th inst., under the auspices of the Lodge of Perseverance, 371. The brethren having met at the lodge-room about 11 o'clock, the craft lodge was opened by the W.M. of the Maryport Lodge. About an hour later, at "high twelve," the Grand Officers were announced, and the R.W. Grand Master, Lord Kenlis, having taken his seat on the throne, the Prov. Grand Lodge was opened in ample form. His lordship was supported by the following retiring and P.G. Officers:—Bros. J. Whitwell, M.P., D.P.G.M., Kendal; Dr. Greaves, P.D.P.G.M., Penrith; E. Busher, S.G.W., P.G.S.B. of England, Kendal; G. G. Boulton, J.G.W., Penrith; Rev. Jas. Simpson, G. Sec., Kirkby Stephen; J. Leimon, G. Treas., Wigton; J. Bowes, G.R., Warrington; Rev. T. R. Holme, G.C., P.P.G.C. of South Africa, Whitehaven; C. Morton, P.S.G.W., Whitehaven; H. F. Faithfull, P.J.G.W., Cockermouth; W. B. Gibson, P.S.G.W., Whitehaven; W. Hayward, P.S.G.W., Carlisle; Rev. A. F. Curwen, P.G.C., Harrington; F. Binckes, 33°, Secretary Boys' School, London, &c. Amongst the other members of lodges present were Bros. Gawith (129), Kendal; J. Barr, Hughes, Spittal, Windross (119), Whitehaven; Sealby, W.M., J. Lawson, Rev. W. Beeby, Jones, Brooker (371), Maryport; McKelvie, Cooper, Fearon, J. Adair (872), Whitehaven; Rev. J. Pearson (962), Workington; R. Robinson, J. Pearson, Rev. W. Williams, W. Shilton, Braithwaite, Evening, Hewitson, Hammill, Bolton, Potts, Brown, Lewthwaite (1002), Cockermouth; J. Yeather, J. Banks, J. Wood, Lamony (1073), Keswick; and many others.

The minutes of the preliminary meeting at Whitehaven having been read and confirmed, the business of the province was then gone into, after which the customary procession was formed, headed by the band of the 3rd C.A.V., playing the very appropriate quick-step of the "Entered Apprentice." The streets through which the procession passed were completely lined with spectators, notwithstanding the unfavourable state of the weather, and in a few minutes St. Mary's Church was quite filled.

Prayers were read by the Rev. W. Beeby, and the sermon was preached by the Rev. T. R. Holme, the Prov. Grand Chaplain. The Rev. Brother delivered an excellent discourse from the following text:—1 Peter, iii. v. 8. "Love as brethren; be pitiful, be courteous." He showed that the words of his text conveyed very much the same meaning as those which were most inculcated on all members of the fraternity which they to-day represented, and that was the continual exercise of their three great principles—Brotherly Love, Relief, and Truth. No doubt all men yearned after a fellowship with one another, and woe to him who for any reason cut himself off from sharing the joys and the sorrows of his fellow-creatures. But, as things were, there was nothing but a need felt, and they were checked by things within and things without themselves from finding means to satisfy that need. Now, Freemasonry professed to supply what they wanted. Its members were called "The Brethren"—were expected to bear one another's burdens—to love one another. Freemasons were all brethren, because they desired the same thing, walked after the same rule, and aimed at the same end. They were fellow-pilgrims through a foreign land; they had the same trials to encounter; the same joy and peace in relieving; the same heavenly home preparing for them. If their hopes were not mere pretence, then their brotherhood must be real. All true Masons were like polished mirrors; kept by the Holy Spirit true to their principles, and unspotted from the world, they each reflected some of the attributes of their great Father. The merciful man feebly recalled the memory of His compassion, and reflected the faint image of His goodness. His hand was seen to be the substance whose shadow was the generosity of the liberal; and through His power the chastened servant bore meekly and willingly that which his Father might please to call on him to bear. Thus, then, there was a noble harmony of different qualities, and pursuits, and virtues among the brotherhood. They ought to be one family—the wisdom of age, the sobriety of middle age, and the strength of young all twined together, and growing a garden blessed of their God.

At the close of Divine service, a collection was made in aid of the charities of the town, after which the procession was re-formed and returned to the lodge-room. The Grand Master then invested his officers for the ensuing year as follows:—

Bro. Nicholson, 371, Maryport, Senior Warden;
Bro. W. Wilson, 129, Kendal, Junior Warden;
Bro. Rev. J. Pearson, 962, Workington, Chaplain;
Bro. Rev. J. Losh, 872, Whitehaven, Assist. Chaplain;
Bro. Rev. J. Simpson, 129, Kendal, Secretary;
Bro. J. Lemon, 327, Wigton, Treasurer;
Bro. J. Pearson, 1002, Cockermouth, Senior Deacon;
Bro. Sealby, 371, Maryport, Junior Deacon;
Bro. Gawith, 129, Kendal, Director of Ceremonies;
Bro. Hughes, 872, Whitehaven, Assistant-Director of Ceremonies;

Bro. Spittal, 872, Whitehaven, Superintendent of Works;

Bro. Barr, 119, Whitehaven, Sword-bearer;
Bro. White, 872, Whitehaven, Tyler.

The Grand Lodge having been closed in ample form, the brethren marched in procession to the Athenæum, where an excellent banquet had been provided by the host of the Golden Lion Hotel. The Grand Master presided, and was supported right and left by Bros. Whitwell, Greaves, Beeby, Iredale, Bowes, Boulton, Pearson, Simpson, Lemon, Binckes, Curwen, Faithfull, Gibson, Williams, Hayward, &c. The following was the toast list: "The Queen, the daughter of a Mason," "P.G.M. the Prince of Wales, and the Princess of Wales," "The M.W.G.M. the Earl of Zeland, K.T.," "The R.W.D.G.M. Earl De Grey and Ripon, and the rest of the officers of the Grand Lodge," "The R.W.P.G.M. Lord Kenlis," "The D.P.G.M. Bro. Whitwell, and the rest of the officers of the P.G.L." "The Past Provincial Grand Officers," "The Lodges of the Province," "The W.M. of the Lodge of Perseverance, 371," "The Visiting Brethren," "All Poor and Distressed Masons," "The Tyler's Toast."

We may add that the province is in a most flourishing condition, thanks to the energy displayed by the present Grand Master, Lord Kenlis, since his appointment on the decease of the late Bro. F. L. B. Dykes. The lodges in the two counties are as follows:—Sun, Square, and Compasses, 119, Whitehaven; Union, 122, Kendal; Union, 310, Carlisle; St. John's, 327, Wigton; Unanimity, 339, Penrith; Perseverance, 371, Maryport; Holy Temple, 412, Longtown; Eden Valley, 812, Appleby; Lewis, 872, Whitehaven; Sun and Sector, 962, Workington; Skiddaw, 1002, Cockermouth; Greta, 1073, Keswick; Underley, 1074, Kirkby Lonsdale; Solway, 1220, Silloth.

METROPOLITAN MASONIC MEETINGS

For the Week ending September 25, 1869.

Monday, September 20.

Lodge No. 720, "Panmure," Balham Hotel, Balham.
" 901, "City of London," Guildhall Coffee House, Gresham-street.
Camden Lodge of Instruction, No. 704, Adelaide Tavern, Haverstock Hill, at 8; Bro. T. A. Adams, Preceptor.

Tuesday, September 21.

Board of General Purposes, Freemasons' Hall, at 3.
Lodge No. 73, "Mount Lebanon," Bridge House Hotel, Southwark.
" 95, "Eastern Star," Ship and Turtle Tavern, Leadenhall-street.
" 435, "Salisbury," 71, Dean-street, Soho.
" 704, "Camden," York and Albany, Albany-street, Regent's-park.
" 857, "St. Mark's," Horns Tavern, Kennington.
Chapter 19, "Mount Sinai" Andertrn's Hotel, Fleet-st.
" 186, "Industry," Freemasons' Hall.

Metropolitan Chapter of Instruction, George Hotel, Aldermanbury at 7; Comp. Brett, Preceptor.
Domestic Lodge of Instruction, Palmerston Tavern, Grosvenor-park, Camberwell, at 7.30.

Faith Lodge of Instruction, Metropolitan Railway, Victoria Station, at 8. Bro. C. A. Cottebrune, Preceptor.

Wednesday, September 22.

Lodge of Benevolence, Freemasons' Hall, at 7.
Lodge No. 507, "United Pilgrims," Horns Tavern, Kennington.
" 753, "Prince Frederick William," The Knights of St. John's Tav., St. John's-wood.
" 764, "High Cross," Railway Hotel, Northumberland Park, Tottenham.
Chapter- 890, "Lily of Richmond," Grayhound Hotel, Richmond.
United Strength Lodge of Instruction, No. 228, Bull and Gate, Kentish Town road, at 8. Bro. J. N. Frost; Preceptor.

Thursday, September 23.

House Committee, Girls' School, at 4.
Lodge No. 65, "Prosperity," Guildhall Coffee House, Gresham-street.
" 766, "Wm. Preston," Clarendon Htl., Anerley.
" 1056, "Victoria," George Hotel, Aldermanbury.
" 1150, "Buckingham & Chandos," Freemasons' Hall.
Finsbury Club of Instruction, "Jolly Anglers' Tavern," 42, Bath-street, City-road.

Friday, September 24.

Lodge No. 780, "Royal Alfred," Star and Garter, Kew.
Emulation Lodge of Improvement for M.M.'s, Freemasons' Hall, at 7.
Metropolitan Lodge of Instruction, George Hotel, Aldermanbury, at 7; Bro. Brett, Preceptor.
United Pilgrims' Lodge of Instruction, Horns Tavern, Kennington, 7.30.

Belgrave Lodge of Instruction, Duke of Wellington Hotel, Spring-gardens, Charing-cross; Preceptor, Bro. Pulsford

Saturday, September 25. (Nil)

The New Vade Mecum (invented and manufactured by Charles H. Vincent, optician, of 23, Windsor-street, Liverpool) consists of a telescope well adapted for tourists, &c., to which is added an excellent microscope of great power and first-class definition, quite equal to others sold at ten times the price. Wonderful as it may seem, the price of this ingenious combination is only 8s. 6d. and Mr. Vincent sends it (carriage free) anywhere, with printed directions, upon receipt of post-office order or stamps to the amount of 8s. 10d.—ADV.

YOUNG FREEMASONS.

The distinguishing characteristic of the true Freemason's heart being, as the initiated are aware, Charity, it is a little curious that the three benevolent institutions possessed by the Craft, and of which it is rightly proud, should not be more generally known to the brethren. We are aware that this statement will take many of our readers by surprise, and that, according to popular belief, the members of the Masonic body are active administrators of all connected with their order. Nay, we shall be surprised if the Freemasons themselves are not disposed to question the allegation that their benevolent institutions are inadequately known to them, and if they do not point to their noble subscription lists, their successful annual festivals, their long and increasing array of vice-presidents and life governors to prove the erroneous character of the charge. But statistics are on our side, and if a return were furnished of the members who have paid personal visits to the Boys' School, the Girls' School, or the Institution for Aged Freemasons and their Widows, in any given year, the return would be surprisingly small. Deduct the several house committees and their friends, and the number of annual visitors would be reduced to an insignificant per-centage of the Craft. But there is another and simpler way of proving how little the Masonic charities are known, so far, that is, as domestic arrangements and internal economy and discipline are concerned. Let the reader, be he Mason or non-Mason, ask those of the Order whom he may happen to meet, what they know of its charities, and ninety-nine times out of a hundred he will find that their personal inspection has never extended to all three institutions, and that in a majority of cases, they have seen none. This should not be. The men who give these unsatisfactory answers will most of them brighten up wonderfully when the question of subscription comes on, for they have given liberally, and will give liberally again; but they take it for granted that their money will be well applied, and only have not visited these places, because it has not been urged upon them with authority. We believe that no greater filip could be given to the Order of which his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales has just been made a Grand Master, than inducing every one admitted to visit the charities for themselves. There need be no appeal for subscriptions, nothing to swell the cost of initiation, nothing absolutely compulsory. But if the masters and officers of metropolitan lodges thought fit, a visit to the Girls' School might easily be made a regular preliminary to passing from one degree to another. A visit to the Boys' School might be made at a corresponding stage, while the asylum for the aged could be inspected as a matter of course at a period it would be easy to define.

The Boys' School is a fair illustration of the difference between the interest which impel men to subscribe, and the interest which leads them to inspect. It lies at the very core of modern Freemasonry. It has been made the subject of more eloquent and heart-stirring appeals than any other institution connected with the Craft: it has been "pushed" energetically and unceasingly for years, and its building-funds, its festivals, its foundation-stones, its needs, and its successes have been in the mind of every Freemason who has interested himself in the charities of the Order, or has even been a regular attendant at the banquets of his Lodge. You could, in either case, never get away from the Boys' School for long. It would not be laid. Its wants were always asserting themselves, the benefits it was eager to confer were ever coming to the front, and the Masonic world has thus been called upon to "give, give," with a persistency and effect highly creditable to all concerned. Every body knew what a certain pleasant presence at their meetings meant; and that the geniality, humour, and good fellowship of one guest would be subordinated before the evening was out to the purpose of procuring subscriptions or donations, of marking a brother down as steward, or of whipping up the languid, or stimulating the benevolent among that steward's friends. It has been recorded of Colonel Sockdolliger, the American blacksmith with a mania for whipping ministers, that he with ferocious playfulness, gave his victims their choice as to their mode of taking the licking he was bound to administer. "Some takes it fightin', some talkin', some lyin' down," said he aloud, as he oiled his terrible strap, and the sentiment has perhaps occurred to Freemasons, when, by an infallible and agreeable token, they saw they would have to open their hearts and pockets to the claims of the Boys' School before they went away. So far as our observation goes, they have always taken it talking, and taken it well, but as a rule have never seen the establishment they have heard so much of.

This is at Wood Green, a few minutes' railway ride from King's-cross, and is from first to last one of the most perfect institutions in the United Kingdom. The only possible plea against it might be that it is too sumptuous, that its domestic arrangements are on a scale which its pupils never saw before they came, and can never hope to taste after they leave; but to such objectors the committee have a ready, and as it seems to us, a sufficient answer. No boy is to feel himself in the slightest degree the recipient of charity. As high a standard of honour shall be upheld here as at the great public schools; and in all matters of detail our aim shall be to give our lads as good an education as possible, using the term in its largest sense. Thus considered, the play hours and the home-life of the school are as important as its times of study; and the building and its rules and arrangements are eminently calculated to carry out the committee's view.

An institution for providing for and educating the sons of indigent Freemasons dates from 1798, but up to the year 1857 the boys were clothed and sent to schools in the neighbourhood of their several homes. In the latter year twenty-five boys were taken into a temporary house at Wood-green, in 1859 the committee were able to accommodate seventy boys, and in 1862 the present magnificent erection was commenced. Its noble frontage strikes the visitor first. Standing well back from the road and on a spacious lawn, it looks what it really is, a collegiate institution upon which no money has been spared. Old trees wave their branches before it, and lend the dignity of age to what is essentially new, and the brilliant show of flowers in the garden of the head master's house close by is relieved by the bright verdure of the close-cropped grass of the school. The garden, you learn, was attached to the old mansion which was purchased and pulled down to make way for the stately pile before you. This consists of a central block of three storeys, with a large oriel and a high roof with dormer windows. To this are added two wings, one containing the dining-hall and the other the school-rooms and library. There are also handsome towers, a deep porch lit by a stained glass window, and within the entrance a graceful group of statuary, the last two items being gifts.

But the boys themselves are the best ornaments, and after we have traversed corridors one hundred and forty feet long, noted the exquisite cleanliness, mathematical order, and extreme airiness of the bedrooms, visited the kitchen, sculleries, and laundries, all fitted with the best mechanical contrivances for saving labour, we asked to be introduced to the young people for whom all these preparations are made. They are at cricket in one of the fields belonging to the school, for it should be mentioned that a farm is attached to it, and that it stands on land which has been advantageously bought, and by means of which its advantages of situation can be maintained intact. Some of them are, however, staying late in school, and as we pass by their desks to the library beyond, the names of the pupils who have distinguished themselves emblazoned on the wall (one of the prizes given is for having gained the good opinion of school-fellows, and is conferred by a ballot in which all take part); pass, too, the "largest black-board in Europe," with diagrams still left on it; the intelligence that a boy who had just left "obtained the star in four subjects out of five at the Cambridge middle-class examinations"—they all seem to speak of systematic and efficient instruction. Indeed, the course includes a sound English education, with Latin, French, and German, mathematics in every shape, and drawing. There are four masters in all, besides a drill instructor and a teacher in drawing, and 104 boys are clothed, educated, and provided for from the age of six years and a half (the minimum) to fifteen. The building, which is really a model of what a school ought to be, has cost £40,000, and the domestic and educational expenditure on the boys amounts to £36 12s. 2½d. per head, or including office expenses, rates and taxes, and extras, to £46 15s. 1d.

The infirmary, the swimming-bath, the gymnasium, the library well stocked with handsome books and philosophical instruments, and the right of entry to which is a kind of reward for discreet behaviour, all speak volumes as to the thoughtful care of the school committee. The infirmary, which was empty at our visit, is completely isolated—strong doors and separate staircases shutting it off effectually from the rest of the house. The plunge-bath holds 6,500 gallons of water, and is under cover, is lined with white tiles, and has separate dressing closets; while the gymnasium is second only to the splendid one at King's-cross belonging to the German Society. We are introduced to the boys here. Clambering up poles, hanging by the hands from ladders and over well-stuffed and protective mattresses, vaulting on dumb horses, swinging on ropes practising a mild kind of trapeze, performing great feats with rings and handles, and all laughing and shouting at once, they make the vast chamber ring again. Nothing is wanting for gymnastics, and nothing is left untried. There is plenty of noise, and abundance of enjoyment. The gymnasium was built for its present purpose, and when its active denizens recover breath they are hearty in its praise. They are fine, gentleman-like lads, dressed in well made suits of good broad-cloth, and with nothing to distinguish them from the pupils at any other public school. The definition of the Committee, "that the object of the institution is, by eliminating from its administration all trace of charity in the cold signification of the word, to elevate the moral tone of the pupils," is felt to be truthful before you have conversed with the lads five minutes. But no written description can bring the peculiar merits of this Wood-green establishment fairly before the reader. There are about it, over and above its material excellences and architectural splendour, a thousand delicate lights and shades, all implying that it constitutes a tenderly watched and gently disciplined home to those to whom it opens its charitable doors. It must be seen to be appreciated, or even understood; and often as Freemasons may have heard the claims and excellencies of "the Boys' School" urged at their lodge-meetings, the day of their first visit to it will be ever after marked with a white stone, for it will prove how far short of its real merit has been every word spoken in its praise. Those who remember the caution taught at their initiation should inspect it, to see that the funds they give for benevolent purposes are properly applied; those who value the pillars of their Order should go to see how stable and sound this chief one is; the man recently admitted should go, in order that he may comprehend what his apron means—in other words, the practical fruit of the lessons impressed upon him; and the old and "rusty" Mason should go to see what the stirring doings and the new blood of the last half-dozen years have brought about. In short, every Freemason who shrinks from being branded as lukewarm ought to make himself acquainted with the establishment we have described as soon as practicable. There is no difficulty about admission, the way is easy, the time occupied insignificant, the expense to Londoners nominal, and the duty obvious—so that there can be no reason save supineness or indifference for holding back.—Daily News, Sep. 10.

Advertisements.

BRO. HENRY PARKER, Organist, Lodge No. 1260, Mark Lodge No. 1, and G.O. Knights of Rome and Constantine, begs to announce that he has RESUMED his PIANO-FORTE LESSONS for the season.
21, GEORGE-STREET, PORTMAN-SQUARE.

BOARD and RESIDENCE for one or two Gentlemen, in a quiet private house, close to Hyde-park, omnibus and railway. Terms, from 42s. per week.—Address, W., 15, Gloucester-terrace, Hyde-park, W.

IF you wish to have GOOD and NATURAL WINE you must apply to the proprietor. Bro. SOUFFRAIN can expedite you Clarets only. Prices very moderate, and facility of payment. He can also, if you require, let you taste his productions and give you the current prices. Apply by letter; 18, CAMBRIDGE-TERRACE, ST. PETER'S-STREET, ISLINGTON.

INSURE YOUR PLATE GLASS.

PLATE GLASS of every description INSURED against accidental or malicious breakage, whether used as Windows, Enclosures, Show-cases Shop-cases, embossed or engraved; also Looking-glasses and Mirrors. No prudent man ought to incur the anxiety and risk consequent on the destruction of an article of so brittle a nature, when the means of insuring against loss are so easy, and the cost so very small.

PREMIUM.

Two-pence per Square Foot, (super.)

Prospectuses and forms of proposal may be obtained on application to the offices of the Royal Scottish Assurance Company, 291, Strand, London, W.C.

PIANOFORTES.

G. R. SAMSON,
(Successor to R. Addison & Co.),

RESPECTFULLY informs purchasers that he still continues to supply the same description of Instruments for which the above firm were justly celebrated.

Prices from 20 to 60 Guineas.

Pianofortes for Hire, at 8s. per month, upon the three years' system.

30, WELLS STREET, OXFORD STREET, W.

AND 42, MADDOX STREET, W.

Agent for BORD, of Paris.

BRO. H. T. LAMB,

MANUFACTURER OF MASONIC JEWELS,

ST. JOHN SQUARE,

CLERKENWELL,

LONDON.

ILLUSTRATED PRICE LIST POST FREE ON APPLICATION.

GEORGE KENNING,

3 and 4,

Little Britain, London, E.C.

MASONIC DEPOT.

THE LARGEST STOCK in the WORLD
of

Jewels,

Clothing,

Furniture,

Banners,

Books, &

Requisites

For all Degrees in Freemasonry.

3 and 4, Little Britain, London, E.C.

Price Lists on application.

NAVAL & MILITARY WAREHOUSE.

Laces,

Embroidery,

Swords,

Belts,

Chacos,

Buttons,

Epaulettes,

Sashes,

&c., &c.

3 and 4, Little Britain, London, E.C.

Price Lists on application.

GEORGE KENNING,

3 and 4,

Little Britain, London, E.C.

EDUCATION.—CROOM'S HILL SCHOOL,

Blackheath, near London,

PRINCIPAL, Rev. T. GOODWIN, M.A., D.C.L., LL.D.

Parents in search of a School combining the conscientious care of a home and the thorough efficiency of education in its several departments, are requested to apply for a Prospectus to the Principal, who is ready to submit to applicants all information concerning the School, the testimony of parents in its favour, and an account of the uniformly distinguished position its pupils have achieved in commercial pursuits, in the Civil Service, the Medical, the Army and Navy, and the University Examinations.

THE EUROPEAN MAIL.

A Summary of Universal Intelligence and Exact Commercial Statistics from Mail to Mail, specially prepared for the Colonies and Trans-Oceanic World generally.

THE EUROPEAN MAIL IS THE LEADING TITLE OF EIGHT TOTALLY DISTINCT NEWSPAPERS, AS FOLLOW—

No. of Issues annually	Destination.	When Issued.	Rates of Subscription per annum, including postage.
24 A.	European Mail for the West Indies, Central America, Chili, Peru, &c.	2nd & 17th of the month	40s.
24 B.	European Mail for South Africa, St. Helena, Ascension, &c.	10th & 24th	40s.
24 C.	European Mail for North America, i.e., the United States, Canadian Dominion, British America, Cuba, Mexico, &c.	Every Saturday	52s.
24 D.	European Mail for the Brasils and River Plate, Azores, &c.	9th, 19th, & 29th	54s.
24 E.	European Mail for China, Japan, Ceylon, Penang, Singapore, Siam, Sumatra, Java, Borneo, and the Philippines	27th August 1869, & every fortnight after by English Mail; and on Sept 2nd, 1869, & every fourth Thursday by French Mail.	52s.
24 F.	European Mail for India, Burmah, Egypt, &c.	Sept. 3rd '69, and every succeeding Friday.	39s.*
13 G.	European Mail for Australia and New Zealand	Every 4th Friday.	13s.
24 K.	European Mail for the West Coast of Africa, Madeira, Teneriffe, &c.	3rd & 23rd of the month.	40s.

* Or with Manifest Supplement, 60s.

N.B.—All Subscriptions payable in advance.

EACH Paper contains every item of intelligence, from Mail to Mail, specially affecting the country or colony for which it is published, with an exhaustive summary of home and continental politics, science, art, and social news, and a retrospect of commercial transactions in Great Britain and on the Continent.

Manufacturers and Merchants may command the greatest markets of the world for their products through the mediums of publicity afforded by the EUROPEAN MAIL. A demand may be created where none exists at present, or an existing demand may be sustained and increased against the most energetic competition.

The EUROPEAN MAIL gives such perfect mercantile information that it is the highest commercial authority in the vast and prosperous territories through which it circulates. It is therefore an imperative necessity to the merchant who orders goods in bulk, and to the wholesale and retail distributor; it is also the most complete newspaper despatched from England, and is eagerly sought by all classes; it thus, unlike merely commercial newspapers, reaches and leaves the great communities who are the actual consumers of all products, and who must be acted upon by advertisement to require a special article before the merchant will venture to order a consignment.

Scale of Charges for ADVERTISEMENTS each insertion per Paper as follows:—

FOR PAPERS C, F, & G ONLY.	FOR PAPERS A, B, D, E, & K ONLY
One Page ... £ 7 10 0	One Page ... £ 5 0 0
Two-thirds of a Page ... 5 9 6	Two-thirds of a Page ... 3 13 0
Half-Page ... 4 2 6	Half-Page ... 2 15 0
One-third of a Page ... 3 0 0	One-third of a Page ... 2 0 0
Quarter-Page ... 2 8 0	Quarter-Page ... 1 12 0
Eighth of a Page ... 1 7 0	Eighth of a Page ... 0 18 0
Below an Eighth of a Page, Per inch.	Below an Eighth of a Page, Per inch.
Across the Page ... 0 18 9	Across the Page ... 0 12 6
Two-thirds across the Page ... 0 12 9	Two-thirds across the Page ... 0 8 6
Half across the Page ... 0 9 9	Half across the Page ... 0 6 6
One-third across the Page ... 0 6 9	One-third across the Page ... 0 4 6
Page next matter, Rate and a Half.	Outside pages, Double Rate.

* The above Scale of Charges is subject to a Discount of 10 per cent. for Advertisements appearing in the consecutive issues of a paper for 3 months; of 15 per cent. for 6 months; and 20 per cent. for 12 months.

When an Advertisement is ordered for insertion simultaneously in all the Papers, the lowest rate above is charged all through.

Post Office Orders to be made payable at the Cannon-street Post Office, London.

Remittances payable to William Vaughan.

The EUROPEAN MAIL may be ordered through the Local Agent, direct from the London Office, or through any Firm having representatives in England. In the last case, the usual system is to order the EUROPEAN MAIL to be forwarded until countermanded; the representative of the Firm in England being directed, under similar conditions, to make payment annually.

PRICE'S BENZODYNE,The Great Cure for Cholera and Consumption.

A Newly-discovered principle residing in Gum Benjamin (Styrax Benzoin) the chief chemical product of which has hitherto been Benzoic Acid, well known and highly valued by medical practitioners. The great difficulty which the discoverer encountered in bringing out this important remedy was the form in which to present it to the faculty and the public, the new chemical being amorphous and incapable of crystallization. It has therefore been deemed advisable to prepare a highly-concentrated solution of the product, combining it with such adjuncts as are considered natural auxiliaries. PRICE'S BENZODYNE is stimulant, anodyne, and mechanically astringent, arresting fluxes and hæmorrhages of all kinds both external and internal, possessing singular efficacy in the following diseases:—Ague, Bronchitis, Consumption, Colic, Cholera, Cold, Cough, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Debility in all its various forms, Fevers, Influenza, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Spasms, Tiedolereux, &c., &c. PRICE'S BENZODYNE has been tried repeatedly in these cases and has never failed to cure.

It immediately relieves all pain, actually sheathing the organs with a protective matter, which defies the action of the most virulent blood-poisons, and thus PRICE'S BENZODYNE acts as the most powerful styptic now known to science, being the only effective external application for cuts, bites of insects, and all open wounds. In Cholera, as in Consumption, its effects are astounding, while Chronic Cough yields to its curative influences in a few hours.

PRICE'S BENZODYNE is acknowledged by the highest Medical authority to be the most wonderful medicine yet introduced to the public; it may be taken at any time by both young and old with the most beneficial effects in all cases, leaving no bad effects like Laudanum, Chlorodyne, or any other poisonous and imperfect preparations, and can be given when no other could be tolerated.

In Consumption and Cancer its peculiarly soothing properties render it a boon to the sufferer in allaying the cough, mitigating night perspirations, and in relieving pain, &c.

In every stage of those dire diseases it gives an amount of ease not attainable by any other remedy.

In all cases of Chest Affections, as Asthma, Bronchitis, Winter Cough, Palpitation, &c., PRICE'S BENZODYNE is a very valuable medicine, producing a composed and tranquil state of the system, and quickly relieving the cough, assisting expectoration, and in a few days removing the most distressing symptoms.

In Hysteria, Epilepsy, Gout, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and all Nerve Pains it is justly valued, as it is given with immediate benefit, relieving pain and suffering however violent the attack.

In Diarrhœa, Cholera, Alvine Discharges, spasms and colics of the intestines, &c., its effects are signal, as it never fails to check the disease.

CONSUMPTION IN ALL ITS STAGES CURED.

Coughs, Whooping Cough, Asthma, Bronchitis, Fever, Ague, Diphtheria, Hysteria, Rheumatism, Diarrhœa, Spasms, Colic, Renal and Uterine Diseases are immediately relieved by a dose.

During the period of Dentition of Children it will be found invaluable, and in curing Whooping Cough, Spasms, dispelling Flatus, preventing Convulsive Fits, Heats, &c., to which they are so liable.

PRICE'S BENZODYNE is specially adapted for Naval, Military or Traveller's medicine chests, and for Hospitals and Dispensaries everywhere.

Sold in bottles at 1s. 1d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s. and 22s., by all chemists

THROUGHOUT THE WORLD.

Prepared and guaranteed by

Mr. PRICE, Analytical Chemist,

and sold wholesale by PRICE & Co., 2, Lower Seymour Street, and 30, Duke Street, Portman Square London, W.; or through the following agents:—

LLEWELLYN & Co., Shanghai, China.
LLEWELLYN & Co., Hiogo, Japan.
FAULDING & Co., Adelaide, Australia.
LEVY BROTHERS, Melbourne.

CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR.

Opiates, Narcotics, and Squills, are too often invoked to give relief in Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary Diseases. Instead of such fallacious remedies, which yield momentary relief at the expense of enfeebling the digestive organs and thus increasing that debility which lies at the root of the malady, modern science points to CROSBY'S BALSAMIC COUGH ELIXIR as the true remedy.

SELECT TESTIMONIAL.

Dr. Rooke, Scarborough, author of the "Anti-Lancet," says:—"I have repeatedly observed how very rapidly and invariably it subdued Cough, Pain, and Irritation of the Chest in cases of Pulmonary Consumption, and I can, with the greatest confidence, recommend it as a most valuable adjunct to an otherwise strengthening treatment for this disease."

This medicine, which is free from opium and squills, not only allays the local irritation, but improves digestion and strengthens the constitution. Hence it is used with the most signal success in Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Coughs, Influenza, Night Sweats of Consumption, Quinsy, and all affections of the throat and chest. Sold by all respectable Chemists and Patent Medicine Dealers, in bottles at 1s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s. each, and wholesale by JAS. M. CROSBY, Chemist, Scarborough.

* Invalids should read Crosby's Prize Treatise on "Diseases of the Lungs and Air-Vessels," a copy of which can be obtained gratis of any respectable Chemist.

THE AMERICAN FREEMASON

is Monthly, of sixteen double-column quarto pages of entirely original matter, and translations from the French, Italian, and German Masonic papers and periodicals of the day. It is devoted to the discussion of the rights of Lodges and individual Freemasons, in contradistinction to the assumptions of Grand Lodges, and the un-Masonic doctrines and arrangements of "high degrees." Its motto is—Belief in the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man. Its price is Five Shillings a year—a sum so small that no Freemason, for pecuniary reasons, need be a non-subscriber to it.

Trans-Atlantic Subscribers to the AMERICAN FREEMASON will receive it Post-paid from the Office of Publication direct, at their respective Post-offices, upon payment of the subscription to

Bro. GEORGE KENNING,

3 & 4, LITTLE BRITAIN, LONDON, E.C.

All Subscriptions begin with March 15th, 1869, and end with February, 1870.

The AMERICAN FREEMASON is not the organ of any Grand Lodge; but speaking the words of truth, manhood, and independence, advocates freedom for Masonry in America, and the rights of Freemasons in their Lodges—rights which, by our Grand Lodges, in their subservency to high degrees, have been invaded, until at present they are nearly obliterated.

Subscribers in the British Colonies will please address all Subscriptions and Correspondence to J. FLETCHER BRENNAN, Editor, 114, Main street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

TO THE NERVOUS & DEBILITATED EPILEPTIC SUFFERERS AND OTHERS.HALL'S CHLORATE OF POTASSA, discovered, introduced, and extensively prescribed by the late eminent Dr. MARSHALL HALL, has proved an infallible remedy (by oxydizing the blood and supplying its saline constituent) for Indigestion, Debility, Coughs, Asthma Consumption, Skin, Liver, Stomach, and Nervous Affections, more especially Epilepsy, Apoplexy, and Paralysis. The successful results of this new chemical preparation are beyond all precedent, and the extraordinary cures effected by the late discoverer, and by his successor (Dr. Sutton), in the above maladies are without a parallel in the annals of medicine; and it is confidently believed that in no case need the sufferer despair, for practical experience has demonstrated, and signal success warranted the assertion, that in 99 cases out of every 100 complete cures may be relied on.

Sold in Bottles at 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., 11s., 22s., and Cases of £5 each, by

DR. SUTTON, M.D., 15, REGENT SQUARE, LONDON, W.C., and in BOLTON by PRIESTLEY, Chemist.

The following are a few Testimonials published by privilege.

Sir Charles Locock, Physician-Accoucher to Her Majesty, stated at a meeting of the Royal Medical and Chirurgical Society, that in sixteen cases of Epilepsy he had effected permanent cures by the use of Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa.

"September 6 1856. The Editor of the Bury Gazette returns thanks to Dr. Hall for the great benefit he has received from his Chlorate of Potassa treatment in a severe nervous disease." Sir J. Ferguson, King's College Hospital, London, says—"I have repeatedly prescribed Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa and found it an agreeable and beneficial remedy."

Extract from the Lancet, April 1, 1857. "In conclusion, we are of opinion that Hall's Chlorate of Potassa is a far superior remedy to the ones in general use for Nervousness, Indigestion, and Liver Complaints, when judiciously prescribed."

Sir Benjamin Brodie says—"What Chloride of Lime is to the foul sewer, Dr. Hall's Chlorate of Potassa is to the blood."

